

BIRLA CENTRAL LIBRARY

PILANI (Rajasthan)

Class No:- 920

Book No:- S 53 DC V.1.

Accession No:- 50115

This book has been graciously presented by

Seth G. D. Birla

THE CONCISE DICTIONARY
OF
NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY

The Index and Epitome to the Main Work and its Supplement, printed by Spottiswoode & Co., published by Smith, Elder & Co., 1903; second edition from plates, 1906; reprinted at the Oxford University Press, 1920, 1924, 1925, 1930, 1938, 1942, and 1948.

Index and Epitome 1901-1911, printed by Spottiswoode & Co. and published by Smith, Elder & Co., 1913; reprinted at the Oxford University Press, 1920, 1924, and 1925.

Epitomes of 1901-1911, 1912-1921, and 1922-1930, combined in one alphabet, 1939. Reprinted 1948.

THE DICTIONARY
OF
NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY

Founded in 1882 by

GEORGE SMITH

The Concise Dictionary

From the Beginnings to 1930

Being an Epitome of the Main Work and its Supplement, to which is added an Epitome of the Twentieth Century Volumes covering
1901–1930

Now published by the
OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
LONDON: GEOFFREY CUMBERLEGE

Oxford University Press, Amen House, London E.C. 4

EDINBURGH GLASGOW NEW YORK TORONTO MELBOURNE

WELLINGTON BOMBAY CALCUTTA MADRAS CAPE TOWN

Geoffrey Cumberlege, Publisher to the University

PRINTED IN GREAT BRITAIN

PREFACE

(By SIR SIDNEY LEE)

THIS Volume was designed by the late Mr. George Smith, the proprietor and publisher of the 'Dictionary of National Biography,' in consultation with the present Editor, when the great work was nearing completion. It is intended to form a summary guide to the vast and varied contents of the Dictionary and its Supplement. Every name, about which substantive biographic information is given in the sixty-three volumes of the Dictionary or in the three Supplementary Volumes, finds mention here in due alphabetical order. An Epitome is given of the leading facts and dates that have been already recorded at length in the pages of the original work, and there is added a precise reference to the volume and page where the full article appears.

Generally speaking, each entry in the Index and Epitome consists of one-fourteenth of the number of words that appear in the text of the original memoir. At times this proportion varies to a small extent. Condensation of a very brief article on the estimated scale became hardly possible if any intelligible fragment of it were to be preserved. In such instances the Epitome bears to the original article a higher proportion than one-fourteenth. On the other hand, in the case of the longer articles, it has often been found possible to reduce them to a smaller space than the stipulated proportion required. But the aggregate divergence from the projected ratio of one-fourteenth proves to be very slight.

The exclusive aim of the Index and Epitome is to make bare facts and dates as ready of rapid reference as possible. The condensation has been attempted with the sole object of serving the practical purposes of utility. No endeavour has been made to satisfy the requirements of literary form. With a view to economising space, and in harmony with the simple objects of the Index, the lists of authorities which are appended to each article of the Dictionary, and form one of its most distinctive features, have been ignored. The plan of the Epitome has compelled, too, the systematic suppression of other particulars which are invariably accorded a place in the articles of the Dictionary. Years of birth and death are alone admitted to the Index ; the day of the month is suffered to pass unnoticed. Precise details of parentage are only introduced in cases where the parents form the subjects of separate entries and it has been found desirable to define the relationship subsisting between one entry and another. Places of birth or death are omitted unless they belong to a foreign country ; in such instances it is usually essential to the intelligibility of the memoir to state where the career described in it began or ended. On the other hand, room has been found for all memorable achievements with the dates of their accomplishment, for titles of an author's chief books with dates of publication, for notices of scientific inventions, for dates of institution to offices, and for detailed particulars of education.

A few errors of fact and date which figure in the original work have been corrected in the Index. But, with that reservation, the Index literally reflects in brief and bald outline the results embodied in the Dictionary and Supplement.

The labour involved in condensing so massive a work as the 'Dictionary of National Biography' and Supplement has been great. No one without practical experience of similar undertakings is likely to realise the vast amount of time and trouble which the preparation of this Volume has entailed on all engaged in its production. The separate articles which it supplies amount to 30,878 ; the cross-references number 8,474. The risks of error in handling the million facts and dates which are embodied in the book are obvious, but the Editor feels justified in assuring those into whose hands this Volume comes that his assistants and himself have done all in their power to reduce the chances of error to the lowest possible limit.

The Editor tenders his best thanks to those who have co-operated with him in the laborious undertaking. The work of epitomising the Dictionary and Supplement has been distributed thus :

DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY :

Volumes I.—VI.	Mr. C. E. HUGHES.
VII.—XII.	The Rev. ANDREW CLARK, M.A.
XIII.—XVIII.	Mr. RICHARD GREENTREE, B.A.
XIX.—XXX.	Mr. G. LE GRYS NORGATE, B.A.
XXXI.—XXXV.	Miss ELIZABETH LEE.
XXXVI.	Mr. P. C. YORKE, M.A.
XXXVII.—XLI.	Mr. A. F. POLLARD, M.A.
XLII.	Mr. G. LE GRYS NORGATE, B.A.
XLIII.—XLVIII.	Mr. E. I. CARLYLE, M.A.
XLIX.—LI.	Mr. C. E. HUGHES.
LII.	Mr. G. LE GRYS NORGATE, B.A.
LIII.	Mr. THOMAS SECCOMBE, M.A.
LIV.	Mr. G. LE GRYS NORGATE, B.A.
LV.—LVII.	Mr. P. C. YORKE, M.A.
LVIII.—LX.	The Rev. ANDREW CLARK, M.A.
LXI.—LXIII.	Mr. C. E. HUGHES.

SUPPLEMENT TO DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY :

Volumes I.—III.	Mr. C. E. HUGHES.
-------------------------	-------------------

In revising both the manuscripts and the proofs of the Index and Epitome, which have been very voluminous, the Editor has had the advantage of the assistance of Mr. RICHARD GREENTREE, B.A., formerly scholar of Balliol College, Oxford, and Craven Scholar of the University.

January 21, 1903.

CONTENTS

	PAGES
Epitome of the Main Work and its Supplement (Earliest times to 1900)	1-1456
Epitome of the Twentieth Century (1901-1930)	3-184

NOTE ON THE DICTIONARY

The Dictionary of National Biography comprises the following distinct works:

The D.N.B. from the earliest times to 1900, 22 volumes, in alphabetical order throughout the series except that Vol. 22 is supplementary. (Volumes not sold separately except to complete sets.)

The Twentieth Century D.N.B., which is in all respects an independent work of reference:

- (a) 1901-1911;
- (b) 1912-1921, with a cumulative index 1901-1921.
- (c) 1922-1930, with a cumulative index 1901-1930.

The Concise D.N.B., being an epitome of both the above works, in one volume, but arranged in two alphabets:

- (a) to 1900;
- (b) 1901-1930.

THE Epitome of 1901-1911 was made under the supervision of Sir Sidney Lee, and was published in 1913. It has now been reset and combined with the Epitomes of 1912-1921 and 1922-1930.

When referring from the Concise D.N.B. to the complete Dictionary, it is important to note that the latter now comprises five alphabetical series:

1. The D.N.B. original issue, containing obituaries from the earliest times to the dates of publication (1885-1900).
2. Supplement containing additional obituaries, mostly 1885-1900.
3. The Twentieth Century D.N.B. Obituaries 1901-1911.
4. The Twentieth Century D.N.B. Obituaries 1912-1921.
5. The Twentieth Century D.N.B. Obituaries 1922-1930.

Thus while the Concise D.N.B. is in two alphabets only—before and after 1901—the year of death is the necessary clue to the place of any life in the complete Dictionary.

DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY

INDEX AND EPITOME

ABBADIE

1

ABBOTT

ABBADIE, JACQUES (or JAMES) (1654?-1727), dean of Killaloe; educated at Puy-laurens, Saumur, and Sedan, where he graduated D.D.; appointed minister of the French church at Berlin by Frederick William, elector of Brandenburg, c. 1680; accompanied Marshal Schomberg to Holland, England, and Ireland, 1688-9; after battle of the Boyne proceeded to London, and became minister of the French church in the Savoy; appointed dean of Killaloe, 1699; finally retired to Marylebone, London, where he died. He published several religious and political works, of which the most important are 'Traité de la Vérité de la Religion chrétienne,' 1684; 'Traité de la Divinité de Notre Seigneur Jésus-Christ,' 1689; and 'L'Art de se connoître soi-même,' 1692, translated into English in 1694, 1719, and 1694 respectively. [i. 1]

ABBOT, CHARLES (d. 1817), botanist; D.D., New College, Oxford, 1802; chaplain to Marquis of Tweeddale; published 'Flora Bedfordiensis,' 1798. [i. 3]

ABBOT, CHARLES, first BARON COLCHESTER (1757-1829), speaker of House of Commons; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford, where he distinguished himself in classics; studied at the Middle Temple, 1779; clerk of the rules in court of king's bench, 1794; M.P. for Helston, Cornwall, 1795; introduced first Census Act, 1800; chief secretary for Ireland, 1801; speaker of House of Commons, 1802; retired as Lord Colchester, 1816; travelled in France and Italy, 1819-22, and on his return again took an active part in politics. [i. 3]

ABBOT, GEORGE (1562-1633), archbishop of Canterbury; born at Guildford, and educated at the free grammar school; B.A., Balliol College, Oxford, 1582; probationer-fellow, 1583; M.A., and took holy orders, 1585; during the eight succeeding years studied theology, did tutorial work, and as a vehement supporter of the puritans won great academical fame for his preaching; appointed private chaplain to Thomas Sackville, lord Buckhurst, chancellor of the university, 1592; B.D., 1593; D.D. and master of University College, 1597; dean of Winchester, 1600; vice-chancellor of the university, 1600, 1603, and 1608; came into conflict, in 1603, with Laud, then proctor of the university, who asserted the perpetual visibility of the church of Christ in the papacy before the Reformation; began, 1604, with seven other Oxford graduates, revision of the four gospels, Acts, and Apocalypses, for Authorised Version; became chaplain to the Earl of Dunbar and visited Scotland to aid in re-establishing episcopacy there, 1608; bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, 1609; translated to bishopric of London, 1610; archbishop of Canterbury, 1611; largely responsible for marriage of Princess Elizabeth with Elector Palatine of Germany, 1613; opposed the divorce of the Countess of Essex, 1613; introduced at court George Villiers, 1615; attacked the scheme for marriage between Prince Charles and the Infanta of Spain, 1617-1622; opposed the king's 'declaration of sports' permitting Sunday amusements, 1618; endowed a hospital erected at his expense at Guildford, 1619; accidentally shot a keeper while hunting in Bramshill Park, Hampshire, and was formally pardoned by the king, 1621; reluctantly consented to the Spanish marriage, 1623; opposed Charles I's arbitrary government and was ordered to withdraw to Canterbury, his archiepiscopal authority being given to a commission of five bishops, 1627; restored to favour, 1628, but thenceforth lived chiefly in retirement; died at Croydon. Wrote religious works, principally controversial. [i. 5]

ABBOT, GEORGE (1603-1649), religious writer; fought on parliamentary side in civil war. Published religious works, including 'Book of Job Paraphrased,' 1640. [i. 20]

ABBOT, JOHN (fl. 1623), poet; educated at Sidney-Sussex College, Cambridge; B.D. 1617; wrote poem entitled 'Jesus Præfigured,' 1623. [i. 21]

ABBOT, SIR MAURICE or MORRIS (1566-1642), merchant; brother of George Abbot, archbishop of Canterbury [q. v.]; educated at Guildford Grammar School; one of the original directors of the East India Company, 1600; governor, 1624; member of Levant Company before 1607; on commissions for settlement of trade disputes with Holland, 1615, 1619, and 1620; M.P. for Kingston-upon-Hull, 1621 and 1624; member of council for establishing Virginia, 1624; knighted and returned M.P. for London, 1625; lord mayor of London 1638, when Thomas Heywood wrote the description of the pageant. [i. 21]

ABBOT, ROBERT (1560-1617), bishop of Salisbury, elder brother of George Abbot, archbishop of Canterbury [q. v.]; educated at Guildford free school; fellow of Balliol College, Oxford, 1581; M.A., 1582; D.D., 1597; gained a reputation for preaching which was increased by the publication of several religious works; presented to the living of Bingham, Nottinghamshire; one of chaplains in ordinary to James I, 1603; master of Balliol, 1609-15; fellow of Chelsea College, founded by King James, 1610; regius professor of divinity at Oxford, 1612; bishop of Salisbury, 1615. [i. 24]

ABBOT, ROBERT (1588?-1662?), divine; M.A., Cambridge; presented to living of Cranbrook by Archbishop Abbot, of whom he was no relation, 1616; vicar of Southwick, Hampshire, 1643, and, later, of St. Austin's London. Published religious works. [i. 25]

ABBOT, WILLIAM (1789-1843), actor and dramatist; first appeared at Bath, 1806; engaged at Covent Garden, 1812; stage-manager to a company visiting Paris, 1827; unsuccessful in subsequent tour in the French provinces; played Romeo to Miss Fanny Kemble's Juliet, 1830; died in America in distressed circumstances. [i. 26]

ABBOTSHALL, LORD (1620?-1688). [See RAMSAY, SIR ANDREW.]

ABBOTT, AUGUSTUS (1804-1867), major-general royal artillery, brother of Sir James Abbot [q. v.];

educated at Winchester College; second lieutenant, Bengal artillery, 1819; captain, 1835; major, 1846; colonel, 1858; colonel-commandant Bengal artillery, 1868; major-general, 1869; served in march to Kandahar 1839, at Jalalabad 1842, at Tadamara, Jalgaon and Parwandara 1840, and in march to and occupation of Jalalabad 1841-2; C.B., 1842; inspector-general of ordnance, 1856.

[Suppl. i. 1]

ABBOTT, CHARLES, first BARON TENTERDEN (1762-1832), lord chief justice; educated at Canterbury Grammar School and Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1781; chancellor's medallist for Latin composition, 1784, and for English composition, 1786; B.A., and fellow, 1785; student at Middle Temple, 1787; practised several years as a special pleader under the bar; called to bar and joined Oxford circuit, 1796; junior counsel to the treasury; recorder of Oxford, 1801; published successful work on mercantile law, 1802; puisne judge in court of common pleas, 1816; moved to king's bench, 1816; chief justice, 1818; raised to peerage, 1827. [i. 26]

ABBOTT, CHARLES STUART AUBREY, third BARON TENTERDEN (1834-1882), under-secretary for foreign affairs; educated at Eton; entered Foreign Office, 1864; permanent under-secretary for foreign affairs, 1873; K.O.B., 1878. [i. 30]

ABBOTT, EDWIN (1808-1889), educational writer; head master of Philological School, Marylebone; compiled Concordance to Pope's works, 1875. [i. 50]

ABBOTT, SIR FREDERICK (1805-1892), major-general royal engineers; brother of Sir James Abbott [q. v.]; received commission in Bengal engineers, 1823; major, 1843; colonel, 1854; major-general, 1858; served in Burmese war, 1824-6; garrison-engineer at Calcutta, 1841; chief engineer at relief of Jalalabad, 1842; C.B., 1846; lieutenant-governor of Addiscombe College, 1851-61; knighted, 1854. [Suppl. i. 3]

ABBOTT, SIR JAMES (1807-1896), general; brother of Sir Frederick Abbott [q. v.]; educated at East India Company's College, Addiscombe; second lieutenant Bengal artillery, 1823; first lieutenant, 1827; captain, 1841; colonel, 1861; major-general, 1866; lieutenant-general and colonel-commandant royal artillery, 1877; general, 1877; served in march to Kandahar, 1838-9; assistant to Major Elliott D'Arcy Todd [q. v.] in mission to Herat, 1839, and carried to Russian court Hazrat's offer to liberate Russian captives, 1839-40; commissioner of Hazara, 1845-53; served in second Sikh war, 1848; K.O.B., 1894; published poetical and other writings. [Suppl. i. 4]

ABBOTT, SIR JOHN JOSEPH CALDWELL (1821-1893), premier of Canada; son of Joseph Abbott [q. v.]; educated at McGill University, Montreal; B.O.L., 1847; dean in faculty of law; hon. D.O.L.; Q.O., 1889; solicitor for Canadian Pacific Railway Company, 1880, and director, 1887; signed Annexation Manifesto, 1849; raised 'Argenteuil Rangers' for government, 1861; M.P. for Argenteuil, 1859-74 and 1881-7; solicitor-general east in (Sandfield) Macdonald-Sicotte government, 1862-3; joined conservatives, 1865; confidential adviser to Sir Hugh Allen at time of 'Pacific Scandal'; delegate to England in connection with dismissal of Letellier de St-Just; Canadian privy councillor, 1887; premier of Canada, 1891-2; K.O.M.G., 1892. [Suppl. i. 5]

ABBOTT, JOSEPH (1789-1863), missionary in Canada, 1818; first Anglican incumbent of St. Andrew's. Published 'Philip Musgrave', 1846. [Suppl. i. 5]

ABBOTT, KEITH EDWARD (d. 1873), consul-general successively at Tabriz and Odessa; brother of Sir James Abbott (1807-1896) [q. v.]; died at Odessa. [Suppl. i. 1]

ABBOTT, LEMUEL (d. 1776), poetical writer; vicar of Thornton, Leicestershire, 1773. [i. 30]

ABBOTT, LEMUEL (1760-1803), portrait-painter; pupil of Frank Hayman; exhibited at Royal Academy between 1788 and 1800; painted celebrated portraits of Nelson and Cowper. [i. 30]

ABBOTT, SAUNDERS ALEXIUS (d. 1894), major-general; brother of Sir James Abbott [q. v.]; major-general in Bengal army; agent at Lahore for Sind, Punjab and Delhi railway, 1865; subsequently home director. [Suppl. i. 1]

ABBOTT, THOMAS EASTOE (1779-1854), poetical writer; published poetical works, 1814-39. [i. 30]

ABDY, EDWARD STRUTT (1791-1846), writer on America; fellow of Jesus College, Cambridge; B.A., 1813; M.A., 1817; published work on United States of America, 1835. [i. 30]

ABDY, MARIA (d. 1867), poetess, niece of James and Horace Smith [q. v.]; published poems, 1830-62. [i. 31]

A BECKETT, GILBERT ABBOTT (1811-1866), comic writer; educated at Westminster School; called to bar at Gray's Inn; first editor of 'Figaro in London'; on original staff of 'Punch'; for many years leader-writer for 'Times' and 'Morning Herald,' and contributor to 'Illustrated London News'; metropolitan police magistrate, 1849; died at Boulogne-sur-Mer. He wrote over fifty plays and several humorous works. [i. 31]

A BECKETT, GILBERT ARTHUR (1837-1891), comic writer; son of Gilbert Abbott & Beckett [q. v.]; entered Westminster School, 1849; B.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1860; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1857; clerk in office of examiners of criminal law accounts, 1862; journalist and author of plays and libretti; regular member of staff of 'Punch', 1879. His dramatic work includes, in collaboration with Mr. W. S. Gilbert, 'The Happy Land' (1873). [Suppl. i. 7]

A BECKETT, SIR WILLIAM (1806-1869), chief justice of Victoria; brother of Gilbert Abbott & Beckett [q. v.]; educated at Westminster School; called to bar, 1829; solicitor-general of New South Wales, 1841, and subsequently attorney-general; judge, 1846; chief justice of Victoria and knighted, 1851; retired to England, 1863; wrote several biographical, poetical, and legal works. [i. 32]

ABEL (d. 764), archbishop of Rheims; aided Boniface in missionary work in Germany; held office in abbey of Lobbes; elected archbishop of Rheims, 744, but Pope Zacharias refused to confirm election, and he retired to Lobbes; became abbot of the monastery, and died there; left several works in manuscript. [i. 32]

ABEL, CLARKE (1780-1826), botanist; educated for medical profession; naturalist to Lord Macartney on his mission to China; published description of journey, 1818; afterwards physician to Lord Amherst, governor-general of India. [i. 32]

ABEL, JOHN (1577-1674), architect of timber houses; built old town-halls of Hereford and Leominster; at the siege of Hereford, 1645, he constructed corn-mills for the use of the besieged. [i. 33]

ABEL, KARL FRIEDRICH (1725-1787), player on the viol-di-gamba; member of Dresden court band, 1748-1758; journeyed to England and became one of queen's chamber musicians, 1759; joined John Christian Bach in giving concerts in England, 1765; toured on continent; died in London. His portrait was twice painted by Gainsborough. [i. 33]

ABELL, JOHN (1660?-1716?), lutelist and singer; 'gentleman of his majesty's chapel', 1679; sent by Charles II to cultivate his voice in Italy, 1681-82; at the Revolution went to continent and performed before king of Poland; intendant at Cassel; performed in England, 1700; published two collections of songs, 1701. [i. 34]

ABELL, THOMAS (a. 1540), Roman catholic martyr; M.A. Oxford, 1516; chaplain, c. 1528, to Catherine of Aragon, who entrusted him with secret commission to Emperor Charles V respecting divorce from Henry VIII; rector of Bradwell-by-the-Sea, Essex, 1530; imprisoned in the Tower for opposition to the divorce, 1532; included in act of attainder against Catherine's accomplices, 1534; beheaded, 1540. [i. 34]

ABELL, WILLIAM (fl. 1640), alderman of London, 1636; sheriff of London and master of the Vintners' Company, 1637; licensee of tavern-keepers, 1639; gained great unpopularity by his efforts to induce vintners to agree to Charles I's demand of tax on wine, and was imprisoned by order of Commons, 1640-2; under surveillance at Hatfield for debt and treasonable utterances, 1652; given a passport to Holland, 1655. His actions were severely condemned in many broadsides and pamphlets. [i. 35]

ABERCORN, first DUKE OF (1811-1885). [See HAMILTON, JAMES.]

ABERCORN, EARLS OF. [See HAMILTON, JAMES, first EARL, d. 1817; HAMILTON, JAMES, sixth EARL, 1866-1734; HAMILTON, JAMES, seventh EARL, d. 1744; HAMILTON, JAMES, eighth EARL, 1712-1789.]

ABERCROMBIE, JOHN (1726-1806), writer on horticulture; employed in Kew Gardens; market gardener at Hackney, and later at Tottenham; published 'Every Man his own Gardener', 1767 (said to have been submitted to Goldsmith for revision and returned without alteration), and other works on gardening. [i. 36]

ABERCROMBIE, JOHN (1780-1844), physician; educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen; M.D. Edinburgh, 1803; studied at St. George's Hospital, London; practised in Edinburgh, where he did much for the poor; L.R.O.P., 1823, F.R.C.P., and physician in ordinary to the king in Scotland, 1824; M.D. Oxford, 1835; lord-rector of Marischal College, 1836; published pathological works. [i. 37]

ABERCROMBY, ALEXANDER, LORD ABERCROMBY (1745-1795), judge and essayist; studied at Edinburgh; sheriff-depute of Clackmannanshire, 1766-80; sat on court of session bench as Lord Abercromby, 1792; one of the lords-commissioners of justiciary; contributed to the 'Mirror' (1779) and 'Lounger' (1785-6). [i. 38]

ABERCROMBY, ALEXANDER (1784-1853), colonel, son of Sir Ralph Abercromby [q.v.]; entered the army as volunteer, 1799; aide-de-camp to Sir John Moore in Sicily, 1806; lieutenant-colonel 28th regiment, 1808; after 1809 served in Peninsular and Waterloo campaigns; M.P. for Clackmannanshire, 1817. [i. 39]

ABERCROMBY, DAVID (d. 1701-2?), Scottish physician; educated as a Roman catholic; lived for eighteen years with Jesuit order in France, and gained reputation as scholar; returned to Scotland, and wrote against M. Menzies, a protestant divine of Aberdeen; after two years, renounced Romanism and went to London, whence he retired to Amsterdam, and practised as physician; published medical and metaphysical works. [i. 39]

ABERCROMBY, JAMES, first BARON DUNFERMLINE (1776-1858), son of Sir Ralph Abercromby [q.v.]; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1801; M.P. for Midhurst, 1807, Calne, 1812-30, and Edinburgh, 1832; judge-advocate-general, 1827; master of the mint, 1834; speaker of House of Commons, 1835-9; raised to the peerage on retirement, 1839. [i. 40]

ABERCROMBY, JOHN (d. 1561?), Scottish Benedictine; executed for opposing the Reformation. [i. 41]

ABERCROMBY, SIR JOHN (1772-1817), general; son of Sir Ralph Abercromby [q.v.]; ensign, 75th regiment, 1786; captain, 1792; aide-de-camp to his father in Flanders, 1795 and 1794; major, 94th regiment, 1794; lieutenant-colonel, 112th regiment, 1794; military secretary to his father, 1796-9; colonel, 1800; distinguished himself under General Hutchinson in Egypt; major-general, 1806; colonel, 53rd regiment, 1807; captured Mauritius, 1809; lieutenant-general, and temporary governor of Madras, 1812; G.C.B., 1816; died at Marseilles. [i. 41]

ABERCROMBY, PATRICK (1656-1716?), antiquary and historian; graduated at St. Andrews University, 1685; practised as physician in Edinburgh; physician to James II, 1685. Published pamphlets opposing the Scottish union, 1707, 'Martial Achievements of the Scots Nation' (1711-16), and other writings. [i. 42]

ABERCROMBY, SIR RALPH (1734-1801), general; educated at Rugby; studied law at Edinburgh and Leipzig; cornet, 3rd dragoon guards, 1756; aide-de-camp to General Sir William Pitt in Germany, 1758; captain, 1762; major, 1770; lieutenant-colonel, 1773; for a short time M.P. for Clackmannanshire; returned to the army and distinguished himself as major-general in Flanders; K.B., 1795; commanded expedition against the French in West Indies, 1795-6, and reduced St. Lucia and Trinidad; took command of troops successively in Ireland and Scotland, 1797-9; co-operated with the British fleet in capturing the Dutch fleet, and assisting the Arolduke Charles against France, 1799; commanded troops in Mediterranean, 1800; proceeded to Egypt and defeated French at Alexandria, where he died of wounds. [i. 43]

ABERCROMBY, ROBERT (1534-1613), Scottish Jesuit, said, on insufficient evidence, to have converted Anne of Denmark to the Roman catholic faith. [i. 46]

ABERCROMBY, SIR ROBERT (1740-1827), military commander; brother of Sir Ralph Abercromby [q.v.]; ensign, 1768, and lieutenant, 1759, 44th regiment; captain, 1761; major 62nd regiment, 1772; lieutenant-colonel 37th regiment, 1773; served throughout American war; colonel and aide-de-camp to the king, 1781; colonel 75th regiment, 1787; in India, 1788; governor and commander-in-chief at Bombay, 1790; reduced Tippoo Sultan, 1792; knighted and commander of the Indian forces; conducted the second Rohilla war; returned to England, 1797; M.P. for Clackmannanshire, 1798; governor of Edinburgh Castle, 1801; general, 1802. [i. 47]

ABERCROMBY, ROBERT WILLIAM DUFF (1835-1895). [See DUFF, SIR ROBERT WILLIAM.]

ABERDARE, BARON. [See BRUCE, HENRY AUSTIN, 1815-1895.]

ABERDEEN, EARLS OF. [See GORDON, GEORGE, first EARL, 1637-1720; GORDON, GEORGE HAMILTON, fourth EARL, 1784-1860.]

ABERGAVENNY, BARONS. [See NEVILLE, EDWARD, first BARON, d. 1476; NEVILLE, GEORGE, third BARON, 1471?-1535.]

ABERNETHY, JOHN (1680-1740), Irish dissenter; M.A. Glasgow; studied divinity at Edinburgh and Dublin, where his preaching was soon in great demand; ordained, as presbyterian, at Antrim, 1703, where he remained for over nine years; removed by synod to Dublin, 1717, but after three months returned to Antrim; gave rise, by his opposition to the synod, to a division (ultimately permanent) of the presbyterians into two parties (subscribers and non-subscribers); accepted a 'call' to Dublin, 1730; strongly opposed the Test Act, 1731; wrote several religious works. [i. 48]

ABERNETHY, JOHN (1784-1831), surgeon; studied at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, where he was assistant-surgeon 1787, and surgeon 1815-27; F.R.S. 1796; lecturer on anatomy and physiology at College of Surgeons, 1814; attracted a large class by his lectures on anatomy at his house in Bartholomew Close; gained distinction by extending John Hunter's operation for the cure of aneurism, 1797. Published medical works, but his reputation rests rather on his power of exposition than on his learning. [i. 49]

ABERSHAW, or AVERSHAW, LOUIS JEREMIAH or JERRY (1773?-1796), highwayman; for some years the terror of the roads between London, Kingston, and Wimbledon; hanged on Kennington Common. [i. 52]

ABINGDON, fourth EARL OF (1740-1799). [See BERTIE, WILLOUGHBY.]

ABINGER, first BARON. [See SCARLETT, JAMES, 1769-1844.]

ABINGTON. [See HABINGTON.]

ABINGTON, FRANCES (1737-1815), actress; in girlhood successively a flower-seller, street-singer, domestic servant, and cook-maid (under Robert Baddeley [q.v.]); appeared first at the Haymarket as Miranda in 'The Busybody', 1755; acted at Bath, Richmond, and Drury Lane with small success; went to Dublin and drew crowded houses as Lady Townley; returned to Drury Lane on Garrick's invitation, 1764; transferred her services to Covent Garden, 1782; absent from the stage, 1790-7; last appeared, 1799; her Shakespearean rôles include Portia, Beatrice, Desdemona, Olivia, and Ophelia; original representative of Lady Teazle, 1777. [i. 52]

ABNEY, SIR THOMAS (1640-1729), lord mayor of London; alderman of Vintry ward 1692, and of Bridge Without, 1716; sheriff of London and Middlesex, 1693-1694, when he was one of the original promoters and directors of the bank of England; knighted by William III; president and benefactor of St. Thomas's Hospital; lord mayor, 1700-1; M.P. for the city of London, 1702. [i. 54]

ABNEY, SIR THOMAS (d. 1750), justice of the common pleas, 1743; died of gaol distemper at the 'Black Sessions.' [i. 55]

ABOYNE, EARLS OF. [See GORDON, CHARLES, first EARL, d. 1681; GORDON, CHARLES, second EARL, d. 1702.]

ABOYNE, second VISCOUNT (d. 1649). [See GORDON, JAMES.]

ABRAHAM, ROBERT (1778-1850), architect; executed works at Arundel Castle, the synagogue near the Haymarket, and the Westminster Bridewell. [l. 58]

ABYNDON, RICHARD DE (d. 1327?). [See RICHARD.]

ACCA (d. 740), fifth bishop of Hexham; educated in household of Bosa, who superseded Wilfred as bishop of York, 678; accompanied Wilfred in various missionary journeys in England and on continent; abbot of Hexham and friend of Bede; bishop of Hexham, 709; expelled, 732; buried at Hexham. [l. 56]

ACCOM, FRIEDRICH CHRISTIAN (1789-1838), chemist; scientific lecturer at Surrey Institute, 1803; advocated introduction of gas for lighting; engineer to London Gaslight Company, 1810; librarian of the Royal Institution, but, being dismissed, went to Berlin, 1822; wrote several scientific works. [l. 57]

ACHEDUN. [See ACTON.]

ACHERLEY, ROGER (1685?-1740), lawyer; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1691; worked actively for the house of Hanover without substantial reward; author of many legal and constitutional treatises, including 'The Britannia Constitution', 1727. [l. 57]

ACHESON, SIR AROHIBALD, second EARL OF GOSFORD in Irish peerage and first BARON WORLINGHAM in peerage of United Kingdom (1776-1849), governor-in-chief of Canada; honorary M.A., Christ Church, Oxford, 1797; became member for co. Armagh in Irish parliament, 1798, and member of House of Commons in first parliament of United Kingdom, 1801; re-elected 1802 and 1806; succeeded to earldom, 1807; representative peer for Ireland, 1811; lord lieutenant and custos rotulorum of Armagh, 1832 till death; privy councillor and captain of yeoman of guard, 1834; supported whig policy of 'conciliation' in Ireland, 1835; governor-in-chief of British North America, Newfoundland excepted, 1835-8; created Baron Worthingham, 1835; adopted policy of conciliation towards the rebel leader Louis Joseph Papineau [q. v.] and his party; his action resented by the legislature; resigned, 1837; knight grand cross (civil side), 1838; vice-admiral of coast of Ulster. [Suppl. l. 8]

ACKERMANN, RUDOLPH (1764-1834), art publisher and bookseller; educated at Schneeberg, and apprenticed as coachbuilder; settled in London as coach-designer; opened print-shop in Strand; patented method for making articles waterproof, 1801; established art lithography in England, 1817; worked extensively for relief of sufferers after the war, 1814; published numerous illustrated books. [l. 58]

ACKLAND, THOMAS GILBANK (1791-1844), divine; published poems. [l. 59]

ACLAND, LADY CHRISTIAN HENRIETTA CAROLINE, generally called LADY HARRIET (1750-1815), daughter of Stephen, first Earl of Ilchester; accompanied her husband, John Dyke Acland [q. v.], to America, 1776, and followed him throughout the campaign. [l. 59]

ACLAND, SIR HENRY WENTWORTH (1815-1900), physician; son of Sir Thomas Dyke Acland [q. v.]; educated at Harrow; M.A., Christ Church, Oxford, 1842; M.D., 1848; lifelong friend of John Ruskin; fellow, All Souls' College, Oxford, 1840; studied medicine at St. George's Hospital and Edinburgh; gold medalist for medical jurisprudence, 1844; L.R.C.P., 1846; F.R.C.P., 1850; Harveian orator, 1845; 'conciliaris', 1852-3-4; F.R.S., 1847; Radcliffe librarian and Aldrichian professor of clinical medicine, Oxford, 1851; regius professor of medicine, 1858-94, and master of Evelina Hospital, Oxford; president of the General Medical Council, 1874-87; honorary physician to King Edward VII, when Prince of Wales, whom he accompanied to America, 1880; K.C.B., 1884; honorary M.D. and LL.D., Dublin; published writings dealing with sanitation and medical education. [Suppl. l. 10]

ACLAND, SIR JOHN (d. 1690), benefactor of Exeter College, Oxford; knighted by James I, 1604; knight of shire for Devon, 1607; contributed largely towards building new hall at Exeter College, Oxford, where he founded two scholarships. [l. 60]

ACLAND, JOHN (A. 1758-1796), poor law reformer; rector of Broad Clyst, 1753; published a pamphlet, 'A Plan for rendering the Poor independent of Public Contributions', 1788. [l. 60]

ACLAND, JOHN DYKE (d. 1778), soldier and politician; M.P. for Callington, Cornwall, 1774; opposed government's measures for peace; served, as major, on General Burgoyne's expedition to America, 1776, accompanied by wife, Lady Christian Henrietta Acland [q. v.]; died from effects of exposure in a duel. [l. 61]

ACLAND, SIR THOMAS DYKE (1787-1871), politician and philanthropist; educated at Harrow; B.A., Christ Church, Oxford, 1808; M.A., 1814; hon. D.C.L., 1831; M.P. for county of Devon, 1812-18, 1820-30, and North Devon, 1837-57; much interested in religious movements. [l. 62]

ACLAND, SIR THOMAS DYKE (1809-1898), politician; son of Sir Thomas Dyke Acland (1787-1871) [q. v.]; M.A., Christ Church, Oxford, 1835; fellow of All Souls', 1831-9; M.P. for West Somerset, 1837-41; took leading part in establishing Oxford local examinations, 1857-8; D.C.L., Oxford, 1858; M.P. for North Devonshire, 1865-85, and for West Somerset, 1885-6; eleventh baronet, 1871; privy councillor, 1883; published speeches and pamphlets, mainly on agriculture and education. [Suppl. l. 12]

ACLAND, SIR WROTH PALMER (1770-1816), soldier; ensign 17th regiment, 1787; after successive promotions was colonel 1803, and brigadier-general under Sir Arthur Wellesley, afterwards Duke of Wellington, 1808; lieutenant-general and K.C.B., 1814; died of fever. [l. 62]

ACONTIUS, JACOBUS (1500?-1566?), philosopher and engineer; born in the Tyrol; came to England c. 1559, having studied law and published a work, 'De Methodo', at Bâle; discovered many new mechanical contrivances and received a pension of 60l. from Elizabeth; attached himself to nonconformist Dutch church in Austin Friars, and took active part in controversies with conformists; undertook with some success to reclaim land inundated by the Thames, 1562-66; enjoyed patronage of the Earl of Leicester; published 'Stratagemata Satanae' (1666), and other works, principally theological. [l. 63]

AC' COURT, WILLIAM, first BARON HEYTESBURY (1779-1860), diplomatist; secretary of Naples Legation, 1801; to special Vienna mission, 1807; envoy to Barbary 1813, Naples 1814, Spain 1822; ambassador to Portugal 1824, Russia 1828-32; P.O. 1817; G.O.B. 1819; created a peer 1828; viceroy of Ireland, 1844-6. [xxvi. 328]

ACTON, CHARLES JANUARIUS EDWARD (1803-1847), cardinal; born at Naples; educated at Westminster, and Magdalene College, Cambridge; entered college of the Academia Ecclesiastica, Rome, which he left with rank of prelate; received successive appointments from pope; brought about division of England into eight catholic vicariates, 1840; cardinal, 1842. [l. 65]

ACTON, EDWARD (d. 1707), captain in navy; took part in capture of Gibraltar, 1704; killed in engagement with French off Dungeness. [l. 66]

ACTON, ELIZA (1799-1856), authoress; published from 1826 poems and other writings on various subjects. Her 'Modern Cookery' appeared in 1846, and 'The English Bread Book', 1857. [l. 66]

ACTON, HENRY (1797-1843), unitarian divine; apprenticed as printer; became pupil of Dr. Morell at Brighton; minister at Walthamstow, 1821, Exeter, 1823; published many sermons and pamphlets. [l. 67]

ACTON, JOHN (d. 1850), writer on canon law; possibly educated at Oxford; canon of Lincoln, c. 1329; prebendary of Welton Royal, c. 1343; wrote commentary on ecclesiastical 'constitutions' of Otho and Ottobone. [l. 67]

ACTON, SIR JOHN FRANCIS EDWARD, sixth Baronet (1738-1811), prime minister of Naples under Ferdinand IV; son of physician at Besançon, where he was born; entered Tuscan naval service, and, having distinguished himself, was entrusted with the reorganisation of the Neapolitan navy, 1779; became minister of war, generalissimo of sea and land forces, and minister of finance; during the French wars was alternatively in hiding or enjoying almost absolute power; took refuge in Sicily on entry of French into Naples, 1806; died at Palermo. [i. 67]

ACTON, RALPH (14th cent.), theologian; probably graduated in philosophy and theology at Oxford; wrote several scripture commentaries. [i. 68]

ACWORTH, GEORGE (d. 1578?), divine; M.A., Cambridge, 1556; public orator of Cambridge University, 1559; advocate, 1562; LL.D., 1563; chancellor and vicar-general to bishop of Winchester; judge of prerogative court, Ireland, 1577; received patent to exercise ecclesiastical jurisdiction in Ireland, 1578. [i. 69]

ADAIR, JAMES (fl. 1775), historian of the American Indians; traded among Indians of Georgia and the Carolinas, 1785-75; published 1775, 'History of American Indians,' arguing that the Indians are descended from the lost ten tribes. [Suppl. i. 15]

ADAIR, JAMES (d. 1798), serjeant-at-law; M.A., Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1767; assisted Wilkes in his quarrel with Horne Tooke, 1770; counsel in trial of printers of 'Junius's Letters,' 1771; recorder of London, 1779-89; whig M.P. for Cokeremouth and, subsequently, Higham Ferrars, 1780 till death; reputed author of some constitutional works. [i. 69]

ADAIR, JAMES MAKITTRICK (1728-1802), originally JAMES MAKITTRICK; M.D. Edinburgh, 1766; practised as physician in Antigua, and afterwards in Andover, Guildford, and Bath; published medical writings. [i. 70]

ADAIR, JOHN (d. 1732), surveyor and map-maker; F.R.S., 1688; commissioned by the privy council to survey the Scottish shires, 1683, and acts of tonnage to raise the funds for his work were passed 1686, 1695, and 1706; published charts of the Scottish coasts, 1703, but the work was not completed; left, in print or manuscript, many maps and charts of Scotland. [i. 70]

ADAIR, PATRICK (1625?-1694), presbyterian minister; studied divinity at Glasgow, 1644; ordained at Cairncastle, co. Antrim, 1646; protested with ministers of Antrim and Down against execution of Charles I, 1649; forced to hide from parliamentary generals, but subsequently took an active part in presbyterian church matters in Ireland; headed a deputation to congratulate William III, 1689, and was appointed a trustee for distributing the regium donum; published work on history of presbyterianism in Ireland. [i. 72]

ADAIR, SIR ROBERT (1763-1855), diplomatist; close friend of Charles James Fox; after 1789, travelled to study effects of French Revolution; M.P. for Appleby and Camelford; employed by Fox on diplomatic business in Vienna, 1806, and subsequently in Constantinople and the Low Countries; K.C.B., 1809. [i. 73]

ADALBERT LEVITA or DIACONUS (fl. 700), English saint; said to have been the first archdeacon of Utrecht, and to have preached the gospel in Western Germany and in Kennemaria, 702, where he built a church at Egmont, in North Holland. [i. 73]

ADALBERT OF SPALDING (fl. 1160?), said to have been a Cluniac monk of the abbey of Spalding, Lincolnshire. [i. 74]

ADAM ANGLICUS, possibly identical with Adam Angligena [q. v.], or with Adam Goddam [q. v.]; wrote a commentary on the sentences of Peter Lombard. [i. 75]

ADAM ANGLIGENA (d. 1181?), theologian; possibly identical with Adam, bishop of St. Asaph, 1178, or with Adam de Parvo-Ponte, canon of Paris, 1147; distinguished teacher in Paris, c. 1150. [i. 75]

ADAM OF BARKING (fl. 1217?), Benedictine monk of Sherborne Abbey, Dorset; wrote scriptural treatises. [i. 76]

ADAM OF BUCKFILD (fl. 1300?), commentator on Aristotle; possibly a Franciscan. [i. 77]

ADAM OF CAITHNESS (d. 1222), Scottish bishop; prior and, 1207, abbot of the Cistercians at Melrose; bishop of Caithness, 1213; murdered, 1222. [i. 77]

ADAM THE CARTHUSIAN (fl. 1340), doctor of theology. [i. 77]

ADAM OF DOMERHAM (d. after 1291), monk of Glas-tonbury; cellarer and afterwards sacristan to the abbey; wrote a history of the abbey. [i. 77]

ADAM OF EVESHAM (d. 1191), prior of Bermondsey, 1157; abbot of Evesham, 1161. [i. 78]

ADAM GODDAMUS (d. 1358). [See GODDAM.]

ADAM DE MARISCO (d. 1257?), Franciscan of Worcester; educated at Oxford; adviser and friend of Robert Grosseteste and Simon de Montfort. [i. 79]

ADAM MURIMUTHENSIS (1275?-1347). [See MURIMUTH.]

ADAM OF ORLTON (d. 1345), bishop of Hereford 1317, of Worcester 1327, and of Winchester 1333; employed on several embassies by Edward II; took active part in the various risings against the king, 1321-2; charged before parliament with treason and deprived of lands and revenues, 1322; joined Queen Isabella's party on her landing, 1326; largely responsible for the king's resignation, 1327; made treasurer and restored to possessions under Edward III; entrusted frequently with diplomatic commissions. [i. 79]

ADAM SCOTUS OR ANGLICUS (fl. 1180), theological writer; Premonstratensian canon; perhaps abbot and bishop of Casa Candida (Whithorn), Galloway; renowned throughout Europe for his sermons and treatises, which were first published at Paris, 1518. [i. 81]

ADAM DE STRATTON (fl. 1265-1290). [See STRATTON.]

ADAM OF USK (fl. 1400), lawyer, and writer of a Latin chronicle of English history, 1377-1404; educated at Oxford and entered the church; pleaded in the archbishop of Canterbury's court, 1390-7; joined Henry IV's party in the revolution, 1399; banished to Rome for criticism of Henry IV's government, 1402. [i. 83]

ADAM, ALEXANDER (1741-1809), writer on Roman antiquities; educated at Edinburgh; LL.D., 1780; headmaster of Watson's Hospital, 1759; rector of Edinburgh High School, 1768; published educational works. [i. 84]

ADAM, SIR CHARLES (1780-1853), admiral; brother of Sir Frederick Adam [q. v.]; captain, 1799; served in French and Spanish wars, 1801-13; captain of the royal yacht; K.C.B. 1835; M.P. for Clackmannan and Kinross, 1833-41; governor of Greenwich Hospital, 1847; admiral, 1848. [i. 85]

ADAM, SIR FREDERICK (1781-1853), soldier, brother of Sir Charles Adam [q. v.]; ensign 1795, and after rapid promotion purchased command of 21st regiment, 1805; served in Sicily till 1813, when he went as colonel to Spain; distinguished himself in the Castalla campaign; major-general, 1814; at Waterloo; K.C.B., 1815; G.C.B., 1840; general, 1846. [i. 85]

ADAM, JAMES (d. 1794), for some years architect to George III; associated with his brother Robert Adam [q. v.]. [i. 86]

ADAM, JEAN (1710-1765), Scottish poetess; published poems by subscription, 1734, and soon afterwards opened girls' school at Crawford Bridge; met with pecuniary troubles and died in Glasgow poorhouse; said, with small foundation, to have written the song 'There's nae luck about the house.' [i. 86]

ADAM, JOHN (1779-1826), Anglo-Indian statesman; son of William Adam (1761-1839) [q. v.]; educated at Charterhouse and Edinburgh University; private and political secretary to Marquis of Hastings in India; acting governor-general of India for seven months, 1823. [i. 87]

ADAM, ROBERT (1728-1792), architect; brother of John, James, and William Adam; educated at Edinburgh University; visited Italy and studied architecture, 1754; F.R.S. and F.S.A.; architect to King George III, 1762-8; M.P. for Kinross-shire; with his brothers built the Adelphi, London, 1769-71; with his brother James designed a number of important mansions in various parts of the country and much improved street architecture of London; published works on architecture; buried in Westminster Abbey. [i. 88]

ADAM, THOMAS (1701-1784), divine; B.A., Hart Hall, Oxford; held living of Winttringham, Lincolnshire,

1794 till death; wrote several religious works, including 'Private Thoughts on Religion,' published posthumously. [i. 89]

ADAM, WILLIAM (d. 1748), architect; assisted his brother Robert Adam [q. v.] in building the Adelphi, London, 1769-1771. [i. 89]

ADAM, WILLIAM (1751-1839), politician; called to Scottish bar, 1778; M.P. for Gatten, Surrey; supporter of Lord North, 1774, and successively M.P. for five Scottish constituencies; wounded Fox in a duel, after quarrel over a speech by Fox in the house, but later became his firmly; treasurer of ordnance, 1780; called to English bar, 1782; took a leading part in impeachment of Warren Hastings, 1788; K.O., 1796; attorney-general to Prince of Wales; privy councillor, 1815; lord chief commissioner of Scottish jury court, 1816; intimate friend of Sir Walter Scott. [i. 90]

ADAM, WILLIAM PATRICK (1823-1881), liberal whip, 1874-80; educated at Rugby and Trinity College, Cambridge; called to bar, 1849; secretary to Lord Elphinstone in India, 1853-8; M.P. for Clackmannan and Kinross, 1869-80; during different periods lord of the treasury and commissioner of public works; privy councillor, 1873; governor of Madras, 1880. [i. 91]

ADAMNAN or ADOMNAN (625?-704), abbot of Iona, 679; advocated adoption of regulations of Romish church; stated to have taken part in synods and conventions in Ireland. The biography of Columba is generally ascribed to him. [i. 92]

ADAMS, ANDREW LEITH (d. 1882), zoologist, son of Francis Adams [q. v.]; army surgeon, 1848-78; professor of zoology at Dublin, 1873-8, and of natural history at Cork, 1878-82. Published zoological writings and accounts of travels in India. [i. 94]

ADAMS, CLEMENT (1519?-1587), schoolmaster and author; M.A., King's College, Cambridge, 1544; schoolmaster to the royal henchmen at Greenwich from 1552; wrote in Latin an account of Hugh Willoughby and Richard Chancellor's voyage to Russia of 1553 (printed with an English translation in Hakluyt's 'Collections,' 1589); engraved before 1584 the 'mappe-monde' by Sebastian Cabot, but no copy of Adams's engraving is now known. [i. 94]

ADAMS, FRANCIS (1796-1861), physician and classical scholar; M.A., Aberdeen; M.C.S., London, 1816; practised medicine at Banchoory Ternan; expert in Greek philology; hon. M.D., Aberdeen, 1856; translated and edited the Greek medical writers Paulus Aegineta, 1844-7, Hippocrates, 1849, and Aretæus, 1856. [i. 96]

ADAMS, FRANCIS WILLIAM LAUDERDALE (1862-1893), author; son of Andrew Leith Adams [q. v.]; went to Australia and worked on staff of 'Sydney Bulletin'; died by his own hand at Alexandria; chief works 'Leicester,' an autobiographical novel, 1884, and 'Tiberius,' a powerful drama, 1894. [Suppl. i. 14]

ADAMS, GEORGE (1698?-1768?), poet and translator; fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge; took holy orders; translated into English prose the tragedies of Sophocles, 1729; wrote 'Life of Socrates,' 1746, and theological works. [i. 96]

ADAMS, GEORGE, the elder (d. 1773), mathematical instrument maker to George III; obtained wide reputation as maker of celestial and terrestrial globes. [i. 97]

ADAMS, GEORGE, the younger (1750-1795), mathematical instrument maker to George III, son of George Adams the elder [q. v.]; published scientific essays. [i. 97]

ADAMS, JAMES (1787-1809), philologist; professor of languages at Jesuit College of St. Omer; settled after French revolution in Edinburgh; published 'Pronunciation of the English Language,' 1799. [i. 97]

ADAMS, JOHN (A. 1680), topographer; barrister of Inner Temple; published a map of England, 1677 (revised 1683), and an index to English towns. [i. 97]

ADAMS, JOHN (1662-1720), provost of King's College, Cambridge, 1712; graduated M.A. 1686; chaplain to William III and Anne. [i. 98]

ADAMS, JOHN (1750?-1814), compiler of books for young readers; graduated at Aberdeen, and subsequently opened a school at Putney. [i. 98]

ADAMS, JOHN, alias ALEXANDER SMITH (1760?-1829), seaman; took part in mutiny and, 1789, seizure of H.M.S. Bounty, in which he subsequently sailed to Pitcairn's Island, where he founded and successfully governed an English-speaking settlement. [i. 98]

ADAMS, JOHN COUCH (1819-1892), discoverer of planet 'Neptune'; sizar, St. John's College, Cambridge, 1839; senior wrangler and first Smith's prizeman, 1843; fellow (till 1862) and tutor; fellow of Pembroke College, 1853 till death; made observations determining particulars of 'Neptune,' 1841-5, and deposited results at Royal Observatory, Greenwich, 1845, but the publication of his discovery was anticipated by Leverrier, July, 1846; refused knighthood 1847, and Adams prize was founded at Cambridge; F.R.S., 1849; Copley medallist, 1848; professor of mathematics, St. Andrews, 1858-9; Lowndean professor of astronomy and geometry, Cambridge, 1858; director of Cambridge observatory, 1861; president of Royal Astronomical Society, 1861-3, and 1874-6, and received gold medal, 1866, for researches in connection with theory of secular acceleration of the moon's mean motion. His 'Scientific Papers' were published 1896-1901. [Suppl. i. 16]

ADAMS, JOSEPH (1756-1818), originally an apothecary; M.D. Aberdeen, 1796; practised in Madeira; physician to Small-pox Hospital, 1805; published medical treatises. [i. 99]

ADAMS, RICHARD (1619-1661), collector of verse; fellow-commoner of Catharine Hall, Cambridge, 1635; left a small manuscript volume of poems, of some of which he was probably author. [i. 100]

ADAMS, RICHARD (1626?-1698), ejected minister; graduated at Cambridge and Oxford; rector of St. Mildred's, Bread Street, 1655; retired as nonconformist, 1662. [i. 100]

ADAMS, ROBERT (d. 1595), architect; author of a plan of Middleburgh, 1588, and other drawings. [i. 100]

ADAMS, ROBERT (1791-1875), surgeon; M.D. Dublin, 1842; F.R.C.S., Ireland, 1818, and was three times president; practised in Dublin and lectured on surgery at the hospitals; surgeon to the queen in Ireland, 1861. [i. 100]

ADAMS, SARAH FLOWER (1805-1848), poetess; wife of William Bridges Adams [q. v.]; contributed to 'Monthly Repository'; her principal work, 'Vivia Perpetua,' a dramatic poem, 1841; wrote several hymns, including 'Nearer to Thee.' [i. 101]

ADAMS, THOMAS (d. 1620?), printer; freeman of Stationers' Company, 1590; liveryman, 1598; warden, 1614. His books were of all classes, including music. [i. 101]

ADAMS, THOMAS (A. 1612-1653), divine, 'the prose Shakespeare of puritan theologians'; preacher at Willington, Bedfordshire, 1612; vicar of Wingrave, Bucks, 1614-36; held preacher'ship of St. Gregory's under St. Paul's Cathedral, 1618-23; chaplain to Sir Henry Montague, lord chief justice; published sermons and theological treatises. [i. 102]

ADAMS, SIR THOMAS (1586-1668), lord mayor of London, 1645; educated at Cambridge; draper; alderman, sheriff, and master of Drapers' Company, 1639; imprisoned in Tower for loyalty; created baronet after Restoration; founded Arabic lecture at Cambridge. [i. 102]

ADAMS, THOMAS (1633?-1670), divine; B.A. and fellow, Brasenose College, Oxford, 1652; M.A. and lecturer-dean, 1655; ejected from fellowship for nonconformity, 1662; wrote religious works. [i. 103]

ADAMS, THOMAS (1730?-1764), soldier; volunteered for service in Netherlands under Duke of Cumberland, 1747; ensign, 87th foot, 1747; captain, 1756; major, 84th foot; as commander of crown and E.C. forces in Bengal conducted glorious campaign, including battles of Gherrah and Andwanala, 1762-3; brigadier-general, 1764. [i. 103]

ADAMS, WILLIAM (d. 1620), navigator; apprenticed as sailor at age of twelve; served Company of Barbary Merchants; joined as pilot-major fleet of five ships from Rotterdam bound for India; in spite of the ships being carried through the straits of Magellan and soestered, ultimately reached Japan, where, after some weeks' imprisonment, having found favour with Iyeyasu, the ruler, he settled; obtained trading privileges for Dutch merchants, 1611. Later three English ships came to open trade with Japan; a settlement was founded, of which Adams was second in command, 1618. He subsequently engaged in trading voyages to Loochoo Islands, Siam, and Cochin China, 1618-18. Iyeyasu died in 1616, and English and Dutch privileges being curtailed, the English venture failed, and war broke out between English and Dutch. Adams was buried on the hill overlooking harbour of Yokosuka, 1620. [i. 104]

ADAMS, WILLIAM (1706-1789), divine; master of Pembroke College, Oxford, from 1778; lifelong friend of Dr. Johnson, whose acquaintance he made when both were at Oxford; D.D. Oxford, 1766. [i. 106]

ADAMS, WILLIAM (J. 1790), potter; pupil of Josiah Wedgwood, and subsequently in business at Tunstall as Adams & Co. [i. 107]

ADAMS, SIR WILLIAM (1783-1827). [See RAWSON.]

ADAMS, WILLIAM (1814-1848), author of 'Sacred Allegories'; educated at Eton; postmaster at Merton College, Oxford; fellow and tutor, 1837; vicar of St. Peter's-in-the-East, 1840; published ethical works. [i. 107]

ADAMS, WILLIAM (1772-1851), lawyer; fellow of Trinity Hall, Cambridge; LL.D. and member of College of Advocates, 1799; prepared, 1814, as one of three commissioners, despatches relating to maritime law in negotiations for treaty with U.S.A. after capture of Washington; one of three plenipotentiaries sent to conclude convention of commerce with U.S.A., 1816. [i. 108]

ADAMS, WILLIAM BRIDGES (1797-1872), inventor of 'fish-joint' for uniting ends of rails, 1847; made numerous improvements in machinery; wrote scientific and technical works. [i. 108]

ADAMS, WILLIAM HENRY DAVENPORT (1828-1891), miscellaneous writer; edited provincial newspaper in Isle of Wight; founded 'Scottish Guardian', 1870, and was editor, 1870-8; projected and edited 'Whitehall Library of Wit and Humour'. His works include 'Memorable Battles in English History', 1862, and a Concordance to Shakespeare's plays, 1886. [Suppl. i. 17]

ADAMSON, HENRY (d. 1639), poetical writer; published 'The Muses Threnodie', 1638. [i. 109]

ADAMSON, JOHN (d. 1653), principal of Edinburgh University, 1625 till death; professor of philosophy at St. Andrews; professor at Edinburgh, 1589-1604; vicar of North Berwick, and, later, of Libberton; published several theses and poems, and edited 'Muses Welcome' and probably the poems of Andrew Melville, his friend. [i. 109]

ADAMSON, JOHN (1787-1855), antiquary and Portuguese scholar; in counting-house of his brother, a Lisbon merchant, 1803; left England and studied Portuguese at Lisbon, 1807; articulated as solicitor in Newcastle; undersheriff of Newcastle, 1811; a founder of the Antiquarian Society of Newcastle, 1813; F.S.A.; published translations from Portuguese and original works in verse and prose, including 'Memoirs of Camoens', 1820, and edited several books for the Typographical Society of Newcastle. [i. 110]

ADAMSON, PATRICK (1637-1692), Scottish prelate; M.A. St. Andrews, 1658; minister of Ceres in Fife, 1663; travelled in France, 1666; presented to living at Paisley, c. 1672; one of deputies chosen by general assembly to discuss jurisdiction of kirk, 1675; chaplain to regent; archbishop of St. Andrews, 1676; repeatedly charged with offences against the church, 1677-9; escaped to St. Andrews Castle, where he fell dangerously ill; cured by a 'wise woman', who was ultimately burned for witchcraft; James VI's ambassador to Elizabeth, 1683; earned unpopularity by his strong parliamentary measures against presbyterians; charged with heresy and other offences and excommunicated by synod, 1686; his sentence remitted as illegal; again assailed by the assembly and excommunicated, 1688; said to have signed a 'Re-antation' of the episcopal system which is probably spurious, 1690; wrote religious works in verse and prose. [i. 111]

ADAMSON, THOMAS (J. 1680), master-gunner; published 'England's Defence, a Treatise concerning Invasion', 1680. [i. 115]

ADDA (d. 565), king of Bernicia; succeeded his father Ida, 559; reigned about eight years. [i. 115]

ADDENBROOKE, JOHN (1680-1719), founder of hospital at Cambridge; educated at Catharine Hall, Cambridge; M.D., 1712; published an 'Essay on Freethinking', 1714. [i. 115]

ADDINGTON, first BARON (1805-1889). [See HUBBARD, JOHN GELLIBRAND.]

ADDINGTON, ANTHONY (1713-1790), physician; educated at Winchester and Trinity College, Oxford; B.A., 1739; M.A., 1740; M.B., 1741; M.D., 1744; practised at Reading; F.O.P., 1756; censor, 1757; practised in London; attended Lord Chatham in his severe illness, 1767, and Prince of Wales, 1788. [i. 116]

ADDINGTON, HENRY, first Viscount Sidmouth (1767-1844), son of Anthony Addington [q. v.]; educated at Winchester; admitted to Lincoln's Inn, 1771; commoner of Brasenose College, Oxford, 1774; B.A., 1778; won chancellor's gold medal for English essay, 1779; intimate with William Pitt from childhood; M.P. for Devizes, 1783; speaker of the House of Commons, 1789-1801; much occupied with the proceedings against Warren Hastings, 1795; first lord of the treasury and chancellor of exchequer, 1801; quarrelled with Pitt, 1803; his actions severely satirised by Canning; resigned, 1804; created Viscount Sidmouth and entered cabinet as president of council, 1805, but left it after a few months; president of council in Perceval's ministry, and later home secretary, 1812; dealt severely with the Luddites in the north; sought to check liberty of press in hope of quieting disorders among labouring classes, 1817; Manchester massacre, 1819, partly due to his coercive measures; retired from office, 1821, and from cabinet, 1824; voted against the Reform Bill, 1832. [i. 117]

ADDINGTON, HENRY UNWIN (1790-1870), permanent under-secretary for foreign affairs, 1842-54. [i. 121]

ADDINGTON, STEPHEN (1729-1796), independent minister at Spaldwick, Huntingdonshire; published educational works; D.D. [i. 121]

ADDISON, CHARLES GREENSTREET (d. 1866), legal writer; barrister, 1842; published legal and historical works. [i. 121]

ADDISON, JOHN (J. 1638), divine; D.D. Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1623; deprived of his spiritual promotions for concealment of revelations of Elizabeth Barton [q. v.] [i. 121]

ADDISON, JOHN (1766?-1844), composer and performer on double-bass; composed, and performed in operas given at Covent Garden and Lyceum. [i. 122]

ADDISON, JOSEPH (1672-1719), essayist, poet, and statesman, son of Lancelot Addison [q. v.]; educated at Charterhouse with Steele, and at Queen's College, Oxford; obtained demyship at Magdalen, 1689; M.A., 1693; probationer-fellow, 1697; fellow, 1698-1711; distinguished as a classical scholar; his Latin poems favourably noticed by Dryden, 1693; granted pension 300*l.* a year to qualify him for diplomatic service by foreign travel, 1697; travelled on the continent, 1699-1703; member of Kitcat Club; wrote on commission 'The Campaign', a poem in honour of Blenheim, 1704; under-secretary of state, 1706; secretary to Wharton, when lord lieutenant of Ireland, 1709; formed close friendship with Swift, Steele, and other well-known writers; M.P. for Lostwithiel, 1708, and for Malmesbury, 1709 till death; defended whigs in the 'Whig Examiner' periodical, 1710; lost office on fall of whigs, 1711; contributed to Steele's 'Tatler', 1709-11, and produced with Steele 'Spectator', 1711-12; his 'Cato' acted with great success at Drury Lane, 1718; contributed to 'Guardian', edited by Steele, 1713, and to a revived 'Spectator', 1714; produced unsuccessfully 'The Drummer', a prose comedy, 1716; regained his old secretaryship and produced the 'Freeholder', 1716-18; one of lords commissioners of trade; married Countess of Warwick, 1716; retired from office with pension of 1,500*l.* a year, 1718; several papers in the 'Old Whig' by Addison, and in 'The Plebeian' by Steele, 1719, deal with a quarrel between the two. [i. 123]

ADDISON, LANCELOT (1632-1703), divine; B.A. Queen's College, Oxford, 1655; M.A., 1657; in capacity of Terence filius delivered an attack on puritanism, and, being compelled to retract, left Oxford, 1857; chaplain of Dun-seon, 1860, and of Tangier, 1863; received the living of Mil-kirk, Wiltshire, 1871; B.D. and D.D., Oxford, 1875; dean of Lichfield, 1883; wrote theological and devotional works.

 [i. 181]

ADDISON, LAURA (d. 1852), actress; first appeared
 1843, at Worcester; played Desdemona to Macready's
 Othello c. 1843, and Juliet, Portia, Isabella, Imogen,
 Miranda, and Lady Macbeth under Phelps at Sadler's
 Wells, 1846 seq.; with Kean at Haymarket, 1849.
 [i. 133]

ADDISON, THOMAS (1793-1860), physician; M.D.
 Edinburgh, 1815; surgeon at Lock Hospital; assistant physician at Guy's Hospital, 1824; physician, 1837; discovered 'Addison's disease'; wrote medical works of some importance. [i. 133]

ADDY, WILLIAM (A. 1685), author of a system of shorthand, in which the bible was printed, 1687. [i. 134]

ADEL- [See ÆTHEL-]

ADELA (1062?-1137), mother of Stephen, king of England; daughter of William the Conqueror and Matilda of Flanders; married, 1080, Stephen, earl of Meaux and Bri, who succeeded to Blois and Chartres, 1090; ruled with great thoroughness during her husband's absence on the first crusade, 1095-9; regent on her husband's death, 1101, till majority of her eldest son Theobald, 1109; took the veil; effected an alliance between Theobald and Henry I of England, 1118. [i. 134]

ADELAIDE, QUEEN OF WILLIAM IV (1792-1849), eldest daughter of George, duke of Saxe-Coburg Meiningen; married William, duke of Clarence, 1818; resided principally at Bushey Park until accession of William, 1830; unpopular owing to her supposed interference with politics during the reform agitation. [i. 136]

ADELARD OF BATH, or ÆTHELHARD (12th cent.), philosophical writer; seems to have travelled largely in Europe, Asia, and Africa; wrote a work on Arabic science, which was published after 1472, and one on 'Identity and Difference.' [i. 137]

ADELIZA (d. 1063?), daughter of William I; possibly betrothed to Harold, 1062. [i. 137]

ADELIZA OF LOUVAIN (d. 1151), second queen of Henry I, daughter of Godfrey of Louvain, descendant of Charles the Great; married Henry I, 1121; patronised literature; on Henry's death retired probably to Arundel
 Castle; afterwards married William de Albini. [i. 137]

ADKINS, ROBERT (1626-1685), ejected minister; fellow of Wadham College, Oxford, where his preaching attracted much attention; chaplain to Cromwell; minister of Theydon (1653-7); removed successively to two churches at Exeter, whence he was ejected, 1660, 1662.
 [i. 138]

ADLER, NATHAN MAROUS (1803-1890), chief rabbi; educated in Germany; ordained, 1828; Ph.D., Erlangen, 1828; chief rabbi of Oldenburg, 1829, of Hanover, 1830, of London, 1844; took chief part in founding Jews' College, London, 1855; made proposal which resulted in United Synagogues bill, 1870; annotated Onkelos' paraphrase of the Pentateuch. [Suppl. i. 18]

ADOLPH, JOSEPH ANTONY (1729-1762), painter; in England, 1746-55; painted portrait of George III when Prince of Wales. [i. 139]

ADOLPHUS FREDERICK, DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE
 (1774-1850), seventh son of George III; K.G., 1786; colonel in Hanoverian army, 1793; served as colonel and major-general in campaign of 1794-5; lieutenant-general in Hanoverian service, 1798, and in British army, 1803; created Duke of Cambridge, 1801; privy councillor, 1802;
 field marshal, 1813; viceroy of Hanover, 1816-37; chancellor of St. Andrews University, 1811-14; married Princess Augusta, third daughter of Frederick of Hesse-Cassel,
 1818. [i. 139]

ADOLPHUS, JOHN (1768-1845), barrister and historical writer; admitted attorney 1790; published
 'Biographical Memoirs of the French Revolution,' 1799, and 'History of England from 1760-1783,' 1802; called to the bar, 1807; defended Thistlewood and the Cato Street conspirators, 1820; wrote historical, biographical, and miscellaneous works. [i. 140]

ADOLPHUS, JOHN LEYCESTER (1795-1862), barrister and author; educated at Merchant Taylors' and St.
 John's College, Oxford; published criticisms on 'Waverley Novels,' assigning their authorship to Scott, 1821; called to bar, 1822. [i. 142]

ADRAIN, ROBERT (1775-1843), mathematician; engaged in rebellion in Ireland, 1798, and fled to America;
 professor of mathematics at various colleges, including Columbia College, New York; published mathematical works. [i. 142]

ADRIAN IV (d. 1159), pope; whose name is said to have been NICHOLAS BREAKSPEAR; of humble origin; studied at Arles, and after serving in mental offices was admitted to, and subsequently became abbot of, the order of St. Rufus, near Valence; cardinal of Albano, 1146; elected pope on death of Anastasius IV, 1154; his pontificate a period of constant struggles with the Emperor Frederick, who set forth imperial claims over North Italy, and in a lesser degree with William, the Norman king of Sicily. His object was to maintain the claims of the Roman church as defined by Gregory VII.
 He granted Ireland to Henry II. [i. 143]

ADRIAN DE CASTELLO (1460?-1521?), statesman and reviver of learning; sent by pope Innocent VIII as nuncio to Scotland, 1488; collector of Peter's pence in England, 1489; prebendary of St. Paul's Cathedral, and rector of St. Dunstan-in-the-East, 1492; English ambassador at Rome and clerk to the papal treasury, 1492; made, in his absence, bishop of Hereford 1502, and of Bath and Wells 1504; left Rome on the death of pope Alexander VI, 1503; returned 1511, on accession of Leo X, and though implicated in the attempt to murder him, was dealt with leniently; deprived of collectorship and of the bishopric of Bath, 1518; published classical and philosophical works. [i. 146]

ADY, JOSEPH (1770-1852), notorious circular-letter
 impostor. [i. 147]

ADYE, SIR JOHN MILLER (1819-1900), general;
 cadet at Woolwich, 1834; second lieutenant royal artillery,
 1836; captain, 1852; brigade major of artillery in Turkey, 1854; served at defence of Cawnpore, 1857; lieutenant-colonel, 1857; deputy adjutant-general of artillery in India, 1863-6; colonel, 1867; K.O.B. 1873; major-general, 1875; governor of military academy, Woolwich, 1875;
 chief of staff under Lord Wolseley in Egypt, 1882; G.C.B., 1882; governor of Gibraltar, 1882-6; colonel commandant,
 1881; general, 1884; opposed rectification of Afghan frontier; published autobiographical and other writings.
 [Suppl. i. 18]

ADYE, STEPHEN PAYNE (d. 1794), soldier; served as brigade-major of artillery in North America; published a work on courts-martial. [i. 148]

ÆLFGAR, EARL (d. 1062?), son of Leofric of Mercia and Godgifu (Lady Godiva); supported King Edward the Confessor against Godwine at Gloucester, 1061; earl of East-Anglia; outlawed for treason, 1055; invaded Herefordshire, but was defeated by Harold; made peace and was restored to his earldom; earl of Mercia, 1057; outlawed 1058; regained his earldom with help of North-men; left two sons, Eadwine and Morkere. [i. 148]

ÆLFGIFU [Lat. ELGIVA] (A. 956), was the wife of King Eadwig, from whom she was parted by Archbishop Oda on account of kinship. She and her mother Æthelgifu from their hostility to Dunstan, have been made the victims of monastic legend. Later legends confound her and her mother, and give an untrustworthy account of various cruelties perpetrated on her by Oda and the monks. [i. 149]

ÆLFGIFU (A. 1080), 'of Northampton,' perhaps the mistress of Olaf, 'the Saint,' and certainly of Cnut, to whom she bore Harold and Swend. In 1080 Cnut sent her with Swend to rule over Norway. [i. 150]

ÆLFHEAH, known as St. ALPHEGE, and also called GODWINE (954-1012), archbishop of Canterbury; monk at Deerhurst; anchoress at Bath; bishop of Winchester, 984; archbishop of Canterbury, 1006; promoted council of Enham, which made enactments against heathenism and sale of slaves; incurred hatred of Northmen by confirming Olaf Trygvesson in his Christianity, and obtaining from him promise, 994, not again to invade England; captured in invasion of Danes 1011, and, on refusing to ransom himself, was put to death. Cnut translated his body to Canterbury, and Anselm in 1078 induced Lanfranc to recognise his canonisation. [i. 150]

ÆLFHERE (d. 993), ealdorman of the Mercians. [i. 152]

ÆLFRED (849-901), king of the West-Saxons, the son of Ethelwulf [q. v.]; born at Wantage; sent to Rome, where Leo IV hallowed him to king, 853, returning to England in 856; no attempt was made to set him on the throne on his father's death, though he perhaps bore the title of secundarius during his brothers' reigns; assisted his brother, Ethelred I, against the Danes, and fought at Æcesdūn, Basing, and Merton (871); succeeded his brother, defeated the Danes at Wilton, and obtained a respite by concluding a treaty, 871; the legendary account of the harshness of his early rule and of his three years' sojourn in hiding at Glastonbury untrustworthy in its particulars and largely mythical; called to meet, according to authentic history, the second great invasion of the Danes in December 878, headed by Guthrum, who overran Somerset without opposition; gathered a small company, with which he took post at Athelney; seven weeks later defeated the Danes at Ethandun (seemingly Edington in Wiltshire), on which peace followed (Guthrum being baptised and assigned a dominion in the north and east of England—roughly speaking, the part beyond Watling Street—under the nominal overlordship of Ælfred); war with Guthrum renewed in 884 by Ælfred; acquired London, which he fortified and about the same time received the submission of the Angles and Saxons throughout Britain, as well as of several princes of Wales; assailed, after a few years of comparative quiet, by another great host of Northmen, who were joined by the Danes of East-Anglia in 894. War raged in all parts of England until 897, when the invaders withdrew, and Ælfred, by improving his ships, put an end to the ravagings of the smaller vikings. Ælfred died on 28 Oct. 901, and was buried at New Minster (afterwards Hyde Abbey) at Winchester. His wife Ealhswith survived him. Ælfred not only saved Wessex from the perils of the Scandinavian invasions, but made his kingdom a centre for the deliverance and union of the whole country. The stress of the times naturally strengthened the royal authority. Much of the fame of Ælfred's institutions is legendary. His legislation consisted simply in selecting the best of the laws of the earlier kings, but the account of his division of England into hundreds and shires may have some basis in a reorganisation of southern Mercia. Ælfred's promotion of learning is perhaps the most distinctive feature of his rule. His foundation of schools at Oxford is fabulous, but he brought to Wessex the best scholars of the time, including Plegmund, Werfrith, Grimbold, John the Old-Saxon, Asser, and John Sootus Erigena. Men of eminence in any useful art, like the seafaring Othhere, were also encouraged. The time of his own greatest literary activity lay between 886 and 893. His chief writings were his translations of Boethius's 'Consolation of Philosophy,' of the histories of Bæda and 'Orosius,' and of the 'Pastoral Care' of Gregory the Great. His Boethius was edited by Samuel Fox in 1864; his Bæda is printed in Smith's edition of 1722; his Orosius was edited by Dr. Bosworth in 1851, and his Gregory's 'Pastoral' by Henry Sweet for the Early-English Text Society in 1871-2. These works were not merely translations; they were carefully reast in a thoroughly English spirit, so that they form a part of the country's earliest literature. [i. 153]

ÆLFRED (d. 1036), ætheling; younger son of Ethelred II and Emma [q. v.]; fled to Normandy with his brother Eadward on conquest of England by Sweyn, 1013; after death of Cnut (1035) landed at Dover, and was captured at Guildford by Godwin. While being conveyed to Ely he was blinded by his captors, and died there of his wounds. [i. 152]

ÆLFRED (d. 1005), archbishop of Canterbury, possibly seventh abbot of St. Albans, was bishop of Ramsbury and Wilton, and was elected to Canterbury in 995. His body was buried at Abington and translated to Canterbury in Cnut's reign. His will is extant. [i. 162]

ÆLFRIČ, called BATA (f. 1005), a monk and a disciple of Ælfrio (f. 1008) [q. v.] [i. 164]

ÆLFRIČ, called GRAMMATICUS (f. 1006), erroneously identified with Ælfrio (d. 1006) [q. v.] and Ælfrio (d.

1051) [q. v.]; pupil of Ethelwold [q. v.]; monk at Winchester; successively abbot of Cerne and Ensham; author of two books of 'Homilies,' translations from Latin writers. The Paschal homily against transubstantiation was published in 1666 under ecclesiastical patronage as 'A Testimonie of Antiquitie,' and re-edited in 1877. The 'Homilies' were published in 1844-6. Ten other works of his survive. Ælfrio is a most prominent figure in Anglo-Saxon literature, and his writings are important from their illustration of the belief and practice of the early English church. [i. 164]

ÆLFRIČ (f. 950?-1016?), ealdorman of the East-Mercians, son of Ælfhere [q. v.]; succeeded his father in 983, and was banished in 986, but restored to favour before 991; attempted to betray an English fleet to the Danes, 992, and in 1003 would not fight against Swend; perhaps identical with ealdorman Ælfrio who fell at Assandun in 1016. [i. 163]

ÆLFRIČ (f. 1045), abbot of St. Albans, possibly eleventh abbot. Matthew Paris, whose account is full of errors, says that Ælfrio was chancellor of King Ethelred before he became monk, that he composed and set to music a life of St. Alban, and that he died during a dispute with monks of Ely occasioned by his own duplicity. [i. 163]

ÆLFRIČ (f. 1050), archbishop-elect of Canterbury; rejected by Eadward for Robert of London. [i. 164]

ÆLFRIČ, called PURTOC (d. 1051), archbishop of York, and provost of Winchester; consecrated to York in 1023; held Worcester temporarily (1040-1), and was accused of persuading Harthacnut to lay waste the shire because the men of Worcester would not receive him as bishop. [i. 166]

ÆLFSIG (d. 959), bishop of Winchester, 951; elected to Canterbury, 958, but died on his way to Rome to receive the pall. [i. 167]

ÆLFTHRYTH [Lat. ELTRUDIS] (d. 929), daughter of King Ælfred; wife of Baldwin II of Flanders; ancestress of Matilda, William the Conqueror's wife. [i. 167]

ÆLFTHRYTH [Lat. ELFRIDA] (945?-1000), daughter of Ordgar [q. v.]; mother of Ethelred II; slew her stepson Eadward. William of Malmesbury's romantic account of her life is mainly fabulous. [i. 167]

ÆLFWEARD (d. 1044), bishop of London; monk of Ramsey; abbot of Evesham, 1014; bishop of London, 1035. Smitten with leprosy at close of life, he retired to Ramsey, which he enriched with numerous relics. [i. 168]

ÆLFWIG (d. 1066), abbot of New Minster (1083); uncle of Harold; fell at the battle of Hastings. [i. 168]

ÆLFWINE (d. 1047), bishop of Winchester, 1032; chaplain of Cnut and (in legend and ballad) the lover of Cnut's widow, Emma; bishop, 1032. [i. 169]

ÆLLA (d. 514?), Saxon ealdorman; landed in Britain, 477; captured Anderida, 491; became king of South-Saxons and 'first Bretwalda.' [i. 169]

ÆLLA (d. 888), first king of the Deirans, 559; son of Ifa and grandfather of Oswald [q. v.]; threw off Bernician yoke. [i. 169]

ÆLLA (d. 867), king of the Northumbrians; slain by the Danes in a great battle near York. [i. 169]

ÆLNOTH (f. 1085-1109), monkish biographer; native of Canterbury; wrote a Latin life of St. Canute the Martyr (printed Copenhagen, 1602). [i. 170]

ÆLSINUS (10th cent.), a Winchester monk, illuminator and miniaturist. [i. 170]

ÆSC or OISO [ASH] (d. 512?), king of Kent; son of Hengist the Jute; landed at Ebbsfleet, 449; shared his father's victories at Crayford (457) and Wippedsæst; reigned in Kent, 488-512. [i. 170]

ÆTHEL- [See ÆTHEL-]

ÆTHELSTAN. [See ÆTHELSTAN.]

AFFLECK, SIR EDMUND (1723?-1788), admiral; Lieutenant, 1745; captain, 1757; sailed with Rodney to relieve Gibraltar, 1779; served in N. America, and distinguished himself in repulse of French at St. Christopher's, and leeward of Dominica, 1782. [i. 171]

AFFLECK, PHILIP (1796-1799), admiral, brother of Sir Edmund Affleck [q. v.]; lieutenant, 1766; distinguished himself under Boscawen at Louisbourg, 1758; served under Rodney in West Indies, 1780; admiralty lord, 1798-9. [i. 171]

AGARD or AGARDE, ARTHUR (1540-1615), antiquary; appointed 1570 deputy chamberlain of the exchequer; drew up catalogues of state papers and records, and also a Latin treatise elucidating 'Domesday Book'; one of the earliest members of a society of antiquaries founded by Archbishop Parker, 1572. His essays for this society on the antiquity of shires, and of parliament, on old land measures, heralds, the Inns of Court, and similar topics, were printed by T. Hearne in his 'Collections' (1790 and 1775). His scholarly acumen enabled him to fix the authorship of the 'Dialogus de Scaccario' [see FITZNEALE or FITZNEIGEL, RICHARD]. He was buried in Westminster Abbey cloisters. Many of his manuscripts are in the British Museum. [i. 172]

AGAS, RADULPH or RALPH (1540?-1621), land surveyor and maker of maps; practised as a surveyor in his native Suffolk, but is known for his three celebrated maps or rather bird's-eye views of Oxford (1578, Bodleian Lib.), Cambridge (1592, ib.), and London (1592?), Pepysian and Guildhall Libraries). His admirable view of London was relished with spurious alterations by G. Vertue in 1737, and accurately by W. H. Overall in 1874 ('Olivitas Londinum'). [i. 173]

AGASSE, JAMES LAURENT (d. 1846?), artist; born at Geneva; studied at Paris, and practised in England, 1801-45, as a painter of horses and dogs. [i. 176]

AGELNOTH. [See ETHELNOTH.]

AGGAS, EDWARD (A. 1564-1601), apprentice to H. Toy [q. v.], and afterwards bookseller and printer in St. Paul's Churchyard; a number of his publications are translations, possibly his own. [i. 175]

AGGAS or ANGUS, ROBERT (d. 1679), scene-painter to Dorset Garden Theatre, temp. Charles II. [i. 176]

AGLIO, AUGUSTINE (1777-1867), artist; born at Cremona; studied at Milan; decorated London interiors and theatre ceilings; sent landscapes to Royal Academy, and executed much lithographic work. [i. 176]

AGLIONBY, EDWARD (1520-1587?), recorder of Warwick, 1573, and M.P. for that town; made an oration to Elizabeth on her visit ther; rendered from Latin the 'Epistle of Dr. Mathewe Gribalde,' 1560. [i. 176]

AGLIONBY, JOHN (d. 1611), royal chaplain and principal of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford. [i. 177]

AGNEW, SIR ANDREW, BART. (1687-1771), general, of Wiltshire; fought at Ramillies, Oudenarde, and Malplaquet; promoted lieutenant-colonel, 1740; distinguished himself at Dettingen, and against Jacobites at Blair Castle (1746); as 'sheriff' of Tynemouth Castle was known to Walter Scott. [i. 177]

AGNEW, SIR ANDREW, BART. (1793-1849), Sabbatarian promoter; took charge in 1832 of abortive parliamentary movement to 'protect the Lord's Day.' [i. 178]

AGNEW, PATRICK ALEXANDER VANS (1822-1848), Indian official; assistant to resident at Lahore, 1848; despatched on administrative mission to Multan; was there murdered by natives (April), an outrage which led to second Sikh war and annexation of Punjab. [i. 178]

AGUILAR, GRAOE (1816-1847), novelist; of (Spanish) Jewish parentage; after some girlish dramas and poems, produced in 1842 'Spirit of Judaism' and similar essays. Better known are her novels 'Home Influence,' 1847, 'A Mother's Recompense,' 1880, and the pathetic fifteenth-century Spanish story, 'The Vale of Cedars,' 1880 (last two translated into German). [i. 179]

AGUS or AGAS, BENJAMIN (A. 1662), divine, of Wymondham, Norfolk; published a 'Vindication of Non-conformity.' [i. 180]

AGUTTER, WILLIAM (1758-1835), preacher; M.A. Magdalen College, Oxford, 1784; noted for his sermons, especially one contrasting deathbeds of Dr. Johnson and David Hume (1786). [i. 180]

AIKIN or AIKIN, FRANOIS (d. 1805), actor; Dublin weaver's son; played at Smock Alley, Dublin; appeared at Drury Lane as Dick in 'Confederacy,' 1765; later in tragic parts, and managed Liverpool and Edinburgh theatres. [i. 181]

AIKIN or AIKIN, JAMES (d. 1803), actor; brother of Francis Aikin [q. v.]; appeared at Canongate, Edinburgh, 1768, Drury Lane, 1767, in heavy parts; fought duel with John Kemble over a theatre quarrel, 1792. [i. 181]

AIDAN (d. 606), West Scottish king (of Dalriada). [i. 181]

AIDAN, SAINT (d. 651), first bishop of Lindisfarne; set out from Iona, 635, to evangelise Northumbria; was befriended by King Oswald, whose people flocked to hear the monks of Lindisfarne; on Oswald's death worked chiefly in Deira, winning the heart of King Oswin, whose death at Bamborough (August 651) he survived but a few days; buried at Lindisfarne. [i. 182]

AIKENHEAD, MARY (1787-1858), founder of the Irish sisters of charity; bred a protestant; opened the first (Roman catholic) convent of sisters of charity, Dublin, 1816. [i. 183]

AIKENHEAD, THOMAS (1678?-1697), Edinburgh apothecary's son; hanged for ridiculing the bible. [i. 183]

AIKIN, ANNA LETITIA (1743-1825). [See BARBAULD.]

AIKIN, ARTHUR (1773-1854), chemist; son of John Aikin [q. v.]; educated by Barbauld at Palgrave; a pioneer of Geological Society, 1807; a fellow of Linnean Society; secretary of Society of Arts; treasurer of Chemical Society, 1841; published manuals of mineralogy and chemistry, a 'Dictionary' of these sciences (1807-14), and translated Denon's 'Travels' (1801). [i. 184]

AIKIN, CHARLES ROHEMONT (1776-1847), doctor; M.R.C.S.; wrote on 'Owpox' (1800), and collaborated in the 'Chemical Dictionary' of his elder brother, Arthur Aikin [q. v.] [i. 184]

AIKIN, EDMUND (1780-1820), architect; brother of Arthur and Charles Aikin [q. v.]; contributed architectural articles to Rees's 'Encyclopædia.' [i. 185]

AIKIN, JOHN (1713-1780), scholar and theological tutor; born in Scotland; studied at Aberdeen with distinction; became divinity tutor at (dissenting) Warrington Academy (1761-78); D.D. Aberdeen. [i. 185]

AIKIN, JOHN (1747-1822), author; son of preceding; studied at Edinburgh, London, and Leyden (M.D.); practised at Yarmouth; removed to Stoke Newington, 1798; his house a resort of liberal thinkers, Priestley, Darwin, Howard, and others; compiled 'Memoirs of Medicine in Great Britain,' the lion's share of the ten-volume 'General Biography,' and wrote biographical and critical essays and prefaces. [i. 185]

AIKIN, LUCY (1781-1864), daughter of preceding; lived chiefly at Hampstead, where she compiled her 'historical memoirs' of the courts of Elizabeth (1818), of James I (1822), of Charles I (1833), her lives of Addison and Mrs. Barbauld (her aunt), and minor pieces. Her correspondence with Channing (1828-1842) is a valuable illustration of the unitarian circle to which the Aikins belonged. [i. 186]

AIKMAN, WILLIAM (1692-1731), portraitist; studied under Sir J. Medina; practised at Edinburgh; painted portraits of Allan Ramsay and Thomson (whom he assisted), Gay, Somerville, and Argyll; modelled his style on Kneller. [i. 187]

AILESBUURY, EARLS OF. [See BRUCE, ROBERT, first EARL, d. 1685; BRUCE, THOMAS, second EARL, 1655?-1741.]

AILMER (d. 1187). [See ETHELMER.]

AILEDRED or RIEVAUX (1109?-1166). [See ETHELRED.]

AINGER, THOMAS (1799-1863), honorary prebendary of St. Paul's. [i. 188]

AINSLIE, GEORGE ROBERT (1776-1839), general; assign 19th regiment, 1793, captain, 1794, major, 1799; lieutenant-colonel in a fencible regiment, 1800; Lieutenant-colonel 25th regiment, 1807; brevet-colonel, 1810; governor of Eustatus, 1812, of Dominica, 1813-14; major-general, 1814; collector of Anglo-Norman coins; author of 'Anglo-French Coinage', 1830. [i. 188]

AINSLIE, HENRY (1760-1834), senior wrangler, second Smith's prizeman, and fellow of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1781; physician to Addenbrook's Hospital, 1787; M.D. 1793, F.R.C.P. 1795; physician to St. Thomas's Hospital, 1795-1800; Harveyian orator, 1802. [i. 188]

AINSLIE, HEW (1792-1878), amanuensis to Dugald Stewart; attracted to Robert Owen's settlement at New Harmony, Indiana, 1822; afterwards a brewer; his collected songs and ballads, published New York, 1865. [i. 188]

AINSLIE, SIR ROBERT (1730?-1812), ambassador and numismatist; knighted 1775; ambassador to Constantinople, 1776-92; pensioned, 1796; M.P. for Milborne Port, Somerset, 1796-1802; created baronet, 1804; formed collection of ancient Eastern and north African coins, descriptions of which were published by l'Abbate Domenico Sestini in eleven volumes, 1789-1806; also of illustrations of Eastern life, drawings of which by Luigi Mayer were engraved by Thomas Milton and published in three volumes 1801-4. [i. 189]

AINSLIE, ROBERT (1766-1838), writer to the signet, 1789; brother of Sir Whitelaw [q.v.]; correspondent of Burns, and author of two small religious works. [i. 190]

AINSLIE, SIR WHITELOW (1767-1837), surgeon in East India Company's service, 1788-1815; published 'Materia Medica of Hindoostan' (1813) and similar works. [i. 190]

AINSWORTH, HENRY (1871-1823?), leader of the separatist congregation at Amsterdam; scholar of Caius College, Cambridge, 1807-91; became a Brownist and bookseller's porter at Amsterdam in 1803, and then 'teacher' at Francis Johnson's church; with Johnson founded an independent congregation there; sole or part author of 'Confession of Faith of the People called Brownists,' 1806; finally separated from Johnson in 1810; died at Amsterdam. In rabbinical and oriental scholarship he was equalled by few in Europe, writing numerous controversial and exegetical works, many of them now rare. [i. 191]

AINSWORTH, ROBERT (1860-1743), lexicographer; was educated at Bolton, and kept schools there and, after 1698, at Bethnal Green, Hackney, and other places near London; collected coins, and was elected F.S.A. in 1724; wrote an important treatise on education, 1698, and compiled a Latin-English dictionary, 1736. [i. 194]

AINSWORTH, WILLIAM FRANÇOIS (1807-1896), geologist; cousin of William Harrison Ainsworth [q.v.]; L.R.C.S., Edinburgh, 1827; studied geology in London, Paris, and Brussels; founded, 1850, 'Edinburgh Journal of Natural and Geographical Science' (1830-1); surgeon and geologist to expedition to Euphrates, under Francis Rawdon Chesney [q.v.], 1835; took charge of expedition to Christians of Chaldeæ, 1838-40; published accounts of both expeditions; editor of 'New Monthly Magazine,' 1871; original fellow of Royal Geographical Society, 1830; F.S.A., 1830. His works include 'Travels in the Track of the Ten Thousand Greeks,' 1844. [Suppl. i. 20]

AINSWORTH, WILLIAM HARRISON (1805-1882), novelist; educated at Manchester Grammar School, and articulated to a solicitor there in 1821; went to London to finish his legal education in 1824, and was in business as a publisher, 1826-8, Scott writing 'Bonnets of Bonnie Dundee' for one of his annuals; his first novel, 'Rockwood,' published 1834, immediately successful; edited 'Bentley's Miscellany,' 1840-2, and 'Ainsworth's Magazine,' 1842-53, when he acquired 'New Monthly Magazine'; lived at Kensal Green, where Dickens, Thackeray, Landseer, Clarkson Stanfield, Talfourd, Jerrold, and Cruikshank were among his guests. He wrote thirty-nine novels, chiefly historical, of which the best known are 'Jack Sheppard,' 1839, 'Tower of London,' 1840, 'Old St. Paul's,' 1841, 'The Miser's Daughter,' 1842, and 'Windor Castle,' 1843. [i. 197]

AIO (d. 974), historian; a fabulous monk of Croyland Abbey, whose supposititious work is quoted in Ingulf's forged 'Chronicle.' [i. 199]

AIRAY, CHRISTOPHER (1601-1670), pioneer in English logic; fellow of Queen's College, Oxford,

1627, and subsequently incumbent of Milford, Hampshire; published 'Fasciculus Præceptorum Logico-rum,' 1628. [i. 199]

AIRAY, HENRY (1560?-1616), puritan divine; fellow of Queen's College, Oxford, 1586; provost, 1598; as vice-chancellor in 1606 he came into conflict with Laud; rector of Blethingham, 1616; an evangelical Calvinist, he preached fierce sermons against Rome. [i. 199]

AIRD, THOMAS (1802-1876), Scottish poet; educated at Edinburgh, where he became acquainted with Carlyle, James Hogg, and De Quincey; published his first work, 'Martouffe,' 1826; contributed to 'Blackwood's Magazine'; edited 'Dumfriesshire and Galloway Herald,' 1835-63; published collected poems, 1848. [i. 201]

AIREY, SIR GEORGE (1761-1833), general; ensign, 71st regiment, 1779; accompanied 48th regiment to West, Indies as lieutenant, 1781; captain 1788; assisted Sir Charles Grey in reducing French West India Islands, 1793; lieutenant-colonel 8th regiment, 1798; held offices in Minorca, Ireland, Sicily, and the Ionian Islands; lieutenant-general, 1821; received command of 39th regiment, 1823; K.C.H. [i. 201]

AIREY, SIR JAMES TALBOT (1812-1898), general; son of Sir George Airey [q.v.]; enr'gn, 1830; extra aide-de-camp to Major-general Elphinstone, 1841; served at Cabul and in Gwalior campaign; major, 1861; served in Crimea; lieutenant-general and K.C.B., 1877; general, 1881. [Suppl. i. 21]

AIREY, RICHARD, LORD AIREY (1808-1881), general; son of Sir George Airey [q.v.]; educated at Sandhurst, and was successively ensign, lieutenant, captain, major, and lieutenant-colonel, 34th regiment, 1821-38; colonel and military secretary to Lord Hardinge, 1862; quartermaster-general to Crimean army, 1854-5; major-general and K.C.B., 1854; quartermaster-general, 1855-65; exonerated himself of charges of inefficiency in Crimea, 1856; governor of Gibraltar, 1865-70; G.C.B., 1867; general, 1871; created peer, 1876; president of the commission on the short service system, 1879. [i. 202]

AIRTH, first EARL (1591-1661). [See GRAHAM, WILLIAM.]

AIRY, SIR GEORGE BIDDELL (1801-1892), astronomer royal; sizar of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1813; senior wrangler, and first Smith's prizeman, 1823; fellow, 1824; member of Astronomical Society, 1828, and of Geological Society, 1829; Lucasian professor of mathematics at Cambridge, 1826; Plumian professor of astronomy and director of Cambridge observatory, 1828; astronomer royal, 1835-81; F.R.S., 1836; equipped Royal Observatory with instruments designed by himself; created at Greenwich magnetic and meteorological department, 1838; reduced all planetary and lunar observations made at Greenwich from 1760 to 1830; gold medallist, Royal Astronomical Society, 1846; controlled British expeditions to observe transit of Venus, 1874, and subsequently reduced collected data; D.C.L., Oxford, 1844; LL.D., Cambridge, 1862, and Edinburgh; K.C.B., 1872; published voluminous writings on astronomical subjects. [Suppl. i. 22]

AILSLABE, JOHN (1670-1742), statesman; M.P. for Ripon, 1695-1709 and 1706-21, and for Northallerton, 1709; one of commissioners for executing office of lord high admiral, 1712; successively treasurer of navy, and chancellor of exchequer, 1714-18; supported South Sea Company's scheme for paying off national debt, 1719, and on its failure was expelled the house, 1721. [i. 203]

AITCHISON, SIR CHARLES UMPHERSTON (1832-1896), lieutenant-governor of the Punjab; educated at Edinburgh (M.A., 1863, LL.D., 1877), and at Halle; entered Indian civil service, 1855; under-secretary in political department, India, 1869-65; commissioner of Lahore; foreign secretary, 1868-78; chief commissioner of British Burma, 1878-81; lieutenant-governor of the Punjab, 1882; member of governor-general's council, 1887-8; K.C.S.I., 1881; O.I.E., 1882; published 'Collection of Treaties . . . relating to India' (1862-92, 11 vols.), and other works. [Suppl. i. 25]

AITKEN, JAMES (1752-1777), incendiary, known as JOHN THE PAINTER; apprenticed as house-painter in Edinburgh; came to London and took to highway-robbery on Finchley Common; fled to America and took part in tea-duty riots at Boston; returned, 1775, and, being imbued with anti-monarchical principles, planned destruction of British navy when about to sail against America; succeeded in firing some storehouses at Portsmouth and Bristol, and was ultimately executed at Portsmouth. [i. 208]

AITKEN, JOHN (1793-1833), editor of 'Constable's Miscellany'; employed in a bank, but in 1822 became bookseller in Edinburgh; wrote occasional verse and prose. [i. 206]

AITKEN, ROBERT (1800-1873), preacher; ordained, 1823; withdrew from English church; preached in Wesleyan and other chapels, and returned to English church, 1840; benefited in Cornish parishes; directed building of a fine church at Pendeen. [i. 206]

AITKEN, SIR WILLIAM (1825-1899), pathologist; M.D. Edinburgh, 1848; assistant pathologist to medical commission in Crimea, 1855; professor of pathology at army medical school, Fort Pitt, Chatham (afterwards at Netley), 1860-92; F.R.S., 1873; knighted, 1887; published medical writings. [Suppl. i. 26]

AITKEN, JOHN (d. 1790), surgeon; M.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1770; surgeon and lecturer at Edinburgh, 1779; made some practical improvements in surgery and wrote medical works. [i. 206]

AITON, JOHN (1797-1863), religious writer; son of William Aiton (1760-1848) [q.v.]; published a refutation of Robert Owen, 1824. [i. 207]

AITON, WILLIAM (1781-1793), botanist; assistant gardener at Botanic Garden, Chelsea, 1784; manager of Kew Botanic Gardens, 1789; manager of royal forcing and pleasure gardens at Kew and Richmond, 1783; published 'Hortus Kewensis', 1789. [i. 207]

AITON, WILLIAM (1760-1849), sheriff-substitute of Lanark; authority on Scottish husbandry; wrote historical and agricultural works. [i. 207]

AITON, WILLIAM TOWNSEND (1766-1849), botanist; son of William Aiton (1781-1793) [q.v.], whom he assisted and succeeded at Kew, 1793; edited his father's 'Hortus Kewensis', 1810-13; a founder and fellow of the Royal Horticultural Society. [i. 208]

AKENSIDE, MARK (1721-1770), poet and physician; after 1737 contributed frequently to the 'Gentleman's Magazine'; sent to Edinburgh to study theology, 1739, but abandoned it for medicine, 1740; member of the Medical Society of Edinburgh, 1740; practised in Newcastle, 1741-3; went to London and published 'Pleasures of the Imagination', a didactic poem, 1744; toured in Holland, and graduated doctor of physic at Leyden; practised at Northampton, 1744, and at Hampstead, 1745-7; becoming embarrassed, he was relieved and provided for by Jeremiah Dyson, and ultimately rose to eminence in his profession; doctor (by mandamus) of Cambridge University and F.R.S., 1763; F.O.P., 1764; physician to Christ's Hospital, 1769; physician to the queen, 1761; collected poems published, 1772. [i. 208]

AKERMAN, JOHN YONGE (1806-1873), numismatist and antiquary; secretary to William Cobbett, and later, to Lord Albert Conyngham; F.S.A., 1834; joint secretary, 1848, and sole secretary, 1853-60; started and contributed largely to 'Numismatic Journal'; helped to found Numismatic Society of London, 1836. [i. 211]

ALABASTER, WILLIAM (1567-1640), Latin poet and divine; nephew by marriage of John Still, author of 'Gammer Gurton's Needle'; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; began a Latin epic to Elizabeth, preserved in manuscript; wrote 'Roxana' before 1592; accompanied Earl of Essex as chaplain to Cadix, 1596; converted to Romanism; after publishing several religious works and suffering imprisonment was reconverted to protestantism; D.D., [prebendary of St. Paul's and rector of Therfield, Hertfordshire. [i. 211].

ALAIN DE LILLE or DE L'ISLE (1114-1203), scholar; has been identified with Alain de Flandre, bishop of Auxerre, c. 1152; nationality uncertain; probably spent much time in England with Cistercians; wrote 'Commentary on Merlin's Prophecies', and in prose and verse on other subjects; possibly rector of the ecclesiastical school, Paris; retired to abbey of Oiteaux, where he died. [i. 212]

ALAN OF BECCLES (d. 1240), official secretary to Archbishops Pandulph and Thomas de Blundeville of Norwich, 1218-36; archdeacon of Sudbury, 1226; one of the arbitrators between Bishop Grosseteste and his chapter, 1239. [i. 214]

ALAN OF LYNN (fl. 1424?), Carmelite monk and scholastic. [i. 214]

ALAN OF TEWKESBURY (12th century), writer; probably for some years canon of Benevento, Italy, where he became interested in Henry II's struggle with Becket; entered monastery of Christ Church, Canterbury, 1174; incurred Henry II's displeasure by procuring authority to collect Peter's pence; subsequently Abbot of Tewkesbury till death; wrote life of Becket. [i. 214]

ALAN OF WALMINGHAM (d. 1364?), architect; junior monk at Ely, 1314; sub-prior, 1321; designed St. Mary's Chapel, now Trinity Church, Ely; sacristan 1321; rebuilt tower of the cathedral and made other additions, constructing the unique 'lantern'; prior, 1341; bishop-elect of Ely, 1344 and 1361, but election set aside by the pope. [i. 216]

ALAN, WILLIAM (1532-1594). [See ALLEN, WILLIAM.]

ALAND, SIR JOHN FORTESCUE, first Baron FORTESCUE OF CREIDAN (1670-1746), justice of common pleas, 1728-46; solicitor-general to Prince of Wales, 1714, and to king, 1715; baron of exchequer, 1717; justice of king's bench, 1728. [i. 216]

ALANE, ALEXANDER (1500-1565). [See ALLESIUS, ALEXANDER.]

ALASCO, JOHN (1499-1580). [See LASKI, JOHN.]

ALBAN, ST. (d. 304?), called 'protomartyr of Britain'; said by Bede to have suffered (22 June, c. 304), on site of future abbey of St. Albans, martyrdom for sheltering a Christian cleric who converted him; Offa (d. 796) [q.v.] is believed to have discovered the martyr's body. [Suppl. i. 27]

ALBANY, LOUISA, COUNTESS OF (1763-1824), wife of Prince Charles Edward, the Young Pretender; daughter of Gustavus Adolphus, prince of Stolberg-Gedern; on death of her father became pensioner of Empress Maria Theresa; canoness of Mons, 1770; secretly married Charles Edward, 1772; left him after eight years, and lived with Alder the poet; on outbreak of French revolution came to England and was received at court; on death of Alder (1803) lived with Fabre, a French artist; died at Florence. [i. 216]

ALBANY, DUKE OF (1853-1884). [See LEOPOLD.]

ALBANY, DUKES OF. [See STEWART, ROBERT, first DUKE, 1340-7-1420; STEWART, MURDAC or MURDOCH, second DUKE, d. 1425; STEWART, ALEXANDER, DUKE OF ALBANY, 1454?-1485; STEWART, JOHN, DUKE OF ALBANY, 1481-1536.]

ALBEMARLE, DUKES OF. [See MONCK, GEORGE, first DUKE, 1608-1670; MONCK, CHRISTOPHER, second DUKE, 1658-1688.]

ALBEMARLE, EARLS OF. [See WILLIAM DE FORS, d. 1242; WILLIAM DE FORS d. 1260; KEPPEL, ARNOLD JOOST VAN, first EARL of the Keppel family, 1689-1718; KEPPEL, WILLIAM ANNE, second EARL, 1702-1764; KEPPEL, GEORGE, third EARL, 1724-1772; KEPPEL, GEORGE THOMAS, sixth EARL, 1799-1891; KEPPEL, WILLIAM COUTTS, seventh EARL, 1832-1894.]

ALBERT FRANÇOIS CHARLES AUGUSTUS EM-MANUEL PRINCE-CONSORT OF ENGLAND (1819-1861), second son of Ernest, duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, and of Louise, daughter of Augustus, duke of Saxe-Gotha-Altenburg; educated under private tutor; visited England with Duke of Coburg, 1838, when the Princess Victoria expressed her willingness to accept Albert as consort; continued his education at Brussels and Bonn, 1836-8; travelled through Italy with Baron Stockmar; came to England and became betrothed to Queen Victoria, 1839; married 1840; his annuity, proposed at 50,000*l.*, was fixed at 30,000*l.*, largely through influence of Peel; counselled by Stockmar; became a director of the Ancient Concerts and assisted Philharmonic Society; appointed regent in case of queen's death, 1840; placed by Peel at head of royal commission on rebuilding of Houses of Parliament,

1841; LL.D., Cambridge, 1843; chancellor of Cambridge University, 1847; largely aided the queen in the performance of her political duties, and offered advice to ministers; created favourable impression by sympathy with condition of working-classes, 1848; advocated successfully alterations in system of study at Cambridge; projected idea of International Exhibition (carried out, 1861); on his suggestion a camp for training troops formed at Chobham, 1863; gave advice of value throughout the Crimean war; suggested in regard to Trent affair a conciliatory attitude which averted war with United States, November 1861; showed signs of serious illness early in 1861; typhoid fever developed late in the year; he died 14 Dec. [i. 217]

ALBERT VICTOR CHRISTIAN EDWARD, DUKE OF CLARENCE AND AVONDALE AND EARL OF ATHLONE (1864-1892), eldest son of the Prince of Wales (afterwards Edward VII); joined training ship Britannia at Portsmouth, 1877; entered Trinity College, Cambridge, 1883; hon. LL.D., 1888; captain and aide-de-camp to Queen Victoria, 1889; betrothed to Princess Mary of Teck (afterwards Duchess of Cornwall and York and Princess of Wales), 1891, but died before marriage. [Suppl. i. 28]

ALBERTAZZI, EMMA (1813-1847), vocalist; pupil, of Sir Michael Costa, 1827; studied in Italy under Professor Celli; sang with great success in Milan, Madrid, Paris, and London; died of consumption. [i. 231]

ALBERTI, GEORGE WILLIAM (1793-1768), essayist; born at Osterode-am-Harz; graduated at Göttingen, 1746; spent some years in England; protestant minister of Tundern, Hanover; published philosophical and theological works. [i. 232]

ALBERRY, JAMES (1838-1889), dramatist; became playwright, and in 1866 his 'Dr. Davy' was produced at the Lyceum. His most successful play was 'Two Roses,' produced at the Vaudeville, 1870, with (Sir) Henry Irving as Digby Grant. [Suppl. i. 29]

ALBIN, ELEAZAR (fl. 1713-1759), naturalist and teacher of water-colour drawing; published works on natural history, with coloured illustrations. [i. 232]

ALBIN, HENRY (1624-1696), ejected minister; educated at Glastonbury and Oxford; ordained; ejected for nonconformity from West Cammel, 1660, and from Donyatt, Somerset; 'stated preacher' at Frome Selwood, Shepton Mallet, Bruton, and Wincanton in rotation, 1687. [i. 233]

ALBINI (BRITO), WILLIAM DE (d. 1166), justiciar; son of Robert de Todeni, lord of Belvoir, itinerant justice, 1130; lands forfeited by Stephen, but afterwards restored. [i. 233]

ALBINI (PINCERNA), WILLIAM DE, EARL OF ARUNDEL (d. 1176), son of William de Alбини Pincerna (the Butler), by Maud, daughter of Roger le Bigod [q. v.]; married Adeliza [q. v.], widow of Henry I, adherent of Stephen; confirmed by Henry II in his earldom, and served under him against Prince Henry, 1178. [i. 233]

ALBINI, WILLIAM DE, EARL OF ARUNDEL, also EARL OF SUSSEX (d. 1221), grandson of preceding; favourite of King John, but in the barons' revolt adhered to their side; justiciar, 1217. [i. 234]

ALBINI or AUBENEY, WILLIAM DE (d. 1236), grandson of preceding; sheriff and itinerant justice under Richard I, John, and Henry III; of the moderate party in the barons' revolt; finally fought against John; high in Henry III's favour. [i. 234]

ALBINUS (d. 733), abbot of St. Peter's, Canterbury; assisted Bede in his 'Historia Ecclesiastica.' [i. 234]

ALBIS or ALBIUS (1593-1676). [See WHITE, THOMAS.]

ALDESTEE, BARON. [See SKYMOUR, FREDERICK BRATHCAMP PAGET, 1821-1895.]

ALCHREITH (fl. 655), under-king of the Deirans; son of Oswin, king of Northumbria, and Eanfled, daughter of Eadwine; married Cyneburh, daughter of Penda, king of Mercia; with Oswin defeated Mercians, 655; took part in struggle between Celtic and Roman churches, and finally joined Roman party. [i. 235]

ALCHIN, WILLIAM TURNER (1790-1865), antiquary; librarian of Guildhall Library; compiled indexes to Winchester and Salisbury ecclesiastical registers. [i. 235]

ALCHMUND (d. 781), bishop of Hexham, 767; regarded as a saint. [i. 236]

ALCOCK, JOHN (1430-1600), bishop of Rochester, 1472, Worcester, 1478, Ely, 1486; LL.D., Cambridge, c. 1461; rector, St. Margaret's, Fish Street; dean, St. Stephen's, Westminster; master of rolls, 1462; prebendary of St. Paul's and Salisbury, 1468; privy councillor, 1470-1; on several royal commissions under Richard III and Henry VII; lord chancellor, 1474 (conjointly with Rotherham, bishop of Lincoln) and 1485; tutor to Edward V; comptroller of royal buildings, 1485; published religious works. [i. 236]

ALCOCK, JOHN (1740?-1791), doctor of music, son of John Alcock (1715-1806) [q. v.], Mus. Bac., Oxford, 1766; organist at Walsall, 1773 till death; published vocal and instrumental music. [i. 237]

ALCOCK or ALLOOCK, JOHN (1716-1806), doctor of music; organist at Lichfield Cathedral, 1749-60; Mus. Doc., Oxford, 1765; won Catch Club prizes, 1770, 1771, and 1772; published musical compositions. [i. 237]

ALCOCK, NATHAN (1707-1779), physician; studied at Edinburgh and Leyden, where he graduated M.D., 1737; lectured on chemistry at Oxford, though unauthorised by the university; M.A. and incorporated of Jesus College, 1741; M.D., 1749; F.R.S.; F.R.C.P., 1754; afterwards practised at Runcorn. [i. 237]

ALCOCK, SIR RUTHERFORD (1809-1897), diplomatist; served as army surgeon in Portugal, 1832-6, and Spain, 1836; nominated consul at Fuchow, China, 1844, and at Shanghai, 1846; first consul-general in Japan, 1858-65; K.C.B., 1862; honorary D.O.L., Oxford, 1863; minister-plenipotentiary at Peking, 1865-71; president of Geographical Society, 1876-8; published numerous works relating to Japan. [Suppl. i. 29]

ALCOCK, SIMON (d. 1459?), scholastic writer; M.A. and D.D. Oxford; held livings in Essex; prebendary of Hereford, 1436; probably canon of Lincoln; his writings never published. [i. 238]

ALCOCK, THOMAS (d. 1564), traveller in employ of Muscovy Company, 1558-63; journeyed in Russia and Poland, and crossing the Caspian Sea entered Persia, where he was murdered. [i. 238]

ALCOCK, THOMAS (1709-1798), miscellaneous writer, younger brother of Dr. Nathan Alcock [q. v.]; M.A. Oxford, 1741; held livings of Runcorn and, later, St. Budrock's, Plymouth. [i. 238]

ALCOCK, THOMAS (1784-1833), surgeon to St. James's workhouse, 1813-28; contributed largely to medical journals. [i. 239]

ALOUIN or ALBINUS (English name EALWHINE) (735-804), theologian, man of letters, and coadjutor of Charlemagne in educational reforms; born at York and educated in cloister school under Archbishop Egbert and Ethelbert, afterwards archbishop; assisted in conduct of the school at York, and became master, 778; met Charlemagne at Parma, 781, and settled on the continent; endowed with abbeys of Ferrières, Troyes, and St. Martin at Tours; took important part in council of Frankfurt; retired as abbot of Tours, 796; wrote metrical annals, hagiological and philosophical works. [i. 239]

ALDAM, THOMAS (d. 1660), quaker; early disciple of George Fox; imprisoned at York, 1652. [i. 241]

ALDAY, JOHN (fl. 1670), translator from French; chiefly known by his English version, published c. 1667, of two French pamphlets, entitled 'Theatrum Mundi'; translated also 'Praise and Dispraise of Women,' 1679, and possibly a French summary of Pliny, 1666. [i. 241]

ALDBOROUGH, second EARL OF. [See STRATFORD, EDWARD.]

ALDER, JOSHUA (1793-1867), zoologist; friend of Thomas Bewick; member of Newcastle Literary and Scientific Society, 1816; devoted himself to conchology and spongyology; received civil list pension of 70*l.*, 1837; published with Albany Hancock a work on British Mollusca, 1845-55. [i. 241]

ALDERSEY, LAURENCE (d. 1581-1586), traveller; went to Jerusalem, journeying overland to Venice, 1581, and to Alexandria, visiting Tunis, Cyprus, and Syria, 1586; his accounts of his travels are in Hakluyt's 'Voyages.' [i. 242]

ALDERSON, AMELIA (1769-1853). [See OPIE.]

ALDERSON, SIR EDWARD HALL (1787-1857), judge; educated at Charterhouse and Caius College, Cambridge; Browne's medallist, 1807; senior wrangler, first Smith's prizeman, and first chancellor's medallist, 1809; called to bar, Inner Temple, 1811; reporter to king's bench, 1817-22; judge of court of common pleas, 1830; baron of exchequer, 1834. [i. 242]

ALDERSON, SIR JAMES (1794-1882), physician; son of John Alderson [q. v.]; M.A., Pembroke College, Cambridge, 1826; M.D., Magdalen College, Oxford, 1829; F.R.C.P., 1830; practised in Hull, and later in London; connected with St. Mary's hospital; president, College of Physicians, 1867; knighted, 1869; physician-extraordinary to queen, 1874. [i. 243]

ALDERSON, JOHN (1787-1829), physician; practised in Hull; published essays on fever (1788) and paralysis (1792); physician to Hull infirmary, where a statue of him (1835) was erected. [i. 243]

ALDFRITH, EALDFRITH or EAFRITH (d. 705), king of Northumbria; illegitimate son of Oswiu; succeeded his brother Egfrith, 686; renowned for his learning and piety; resisted the Romish party. [i. 244]

ALDGYTH (d. 1063), daughter of Ælfgar, earl of Mercia; married Gruffydd, king of Wales, and later, probably, Harold, who had conquered Gruffydd, and was already pledged to a daughter of William I. [i. 245]

ALDERHELM (640?-709), bishop of Sherborne, related to King Ine; educated under Theodore and Hadrian at Canterbury, and was foremost in the intellectual movement led by them; abbot of Malmesbury; built churches at Malmesbury, Bruton, and Wareham, and monasteries at Frome and Bradford; wrote works in verse and prose. [i. 245]

ALDHUN or EALDHUN (d. 1018), bishop of Durham; appointed to Bernician see of Chester-le-Street, Durham, 990; to escape ravages of Danes left Chester with his monks, and carried the body of St. Cuthbert to Ripon, 995; returned and built church at Durham; consecrated to the see, 998. [i. 247]

ALDIS, SIR CHARLES (1775?-1863), surgeon; studied at Guy's and St. Bartholomew's hospitals, 1794; surgeon to Norman Cross barracks, c. 1798; introduced vaccination in Hertford; founded Cancer hospital, Cliford Street, London. [i. 247]

ALDIS, CHARLES JAMES BERRIDGE (1808-1872), physician; son of Sir Charles Aldis [q. v.]; educated at St. Paul's School and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.D., 1837; F.R.C.P., 1838; physician successively to several London dispensaries; effected improvements in sanitation, and did much to ameliorate condition of workshop hands; published medical works. [i. 248]

ALDRED THE GLOSSATOR (10th century), writer of the glosses in Northumbrian dialect inserted in the 'Lindisfarne Gospels,' c. 700. [i. 248]

ALDRED (d. 1069), archbishop of York; monk of Winchester; abbot of Tavistock, 1027; bishop of Worcester, 1044; ambassador from King Edward the Confessor to Emperor Henry III, 1064; took charge of sees of Hereford and Ramsbury; journeyed to Jerusalem, 1088; archbishop of York, 1090; went to Rome to receive the pall, which was refused; was degraded from episcopate for various offences; robbed by brigands, whereat the pope was intimidated by Tostig and granted the pall; spent lavishly in cause of the church; after battle of Hastings upheld rights of Edgar; submitted to William the Conqueror, whom and Matilda he crowned. [i. 249]

ALDRICH, HENRY (1647-1710), divine and scholar; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1669; D.D., 1682; dean of Christ Church, 1689 till death; said to have designed chapel of Trinity College and All Saints' church, Oxford; left large musical library to his college; composed or adapted several anthems and songs; entrusted, with Spratt, with publication of Clarendon's 'Memoirs.' [i. 261]

ALDRICH or ALDRIDGE, ROBERT (d. 1556), scholar and divine; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; B.A., 1512; M.A. and schoolmaster of Eton, 1516; corresponded with and worked for Erasmus; prebendary of Lincoln, 1528; D.D., 1530; archdeacon of Colchester, 1531; canon of Windsor, 1534; registrar of order of Garter; provost of Eton, 1538; bishop of Carlisle, 1537; signed act of Six Articles, 1539, and the opinion on the king's marriage with Anne of Cleves, 1540; under Edward VI protested against church reforms. [i. 252]

ALDRIDGE, WILLIAM (1737-1797), nonconformist minister; having idled away his youth, entered the Countess of Huntingdon's college at Trevecca; preached at Margate, Dover, and Wapping; left the countess's connexion and occupied the Jewry Street chapel for nearly twenty years. [i. 253]

ALDULF, king of Northumbria (d. 810). [See EARDWULF.]

ALDULF or EALDULF (d. 1002), archbishop of York; possibly chancellor to King Edgar; monk and later abbot of Peterborough; elected to see of York, 992. [i. 253]

ALED, TUDUR (d. 1480-1525), Welsh poet; Franciscan; pupil of Dafydd ab Edmwnd, and teacher of Gruffydd Hiraethog. [i. 254]

ALEFOUNDER, JOHN (d. 1795), portrait and miniature painter; silver medallist (Royal Academy), 1782; died in India. [i. 254]

ALEMOOR, LORD (d. 1776). [See FRINGLE, ANDREW.]

ALESIVS, ALEXANDER (1500-1565), Lutheran divine; born and educated at Edinburgh; canon of St Andrews; gained applause by confuting Luther's arguments, and was chosen to reclaim Patrick Hamilton [q. v.], abbot of Fern, from Lutheran opinions, but was himself converted; imprisoned by provost of St. Andrews; fled to Germany, 1532; met Luther and Melancthon; went to England as bearer of a letter from Melancthon to Henry VIII, 1535; warmly welcomed by Cranmer and Latimer; divinity lecturer at Cambridge; practised as physician in London, where his religious views met with opposition, 1537; returned to Germany, 1540; professor of theology at Frankfurt-on-the-Oder; attached as theologian to an unsuccessful embassy to Luther to induce him to sanction less extreme views than he himself professed, 1541; dean of theological faculty, Leipzig, 1543; visited Naumburg, 1554 and 1561, Nürnberg, 1555, and Dresden, 1561; engaged in arranging disputes among protestant parties; revisited England and translated into Latin Edward VI's first liturgy; twice rector of university of Leipzig, where he died; published many exegetical, dogmatic, and controversial works. [i. 254]

ALEXANDER I (1078?-1124), king of Scotland; fourth son of Malcolm Canmore and Margaret, grandniece of Edward the Confessor; on his father's death, 1093, was protected by Edgar Atheling; on death of his brother Edgar, who reigned 1097-1107, succeeded to the kingdom north of Forth and Clyde; married Sibylla, a natural daughter of Henry I; earned title of 'Fierce' by his defeat of the men of Moray and Mearns, c. 1115, and founded a church at Scone in honour of the victory; entered into dispute concerning filling of see of St. Andrews, maintaining that right of investiture lay with pope or archbishop of Canterbury and not with archbishop of York, but died before its final settlement. [i. 259]

ALEXANDER II (1198-1249), king of Scotland; son of William the Lion and Ermengarde, daughter of Richard, viscount of Beaumont; knighted by King John of England, 1212; succeeded William the Lion, king of Scotland, 1214, and took part with barons against John; besieged Norham 1216; after invasions of Scotland by John and of England by Alexander, the latter did homage to Louis, the dauphin, at Dover; invaded England again, 1217, but, on defeat of Louis, made peace with Henry III, confirmed by treaty, 1219; married Joan, elder daughter of John, 1221; reduced Argyll and Caithness, 1222, and subdued insurrections, 1224 and 1228; repelled Norse invasion, 1230; married, secondly, Mary, daughter of Ingelram de Couci, 1239; quarrelled with Henry III over an alleged intended alliance with France; dispute settled by treaty at Newcastle, 1244; died of fever while attempting to wrest the Hebrides from Norway. [i. 261]

ALEXANDER III (1241-1285), king of Scotland; son of Alexander II [q. v.] and Mary de Couci; succeeded his father as a child, 1249; married Margaret, daughter of Henry III; knighted by Henry, who demanded homage, 1251; detected a plot to obtain papal legitimization of Marjory, a natural daughter of Alexander II, whereby her children might be heirs; removed chief conspirators from office; acted through regents—the Earl of Menteth and the Comyns, 1251-5, and, from 1255, fifteen nobles chosen by Henry III; was in hands of a new regency, combining two parties of nobility, 1258. Alexander successfully resumed his father's project of uniting the Hebrides to his kingdom, 1261; assisted Henry III against the barons, 1264, and did homage to Edward I, 1278. [i. 264]

ALEXANDER (d. 1148), bishop of Lincoln; nephew of Roger, bishop of Salisbury, by whom he was adopted; archdeacon of Sarum, 1121; bishop of Lincoln, 1123; accompanied archbishops William of Canterbury and Thurstan of York to Rome, 1125; took part in councils directed against marriage of clergy; built castles at Sleaford, Newark, and Banbury, and religious houses at Haverholme, Thame, Dorchester-on-Thames; supported King Stephen, although he had previously sworn to receive Henry's daughter, Empress Maud, as queen; his loyalty being suspected, he and his uncle were arrested at Oxford, 1139; his castles surrendered; took part in reception of Maud by Bishop Henry of Blois at Winchester, 1141; revisited Rome, 1145; probably crowned Stephen at Lincoln, 1146. [i. 267]

ALEXANDER OF CANTERBURY (fl. 1120 ?), monk of Christchurch, Canterbury; author of 'Dicta Anselmi Archiepiscopi.' [i. 271]

ALEXANDER OF ASHBY (fl. 1220), prior of the Austin priory, Ashby, Northampton; wrote theological tracts, chronicles, and Latin poems. [i. 271]

ALEXANDER OF HALES (d. 1245), philosopher; trained for the church; held successively various ecclesiastical appointments, and was finally archdeacon; retired to France; studied theology and metaphysics in Paris, where he lectured; lecturer to the Franciscan order, 1222-38; student of Aristotle and his Arab commentators; wrote 'Summa Theologiae' (printed, 1475). [i. 271]

ALEXANDER, Mrs. CECIL FRANCOES (1818-1895), poetess, née Humphreys; with a friend, Lady Harriet Howard, wrote tracts in connection with Oxford movement from 1842; married, 1850, William Alexander, bishop of Derry (afterwards archbishop of Armagh). Her poetical works comprise many hymns, including 'There is a green hill far away.' [Suppl. i. 30]

ALEXANDER, DANIEL ASHER (1768-1846), architect; educated at St. Paul's school; silver medallist, Royal Academy; surveyor to London Dock Company (1796-1831) and to Trinity House; designed lighthouses at Harwich and Lundy Island, and prisons at Dartmoor and Maldstone. [i. 272]

ALEXANDER, HELEN (1654-1729), heroine of Scottish covenants; avowed adherence to presbyterianism and the covenant; assisted many fugitives, including John Welsh and James Renwick. Her experiences were published from her dictation. [i. 272]

ALEXANDER, Sir JAMES EDWARD (1808-1885), general; lieutenant, 1825; in Balkans during Russo-Turkish war, 1829; captain, 1830; aide-de-camp to Sir Benjamin D'Urban [q. v.] in Kafir war, 1835; knighted, 1838; aide-de-camp successively to D'Urban and Sir William Rowan in Canada, 1847-55; in Crimea, 1855-6; colonel, 1858; in Maori war, 1860-2; major-general, 1868; O.B., 1873; general, 1881; published works relating to his service, and other writings. He was responsible for the preservation of Cleopatra's Needle. [Suppl. i. 31]

ALEXANDER, JOHN (d. 1743), presbyterian minister at Stratford-on-Avon and at Dublin; moderator of general synod of Ulster, 1734. [i. 273]

ALEXANDER, JOHN (1768-1765), commentator; son of John Alexander (d. 1748) [q. v.]; educated at Daventry, with Priestley, 1751; studied biblical criticism under Dr. George Benson; wrote several scriptural paraphrases. [i. 273]

ALEXANDER, MICHAEL SOLOMON (1799-1846), first Anglican bishop of Jerusalem; born and educated in Germany in Jewish faith; private tutor in England; converted, 1825; taught Hebrew in Dublin and was ordained, 1827; worked at Danzig in connection with Society for Promoting Christianity among Jews, 1827-30; professor of Hebrew, King's College, London, 1832-41; assisted in revising New Testament in Hebrew, 1835; bishop of united church of England and Ireland in Jerusalem, 1841; died in Egypt on journey to England; published religious works. [i. 273]

ALEXANDER, Sir WILLIAM, EARL OF STIRLING (1567?-1840), poet and statesman; perhaps educated at Stirling, Glasgow, and Leyden; travelled as tutor to Archibald, earl of Argyle, to France, Spain, and Italy; tutor to Prince Henry, son of James VI; gentleman of bed-chamber to Prince Henry, 1603; knighted, 1609; on death of Prince Henry, 1612, appointed to same position in household of Prince Charles; formed friendship with Drummond of Hawthornden, c. 1613; master of requests, 1614; assisted the king in a metrical version of the Psalms (published 1631), and received patent for sole printing rights for thirty-one years; granted jurisdiction over Nova Scotia and Canada, 1621; published 'Encouragement to Colonies,' 1625; secretary of state for Scotland, 1626 till death; raised to peerage, 1630; extraordinary judge of court of session, 1631; Earl of Stirling, 1633; died insolvent in London; published many volumes of poetry. [i. 275]

ALEXANDER, WILLIAM (1726-1783), American general; son of James Alexander, who had fled to America after the rebellion of 1715; clerk in his mother's provision business at New York; joined army commissariat; aide-de-camp and secretary to General Shirley; claimed unsuccessfully the earldom of Stirling, 1762; surveyor-general, New York; governor of Columbia College; commanded American militia regiment in war of independence, and served throughout the war; major-general, 1777. [i. 280]

ALEXANDER, WILLIAM (1767-1816), artist, and first keeper of prints and drawings in British Museum, 1808; student at Royal Academy, 1784; junior draughtsman with Lord Macartney's embassy to China, 1792; professor of drawing at Military College, Great Marlow, 1802; published several volumes of engravings. [i. 281]

ALEXANDER, WILLIAM LINDSAY (1808-1884), congregational divine; educated at Leith High School, Edinburgh and St. Andrews; D.D., 1846; classical tutor in Blackburn Theological Academy, 1827-31; pastor, 1835-1877, of North College Street Congregational Church (which removed, 1881, to Augustine Church, George IV Bridge, Edinburgh); reviser of Old Testament, 1870; professor of theology at Theological Hall, Edinburgh, 1854, and principal, 1877; LL.D. Edinburgh, 1884; published religious and other writings. [Suppl. i. 32]

ALEYN, CHARLES (d. 1640), poet; educated at Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge; private tutor to Sir Edward Sherburne. [i. 281]

ALF—[See ÆLF.]

ALFIELD or AUFIELD, THOMAS, alias BADGER (d. 1585), seminary priest; educated at Eton and Cambridge; became catholic; recanted under torture; tortured and hanged for disseminating Roman catholic literature. [i. 282]

ALFORD, HENRY (1810-1871), dean of Canterbury, 1857-71; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge; Bell scholar; graduated 1833; ordained curate at Ampton, 1833; fellow of Trinity, 1834; vicar of Wymeswold, 1835-53; studied German at Bonn, 1847; minister of Quebec Chapel, Marylebone, 1853; edited Greek Testament, 1849-61; published sermons and poems, including translation of the 'Odyssey' in blank verse, and took part in revising the New Testament; first editor of 'Contemporary Review.' [i. 282]

ALFORD, MARIANNE MARGARET, VISCOUNTESS ALFORD, known as LADY MARIAN ALFORD (1817-1888), artist, daughter of Spencer Compton, second Marquis of Northampton [q. v.]; married, 1841, John Hume Oust, viscount Alford (son of Earl Brownlow); friend of the leading artists of the day; assisted in founding Royal School of Art Needlework, Kensington; published 'Needlework as Art,' 1886. [Suppl. i. 33]

ALFORD, MICHAEL (1587-1652), jesuit and ecclesiastical historian; studied philosophy at Seville; English penitentiary at Rome, 1616; pursued missionary labours in Leicestershire. [i. 284]

ALFRED, KING (849-901). [See ÆLFRED.]

ALFRED OF BEVERLEY (fl. 1143), chronicler; treasurer of church of Beverley; compiled history up to 1129. [i. 285]

ALFRED, surnamed ANGLICUS and PHILOSOPHUS (12th-13th cent.), writer; possibly translator of Aristotle, and author of 'De Motu Cordis,' 1220. [i. 285]

ALFRED ERNEST ALBERT, DUKE OF EDINBURGH and DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA (1844-1900), second son of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert; educated for navy; served in Channel, North America, West Indies, and Mediterranean; elected by suffrage king of Greece, 1862, but was compelled on political grounds to refuse crown; captain, 1866; created Duke of Edinburgh and Earl of Ulster and Kent, and elected Master of Trinity House, 1866; commissioned H.M.S. Galatea, 1867, and visited many parts of the world, 1867-71; served in the Mediterranean fleet; rear-admiral, 1878; vice-admiral, 1882; commanded Channel squadron, 1883-4; commander-in-chief in Mediterranean, 1886-9; admiral, 1887; commander-in-chief at Devonport, 1890-3; admiral of the fleet, 1893; succeeded, 1893, his father's brother as reigning Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, in virtue of renunciation in 1863 by his brother, Prince of Wales, of title to duchy; relinquished privileges as English peer; died at Rosenau, near Coburg. He married, 1874, Grand Duchess Marie Alexandrovna, only daughter of Alexander II, tsar of Russia. [Suppl. i. 34]

ALICE MAUD MARY, PRINCESS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND, DUCHESS OF SAXONY, GRAND DUCHESS OF HESSE-DARMSTADT (1843-1878), third child of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert; married, 1862, Frederick of Hesse, nephew of Louis III, grand duke of Hesse-Darmstadt; foundress of Women's Union for Nursing Sick and Wounded in War. [i. 285]

ALISON, ARCHIBALD (1757-1839), writer of an essay on 'Taste' (1790); of Balliol College, Oxford, 1784; took holy orders; studied natural history as disciple of Gilbert White; prebendary of Salisbury, 1791; minister of episcopal chapel, Cowgate, Edinburgh, 1800 till death; adherent of the Scottish 'common-sense' philosophy; published sermons. [i. 286]

ALISON, SIR ARCHIBALD (1792-1867), historian; younger son of Archibald Alison [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; called to bar, 1814; travelled on the continent; advocate depute, 1822; published work on Scottish criminal law, 1832-3; sheriff of Lanarkshire, 1834; successfully suppressed distress riots and strikes, 1837; published his 'History of Europe,' 1833-42, and a continuation, 1862-9; elected lord rector of Marischal College, Aberdeen, against Macanlay, 1845, and of Glasgow against Palmerston, 1851; created baronet, 1852; published autobiography besides historical works. [i. 287]

ALISON, WILLIAM PULTENEY (1790-1859), physician; elder son of Archibald Alison [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; M.D., 1811; physician to New Town dispensary, 1815; professor of medical jurisprudence, Edinburgh, 1820-2; professor of 'institutes of medicine,' first jointly, afterwards solely, for twenty years; published 'Outlines of Physiology,' 1831, in which the leading idea was that of a life-force distinct from the physical forces of dead matter; professor of practice of medicine, 1842-56; appointed first physician to her majesty for Scotland; hon. D.O.L., Oxford, 1850; successfully advocated legal relief of the destitute in Scotland. [i. 290]

ALKEN, HENRY (fl. 1816-1831), draughtsman and engraver; said to have been stud-groom to the Duke of Beaufort; published many etchings of sporting subjects, mostly coloured. [i. 292]

ALKEN, SAMUEL (fl. 1780-1796), draughtsman; engraved plates after Morland and others, and published sets of original etchings. [i. 292]

ALLAN, ANDREW (1655-1686), antiquary; graduated at St. Edmund's Hall, Oxford, and was made tutor and subsequently vice-principal; took holy orders, 1680; assisted Anthony à Wood in his 'Athene Oxonienses,' and produced other works, chiefly historical. [i. 293]

ALLAN, DAVID (1744-1796), Scottish painter; apprenticed to Robert Foulis, the Glasgow printer; went to Rome, where he met Gavin Hamilton, 1764; probably exhibited at Royal Academy, 1771 and 1773; gained gold medal of St. Luke's for historical composition, 1773; earned title of the 'Scottish Hogarth' by pictures of Venetian Carnival exhibited at Royal Academy, 1779; painted portraits in London, 1777-80; director and master of Trustees' Academy at Edinburgh, 1786; illustrated poems by Burns, Allan Ramsay, and others. [i. 293]

ALLAN, GEORGE (1736-1800), antiquary and topographer; practised as an attorney at Darlington, Durham; acquired numerous collections of manuscripts, charters, and genealogical records relating chiefly to Durham, many of which he printed at a private press erected at Darlington, c. 1768. His library was open to antiquaries, and was of great assistance to several well-known historical works, notably Hutchinson's 'History of Durham.' [i. 294]

ALLAN, SIR HENRY MARSHAM HAVELLOCK (1830-1897). [See HAVELLOCK-ALLAN.]

ALLAN, PETER (1798-1849), coloniser of the 'Marsden Rock'; successively valet, gamekeeper to Marquis of Londonderry, landlord of a tavern at Whitburn, and superintendent of quarries near Durham; excavated cavern on the coast near Sunderland in bay of Marsden; lived in it from 1828 till his death. The cavern was destroyed by fall of cliff, 1865. [i. 295]

ALLAN, PETER JOHN (1825-1848), poet; lived mostly in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. His poems, published posthumously, show traces of Byron's influence. [i. 296]

ALLAN, ROBERT (1774-1841), Scottish poet; by trade a muslin-weaver; died at New York. His poems, though melodious, achieved little success. [i. 296]

ALLAN, THOMAS (1777-1833), mineralogist; amassed a large collection of minerals; contributed the article on 'Diamond' to the 'Encyclopædia Britannica'; F.R.S. and member of the Edinburgh Royal Society; published geological works. [i. 297]

ALLAN, SIR WILLIAM (1782-1850), painter of Russian scenery and life; educated in Edinburgh; apprenticed to a coachmaker; studied at the Trustees' Academy and Royal Academy schools; exhibited first in Royal Academy, 1803; went to Russia, 1805, and spent some years travelling in the interior; returned to Edinburgh, 1814; master of the Trustees' School, 1826; travelled on continent and in Asia Minor; R.A., London, 1835; president of Royal Scottish Academy, 1838; limner to queen in Scotland, 1841; knighted 1842. [i. 297]

ALLARDICE, ROBERT BARCLAY (1779-1854), pedestrian, commonly known as CAPTAIN BARCLAY; entered 23rd regiment 1805; served in Walcheren expedition as aide-de-camp to the Marquis of Huntly, 1809; claimed unsuccessfully earldoms of Airth, Strathern, and Monteith, 1839-40; noted for his walking feats, which included walking one mile in each of one thousand successive hours. [i. 298]

ALLARDYCE, ALEXANDER (1846-1896), author; educated at Aberdeen; engaged in journalism in India, 1868-75; subsequently reader to Messrs. William Blackwood & Sons at Edinburgh; published novels and edited John Ramsay's 'Scotland and Scotsmen in Eighteenth Century,' and 'Letters from and to Charles Kirkpatrick Sharpe' [q. v.] [Suppl. i. 36]

ALLEN, ALDEE or ALDEY, EDWARD (fl. 1563-1634), printer; freeman of Stationers' Company, 1564; his name appears in the registers down to 1623. [i. 299]

ALLEN, ALDAYE, ALDE or ALDYE, JOHN (fl. 1568-1592), printer; first freeman of Stationers' Company, 1565; mentioned in the original charter of the company, 1567. [i. 299]

ALLECTUS (250?-296), Roman emperor in Britain; minister of Carausius [q. v.]; assassinated Carausius, and proclaimed himself emperor, 293; struck numerous coins at London and Colchester; fell in battle in Hampshire. [ix. 58]

ALLEINE, JOSEPH (1634-1688), author of 'An Alarm to the Unconverted'; entered Lincoln College, Oxford, 1649; scholar of Corpus Christi, 1651; B.D. and tutor, 1653; ordained as associate of George Newton at Taunton, 1654; ejected, 1662; imprisoned for evangelical preaching; wrote religious works. [i. 299]

ALLEINE, RICHARD (1611-1681), author of 'Vindiciæ Pietatis' and other religious works; graduated B.A., St. Alban Hall, and M.A. New Inn Hall, Oxford; ordained; rector of Batcombe, Somerset, 1641-61; appointed assistant to the commissioners for 'ejecting scandalous ministers', 1654; ejected under Act of Uniformity and preached semi-privately in neighbourhood of Frome Selwood. [i. 300]

ALLEINE, WILLIAM (1614-1677), divine; younger brother of Richard Alleine [q. v.]; B.A. and M.A. St. Alban Hall, Oxford; private chaplain in London; vicar of Blandford, Bristol, c. 1653; ejected from living 1662; preached in private; later, held livings at Bristol and Yeovil. [i. 301]

ALLEN. [See also ALLAN, ALLEIN, ALLEINE, ALLEYN, ALLIN.]

ALLEN, ALEXANDER (1814-1842), philologist; son of John Allen (1771-1839) [q. v.]; educated at his father's school, Hackney, and at London University; carried on his father's school on his death; doctor of philosophy, Leipzig, 1840; published works principally philological. [i. 302]

ALLEN, ANTHONY (d. 1754), barrister and antiquary; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; master in chancery; wrote unpublished biographical account of members of Eton College. [i. 302]

ALLEN, BENNET (fl. 1761-1782), miscellaneous writer; B.A. Wadham College, Oxford, 1757; M.A. 1760; took holy orders and settled in London; published pamphlet entitled 'Modern Chastity,' by way of defence of Lord Baltimore, who was charged with rape, 1768; subsequently contributed to 'Morning Post,' and was imprisoned for killing in a duel one whom he had slandered in an anonymous article, 1782. [i. 302]

ALLEN, EDMUND (1519?-1559), bishop-elect of Rochester, 1559; M.A. Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1537; studied abroad, where, probably, he graduated B.D.; chaplain to Princess Elizabeth, 1549, and to her when queen; acted as ambassador; published several religious works. [i. 303]

ALLEN, GRANT (1848-1899), author, whose full name was CHARLES GRANT BLAIRFINDIE ALLEN; born in Canada; educated at King Edward's school, Birmingham; B.A. Merton College, Oxford, 1871; professor of mental and moral philosophy in college at Spanish Town, Jamaica, for education of negroes, 1878-6; returned to England, 1876, and adopted literature as profession; published 'Physiological Aesthetics,' 1877; assisted Sir William Wilson Hunter [q. v.] in compilation of 'Imperial Gazetteer of India'; published, 1884, his first novel, 'Phyllis,' which had appeared serially in 'Gentleman's Magazine,' and subsequently produced under his own name and pseudonyms more than thirty works of fiction, including 'The Woman who did' (1895) and 'The British Barbarians' (1896). [Suppl. i. 36]

ALLEN, JAMES BAYLIS (1803-1876), line-engraver; articulated as general engraver; studied drawing under J. V. Barber; employed by the Findens in London, 1824; engraved plates (including 'Rivers of France') after Turner and other artists. [i. 304]

ALLEN, JAMES O. (d. 1831), line-engraver; pupil of W. B. Cooke, in conjunction with whom, after 1821, he engraved series of plates, including 'Views of the Colosseum,' after drawings by Major-general Cockburn. [i. 305]

ALLEN, JAMES MOUNTFORD (1809-1835), architect; practised in London, and later as a church-architect at Crewkerne, Somerset. [i. 306]

ALLEN, JOHN (1476-1534), archbishop of Dublin; studied at Oxford and Cambridge; in Italy on ecclesiastical business for Archbishop Warham; took holy orders, 1499; vicar of Chislet, 1503; presented to livings of Sundridge (1508) and Aldington (1511); rural dean of Rieberg, Buckingham, 1512; rector of South Ockendon, Essex, and prebendary of Lincoln Cathedral, 1516; rector of Gaulsby, 1523; acted as Wolsey's agent in suppressing minor monasteries, 1524-6; prebendary of Nottingham, 1526, and of St. Paul's Cathedral, 1527; accompanied Wolsey to France; archbishop of Dublin, 1528, when he resigned his prebends; chancellor of Ireland, 1528-32; fined under statutes of provisors and praemunire, 1531; murdered by followers of Lord Thomas Fitzgerald, 1534. [i. 305]

ALLEN or ALLIN, JOHN (1596-1671), New England puritan colonist; left living at Ipswich to avoid persecutions of Bishop Wren; went to New England with band of puritans, 1638; pastor of church at Dedham, Massachusetts, 1639; resisted attempts to subject colonists to British government, 1646; took part in dispute with English divines on baptism, 1662. [i. 307]

ALLEN or ALLEYN, JOHN (1660?-1741), physician and inventor; M.D.; extra-licentiate, College of Physicians, 1692; practised at Bridgewater, Somerset; published 'Synopsis Medicinæ,' 1719, and 'Specimina Ichnographica,' 1730, a book describing several inventions, including a new method of navigating vessels. [i. 307]

ALLEN, JOHN (fl. 1764), nonconformist divine; minister successively of baptist churches in Petticoat Lane (now Middlesex Street), London, and Broadstairs, Newcastle; dismissed for misconduct; died in New York; published popular tracts. [i. 308]

ALLEN, JOHN, the younger (d. 1831), bookseller and antiquary of Hereford; made a large collection of antiquities, books, prints, &c., relating to Herefordshire, of which county he left an unpublished and unfinished history. [i. 308]

ALLEN, JOHN (1771-1839), dissenting layman; author of 'Modern Judaism,' 1816, and other works of religious history; kept academy at Hackney. [i. 309]

ALLEN, JOHN (1771-1843), political and historical writer; M.D. Edinburgh, 1791; in the confidence of Jeffrey and his coadjutors on the 'Edinburgh Review'; accompanied Lord Holland to Spain, 1801-5 and 1808; warden of Dulwich College, 1811-20, and master, 1820 till death; published 'Inquiry into Rise and Growth of Royal Prerogative in England,' 1830, and contributed historical and political articles to 'Edinburgh Review,' 'Annual Register,' and 'Encyclopedia Britannica.' [i. 309]

ALLEN, JOHN (d. 1855), revolutionist; tried for high treason with Arthur O'Connor, 1798; concerned in Robert Emmet's rising, 1803; fled to France and served in French army in Peninsula; colonel in French army, 1810. [i. 310]

ALLEN, JOSEPH WILLIAM (1803-1852), landscape painter; originally a tutor; worked as scene-painter for the Olympic; took an active part in establishing Society of British Artists. [i. 310]

ALLEN, RALPH (1694-1764), philanthropist; employed in Bath post office; obtained patronage of General Wade by detecting a Jacobite plot; raised and equipped one hundred volunteers at Bath, 1745; deputy postmaster, Bath; devised and managed a system of cross-roads for England and Wales by which he amassed a large fortune; became intimate with Pope, Fielding (who drew from him Squire Allworthy in 'Tom Jones'), the elder Pitt, and other eminent people; gave large sums in charity, principally in Bath. [i. 311]

ALLEN, THOMAS (1642-1632), mathematician; educated at Trinity College, Oxford; B.A., 1663; fellow, 1665; M.A., 1667; obtained patronage of Earl of Northumberland, and came in contact with most mathematicians and scholars of his day; refused offer of a bishopric from Earl of Leicester; left historical, antiquarian, astronomical, philosophical, and mathematical manuscripts, some of which are preserved in Bodleian Library. [i. 312]

ALLEN, THOMAS (1608-1673), nonconformist divine; graduated at Caius College, Cambridge; held living of St. Edmund's, Norwich; 'silenced' by Bishop Wren for disagreement with 'Book of Sports,' 1638; fled to Charlestown, New England, 1638; returned to Norwich, 1652; ejected, 1662; published religious works. [i. 313]

ALLEN, THOMAS (1681-1755), divine; B.A. New College, Oxford, and ordained, 1705; successively clerk in Lincoln's Inn, and schoolmaster; vicar of Rochester, Northamptonshire, 1706, and of Kettering, 1715; wrote various religious works. [i. 313]

ALLEN, THOMAS (1803-1833), topographer: produced from 1827 illustrated volumes relating to Lambeth, Westminster, Southwark, Yorkshire, Surrey, Sussex, and Lincolnshire. [i. 314]

ALLEN, WILLIAM (1532-1594), cardinal; B.A. and fellow, Oriel College, Oxford, 1550; M.A., 1554; principal of St. Mary's Hall, 1556; proctor, 1556-7; his zeal for the catholic faith making it impossible for him to remain in Oxford, he took up residence at university of Louvain, 1561; owing to ill-health, returned to England in disguise, 1562; stayed in Lancashire (where he rigorously opposed occasional conformity), Oxford, and Norfolk; finally returned to Low Countries, 1565; ordained at Mechlin; lectured on theology; went on pilgrimage to Rome, 1567; opened, with the assistance of several eminent divines, a catholic seminary at Douay, 1568; B.D.; regius professor of divinity at Douay, 1570; D.D., 1571; canon of church of Our Lady at Cambray, 1575; his seminary, to escape persecutions of Calvinists, removed to Rheims, 1578; arranged for foundation of an English jesuit college at Rome, 1579; his efforts consistently opposed by the protestants; resided at the English hospital, Rome, after 1585; as supporter of Philip II of Spain's claim to English throne made cardinal, 1587, so that, in the event of Philip's success, he might reconcile the realm to the church; received from the pope an abbey in Calabria and the revenues of the archbishopric of Palermo; nominated archbishop of Mechlin, 1589, but did not obtain the see; apostolic librarian; entrusted, with Cardinal Colonna, with revision of the Vulgate; published many religious writings. [i. 314]

ALLEN, WILLIAM (1770-1843), quaker, scientist, and philanthropist; entered Bevan's chemical establishment at Plough Court, which, from 1795, he carried on; fellow Linnean Society, 1801; F.R.S., 1807; lecturer at Guy's Hospital, 1802-26; intimate with Clarkson, Wilberforce, and James Mill; active opposer of slavery; engaged in schemes of social improvement, and made several journeys on the continent, examining prisons and other public institutions, 1816-33; helped to found an agricultural colony at Lindfield, Sussex. [i. 322]

ALLEN, WILLIAM (1793-1864), naval officer; lieutenant, 1815; commander, 1836; captain, 1842; took part in the Niger expeditions of 1832 and 1841-2; rear-admiral, 1862; published books of travel. [i. 322]

ALLENSON, JOHN (A. 1616), puritan divine; pupil at Cambridge of Dr. Whitaker; B.D., 1590; fellow of St. John's, 1584; senior dean and sacrist, 1603; senior bursar, 1604; suspended for puritan opinions successively from curacies of Barnwell and Horningsea, Cambridgeshire; edited works by Dr. Whitaker. [i. 323]

ALLESTREE, RICHARD (1619-1681), royalist divine; B.A. and moderator in philosophy, Christ Church College, Oxford, where his tutor was Richard Busby, 1640; took arms for the king and served under Sir John Biron, 1641, and was present at Kineton Field; twice captured, but was released; M.A., 1643; entered holy orders and became censor of his college; expelled from Oxford by parliamentarians, 1648; frequently employed in carrying messages to and from the king; in prison several weeks and released on account of ill-health, 1659; canon of Christ Church and D.D., 1660; chaplain in ordinary to the king, 1663; regius professor of divinity, 1668-79; provost of Eton College, 1665; author of 'The Whole Duty of Man' and tracts and sermons. [i. 324]

ALLESTREE, JACOB (1653-1686), poetical writer; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; music reader, 1679; terræ filius, 1682; contributed to 'Examen Poeticum,' published 1693. [i. 325]

ALLEY, WILLIAM (1610? -1670), bishop of Exeter, 1560; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; B.A., 1533; during Mary's reign travelled in north of England, gaining a precarious livelihood by practising physic and teaching; divinity reader and, in 1569, penitentiary and prebendary of St. Paul's; D.D. Oxford, 1561; wrote religious works. [i. 326]

ALLEYN, EDWARD (1566-1626), actor and founder of Dulwich College; one of Earl of Worcester's players, 1586; married a step-daughter of Philip Henslowe [q. v.], 1592, whose partner he became; attached to Lord Admiral's company; toured with Lord Strange's company, 1593; acted in London, 1594-7; acquired interest in bear-baiting house, Paris Garden, 1594; built, with Henslowe, Fortune theatre, Cripplegate, 1600, where he acted at head of Lord Admiral's company; purchased with Henslowe office of master of Royal Game of bears, bulls, and mastiff dogs, 1604; retired soon after the accession of James I, when the Lord Admiral's company was taken over by Prince Henry; last recorded appearance, 1604; played hero in Marlowe's 'Tamburlaine,' 'Jew of Malta,' and 'Faustus'; acquired great wealth and landed property; bought manor of Dulwich, 1605; built and endowed the college, 1613-16, and received patent for its incorporation, 1619; personally managed its affairs, 1617-22, and possibly till death; lost his wife and afterwards married a daughter of Dr. Donne; on terms of friendship with many persons of note, and patron of Dekker, John Taylor, and other writers. [i. 327]

ALLIBOND, JOHN (1597-1658), son of Peter Allibond [q. v.]; schoolmaster; M.A. Magdalen College, Oxford, 1619; D.D., 1643; master of Magdalen College School, 1625-32, and lecturer on music; held successively three church livings in Gloucestershire after 1634; wrote Latin poems. [i. 330]

ALLIBOND, PETER (1560-1629), translator; B.A. Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1581; M.A., 1585; travelled abroad and subsequently became rector of Chenies, Buckinghamshire; translated theological works from Latin and French. [i. 330]

ALLIBOND or ALLIBONE, SIR RICHARD (1636-1688), judge; grandson of Peter Allibond [q. v.]; Roman catholic; educated at Douay; entered Gray's Inn, 1663; king's counsel and knighted, 1686; serjeant-at-law and justice of king's bench, 1687; incurred unpopularity by opposing the seven bishops, 1688. [i. 330]

ALLIES, JABEZ (1787-1856), antiquary and writer on folklore; practised as solicitor in London; F.S.A., c. 1840; retired to Worcester; published works on antiquities of Worcestershire and Herefordshire, and on Shakespeare's fairy mythology. [i. 331]

ALLIN, SIR THOMAS (1612-1685), naval commander; originally merchant and shipowner in Lowestoft; supported royalists during civil war; captain, 1660; commander-in-chief in the Downs, 1663; fought against Dutch in Mediterranean, 1664, and at Lowestoft, 1665; knighted and appointed admiral; defeated Dutch off Isle of Wight and French off Dungeness, 1666; engaged against Barbary pirates, 1668-70; comptroller of navy, 1670-8; commander-in-chief in the Narrow Seas against French, 1778. [i. 332]

ALLINGHAM, JOHN TILL (A. 1799-1810), dramatist; educated for the law; wrote many popular plays, much of the success of which was due to the actor, Charles Mathews. [i. 333]

ALLINGHAM, WILLIAM (1824-1889), poet; born at Ballyshannon, Donegal, where, c. 1837, he entered the bank managed by his father; received appointment in customs, c. 1846; became acquainted with Leigh Hunt in London; published 'Poems,' 1850, and 'Day and Night Songs' (a second series of which contained illustrations by pre-Raphaelite artists), 1854; edited 'The Ballad Book for Golden Treasury Series,' 1864; published 'Laurence Bloomfield in Ireland,' his most ambitious work, 1864; his poetical works were collected in six volumes, 1888-93; editor of 'Fraser's Magazine,' 1874-9. A collection entitled 'Varieties in Prose' appeared posthumously, 1893. [Suppl. i. 38]

ALLISON, THOMAS (A. 1697), Arctic voyager; published, 1699, an account of his voyage in 1697-8 from Archangel to the neighbourhood of North Cape. [i. 335]

ALLIX, PETER (1641-1717), protestant preacher; born at Alençon; educated at Saumur and Sedan; worked with Claude on French translation of the bible; pastor of St. Agobille, Champagne; translated to Charenton, Paris, 1670; moderator of synod at Liay, 1683; on revocation of edict of Nantes came to England, 1686, and founded in London a church for protestant refugees; D.D. of Oxford and Cambridge; treasurer of Salisbury Cathedral, 1690; published many theological works in Latin, French, and English. [i. 334]

ALLMAN, GEORGE JAMES (1812-1898), botanist and zoologist; educated at Belfast; B.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1839; M.D., 1847; F.R.C.S. Ireland, 1844; M.D. Oxford, 1847; professor of botany, Dublin University, 1844; F.R.S., 1854; regius professor of natural history, Edinburgh University, 1856-70; president of Linnean Society, 1874-83, and gold medalist, 1896. His most important work was his investigation into the morphology of the coelenterata and polyzoa. [Suppl. I. 40]

ALLMAN, WILLIAM (1776-1846), botanist; B.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1796; M.A., 1801; M.D., 1804; practised medicine in Clonmel till 1809; professor of botany, Dublin, 1809-44; published botanical works. [I. 335]

ALLOM, THOMAS (1804-1872), architect; furnished drawings for series of illustrated works on 'Cumberland and Westmoreland,' 'Scotland,' 'Constantinople,' and other places; exhibited frequently at Royal Academy. [I. 336]

ALLON, HENRY (1818-1892), congregational divine; studied theology at Osheshunt College; sole pastor, 1852, at Union Chapel, Islington; honorary secretary of Osheshunt College, 1852, and trustee of Countess of Huntingdon's connexion; honorary D.D. Yale University, 1871, and St. Andrews, 1885; president of congregational union, 1864 and 1881; editor of 'British Quarterly Review,' 1877-88; edited volumes of hymns and wrote religious publications. [Suppl. I. 41]

ALLON, HENRY ERSKINE (1864-1897), composer; son of Henry Allon (1818-1892) [q. v.]; educated at University College, London, and Trinity College, Cambridge; wrote sonatas and assisted in founding 'New Musical Quarterly Review.' [Suppl. I. 42]

ALLOTT, ROBERT (fl. 1600), editor of 'England's Parnassus,' 1600, and of 'Wits Theater of the Little World,' 1599. [I. 336]

ALLOTT, WILLIAM (d. 1590?), catholic divine; educated at Cambridge; retired to Louvain on Elizabeth's accession; in high favour with Mary Queen of Scots; returned and preached in England, but was imprisoned and banished; canon of St. Quintin, Picardy. [I. 337]

ALLOWAY, LORD (d. 1829). [See OATHART, DAVID.]

ALLPORT, SIR JAMES JOSEPH (1811-1892), railway manager; chief clerk, then traffic manager and manager, Birmingham and Derby railway; manager of Newcastle and Darlington line, 1844-50, and of Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire, 1860-3; general manager of Midland railway, 1853-7, director, 1857, and again general manager, 1860-80; managing director of Palmer's Shipbuilding Company, Jarrow, 1857-60; knighted, 1884. Under his management the Midland railway grew into one of the chief English railway systems. [Suppl. I. 42]

ALLSOP, THOMAS (1795-1880), stockbroker and author; entered silk mercery trade in London, 1812; joined Stock Exchange; made the acquaintance of Coleridge, 1818; on the poet's death published his 'Letters, Conversations, and Recollections'; intimate with Lamb, Hazlitt, Barry Cornwall, and other eminent men; provided Feargus O'Connor with his property qualification as representative of chartism on his election as M.P. for Nottingham; was in sympathy with Orsini, the conspirator against Napoleon III. A reward was offered for his apprehension as accessory in the 'attempt of Orsini,' but the overtress of his actions disarmed suspicion. [I. 337]

ALMACK, WILLIAM (d. 1781), founder of Almack's Assembly Rooms; apparently came to London as valet of Duke of Hamilton; proprietor of a tavern in St. James's Street; opened a gaming club in Pall Mall, known as Almack's Club (now Brooks's), before 1763; erected his assembly rooms in King Street, 1764. [I. 339]

ALMEIDA or MEADE, JOHN (1572-1653), jesuit missionary; taken without his parents' consent to Viana, Portugal, at age of ten; admitted member of Society of Jesus, 1592; ordained, 1602; spent many years travelling on foot through Brazil as missionary. [I. 340]

ALMON, JOHN (1787-1805), bookseller and journalist; apprenticed to printer at Liverpool; travelled on continent, 1788-9; employed in London as printer; contributed to the 'Gazetteer,' and attracted attention of Lord Temple, Burke, and other members of the opposition; formed acquaintance with Wilkes, 1761, which lasted till Wilkes's death; established himself in Piccadilly as book and pamphlet seller; imprisoned and fined for supporting Wilkes, 1770; proprietor and editor of 'General Advertiser,' 1784; tried for libel, 1786, and retired in financial difficulties to France; died in England; wrote and edited miscellaneous works. [I. 340]

ALMOND, MRS. EMMA (1814-1868). [See ROMER.]

ALMS, JAMES (1728-1791), captain in navy; of humble origin; served as midshipman at battles of Namur and Finsterlee and in East Indies, 1744-9; as lieutenant at capture of Gheriah, 1756, and blockade of Brest, 1759, and as captain at reduction of Martinique and Havana; in actions at Praya Bay, 1781, Sadras, Provident, Negapatam, and Trincomalee, 1782; retired, 1784. [I. 342]

ALNWICK, MARTIN OF (d. 1336). [See MARTIN.]

ALNWICK, WILLIAM (d. 1449), bishop of Norwich and of Lincoln; LL.D. Cambridge; monk of St. Albans; first confessor of the Brigetine nuns at Syon, 1414; prior of Wymondham, and archdeacon of Sarum, 1420; received stall of Knaresborough-cum-Bickhill in York Cathedral, 1421; bishop of Norwich, 1426; confessor to Henry VI.; translated to see of Lincoln, 1436; settled disputes between dean and chapter, and published (1440) a new code of statutes for regulation of the cathedral, which originated a contest between him and the dean, still undecided at his death; took part in founding Eton School and King's College, Cambridge. [I. 343]

ALPHAGE or ALPHEGE, ST. [See ÆLFHEAH.]

ALPHERY, NIKEPHOR (fl. 1618-1660), divine; rector of Woolley, Huntingdonshire, 1618; ejected, c. 1643; reinstated, 1660. [I. 345]

ALBOP, ANTHONY (d. 1726), poetical writer; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1696; B.D., 1708; censor and tutor; published selections from Æsop, 1698; prebendary of Winchester and rector of Brightwell, Berkshire; left England on losing an action for breach of promise of marriage; returned and met death by drowning. [I. 345]

ALBOP, VINCENT (d. 1703), nonconformist divine; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge; took holy orders as conformist, and became tutor at Oakham; afterwards received presbyterian ordination; 'presented' to Wilby, Northamptonshire; ejected, 1662; preached semi-privately and suffered imprisonment; published 'Antisozzo,' a witty attack on Bishop Sherlock, 1675; minister of a congregation at Westminster; said to have drawn up the presbyterians' address to James II for general indulgence. [I. 345]

ALSTON, CHARLES (1683-1760), scientific writer; studied medicine under Boerhaave at Leyden; lecturer in botany and materia medica at Edinburgh, and superintendent of botanical gardens, 1710 till death. [I. 346]

ALSTON, SIR EDWARD (1595-1669), president of College of Physicians, 1636-66; M.D. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1636; elected fellow of the College of Physicians, 1631; knighted, 1660. [I. 347]

ALSTON, EDWARD RICHARD (1845-1881), zoologist; wrote papers on mammaia and birds; zoological secretary, Linnean Society, 1880-1. [I. 347]

ALTEN, SIR CHARLES, COUNT VON (1764-1840), general; of protestant Hanoverian family; served in Hanoverian army, 1781-1803, and on its disbandment (1803) joined British army and held command (1805-1815); in Hanover, 1806, at Copenhagen, 1807, in Sweden and Spain, 1808, Walcheren, 1809, the Peninsula and at Waterloo; major-general, 1818; became field-marshal in reorganised Hanoverian army. [I. 347]

ALTHAM, SIR JAMES (d. 1617), judge; M.P. Bramber, Sussex, 1589; reader at Gray's inn, 1600; double reader and serjeant-at-law, 1603; baron of exchequer and knighted, 1606; decided against the king's superiority over the law, 1610 and later, but admitted error in deciding that the crown had no right to grant common-dams. [I. 348]

ALTHAUS, JULIUS (1833-1900), physician; born in Lippe-Detmold, Germany; M.D. Berlin, 1855; assisted in founding hospital for epilepsy and paralysis, Regent's Park, of which he was physician, 1866-94; published writings mainly on therapeutic effects of electricity. [Suppl. I. 43]

ALTHORP, VISCOUNT. [See SPENCER, JOHN CHARLES, 1782-1846.]

ALVANLEY, BARON. [See ARDEN.]

ALVES, ROBERT (1745-1794), poet and prose writer; educated at Aberdeen; head-master, Banff grammar school, 1773-9; taught classics and modern languages in Edinburgh; published poems and literary history. [I. 349]

ALVEY, RICHARD (d. 1684), master of the Temple, 1660; fellow, St. John's College, Cambridge, 1637; B.D., 1643; successively rector of Thorington, Grinstead, and Sandon, 1640-52; canon of Westminster, 1652; deprived of preferments under Mary, but under Elizabeth restored to Thorington; again canon of Westminster, 1660-76; rector of Bursted Parva, Essex, 1671-6. [I. 349]

ALVEY, THOMAS (1645-1704), physician; M.D. Merton College, Oxford, 1671; F.R.O.P., 1676; Harveian orator, 1684. [I. 350]

AMBERLEY, VISCOUNT (1842-1876.) [See RUSSELL, JOHN.]

AMBROSE, ISAAO (1604-1663), divine; B.A. Brasenose, Oxford, 1624; presented to cure of Oastleton, Derbyshire, 1627; one of king's four preachers in Lancashire, 1631; twice imprisoned by commissioners of array; worked for establishment of presbyterianism; successively at Leeds, Preston, and Garstang, whence he was ejected for nonconformity, 1662; published religious works. [I. 360]

AMBROSE, JOHN (d. 1771), captain in navy; served in Channel and Mediterranean, 1734-44; court-martialled for neglect of duty at Toulon (1744) and cashiered; restored to rank and half-pay, 1748; retired rear-admiral, 1760. [I. 361]

AMBROSE, MISS (1720?-1818). [See PALMER, ELEANOR, LADY.]

AMBROSIUS AURELIANUS, called EMRYS (fl. 440), British leader; probably descended from Constantine; opposed Saxon invaders and confined them to limits of Isle of Thanet. [I. 361]

AMELIA (1783-1810), princess; youngest child of George III; delicate in health; died of erysipelas, having been a confirmed invalid for two years. [I. 362]

AMES, JOSEPH (1619-1695), naval commander under the Commonwealth; transported many royalists to colonies. [I. 362]

AMES, JOSEPH (1689-1769), bibliographer and antiquary, grandson of preceding; apprenticed to plane maker in London; entered business at Wapping as either ship-chandler, ironmonger, or pattern maker, and continued successfully till death; became acquainted with Rev. J. Lewis of Margate, and other antiquaries, on whose suggestion he prepared his 'Typographical Antiquities,' 1749; F.S.A., 1766; F.R.S., 1748; published also an illustrated catalogue of English engraved portraits, and memoirs of the Wren family. [I. 363]

AMES, WILLIAM (1576-1633), puritan divine and casuist; educated at Christ's College, Cambridge, where his religious zeal resulted in his suspension by the vice-chancellor 'from all degrees taken or to be taken'; being prevented by the Bishop of London from settling as a preacher at Colchester, he went to Leyden; worsted in a controversy with Grevinohovius, the Arminian minister at Rotterdam, 1618; chaplain to Sir Horace Vere, English governor of Brill, Holland, whose daughter he married; employed by Calvinists at synod of Dort, 1619; professor of theology, Franeker, 1622; owing to ill-health removed to Rotterdam, where he died; wrote theological works. [I. 365]

AMES, WILLIAM (d. 1662), baptist minister and quaker; joined quakers, 1656; officer in parliamentary army; settled in Amsterdam, 1667; returned to England and was imprisoned for attending quaker meeting, 1662. [I. 366]

AMESBURY, BARON (1761-1833). [See DUNDAS, CHARLES.]

AMHERST, FRANCIS KERRIL (1819-1883), Roman catholic prelate; educated at St. Mary's College, Oscott, where, after ordination, he became professor; missionary rector of St. Augustin's church, Stafford, 1856; bishop of Northampton, 1858-79; preconised to titular see of Sozusa, 1880. [I. 367]

AMHERST, JEFFREY, BARON AMHERST (1717-1797), field-marshal; ensign in guards, 1731; aide-de-camp to General Ligonier in Germany; successively on staff of Ligonier and Duke of Cumberland; lieutenant-colonel, 16th regiment, 1766; major-general, commanding expedition to North America, 1758; took Louisbourg, Cape Breton Isle, succeeded James Abercromby as commander-in-chief, and took Fort Du Quene, 1758; took Ticonderoga and Crown Point, and shared in capture of Montreal, 1759; governor-general of British North America and knighted, 1761; took strong but unsuccessful measures against Indian chief Pontiac; returned to England, 1763; governor of Virginia, 1763, and of Guernsey, 1770; privy councillor, 1772; created Baron Amherst, 1776; held various military offices; field-marshal, 1796. [I. 367]

AMHERST, JOHN (1718?-1778), admiral, younger brother of Jeffrey Amherst [q.v.]; captain, 1744; flag-captain in East Indies and in North America, 1766, in Mediterranean, 1766; at Louisbourg, Belle-Isle, and Gibraltar, 1761-2; commander-in-chief at Plymouth, 1776. [I. 369]

AMHERST, WILLIAM PITT, EARL AMHERST OF ARRACAN (1778-1867), statesman; nephew of Jeffrey Amherst [q.v.]; envoy to Peking to represent to the emperor wrongs suffered under his rule by British subjects, 1816; repelled by his discourteous reception, he returned, 1817; governor-general of India, 1823-8; declared war on king of Burmah, 1824; peace made after capture of Rangoon, Martaban, and Prome, and cession of Tenasserim, Arracan, and Assam; created Earl Amherst, 1828; returned to England, 1828, and retired from public affairs. [I. 360]

AMHURST, NICHOLAS (1697-1742), poet and political writer; educated at Merchant Taylors' and St. John's College, Oxford; expelled from university perhaps on account of his whig principles, 1719; settled in London; started bi-weekly periodical, 'Terre Filina,' in which Oxford was severely satirised, 1721; suffered short imprisonment, 1737, for libel of Colley Cibber in 'Craftsman,' which he started, 1726; published occasional poems. [I. 361]

AMMONIO, ANDREA (1477-1517), Latin secretary to Henry VIII; born at Lucra; educated at Rome; sent to England as collector for the pope; held ecclesiastical offices at Westminster and Salisbury; accompanied Henry VIII in French campaign as Latin secretary, and celebrated his victories in a Latin poem, 1513. [I. 363]

AMNER, JOHN (d. 1641), organist of Ely Cathedral, 1610; Mus. Bac. Oxford, 1613; published sacred music. [I. 363]

AMNER, RALPH (d. 1664), minor canon; lay clerk of Ely Cathedral, 1604-9; minor canon, St. George's, Windsor; gentleman of Chapel Royal, 1623. [I. 363]

AMNER, RICHARD (1736-1803), unitarian divine; studied at Daventry, 1755-62; minister at Yarmouth, 1762-4, and at Hampstead, 1766; published theological works; his name unwarrantably appended to indelicate notes by George Steevens in his edition of Shakespeare. [I. 364]

AMORY, THOMAS (1701-1774), dissenting tutor; studied divinity at Taunton academy, where he was assistant, 1726, and principal, 1788; ordained, 1780; successively minister in Hull Bishops, Taunton, and London (1769); one of Dr. Williams's trustees, 1767; D.D. Edinburgh, 1766; strenuously supported agitation against subscription to Toleration Act, 1772. [I. 364]

AMORY, THOMAS (1691?-1788), eccentric writer; of Irish descent, though not born in Ireland; probably lived in Dublin, where he knew Swift; lived at Westminster, c. 1757, with a country house near Hounslow; published, 1766, 'Memoirs, containing Lives of several Ladies of Great Britain,' and, 1766-68, 'Life of John Bunce, Esq.,' virtually a continuation of 'Memoirs.' [I. 365]

AMOS, ANDREW (1791-1860), lawyer; born in India; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; fifth wrangler and fellow, 1813; called to bar and joined middle circuit; recorder of Oxford; sat on criminal law commissions, 1834-43; first professor of law, University College, London, 1829; succeeded Macaulay as fourth member of governor-general's council in India, 1837-43; county court judge for Marylebone, Brentford, and Brompton, 1843; Downing professor of law, Cambridge, 1848 till death; published legal, constitutional, and literary works. [i. 366]

AMOS, SHELDON (1835-1886), jurist, son of Andrew Amos [q.v.]; B.A. Clare College, Cambridge, 1859; barrister at Inner Temple, 1862; reader till 1869; professor of jurisprudence, University College, London, 1869-79; judge of court of appeal (native tribunals) in Egypt, c. 1882; advocated higher education and political emancipation of women. His publications include a 'Systematic View of the Science of Jurisprudence', 1872. [Suppl. i. 44]

AMPHLETT, SIR RICHARD PAUL (1809-1883), judge; sixth wrangler, St. Peter's College, Cambridge, 1831; called to bar, Lincoln's Inn, 1834; joined Oxford circuit; took silk, 1858; M.P., East Worcestershire, 1868; president Legal Education Association, 1873; baron of exchequer, 1874; promoted to court of appeal, 1876; retired, 1877. [i. 367]

AMPTHILL, first BARON (1829-1884). [See RUSSELL, ODO WILLIAM LEOPOLD.]

AMYOT, THOMAS (1775-1850), antiquary; of Huguenot origin; articulated to a Norwich attorney; election agent (1802) and private secretary (1806) to Mr. Windham, whose speeches he published, 1812; held several appointments in colonial department; connected with Royal, Percy, and Shakespeare societies, and Society of Antiquaries. [i. 368]

AMYRAUT or AMAROTT, PAUL (fl. 1636-1662), divine; of German birth; vicar of Ermington; suspended for puritanism, 1636; held living of Munsley, Norfolk, and was ejected 1662. [i. 369]

ANARAWD (d. 915?), Welsh prince; succeeded his father, Rhodri, as king of all Wales, 877; defeated Saxons at Cymryd, 880; 'cum Anglis' devastated Cardigan, c. 893. [i. 370]

ANCELL, SAMUEL (d. 1802), military writer; served with 58th regiment; besieged at Gibraltar, 1779-83; published account of siege, 1784. [i. 370]

ANCEM, first EARL OF (1578-1654). [See KER, ROBERT.]

ANDERSON, JOHN LAVICOUNT (1792-1874), angler; educated at Harrow; became partner in a London business firm, 1816; published devotional works and a book on angling. [i. 370]

ANDERSON, WILLIAM HENRY (1816-1890), jesuit, son of John Lavicount Anderson [q.v.]; B.A. University College, Oxford, 1839; M.A., 1842; entered Roman catholic church, 1850; ordained priest at Osoott, 1853; secretary to (Cardinal) Manning in London, 1863; on mission in America, 1868-70; D.D. Rome, 1869; joined Society of Jesus, 1872; engaged in missionary work in England; published religious and other works. [Suppl. i. 45]

ANDERSON, ADAM (1692?-1765), historian of commerce; for forty years clerk in the South Sea House, ultimately becoming chief clerk of stock and new annuities; published (1764) history of commercial enterprise from earliest times to 1762. [i. 371]

ANDERSON, ADAM (d. 1846), physicist; rector of Perth academy, and afterwards professor of natural philosophy at St. Andrews; published articles on physics. [i. 371]

ANDERSON, ALEXANDER (1682-1619?), mathematician; taught mathematics in Paris early in seventeenth century; friend of Vieta, whose writings he edited, 1615-17; published mathematical works. [i. 371]

ANDERSON, ALEXANDER (d. 1811), botanist; superintendent of botanic garden, St. Vincent; went on botanising expedition to Guiana, 1791. [i. 372]

ANDERSON, ANDREW (d. 1861), champion Scottish draught-player; stocking-weaver; published book of 'Draughts', 1848. [i. 372]

ANDERSON, ANTHONY (d. 1693), theological writer and preacher; rector of Meibourne, Leicestershire, 1573-93; vicar of Stepney, and rector of Denge, Essex, 1587; sub-dean of Chapel Royal, 1592; published theological works of puritanic character. [i. 372]

ANDERSON, CHRISTOPHER (1782-1852), theological writer and preacher; originally in insurance office, but became baptist minister in Edinburgh; founded Gaelic School and Edinburgh Bible societies; supported Indian missions; published 'Annals of English Bible', 1836, and other works. [i. 373]

ANDERSON, SIR EDMUND (1630-1605), judge; educated at Lincoln College, Oxford; studied at Inner Temple, 1650; reader at his inn of court, 1667; double reader at Inner Temple, 1674; serjeant-at-law, 1677; serjeant-at-law to queen, 1679; knighted and made lord chief justice of common pleas, 1682; took part in trial of Babington, of Secretary Davison, and of Mary Queen of Scots, 1586, and in the trials of Perrot, 1690, Earl of Essex, 1601, and Raleigh, 1603; showed great severity towards puritans, and notably John Udall. [i. 373]

ANDERSON, GEORGE (fl. 1740), mathematician; friend of the mathematician William Jones, whose letters to him were published, 1841. [i. 376]

ANDERSON, GEORGE (1760-1796), accountant; of humble origin; educated and sent by friends to Wadham College, Oxford; M.A., 1784; took deacon's orders, but obtained post in board of control, to which he ultimately became accountant-general; translated Archimedes's 'Arenarius', 1784. [i. 376]

ANDERSON, SIR GEORGE WILLIAM (1791-1867), Indian civil servant; employed chiefly on judicial duties in Bombay civil service, 1806-31; framed 'Bombay Code of 1827'; principal collector and political agent of Southern Mahratta districts, 1831; Bombay member of Indian law commission, 1835-8; member of council of governor of Bombay, 1838; governor of Bombay, 1841-2; knighted and made C.B.; governor of Mauritius, 1849; K.C.B. and (1880-5) governor of Ceylon. [i. 377]

ANDERSON, JAMES (1662-1728), genealogist and antiquary; M.A. Edinburgh, 1680; writer to the signet, 1691; published, 1705, 'An Historical Essay showing that the Crown and Kingdom of Scotland is Imperial and Independent,' in which documents, cited in a pamphlet by William Atwood on the supremacy of the crown of England over that of Scotland, were shown to be forgeries; rewarded by Scottish parliament; devoted himself to collecting facsimiles of Scottish charters and other muniments, for which work money was voted by the Scottish parliament, but never paid, the parliament terminating it at the union; postmaster-general for Scotland, 1715; retained office for only eighteen months, but continued to draw salary; his facsimiles, published 1729 under title of 'Diplomata'; also published 'Collections relating to Mary Queen of Scots.' [i. 378]

ANDERSON, JAMES (1680?-1739), preacher; brother of Adam Anderson [q.v.]; educated at Aberdeen; minister of presbyterian churches in Swallow Street, London, 1710, and Lisle Street, Leicester Fields, 1734. Published sermons, works on history, freemasonry, and other subjects. [i. 380]

ANDERSON, JAMES (1739-1808), economist; after age of fifteen managed farms near Edinburgh and in Aberdeenshire; published essays on agriculture; LL.D. Aberdeen, 1780; advocated protection of Scottish fisheries, provoking remonstrance from Bentham, 1783; employed by Pitt to survey fisheries, 1784; retired to Isleworth, 1797; published many economic works. [i. 381]

ANDERSON, JAMES (d. 1809), botanist; physician-general of East India Company, Madras, where he attempted to introduce silk cultivation and interested himself in plants of commercial value. [i. 382]

ANDERSON, JAMES (1760-1835), navy captain; served in American and first French revolutionary wars; commander, 1806; post-captain, 1812; sent to Quebec, but returned, mistrusting the capabilities of his ship; court-martialled and acquitted. [i. 382]

ANDERSON, SIR JAMES CALEB (1792-1861), inventor; son of John Anderson (A. 1816) [q. v.]; created baronet, 1813, in appreciation of his father's services to Ireland; patented inventions in machinery. [i. 382]

ANDERSON, JAMES ROBERTSON (1811-1895), actor; appeared with Macready at Covent Garden as Florizel ('Winter's Tale'), 1837, and subsequently played Biron ('Love's Labour's Lost'), Romeo, Iago, and Cassio; seen as Othello, Orlando, Faulconbridge, Posthumus, Antony ('Julius Caesar') and 'Antony and Cleopatra', Richard I, and Mercutio, at Drury Lane, which theatre he managed, 1849-51; joint-manager of the Surrey, 1863; wrote a few dramas. [Suppl. i. 46]

ANDERSON, JOHN (1668?-1721), theologian; minister of Dumbarton, and (1720) of Ramshorn (now St. David's) Church, Glasgow; took active part in controversy between episcopacy and presbyterianism, and published works in the presbyterian interest. [i. 382]

ANDERSON, JOHN (1736-1796), natural philosopher; officer in corps raised to resist Jacobite rebellion, 1745; studied at Glasgow; professor of oriental languages, 1756, and of natural philosophy, 1760; interested in practical applications of science. [i. 383]

ANDERSON, JOHN (A. 1799), wood-engraver; pupil of Thomas Bewick; engraved blocks for George Samuel's illustrations of 'Grove Hill', a poem. [i. 384]

ANDERSON, JOHN (d. 1804), physician to General Sea-bathing Infirmary, Margate; M.D. Edinburgh; F.S.A. [i. 384]

ANDERSON, JOHN (A. 1816), founder of Fermoyle; of humble origin; established himself as provision exporter, Cork, 1780; purchased land on estate of Fermoyle, Munster; built town of Fermoyle and opened and improved roads in Ireland; refused baronetcy, which was, however, conferred on his son, James Caleb Anderson [q. v.], 1813. [i. 384]

ANDERSON, JOHN (A. 1825), genealogist; writer to the signet; secretary to Scottish Society of Antiquaries; wrote history of family of Frisell or Fraser, 1825. [i. 385]

ANDERSON, JOHN (1789-1832), genealogist; L.R.O.S. Edinburgh; surgeon to Lanarkshire militia, and to Duke of Hamilton, the history of whose family he published, 1825-7. [i. 385]

ANDERSON, JOHN (1795-1845), diplomatic agent; entered service of East India Company, 1813; after holding various appointments was 'senior merchant,' secretary to government, and Malay translator, 1827; agent to governor of Pulo Penang, 1823; engaged in mercantile duties in London, where he died; published works relating to Eastern policy and commerce. [i. 386]

ANDERSON, JOHN (1805-1855), missionary; educated at Edinburgh; prizeman in Latin and moral philosophy; ordained minister of Scottish church and sent as missionary to Madras, 1836; established Madras Christian College; on disruption of Church of Scotland joined Free Church and carried on mission in connection with that church, 1843; especially successful in regard to female education; died at Madras. [i. 386]

ANDERSON, JOHN (1833-1900), naturalist; M.D. Edinburgh, 1862; assisted in founding Royal Physical Society, Edinburgh; professor of natural history in Free Church College, Edinburgh; curator of Indian museum, Calcutta, 1865; accompanied scientific expeditions to Yunnan, 1867, Burma, 1875-6, and the Mergui archipelago, 1881-2, and published accounts of journeys; F.R.S., 1879; honorary LL.D. Edinburgh, 1886; F.L.S.; F.S.A.; professor of comparative anatomy, medical school, Calcutta; returned to London, 1886; contributed to 'Proceedings' of various learned societies, and published several works. [Suppl. i. 46]

ANDERSON, JOHN HENRY (1816-1874), conjurer and actor; known as 'Wizard of the North'; occupied Covent Garden theatre when it was burnt down, 1866. [i. 387]

ANDERSON, JOSEPH (1789-1877), lieutenant-colonel; ensign, 1805; lieutenant-colonel, 1812; served in Australia and India; military commander and civil governor of penal settlement, Norfolk Island; squatter, 1848, and member of legislative council, Victoria, 1852. [i. 387]

ANDERSON, LIONEL, alias MURSON (d. 1680), Roman catholic priest; tried, with seven others, on unsubstantiated charge of receiving orders from see of Rome; condemned, hanged, drawn, and quartered. [i. 387]

ANDERSON, LUCY (1790-1878), pianist; played regularly at principal concerts after 1818; introduced into England many great works by Beethoven, Hummel, and other composers. [i. 388]

ANDERSON, PATRICK (1576-1624), Scottish jesuit; educated in Scotland; entered Society of Jesus, Rome, 1597; missionary to Scotland, 1609; first jesuit rector of Scots College, Rome, 1615; was betrayed and imprisoned in Edinburgh when revisiting Scotland; liberated; wrote theological works. [i. 389]

ANDERSON, PATRICK (A. 1618-1635), physician; author of a history of Scotland and several medical works. [i. 389]

ANDERSON, ROBERT (A. 1668-1696), mathematician and silk-weaver; experimented with view of improving gunnery, after 1671; wrote scientific works chiefly relating to firearms. [i. 390]

ANDERSON, ROBERT (1750-1830), editor and biographer of British poets; intended for ministry, but took to medicine; M.D. Edinburgh; devoted himself to literature; edited 'Complete Edition of Poets of Great Britain,' 1792-5, and separate editions of various authors; for a time edited 'Edinburgh Magazine'; among first to recognise genius of the poet Campbell. [i. 390]

ANDERSON, ROBERT (1770-1833), Cumbrian poet; educated at charity and quaker schools; apprenticed to pattern drawer in Carlisle; his first poem, entitled 'Lucy Gray,' probably suggested Wordsworth's 'She dwelt among the untrodden ways'; published ballads in Cumbrian dialect, 1805; fell into habits of intemperance, and died in extreme poverty. [i. 391]

ANDERSON, THOMAS (1832-1870), botanist; M.D. Edinburgh, 1853; entered Bengal medical service, Calcutta, 1854; director of Calcutta botanic garden; organised and superintended Bengal forest department, 1864; left an incomplete work on Indian flora. [i. 392]

ANDERSON, THOMAS (1819-1874), chemist; Hope prizeman, 1839-40, and M.D. Edinburgh, 1841; studied on continent; F.R.S. Edinburgh, 1845; regius professor of chemistry, Glasgow, 1852; gained high honours from English and Scottish scientific societies; conducted experiments in organic and agricultural chemistry. [i. 392]

ANDERSON, WALTER (d. 1800), historian; for fifty years minister of Chirnside, Berwickshire; wrote historical works. [i. 393]

ANDERSON, WILLIAM (d. 1778), surgeon and naturalist; accompanied Captain Cook as surgeon's mate, 1772-5, and later as naturalist; contributed observations to Cook's 'Voyages.' [i. 393]

ANDERSON, WILLIAM (1787-1837), Scottish painter; exhibited pictures, chiefly of marine subjects, at Royal Academy, 1787 to 1814. [i. 393]

ANDERSON, WILLIAM (1766-1846), gardener at Edinburgh; curator of botanic gardens of Society of Apothecaries, Chelsea; F.L.S., 1815. [i. 393]

ANDERSON, WILLIAM (1806-1866), miscellaneous writer; brother of John Anderson (1789-1832) [q. v.]; entered lawyer's office, Edinburgh; took to journalism; published volumes of verse and prose; in London, 1836-42; produced 'Gift of All Nations,' an annual; chief sub-editor of 'Glasgow Daily Mail,' 1845; compiled various works, including 'Scottish Nation,' 1869-63. [i. 394]

ANDERSON, WILLIAM (1799-1873), Scottish preacher; pastor of congregation in John Street, Glasgow, 1822 till death; LL.D. Glasgow, 1850; advocated separation of church and state, and political and social reforms; published pamphlets and theological books. [i. 394]

ANDERSON, SIR WILLIAM (1835-1898), director-general of ordnance; born in St. Petersburg, where, and at King's College, London, he was educated; president of Institution of Civil Engineers, Ireland, 1865; designed gun and turret mountings of the Monitor type for British and Russian governments; designed machinery for manufacture of cordite, c. 1888; director-general of ordnance factories, 1889; M.I.C.E., 1889, vice-president, 1896; F.R.S., 1891; K.C.B., 1897; honorary D.O.L. Durham, 1889; published scientific writings. [Suppl. i. 47]

ANDERSON, WILLIAM (1842-1900), anatomist; educated at City of London School; F.R.C.S., 1869; surgical registrar and assistant demonstrator of anatomy, St. Thomas's Hospital, 1871; professor of anatomy and surgery at Imperial Naval Medical College, Tokio, 1873-80; joined surgical staff of St. Thomas's, 1880, and was surgeon, 1891; professor of anatomy at Royal Academy, 1891. Published works on Japanese and Chinese art, his collections of which were made over to the British Museum, 1892. [Suppl. i. 48]

ANDERTON, HENRY (1630-1665?), painter; pupil of Streeter; executed portraits of Charles II and many of his courtiers. [i. 395]

ANDERTON, JAMES (fl. 1624), Roman catholic controversialist; probably a priest; published between 1608 and 1624, under name of 'John Brekeley, Priest', learned works, including 'The Protestants Apologie for the Roman Church', in which he quoted passages from protestant writers admitting claims of the Roman church. [i. 395]

ANDERTON, LAURENCE, alias SCROOP (1577-1643), jesuit; B.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1597; entered Society of Jesus, Rome, 1604, and worked as missionary in England; published theological works. [i. 396]

ANDRE, JOHN (1761-1780), major; born and educated at Geneva; came to England; was befriended by Miss Seward at Lichfield; entered army, served in America, and was captured at St. John's, 1775; on release was aide-de-camp successively to General Grey and Sir Henry Clinton; adjutant-general; entrusted with secret negotiations with Benedict Arnold, who was plotting betrayal of West Point to British; captured by Americans and hanged as spy. A monument was erected to his memory in Westminster Abbey. [i. 397]

ANDREAS or ANDRÉ, BERNARD (fl. 1600), poet and historian; Augustinian friar; Frenchman by birth; came to England with or shortly before Henry VII; poet laureate; tutor to Prince Arthur; presented to parish of Guisnes, near Calais, 1600; received benefice of Higham, 1601; wrote an incomplete life of Henry VII, also other works in verse and prose. [i. 398]

ANDREE, JOHN (1699?-1785), physician; M.D. Rheims, 1739; L.O.P., 1741; a founder of London Hospital, of which he was first physician, 1740-64; wrote medical works. [i. 399]

ANDREE, JOHN, the younger (fl. 1790), surgeon; son of John Andree (1699?-1785) [q. v.]; surgeon to Magdalen hospital, 1766, to Finsbury dispensary, 1781, and to St. Clement Danes workhouse, 1784; M.D., c. 1798; one of first to operate successfully for croup of the larynx; published medical works. [i. 399]

ANDREW, JAMES, LL.D. (1774?-1833), schoolmaster; established military academy at Addiscombe, and on its purchase by East India Company was appointed headmaster and professor of mathematics, 1809. [i. 400]

ANDREWE, LAURENCE (fl. 1510-1537), translator and printer; native of Calais; practised as printer in London, and produced scientific works translated by himself. [i. 400]

ANDREWE, THOMAS (fl. 1604), poetical writer; served as soldier in Low Countries; wrote 'The Unmasking of a Female Machiavell', 1604. [i. 400]

ANDREWES, GERRARD (1760-1825), divine; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1779; D.D., 1809; held living of St. James's, Piccadilly, 1802; dean of Canterbury, 1809. [i. 401]

ANDREWES, LANOELOT (1556-1626), bishop of Winchester; educated at Merchant Taylors' and Pembroke Hall, Cambridge; fellow of Pembroke and of Jesus College, Oxford; received holy orders, 1580; chaplain to Earl of Huntingdon; obtained living of St. Giles's, Cripplegate, 1589; prebendary of St. Paul's; master of Pembroke till 1608; chaplain to Whitgift and chaplain in ordinary to the queen; dean of Westminster, 1601; bishop of Chichester, 1606, of Ely, 1609, and of Winchester, 1619; dean of Chapel Royal, 1619; privy councillor for England, 1609, and for Scotland, 1617; took part in Hampton Court conference, 1604; first on list of divines appointed to make 'authorised version' of bible, 1611; renowned for his patristic learning; wrote theological works. [i. 401]

ANDREWS, EUSEBIUS (d. 1650), royalist; secretary to Lord Capel; barrister; joined king's army, and after surrender of Worcester, 1646, returned to his legal practice; became involved in a bogus plot arranged by Barnard, a parliamentary spy; condemned after sixteen weeks' imprisonment, and beheaded on Tower Hill. [i. 405]

ANDREWS, GEORGE (fl. 1776), barrister; called to bar, 1740; published, 1764, reports of king's bench cases, 1737-40. [i. 406]

ANDREWS, HENRY (1743-1820), astronomical calculator to 'Nautical', 'Moore's' and other almanacs; successively domestic servant at Sleaford and Lincoln, usher at Stilton, and bookseller and schoolmaster at Royston. [i. 406]

ANDREWS, HENRY C. (fl. 1799-1828), botanical artist; published botanical works, for which he engraved illustrations, 1799-1828. [i. 406]

ANDREWS, JAMES PETTIT (1737?-1797), antiquary and historian; served in Berkshire militia; entered legal profession; police court magistrate, Queen Square, Westminster, 1792, till death; published translations and works, principally historical. [i. 407]

ANDREWS, JOHN (fl. 1615), poet; M.A. Trinity College, Oxford; probably curate of Beswick Bassett, Wiltshire; published the underrated poem, 'Anatomie of Baseness', 1615, and several religious works. [i. 407]

ANDREWS, JOHN (1736-1809), author; published, 1774-1806, 'History of the War with America, France, Spain, and Holland, 1776-83' (1786-8), and other historical writings. [i. 408]

ANDREWS, MILES PETER (d. 1814), dramatist; son of a drysalter of Watling Street; owned powder magazine at Dartford; M.P. for Bewdley; occupied mansion in Green park; wrote several plays, produced at Drury Lane, Haymarket, and Covent Garden, 1774-96. [i. 408]

ANDREWS, ROBERT (d. 1766?), translator of 'Virgil' into blank verse, 1766; successively minister of presbyterian or protestant dissenting congregations at Lydgate, Rusholme, and Bridgnorth. [i. 409]

ANDREWS, THOMAS (1813-1885), professor of chemistry; educated at Belfast academy and Glasgow University; studied chemistry under Dumas at Paris; received diploma of Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh; M.D., 1835; vice-president of Northern (now Queen's) College, Belfast, 1845; professor of chemistry, Queen's College, Belfast, 1849-79; F.R.S., 1849; honorary F.R.S. Edinburgh, 1870; LL.D. Edinburgh, 1871, Trinity College, Dublin, 1873, and Glasgow, 1877; D.Sc., 1879, Queen's University of Ireland, where an Andrews studentship was established in his memory. He discovered the existence of a critical temperature above which gas cannot be converted into a liquid by pressure. [Suppl. i. 49]

ANDREWS, WILLIAM (fl. 1656-1683), author of astrological works, including 'Annus Prodigiosus', 1672. [i. 409]

ANDREWS, WILLIAM (1809-1880), secretary and subsequently president of Dublin Natural History Society; devoted his attention chiefly to botany and marine ichthyology. [i. 409]

ANDREWS, WILLIAM EUSEBIUS (1773-1837), journalist and author; of humble parents, who were convert to Roman catholic faith; apprenticed to printers of 'Norfolk Chronicle', which he subsequently managed; went to London and started, to vindicate Roman catholic principles, various journals, of which the 'Orthodox Journal and Catholic Monthly Intelligencer' appeared at intervals and in different forms for many years. His published works are chiefly connected with religious controversies. [i. 409]

ANDROS, SIR EDMUND (1637-1714), colonial governor; gentleman in ordinary to queen of Bohemia, 1660; major in Rupert's dragoons, 1672; balliff of Guernsey, 1674;

knighted, 1678; governor of province of New York, 1674-1681, of New England, 1686-9, of Virginia 1692-8 (recalled in each case owing to disputes arising from severity of his rule), and of Jersey, 1704-6; died in London. [i. 411]

ANEURIN (fl. 603?), Welsh poet; identified by some with Gildas the historian; son of Caw ab Geraint, lord of Owyn Cawliwryd; educated at St. Cadoc's College, Llan-cavan; probably present as bard and priest at battle of Cattraeth, when he was captured; on being released returned to Wales, and probably made acquaintance of Taliesin; murdered by Eiddyn ab Einygvan; wrote 'Gododin,' an epic poem on defeat of Britons by Saxons at Cattraeth. [i. 411]

ANGAS, CALEB (1782-1860), Yorkshire agriculturist; contributed important letters to the 'Sun,' advocating free trade. [i. 413]

ANGAS, GEORGE FIFE (1789-1879), merchant and shipowner till 1833; commissioner for formation of colony of South Australia, 1834; having suffered losses, emigrated to Adelaide, 1851, where he died; founded National and Provincial and other banks. [i. 413]

ANGAS, GEORGE FRENCH (1822-1886), artist and zoologist; joined several of (Sir) George Grey's expeditions, and subsequently published sketches and accounts of travels in Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa; director and secretary of government museum, Sydney; contributed in England tales of adventure to various journals; fellow of the Linnean, Zoological, and Royal Geographical societies. [Suppl. i. 51]

ANGAS, WILLIAM HENRY (1781-1832), sailor missionary; spent early years at sea; became baptist minister, 1817, and sailor missionary, 1822. [i. 413]

ANGEL, JOHN (fl. 1555), chaplain to King Philip and Queen Mary. [i. 413]

ANGEL or ANGELL, JOHN (d. 1655), preacher; graduated at Magdalen Hall, Oxford; was ordained and became evangelical preacher; town preacher and lecturer, Leicester, c. 1630; suspended for preaching without licence, 1634; lecturer at Grantham, 1650-5. [i. 413]

ANGELIS, PETER (1688-1734), painter of landscapes and conversation pieces; born at Dunkirk; having worked at Antwerp, where he became member of Painters Guild of St. Luke, was in London, c. 1719-28; went to Rome, and finally settled at Rennes, Brittany. [i. 414]

ANGELL, JOHN (fl. 1758), stenographer, of Dublin; published system of shorthand, being a variation of Mason's system, 1758. [i. 414]

ANGELO, DOMENICO (1716-1802), fencing-master, named originally DOMENICO ANGELO MALVOLTI TRAMONDO; born at Leghorn; studied horsemanship at Paris; migrated to England, c. 1755; patronised by English noblemen; opened in Soho a fencing-school, which became very fashionable; published, in 1763, 'L'Ecole d'Armes'; later retired to Eton. [lvii. 183]

ANGELO, HENRY (1760-1839?), fencing-master; son of Domenico Angelo [q.v.]; became, c. 1785, head of his father's fencing-school; published 'Reminiscences' (1830) and 'Angelo's Pic-Nic' (1834). [lvii. 183]

ANGELO, HENRY, the younger (1780-1852), fencing-master and superintendent of sword-exercise in the army; son of Henry Angelo [q.v.]. [lvii. 183]

ANGELUS À SANTO FRANCISCO (1601-1678) (religious pseudonym of RICHARD MASON, D.D.), Franciscan; priest of restored English province, 1628; successively filled various offices in his order; was provincial 1659-62; retired to St. Bonaventure's convent, Douay, 1678; wrote several theological works. [i. 415]

ANGELUS, CHRISTOPHER (d. 1638), Greek scholar; native of Peloponnesus; came to England to escape persecution, 1608; studied at Cambridge and Balliol College, Oxford; published works in Greek, Latin, and English. [i. 415]

ANGERSTEIN, JOHN JULIUS (1785-1828), merchant, philanthropist, and amateur of fine art; underwriter in Lloyd's, 1766; through his influence 'Old Lloyd's' coffee house was abandoned for the present establishment; devised systems of state lotteries; at various times head of largest trading firms in city; besides other philanthropic works, re-established Veterinary College; acquired collection of pictures, which formed nucleus of National Gallery. [i. 416]

ANGERVILLE, RICHARD (1281-1345). [See BURY, RICHARD DE.]

ANGIER, JOHN (1605-1677), nonconformist divine; B.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge; came under influence of puritans; made pastor of Ringley, 1630; ordained by bishop of Bangor, but without subscription; suspended from Ringley; pastor of Denton, 1632 till death; twice excommunicated; signed the 'Harmonious Consent,' 1648; imprisoned for opposition to Commonwealth; escaped persecution under Act of Uniformity, owing to esteem in which he was held; published sermons. [i. 417]

ANGIERS or ANGIER, PAUL (fl. 1749), engraver; pupil of John Tinney. [i. 419]

ANGLESEY, first MARQUIS OF (1768-1864). [See PAGET, HENRY WILLIAM.]

ANGLESEY, EARLS OF. [See VILLIERS, CHRISTOPHER, first EARL, 1593?-1630; ANNESLEY, ARTHUR, first EARL of the second creation, 1614-1686; ANNESLEY, RICHARD, sixth EARL, 1694-1761.]

ANGIUS, THOMAS (1593-1676). [See WHITE, THOMAS.]

ANGUS, EARLS OF. [See UMFRVILLE, GILBERT DE, 1244?-1307; DOUGLAS, GEORGE, first EARL, 1390?-1403; DOUGLAS, WILLIAM, second EARL, 1398?-1437; DOUGLAS, GEORGE, fourth EARL, 1412?-1462; DOUGLAS, ARCHIBALD, fifth EARL, 1449?-1514; DOUGLAS, ARCHIBALD, sixth EARL, 1489?-1557; DOUGLAS, ARCHIBALD, eighth EARL, 1555-1588; DOUGLAS, WILLIAM, ninth EARL, 1533-1591; DOUGLAS, WILLIAM, tenth EARL, 1554-1611; DOUGLAS, WILLIAM, eleventh EARL, 1589-1660.]

ANGUS, LORD (1609-1665). [See DOUGLAS, ARCHIBALD, EARL OF ORMOND.]

ANGUS, JOHN (1724-1801), independent minister at Bishop's Stortford, Hertfordshire, 1748-1801. [i. 419]

ANLABY, WILLIAM (1562?-1597), Roman catholic missionary; educated as protestant, but was converted, and entered college of Douay, 1574; ordained, 1577; missionary in Yorkshire; hanged as seminary priest. [i. 419]

ANNALY, BARON (1718-1784). [See GORE, JOHN.]

ANNAND, WILLIAM (1633-1689), dean of Edinburgh; B.A. University College, Oxford, 1655; ordained by an Irish bishop, and M.A., 1656; Anglican minister at Weston-in-the-Green; vicar of Leighton Buzzard, 1681; chaplain to Earl of Middleton; minister of Tolbooth church, 1663, and, later, of Tron church, Edinburgh; dean of Edinburgh, 1676; published religious works. [i. 419]

ANNANDALE, first MARQUIS OF (d. 1721). [See JOHNSTONE, WILLIAM.]

ANNE OF BOHEMIA (1366-1394), first queen of Richard II; eldest daughter of Emperor Charles IV, by fourth wife, Elizabeth of Pomerania; arrangements for her marriage made by Earl of Kent and two others, 1379, but her arrival was delayed by Wat Tyler's rebellion; she eventually reached London and was married, 1382; Richard II was devoted to her, but the expenses of the household, largely increased by her Bohemian retinue, had much to do with the struggles between Richard and parliament; in 1392 she acted as mediatrix between king and city of London, which had refused the king a loan; died childless at Sheen, of the pestilence. [i. 420]

ANNE (1456-1485), queen of Richard III; daughter of Richard Neville, earl of Warwick, 'the king-maker,' and of Anne, heiress of the former earls, of the Beauchamp family; betrothed at Angers, 1470, to Edward, prince of Wales, son of Henry VI, to be married in the event of Warwick's expedition to restore Henry VI being successful, an arrangement which the death of Warwick and Prince Edward prevented; married Richard, duke of Gloucester, 1474, and when he usurped the throne, 1483, became queen; survived by less than a year her only son, who was born c. 1476, and died 1484. [i. 423]

ANNE (1507-1556), second queen of Henry VIII; daughter of Sir Thomas Boleyn, afterwards Earl of Wiltshire and Ormonde; 'one of the French queen's women,'

c. 1519-22, having, probably, gone to France with her father when he was ambassador; returned to England, 1522; corresponded with Henry VIII, who had become attached to her; became Henry VIII's mistress after 1527, the king having instituted proceedings with a view to his divorce from Catherine of Arragon; secretly married in January 1533. Catherine's marriage being declared null, Anne was crowned on Whit Sunday, and her daughter, Princess Elizabeth, was born in September. In 1536 Henry, whose passion had gradually died, charged her with criminal intercourse with several persons, including her own brother, and she was condemned to death; whereupon her marriage being declared invalid she was executed.

[i. 425]

ANNE OF OLEVES (1515-1557), fourth queen of Henry VIII; daughter of John, duke of Olevs, and Mary, only daughter of William, duke of Juliers; her father being the most powerful supporter of protestantism in west of Germany, she was selected by Cromwell as wife for Henry on death of Jane Seymour; arrangements for the match made in 1539; married at Greenwich, 1540. The king soon wearied of her, and a catholic reaction gave him an excuse a few months later for having the marriage annulled by parliament; Anne was pensioned on condition of remaining in England, and on her death was buried in Westminster Abbey.

[i. 429]

ANNE OF DENMARK (1574-1619), queen of James I; daughter of Frederick II of Denmark and Norway, and Sophia, daughter of Ulric III, duke of Mecklenburg; was born at Skanderborg, Jutland; negotiations concerning her marriage begun in 1585, but Elizabeth, who was keeping James's mother, Mary Queen of Scots, in confinement, refused to sanction it; on the execution of Mary, the Scottish nobility decided that the match should be concluded, 1587, and after some delay Anne was married by proxy at Copenhagen, 20 Aug. 1589, and to James in person 23 Nov. following at Oslo, Norway; she arrived with him at Leith, 1 May 1590; crowned with James at Windsor, 1603, and took up residence in London, 1604; took great interest in the court entertainments, and personally appeared in masks by Jonson and Dekker; fond of progresses through the country, that to Bath in 1613 being most notable. She largely indulged a taste for building, and consequently, in spite of many parliamentary grants, died heavily in debt. Her inclination towards the Roman church occasioned, 1604, a proclamation banishing jesuits and seminary priests from the kingdom, but, though she is said to have declared herself a catholic, she died professing protestantism.

[i. 431]

ANNE (1665-1714), queen of Great Britain and Ireland; born at St. James's Palace, London; second daughter of James II, by his first wife, Anne Hyde, daughter of Earl of Clarendon; educated in protestant faith; confirmed by Dr. Lake, 1676, together with her elder sister, Mary (who married Prince of Orange, 1677); proposals for her marriage with Prince George of Hanover entertained but abandoned, 1681; married George, prince of Denmark, 1683; several children were born to them, but all died young; joined William of Orange on the deposition of James, and by the Declaration of Right, 1688, had the crown settled on her and her posterity after that of William's wife, Mary; ascended the throne, 8 March 1702, and gave the Duchess of Marlborough, with whom she had been intimate from an early age, high appointments in the royal household, which the duchess held till 1711, when she was superseded by Mrs. Masham, her cousin; Anne's husband, Prince George, died 1708. Throughout her reign the queen favoured tory and high church principles, regarding it as her right to appoint her ministers according to her own choice; and the final estrangement of the Duchess of Marlborough was largely due to the duke's persistent advice to replace tory ministers by whigs, on the ground that the tory ministry was unfavourable to the war of the Spanish succession. She evinced particular interest in the church, and endeavoured to take the ecclesiastical patronage of the crown into her own hands. In 1704 she granted the crown revenues from tithes and first-fruits to form, for the benefit of the church, a fund known as 'Queen Anne's Bounty,' and, in 1711, an act was passed on her recommendation for the building of fifty churches in London. In 1703 Anne recognised Charles III, second son of Emperor Leopold I, as king of Spain, and in the following years the English armies fighting in defence of his claim won several glorious victories; the war was closed by the treaty of Utrecht, 1713. The most important constitutional feature of Anne's reign was the Act of Union with Scotland, passed 1707. She was interred in Henry VII's chapel, Westminster. Her portrait, painted by Kneller, is at Windsor.

[i. 441]

ANNESLEY, ALEXANDER (d. 1813), London solicitor and member of Middle Temple; wrote legal and political works.

[ii. 1]

ANNESLEY, ARTHUR, first EARL OF ANGLESEY (1614-1686), son of Sir Francis Annesley [q. v.]; graduated at Magdalen College, Oxford, 1634; entered Lincoln's Inn; made the grand tour; sent to Ireland by parliament to defeat Ormond's negotiations with the Scots in Ulster, 1645 and 1647; member for Dublin in Richard Cromwell's parliament, 1658; commissioned by Charles II to treat with parliament; made Earl of Anglesey 1661; president of council of state, February 1660; M.P. for Carmarthen in Convention parliament, and after the Restoration, privy councillor; vice-treasurer and receiver-general for Ireland, 1660-7; treasurer of navy, 1667; lord privy seal, 1672; dismissed for adverse criticism of the king's government, 1682; wrote historical and other works.

[ii. 1]

ANNESLEY, SIR FRANCIS, bart., BARON MOUNT-NORRIS and first VISCOUNT VALENTIA (1585-1660); held several small offices of state in Dublin, 1606; took leading part in colonisation of Ulster, 1608; member for county Armagh in Irish parliament, 1613; knighted, 1616; principal secretary of state for Ireland, 1618; baronet, 1620; vice-treasurer and receiver-general of Ireland, 1628; raised to Irish peerage, 1628; 'treasurer-at-war' in addition to other offices, 1632; quarrelled with Sir Thomas Wentworth, afterwards Earl of Strafford, who became lord-deputy, 1633; charged (1634 and 1635) with malversation and other offences, and sentenced to death; deprived of offices and imprisoned; his sentence declared unjust by the commons, 1641; became Viscount Valentia by reversion, 1642; clerk of signet in Ireland, 1648; secretary of state at Dublin under Henry Cromwell.

[ii. 5]

ANNESLEY, JAMES (1715-1760), claimant; son of Lord Altham, by his wife, or by a woman called Juggy Landy; lived with his father as legitimate son for some years, but afterwards shifted for himself. On death of Lord Altham (1727) his brother, afterwards Earl of Anglesey, succeeded to title, and contrived to get his nephew sent to America as a slave. Annesley entered navy (1740), returned to England, and taking legal action against his uncle (1743) was declared legitimate, but being without funds died before the case could be prosecuted further.

[ii. 5]

ANNESLEY, RICHARD, sixth EARL OF ANGLESEY (1694-1761), succeeded his brother as fifth Baron Altham, 1727, and his cousin as sixth Earl of Anglesey, seventh Viscount Valentia, seventh Baron Mountnorris, and Baron Newport-Pagnell, 1737; married (1715) Anne Prest or Prust, who died without issue, 1741; lived with Ann Simpson (1737-40), and c. 1741, till death, with Juliana Donovan (whom he married, 1752); both wives on his death (1761) claimed the titles of Valentia and Mountnorris for their children. The Countess Juliana won her case, and her son Arthur succeeded, but was unable to substantiate his claim to the titles of Anglesey and Newport-Pagnell. James Annesley [q. v.] unsuccessfully laid claim to title of Altham in 1743.

[ii. 6]

ANNESLEY, SAMUEL (1620?-1696), puritan non-conformist; graduated B.A. and M.A. Queen's College, Oxford; ordained; chaplain in Globe man-of-war to Earl of Warwick's fleet, 1644; obtained living of Cliffe; preached before the House of Commons, 1648; LL.D. Oxford; lecturer of St. Paul's, 1667; vicar of St. Giles, Cripplegate, 1653; ejected, 1662; preached semi-privately, and kept a meeting-house in Little St. Helen's.

[ii. 7]

ANNET, PETER (1693-1769), deistical writer; schoolmaster; lost his employment through bitter attacks on the apologetic writings of Bishop Sherlock and others, c. 1744; perhaps author of 'History of the Man after God's own Heart,' 1761; attacked Old Testament in 'Free Enquirer,' 1761; tried for blasphemous libel, and was condemned to imprisonment, pillory, and hard labour, 1763; his writings form a link between the deism of the early eighteenth century and that of the revolutionary period.

[ii. 9]

ANNING, MARY (1799-1847), discoverer of the ichthyosaurus; daughter of a carpenter and vendor of natural curiosities; discovered, 1811, skeleton of ichthyosaurus in cliff near Lyme, and subsequently the first specimens of plesiosaurus and pterodactylus. [Suppl. i. 51]

ANSELL, RICHARD (1815-1885), animal painter; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1840; R.A., 1870; he three times gained the Heywood medal at Manchester exhibitions. [Suppl. i. 52]

ANSELL, CHARLES (1794-1881), actuary; employed in Atlas Assurance Company, 1808-64; consulting actuary to several companies; gave expert evidence before select parliamentary committees, 1841-53; published a work dealing with friendly societies from a scientific standpoint. [ii. 10]

ANSELL, GEORGE FREDERICK (1826-1880), inventor; studied medicine and chemistry, and became assistant to Dr. Hofmann at School of Mines; held post in mint, 1866-66; experimented, with valuable results, on dangers of fire-damp in mines. [ii. 10]

ANSELM, SAINT (1033-1109), archbishop of Canterbury; born at Aosta; educated in Abbey of St. Leger, near Aosta; travelled in Burgundy, France, and Normandy, and resided at Avranches, c. 1059; entered monastic order at Bec, 1060; prior, successor to Lanfranc, 1063-78; abbot, 1078-93; visited England soon after 1063, and was admitted by monks of Christ Church a member of their house, where he became acquainted with Eadmer, his biographer; called to deathbed of William the Conqueror at Rouen, but fell ill and did not recover before the king's death; reluctantly accepted the archbishopric of Canterbury from William II, who was lying ill at Gloucester; enthroned at Canterbury, 1093; consecrated, assisted by seven bishops, the church of the abbey erected by William I on field on which he had defeated Harold, 1064; applied for permission to go to Rome and receive his pallium from the pope, 1095; there being two rivals for the papacy, Urban and Clement, neither of whom William II had recognised, had, as abbot of Bec, recognised Urban and refused to withdraw his allegiance; a council, at which no definite decision was reached, held at Rockingham to decide between the claims of the king and the pope on his obedience; his deposition aimed at in the king's subsequent (unsuccessful) acknowledgment of Urban as pope; a form of reconciliation made by William with him, on which he received the pallium from the papal legate; obtained leave, with difficulty, to go to Rome in order to interest the pope in the condition of England, 1097; his estates seized by the king; received by the pope with honour, and promised assistance in his episcopal work, but not materially assisted, since delegates from William succeeded in influencing Urban; returned to England on death of William, 1100; obeying a papal decree, refused to consecrate prelates invested by Henry I; revisited Rome; thence went to Lyons, and remained there till the point in dispute with the king should be decided. The matter was finally settled, 1107, when the king ceded the right of investiture and Anselm promised that elected prelates should not be debarred from consecration on account of having done homage to the king. Anselm wrote many theological and philosophical works, including the famous 'Monologion,' 'Proslogion,' and 'Our Deus Homo.' [ii. 10]

ANSLAY, BRIAN (fl. 1521), yeoman of wine-cellar to Henry VIII; published 'Boke of the Cyte of Ladies,' 1521. [ii. 81]

ANSON, GEORGE, BARON ANSON (1697-1762), admiral; volunteer under Captain Chamberlen, 1712; midshipman and lieutenant under Sir John Norris in Baltic, 1716; second lieutenant under Sir George Byng, 1718-19; commanded sloop against Dutch smugglers, 1722; captain of frigate protecting commerce on Carolina coast, 1724; commander 1781; on Carolina coast, 1782-5; protected trade on west African coast and West Indies against French, 1787-9; commanded squadron in Pacific, 1740, and in spite of damage from storms inflicted considerable injuries on Spaniards; returned with rich prizes, having sailed round the world, 1744; went on half-pay as captain; rear-admiral, 1745; vice-admiral of Channel fleet, 1746; defeated French off Finisterre, 1747; raised to peerage; married Lady Elizabeth Yorke, daughter of lord chancellor, 1748; occupied with reforms connected with naval administration and dockyards; first lord of admiralty, 1761-6, and 1767-62;

last served at sea in blockade of Brest, 1758; admiral of fleet, 1761; died without issue. [ii. 81]

ANSON, GEORGE (1797-1857), general; served with 3rd guards at Waterloo; M.P., 1818; successively principal storekeeper and clerk of ordnance; held military commands in India, where he was commander-in-chief, 1856; died of cholera. [ii. 36]

ANSPACH, ELIZABETH, MARGRAVINE OF (1750-1828), dramatist; married William, afterwards sixth Earl of Craven, 1767; separated from him, 1783; travelled on continent, and subsequently lived with the margrave of Anspach, whom she married on the death of her husband, 1791; settled in England, 1792; died at Naples; wrote several plays produced at Drury Lane, Covent Garden, and elsewhere. [ii. 36]

ANSTED, DAVID THOMAS (1814-1880), geologist; fellow of Jesus College, Cambridge; professor of geology at King's College, London; assistant secretary to Geological Society, 1844-7; wrote works on geology and travel. [ii. 37]

ANSTER, JOHN (1793-1867), regius professor of civil law, Dublin; scholar of Trinity College, Dublin, 1814; published poems with translations from German, 1819; called to Irish bar, 1824; LL.D., 1826; published translation of first part of Goethe's 'Faust,' 1835; registrar to court of admiralty, Ireland, 1837; regius professor of civil law, Dublin, 1850; published second part of 'Faust,' 1864. [ii. 38]

ANSTEY, CHRISTOPHER (1724-1805), poet; educated at Eton; scholar and fellow of King's College, Cambridge, where he distinguished himself by his verses; in conjunction with Dr. Roberts, translated Gray's 'Elegy' into Latin, 1762; published 'New Bath Guide,' 1766; resided at Bath, 1770-1805; published occasional verses. [ii. 38]

ANSTEY, JOHN (d. 1819), poet; second son of Christopher Anstey [q. v.]; barrister of Lincoln's Inn; published humorous poem entitled 'The Pleader's Guide,' 1796. [ii. 39]

ANSTEY, THOMAS CHISHOLM (1816-1873), lawyer; educated at Wellington and University College, London; called to bar, 1839; became interested in the Oxford movement, and was converted to Roman catholicism; professor of law at Roman catholic college, Prior Park, Bath; took to politics as supporter of extreme section of O'Connell's followers; M.P. for Youghal, 1847-52; attorney-general of Hong Kong, 1854; his radical policy led to his suspension and recall, 1859; practised, except from 1866-8, at Bombay bar, till death; published many legal and political tracts. [ii. 40]

ANSTICE, JOSEPH (1808-1836), classical scholar; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; professor of classical literature, King's College, London, 1831-5. [ii. 41]

ANSTIE, FRANCIS EDMUND (1833-1874), physician; educated at King's College, London; M.R.C.S. and L.S.A., 1856; M.B. London, 1857; M.D., 1859; F.O.P., 1865; assistant-physician, Westminster Hospital, 1860, and full physician, 1873; first dean of Medical School for Women, 1874; for some years on editorial staff of 'Lancet'; influential in bringing about reforms in poor laws; contributed largely to medical journals and published several scientific works. [ii. 41]

ANSTIE, JOHN, the elder (1669-1744), Garter king of arms; educated at Exeter College, Oxford; entered Inner Temple, 1688; M.P. for St. Germans, 1702; deputy general to auditors of impost and commissioner of prizes, 1703; M.P. for St. Maw's, 1711-18, and for Lanncoston or Dunheved, 1714; received reversory patent for office of Garter, 1714; imprisoned for supposed intrigue with Pretender, 1715, and during his confinement the office of Garter, having become vacant, was given to Sir John Vanbrugh; cleared himself of charge of treason, and with great difficulty obtained post of Garter, 1718; published several heraldic works, and left large collections of manuscripts relating chiefly to heraldry. [ii. 48]

ANSTIE, JOHN, the younger (1708-1754), joint Garter king of arms, son of John Anstie [q. v.]; gentleman commoner, Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1728; joined his father in office of Garter, 1737; F.S.A., 1738; LL.D., 1749. [ii. 44]

ANSTRUTHER, SIR ALEXANDER (1769-1819), Anglo-Indian judge; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn; advocate-general, Madras, 1803; recorder of Bombay, and knighted, 1812; published reports of exchequer cases. [ii. 45]

ANSTRUTHER, SIR JOHN (1753-1811), politician, and Anglo-Indian judge; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1779; M.P. for Cockermonth, 1790-8; took part in impeachment of Warren Hastings; chief-justice of Bengal, and baronet, 1797; returned to England, 1806; privy councillor; M.P. for Kilkenny. [ii. 45]

ANSTRUTHER, ROBERT (1768-1809), general; educated at Westminster; ensign, 1788, lieutenant and captain, 1792, in Scots guards; served in Flanders, 1793-4; major and lieutenant-colonel in 88th regiment in West Indies, 1797; served as captain and lieutenant-colonel in guards in Helder expedition, 1799; quartermaster-general to Sir Ralph Abercromby in Mediterranean, 1800; colonel and deputy quartermaster-general in England; adjutant-general, Ireland; brigadier-general in Portugal, 1807; fought at Vimero and in the retreat from Toro, and died day before battle of Corunna. [ii. 45]

ANSTRUTHER, SIR WILLIAM, LORD (d. 1711), judge; M.P. for Pifeshire, 1681 and 1689-1707; sided with Prince of Orange; lord of session and privy councillor; baronet of Nova Scotia, 1694; lord of justiciary, 1704; published a volume of essays. [ii. 46]

ANTHONY, FRANCIS (1550-1623), empiric and chemical physician; M.A. Cambridge, 1574; perhaps M.D.; after 1600 was repeatedly fined and imprisoned for practising in London without license from College of Physicians, but finally succeeded in defying the college with the aid of friends at court; the efficacy of his chief remedy, aurum potable, he defended in several pamphlets. [ii. 47]

ANTHONY, JOHN (1586-1655), physician; son of Francis Anthony [q. v.]; M.D., 1619, Pembroke College, Cambridge; L.C.P., 1625; succeeded to his father's practice; wrote 'Comfort of the Soul,' published 1654. [ii. 48]

ANTON, ROBERT (fl. 1616), poetical writer; B.A. Magdalene College, Cambridge, 1610; published 'Philosophers Satyrs,' in verse, 1616. [ii. 48]

ANTRIM, MARQUIS OF (1609-1838). See MACDONNELL, RANDAL.]

ANTRIM, EARLS OF. [See MACDONNELL, SIR RANDAL, first EARL, d. 1636; MACDONNELL, RANDAL, second EARL, 1609-1683; MACDONNELL, ALEXANDER, third EARL, d. 1696 ?.]

APLIN, PETER (1753-1817), admiral; served in American war under Hyde Parker and Cornwallis; admiral. [ii. 48]

APPELLEY, CHARLES JAMES (1779-1843), sporting writer, known as 'Nimrod'; entered Rugby, 1790; cornet in Sir Watkin Wynn's ancient light British dragoons, 1798; having lost money in farming experiments, he became contributor to the 'Sporting Magazine,' 1822; member of staff of 'Sporting Review'; published a series of sporting memoirs and reminiscences. [Suppl. i. 53]

APPLETON, CHARLES EDWARD CUTTS BIRCH (1841-1879), man of letters; educated at Reading and St. John's College, Oxford; B.A., 1863; D.C.L., 1871; studied in Germany; founded 'The Academy,' 1869, and edited it till his death; visited America, 1875, and took up the question of international copyright; travelled for his health to Egypt, where he died. [ii. 48]

APPLETON, HENRY (fl. 1650-1654), captain in navy, and commodore; served in Mediterranean, in Dutch war (1652), in conjunction with Badley; caused Badley's defeat off Elba by neglecting to send reinforcements; defeated and captured by Dutch off Leghorn, 1653; ransomed, and deprived of his command. [ii. 49]

APPLEYARD, SIR MATTHEW (1608-1669), royalist military commander; knighted after taking of Leicester; M.P. for Headon. [ii. 50]

APPOLD, JOHN GEORGE (1800-1865), mechanician; in business at Finsbury as fur-skin dyer; brought out many scientific and mechanical inventions. [ii. 50]

APSLEY, first BARON (1714-1794). [See BATHURST, HENRY.]

APSLEY, SIR ALLEN (1669?-1630), lieutenant of the Tower; having been ruined at court by gambling, sailed with Essex to Cadiz, 1696; went to Ireland; became victualler of Munster, 1605, and to navy, 1610; lieutenant of Tower, 1617. [ii. 51]

APSLEY, SIR ALLEN (1616-1683), royalist leader; son of Sir Allen Apsley [q. v.]; educated at Merchant Taylors' and Trinity College, Oxford; M.A., 1663; commanded company of horse, 1642; royalist governor of Exeter and later of Barnstaple, which he surrendered to the parliamentarians, 1646; engaged with Sir John Berkeley in negotiations between king and army, 1647; appointed to various offices in royal household after 1660; colonel in Duke of York's army, 1667; M.P. for Thetford, 1661-1678; buried in Westminster Abbey; published a long poem, 'Order and Disorder,' 1679. [ii. 51]

AQUEPONTANUS (1532?-1596?). [See BRIDGE-WATER, JOHN.]

ARABELLA STUART (1575-1615), daughter of Charles Stuart, earl of Lennox, younger brother of Lord Darnley; next heir to English throne after James I; became engaged to William Seymour, who was also of royal descent; and the marriage was celebrated secretly, 1610; died in Tower. [ii. 53]

ARAM, EUGENE (1704-1759), criminal; with slight assistance educated himself till able to open a small school at Ramsgill, where he married; being suspected of complicity in a fraud practised by one Daniel Clark, he disappeared for some years, during which he continually prosecuted his studies; while school usher at Lyme Regis, 1758, was arrested on information of Houseman, an accomplice, on a charge of murdering Clark; condemned and executed, Houseman being sole witness; left philological writings of considerable value. [ii. 53]

ARBLAY, FRANCES (BURNLEY), MADAME D' (1752-1840), novelist, daughter of Dr. Burney; self-educated; published her first novel, 'Evelina,' anonymously (though her father soon divulged the secret), 1778; brought by its success to the notice of most of the literary personages of the day; published 'Cecilia,' with similar success, 1782; made the acquaintance of Mrs. Delaney, who procured her the appointment of second keeper of the queen's robes, 1786; being broken in health, obtained with difficulty permission to retire, 1790; married General d'Arblay, a French refugee in England, 1793; published 'Camilla,' 1796; joined her husband, who had endeavoured to obtain employment in Paris, 1802; returned to England, 1812; published her last novel, 'The Wanderer,' 1814; rejoined her husband in Paris, and retired to Belgium; passed the rest of her life in England, after the Waterloo campaign; edited her father's 'Memoirs,' 1832; published 'Diary and Letters,' 1842-6. [ii. 55]

ARBuckle, JAMES (1700-1734?), poet and essayist; published between 1719 and 1727 verses, letters, and essays, many of which had appeared in periodicals. [ii. 58]

ARBUTHNOT, ALEXANDER (1538-1583), Scottish divine and poet; educated at St. Andrews; studied civil law at Bourges; licensed minister, and appointed to living at Logie Buchan, 1568; principal of King's College, Aberdeen, 1569; received living of Arbuthnot, Kincardineshire; incurred King James VI's displeasure; being a zealous presbyterian, and having been appointed minister of St. Andrews, in 1583, was ordered to return to King's College, where he died, and was buried; published and left in manuscript, verse and prose works. [ii. 59]

ARBUTHNOT or ARBUTHNET, ALEXANDER (d. 1585), printer, of Edinburgh; with Thomas Bassandyne obtained permission to print first bible issued in Scotland, 1575, and in 1576 was, with his associate, granted exclusive rights of printing and selling for ten years; brought out the work (a reprint of the Geneva version of 1561), 1579; made king's printer, 1579, when he was licensed to print, sell, and import psalm-books, prayers, and catechisms for seven years. [ii. 60]

ARBUTHNOT, CHARLES (1767-1850), diplomatist; précis writer in foreign office, 1793; M.P. for East Loos, 1795; under foreign secretary; ambassador extraordinary, Constantinople, 1804; privy councillor; held various government offices, and from 1809 was M.P. successively for Eye and Orford (Suffolk), and St. Germans and St. Ives (Cornwall). [ii. 61]

ARBUTHNOT, SIR CHARLES GEORGE (1824-1899), general; educated at Rugby and Royal Military Academy; lieutenant, royal artillery, 1848; captain, 1856; in Crimea; lieutenant-colonel, 1864; in India, 1868-80, was deputy adjutant-general, 1873-7, and inspector-general of artillery, 1877-80, except while serving in Afghan campaigns; colonel, 1874; inspector-general of artillery in England, 1883; president ordnance committee, 1886; succeeded Lord Roberts chief of army in Burma, 1887; general, 1890; G.O.B., 1894. [Suppl. I. 54]

ARBUTHNOT, GEORGE (1802-1865), civilian; appointed junior clerk in treasury, 1830; served in that department till death, when he was auditor of civil list and secretary to ecclesiastical commissioners; acted as private secretary to Sir Charles Wood, chancellor of exchequer, Sir Robert Peel, and to six successive secretaries and two assistant secretaries of the treasury; regarded as an authority on currency questions. [II. 61]

ARBUTHNOT, JOHN (1667-1735), physician and wit; M.D. St. Andrews, 1696; settled in London and taught mathematics; F.R.S., 1704; attended Prince George of Denmark for a sudden illness at Epsom; physician in ordinary to Queen Anne, 1709; F.R.C.P., 1710, censor, 1728, Harveian orator, 1727; formed close friendship with Swift, and was acquainted with Pope and most literary men of the day; published 'History of John Bull' (1712) and several witty political pamphlets; contributed largely to 'Memoirs of Martinus Scriblerus', published with Pope's 'Works', 1741; attended Anne in her last illness; suffered much in health during his later years; died at Hampstead; published, besides his poetical writings, medical and scientific works. [II. 62]

ARBUTHNOT, MARRIOT (1711?-1794), admiral; lieutenant, 1739; commander, 1746; captain, 1747; commanded the Portland at Quiberon Bay, 1759; commanded guardship, Portsmouth, 1771-3; commissioner of navy, Halifax, 1775-8; admiral, 1778; commander of North American station, 1779-81 (with the exception of a short period, when Sir George Rodney took the command), and took part in the action off mouth of Chesapeake and Cape Henry; admiral of the blue, 1793. [II. 65]

ARBUTHNOT, SIR ROBERT (1773-1853), soldier; cornet 23rd light dragoons, 1797; served in Irish rebellion, 1798, and at capture of Cape of Good Hope, 1806; aide-de-camp to Beresford in South America, and, as captain in 20th light dragoons, aide-de-camp and afterwards military secretary to that general throughout greater part of peninsular campaign; K.T.S.; K.O.B., 1815; major-general, 1830; commanded in Ceylon and Bengal, 1838-41; lieutenant-general, 1841; colonel, 76th foot, 1843. [II. 66]

ARBUTHNOT, SIR THOMAS (1776-1849), lieutenant-general; brother of Sir Robert Arbuthnot [q. v.]; ensign, 29th foot, 1794; joined staff corps under Moore, 1803; quartermaster-general, Cape of Good Hope; served in Peninsula and West Indies; K.C.B., 1815; lieutenant-general, 1838. [II. 67]

AROHANGEL, FATHER (1871-1806). [See FORBES, JOHN.]

AROBOLD, JOHN FREDERICK (1788-1870), legal writer; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1809; barrister, 1814. He published a number of legal treatises, which include: 'Summary of Law relative to Pleading and Evidence in Criminal Cases,' 1824; 'Practice of Court of Common Pleas,' 1829; and several works on parish laws. [Suppl. I. 54]

ARCHDALE, JOHN (A. 1664-1707), governor of North Carolina; accompanied to New England his brother-in-law, Ferdinand Gorges, who became governor of Maine, 1664; returned to England, 1674; joined quakers; visited North Carolina, 1686, and subsequently became one of the proprietors of the colony; commissioner for Gorges in government of Maine, 1687-88; governor of North Carolina, 1696-7; M.P. for Chipping Wycombe, Buckinghamshire, 1698; refused oath and was deprived of seat, 1699; published 'Description of Carolina,' 1707. [Suppl. I. 54]

ARCHDALL, MERVYN (1723-1791), antiquary; educated at Dublin University; domestic chaplain to Pocock, bishop of Ossory, who presented him to living of Attanagh and prebend of Clonemery, 1762; prebendary of Mayne,

1764; member of Royal Irish Academy; published historical and topographical works. [II. 67]

ARCHDEKIN or ARSDEKIN, RICHARD (1618-1693), Irish jesuit; studied classics, philosophy, and (at Louvain) theology; entered Society of Jesus at Mechlin, 1642; taught humanities, 1660, and later studied at Antwerp and Lille; professor of philosophy and theology at Louvain and Antwerp, where he died; published theological works in English, Irish, and Latin. [II. 68]

ARCHER, EDWARD (1718-1789), physician; studied medicine at Edinburgh and Leyden, where he graduated M.D. 1746; physician to the newly founded small-pox hospital, 1747, to which institution he devoted most of his energies. [II. 69]

ARCHER, FREDERICK (1857-1886), jockey; apprenticed to Matthew Dawson [q. v.], the trainer at Newmarket, 1867; won Two Thousand Guineas upon Lord Falmouth's Atlantic, 1874; won the Two Thousand Guineas, Oaks, Derby, St. Leger, and Grand Prix, 1885. He died by his own hand when ill. [Suppl. I. 57]

ARCHER, FREDERICK SCOTT (1813-1857), inventor of collodion process; son of a chemist; started business as sculptor; first successfully used collodion process in photography, 1850; practised as photographer in Bloomsbury. [II. 69]

ARCHER, JAMES (1651?-1624?), Irish jesuit; first rector of Irish College, Salamanca. [II. 70]

ARCHER, JAMES (A. 1822), catholic preacher; began preaching at a public-house in Lincoln's Inn Fields; chaplain to the Bavarian minister in London, 1791; created D.D. by Pope Pius VII, 1821; published sermons. [II. 70]

ARCHER, JOHN (1598-1682), judge; B.A. Queens' College, Cambridge, 1619; M.A., 1622; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1620; M.P., 1656; serjeant, 1658; justice of common bench and knighted, 1663. The King, Charles II, attempted to remove him from office (1672), but he refused to surrender the patent without due legal procedure, and though relieved by royal prohibition from his duties, he continued to receive his salary till death. [II. 70]

ARCHER, JOHN (A. 1660-1684), physician; practised in Dublin, 1660; court physician to Charles II, 1671; published a self-advertising work called 'Every Man his own Doctor,' 1671. [II. 71]

ARCHER, JOHN WYKEHAM (1808-1864), artist and antiquary; apprenticed to an animal engraver in Clerkenwell; returned to London, 1831, after publishing several engravings in his native town, and was employed by various publishers in steel and wood engraving and watercolour painting. His works include a series of drawings of old London. [II. 72]

ARCHER, SIR SYMON (1581-1662), antiquary; knighted, 1624; sheriff of Warwickshire, 1628; M.P., 1640; amassed much of the material used in Dugdale's 'History of Warwickshire' and other valuable antiquarian information. [II. 73]

ARCHER, THOMAS (1564-1630?), divine; M.A. (1582) and fellow Trinity College, Cambridge; held livings in Bedfordshire; chaplain to Whitgift, 1599, and to the king, 1605; left manuscript obituaries of eminent contemporaries. [II. 73]

ARCHER, THOMAS (d. 1743), architect; pupil of Sir John Vanbrugh; 'groom porter' to Anne, George I, and George II; built Clifden House and St. John's Church, Westminster (1728). [II. 73]

ARCHER, THOMAS (d. 1848), actor and dramatist; took Shakespearean rôles at Drury Lane, 1823; visited United States and Paris, and led a Shakespearean company in Belgium and Germany; wrote many successful dramas. [II. 73]

ARCHER, WILLIAM (1830-1897), naturalist and librarian; secretary of Dublin Microscopical Club; contributed to 'Proceedings' of Royal Society, and other learned bodies; F.R.S., 1875; secretary for foreign correspondence to the Royal Irish Academy, 1875-80; librarian (1876) to Royal Dublin Society, and (1877-95) to National Library of Ireland, of which he compiled a catalogue. [Suppl. I. 57]

ARCHIBALD, SIR ADAMS GEORGE (1814-1899), Canadian statesman; born at Truro, Nova Scotia; educated at Pictou College; attorney of Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, 1838; called to bar of Nova Scotia, 1839; member for Colchester in Nova Scotia House of Assembly, 1861; Q.C., 1865; attorney-general, 1860; advocate-general in vice-admiralty court at Halifax, 1862-8; took part in consultations in London which led to Canadian federation, 1868; secretary of state under new dominion government, 1867-8; member for Colchester in dominion parliament, 1869-70; first lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, 1870-2; judge in equity in Nova Scotia, 1873, and lieutenant-governor, 1873-83; M.P. for Colchester in Canadian House of Commons, 1888-91; K.O.M.G., 1888. [Suppl. I. 58]

ARCHIBALD, SIR THOMAS DICKSON (1817-1876), judge; born at Truro, Nova Scotia; educated at Pictou College; qualified as attorney and barrister-at-law in Nova Scotia, 1837; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1852; junior counsel to treasury, 1868; appointed justice of queen's bench and invested with cof. 1872; knighted, 1873; transferred to common pleas, 1875. [Suppl. I. 59]

ARDBERCAIN (d. 656). [See ULTAN.]

ARDEN, EDWARD (1542?-1583), high sheriff of Warwickshire, 1575; accused of complicity, though probably innocent, in an attempt by his son-in-law to assassinate the queen, and hanged at Tyburn, 1583. Has been erroneously connected with Mary Arden, Shakespeare's mother. [ii. 74]

ARDEN, RICHARD PEPPER, BARON ALVANLEY (1745-1804), judge; educated at Manchester grammar school and Trinity College, Cambridge; distinguished in classics; twelfth wrangler; M.A., fellow, and called to bar, 1769; judge on South Wales circuit, 1776; took silk, 1780; M.P. for Newton, and solicitor-general, 1782-3; attorney-general and chief-justice of Chester, 1784; master of rolls, 1788; sat successively for Aldborough, Hastings, and Bath; lord chief-justice of common pleas, 1801. [ii. 74]

ARDERNE, JAMES (1636-1691), dean of Chester; graduated B.A., 1656, and M.A. Christ's College, Cambridge; M.A. Oxford, 1668; curate of St. Botolph, Aldersgate, 1666-82; fellow commoner of Brasenose; D.D., 1673; chaplain to Charles II; rector of Davenham, 1681; dean of Chester, 1682; published religious works. [ii. 75]

ARDERNE, JOHN (f. 1370), first great English surgeon; lived at Newark, 1349-70; practised surgery in London after 1370; cured many distinguished persons, and probably enjoyed patronage of Black Prince. Left manuscripts which show, for the period, a remarkable knowledge of surgery. [ii. 76]

ARDERON, WILLIAM (1703-1767), naturalist; officer of excise and, later, managing clerk at the New Mills, Norwich; F.R.S., 1745; wrote largely on natural history and microscopical science. [ii. 77]

ARDMILLAN, LORD (1805-1876). [See CRAWFORD, JAMES.]

ARGALL, JOHN (f. 1604), divine; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1665; held living of Halesworth, Suffolk. [ii. 78]

ARGALL, RICHARD (f. 1621), poet; educated at Oxford; perhaps author of a volume of religious poems (1621) containing 'The Bride's Ornament,' republished in 1684 in name of Richard Aylett. [ii. 78]

ARGALL, SIR SAMUEL (d. 1626), adventurer; went as trader in 1609 to Virginia, whither he subsequently made frequent voyages; visited the Potomac and Chesapeake Bay, 1612-13; reduced French settlements in Maine, St. Croix, and Nova Scotia, 1613; deputy-governor of Virginia and admiral of the adjacent seas, 1617; served in expedition against Algiers, under Sir R. Mansell, 1620; knighted, 1622; admiral of squadron of English and Dutch ships operating on French and Spanish coasts, 1624-6; died at sea. [ii. 78]

ARGENTINE, GILES DE (d. 1284), justiciar in Normandy, 1247; itinerant justice, 1263; constable of Windsor, 1268; on council of nine after battle of Lewes. [ii. 80]

ARGENTINE, JOHN (d. 1508), provost of King's, Cambridge; M.D. King's College, Cambridge; provost, 1501; D.D., 1504; physician and dean of chapel to Prince of Wales; master of hospital of St. John Baptist, Dorchester, 1499. [ii. 80]

ARGENTINE, alias SEXTEN, RICHARD (d. 1568), physician and divine; M.D. Cambridge, 1541; physician, schoolmaster, and lecturer in divinity at Ipswich; held livings successively at Ipswich and Exeter, repeatedly changing his religious views in accordance with prevailing opinions. [ii. 80]

ARGYLE or ARGYLL, DUKES OF. [See CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, first DUKE, d. 1703; CAMPBELL, JOHN, second DUKE, 1678-1743; CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, third DUKE, 1682-1761.]

ARGYLE or ARGYLL, MARQUIS OF (1598-1661). [See CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD.]

ARGYLE or ARGYLL, EARLS OF. [See CAMPBELL, COLIN, first EARL, d. 1493; CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, second EARL, d. 1513; CAMPBELL, COLIN, third EARL, d. 1530; CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, fourth EARL, d. 1588; CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, fifth EARL, 1530-1573; CAMPBELL, COLIN, sixth EARL, d. 1584; CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, seventh EARL, 1576?-1638; CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, eighth EARL, 1598-1661; CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, ninth EARL, d. 1686; CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, tenth EARL, d. 1703.]

ARGYLE or ARGYLL, COUNTESS OF (1621?-1706?). [See CAMPBELL, ANNA MACKENZIE.]

ARGYLL, eighth DUKE OF. [See CAMPBELL, GEORGE DOUGLAS, 1823-1800.]

ARKISDEN, THOMAS (f. 1633), stenographer; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1633; invented a shorthand alphabet. [ii. 81]

ARKWRIGHT, SIR RICHARD (1732-1792), engineer; apprenticed to a barber; established himself at Bolton, before 1765, as a barber, and gradually formed a large business; gave up business at Bolton and turned his attention to mechanical inventions, c. 1767; invented and erected near Hockley a spinning-mill, 1769; went into partnership with two manufacturers of ribbed stockings and erected machinery at Cromford, Derbyshire, 1771; applied the mill to manufacture of calicoes, 1773; patented a series of adaptations and inventions for performing in one machine the whole process of yarn manufacture, 1776; one of his mills (at Chorley) sacked by rioters, 1779; his repeated complaints against infringements of his patent during the following years were met by a combination of manufacturers, who obtained a verdict against Arkwright on the questions: (1) Is the invention new? (2) Is it invented by the defendant? (3) Was it sufficiently described in the specification? His letters patent cancelled, 1785; visited Scotland and assisted in erection of New Lanark mills, c. 1784; built several mills in Derbyshire and Lancashire; introduced Boulton & Watt's steam-engine into his mill at Notingham, 1790; knighted, 1786; high sheriff of Derbyshire, 1787. [ii. 81]

ARKWRIGHT, RICHARD (1755-1843), mill-owner, son of Sir Richard Arkwright [q. v.]; inherited his father's business and amassed a large fortune. [ii. 86]

ARLINGTON, first EARL OF (1618-1686). [See BENNET, HENRY.]

ARMIN, ROBERT (f. 1610), actor and dramatist; apprenticed to a goldsmith in Lombard Street; perhaps one of the lord chamberlain's players, 1598; seems to have succeeded Kemp in the role of Dogberry; in company of actors licensed by James I, 1603; probably member of Lord Chandos's company. [ii. 86]

ARMINE or ARMYNE, MARY, LADY (d. 1676), philanthropist, née Talbot; second wife of Sir William Armine [q. v.]; took practical interest in missionaries among North American Indians; founded three hospitals in England. [ii. 87]

ARMINE, RICHARD DE (d. 1340?). [See AYRE-MINNE, RICHARD DE.]

ARMINE, WILLIAM DE (d. 1336). [See AYRE-MINNE, WILLIAM DE.]

ARMINE or ARMYNE, SIR WILLIAM (1593-1651), parliamentarian; baronet, 1619; M.P. for Boston, 1621 and 1624, for Grantham, 1625, and for Lincolnshire, 1626, 1628, and 1641; assistant to managers of Buckingham's impeachment, 1626; imprisoned for refusing to collect arbitrary loan in Lincolnshire, 1627-8; sheriff of Lincolnshire, 1630, of Huntingdonshire, 1639; accompanied Charles to Scotland, 1641; discussed terms with king at Oxford in behalf of parliament, 1643; member of council of state, 1649, 1650, and 1651. [ii. 87]

ARMITAGE, EDWARD (1817-1896), historical painter; studied under Paul Delaroche in Paris; gained premiums in cartoon competitions for decoration of new houses of parliament, 1843, 1845, and 1847; commissioned to execute two frescoes for House of Lords; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1848, generally biblical subjects; R.A., 1872; member of committees of artists employed in decoration of Westminster Hall who made report on fresco-painting, 1871; professor and lecturer on painting to Royal Academy, 1876; published lectures, 1883. [Suppl. i. 60]

ARMITAGE, TIMOTHY (d. 1655), pastor of first nonconformist church in Norwich, 1647; superintendent of numerous congregations of Norfolk and Suffolk. [ii. 88]

ARMSTRONG, SIR ALEXANDER (1818-1899), naval medical officer; studied medicine at Trinity College, Dublin, and at Edinburgh; graduated, 1841; assistant-surgeon in navy, 1842; in medical charge of party for exploration of Xanthus, 1843; appointed to royal yacht, 1846; surgeon, 1849; surgeon and naturalist in Arctic expedition under (Sir) Robert John Le Mesurier Maclure [q. v.], 1849-54; medical superintendent of Malta hospital, 1859-64; director-general of medical department of navy, 1869-71; K.C.B., 1871; F.R.S., 1873. [Suppl. i. 61]

ARMSTRONG, ARCHIBALD (d. 1672), known as 'Archie'; jester to James I and Charles I; gained wide reputation as sheep-stealer at Eskdale; was attached to household of James VI of Scotland, and accompanied him to England, where he gained great social distinction, and amassed a large fortune; accompanied Charles and Buckingham to Spain, 1623; expelled from court for insulting Archbishop Laud, 1637; remained in London and spent his time in distraining mercilessly on his debtors; retired to Arthuret, Cumberland; credited with the authorship of 'A Banquet of Jests,' 1630. [ii. 89]

ARMSTRONG, COSMO (f. 1800-1836), governor of Society of Engravers; exhibited with Associated Engravers, 1821; pupil of Thomas Milton; engraved plates for Cooke's 'British Poets' and other works. [ii. 91]

ARMSTRONG, EDMUND JOHN (1841-1865), poet; entered Trinity College, Dublin, 1859; suffered seriously from over-work, 1860, and subsequently spent much time in Jersey and Brittany; president of Undergraduate Philosophical Society, Trinity College, 1864; published poems, 1865, and prose works, 1877. [ii. 91]

ARMSTRONG, GEORGE (f. 1767), physician; brother of John Armstrong (1709-1779) [q. v.]; established dispensary in London for relief of poor children, 1769; published a work on diseases of children. [ii. 92]

ARMSTRONG, JAMES (1780-1839), Irish unitarian minister; trained at Rademon academy; classical assistant in Belfast academy; graduated at Trinity College, Dublin; ordained minister of Strand Street chapel, Dublin, 1806; one of founders of Irish Unitarian Society, 1830; D.D. Geneva, 1834. [ii. 92]

ARMSTRONG, JOHN or JOHNIE (d. 1528), border freebooter; lived near Langholm, whence he made excursions at head of twenty-four horsemen; hanged with his followers at Carlanrigg Chapel. [ii. 93]

ARMSTRONG, JOHN (1674-1742), major-general and quartermaster-general in Ireland; surveyor-general of ordnance and chief engineer; F.R.S., 1728. [ii. 94]

ARMSTRONG, JOHN (1709-1779), poet, physician, and essayist; M.D. Edinburgh, 1732; physician to hospital for wounded soldiers, London, 1746; physician to the army in Germany, 1760, and on return of troops received half-pay for remainder of his life; intimately acquainted for many years with Wilkes, with whom he quarrelled over the publication of some verses. His works include essays on various subjects, and a didactic poem called 'The Art of Preserving Health,' 1744. [ii. 94]

ARMSTRONG, JOHN (1771-1797), journalist; M.A. Edinburgh; private tutor; wrote for London press, 1790; published poetical and prose works. [ii. 96]

ARMSTRONG, JOHN, the elder (1784-1899), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1807; physician to Sunderland Infirmary; removed to London, 1818; physician to London Fever Institution, 1819-24; L.C.P., 1820; lectured on anatomy and medicine; published medical works. [ii. 97]

ARMSTRONG, JOHN, the younger (1813-1856), bishop of Grahamstown; son of John Armstrong (1784-1829) [q. v.]; educated at Charterhouse; scholar of Lincoln College, Oxford; B.A., 1836; ordained, 1837; after holding three curacies, became priest-vicar of Exeter Cathedral, 1841; rector of St. Paul's, Exeter, 1843; vicar of Tidenham, Gloucestershire, 1845; strongly advocated in magazine articles a scheme of female penitentiaries which ultimately took definite shape; accepted new bishopric of Grahamstown, Cape of Good Hope, 1853; published many sermons and tracts. [ii. 97]

ARMSTRONG, ROBERT ARCHIBALD (1788-1867), Gaelic lexicographer; educated at Edinburgh and St. Andrews University; kept successively several schools in London; published a Gaelic dictionary, 1825; established and kept a grammar school at South Lambeth; received civil list pension of 60*l.*, 1852. [ii. 99]

ARMSTRONG, SIR THOMAS (1624?-1684), royalist; born at Nimeguen; served under Charles I, and during the Commonwealth was three times imprisoned for fidelity to the royal cause; knighted, 1660; lieutenant of first troop of guards, and subsequently captain of the horse; fell into disfavour at court and joined English regiment in Flanders, 1679; implicated in Rye House plot, 1682; escaped to Leyden, but was arrested and executed in London, Judge Jeffreys giving him unfair trial. [ii. 100]

ARMSTRONG, WILLIAM (f. 1596), border moss-trooper, known as KINMONT WILLIE, from his castle of Morton Tower or Kinnmont in Canonbie, Dumfriesshire; captured, but escaped, 1597; imprisoned at Carlisle, 1696, where the Scotch warden demanded his release, and on being refused succeeded in carrying him off. His fate is unknown. [ii. 101]

ARMSTRONG, WILLIAM (1602?-1658?), known as CHRISTIE'S WILL, border freebooter; imprisoned in Jedburgh tolbooth, and released through interposition of Earl of Traquair, whose devoted servant he afterwards became. [ii. 102]

ARMSTRONG, WILLIAM (1778-1857), mayor of Newcastle-on-Tyne, 1850; corn-merchant; prominent in municipal affairs; much interested in mathematics; active member of local literary societies. [Suppl. i. 62]

ARMSTRONG, SIR WILLIAM GEORGE, BARON ARMSTRONG OF CRAGSIDE (1810-1900), inventor; son of William Armstrong (1778-1857) [q. v.]; of Newcastle-on-Tyne; educated at grammar school, Bishop Auckland; subsequently studied law in London; partner in legal firm of Donkin, Stable & Armstrong, Newcastle, 1835; constructed 'water-pressure wheel,' 1839, and hydro-electric machine, c. 1844; secretary, 1845, and chairman, 1855-67, to Whittle Dam (afterwards Newcastle and Gateshead) Water Company; patented hydraulic crane, 1846; F.R.S., 1846; first manager of Elswick-on-Tyne engineering works, 1847; invented hydraulic pressure accumulator, 1850; designed submarine mines for use in Crimean war, 1854; invented rifled-bore breechloading gun, with cylinder constructed on scientific principle, which was favourably reported upon by General Peel's committee on rifled cannon, 1858; patented inventions and presented patents to nation; Elswick Ordnance Company established for purpose of making Armstrong guns for British government, under his supervision, 1859; appointed engineer of rifled ordnance at Woolwich, and knighted and made C.B., 1869; resigned appointment at Woolwich, 1863, when government returned largely to muzzle-loaders; finished a 4-inch breechloading gun with wire-wound cylinder, 1880, government once more adopting breechloading guns; established, in conjunction with firm of Messrs. Mitchell & Swan, new shipyard at Elswick for construction of warships, 1882; incorporated with his own business the works of Sir Joseph Whitworth [q. v.] at Openshaw, near Manchester, for manufacture of Whitworth guns, 1897; conducted important electrical experiments at his residence at Oragside, near Rothbury; Telford medalist of the Institution of Civil Engineers; honorary LL.D. Cambridge, 1862; D.O.L. Oxford, 1870; received Albert medal from Society of Arts, 1878; D.O.L. Durham, 1889; president of Institute of Civil Engineers, 1882; raised to peerage, 1887; master of engineering, Dublin, 1892; Bessemer medalist, 1891. He was a liberal benefactor of Newcastle. Published writings on engineering subjects, as well as 'Electric Movement in Air and Water,' 1897-98. [Suppl. i. 62]

ARNALD, RICHARD (1700-1766), divine; B.A. Corpus Christi College; fellow and M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge; presented to living of Thurcaston, Leicestershire, 1733; prebendary of Lincoln; published sermons and commentary on Apocrypha. [ii. 103]

ARNALL, WILLIAM (1715?-1741?), political writer; in pay of Walpole; wrote 'Free Briton' and succeeded Concanen in the 'British Journal.' [ii. 103]

ARNE, CECILIA (1711-1789), singer; pupil of Gemlinant; first appeared at Drury Lane, 1730; married Thomas Augustine Arne [q. v.], 1738; in Dublin, 1742; engaged at Vauxhall Gardens, 1745. [ii. 103]

ARNE, MICHAEL (1741?-1788), musician; son of Dr. Thomas Augustine Arne [q. v.]; appeared in Otway's 'Orphan' when very young; took to the harpsichord; member of Madrigal Society; died in great destitution; produced many songs and musical scores. [ii. 104]

ARNE, THOMAS AUGUSTINE (1710-1778), musical composer; educated at Eton; privately studied music; gave up his legal studies and wrote music for Addison's 'Rosamond,' 1733, Fielding's 'Tom Thumb,' altered into 'The Opera of Operas,' 1735, Milton's 'Comus,' 1738, Congreve's 'Judgment of Paris,' and Thomson and Mallet's 'Alfred' (which included 'Rule Britannia,' 1740), 'As you like it' and 'Twelfth Night'; appointed composer to Drury Lane Theatre, 1744, and later, leader of the band; wrote songs for 'The Tempest,' 1746; produced two oratorios: 'Abel,' 1755, and 'Judith,' 1764; Mus. Doc. Oxford, 1769; transferred his services to Covent Garden, 1760; set to music the ode by Garrick performed at the Shakespeare jubilee at Stratford-on-Avon, 1769; produced numerous light operas and incidental music. [ii. 104]

ARNISTON, BARONS. [See DUNDAS, SIR JAMES, d. 1679; DUNDAS, ROBERT, d. 1726; DUNDAS, ROBERT, 1685-1763; DUNDAS, ROBERT, 1713-1787.]

ARNOLD, BENEDICT (1741-1801), general; born at Norwich, Connecticut; bookseller and druggist; took American side in war between England and the American colonies; after battle of Lexington served as volunteer, obtained a command and was severely wounded at Quebec, 1776; subsequently commanded at Montreal and was conspicuous at Saratoga, 1777; governor of Philadelphia; accused of peculation; partially acquitted and reprimanded by Washington, 1780; obtained command of West Point, which he arranged to surrender to British commander Clinton; joined British and was made brigadier-general; came to England, 1782; afterwards distinguished himself at Guadaloupe. [ii. 107]

ARNOLD, CORNELIUS (1711-1757?), poetical writer; educated at Merchant Taylors' School; published poetical works, 1757. [ii. 109]

ARNOLD, JOHN (1736?-1799), mechanician; apprenticed to watchmaking trade in Bodmin; went to Holland, and subsequently set up in business in London; introduced at court; made several improvements in the manufacture of chronometers. [ii. 109]

ARNOLD, JOSEPH (1783-1818), naturalist; M.D. Edinburgh, 1807; surgeon in navy, 1808; made several voyages, and collected scientific specimens; died at Padang, Sumatra; F.L.S., 1815. [ii. 110]

ARNOLD, MATTHEW (1822-1888), poet and critic; son of Dr. Thomas Arnold [q. v.]; educated at Rugby, Winchester, and Balliol College, Oxford; Newdigate prizeman, 1848; graduated, 1844; fellow of Oriel College, 1848; master at Rugby; private secretary to Marquis of Landsdowne, 1847; inspector of schools, 1861; published

'The Strayed Reveller and other Poems,' 1849, 'Empedocles on Etna,' 1852, 'Poems' (containing 'Sohrab and Rustum,' 'Scholar-Gipsy,' and 'Requiescat'), 1863, and 'Poems, second series,' 1865; professor of poetry at Oxford, 1857-67; published 'On Translating Homer,' 1861 (second volume, 1862), 'On Study of Celtic Literature,' 1867, 'Essays in Criticism,' 1865 (second series, 1888), 'Culture and Anarchy,' 1869, 'Friendship's Garland,' 1871, 'Literature and Dogma,' 1873; lectured in America, 1883-4 and 1886, and issued 'Discourses in America,' 1886; published also works on educational subjects. He adopted from Swift the phrase 'sweetness and light' to explain his literary and social creed. His most permanent work is in his poetry (3 vols. 1885). His letters appeared in 1895. His portrait by Mr. G. F. Watts, R.A., is in the National Portrait Gallery. [Suppl. i. 70]

ARNOLD, SIR NICHOLAS (1607?-1580), gentleman pensioner of Henry VIII in 1526; employed by Cromwell in connection with dissolution of monasteries; knight of shire for Gloucester, 1546; commander of garrison, Queenborough, 1545, Boulogneberg, 1546-9; knighted by Edward VI.; imprisoned in Tower on suspicion of complicity in Wyatt's rebellion, 1554-5, and for his connection with Sir Henry Dudley [q. v.] and Richard Uvedale [q. v.] in plot to drive Spaniards from England, 1556; sheriff of Gloucestershire, 1559; sent to Ireland to inquire into complaints against Sussex's administration, 1562; lord justice in Ireland, 1564-5; M.P. for Gloucester, 1563, and for Gloucestershire, 1572. He did much to improve the breed of English horses. [Suppl. i. 75]

ARNOLD, RICHARD (d. 1521?), antiquary; haberdasher in London, 1473; arrested as spy while on business visit to Flanders, 1488, and imprisoned at Sluys. Published a work on the customs of London (1502). [ii. 110]

ARNOLD, SAMUEL (1740-1802), musical composer; educated in Chapel Royal; composer to Covent Garden, before 1763; brought out his first opera, 'Maid of the Mill,' 1765; member Royal Society of Musicians, 1764; set Browne's ode, the 'Cure of Saul,' as an oratorio, 1767; leased Marylebone Gardens, 1769, where he produced many operas and burlettas; Mus. Doc. Oxford, 1773; organist to Chappels Royal, 1783, and of Westminster Abbey, 1793. Published collection of cathedral music, 1790. [ii. 111]

ARNOLD, SAMUEL JAMES (1774-1852), dramatist; son of Samuel Arnold (1740-1802) [q. v.]; produced at the Haymarket, Drury Lane, the English Opera, and the Lyceum many original musical plays (including 'The Prior Claim,' written in conjunction with Pye, the poet laureate, whose daughter he married) and several notable foreign operas; F.R.S. [ii. 112]

ARNOLD, THOMAS (1679-1737), sailor; made commander for bravery in battle off Cape Passaro; captain, 1727; served on Carolina coast. [ii. 113]

ARNOLD, THOMAS (1742-1816), physician; M.D., F.R.C.P.; owned and conducted a lunatic asylum in Leicester; published works on insanity. [ii. 113]

ARNOLD, THOMAS (1795-1842), headmaster of Rugby; educated at Winchester and Corpus Christi College, Oxford; first class classics, 1814; fellow of Oriel, 1815; won chancellor's Latin and English essay prizes, 1815 and 1817; ordained, 1818; headmaster of Rugby, 1828-42; B.D. and D.D., 1828; added mathematics, modern history, and modern languages to the ordinary school course; published, 1829, a pamphlet on the 'Christian Duty of Conceding the Roman Catholic Claims'; published 'Principles of Church Reform,' 1833; regius professor of history at Oxford, 1841; published sermons, an edition of Thucydides, and works on Roman and modern history. [ii. 113]

ARNOLD, THOMAS (1823-1900), professor of English literature, younger son of Dr. Thomas Arnold [q. v.]; B.A. University College, Oxford, 1845; M.A., 1848; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1846; clerk in colonial office, 1847; went to New Zealand, 1847; started school at Fort Hill, near Nelson, 1849; inspector of schools in Tasmania, 1850-6; entered Roman catholic church, 1856; professor of English literature at catholic university, Dublin, 1856-62; left church of Rome, 1866, but rejoined it, 1876; fellow of Royal University of Ireland, and professor of English language and literature, University College, St. Stephen's Green, 1862-1900; published a 'Manual of English Literature,' 1862, and other works. [Suppl. i. 76]

ARNOLD, THOMAS JAMES (1804?-1877), barrister: called, 1839; police magistrate, 1847-77; published legal manuals and translations of Goethe's 'Reineke Fuchs' (1860), of 'Faust' (1877), and of Anacreon (1869). [ii. 117]

ARNOLD, THOMAS KEROEVER (1800-1853), educationalist; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1821; fellow; M.A., 1824; rector of Lyndon, Rutland, 1830-53; published many classical works, educational adaptations from American and German authors, sermons and other theological writings. [ii. 118]

ARNOLD, WILLIAM DELAFIELD (1838-1889), Anglo-Indian official and novelist; younger son of Dr. Thomas Arnold [q.v.]; educated at Christ Church, Oxford; went to India as ensign in 58th native infantry; assistant-commissioner of Punjab; director of public instruction, 1856; invalidated home and died at Gibraltar; published 'Oakfield,' a novel, 1853. [ii. 119]

ARNOT, HUGO (1749-1786), historical writer: advocate, 1772; published 'History of Edinburgh,' 1779, and 'Criminal Trials in Scotland,' 1785. [ii. 119]

ARNOT, WILLIAM (1808-1876), preacher: apprenticed as gardener; studied for ministry at Glasgow; minister of St. Peter's Church, Glasgow, 1838, and of one of the leading free church congregations in Edinburgh, 1863-75; thrice visited America on ministerial work; published religious and biographical works. [ii. 119]

ARNOTT, GEORGE ARNOTT WALKER (1799-1868), botanist; M.A. Edinburgh, 1818; studied law, but abandoned the profession for botany; travelled on continent; botanical lecturer, 1839, and professor, 1845, Glasgow; associated with Sir William Hooker in botanical publications. [ii. 120]

ARNOTT, NEIL (1788-1874), physician and natural philosopher; M.A. Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1805; went to London and became a student at St. George's Hospital, 1806; visited China as surgeon in East India Company's service, 1807 and 1809; practised in London, 1811-1856; lectured on natural science at Philomatic Institution; M.D. Aberdeen, 1814; physician successively to French (1816) and Spanish embassies; a founder and original member of senate of university of London, 1836; physician extraordinary to Queen Victoria, 1837; F.R.S., 1838; member of Medical Council, 1854; published 'Elements of Physics,' 1827-9. [ii. 121]

ARNOUL or ARNULF (1040-1124). [See ERNULF.]

ARNOLD, SIR JOSEPH (1814-1886), Indian judge and author; educated at Charterhouse and Wadham College, Oxford; Newdigate prizeman, 1834; B.A., 1836; probationer fellow, 1838-41; moderator of philosophy, 1840; called to the bar at the Middle Temple, 1841; contributed to Douglas Jerrold's 'Weekly Newspaper' and wrote leaders for 'Daily News'; knighted and appointed to seat on bench of supreme court (afterwards high court of judicature) of Bombay, 1859; published legal and other writings. [Suppl. i. 78]

ARNULF, EARL OF PEMBROKE (A. 1110), fifth son of Roger de Montgomery [see ROGER DE MONTGOMERY, EARL OF SHREWSBURY, d. 1093]; built Pembroke Castle about 1090; rebelled against Henry I, and marrying, after much negotiation, the daughter of Murchadh, king of Leinster, died next day. [xlix. 103]

ARNWAY, JOHN (1601-1653), royalist divine: rector of Hodnet and Ightfield, 1635; archdeacon of Lichfield and Coventry and prebendary of Woolvey; exiled during protectorate; died in Virginia. [ii. 122]

ARRAN, EARLS OF. [See HAMILTON, JAMES, first EARL, 1477?-1529; HAMILTON, JAMES, second EARL, d. 1575; HAMILTON, JAMES, third EARL, 1630-1609; STEWART, JAMES, d. 1596.]

ARROWSMITH, AARON (1750-1823), geographer; left practically destitute in early life; found employment with a map-maker in London, 1770; published several maps, including a chart of the world (Mercator's projection), now rare, 1790, 'Map of Scotland,' 1807, and 'Atlas of Southern India,' 1822. [ii. 123]

ARROWSMITH, EDMUND (1585-1628), Jesuit; known sometimes as BRADSHAW and RIGBY; educated at Douay; ordained, 1612; returned to England on English mission, 1613; entered Society of Jesus, 1624; executed for taking order of priesthood beyond the seas. His hand is preserved as a relic at Ashton, Newton-le-Willows. [ii. 124]

ARROWSMITH, JOHN (1602-1659), puritan divine; graduated at Cambridge, 1623; incumbent of St. Nicholas' Chapel, King's Lynn, 1631; D.D. and regius professor of divinity, 1644; rector of St. Martin's, Ironmonger Lane, 1646; vice-chancellor of Cambridge, 1647; master of Trinity, 1649; published sermons. [ii. 124]

ARROWSMITH, JOHN (1790-1873), map-maker; nephew of Aaron Arrowsmith [q.v.], whom he assisted, 1810-23; began business alone, 1823, and ultimately became head of his uncle's house; an original fellow of Royal Geographical Society, 1830; published many maps and charts. [ii. 125]

ARSEKIN, RICHARD (1618-1693). [See ARCH-DEKIN, RICHARD.]

ARTAUD, WILLIAM (A. 1776-1822), portrait painter; exhibited in the Royal Academy between 1784 and 1822. [ii. 126]

ARTHUR, real or fabulous King of Britain; born probably towards end of the 6th century; perhaps son of Uther Pendragon, brother of Ambrosius Aurelianus [q.v.], and leader of the Roman party in Britain; obtained command of British army, c. 513, and is credited by Nennius with twelve victories over the invading Saxons, of which probably only that at Badon Hill (c. 520) is historical; said to have died at battle of Camlan. [ii. 126]

ARTHUR, DUKE OF COUNT OF BRITANNY (1187-1203), posthumous son of Geoffrey, third son of King Henry II, and Constance, daughter and heiress of Conan le Petit, count of Brittany; declared his heir by his uncle, Richard I, 1180; supported by Philip of France on the accession of his next uncle John; captured by King John at Mirabel, 1202; murdered at Rouen, probably by John's orders. [ii. 129]

ARTHUR (1486-1502), eldest son of Henry VII and Elizabeth of York, eldest daughter of Edward IV; K.B., 1489; married Katharine of Arragon, 1501. [ii. 131]

ARTHUR, AROHIBALD (1744-1797), professor of moral philosophy, Glasgow; M.A. Glasgow; received preacher's licence, 1767; chaplain and librarian, Glasgow University; professor of moral philosophy, 1796; compiled catalogue of Glasgow University Library, published 1791; published theological and literary discourses, 1803. [ii. 131]

ARTHUR, SIR GEORGE (1784-1854), lieutenant-general; joined 91st Argyllshire Highlanders, 1804; lieutenant in Italy, 1806, and in Egypt, 1807; captain in Sicily, 1808, and in Walcheren, 1809; deputy assistant adjutant-general; military secretary to Sir George Don, governor of Jersey; major 7th West India regiment, and assistant quartermaster-general, Jamaica, 1812; lieutenant-governor, British Honduras, 1814-22, Van Diemen's Land, 1823-37, and Upper Canada, 1837-41; baronet, 1841; governor of Bombay, 1842; elected provisional governor-general, but compelled by ill-health to return home, 1846; privy councillor and hon. D.C.L. Oxford; colonel 50th Queen's Own regiment, 1853. [ii. 132]

ARTHUR, JAMES (d. 1670?), divine; professor of divinity, Salamanca University; subsequently retired to convent of St. Dominic, Lisbon; published and left in manuscript commentaries on Aquinas's 'Summa.' [ii. 135]

ARTHUR, THOMAS (d. 1532), divine; fellow, St. John's College, Cambridge, and principal, St. Mary's Hostel, 1518; charged with heresy, 1526 and 1527, and recanted to Romanism; wrote tragedies. [ii. 136]

ARTHUR, THOMAS (1593-1666?), Irish catholic physician; educated at Bordeaux; studied medicine at Paris; practised in Limerick, 1619, and in Dublin, 1624; wrote Latin elegiacs. [ii. 136]

ARTLETT, RICHARD AUSTIN (1807-1878), engraver; pupil of Robert Cooper and James Thomson; produced several portraits; remembered chiefly for engravings of sculpture. [ii. 136]

ARUNDALE, FRANÇOIS (1807-1888), architect; pupil of Augustus Pugin; travelled on the continent and in Egypt and Palestine; published several illustrated works on architectural subjects. [ii. 136]

ARUNDEL, EARLS OF. [See ALBINI, WILLIAM DE, first EARL, d. 1176; ALBINI, WILLIAM DE, third EARL, d. 1291; FITZALAN, RICHARD, first EARL of the second creation, 1267-1302; FITZALAN, EDMUND, second EARL, 1286-1326; FITZALAN, RICHARD, third EARL, 1307?-1376; FITZALAN, RICHARD, fourth EARL, 1346-1397; FITZALAN, THOMAS, fifth EARL, 1381-1415; FITZALAN, JOHN, seventh EARL, 1408-1435; FITZALAN, HENRY, twelfth EARL, 1511?-1580; HOWARD, PHILIP, thirteenth EARL, 1587-1595; HOWARD, THOMAS, fourteenth EARL, 1598-1646; HOWARD, HENRY FREDERICK, fifteenth EARL, 1608-1662.]

ARUNDEL, THOMAS (1353-1414), archbishop of Canterbury; bishop of Ely, 1374; chancellor, 1386-9; archbishop of York, 1388; again chancellor, 1391-6; archbishop of Canterbury, 1396; was perhaps implicated in a conspiracy of his brother, Earl of Arundel, the Duke of Gloucester, and Earl of Warwick against King Richard II; impeached by House of Commons and banished, 1397, for assisting the commission of regency eleven years before, in derogation of the king's authority; went to Rome and sought intercession of Boniface IX, who at Richard II's request translated him to St. Andrews, a see which acknowledged the rival pope; returned to England with Henry IV, whom he crowned, 1399; again chancellor, 1399, 1407, and 1412; strenuously resisted lollardy. [ii. 137]

ARUNDELL OF CORNWALL. The three principal branches of the Cornish family of Arundell were the Arundells of Lanherne, Trerice, and Tolverne.

The ARUNDELLS OF LANHERNE settled at Lanherne about the middle of the thirteenth century. The more important members of this branch not noticed elsewhere are Roger, marshal of England; William de Arundell, canon of Exeter Cathedral (d. 1246); Sir Ralph Arundell, sheriff of Cornwall, 1260; Sir John Arundell, K.B., 'the Magnificent', M.P. and sheriff of Cornwall, died c. 1433; John Arundell, sheriff and admiral of Cornwall, attainted, 1483; and Sir John Arundell, who was made knight banneret at Therouenne, and died in 1546.

The ARUNDELLS OF TRETRICE include Sir John Arundell, vice-admiral of Cornwall early in fifteenth century (d. 1471), and the Hon. Richard Arundell, M.P. (d. 1759).

The ARUNDELLS OF TOLVERNE include Sir Thomas Arundell (d. 1443), Sir Thomas Arundell (d. 1552), knighted by James I, and his son, John Arundell, colonel of horse for Charles II (d. 1671).

The ARUNDELLS OF MENADARVA appear to have been founded by one Robert Arundell, a natural son of Sir John Arundell of Trerice [q. v.] [ii. 141]

ARUNDELL, BLANCHE, LADY (1583-1649), defender of Wardour Castle; daughter of Edward, earl of Worcester; married Thomas Arundell of Wardour, Wiltshire; defended Wardour Castle for nine days against parliamentarians, 1643. [ii. 143]

ARUNDELL, FRANCIS VYVYAN JAGO (1780-1846), antiquary; M.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1809; rector of Landulph, 1805; chaplain to British factory, Smyrna, 1822-36; journeyed in Asia Minor, 1826-35, and published descriptions of his travels and discoveries, 1834; made large collections of antiquities, coins, and manuscripts. [ii. 143]

ARUNDELL, HENRY, third BARON ARUNDELL OF WARDOUR (1606?-1694), fought for Charles I in civil wars; dislodged parliamentarians, 1644, from Wardour Castle, which had been taken from his mother, Lady Blanche Arundell [q. v.]; master of horse to Henrietta Maria, 1663; one of the ambassadors sent by Charles II to Louis XIV to arrange secret treaty of Dover, 1669; accused by Titus Oates of complicity in a popish plot against Charles, and arrested, 1678; imprisoned in Tower, but not tried; released 1684; privy councillor, 1686; keeper of privy seal, 1687; published religious and courtly poems. [ii. 144]

ARUNDELL, HUMPHRY, OF LANHERNE (1513-1550), rebel; leader of an insurrection due to enclosure of common lands, 1549; unsuccessfully besieged Exeter; ultimately captured and executed at Tyburn. [ii. 145]

ARUNDELL, SIR JOHN, OF LANHERNE (d. 1879), naval commander; repulsed French off Cornwall, 1876, but was caught in storm and drowned. [ii. 146]

ARUNDELL, JOHN (d. 1477), bishop of Chichester; fellow, Exeter College, Oxford, 1421-30; chaplain to Henry VI; bishop of Chichester, 1458. [ii. 146]

ARUNDELL, JOHN, OF LANHERNE (d. 1504), divine; M.A. Exeter College, Oxford; dean of Exeter, 1483-96; bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, 1496, and Exeter, 1502. [ii. 146]

ARUNDELL, SIR JOHN, OF TRETRICE (1495-1561), vice-admiral of the west, called 'Jack of Tilbury'; knighted at battle of Spurs, 1513; twice sheriff of Cornwall; esquire of the body to Henry VIII. [ii. 146]

ARUNDELL, SIR JOHN, OF TRETRICE (1576-1656?), royalist, nicknamed 'Jack for the King'; grandson of Sir John Arundell (1495-1561) [q. v.]; at various times M.P. for Cornwall, Bodmin, Tregony, and Michell; governor, 1643, of Pendennis Castle, which he was compelled to surrender to Fairfax, 1646. [ii. 147]

ARUNDELL, MARY, OF LANHERNE (d. 1691), translator; left manuscript translations from Latin. [ii. 147]

ARUNDELL, RICHARD, first BARON ARUNDELL OF TRETRICE (d. 1687), M.P. for Lostwithiel; colonel in king's army; governor, Pendennis Castle, 1662. [ii. 148]

ARUNDELL, SIR THOMAS, OF LANHERNE (d. 1552), alleged conspirator; sheriff of Dorset, 1531-2; gentleman of privy chamber to Wolsey; knighted, 1533; a commissioner for suppression of religious houses, 1535; imprisoned in Tower for alleged implication in Cornish rising, 1550-1; executed for share in Somerset's conspiracy. [ii. 148]

ARUNDELL, THOMAS, first BARON ARUNDELL OF WARDOUR (1560-1639), soldier of fortune; made count of Holy Roman Empire by Emperor Rudolph II for services against the Turks, 1595. [ii. 148]

ARUNDELL, THOMAS, second BARON ARUNDELL OF WARDOUR (1584-1643), fought for royalists in civil war. [ii. 149]

ASAPH (d. c. 596), Welsh saint; known also as ASAAP, ASSE, or ASA; grandson of Pabo [q. v.]; succeeded St. Kentigern [q. v.], c. 570, in the monastery at confluence of rivers Olwyd and Elwy; the monastery, perhaps in Asaph's time, elevated into a cathedral foundation; possibly first bishop of the see of Llanelwyl (known since c. 1100 as St. Asaph); his anniversary formerly celebrated at St. Asaph on 1 May. [Suppl. i. 78]

ASBURY, FRANÇOIS (1745-1816), Wesleyan bishop; went as preacher to America, 1771; made joint superintendent, and, later, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, United States of America, 1784. [ii. 149]

ASCHAM, ANTHONY (fl. 1553), astrologer; M.B. Cambridge, 1540; vicar of Burneston, Yorkshire, 1553; published astronomical and astrological works. [ii. 149]

ASCHAM, ANTONY (d. 1650), parliamentarian ambassador; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; tutor to James, duke of York; Hamburg agent of the republic, 1649; ambassador to Madrid, 1650, where he was murdered on his arrival. [ii. 150]

ASCHAM, ROGER (1515-1568), author; educated at St. John's College, Cambridge, where he distinguished himself in classics; B.A. and fellow, 1534; M.A., 1537; Greek reader at St. John's, 1538; visited Yorkshire; returned to Cambridge, 1542; published 'Toxophilus', a treatise on archery, in which accomplishment he had considerable skill, 1545; public orator, Cambridge University, 1546; succeeded Grindal as tutor to Princess Elizabeth, 1548; resigned this post and returned to his duties at Cambridge, 1550; secretary to Sir Richard Morysin, English ambassador to Charles V, 1550-3, during which period he travelled largely on the continent; Latin secretary to Queen Mary, 1553; was specially permitted to continue in his profession of protestantism; married and resigned his offices at Cambridge, 1564; private tutor to Queen Elizabeth, 1558; prebendary of York, 1559; troubled with ill-health during latter years of his life. His 'Scholemaster', a treatise on practical education, which he left unfinished, was published in 1670. [ii. 150]

ASGILL, SIR CHARLES (1763?-1823), general; assign 1st foot guards, 1778; lieutenant with captain's rank, 1781; captured at the capitulation of York Town

1781; chosen to suffer death in retaliation for the execution of an American prisoner, but released; lieutenant-colonel in guards, 1790; served in Flanders; colonel, 1795; staff-brigadier in Ireland, 1797; major-general, 1798; colonel 46th foot, and commander of Dublin, 1800; general, 1814. [il. 159]

ASGILL, JOHN (1659-1738), eccentric writer; student of Middle Temple, 1686; called to the bar, 1692; published a pamphlet to prove that death was not obligatory upon Christians, 1699; went to Ireland; member for Enniscorthy in Irish House of Commons, 1703; expelled and his pamphlet ordered to be burned; returned to England; M.P. for Bramber in parliament of 1705-7; expelled after his book had again been ordered to be burned; became involved in financial difficulties, and passed the rest of his life in Fleet or within rules of King's Bench; published several pamphlets. [il. 159]

ASH, JOHN (1724?-1779), baptist pastor at Loughwood, Dorset, and later at Pershore, Worcestershire; published an English dictionary, 1775. [il. 161]

ASH, JOHN (1723-1798), physician; M.D. Trinity College, Oxford, 1754; first physician of General Hospital, Birmingham, at which town he practised; F.C.P., 1787; practised in London after 1787, and held various posts in the College of Physicians. [il. 161]

ASH, SIMON (fl. 1200). [See SIMON.]

ASHBEE, HENRY SPENCER (1834-1900), bibliographer; founder and senior partner of London mercantile firm of Charles Lavy & Co., whose parent house was in Hamburg; organised branch at Paris, 1868; subsequently devoted his leisure to travel and book-collecting; formed the finest Cervantine library out of Spain; published 'Notes on Curious and Uncommon Books' (privately, 1877-85) and other bibliographical writings; he bequeathed many valuable books to the British Museum. [Suppl. i. 79]

ASHBORNE, THOMAS (fl. 1382). [See THOMAS.]

ASHBURNHAM, JOHN (1603-1671), royalist; protégé of Duke of Buckingham; groom of bedchamber, 1628; M.P. for Hastings, 1640; 'discharged and disabled' by the commons for contempt, being prevented by his attendance on the king from attending in the house, 1643; treasurer and paymaster of royalist army; attended king at Hampton Court, 1647; lost the confidence of the royalists owing to his connection with an unsuccessful attempt to effect Charles's escape, 1647; suffered many hardships, but, at the Restoration, again became groom of the bedchamber. [il. 162]

ASHBURNHAM, WILLIAM (d. 1679), royalist; brother of John Ashburnham [q. v.]; M.P. for Ludgershall, 1640; governor of Weymouth, 1644; cofferer of the household after the Restoration. [il. 164]

ASHBURTON, BARONS. [See DUNNING, JOHN, first BARON, 1731-1785; BARING, ALEXANDER, first BARON of the second creation, 1774-1848; BARING, WILLIAM BINGHAM, second BARON, 1799-1864.]

ASHBURY, JOSEPH (1638-1720), actor; served in army in Ireland; lieutenant of foot, Dublin, after the Restoration; master of revels and patentee to the Duke of Ormonde, lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1682; gained reputation for the Irish stage and for himself as actor and manager. [il. 164]

ASHBY, GEORGE (d. 1475), poetical writer; clerk of signet to Henry VI, and afterwards to Margaret of Anjou; perhaps confined in the Fleet, c. 1461; tutor to Henry VI's son Edward; left verses in manuscript. [il. 164]

ASHBY, GEORGE (1724-1808), antiquary; educated at Westminster, Eton, and St. John's College, Cambridge; M.A., 1748; fellow and B.D., 1756; rector of Hungerton, 1754-67, and of Twyford, Leicestershire, 1769-69; president, St. John's College, 1769-75; F.S.A., 1775; accepted living of Barrow, Suffolk, and also in 1780 that of Stansfield; wrote largely on antiquarian subjects. [il. 165]

ASHBY, HARRY (1744-1818), writing engraver; apprenticed at Wotton-under-Edge, Gloucestershire, to a clockmaker; employed later in London as writing engraver; executed plates for several works on penmanship. [il. 165]

ASHBY, SIR JOHN (d. 1693), admiral; lieutenant, 1665; captain, 1668; fought at Bantry Bay; knighted; made second rear-admiral of the blue, 1689; admiral of the blue at Barfleur, 1692. [il. 166]

ASHBY, RICHARD (1614-1680), jesuit, whose real name was THIMELAY; entered Society of Jesus, 1632; professor at Liège; joined English mission, c. 1648; rector of St. Omer's College; wrote theological works. [il. 166]

ASHDOWNE, WILLIAM (1723-1810), unitarian preacher; preacher at general baptist church, Dover, from 1759 to 1781, when he was elected pastor; published religious works. [il. 167]

ASHE, JOHN (1671-1735), religious writer; dissenting minister at Ashford. [il. 167]

ASHE, JONATHAN (fl. 1813), masonic writer; D.D. Trinity College, Dublin, 1808; published a work on freemasonry, 1813. [il. 167]

ASHE, ROBERT HOADLEY (1751-1826), divine; D.D. Pembroke College, Oxford, 1794; held living of Crewkerne, Somerset, 1776-1826. [il. 167]

ASHE, ST. GEORGE (1658?-1718), Irish bishop; fellow, Trinity College, Dublin, 1679; provost, 1692; bishop of Cloyne, 1695, of Clogher, 1697, and of Derry, 1717; known chiefly for his intimacy with Dean Swift, who was his pupil at Trinity College. [il. 168]

ASHE, SIMEON (d. 1662), nonconformist divine; educated at Emmanuel College, Cambridge; ejected for nonconformity from a living which he held in Staffordshire; chaplain to Earl of Manchester; after civil war received living of St. Austin; wrote several pamphlets and sermons. [il. 168]

ASHE or ASH, THOMAS (fl. 1600-1618), legal writer; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1674; pensioner, 1697; published legal works. [il. 169]

ASHE, THOMAS (1770-1835), novelist; held commission in 83rd foot regiment; entered a counting-house at Bordeaux; did secretarial work in Dublin and subsequently spent some years in foreign travel; wrote novels and miscellaneous works. [il. 169]

ASHE, THOMAS (1836-1889), poet; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1859; curate of Silverstone, Northamptonshire, 1860; mathematical and modern form master at Leamington college, 1865, and subsequently at Queen Elizabeth's school, Ipswich; wrote several volumes of poetry (collected, 1885). [Suppl. i. 80]

ASHFIELD, EDMUND (fl. 1690-1700), artist; pupil of John Michael Wright [q. v.]; executed crayon and oil portraits. [il. 169]

ASHFORD, WILLIAM (1746?-1824), landscape painter; settled in Dublin, 1764; abandoned a situation in Dublin ordnance department in the interests of art; first president, Royal Hibernian Academy, 1823. [il. 169]

ASHHURST. [See ASHURST.]

ASHLEY, first BARON (1621-1683). [See COOPER, ANTHONY ASHLEY.]

ASHLEY, SIR ANTHONY (1551-1627), clerk of the privy council; probably educated at Oxford; clerk of the council before 1588; journeyed with Norris and Drake to Spain, 1589; M.A. Oxford, 1592; secretary for war in the 'honourable voyage unto Cadiz' and knighted, 1596; made baronet, 1622; author of 'The Mariners Mirrour of Navigation', 1588. [il. 170]

ASHLEY, CHARLES JANE (1773-1843), performer on violoncello; son of John Ashley (1734?-1805) [q. v.]; secretary of Royal Society of Musicians, 1811. [il. 171]

ASHLEY, GENERAL CHARLES (1770?-1818), violinist; son of John Ashley (1734?-1805) [q. v.]; pupil of Giardini and Barthelemon; took part in Handel commemoration, 1784; member Royal Society of Musicians, 1791. [il. 171]

ASHLEY, JOHN (1734?-1805), musician; member of Royal Society of Musicians, 1765; assistant conductor at Handel commemoration, 1784; manager of oratorio concerts, Covent Garden, 1795. [il. 171]

ASHLEY, JOHN JAMES (1772-1815), singing master; son of John Ashley (1734?-1806) [q. v.]; pupil of Schroeter; member of Royal Society of Musicians, 1792. [ii. 171]

ASHLEY, RICHARD (1776-1836), violinist; son of John Ashley (1734?-1806) [q. v.]; member of Royal Society of Musicians, 1796. [ii. 171]

ASHLEY, ROBERT (1661-1641), miscellaneous writer; educated at Oxford; fellow commoner, Hart Hall, 1680; called to bar at Middle Temple; proficient linguist in European tongues and author of miscellaneous works. [ii. 172]

ASHMOLE, ELIAS (1617-1692), antiquary and astrologer; educated at Lichfield; solicitor, 1638; joined royalists, and in 1644 was appointed commissioner of excise at Lichfield; studied physics and mathematics at Brasenose College, Oxford; commissioner of excise, captain of horse and comptroller of ordnance, Worcester; Windsor Herald, 1660; held successively several government appointments; presented, 1677, his collection of curiosities to Oxford University, to which he subsequently bequeathed his library; M.D. Oxford, 1690; wrote or edited antiquarian and Rosicrucian works. [ii. 172]

ASHMORE, JOHN (fl. 1621), translator; published the first translation into English of selected Odes of Horace. [ii. 174]

ASHPITEL, ARTHUR (1807-1869), architect; practised 1842-54; spent some time in Rome, of which city he bequeathed two drawings to the nation; published verse and political pamphlets. [ii. 174]

ASHPITEL, WILLIAM HURST (1776-1852), architect; concerned as assistant in building of London docks and Kennet and Avon canal. [ii. 175]

ASHTON, CHARLES (1668-1752), divine; B.A. Queens' College, Cambridge; fellow, 1687; chaplain to Bishop Patrick; held living of Rattenden, Essex, 1699; chaplain to Chelsea hospital; prebendary of Ely, master of Jesus College, Cambridge, and D.D., 1701; vice-chancellor, Cambridge, 1702; published works on classical subjects and made textual emendations. [ii. 175]

ASHTON, EDWARD (d. 1658), colonel in army; executed for complicity in Ormonde's plot against lord protector, 1658. [ii. 175]

ASHTON, HENRY (1801-1872), architect; pupil of Sir Robert Smirke; executed designs for many London street improvements, notably Victoria Street. [ii. 176]

ASHTON, HUGH (d. 1522), archdeacon of York; M.A. Oxford, 1507; canon and prebendary in St. Stephen's, Westminster, 1509; prebendary of Strensall, York, 1515; archdeacon of Winchester, 1511-19, of Cornwall, 1515, and of West Riding, York, 1516; rector of Grasmere, Ambleside (before 1511), of Barnake, Lichfield, and (1522) of Burton Latimer, Northamptonshire. [ii. 176]

ASHTON, SIR JOHN DE (fl. 1370), military commander; distinguished himself at siege of Noyon by English, 1370; knight of shire, 1389. [ii. 177]

ASHTON, SIR JOHN DE (d. 1428), son of Sir John de Ashton (fl. 1370) [q. v.]; knight of shire for Lancashire, 1418; seneschal of Bayeux, 1416. [ii. 177]

ASHTON, JOHN (d. 1691), Jacobite conspirator; clerk of closet to Mary of Modena, wife of James II; probably held commission in army; arrested in 1690 for conspiring to restore James II; hanged at Tyburn. [ii. 177]

ASHTON, PETER (fl. 1546), English translator of Paulus Jovius's 'Turcicarum rerum Commentarius', 1546. [ii. 178]

ASHTON, SIR RALPH DE (fl. 1460-1483), officer of state; in his seventeenth year page of honour to Henry VI; held various offices under Edward IV; vice-constable of England and lieutenant of the Tower, 1488; perhaps murdered at Ashton-under-Lyne. [ii. 178]

ASHTON, SIR ROBERT DE (d. 1385), officer; M.P., 1324; lord treasurer (1362 and 1373); admiral of the Narrow Seas, 1369; king's chamberlain, 1373; constable of Dover and warden of Cinque ports, 1380. [ii. 179]

ASHTON, THOMAS DE (fl. 1346), warrior; fought with great valour under Neville at Neville's Cross, 1346; accompanied John of Gaunt to Spain, 1386. [ii. 179]

ASHTON or ASSHETON, SIR THOMAS DE (fl. 1446), alchemist; specially licensed by Henry VI to pursue his experiments, 1446. [ii. 180]

ASHTON, THOMAS (d. 1578), schoolmaster; M.A. Cambridge, 1563; and fellow, Trinity College; entered orders; first Headmaster of Shrewsbury school from 1562 to c. 1568; subsequently employed by Earl of Essex in communications between Elizabeth and privy council. [ii. 180]

ASHTON, THOMAS (1716-1775), divine; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge, where he made the acquaintance of Horace Walpole; rector of Sturminster Marshall, Dorsetshire, 1749, and of St. Botolph, Bishopsgate, 1762; D.D., 1759; preacher at Lincoln's Inn, 1762-4. [ii. 180]

ASHURST, HENRY (1614?-1680), merchant; apprenticed to draper in London; entered common council, and subsequently became an alderman; treasurer to Society for the Propagation of the Gospel; gave large sums in charity, particularly in Lancashire. [ii. 181]

ASHURST, JAMES (d. 1679), divine; vicar of Arlesey, c. 1631; left the living under Act of Uniformity, but continued to conduct services there as nonconformist. [ii. 181]

ASHURST or ASHHURST, WILLIAM HENRY (1725-1807), judge; educated at Charterhouse; entered Inner Temple, 1760; practised as special pleader; called to the bar, 1754; serjeant, 1770; judge of king's bench, 1770-99; one of the commissioners entrusted with great seal, 1783 and 1792-3. [ii. 182]

ASHURST, WILLIAM HENRY (1792-1855), solicitor; an enthusiastic radical, refusing to pay taxes till the Reform Bill should be passed, 1832; member of common council of London; under-sheriff of London; supplied funds and procured evidence to support Rowland Hill's postal scheme; a founder of the Society of Friends of Italy and of the People's International League, 1851 and 1852. [ii. 182]

ASHWADEBY, JOHN (fl. 1392), follower of Wycliffe; fellow of Oriel College, Oxford; vicar of St. Mary's; vice-chancellor of the university, 1392. [ii. 183]

ASHWELL, ARTHUR RAWSON (1824-1879), principal of Chichester Theological College; entered Trinity College, Cambridge, 1843; foundation scholar, Caius College, 1846; fifteenth wrangler, 1847; took orders; curate of Spelthorpe, 1848, and of St. Mary-the-Less, Cambridge, 1849; vice-principal, St. Mark's College, Chelsea, 1851-3; principal, Oxford Diocesan Training College, Culham, 1853; minister, Holy Trinity Church, Conduit Street, London, 1862; principal, Training College, Durham, 1865; canon-residentiary and principal Theological College, Chichester, 1870; wrote extensively for literary magazines. [ii. 183]

ASHWELL, GEORGE (1612-1695), controversialist; scholar, Wadham College, Oxford, 1627; M.A. and fellow, 1635; B.D., 1646; chaplain to Sir Anthony Cope of Hanwell, Oxfordshire; rector of Hanwell, 1668; published Anglo-catholic controversial works. [ii. 184]

ASHWELL, JOHN (d. 1641?), prior of Newnham; B.D. Cambridge; held benefices of Mistley, Littlebury, and Halstead; chaplain to Lord Abingenny's troops in France, 1515; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1521; prior, Newnham Abbey, c. 1527; opposed principles of Reformation, but took oath of supremacy to Henry VIII, 1534. [ii. 185]

ASHWOOD, BARTHOLOMEW (1622-1680), puritan divine; graduated at Oxford; held benefice of Bickleigh, Devonshire, and later that of Axminster, whence he was ejected, 1662; published religious works. [ii. 185]

ASHWOOD, JOHN (1657-1706), nonconformist minister; tutor at Axminster and later at Ohard; minister at Exeter; lecturer at Spitalfields; minister at Peckham. His 'Life,' by Thomas Reynolds, was published 1707. [ii. 186]

ASHWORTH, CALEB (1722-1775), dissenting tutor; originally carpenter; studied for the independent ministry under Doddridge, 1739, and became head of Doddridge's academy, which he removed to Daventry, 1752; D.D. Scotland, 1759; published educational and religious works. [ii. 186]

ASHWORTH, SIR CHARLES (d. 1839), major-general; ensign 68th foot, 1798; after successive promotions served in Peninsula as brigadier-general; major-general, 1826; K.O.B., 1831. [il. 187]

ASHWORTH, HENRY (1785-1811), navy lieutenant; prisoner, 1804; escaped, 1808; died of wounds received at Tarragona. [il. 187]

ASHWORTH, HENRY (1794-1880), opponent of corn-laws; of quaker parentage; educated at Ackworth; a founder of Anti-Corn Law League; friend and strenuous supporter of Cobden from 1837; published 'Recollections of Richard Cobden,' 1876, and other works. [il. 187]

ASHWORTH, JOHN (1813-1875), preacher, manufacturer, and author; his parents poor woollen weavers; educated at Sunday school; founded a chapel for the destitute of Rochdale, and became its minister, 1838; visited United States and Palestine; published tracts, which achieved vast popularity. [il. 188]

ASKE, ROBERT (d. 1537), leader of the 'Pilgrimage of Grace'; attorney and fellow of Gray's Inn; led Yorkshire insurrection called 'Pilgrimage of Grace,' which was a protest against the suppression of the smaller monasteries, and other oppressive legislative measures, 1536; came to London at request of Henry VIII to declare causes of complaint, and although apparently pardoned, was ultimately executed at York. [il. 189]

ASKEW, ANNE (1621-1646), protestant martyr; married Thomas Kyme, on death of her sister, who was to have married him; turned out of doors by her husband; came to London; underwent examinations for heresy, 1646, but was befriended by Bishop Bonner; set at liberty, but again arraigned for heresy; refused to recant, and was burned at Smithfield. [il. 190]

ASKEW, ANTHONY (1722-1774), classical scholar; M.B. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1745; studied at Leyden and travelled abroad; M.D., 1750; physician to St. Bartholomew's and Christ's hospitals; registrar of College of Physicians; left extensive library of books and manuscripts, chiefly classical; author of a manuscript volume of Greek inscriptions. [il. 192]

ASKEW, EGBON (b. 1576), divine; B.A. Oxford, 1597; chaplain, Queen's College, 1698; M.A., 1600; minister of Greenwich, Kent, c. 1603; published a volume of sermons. [il. 193]

ASKHAM, JOHN (1825-1894), poet; shoemaker at Wellingborough; librarian of literary insitute, Wellingborough; member of first school board there, 1871; school attendance officer and sanitary inspector, 1874; published five volumes of poems (1863-93). [Suppl. i. 81]

ASPINALL, JAMES (d. 1861), divine; successively curate of Rochdale, incumbent of St. Luke's, Liverpool (1831), and rector of Athorpe, 1844-61; published sermons and miscellaneous writings. [il. 193]

ASPINWALL, EDWARD (d. 1732), divine; educated at Cambridge; chaplain to Earl of Radnor; sub-dean of Chapel Royal; prebendary of Westminster, 1729; published theological works. [il. 194]

ASPINWALL, WILLIAM (A. 1648-1662), nonconformist minister; B.A. Magdalene College, Cambridge; held livings of Maghull, Lancashire, and Mattersey, Nottinghamshire, whence he was rejected under Act of Uniformity, 1662; formed meeting-house at Thurnsco, Yorkshire, and, later, was perhaps congregational minister at Cockermouth; published religious works. [il. 194]

ASPLAND, ROBERT (1782-1845), unitarian minister; Ward scholar at Bristol academy, where he studied for baptist ministry; proceeded to Marischal College, Aberdeen, but left, 1800, his views being considered 'unsound'; secretary, South Unitarian Society, 1803; minister, Gravel Pit chapel, Hackney, 1806-45; established several unitarian periodicals, including the 'Monthly Repository,' which he edited 1806-26; formed Christian Tract Society, 1809; set up Hackney academy for training unitarian ministers, 1813; helped to found and was secretary to Unitarian Fund, 1806-18; secretary to British and Foreign Unitarian Association, 1835-41; published many religious works. [il. 195]

ASPLAND, ROBERT BROOK (1806-1869), unitarian divine, son of Robert Aspland [q. v.]; M.A. Glasgow,

1822; unitarian minister successively at Chester, Bristol, Dukinfield, and Hackney; secretary of Manchester College, York, 1846-57, and of British and Foreign Unitarian Association, 1859. [il. 196]

ASTLEY, WILLIAM (A. 1588-1637), stationer and printer; freeman of Stationers' Company, 1597; warden, 1637; with Andrew Wise obtained license for publishing 'Much Ado about Nothing,' and '2 Henry IV,' 1600. [il. 197]

ASPLIN, WILLIAM (1687-1758), theologian; B.A. Trinity College, Oxford, 1707; vice-principal, St. Albans Hall; military chaplain; successively vicar of Banbury, Horley, and Burthorpe, Gloucestershire; published theological writings. [il. 197]

ASPULL, GEORGE (1813-1832), musician; displayed extraordinary musical genius at very early age; played piano before George IV, 1824; having performed in Paris, undertook concert tours in Great Britain and Ireland; wrote songs and pianoforte music. [il. 197]

ASSER (d. 909?), bishop of Sherborne, c. 900; monk of St. David's, perhaps bishop of St. David's; entered household of King Ælfred, with whom he studied six months each year, c. 885; received monasteries of Amesbury and Banwell, and, later, Exeter and its district; wrote life of Ælfred, and a chronicle of English history between 849 and 887. [il. 198]

ASSHETON. [See ASHTON.]

ASSHETON, NICHOLAS (1590-1625), diarist; wrote a journal extending from May 1617 to March 1619. [il. 199]

ASSHETON, WILLIAM (1641-1711), divine; B.A. and fellow, Brasenose College, Oxford, 1663; M.A., and took holy orders; chaplain to Duke of Ormonde, chancellor of the university; D.D.; prebendary of York, 1673; obtained livings of St. Antholin's, London, and Beckenham, Kent; originated a scheme for providing pensions to widows of clergy and others, which was adopted unsuccessfully by the Mercers' Company; published theological works, including 'The Possibility of Apparitions' (1706), occasioned by Defoe's fabricated story of the appearance of the ghost of Mrs. Veal. [il. 199]

ASSIGNY. [See D'ASSIGNY, MARIUS.]

ASTBURY, JOHN (1688?-1743), potter at Shelton, Staffordshire; introduced use of Bideford pipeclay, and was first to use calcined flint in the pottery manufacture (1730). [il. 201]

ASTELL, MARY (1668-1731), authoress; settled in London, c. 1688, and afterwards at Chelsea; published anonymously in 1694 'Serious Proposal to Ladies,' in which she advocated a scheme of religious retirement for women in an establishment 'rather academic than monastic,' which should be conducted on Church of England principles. The project elicited much comment, favourable and unfavourable, but ultimately fell to the ground. Published other works of a religious and controversial nature. [il. 201]

ASTELL, WILLIAM (1774-1847), director of East India Company, 1800-47; several times chairman and deputy-chairman; M.P. for Bridgewater, 1800, and, later, for Bedfordshire, of which county he was deputy-lieutenant. [il. 202]

ASTLE, THOMAS (1735-1803), antiquary and palaeographer; article as attorney, but abandoned the profession for antiquarian work and came to London; F.S.A., 1763; gained notice of Hon. George Grenville, who obtained him post of commissioner for regulating public records at Westminster; royal commissioner for methodising state papers at Whitehall, 1784; F.R.S., 1746; chief clerk of record office in the Tower, 1775, and keeper of the records, 1783; published 'Origin and Progress of Writing' (1784), and other archaeological works; conducted 'The Antiquarian Repository,' and contributed largely to 'Archæologia.' His collection of manuscripts (the 'Stowe') is now in the British Museum. [il. 203]

ASTLEY, SIR JACOB, BARON ASTLEY (1679-1652), royalist; served in the Netherlands; governor of Plymouth and Isle of St. Nicholas, 1688; sent as sergeant-major to Newcastle to provide against expected Scottish invasion, 1689; on council of war, 1640; joined King at Nottingham as major-general, 1642, and served with dis-

tioning during the civil war; made baron, 1644; his force routed, 1646, and himself imprisoned at Warwick; released on surrender of Oxford. [ii. 206]

ASTLEY, JOHN (d. 1696), master of the jewel house; held a confidential position in household of Princess Elizabeth; in Frankfurt during Mary's reign; master of jewel house on Elizabeth's accession, 1689; M.P. for Maidstone, 1686 and 1689; published 'Art of Riding' (1684). [ii. 206]

ASTLEY, JOHN (1730?-1787), portrait painter; pupil of Hudson; visited Rome, where he was a companion of (Sir) Joshua Reynolds; on his return obtained patronage of Horace Walpole; acquired great wealth by his art and by judicious marriages. [ii. 207]

ASTLEY, SIR JOHN DUGDALE (1828-1894), the sporting baronet; educated at Winchester, Eton, and Christ Church, Oxford; served in Crimea, 1854-5; brevet-major, 1855; promoted sport throughout armies at Balaclava; retired as lieutenant-colonel, 1859; raced under name of Mr. S. Thellusson, 1869; succeeded to baronetcy, 1873; conservative M.P. for North Lincolnshire, 1874-80; published 'Fifty Years of my Life,' 1894. [Suppl. i. 81]

ASTLEY, PHILIP (1742-1814), equestrian performer; trained as cabinet maker; joined General Elliott's light horse, 1769; became breaker-in, and rose to rank of sergeant-major; opened an exhibition of horsemanship at Lambeth, and in 1770 a wooden circus at Westminster; subsequently, with partial success, established in all nineteen equestrian theatres, including buildings at Paris and Dublin; opened Astley's Royal Amphitheatre, London, 1798 (destroyed by fire, 1803, and rebuilt, 1804); died in Paris. [ii. 207]

ASTON, ANTHONY (A. 1712-1781), dramatist and actor; educated as attorney; said to have played in London theatres, but principally toured in England and Ireland; delivered a ludicrous speech to House of Commons against restriction of number of theatres, 1735. [ii. 208]

ASTON, SIR ARTHUR (d. 1649), royalist general; in Russia with letters of recommendation from James I, c. 1613-18, and in camp of king of Poland during his war against Turks, 1618-31; attended Gustavus Adolphus in the Lützen campaign; sergeant-major-general at beginning of Scottish rebellion, 1640; knighted, 1641; colonel-general of royalist dragoons on outbreak of civil war, 1642; governor of Reading, during the siege of which town he was wounded; governor of Oxford, 1643, and having met with an accident, 1644, was pensioned; in Ireland, 1646; killed at capture of Drogheda by Cromwell. [ii. 208]

ASTON or ASHTON, JOHN (A. 1382), follower of Wycliffe; M.A. Merton College, Oxford; one of the Oxford Wycliffites prosecuted by Archbishop Courtney, 1382; expelled from the university, recanted and was readmitted, 1382; prohibited from preaching, 1387. [ii. 210]

ASTON, JOSEPH (1762-1844), miscellaneous writer; stationer, 1803, in Manchester; where, and later at Rochdale, he published and edited newspapers; published verses, plays, and other works. [ii. 211]

ASTON, SIR RICHARD (d. 1778), judge; practised as barrister; king's counsel, 1769; lord chief-justice of common pleas, Ireland, 1761; knighted and transferred to king's bench, England, 1766; member of the court which declared faulty the writ of outlawry against Wilkes, 1768; one of the commissioners entrusted with the great seal, 1770-1. [ii. 211]

ASTON, SIR THOMAS (1600-1645), royalist; educated at Brasenose College, Oxford; made baronet, 1628; high sheriff of Cheshire, 1635; commanded royalist forces at Middlewich, 1643, when he was defeated and captured, but rejoined king's army; was afterwards captured in a skirmish in Staffordshire, and died of wounds while attempting to escape from prison at Stafford; published 'Remonstrance against Presbytery,' 1641. [ii. 212]

ASTON, WALTER, BARON ASTON OF FORFAR (1684-1696), ambassador; K.B., 1693; ambassador to Spain, 1690-6 and 1698-8; raised to Scottish peerage, 1697. Patron of the poet Dryden. [ii. 212]

ASTON, WILLIAM (1735-1800), jesuit; educated at St. Omer; joined Society of Jesus at Watten, 1761; professor of poetry, St. Omer, 1761; president, Little College, Bruges; canon, St. John's church, Liège. [ii. 213]

ASTRY, RICHARD (1632?-1714), antiquary; B.A. Queens' College, Cambridge, 1651; M.A., 1664; left in manuscript historical collections relating to Huntingdonshire (Lansd. MS. 921). [ii. 214]

ASTY, JOHN (1672?-1730), dissenting clergyman; minister in family of the Fleetwoods, Stoke Newington; pastor to congregation at Moorfields, 1713-30. [ii. 214]

ATHELARD OF BATH (12th century). [See ADELARD.]

ATHELM (d. 923), probably monk of Glastonbury; first bishop of Wells, 909; archbishop of Canterbury, 914. [ii. 215]

ATHELSTAN or ÆTHELSTAN (895-940), king of West-Saxons and Mercians, and afterwards of all the English; son of Edward the Elder, probably by a mistress of noble birth; crowned at Kingston, Surrey, 925; crushed a coalition of minor kings formed to resist his imperial policy, and was acknowledged as overlord at Emmet, 926; obtained homage of Welsh princes; conquered Western Devonshire, and conciliated Welsh in Wessex; invaded Scotland, 933 or 934; at the battle of Brunanburh practically established unity of England by routing subject princes and Danish pirate kings, who had united to overthrow the West-Saxon supremacy, 937; buried at Malmesbury Abbey. [ii. 215]

ATHERSTONE, EDWIN (1788-1822), writer in verse and prose; published 'The Fall of Nineveh' in instalments, 1828, 1847, and 1868; wrote historical romances. [ii. 217]

ATHERTON, JOHN (1698-1640), Irish bishop; educated at Gloucester Hall (Worcester College) and Lincoln College, Oxford; rector of Huish Comb Flower, Somerset; prebendary of St. John's, Dublin, 1630; chancellor of Killaloe, 1634; chancellor of Christ Church and rector of Killaban and Ballintubride, 1635; bishop of Waterford and Lismore, 1636; found guilty of unnatural crime, degraded and hanged at Dublin, 1640. [ii. 217]

ATHERTON, WILLIAM (1775-1850), Wesleyan minister; president of Wesleyan conference, 1846; superintendent of Wakefield district, and chairman of Leeds district, 1849. [ii. 218]

ATHERTON, SIR WILLIAM (1806-1864), lawyer; special pleader, 1832-9; called to bar, 1839; advanced liberal M.P., Durham, 1852, 1857, and 1859; Q.O., 1852; standing counsel to admiralty, 1855-9; solicitor-general and knighted, 1859; attorney-general, 1861. [ii. 218]

ATHLONE, EARLS OF. [See GINKEL, GODERT DE, first EARL, 1630-1703; GINKEL, FREDERICK CHRISTIAN, second EARL, 1668-1719.]

ATHLUMNEY, first BARON (1802-1878). [See SOMERVILLE, SIR WILLIAM MEREDYTH.]

ATHOLE or ATHOLL, DUKES OF. [See MURRAY, JOHN, first DUKE, 1659-1724; MURRAY, JAMES, second DUKE, 1690?-1764; MURRAY, JOHN, third DUKE, 1729-1774.]

ATHOLE or ATHOLL, MARQUISES OF. [See MURRAY, JOHN, first MARQUIS, 1635?-1703; MURRAY, JOHN, second MARQUIS, 1659-1724.]

ATHOLE or ATHOLL, EARLS OF. [See DURWARD, ALAN, d. 1268; STEWART, WALTER, d. 1437; STEWART, JOHN, first EARL of a new creation, 1440?-1612; STEWART, JOHN, third EARL, d. 1642; STEWART, JOHN, fourth EARL, d. 1678.]

ATHONE, JOHN (d. 1350). [See ACTON, JOHN.]

ATKINE, ATKINS, or ETKINS, JAMES (1613?-1687), Scottish bishop; M.A. Edinburgh, 1636; at Oxford; benefited successively Birsay (Orkney) and Winifridh (Dorset); bishop of Moray, 1676, of Galloway, 1680. [ii. 219]

ATKINS. [See ATKINS.]

ATKINS, HENRY, M.D. (1558-1635), physician; graduated at Oxford; M.D. Nantes; president College Physicians six times between 1607 and 1625; attended Henry, prince of Wales, in his last illness, 1612. [ii. 219]

ATKINS, JOHN (1688-1757), naval surgeon; in actions at Malaga (1708) and Vala Bay (1710); sailed to Guinea, Brazil, and West Indies with expedition to put down piracy, 1721-8; published 'Navy Surgeon' (1732) and an account of his voyage. [ii. 220]

ATKINS, RICHARD (1559?-1581), protestant martyr; a catholic till nineteen years of age; in Rome, 1581, where his denunciations against the church issued in his torture and death at the hands of the inquisition. [ii. 220]

ATKINS, SAMUEL (A. 1787-1808), marine painter; contributed to Royal Academy, 1787-96; in East Indies, 1796-1804; exhibited till 1808. [ii. 221]

ATKINS, WILLIAM (1601-1681), jesuit; entered Society of Jesus, 1635; rector of 'College of St. Aloysius,' 1653; died, a victim of Oates's plot, in Stafford gaol. [ii. 221]

ATKINSON, SIR HARRY (1831-1892), prime minister of New Zealand; educated at Rochester and Blackheath; emigrated to New Zealand, 1855; captain in Waitara war, 1880-4; minister of defence in cabinet of Sir Frederick Aloysius Weld [q. v.], 1884-5; took prominent part in struggle between centralism and provincialism, 1874-8; prime minister of New Zealand, 1876-7, 1883-4, and 1887-91, and colonial treasurer, 1875-6, 1876-7, 1879-83, and 1887-1891; K.O.M.G., 1888; speaker of legislative council, 1891. [Suppl. i. 83]

ATKINSON, HENRY (1781-1829), mathematician; assisted his father and sister in management of schools at Great Bavington (Northumberland), West Woodburn, West Belsay, Stamfordham, and Hawkwell; settled in Newcastle-on-Tyne, 1808; contributed to the Newcastle Literary and Philosophical Society many remarkable papers on scientific topics. [ii. 221]

ATKINSON, JAMES (1759-1839), surgeon, bibliographer, and portraitist; senior surgeon to York County hospital and to the York dispensary; surgeon to Duke of York; published 'Medical Bibliography,' 1834. [ii. 222]

ATKINSON, JAMES (1780-1852), Persian scholar; studied medicine in Edinburgh and London; medical officer on an East Indianman; assistant surgeon in Bengal service, 1805; assistant assay master, Calcutta mint, 1813-28; superintendent of 'Government Gazette,' 1817, and of 'Press,' 1823; surgeon to 55th regiment native infantry, 1833; superintendent surgeon to army of Indus, 1838-41; member of medical board, 1845; published translations from Persian. [ii. 223]

ATKINSON, JOHN AUGUSTUS (b. 1775), painter; taken at age of nine to St. Petersburg, where he gained patronage of Empress Catherine and Emperor Paul; returned to England, 1801; exhibited in Royal Academy between 1809 and 1829; prepared plates for several volumes published in Russia or England. Notable among his pictures are 'Battle of Waterloo' (1819) and 'Seven Ages' (1812). [ii. 223]

ATKINSON, JOHN CHRISTOPHER (1814-1900), antiquary; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1838; vicar of Danby, Yorkshire, 1847-1900; honorary D.C.L. Durham, 1887; prebendary of York, 1891; published 'Forty Years in a Moorland Parish' (a collection of local legends and traditions), 1891, and other antiquarian works, besides books for children. [Suppl. i. 83]

ATKINSON, JOSEPH (1743-1818), dramatist; served in army; wrote and adapted several plays which were produced in Dublin, 1785-1800. [ii. 224]

ATKINSON, MILES (1741-1811), divine; B.A. Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1763; headmaster of Drighlington school, near Leeds; minister in Leeds and neighbourhood, 1763 till death. [ii. 224]

ATKINSON, PAUL (1556-1739), Franciscan friar; defender of English province; condemned on account of his priestly character to perpetual imprisonment in Hurst Castle, Hampshire, where he died. [ii. 225]

ATKINSON, PETER (1725-1805), architect at York; assistant to John Carr, to whose practice he succeeded. [ii. 225]

ATKINSON, PETER (1776-1823), architect; son of Peter Atkinson (1725-1805) [q. v.]; built bridge over Ouse, York, 1810. [ii. 225]

ATKINSON, STEPHEN (A. 1619), metallurgist; 'finer' in Tower of London, 1586; silver refiner in Devonshire; obtained leave to search for gold and silver in Crawford Muir, 1616, but was unsuccessful. [ii. 225]

ATKINSON, THOMAS (1600-1639), divine; scholar, St. John's College, Oxford, 1615; B.D., 1630; senior proctor of the university; rector of Islip, 1638; wrote Latin poems and a Latin tragedy. [ii. 225]

ATKINSON, THOMAS (1801?-1833), poet and miscellaneous writer; bookseller at Glasgow. [ii. 226]

ATKINSON, THOMAS WITLAM (1799-1861), architect; worked successively as bricklayer's labourer, quarryman, and stonemason; taught drawing at Ashton-under-Lyne; studied Gothic architecture, and in 1827 established himself as architect in London; built St. Luke's Church, Cheetham Hill, Manchester; abandoned architecture for art and travel, in the course of which he visited oriental Russia, 1848-53; published, 1858 and 1860, volumes containing journals and topographical drawings; F.R.G.S., 1858; fellow of Geological Society, 1859. [Suppl. i. 84]

ATKINSON, WILLIAM (d. 1509), translator; D.D. Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1498; canon of Lincoln, 1504, and of Windsor, 1507; translated from French three books (1502) of the 'Imitation of Christ.' [ii. 226]

ATKINSON, WILLIAM (1773?-1839), architect; began life as a carpenter; pupil of James Wyatt; academy gold medallist, 1795. [ii. 226]

ATKINSON, WILLIAM (1757-1846), poetical writer; B.A. and fellow, Jesus College, Cambridge, 1780; M.A., 1783; rector of Warham All Saints, Norfolk; published 'Poetical Essays,' 1786. [ii. 226]

ATKYN, SIR EDWARD (1587-1669), judge; student of Lincoln's Inn, 1601; called to bar, 1614; governor of the society, 1630; 'autumn reader,' 1632; defended Prynne when charged before Star Chamber with libels appearing in 'Histriomastix'; serjeant, 1640; created by the Commons baron of exchequer, 1645; removed by the Lords to court of common pleas, 1648; nominated one of the judges to try disturbers of peace in eastern counties, 1650; renominated judge, 1659; created anew baron of exchequer and knighted, 1660. [ii. 227]

ATKYN, SIR EDWARD (1630-1698), judge; son of Sir Edward Atkyns (1587-1669) [q. v.]; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1653; autumn reader, 1675; serjeant, baron of exchequer, and knighted, 1679; lord chief baron, 1686; refused allegiance to William III and resigned, 1688. [ii. 228]

ATKYN, JOHN TRACY (d. 1773), judge; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1732; cursoritor baron of exchequer, 1755; published (1765-8) notes of chancery cases, 1736-54. [ii. 228]

ATKYN, RICHARD (1615-1677), writer on typography; educated at Balliol College, Oxford; travelled abroad with Lord Arundell of Wardour's son for three years; raised troop of horse for king, 1642; after Restoration made deputy-lieutenant for Gloucestershire; published, 1680, a broadside by which he hoped to prove that the right to printing belonged to the crown alone, and to secure for himself the office of patentee for printing law books; committed for debt, 1677, to the Marshalsea, where he died. [ii. 228]

ATKYN, SIR ROBERT (1621-1709), judge; son of Sir Edward Atkyns (1587-1669) [q. v.]; M.A. Oxford; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1645; M.P. for Evesham, 1659; made K.B. at Charles II's coronation; M.P. for Eastlow, bench of his inn, and recorder of Bristol, 1661; judge of court of common pleas, 1672; retired from bench, probably on account of disaffection to Charles II's government, 1679; resigned his rectorship; succeeded his brother as chief baron, 1689; speaker of House of Lords (the great seal being in commission), 1689-93; retired from bench, 1694; published legal treatises. [ii. 230]

ATKYN, SIR ROBERT (1647-1711), topographer; son of Sir Robert Atkyns (1621-1709) [q. v.]; knighted, 1688; M.P. for Cirencester, 1681, and Gloucestershire, 1686; published topographical work on Gloucestershire, 1712. [ii. 232]

ATLAY, JAMES (1817-1894), bishop of Hereford; educated at Grantham and Oakham; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1840; fellow, 1842; M.A., 1843; B.D.,

1850; D.D., 1859; tutor, 1846-59; vicar of Madingley, 1847-52; Whitehall preacher, 1856; select preacher at Cambridge, 1858 and 1859; vicar of Leeds, 1859-68; canon residentiary at Ripon, 1861; bishop of Hereford, 1868-94. [Suppl. i. 85]

ATMORE, CHARLES (1759-1826), Wesleyan minister; sent out by Wesley as itinerant evangelist, 1781; successively minister in many English towns; president, Wesleyan conference, 1811. [ii. 233]

ATSLÖWE, EDWARD (d. 1594), physician; fellow and M.D. New College, Oxford, 1666; F.O.P.; physician to Earl of Essex; twice imprisoned (1579 and 1585) for supposed connection with conspiracies in behalf of Mary Queen of Scots. [ii. 233]

ATTAWELL, HUGH (d. 1621). [See ATWELL.]

ATTERBURY, FRANÇOIS (1662-1732), bishop of Rochester; son of Lewis Atterbury (d. 1693) [q. v.]; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; tutor at Christ Church; took part as protestant in the controversy resulting from James II's attempts to force his religion on the university, c. 1687; took holy orders, 1687; lecturer of St. Bride's, London, 1691; chaplain to William and Mary, and preacher at Bridewell Hospital; gained considerable repute by his opposition to Erastianism in church and state, and was appointed archdeacon of Totnes, prebendary of Exeter Cathedral, and D.D., 1701; chaplain in ordinary to Anne; dean of Carlisle, 1704; preacher at Rolls Chapel, 1709; dean of Christ Church, 1712; bishop of Rochester and dean of Westminster, 1713; took part in coronation of George I; lean towards the Jacobite cause; held direct communications with the Jacobites, 1717; imprisoned in the Tower for alleged connection with an attempt to restore the Stuarts, 1720; deprived of his offices and banished; went to Brussels, 1723, and thence to France; entered the service of James II's son, the old Pretender; died in France; was buried privately in Westminster Abbey. [ii. 233]

ATTERBURY, LEWIS the elder (d. 1693), divine; D.D. Christ Church, Oxford, 1660; rector of Great or Broad Rissington, Gloucestershire, 1654; received living of Middleton-Keynes, Buckinghamshire, 1657; chaplain to Duke of Gloucester, 1660. [ii. 233]

ATTERBURY, LEWIS, LL.D., the younger (1656-1731), divine; son of Lewis Atterbury (d. 1693) [q. v.]; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1679; M.A., 1680; chaplain to lord mayor of London, 1683; rector of Sywell, Northamptonshire, 1684; LL.D., 1687; one of six chaplains to Princess Anne of Denmark, at Whitehall; preacher at Highgate chapel, 1695; successively rector of Shepperton and Hornsey; published religious works. [ii. 233]

ATTERBURY, LUFFMAN (d. 1796), musician; trained as carpenter and builder, but devoted his leisure to music; musician in ordinary to George III; member of the Madrigal Society, 1765. [ii. 239]

ATTERSOLL, WILLIAM (d. 1640), puritan divine; B.A. Clare Hall, Cambridge, 1582; M.A. Peterhouse, 1586; occupied living of Isfield, Sussex, 1600-40; published biblical commentaries and religious treatises. [ii. 239]

ATTERSOLL, WILLIAM (fl. 1662), puritan divine; probably son of William Attersoll [q. v.]; ejected from living of Hoadley, Sussex, 1662. [ii. 240]

ATTWOOD, THOMAS (1765-1838), musician; as chorister of Chapel Royal attracted attention of Prince of Wales (George IV), who sent him to study music at Naples, 1783; studied under Mozart at Vienna, 1785; music master to Duchess of York; organist of St. Paul's and composer to Chapel Royal, 1796. [ii. 240]

ATTWOOD, THOMAS (1783-1856), political reformer; son of a Birmingham banker; entered his father's bank, c. 1800; captain in volunteer infantry, 1803-5; high bailiff of Birmingham, 1811; agitated successfully for repeal of orders in council restricting British trade with continent and United States, 1812-18; opposed in several pamphlets policy of reducing paper currency when specie was scarce, c. 1816; founded, 1830, 'Birmingham Political Union for Protection of Public Rights', which supported Earl Grey's government during passage of Reform Bill; returned to parliament as one of two members for Birmingham, 1832; supported Daniel O'Connell,

1833; allied himself with the chartists, and presented (1839) their 'national petition' to House of Commons. [Suppl. i. 86]

ATWATER, WILLIAM (1440-1521), bishop of Lincoln; probably fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1480; D.D., 1493; vice-chancellor of the university, 1497 and 1500; temporarily chancellor, 1500; dean of Chapel Royal, 1502; canon of Windsor and registrar of order of Garter, 1504; prebendary, Salisbury Cathedral, 1502; chancellor of Lincoln, 1506-12, and prebendary, 1512; archdeacon of Lewes, 1509-12, and of Huntingdon, 1514; bishop of Lincoln, 1514. [ii. 241]

ATWELL, ATTAWEL, or ATTEWELL, HUGH (d. 1621), actor; played in first representation of Jonson's 'Epicene', 1609; member of Alleyn's company. [ii. 241]

ATWOOD, GEORGE (1746-1807), mathematician; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; third wrangler and first Smith's prizeman, 1769; fellow and tutor; M.A., 1772; F.R.S., 1776; occupied a post in connection with the revenue after 1784; published mathematical works. [ii. 242]

ATWOOD, PETER (1643-1712), Dominican friar; several times imprisoned, and finally executed on account of his sacerdotal character. [ii. 242]

ATWOOD, THOMAS (d. 1793), chief judge of Dominica, and, later, of the Bahamas; probably author of 'History of Dominica', 1791. [ii. 242]

ATWOOD, WILLIAM (d. 1706?), English barrister; chief-justice and judge of court of admiralty, New York, 1701; suspended on charges of corruption and maladministration, 1702, and returned to England; published statement of his 'Case' (1703), and many political books and pamphlets. [ii. 242]

AUBERT, ALEXANDER (1730-1806), astronomer; educated for mercantile career in Geneva, Leghorn, and Genoa; director and governor, London Assurance Company, 1753; F.R.S., 1772; F.S.A., 1784; built private observatory at Loampit Hill, near Deptford, 1786, and at Islington, 1788. [ii. 243]

AUBIGNY, SEIGNEURS OF. [See STUART, SIR JOHN, first SEIGNEUR, 1365?-1429; STUART, BERNARD, third SEIGNEUR, 1447?-1508; STUART, BAME, sixth SEIGNEUR, 1542?-1583; STUART, CHARLES, tenth SEIGNEUR, 1640-1672.]

AUBREY, JOHN (1626-1697), antiquary; grandson of William Aubrey [q. v.]; educated at Trinity College, Oxford; entered Middle Temple, 1646; brought to light megalithic remains at Avebury, 1649; F.R.S., 1668; lost most of his property through litigation and extravagance, 1662-77; empowered by patent, 1671, to make antiquarian surveys under the crown; formed large topographical collections in Wiltshire and Surrey; left in manuscript much antiquarian and historical material, including 'Minutes of Lives', which was used largely by Anthony à Wood. [ii. 246]

AUBREY, WILLIAM (1529-1595), civilian; B.C.L. Oxford, 1549; fellow of All Souls'; principal, New Inn Hall, 1550; professor of civil law, 1553-9; D.C.L., 1554; advocate in court of arches; chancellor to Archbishop Whitgift; master in chancery. [ii. 246]

AUCKER, JOHN (1619-1700), royalist divine; educated at Cambridge; fellow of Peterhouse, but ejected for loyalty; D.D., 1660; rector of All Hallows, Lombard Street, London, 1662-88; published religious works. [ii. 246]

AUCHINLECK, LORD (1706-1782). [See BOSWELL, ALEXANDER.]

AUCHINLOU, LORD (1553?-1591). [See BELLEN-DEN, SIR LEWIS.]

AUCHMUTY, SIR SAMUEL (1756-1822), general; born in New York; volunteer with 45th regiment on outbreak of American war, 1775; ensign, 1777; lieutenant, 1778; came to England; adjutant of 52nd regiment in India, 1783; captain, 1788; brigade-major, 1790; served against Tippoo Sultan and at Seringapatam, 1790-2; deputy-quartermaster-general, Calcutta, and brevet-major, 1794; brevet lieutenant-colonel, 1795; military secretary to Sir Robert Abercromby, 1795-7; returned to England, 1797; lieutenant-colonel, 10th regiment, 1800; adjutant-general to Abercromby in Egypt; K.B., 1803; commandant in

Isle of Thanet, and colonel, 103rd regiment, 1806; in Buenos Ayres, 1806-8; major-general, 1808; and commander-in-chief at Madras, 1810; colonel, 78th regiment, 1811; returned to England, 1813; Lieutenant-general; commander-in-chief in Ireland and Irish privy councillor, 1821. [ii. 246]

AUCKLAND, EARL OF (1784-1849). [See EDEN, GEORGE.]

AUCKLAND, BARONS. [See EDEN, WILLIAM, first BARON, 1744-1814; EDEN, GEORGE, second BARON, 1784-1849; EDEN, ROBERT JOHN, third BARON, 1799-1870.]

AUDELAY. [See AWDELAY.]

AUDINET, PHILIP (1766-1837), line-engraver; apprenticed to John Hall; engraved portraits for Harrison's 'Biographical Magazine' and other works. [ii. 248]

AUDLEY, BARONS. [See TOUCHET, JAMES, seventh BARON, first creation, 1468?-1497; TOUCHET, JAMES, first BARON, third creation, 1617?-1684.]

AUDLEY, EDMUND (d. 1524), bishop of Salisbury; B.A. Lincoln College, Oxford, 1463; prebendary of Hereford, 1464, of Salisbury, 1467, of Lincoln, 1472, of Wells, 1476, and of York, 1478; canon of Windsor, 1472; archdeacon of East Riding of Yorkshire, 1476, and of Essex, 1479; bishop of Rochester, 1480; translated to Hereford, 1492, and to Salisbury, 1502; chancellor of order of Garter. [ii. 248]

AUDLEY, ALDITHEL, or ALDITHELEY, HENRY DE (d. 1246), royalist baron; lord-marcher and constable on Welsh borders, 1223. [ii. 249]

AUDLEY, HUGH (d. 1662), moneylender; held a post in court of wards; amassed great wealth between 1605 and 1662. [ii. 249]

AUDLEY, ALDITHEL, or ALDITHELEY, JAMES DE, knight (d. 1272), royalist baron; son of Henry Audley [q. v.]; lord-marcher; defeated, along with Prince Edward, by Llewelyn and some English barons at Hereford, 1263; opposed Simon de Montfort's government, 1264; joined Gloucester in royalist cause, 1265; justiciary of Ireland, 1270. [ii. 249]

AUDLEY or AUDELEY, JAMES DE (1316?-1386), a 'first founder' of order of Garter, 1344; served with Black Prince in France, 1346; took part in the naval battle off Sluys, 1350; again with Black Prince in France, 1354-6; one of commanders of French expedition, 1359; governor of Aquitaine, 1362; grand seneschal of Poitou, 1369. [ii. 250]

AUDLEY, THOMAS, BARON AUDLEY OF WALDEN (1488-1544), lord chancellor; the founder of Magdalene College, Cambridge; town clerk of Colchester, 1516; M.P., 1523; entered Middle Temple; autumn reader, 1526; member of Princess Mary's council, 1525; attorney of duchy of Lancaster; groom of the chamber, 1527; member of Wolsey's household; chancellor of duchy of Lancaster and speaker of House of Commons, 1529; serjeant-at-law and king's serjeant, 1531; knight and keeper of great seal, 1532; lord chancellor, 1533; sanctioned Henry's divorce from Catherine of Arragon, 1533; presided at trials of Bishop Fisher and More, 1535; created peer, 1538; K.G., 1540; carried through parliament acts for attainder of Earl of Essex and for dissolution of Henry's marriage with Anne of Cleves, 1540; passed judgment on Catherine Howard, 1542; resigned great seal, 1544. [ii. 251]

AUFERRE, ANTHONY (1756-1833), antiquary; edited the 'Lockhart Letters,' 1817, and published, among other works, translations from the German and Italian. [ii. 254]

AUGUSTA SOPHIA (1768-1840), princess, daughter of George III; born at Buckingham House, London; on death of her father, received a residence at Frogmore and Clarence House, St. James's, where she died. Buried at Windsor. [ii. 255]

AUGUSTINE, ST. (d. 604), first archbishop of Canterbury; prior of Pope Gregory I's monastery of St. Andrew, Rome; sent as missionary to England with forty monks; received with tolerance by King Ethelbert, who was afterwards converted; consecrated 'bishop of the English' at Arles; founded monastery of Christchurch, Canterbury; organised missions into Western Kent and the East-Saxon kingdom. [ii. 255]

AUGUSTUS FREDERICK, DUKE OF SUSSEX (1778-1843), sixth son of George III and Queen Charlotte; born at Buckingham Palace, London; educated at Göttingen University; married, 1793, Lady Augusta Murray, subsequently created Duchess of Inverness; marriage declared void under Royal Marriage Act, 1794; raised to peerage as Baron Arklow, Earl of Inverness, and Duke of Sussex, 1801; strongly supported progressive political policy; grand master of freemasons, 1811; president of Society of Arts, 1816, and of Royal Society, 1830-9. [ii. 267]

AULDBON, LORD (d. 1608). [See LYON, SIR THOMAS.]

AUNGERVILLE, RICHARD (1281-1345). [See BURY, RICHARD DE.]

AURELIUS, ABRAHAM (1575-1632), pastor of French protestant church, London; graduated at Leyden, 1596; published Latin verses. [ii. 258]

AUST, SARAH (1744-1811), known, as authoress, by name of 'Hon. Mrs. Murray'; published, 1799, a topographical work on Scotland and Northern England. [ii. 258]

AUSTEN, SIR FRANCIS WILLIAM (1774-1865), admiral; brother of Jane Austen [q. v.]; served in East Indies, 1793-1800, and in North Sea and Baltic, 1811-14; rear-admiral, 1830; vice-admiral, 1838; admiral, 1848; admiral of the fleet, 1863. [ii. 258]

AUSTEN, JANE (1775-1817), novelist; lived successively at Steventon, near Basingstoke (where she was born), Bath, Southampton, Chawton, near Alton, and Winchester (where she died and is buried). Of her novels, 'Sense and Sensibility' appeared in 1811, 'Pride and Prejudice' in 1813, 'Mansfield Park' in 1814, 'Emma' in 1816, 'Northanger Abbey' and 'Persuasion' posthumously in 1818. [ii. 259]

AUSTEN, RALPH (d. 1676), writer on gardening; studied at Magdalen College, Oxford; proctor, 1630; deputy-registrar to visitors, 1647, subsequently registrar; published books on gardening. [ii. 260]

AUSTIN, CHARLES (1799-1874), lawyer; educated at Jesus College, Cambridge; gained Hulsean prize for an essay on Christian evidences, 1822; B.A., 1824; barrister, Middle Temple, 1827; joined Norfolk circuit; Q.C., 1841; abandoned practice, 1848, and lived in retirement, having achieved unprecedented success at the parliamentary bar. [ii. 261]

AUSTIN, HENRY (A. 1613), author of a poem called 'The Scourge of Venus, or the Wanton Lady. With the Rare Birth of Adonis,' 1613. [ii. 262]

AUSTIN, JOHN (1613-1669), catholic writer, under pseudonym, WILLIAM BIRCHLEY; pensioner, St. John's College, Cambridge; entered Lincoln's Inn, but was prevented by his religious convictions from practising as a lawyer; private tutor in Staffordshire during civil war; published religious works. [ii. 263]

AUSTIN, JOHN (1717-1784), Irish jesuit; entered Society of Jesus in Champagne, 1735; prefect of Irish college, Poitiers; preacher in Dublin, 1750. [ii. 264]

AUSTIN, JOHN (A. 1820), Scottish inventor; published works on systems of stenography and stenographic music, devised by himself. [ii. 264]

AUSTIN, JOHN (1790-1869), jurist; entered army and served in Sicily, but sold his commission and studied law; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1818; abandoned practice, 1825; professor of jurisprudence, London University (now University College), 1828; studied law in Germany, 1828-8; reigned his chair, 1832; member of criminal law commission, 1833; commissioned with Sir G. C. Lewis to inquire into state of government of Malta, 1836; lived, 1841-3, in Germany, and, 1844-6, in Paris; was made corresponding member of the French institute of moral and political sciences; published 'The Province of Jurisprudence determined,' 1832. [ii. 265]

AUSTIN, ROBERT (A. 1644), puritan divine; published a tract defending parliament's action against the king, 1644; D.D. [ii. 268]

AUSTIN, SAMUEL, the elder (A. 1629), religious poet; M.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1630; received benefice in Cornwall; published 'Austin's Urania, or the Heavenly Muse,' 1629. [ii. 269]

AUSTIN, SAMUEL, the younger (f. 1658), poetical writer; son of Samuel Austin (f. 1629) [q. v.]; B.A., 1666, Wadham College, Oxford, where his self-conceit made him 'the laughing-stock of the university wits; published 'Panegyrick' on the Restoration, 1661. [ii. 269]

AUSTIN, SAMUEL (d. 1834), painter; exhibited water-colour drawings at Society of British Artists, 1824-6, and at Society of Painters in Water-colours, of which he became associate (1827). [ii. 270]

AUSTIN, SARAH (1793-1867), translator; née Taylor; wife of John Austin (1790-1850) [q. v.]; translated from German and French and edited several works, chiefly historical, including 'Germany from 1760-1814' (1854), Ranke's 'History of the Popes' (1840), and 'History of Reformation in Germany' (1845). [ii. 270]

AUSTIN, WILLIAM (1587-1634), miscellaneous writer; barrister of Lincoln's Inn; his works (prose and verse), which were all published posthumously (1635-71), show a wide knowledge of patristic literature. [ii. 271]

AUSTIN, WILLIAM (f. 1662), classical scholar; son of William Austin (1587-1634) [q. v.]; barrister of Gray's Inn; wrote poems to celebrate marriage of Charles II, 1662, and a description, in verse, of the plague of London, 1666. [ii. 272]

AUSTIN, WILLIAM (1754-1793), physician; B.A. Wadham College, Oxford, 1776; lectured on Arabic; studied medicine at St. Bartholomew's Hospital; M.A., 1780, and M.D., 1783; practised at Oxford; professor of chemistry and physician to Radcliffe Infirmary, 1785; physician to St. Bartholomew's, 1786; F.C.P., 1787; delivered (1790) Gulstonian Lectures, which were published 1791. [ii. 272]

AUSTIN, WILLIAM (1721-1820), engraver and draughtsman; his plates, chiefly landscapes, of small merit; during latter years of life taught drawing in London and Brighton. [ii. 273]

AUVERQUERQUE, COUNT OF (1641-1708). [See NASSAU, HENRY.]

AVANDALE, first BARON (d. 1488). [See STEWART, ANDREW.]

AVELING, THOMAS WILLIAM BAXTER (d. 1884), minister of Kingsland congregational church, 1838-84; chairman of Congregational Union, 1876. [ii. 274]

AVERELL, ADAM (1754-1847), Irish primitive Wesleyan minister; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; ordained by Bishop Cope, 1777; adopted evangelical views under the influence of Wesley; curate to Dr. Ledwich at Aghaboe, 1789-91; president of primitive Wesleyan Methodist conference, 1818-41. [ii. 274]

AVERY, BENJAMIN (d. 1764), presbyterian minister; abandoned ministry in consequence of Salters' Hall controversy on subscription (1719), and became physician; treasurer, Guy's hospital; trustee, Dr. Williams's Library, 1728-64; LL.D. [ii. 274]

AVERY, JOHN? (f. 1695), pirate; established himself at Perim and levied a toll on all ships passing through Red Sea; disbanded his crew in West Indies, and possibly lived in hiding in England. [ii. 275]

AYESBURY, ROBERT OF (f. 1350). [See ROBERT.]

AYERSHAW, LOUIS JEREMIAH (1773?-1795). [See AYERSHAW.]

AVISON, CHARLES (1710?-1770), musician; studied in Italy; organist of St. Nicholas, Newcastle, 1734-70; published music and an 'Essay on Musical Expression,' 1762. [ii. 276]

AVONMORE, VISCOUNTS. [See YELVERTON, BARRY, first VISCOUNT, 1738-1805; YELVERTON, WILLIAM CHARLES, fourth VISCOUNT, 1824-1883.]

AWDELEY, JOHN (f. 1426), canon of monastery of Hagham, Shropshire; wrote verses, chiefly devotional. [ii. 276]

AWDELEY or AWDELEY, JOHN, otherwise called JOHN SAMPSON or SAMPSON AWDELEY (f. 1569-1577), London printer and miscellaneous writer; freeman of Stationers' Company, 1569; printed, 1661-77, ballads, news-sheets, and religious tracts, many, including 'Fraternity of Vacabondes' (1666), being of his own composition. [ii. 276]

AYTEL, DANIEL (d. 1600), parliamentarian; of good family, but a grocer's apprentice; entered parliamentary army and rose to rank of lieutenant-colonel; commanded soldiers at king's trial at Westminster; accompanied Cromwell to Ireland; returned to England before the Restoration; executed for being concerned in king's death. [ii. 276]

AYLESBURY, SIR THOMAS (1576-1657), patron of mathematical learning; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1605; secretary to the Earl of Nottingham, lord high admiral of England; baronet and master of mint, 1627; cashiered as a royalist, 1642; retired to continent, 1652. [ii. 277]

AYLESBURY, THOMAS (f. 1622-1659), theologian; M.A. and B.D. Cambridge and Oxford; published several Calvinistic works. [ii. 278]

AYLESBURY, WILLIAM (1615-1656), translator; son of Sir Thomas Aylesbury [q. v.]; B.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1631; travelled in France and Italy, as tutor to Duke of Buckingham and his brother, in whose service he continued till defeat of royalists; retired to continent on fall of Charles; returned to England, 1650; secretary to governor of Jamaica, 1656; published, at Charles I's request, translation of Davila's 'History of French Civil Wars.' [ii. 278]

AYLESFORD, first EARL OF (1647?-1719). [See FINCH, HENRAGE.]

AYLETT, ROBERT (1583-1655?), religious poet; LL.D. Trinity Hall, Cambridge, 1614; published religious verse, including a volume entitled 'Divine and Moral Speculations,' 1654. [ii. 279]

AYLIFFE, JOHN (1676-1732), jurist; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; M.A., 1703; LL.B. and LL.D. 1710; proctor in chancellor's court; published 'Ancient and Present State of University of Oxford,' 1714, and, in consequence of certain allegations contained in it, was expelled from the university and deprived of his privileges and degrees; published (1726 and 1732) two treatises on 'Canon Law' and 'Civil Law.' His 'New Pandect of Roman Civil Law' appeared posthumously, 1734. [ii. 279]

AYLMER, CHARLES (1786-1847), Irish jesuit; entered Society of Jesus, Stonyhurst College, Lancashire; rector, Clongowes College, Ireland, 1817; superior of Dublin Residence, 1816, 1822, and 1829; D.D. [ii. 281]

AYLMER, JOHN (1521-1594), bishop of London; B.A. Queens' College, Cambridge, 1541; chaplain to Henry Grey, marquiss of Dorset; tutor to Lady Jane Grey; archdeacon of Stow, 1553; deprived of preferments for opposing in convocation doctrine of transubstantiation, and fled to continent; returned to England, 1568; archdeacon of Lincoln, 1562; D.D. Oxford, 1573; bishop of London, 1577; became very unpopular owing to his arbitrary and unconciliatory disposition; his published writings are chiefly sermons and devotional works. [ii. 281]

AYLMER, MATTHEW, BARON AYLMER (d. 1720), naval commander-in-chief; lieutenant, 1678; captain in the Mediterranean, 1679-89; commander in battle off Beachy Head, 1690; commander-in-chief at Barfleur, 1692; rear-admiral, 1693; vice-admiral, 1693, and commander-in-chief, 1698, in Mediterranean; commander-in-chief of fleet, 1709-11 and 1714-20. [ii. 283]

AYLOFFE, JOHN (d. 1685), satirist; wrote 'Marvell's Ghost,' a satire against the Stuarts; possibly executed for complicity in Rye House plot. [ii. 284]

AYLOFFE, SIR JOSEPH (1709-1781), baronet; antiquary; educated at Westminster, Lincoln's Inn, and St. John's College, Oxford; F.S.A. and F.R.S., 1732; member of 'Gentlemen's Society at Spalding,' 1739; secretary for commission superintending erection of Westminster Bridge, 1736-7; one of the three keepers of state papers, 1763; for many years vice-president of Society of Antiquaries, to whose journal, 'Archæologia,' he contributed largely; published 'Calendars of the Ancient Charters,' 1773, and projected topographical and other works which met with little support. [ii. 284]

AYLOFFE, WILLIAM (d. 1585), lawyer; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1560; 'reader' at his inn, 1571; serjeant-at-law, 1577; was judge of queen's bench in 1579. [ii. 285]

AYLWARD, THEODORE (1730-1801), musician; member Royal Society of Musicians, 1763; professor of music, Gresham College, 1771; organist, St. George's Chapel, Windsor, 1788; Mus. Doc. Oxford, 1791 [il. 286]

AYLWORTH, WILLIAM (1695-1679). [See HAR- COURT.]

AYMER or ÆTHELMÆR (ÆTHELMAR) DE VALENCE, or DE LUSIGNAN (d. 1260), bishop of Winchester; son of Isabella, widow of King John, by Hugh X, Count of La Marche; came to England, 1247; received several livings from Henry III; elected bishop of Winchester, 1260; election confirmed by Innocent IV, 1261; incurred Henry III's anger by refusing to be bound by the grant to the king of a tenth of the clergy's income for three years; made himself generally unpopular by his violent behaviour; sent on an embassy to France, 1257; nominated by Henry on committee created by parliament of Oxford for redress of grievances, 1258; his property seized on his refusing to swear to provisions there drawn up; retired to France and died in Paris. [il. 286]

AYMER DE VALENCE, EARL OF PEMBROKE (d. 1324), nephew of Bishop Aymer (d. 1260) [q. v.]; succeeded to earldom, 1296; served in Flanders, 1297, and in Scotland, 1298; guardian of Scotland, 1306-7; led van of Edward II's army against Bruce, 1306; defeated Scots at Ruthven, 1306, and was defeated at London Hill, 1307; sided with Lancaster against Edward II, but went over to the court party, 1312; Lieutenant of Scotland; shared in king's defeat at Bannockburn, 1314; largely responsible for formal peace between Thomas, earl of Lancaster, and Edward II, 1318; accompanied expedition to Scotland, 1323; died at Paris on embassy to Charles IV. [il. 286]

AYREMINNE or AYERMIN, RICHARD DE (d. 1340?), diocesan chancellor; keeper of rolls, 1324; chancellor of diocese of Norwich, 1325, and of Salisbury, 1339; clerk of privy seal, 1327. [il. 290]

AYREMINNE or AYERMIN, WILLIAM DE (d. 1338), bishop of Norwich; elder brother of Richard de Ayreminne [q. v.]; master of rolls, 1316-24; made guardian for life of Jewish converts' house, 1317; captured by Scottish invaders, 1319, but released a few months later; papal nominee to the bishopric of Norwich, and consecrated against King Edward II's wish, in France, 1325; treasurer to Edward III, 1331. [il. 290]

AYRES, JOHN (f. 1680-1700), penman; footman to William Ashurst, lord mayor of London (1693-4), who paid for his education; became teacher of writing and accounts, St. Paul's Churchyard; introduced the Italian hand into England between 1690 and 1700; he executed and published many calligraphic works, including 'A Tutor to Penmanship,' 1698. [il. 291]

AYRES, PHILIP (1638-1712), pamphleteer and writer; educated at Westminster and St. John's College, Oxford; private tutor in Buckinghamshire; published many translations and original works in verse and prose. [il. 292]

AYRTON, AOTON SMEE (1816-1886), politician; practised as solicitor at Bombay; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1853; liberal M.P. for Tower Hamlets, 1857-74; parliamentary secretary to treasury, 1868-9; privy councillor, 1869; first commissioner of works, 1869-73; judge-advocate-general, 1873-4. [Suppl. I. 89]

AYRTON, EDMUND (1794-1808), musician; organist of Southwell Minster, 1764; gentleman of Chapel Royal, vicar choral of St. Paul's Cathedral, and lay vicar of Westminster, 1764; member Royal Society of Musicians, 1768; master of children of Chapel Royal, 1780-1805; Mus. Doc. [il. 292]

AYRTON, MATILDA CHAPLIN (1846-1888), medical student; née Chaplin; studied at London Medical College for Women; took high honours at extramural examinations at Surgeons' Hall, Edinburgh, 1870 and 1871; B. es. Sc. and B. es. L. Paris, 1871; opened and lectured in a school for native midwives in Japan, 1873; M.D. Paris, 1879; licentiate, King and Queen's College of Physicians, Ireland; worked at Royal Free Hospital, London, and at Algiers and Montpellier. [il. 292]

AYRTON, WILLIAM (1777-1858), musical writer; F.R.S., F.E.A.; son of Edmund Ayrtton [q. v.]; musical director of the King's Theatre, 1817 and 1821; edited the 'Harmonicon,' 1823-33; published; 'Musical Library,' 1834-6. [il. 293]

AYSCOUGH, ANNE (1521-1546). [See ASKEW, ANNE.]

AYSCOUGH, FRANCIS (1700-1763), divine; M.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1723; took orders; fellow, 1729; D.D., 1735; clerk of closet to Prince Frederick, 1740; preceptor to Prince George (George III); dean of Bristol, 1761. [il. 294]

AYSCOUGH, GEORGE EDWARD (d. 1779), dramatist and traveller; son of Francis Ayscough [q. v.]; produced version of Voltaire's 'Sémiramis,' Drury Lane, 1776; published account of travels in Italy. [il. 294]

AYSCOUGH, SAMUEL (1745-1804), librarian and index-maker; once working miller; overseer of street paviors, 1770; bookseller's assistant and assistant in cataloguing department of British Museum; published catalogue of undescribed manuscripts in British Museum, 1782; assistant librarian, c. 1785; ordained curate of Norton-on-Soar, Nottinghamshire; assistant curate, St. Giles's-in-the-Fields; compiled index to 'Monthly Review,' 1786 (continued, 1796); joint compiler of catalogue of books in British Museum, 1787; F.S.A., 1789; published 'Index to Shakespeare,' 1790; delivered the annual Fairfield Lectures, 1790-1804; prepared catalogues (still unpublished) of ancient rolls and charters in British Museum, 1787-92; vicar of Cudham, Kent, c. 1803. [il. 294]

AYSCOUGH, WILLIAM (d. 1450), bishop of Salisbury; prebendary of Lincoln Cathedral, 1436-8; bishop of Salisbury, 1438; Henry VI's confessor; lived continually at court, and thus caused such discontent in his diocese that on visiting it he was murdered at Edington, Wiltshire, after saying mass; L.L.D. [il. 297]

AYSCU or AYSCOUGH, EDWARD (f. 1633), historian; B.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1690; published, 1607, history of relations between England and Scotland from William I to the Union. [il. 298]

AYSCUE, SIR GEORGE (f. 1646-1671), admiral; knighted by Charles I; was a captain in 1646; appointed admiral of Irish seas under parliament, 1649; actively engaged in relief of Dublin when besieged by Ormonde, 1649; assisted in reduction of Scilly, 1651; reduced Barbados and Virginian settlements, 1651-2; defeated Dutch in the Downs, and engaged them off Plymouth, the result being indecisive, 1652; superseded in his command but pensioned, 1652; commanded Swedish fleet, 1658; appointed a commissioner of the navy at Restoration; in second Dutch war (1664-6) successively rear-admiral, admiral of the blue, and admiral of the white; prisoner in Holland, 1666-7; probably did not serve again after return to England, 1667. [il. 298]

AYTON, RICHARD (1786-1823), miscellaneous writer; educated for bar, but did not enter the profession; wrote and adapted plays, some of which were produced with moderate success; his essays published 1825. [il. 299]

AYTON or AYTOUN, SIR ROBERT (1670-1638), poet; M.A. St. Andrews, 1588; travelled on continent; studied civil law at Paris; returned to England, 1603; gentleman of bedchamber and private secretary to the queen; knighted, 1612; ambassador to Germany to deliver the king's 'Apology'; competed for provostship of Eton, which fell to Wotton, 1623; master of the royal hospital of St. Katherine, 1638; buried in Westminster Abbey; wrote poems, of no extraordinary merit, in Latin, Greek, French, and English. [il. 300]

AYTOUN, WILLIAM EDMONDSTOUNE (1813-1865), poet; educated at Edinburgh Academy and University; studied German literature in Aschaffenburg; admitted writer of the signet, 1835; called to Scottish bar, 1840; collaborated with (Sir) Theodore Martin in 'Bon Gaultier Ballads,' published 1845; joined staff of 'Blackwood's Magazine,' to which he contributed largely, 1844; professor of rhetoric and belles-lettres, Edinburgh, 1845; sheriff of Orkney, 1852; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, 1853; published 'Firmilian,' a dramatic poem, 1854, his annotated collection of 'Ballads of Scotland,' 1858, and (jointly with (Sir) Theodore Martin) 'Poems and Ballads of Goethe,' 1858. [il. 302]

B

BAALUN or BALUN, JOHN DE (d. 1235), justice itinerant for Gloucestershire, 1225; accompanied John to Ireland, 1210; lost his lands for taking part in barons' war. [ii. 303]

BAALUN or BALUN, ROGER DE (d. 1226), justice itinerant appointed by Henry III. [ii. 303]

BAAN. [See DE BAAN.]

BABBAGE, CHARLES (1792-1871), mathematician and scientific mechanician; M.A. Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1817; F.R.S., 1816; took part in foundation of Astronomical Society, 1820; secretary till 1824, and, later, successively vice-president, foreign secretary, and member of council; obtained government grant for making a calculating machine based on 'method of differences,' 1823, but the work of construction ceased, owing to disagreements with the engineer; offered the government (1834) an improved design, which was refused (1842) on grounds of expense; devoted thirty-seven years of his life and a large share of his fortune to the perfecting of this machine; Lucasian professor of mathematics, Cambridge, 1828-39, but delivered no lectures; principal founder of Statistical Society, 1834; published several scientific works, including 'Economy of Manufactures,' 1832, and 'Table of Logarithms,' 1827. [ii. 304]

BABELL or BABEL, WILLIAM (1690?-1723), private musician to George I.; pupil of Dr. Pepusch; organist, All Hallows, Broad Street; arranged many popular airs for the harpsichord. [ii. 307]

BABER, EDWARD COLBORNE (1843-1890), Chinese scholar; educated at Christ's Hospital and Magdalene College, Cambridge; B.A., 1867; student interpreter at Peking, 1866; first-class assistant, 1872; vice-consul at Tamsuy, Formosa, 1872; Chinese secretary of legation at Peking, 1879; consul-general in Korea, 1885-6; political resident at Bhamo. He made and described three journeys into the interior of China. [Suppl. i. 89]

BABER, HENRY HERVEY (1775-1869), philologist; M.A. Oxford, 1805; keeper of printed books at British Museum, 1812-37; rector of Strettham, Cambridgeshire, 1827-69. [ii. 307]

BABER, SIR JOHN (1625-1704), physician to Charles II; M.B. Christ's College, Oxford, 1646; M.D. Leyden, 1648, and Oxford, 1650; F.R.S., 1657; knight and physician to the king, 1660. [ii. 307]

BABINGTON, ANTHONY (1561-1586), catholic conspirator; page to Mary Queen of Scots, c. 1579; came to London and made many friends of his own creed at court; assisted in forming a secret society for protection of jesuits in England, 1580; travelled on continent, where he made acquaintance of Mary Stuart's emissaries; induced by Ballard, a catholic priest, to organise a catholic conspiracy to murder Elizabeth and release Mary, 1586; detected by Walsingham's spies, and after attempting to save himself by giving information, fled in disguise, and was finally captured and taken to the Tower; executed with Ballard and other conspirators. Mary's complicity in this conspiracy brought about her own execution. [ii. 308]

BABINGTON, BENJAMIN GUY (1794-1866), physician and linguist; midshipman, but left navy for Indian civil service; appointed to Madras presidency; returned from India owing to weak health; studied medicine at Guy's Hospital and Cambridge; M.D. 1830; F.R.S., 1831; physician at Guy's Hospital, 1840-58; F.R.S., president Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, 1861; member of medical council of general board of health; published medical works, and works on and translations from German and oriental languages. [ii. 311]

BABINGTON, BRUTE (d. 1610), bishop; B.A. and fellow, Christ's College, Cambridge, 1576; incorporated at Oxford, 1578; prebendary of Lichfield, 1592; bishop of Derry, 1610. [ii. 312]

BABINGTON, CHARLES CARDALE (1808-1895), botanist and archaeologist; educated at Charterhouse; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1830; M.A., 1833; fellow, 1839; one of the founders of Entomological Society,

1833; after many botanical excursions in British Isles he published a 'Manual of British Botany,' 1843; founder, 1836, and for fifty-five years secretary of the Ray Club; assisted in founding Cambridge Antiquarian Society, 1840; edited 'Annals and Magazine of Natural History' from 1842; professor of botany at Cambridge, 1861; fellow of Linnean and Geological Societies; F.S.A., 1859; F.R.S., 1861; his works include 'Flora of Cambridgeshire,' 1860, and 'The British Rubi,' 1869. [Suppl. i. 90]

BABINGTON, CHURCHILL (1821-1889), archaeologist; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1843; elected fellow and ordained, 1846; M.A., 1846; B.D., 1853; D.D., 1879; honorary fellow, 1880; Disney professor of archaeology at Cambridge, 1865; rector of Cockfield, Suffolk, 1866; published works on numismatics, botany, and ornithology, and edited 'Orations of Hyperides,' 1850-3. [Suppl. i. 92]

BABINGTON, FRANCIS (d. 1569), divine; M.A. Cambridge, 1552; fellow, All Souls, Oxford, 1567; master of Balliol, 1559; rector of Lincoln College, 1560; vice-chancellor, 1560-2; Lady Margaret reader in divinity, 1561; chaplain to Earl of Leicester; resigned rectorship of Lincoln, being suspected of clandestine Roman catholicism, and fled the country, 1563. [ii. 312]

BABINGTON, GERVASE (1550?-1610), bishop; fellow, Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A. Oxford, 1578; prebendary of Hereford; treasurer of Llandaff, 1590; bishop of Llandaff, 1591, of Exeter, 1595, and of Worcester, 1597; queen's counsel for marches of Wales; summoned to Hampton Court conference, 1604; published several religious works. [ii. 313]

BABINGTON, HUMFREY (1615-1691), divine; D.D. (1669) and vice-master, Trinity College, Cambridge; rector of Boothby Paine, Lincolnshire. [ii. 314]

BABINGTON, JOHN (fl. 1635), author of a volume dealing with geometry and the use of fireworks for military purposes, published in 1635. [ii. 314]

BABINGTON, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1455), judge; king's attorney, 1414; serjeant-at-law, 1415, but neglected to appear to writ until compelled by parliamentary order, 1417; chief baron of exchequer, 1419; justice, 1420, and chief-justice, 1423, of common bench; retired, 1436. [ii. 315]

BABINGTON, WILLIAM (1756-1833), physician and mineralogist; apprenticed to practitioner in Londonderry, and subsequently studied at Guy's Hospital, London; assistant surgeon, Haslar Naval Hospital, 1777; apothecary, 1781, and physician, 1795-1811, to Guy's Hospital; M.D. Aberdeen, 1795; hon. M.D. Dublin, 1831; one of the founders and, in 1822, president of Geological Society; F.R.S.; published geological and chemical works. [ii. 316]

BABYON, or BABYO, or BABION, PETER (fl. 1317-1366), divine; renowned as writer of elegant verse and prose in Edward II's reign; wrote also religious works. [ii. 316]

BACHE, FRANCIS EDWARD (1833-1858), musician; son of Samuel Bache (q. v.); played violin at Birmingham festival, 1846 and 1847; organist of All Saints' Church, Gordon Square, 1850; visited Leipzig, Paris, Algiers, and Rome, 1853-7; composed numerous pianoforte pieces. [ii. 317]

BACHE, SAMUEL (1804-1876), unitarian minister; minister at Old Meeting, Dudley, 1829-32; joint-minister in Birmingham at New Meeting, 1832-62, and at Church of the Messiah, 1862-8; took part in establishing Hospital Sunday, 1839; published religious works. [ii. 317]

BACHE, SARAH (1771?-1844), hymn-writer; kept Islington school at Birmingham; author of the hymn 'See how he loved.' [ii. 318]

BACHHOFFNER, GEORGE HENRY (1810-1879), one of the founders (1837) of London Polytechnic Institution, where he lectured on scientific subjects. [ii. 318]

BACK, SIR GEORGE (1796-1878), admiral and Arctic navigator; midshipman, 1808; captured by French at Deba, 1809; returned to England, 1814; served against French on North American station; admiralty mate,

1817; accompanied Franklin on voyage of discovery to Spitzbergen seas, 1818, and in expeditions to Coppermine river, 1819-22, and Mackenzie river, 1824-7; lieutenant, 1822; commander, 1827; led exploring expedition to Great Fish river, 1833-5; captain, and gold medallist, Geographical Society, 1835; commanded an expedition to complete coast-line between Regent's Inlet and Cape Turnagain, 1836; received in 1837 both medals of Geographical Society, of which he was subsequently vice-president and member of council; knighted, 1839; admiral, 1857; F.R.S.; published accounts of his voyages. [ii. 318]

BACKHOUSE, EDWARD (1808-1879), quaker; wrote 'Early Church History,' published posthumously, 1884. [ii. 320]

BACKHOUSE, WILLIAM (1593-1662), Rosierucian philosopher; educated at Christ Church, Oxford; adopted Elias Ashmole as his son; left in manuscript (Ashmol. MSS.) translations in verse and prose of French works on occult philosophy. [ii. 320]

BACKWELL, EDWARD (d. 1683), London goldsmith and banker at Unicorn, Lombard Street; probably chief; originator of system of banknotes; had financial dealings with Cromwell; alderman for Bishopsgate ward, 1667; sent to Paris to receive money for sale of Dunkirk to France, 1662; after treaty at Dover, 1670, was a frequent intermediary in money transactions between Charles II and Louis; sued by several creditors, a large sum being due to him from the exchequer, which Charles II had just closed, 1672; took refuge temporarily in Holland after judgment had been given against him; M.P. for Wendover, 1679 and 1680. [ii. 321]

BACON, ANN, LADY (1528-1610), mother of Francis Bacon [q.v.]; associated with her father, Sir Anthony Cooke, as governess when he was tutor to Edward VI; married Sir Nicholas Bacon [q.v.] c. 1567; won great repute for her learning; translated Bishop Jewel's 'Apologie for the Church of England,' 1564. [ii. 323]

BACON, ANTHONY (1558-1601), diplomatist, elder son of Sir Nicholas and Ann Bacon [q.v.]; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, 1573-5; 'ancient' of Gray's Inn, 1576; at Burghley's suggestion toured on continent in search of political intelligence, 1579-92; M.P. for Wallingford, 1593; entered service of Earl of Essex, 1593, and became his private 'under-secretary of state for foreign affairs,' in which capacity he was in communication with spies and ambassadors in all parts of Europe; lived with Essex at Essex House, by the Strand, 1595-1600; M.P. for Oxford, 1597; he was generous beyond his means, and frequently in embarrassed circumstances. [ii. 324]

BACON, EDWARD (d. 1618), sheriff of Suffolk; third son of Sir Nicholas Bacon [q.v.]; 'ancient' of Gray's Inn, 1576; M.P. successively for Yarmouth, Tavistock, Weymouth, and Suffolk; sheriff of Suffolk, 1601; knighted 1603. [ii. 371]

BACON, FRANÇOIS, first BARON VERULAM and VISCOUNT ST. ALBANS (1561-1626), lord chancellor; younger son of Sir Nicholas Bacon (1509-1579) [q.v.]; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, 1573-5; admitted to Gray's Inn, 1576; attached to embassy of Sir Amias Paulet to France, 1576-9; utter barrister, 1582; M.P., Melcombe Regis, 1584; wrote 'Letter of Advice to Queen Elizabeth,' urging strong measures against Catholics, c. 1584; M.P., Taunton, and bench of Gray's Inn, 1586; M.P., Liverpool, 1589; made acquaintance of Earl of Essex, who subsequently treated him with great generosity, c. 1591; M.P., Middlesex, 1593; queen's counsel, 1596; published 'Essays,' 1597; M.P., Southampton, 1597; appointed, among others, to investigate causes of Essex's revolt, and was largely responsible for the earl's conviction, 1601; nominated king's counsel and knighted by James I, 1603; one of the commissioners for arrangement of union with Scotland, and confirmed as king's counsel, 1604; published 'Advancement of Learning,' 1605; married Alice Barnham, 1606; solicitor-general, 1607; published 'De Sapientia Veterum,' 1609; supported James's claims in connection with the 'great contract,' by which the king was to receive a fixed income in exchange for that derived from feudal tenures and other sources, 1610; attorney-general, 1613; chief prosecutor at trial of Somerset, 1616; privy councillor, 1616; lord-keeper, 1617; wrote 'New Atlantis' between 1614 and 1618; lord-chancellor and raised to peerage as Baron Verulam, 1618; took court side in prosecution of Raleigh (1618), of Suffolk (1619), and of Yelverton (1620); published 'Novum Organum,' 1620; made Viscount St. Albans, 1621; charged before House of Lords with bribery; confessed that he was guilty of 'corruption and neglect'; deprived of great seal, fined, condemned to confinement during the king's pleasure, and disabled from sitting in parliament; remained in Tower only a few days, the fine being subsequently assigned by the king to trustees for Bacon's own use; published 'Life of Henry VII,' 1622, 'De Augmentis Scientiarum' (the 'Advancement of Learning' completed and translated into Latin), 1623, and an enlarged edition of the 'Essays,' 1625; engaged on 'Sylva Sylvarum' at the time of his death.

Bacon's works may be divided into three classes, the philosophical (which form by far the greatest portion), the literary, and the professional works. The principal and best known of the philosophical works are: (1) the 'Advancement of Learning,' published in English in 1605; (2) the 'Novum Organum,' published in Latin in 1620, under the general title 'Francisci de Verulamio . . . Instauratio Magna,' with a second title (after the preface) 'Pars secunda operis, quæ dicitur Novum Organum sive indicia vera de interpretatione nature'; and (3) the 'De Augmentis,' published in Latin in 1623 with the title 'Opera F. Baconi de Verulamio . . . Tomus primus, qui continet de Dignitate et Augmentis Scientiarum libros ix.' It was Bacon's ambition to create a new system of philosophy, based on a right interpretation of nature, to replace that of Aristotle; the 'Novum Organum' describes the method by which the renovation of knowledge was to be achieved, and is thus the keystone to the whole system. The 'Advancement of Learning,' of which the 'De Augmentis' may be regarded as an enlarged edition, was included in the 'Great Instauration' as a preliminary review of the present state of knowledge. Of Bacon's literary works, the most important are the 'Essays,' first published in 1597, and issued in final form, 1625; 'De Sapientia Veterum,' published in 1609; 'Apophthegms New and Old,' published in 1624; and the 'History of Henry the Seventh,' 1622. The largest and most important of his professional works are the treatises entitled 'Maxims of the Law' and 'Reading on the Statute of Uses.' [ii. 328]

BACON, SIR FRANÇOIS (1587-1657), judge; studied at Barnard's Inn and Gray's Inn; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1616; autumn reader, 1634; serjeant at law, 1640; knighted and appointed judge of king's bench, 1642; sole judge at trial of Lord Macguire, 1645; retired after Charles's execution. [ii. 360]

BACON, SIR JAMES (1798-1895), judge; called to the bar at Gray's Inn, 1827; member, 1833, and barrister, 1845, of Lincoln's Inn; bench, 1846; treasurer, 1869; took silk, 1846; under-secretary and secretary of causes to master of rolls, 1859; commissioner in bankruptcy for London district, 1868; chief judge under Bankruptcy Act, 1869-83; vice-chancellor, 1870-86; knighted, 1871; privy councillor, 1886. [Suppl. i. 93]

BACON, JOHN (d. 1321), judge; attorney to Queen Eleanor, 1279; guardian of Ledes Castle, Kent, 1291; justice of common pleas, 1313; served on several legal commissions. [ii. 361]

BACON, JOHN (d. 1346). [See BACONTHORPE.]

BACON, JOHN, R.A. (1740-1799), sculptor; apprenticed as modeller in china factory, 1754-62; later in an artificial stone factory; student at Royal Academy, on its foundation, 1768, and received the first gold medal awarded for sculpture, 1769; gold medallist, Society of Arts, and A.R.A., 1770. Among his works may be mentioned the monuments to Pitt in Westminster Abbey and to Dr. Johnson in St. Paul's Cathedral. [ii. 361]

BACON, JOHN (1738-1816), junior, and afterwards senior, clerk in first-fruits department of Queen Anne's Bounty office; published improved edition of Ecton's 'Thesaurus rerum ecclesiasticarum.' [ii. 362]

BACON, JOHN (1777-1869), sculptor; son of John Bacon, R.A. [q.v.]; gold medallist, Royal Academy, 1794; executed monuments in Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral. [ii. 362]

BACON, MONTAGU (1688-1749), scholar and critic; fellow-commoner Trinity College, Cambridge, 1706; M.A. per litteras regias, 1734; rector of Newbold Verdon, 1743; wrote 'Critical, Historical, and Explanatory Notes upon Hudibras,' published 1752. [ii. 363]

BACON, NATHANIEL (d. 1622), sheriff of Norfolk; second son of Sir Nicholas Bacon [q. v.]; 'ancient' of Gray's Inn, 1576; M.P. successively for Tavistock, Norfolk, and Lynn; sheriff of Norfolk, 1599; knighted, 1604. [ii. 371]

BACON, SIR NATHANIEL (f. 1640), painter; grandson of Sir Nicholas Bacon [q. v.]; M.A. Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1628; studied painting in Italy; K.B., 1626. [ii. 364]

BACON, NATHANIEL (1593-1660), puritan; half-brother of Francis Bacon and son of Sir Nicholas Bacon [q. v.]; entered Gray's Inn, 1611; benchler; called to bar, 1617; J.P. for Essex; recorder of Ipswich, and perhaps of Bury St. Edmunds; member of Suffolk committee for defence against royalists; M.P. for Cambridge University, 1645, and for Ipswich, 1658 and 1660; master of requests during Richard Cromwell's protectorate. Published 'Historical Discovery of the Uniformity of the Government of England from Edward III to Elizabeth,' 1647 and 1651, and was possibly author of 'A Relation of the fearful Estate of Francis Spira,' 1638. [ii. 364]

BACON, alias SOUTHWELL, NATHANIEL (1598-1676). [See SOUTHWELL.]

BACON, NATHANIEL (1642?-1676), Virginian patriot; entered Gray's Inn, 1664; emigrated to Virginia and settled at Curles; member of governor's council; chosen general of colonist volunteers, but marched against Indians before receiving his commission and was declared rebel; arrested, but set at liberty; subsequently sat in assembly, which passed 'Bacon's Laws.' [ii. 365]

BACON, SIR NICHOLAS (1509-1579), lord-keeper; entered Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1523; bible-clerk; B.A., 1527; journeyed to Paris; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1533; 'ancient,' 1536; benchler, 1550; treasurer, 1562; solicitor of court of augmentations, 1537; solicitor of Cambridge University; attorney of court of wards and liveries, 1546; high steward of St. Albans; lord-keeper of great seal, 1558; privy councillor and knight; received patent to exercise jurisdiction of lord chancellor, 1559; advocated stringent measures against Mary Stuart, though as president of conferences held in 1568 and 1570 to consider her relations with England and Scotland he was judicially impartial; opposed her marriage to Duke of Norfolk, 1569, and her proposed restoration, 1570; supported bill for expulsion of all French denizens from England, 1572; buried in St. Paul's Cathedral. [ii. 366]

BACON, NICHOLAS (d. 1624), high sheriff of Suffolk; eldest son of Sir Nicholas Bacon [q. v.]; 'ancient,' Gray's Inn, 1576; knighted, 1578; high sheriff of Suffolk, 1581; M.P., Suffolk, 1572-83; created premier baronet of England, 1611. [ii. 371]

BACON, PHANUEL (1700-1783), divine and dramatist; M.A. Magdalen College, Oxford, 1722; B.D., 1731; D.D., 1736; vicar of Bramber, Sussex, and rector of Baldeu, Oxfordshire; wrote humorous verse, and five plays. [ii. 371]

BACON, PHILEMON (d. 1666), naval captain; fought in actions with Dutch off Lowestoft and North Foreland, in the second of which he was killed. [ii. 372]

BACON, RICHARD MACKENZIE (1775-1844), musician and journalist; edited 'Norwich Mercury' from 1816 till death; obtained with Bryan Donkin a patent for improvements in printing, 1813; proprietor and editor of 'Quarterly Musical Magazine,' 1818-28; published many biographical, musical, and miscellaneous works. [ii. 372]

BACON, ROBERT (d. 1248), first Dominican writer in England; brother or uncle of Roger Bacon; studied at Oxford and Paris; perhaps treasurer of Salisbury Cathedral, 1233, being a member of the Dominican order and lecturer in its schools at Oxford; publicly rebuked Henry III for his fondness for foreign favourites, notably Peter de Roches, 1233; wrote among other works a life of Edmund Rich. [ii. 373]

BACON, ROGER (1214?-1294), philosopher; studied at Oxford and Paris, where he probably graduated doctor; returned to England c. 1260; and probably remained at Oxford till c. 1287, when he incurred the suspicion of the Franciscan order, to which he belonged, and was sent under surveillance to Paris, where he remained in confinement ten years; produced at request of Pope Clement IV treatises on the sciences (grammar, logic, mathematics, physics, and modern philosophy)—'Opus Majus,' and, perhaps, 'Opus Secundum' and 'Opus Tertium'; again in confinement for his heretical propositions, c. 1278-92; said to have died and to have been buried at Oxford; wrote also on chemistry and alchemy. [ii. 374]

BACON, THOMAS (f. 1336), justice of common pleas; raised to king's bench, 1332. [ii. 378]

BACON, alias SOUTHWELL, THOMAS (1592-1637), jesuit. [See SOUTHWELL.]

BACON, THOMAS (f. 1795), sculptor; brother of John Bacon (1777-1859) [q. v.]; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1793, 1794, and 1795. [ii. 363]

BACONTHORPE, BACON, or BACHO, JOHN (d. 1346), the 'Resolute Doctor'; grandnephew of Roger Bacon [q. v.]; brought up at a Carmelite monastery near Walsingham; graduated at Paris; returned to Oxford, where, c. 1321, he preached the doctrine afterwards inculcated by Wycliffe, that priestly power was subordinate to the kingly; head of Carmelite order in England, 1329-33; went to Rome, 1333; returned to England, 1346; wrote commentaries on the bible, on Aristotle's works and treatises, and other subjects. [ii. 379]

BADBY, JOHN (d. 1410), lollard; blacksmith or tailor in Worcestershire; condemned before Worcester diocesan court for denial of transubstantiation, and burned at Smithfield. [ii. 381]

BADBY, WILLIAM (d. 1380), Carmelite; doctor of theology at Carmelite school, Oxford; confessor of John of Gaunt; appointed bishop of Worcester shortly before his death; wrote theological works. [ii. 381]

BADCOCK, JOHN (f. 1816-1830), sporting writer; published, under pseudonyms 'Jon Bee' and 'John Hinds,' many works on pugilism and the turf, including a dictionary of slang; edited also Samuel Foote's works. [ii. 381]

BADCOCK, SAMUEL (1747-1788), theological and literary critic; trained for dissenting ministry; minister at South Molton, Devonshire, his native town, 1778-86; joined established church; curate of Broad Clyst, and ordained deacon and priest, 1787; contributed largely to literary magazines, particularly the 'Monthly Review.' [ii. 382]

BADDELEY, ROBERT (1733-1794), comedian; took to Foote; valet to a gentleman on 'the grand tour'; went on stage, and in 1763 joined Drury Lane company, winning reputation as exponent of foreign footmen; the original Moses in 'School for Scandal.' [ii. 383]

BADDELEY, SOPHIA (1745-1786), actress and vocalist; nee Snow; wife of Robert Baddeley [q. v.], who introduced her to the stage; played Ophelia at Drury Lane, 1765; a popular singer at Ranelagh and Vauxhall; played in Edinburgh, 1783-8. [ii. 383]

BADDELEY, THOMAS (f. 1822), Roman catholic priest; author of a tract defending Roman catholic principles. [ii. 384]

BADDELEY, EDWARD LOWTH (d. 1668), ecclesiastical lawyer; M.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1628; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1641; published several tracts dealing with legal proceedings in church matters. [ii. 384]

BADENOCH, LORD OF. [See STEWART, ALEXANDER, 1343?-1408?]]

BADEN-POWELL, SIR GEORGE (1847-1898). [See POWELL.]

BADWE, RICHARD (f. 1330-1330), founder of University Hall, Cambridge; chancellor of Cambridge, 1326. [ii. 386]

BADGER, GEORGE PERCY (1815-1888), Arabic scholar; printer; spent youth at Malta; travelled in Arabia; studied at Church Missionary Society's Institution, Islington; priest, 1843; sent as delegate to Eastern churches, 1842-44 and 1850; published 'Nestorians and their Rituals,' 1852; government chaplain on Bombay establishment, 1845; chief chaplain to force under Sir James Outram [q. v.] in Persian expedition, 1856-7; returned to England, 1861; secretary to Sir Henry Bartle Edward Frere [q. v.] on mission to Zanzibar, 1873; created D.O.L. by archbishop of Canterbury, 1873. His works include an 'English-Arabic Lexicon,' 1881. [Suppl. I. 94]

BADHAM, CHARLES (1780-1848), medical and poetical writer; M.D. Edinburgh, 1802; L.R.O.P. London, 1803; M.A. Pembroke College, Oxford, 1812; M.D., 1817; F.R.S., and F.R.O.P., 1818; censor of College of Physicians, 1821; physician to Duke of Sussex and to Westminster general dispensary; travelled extensively in Europe; professor of physic, Glasgow, 1827; wrote Harveian oration, delivered 1840; published medical works and a verse translation of Juvenal. [ii. 386]

BADHAM, CHARLES (1813-1884), classical scholar; son of Charles Badham (1780-1848) [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Wadham College, Oxford; M.A., 1839; studied in Germany and Italy; M.A. St. Peter's College, Cambridge; ordained priest, 1848; D.D., 1852; headmaster, Louth grammar school, 1851, and of Edgaston proprietary school, 1854; hon. Litt.D. Leyden, 1860; examiner in classics, London University, 1863; professor of classics and logic, Sydney University, 1867; died at Sydney. He published editions with notes of Plato, and some plays of Euripides, also critical essays on Shakespeare. [ii. 386]

BADHAM, CHARLES DAVID (1806-1857), naturalist; educated at Eton and Oxford; F.R.C.P.; successively held curacies in Norfolk and Suffolk; published works on natural history. [ii. 387]

BADILEY, RICHARD (d. 1657), admiral; parliamentary captain and commander-in-chief in Downs and North Sea, 1649-51; in Mediterranean, 1652; engaged the Dutch off Elba with partial success, and again, in conjunction with Appleton, off Leghorn, with disastrous results; returned home, 1653, was acquitted of blame and made rear-admiral; served on the northern coast of Africa, 1654-5; vice-admiral of fleet in Downs, 1656. [ii. 388]

BÆDA (673-735). [See BIDE.]

BAFFIN, WILLIAM (d. 1622), navigator and discoverer; probably native of London; sailed in expedition to Greenland, 1612; entered service of Muscovy company, and was chief pilot in expeditions to protect Spitzbergen fisheries, 1613 and 1614; pilot in North-West passage expedition, 1615, and on his return gave it as his opinion that a passage existed up Davis Strait; made charts of waters north of Davis Strait on a subsequent voyage, 1616, and declared that there was no North-West passage in that direction; joined service of East India Company, 1617; master's mate in Red Sea and Persian Gulf, 1617-1619; master in Persian Gulf, 1620, where he was in an engagement with Dutch and Portuguese; killed at siege of Kishm in an expedition, arranged by the Persian government, to expel Portuguese from Ormuz; wrote accounts of most of his voyages. [ii. 389]

BAGARD or BAGGARD, THOMAS (d. 1644), civilian; canon of his college (afterwards Christ Church), Oxford, 1525; admitted to College of Advocates, London, 1528; chancellor of diocese of Worcester, 1532; canon of Worcester, 1541. [ii. 391]

BAGE, ROBERT (1728-1801), novelist; educated at Derby, and attained proficiency in Latin; trained as paper-maker; founded paper manufactory at Elford, which he carried on till his death; continued his education and gained considerable knowledge of modern languages; he published six novels between 1781 and 1796, several of which were translated into German. [ii. 391]

BAGEHOT, WALTER (1826-1877), economist and journalist; educated at Bristol and at University College, London, under Professors Long and De Morgan; B.A. (London) with mathematical scholarship, 1846; M.A. and gold medallist in intellectual and moral philosophy and political economy, 1848; called to the bar, 1852; spent some months in Paris; entered his father's shipwrecking and banking business, 1852; contributed essays to 'Prospective Review,' and, after 1855, to 'National Review,' of which he was an editor; editor of 'Economist,' 1860, till death; published 'The English Constitution,' 'Physics and Politics,' and works on economical questions. [ii. 393]

BAGFORD, JOHN (1650-1716), shoemaker in London and professional collector of books; formed collection of broadsides known as the 'Bagford Ballads,' and brought together a number of title-pages and engravings, to obtain which he mutilated many rare volumes. [ii. 396]

BAGGALLAY, SIR RICHARD (1816-1888), judge; M.A. Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, 1842;

Frankland fellow, 1845-7; honorary fellow, 1880; called to the bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1843; bench, 1861; treasurer, 1875; took silk, 1861; counsel to Cambridge University, 1869; M.P. for Hereford, 1865-8, and for Mid-Surrey, 1870-75; solicitor-general, 1868 and 1874; knighted, 1868; attorney-general, 1874; justice (afterwards lord-justice) of appeal, and privy councillor, 1875; retired from bench, 1885. [Suppl. i. 95]

BAGGERLEY, HUMPHREY (fl. 1654), royalist captain in service of James, seventh earl of Derby, of whose final hours he wrote a narrative. [ii. 396]

BAGGS, CHARLES MICHAEL (1806-1845), catholic bishop and antiquary; educated at Sedgely Park, at St. Edmund's College, Hertfordshire, and at the English college, Rome; remained at Rome, 1824-44; won many academic honours; D.D. and ordained, 1830; teacher at English college; rector, 1840; 'cameriere d'onore' and later, monsignore to Pope Gregory XVI.; bishop of Pella, 1844; vicar-apostolic of western district in England, where he arrived 1844; acquired great reputation as a controversialist at Rome; published works on ecclesiastical archaeology, and dissertations on points of religious controversy. [ii. 396]

BAGNAL, SIR HENRY (1556?-1598), marshal of army in Ireland, son of Sir Nicholas Bagnal (q. v.); educated at Jesus College, Oxford; knighted 1578; held command under Arthur Grey, baron Grey de Wilton, 1580; member for Anglesey in English parliament, 1586; marshal of the army in Ireland, and privy councillor, 1590; chief commissioner for government of Ulster, 1591; quarrelled with Hugh O'Neill, earl of Tyrone (q. v.), who had married Bagnal's sister Mabel against his wish; slain in action with Tyrone's men on Blackwater. [Suppl. i. 95]

BAGNAL, SIR NICHOLAS (1510?-1590?), marshal of army in Ireland; gentleman pensioner of Henry VIII.; served in Ireland, 1539-44, and in France, 1544; marshal of army in Ireland, 1547-53; with lord-deputy, Sir Edmund Bellingham (q. v.), defeated Irish, 1548; knighted, 1551; M.P. for Stoke-on-Trent, 1559; reappointed marshal, 1565, with Sir Henry Sidney (q. v.), as deputy; chief commissioner for government of Ulster, 1584; member for co. Down in Irish parliament, 1585; resigned office of marshal to his son, 1590. [Suppl. i. 96]

BAGNALL, GIBBONS (1719-1800), poetical writer, graduate of Oxford and Cambridge; vicar of Holm Lacy, Herefordshire; prebendary of Hereford, 1740; rector of Upton Bishop; vicar of Selack, 1783; published poetical writings. [ii. 398]

BAGOT, SIR CHARLES (1781-1843), governor-general of Canada; brother of William Bagot, second baron Bagot (q. v.); educated at Rugby and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1804; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1801; M.P. for Castle Rising, 1807; parliamentary under-secretary for foreign affairs, 1807; plenipotentiary to France, 1814, and to United States, 1815-20; privy councillor, 1815; G.C.B., 1820; ambassador to St. Petersburg, 1820, and to the Hague, 1824; governor-general of Canada, 1841; inaugurated representative government, for which he was censured by Lord Stanley; requested recall, and died in Canada soon after arrival of his successor, Sir Charles Theophilus (afterwards baron) Metcalfe (q. v.). [Suppl. i. 98]

BAGOT, LEWIS (1740-1802), bishop; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1764; canon of Christ Church, 1771; held livings in Sussex; D.C.L., 1772; bishop of Bristol, 1782; translated to Norwich, 1783, and to St. Asaph, 1790. [ii. 399]

BAGOT, RICHARD (1782-1854), bishop; educated at Rugby and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1806; D.D., 1829; fellow of All Souls'; rector of Leigh, Staffordshire, 1806, and of Blithfield, 1807; canon of Windsor, 1807, and of Worcester, 1817; dean of Canterbury, 1827-45; bishop of Oxford, 1829-45, during which period he reluctantly played a part in the Oxford movement; bishop of Bath and Wells, 1845; published charges. [ii. 399]

BAGOT, SIR WILLIAM (fl. 1397), minister of Richard II.; one of the 'souverains conseillers' left in charge of the kingdom on Richard's departure for Ireland, 1399; committed to Tower after Richard's resignation. [ii. 400]

BAGOT, WILLIAM, second BARON BAGOT (1773-1856), educated at Westminster and Magdalen College, Oxford; D.O.L., 1834; fellow of Society of Antiquaries and of Linnean, Horticultural, and Zoological societies. [ii. 400]

BAGSHAW, CHRISTOPHER (d. 1625?), priest; B.A. and probationer fellow, Balliol College, Oxford, 1572; M.A., 1576; principal, Gloucester Hall, 1579; went to France, 1582; converted to Romanism and made priest; D.D. Paris; came to England to make converts; imprisoned in Tower, 1587; after liberation resided abroad; published controversial works. [ii. 400]

BAGSHAW, EDWARD, the elder (d. 1662), royalist; B.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1608; entered Middle Temple; as Lent reader, 1639, delivered lectures in favour of puritan principles; M.P., Southwark, 1640; joined the king when he retired to Oxford; imprisoned at Southwark by parliamentarians, 1644-6; published works dealing with political and religious questions. [ii. 401]

BAGSHAW, EDWARD, the younger (1629-1671), divine; son of Edward Bagshaw (d. 1662) [q. v.]; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A. and Senior of the Act, 1661; M.A. Cambridge, 1654; appointed second master at Westminster, 1656; ordained 1659; vicar of Ambrosden, Oxford; ejected for nonconformity, 1662; chaplain to Earl of Anglesey; imprisoned for sedition, 1663-5, and again, later, for refusing to take oath of supremacy and allegiance; a prisoner on parole when he died; published controversial and other religious works. [ii. 402]

BAGSHAW, HENRY (1632-1709), divine; brother of Edward Bagshaw (1629-1671) [q. v.]; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1657; D.D., 1671; chaplain to Sir Richard Fanshawe, 1663, to archbishop of York, 1666, and to Lord-chancellor Danby, 1672; successively prebendary of York and Durham; published sermons. [ii. 403]

BAGSHAW, WILLIAM (1628-1702), divine; known as the 'Apostle of the Peak'; born at Litton; educated at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; assistant minister and private chaplain at Sheffield; held living of Glossop; ejected for nonconformity, 1662; continued to preach and lecture, in spite of the issue of several warrants against him, till his death; published religious works. [ii. 403]

BAGSTER, SAMUEL, the younger (1800-1835), printer and author; son of Samuel Bagster, the elder [q. v.]; entered his father's business, 1815, and started printing business for himself, 1824; subsequently produced many learned publications, including some of the polyglot bibles issued by Bagster & Sons; wrote 'Treasury of Scripture Knowledge,' and a book on management of bees. [ii. 404]

BAGSTER, SAMUEL, the elder (1772-1851), founder of publishing firm of Bagster & Sons; bookseller in Strand, 1794-1816, and in Paternoster Row after 1816. His principal productions were polyglot editions of the bible (including the 'Biblia Sacra Polyglotta Bagsteriana,' 1817-28), an octaglot edition of the church of England liturgy, 1821, 'The English Hexapla,' giving the six most important versions in English of the New Testament, and an extensively annotated 'Comprehensive Bible,' edited by William Greenfield, 1827. [ii. 405]

BAGWELL, WILLIAM (A. 1655), a London merchant who, owing to losses in trade, was almost constantly in prison for debt, 1634-50, during which time he wrote an elaborate astronomical treatise, published in simplified form as the 'Mystery of Astronomy made Plain,' 1655; published also two poems. [ii. 406]

BAIKIE, WILLIAM BALFOUR (1825-1864), naturalist and philologist; M.D. Edinburgh; entered navy; assistant surgeon; served in Mediterranean and at Haslar Hospital, 1851-4; surgeon and naturalist to Niger expedition, 1854, and again in 1857, when, being left by the other explorers, he collected and governed a native settlement at Lukoja; published works relating to natural history of Orkney and to the Hausa and Fulfulde languages. [ii. 406]

BAILLEY. [See also BAILLIE, BAILY, BAYLEY, and BAYLY.]

BAILLEY, JAMES (d. 1864), classical scholar; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1823; Browne medalist for Greek ode and epigrams; members' prizeman, 1816 and 1818; master of Perse grammar school, Cambridge; received pension from the queen, 1850; published classical works. [ii. 407]

BAILLEY or BAILY, JOHN (1643-1697), protestant dissenting minister; began to preach in his twenty-second year; ordained, 1670; imprisoned in Lancaster for nonconformity, and on being released went to Ireland, where he was again imprisoned; liberated on condition of leaving the country; emigrated to New England, 1683; minister in Boston, 1684, Watertown, 1686, and again in Boston, 1693. [ii. 407]

BAILLEY, JOHN (1750-1819), agriculturist and engraver; tutor, land surveyor, and subsequently land agent to Lord Tankerville at Chillingham. Having cultivated a taste for engraving, he executed several topographical plates for Hutchinson's works on Cumberland, Durham, and Northumberland. [ii. 408]

BAILLEY, JOHN EGLINGTON (1840-1888), antiquary; in the firm of Ralli Brothers, Manchester, till 1886; admitted to Society of Antiquaries, 1874; honorary secretary of Chetham Society, Manchester. He contributed to the 'Dictionary of National Biography' and published antiquarian and other writings. [Suppl. i. 99]

BAILLEY, NATHAN or NATHANIEL (d. 1742), lexicographer; kept a boarding-school at Stepney; published an etymological English dictionary, 1721, and other philological works. [ii. 409]

BAILLEY, SAMUEL (1791-1870), philosophical writer; entered office of his father, a master cutler of Sheffield, but gradually turned his attention to literary and political pursuits; elected a town trustee, 1828; stood unsuccessfully as candidate for Sheffield in parliamentary elections, 1832 and 1834; several times president of Sheffield Literary and Philosophical Society; chairman of Sheffield Banking Company, which he helped to found, 1831; published many works on political economy and philosophy, including 'Letters on the Philosophy of the Human Mind,' 1855-63. [ii. 409]

BAILLEY, THOMAS (1785-1856), miscellaneous writer; silk hosier at Nottingham; member of town council, 1836-43; proprietor and editor of 'Nottingham Mercury,' 1845-52; published works relating to topography of Nottinghamshire, besides political and poetical writings. [ii. 411]

BAILLIE or BAILLY, CHARLES (1542-1625), member of Queen Mary's household; probably a Fleming, though by descent a Scot; arrested at Dover with letters relating to a proposed rising in Mary's behalf, 1571; imprisoned in Marshalsea and afterwards in Tower; released probably in 1573; died in Belgium. [ii. 411]

BAILLIE, CHARLES, LORD JERVISWOODE (1804-1879), lord justiciary; admitted advocate at Scottish bar, 1830; advocate depute, 1844-6 and 1852; sheriff of Stirlingshire, 1853-8; lord-advocate for Scotland, 1858; M.P. Linlithgow, 1859; raised to rank and precedence of earl's son, 1859; judge of court of session, 1859; lord of justiciary, 1862; retired, 1874. [ii. 412]

BAILLIE, CUTHBERT (d. 1514), lord high treasurer of Scotland; successively incumbent of Thankerton, commendator of Glenluce, prebendary of Cumnock and Sanquhar, and (1512) lord high treasurer of Scotland. [ii. 413]

BAILLIE, LADY GRIZEL (1665-1746), poetess; distinguished herself in childhood by heroic services to her father, Sir Patrick Hume, and his friend the patriot Robert Baillie [q. v.]; lived with her father in retirement at Utrecht, and returned to Scotland at Restoration; left poems in manuscript. [ii. 413]

BAILLIE, JOANNA (1769-1851), Scottish dramatist and poetess; educated at Glasgow; published 'Fugitive Verses,' 1790; issued first volume of 'Plays on the Passions,' 1798, second volume, 1802, third, 1819; of these 'De Montfort' was produced by Kemble and Mrs. Siddons at Drury Lane, 1800; the series was completed by three dramas contained in 'Miscellaneous Plays,' 1836; her most successful play, 'The Family Legend,' was produced, at Drury Lane, 1810. In addition to her plays she published several poems, songs, and dramatic ballads. [ii. 414]

BAILLIE, JOHN (1741-1806), divine; united secessionist minister in Newcastle-upon-Tyne, 1767-83, where his irregular habits brought about a secession from his congregation; assistant schoolmaster and subsequently lecturer in Newcastle; published historical and religious works. [ii. 417]

BAILLIE, JOHN (1772-1833), colonel; entered service of East India Company, 1790; director, 1823; ensign in India, 1793; lieutenant, 1794; professor of Arabic and Persian and of Mohammedan law, Fort William College, 1801-7; captain and political agent during Mahratta war; resident at Lucknow, 1807-15; retired and returned to England; M.P., Helon, 1820-30, Inverness, 1830-2; published text of 'The Five Books upon Arabic Grammar,' 1801. [ii. 418]

BAILLIE, MARIANNE (1795?-1830), traveller and verse-writer, née Wather; published impressions of a continental tour made in 1818, and of a visit to Portugal, 1821-3, as well as several poetical pieces. [ii. 418]

BAILLIE, MATTHEW (1761-1823), morbid anatomist; brother of Joanna Baillie [q. v.]; entered Balliol College, Oxford, and during vacation studied medicine in London under Dr. William Hunter; M.B., 1787; physician to St. George's Hospital, 1787-99; M.D. and F.R.C.P., 1789; F.R.S.; published 'Morbid Anatomy of some of the most important Parts of the Human Body' (thoracic and abdominal organs and the brain), 1795; physician extraordinary to George III. He is commemorated in Westminster Abbey by a bust and inscription. [ii. 419]

BAILLIE, ROBERT (1599-1662), presbyterian divine; M.A. Glasgow; received episcopal ordination; regent of philosophy, Glasgow University; presented to presbyterian parish of Kilwinning, Ayrshire; member of general assembly at Glasgow, 1638; chaplain to Lord Eglinton's regiment, 1639; sent by covenanting lords to London to draw up accusations against Laud, 1640; with covenanters' army at Dunse Law, 1639, and in 1640; professor of divinity, Glasgow, 1642; waited on Charles II at the Hague on his being proclaimed in Scotland, 1649; D.D.; principal, Glasgow University, 1660; published controversial and other theological works. [ii. 420]

BAILLIE, ROBERT (d. 1684), patriot; an object of suspicion to the ruling episcopal party in Scotland, and imprisoned and fined, 1676; came to London and associated with Sydney, Russell, and Monmouth to obtain, if possible, mitigation of government measures; arrested, though innocent, for alleged complicity in Rye House plot; imprisoned, and ultimately hanged in Edinburgh. [ii. 422]

BAILLIE, THOMAS (d. 1802), navy captain; lieutenant, 1745; served at Minorca, 1756; commander with post rank, 1757; engaged on convoy service, 1757-60; appointed to Greenwich Hospital, 1761; lieutenant-governor, 1774; having published charges against the internal government of the hospital, was deprived of his office and brought to trial for libel, 1778; defended by Erskine, afterwards lord chancellor, and acquitted; remained unemployed till 1782, when he was made clerk of deliveries. [ii. 423]

BAILLIE, WILLIAM, LORD PROVAND (d. 1593), Scottish judge of court of session; president of the court, 1566-7, and 1568-93. [ii. 424]

BAILLIE, WILLIAM (fl. 1648), Scottish general; went to Sweden in early life, and served under Gustavus Adolphus as colonel of regiment of Dutch foot, 1632; returned to Scotland, 1638; served with covenanters under Leslie at Dunse Law, 1639, and at Marston Moor, 1644; commanded force against Montrose, and was worsted at Alford and Kilsyth, 1645; lieutenant-general of foot under Duke of Hamilton at Preston, 1648. [ii. 424]

BAILLIE, WILLIAM (d. 1782), lieutenant-colonel under East India Company; entered East India Company's army, 1759, as lieutenant in infantry at Madras; brevet-captain, 1763; substantive captain, 1764; major, 1772; lieutenant-colonel, 1775; commanded at Pondicherry during destruction of French works, 1779; while attempting to join forces with Munro, was defeated by Hyder Ali and taken prisoner, 1780; died in captivity at Seringapatam. [ii. 426]

BAILLIE, WILLIAM (1723-1810), amateur engraver and etcher; educated at Dublin; entered Middle Temple, but received commission in army and fought at Culloden and Minden; retired with captain's rank, 1761; commissioner of stamps, 1773-95; etched many plates, chiefly after Dutch and Flemish masters, which he published himself. [ii. 425]

BAILLIE, WILLIAM, LORD POLKEMMET (d. 1816), Scottish judge, 1793-1811; advocate, 1758. [ii. 425]

BAILLIE-COCHRANE, ALEXANDER D. R. W. C., first BARON LAMINGTON (1816-1890). [See COCHRANE-BAILLIE.]

BAILY, CHARLES (1815-1878), architect; for some years principal assistant to the city architect, London; F.S.A., 1844; contributed to publications of Surrey Archaeological Society. [ii. 426]

BAILY, EDWARD HODGES (1788-1867), sculptor; entered merchant's office at Bristol; forsook commerce and became pupil of Flaxman, 1807; A.R.A., 1817; R.A., 1821; executed the statue of 'Eve at the Fountain' for British Literary Institution, 1818, and many other celebrated portrait statues and groups. [ii. 427]

BAILY, FRANCIS (1774-1844), astronomer; apprenticed in a London mercantile house, 1788-95; travelled in America, 1796-8; entered into partnership with a London stockbroker, 1799; published successful works on annuities and assurances, 1808 and 1810; turned his attention to astronomy, and, 1820, was one of the founders of the Astronomical Society, of which he was four times president; retired from business, 1825; greatly advanced astronomy by his revision of star catalogues, including those of Flamsteed, Lalande, and Lacaille, his simplified tables for reduction of aberration, nutation, &c., and his reform of the 'Nautical Almanac'; received the Astronomical Society's gold medal, 1843, for a successful repetition of 'Cavendish's experiment' for measuring the earth's density; hon. D.C.L. Dublin, 1835, and Oxford, 1844; permanent trustee of British Association, 1839; vice-president Geographical Society, 1830; long vice-president and treasurer of the Royal Society. [ii. 427]

BAILY, JOHN WALKER (1809-1873), archæologist, brother of Charles Baily [q. v.]; master of Ironmongers' Company, 1862-3; formed collection of Romano-British and mediæval remains excavated in city of London. [ii. 432]

BAILY, THOMAS (d. 1591), catholic divine; fellow and M.A. Clare Hall, Cambridge, 1549; master, c. 1567; on Elizabeth's accession removed to Louvain and thence to Douay, where, and at Rheims, he was employed in government of the English College; D.D. Louvain. [ii. 432]

BAIN. [See also BAINK and BAYNE.] [ii. 432]

BAIN, ALEXANDER (1810-1877), telegraphic inventor; apprenticed as clockmaker at Wick; came as journeyman to London, 1837; applied electricity to working of clocks; invented electric fire-alarms, and, in 1843, the automatic chemical telegraph. [ii. 432]

BAINBRIDGE, CHRISTOPHER (1464?-1514), archbishop of York, and cardinal; provost of Queen's College, Oxford, in 1495; prebendary of Salisbury and, later, of Lincoln, till 1500; treasurer of St. Paul's, 1497; archdeacon of Surrey, 1501; prebendary and dean of York, 1503; dean of Windsor, 1505; master of rolls, 1504-7; bishop of Durham, 1507; archbishop of York, 1508; ambassador from Henry VIII to pope, 1509; cardinal, 1511; L.L.D. [ii. 433]

BAINBRIDGE, JOHN (1582-1643), physician and astronomer; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1607; M.D., 1614; L.O.P., 1618; first Savilian professor, Oxford, 1619; M.D., Oxford, 1620; junior (1631) and senior (1635) reader of Linacre's lecture. He published astronomical works and left many mathematical collections in manuscript. [ii. 434]

BAINBRIGG, REGINALD (1489?-1558?), probably uncle of Reginald Bainbrig (1545-1606) [q. v.]; M.A. Cambridge, 1509; B.D., 1526; proctor of university, 1517; master of Catherine Hall, c. 1527; prebendary of Wells, 1537. [ii. 435]

BAINBRIGG or BAYNERIDGE, REGINALD (1545-1606), antiquary; B.A. Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1577;

headmaster of Appleby Grammar School, 1574-1606. Collected stones bearing ancient inscriptions in Northumberland, Cumberland, and Westmoreland, while several papers relating to these counties in the Cottonian MSS. are attributed to him. [ii. 434]

BAINBRIGG, THOMAS (d. 1646), master of Christ's College, Cambridge; master, 1620; vice-chancellor of the university, 1627; perhaps authorised Milton's rustication or expulsion from his college. [ii. 435]

BAINBRIGG, BAMBRIDGE, or BEMBRIDGE, THOMAS (1636-1703), protestant controversialist; M.A. Cambridge, 1661; proctor, 1678; D.D., 1684; fellow and vice-master of Trinity College; M.A. Oxford, 1689; vicar of Chesterton; rector of Orwell; published protestant controversial pamphlets. [ii. 435]

BAINBRIDGE, SIR PHILIP (1766-1862), lieutenant-general; entered navy as midshipman, but in 1800 received an ensigncy in 20th regiment; lieutenant, 1800; studied at Deptford; gazetted to company in 18th royal Irish in West Indies, 1808; inspector of fortifications, Curaçoa, 1807; entered Royal Military College, High Wycombe, 1809; deputy assistant quartermaster-general in Portugal, 1811; rendered important services at several engagements in Peninsular war; major; served in France, 1815; brevet lieutenant-colonel, 1817; C.B., 1838; deputy quartermaster-general, Dublin, 1841; major-general, and commander of Belfast district, 1846; commander of forces in Ceylon, 1852-4; lieutenant-general, and K.C.B., 1854. [ii. 436]

BAINÉ, JAMES (1710-1790), Scottish divine; M.A. Glasgow; successively minister at Killearn and Paisley; resigned living of Paisley; being an ardent supporter of evangelical doctrine, joined Gillespie, founder of the Relief church, and became minister of the first Relief congregation in Edinburgh, 1766; published a history of modern church reformation. [ii. 437]

BAINES, EDWARD (1774-1848), journalist; apprenticed as printer in Preston, Lancashire, and in Leeds; started as printer on his own account; became proprietor of 'Leeds Mercury', 1801, and entered largely into the whig agitations of the day; M.P. for Leeds, 1834-41; published works relating to history of George III's reign, and topography of Yorkshire and Lancashire. [ii. 438]

BAINES, SIR EDWARD (1800-1890), journalist and economist; son of Edward Baines [q. v.]; educated at the New College, Manchester; entered office of 'Leeds Mercury', 1816, and was editor, 1818; studied sociology and economics, and advocated repeal of corn laws; supported catholic emancipation, 1829; published 'History of Cotton Manufacture in Great Britain', 1835; advocated public education independent of state; served on schools inquiry commission, 1865; M.P. for Leeds, 1859-74; chairman of Yorkshire College, Leeds, 1880-7; knighted, 1880; published writings on political and social subjects. [Suppl. i. 100]

BAINES, FRANÇOIS (1648-1710). [See SANDERS.]

BAINES, JOHN (1787-1838), mathematician; contributed largely to 'Ladies' Diary', 'Gentleman's Diary', 'York Miscellany', and similar periodicals. [ii. 439]

BAINES, MATTHEW TALBOT (1799-1860), politician; son of Edward Baines [q. v.]; graduated at Trinity College, Cambridge; called to bar, 1826; Q.C., 1841; M.P. for Hull, 1847, and Leeds, 1862; president of poor-law board, 1849; chancellor of duchy of Lancaster, 1855. [ii. 439]

BAINES, PAUL (d. 1817). [See BAYNES.]

BAINES, PETER AUGUSTINE (1786-1843), Roman catholic bishop; studied for the church at the English Benedictine abbey of Lambey, Hanover, which was seized by the Prussians in 1803, when the students came to England, and inaugurated the Benedictine College of St. Lawrence, Ampleforth; entered Benedictine order, 1804; ordained subdeacon, 1807, and priest, 1810; teacher at Ampleforth till 1817, when he undertook charge of mission at Bath; appointed coadjutor-bishop to Bishop Collingridge, and, later, bishop of Siga, 1823; toured for his health on the continent; preached frequently in Rome, 1827-9; returned to England, and succeeded Bishop Collingridge as vicar-apostolic of western district, 1829; purchased Prior Park, where he founded ecclesiastical and lay colleges; author of numerous controversial writings, sermons, lectures, and pastoral charges. [ii. 439]

BAINES, ROGER (1546-1623). [See BAYNES.]

BAINES, SIR THOMAS (1622-1680), physician; friend of Sir John Finch, M.D.; M.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1649; M.D. Padua and Cambridge; Gresham professor of music; knighted, 1672; accompanied Finch on embassies to Florence, Tuscany, and Constantinople, where he died. [ii. 441]

BAINES, THOMAS (1822-1875), artist and explorer; artist with British army in Kafir war, 1848-51; accompanied exploring expeditions to North-west Australia, Zambesi (under Livingstone), Victoria Falls, the Tati goldfields, and the Kafir country. [ii. 441]

BAINES, THOMAS (1806-1881), journalist; son of Edward Baines [q. v.]; editor of 'Liverpool Times', 1829; published histories of Lancashire, Cheshire, and Yorkshire. [ii. 442]

BAINHAM, JAMES (d. 1532), martyr; member of Middle Temple; practised as lawyer; accused of protestant heresy, 1531; imprisoned and tortured in Tower; recanted, but withdrew recantation, and was burned at Smithfield. [ii. 442]

BAIOCIS, JOHN DE (d. 1249). [See BAYEUX.]

BAIRD, SIR DAVID (1757-1829), general; ensign, 1772; served at Gibraltar, 1773-6; lieutenant, 1778; captain of 73rd (afterwards 71st) Highland light infantry in India, under Monro, 1780; joined Colonel Baillie's force, and, after its defeat by Hyder Ali, was captured; released, 1784; major, 1787; in England, 1789-91; commanded sepoy brigade against Tippoo; took Pondicherry, 1793; colonel, 1795; at the Cape, 1796-8; major-general in second war against Tippoo, 1798; stormed Seringapatam, 1799; commanded Indian force in Egypt against French, 1801-2; returned to India, and received command of northern division of Madras army, 1802; resigned, and returned to England; knighted; lieutenant-general in expedition to recapture Cape of Good Hope, 1805; commanded first division in expedition invading Denmark, 1807; second in command under Moore in Spain, 1808; wounded at Coruña; K.B., 1809; created baronet, 1810; general, 1814; governor of Kinsale, 1819, and of Fort George, 1820; commander of Irish forces and privy councillor, 1820. [ii. 442]

BAIRD, GEORGE HUSBAND (1761-1840), principal of Edinburgh University; educated at Edinburgh; private tutor, 1784; licensed as presbyterian preacher, 1786; presented to parish of Dunkeld, 1787, and to New Greyfriars church, Edinburgh, 1792; professor of oriental languages, Edinburgh; principal of Edinburgh University, 1798; translated to North parish church, 1799, and to the high parish church, 1801; did much for education of poor in Scottish highlands and islands. [ii. 445]

BAIRD, JAMES (1802-1876), ironmaster; with his father and brothers leased coalfields of Sunnyside, Hollandhirst, and New Gartsherrie, 1826, and the ironstone in lands of Cairnhill, 1828; assumed, 1830, active management of the business, which was subsequently enlarged and included coalmines and ironworks in Ayr, Stirling, Dumbarton, and Cumberland; M.P. for Falkirk burghs, 1861-7; deputy-lieutenant for counties of Ayr and Inverness. He was a liberal benefactor to the church of Scotland. [ii. 446]

BAIRD, SIR JOHN (1620-1698), Scottish judge; admitted advocate, 1647; knighted, 1651; lord of session, with title of Lord Newbyth, 1664-81, and 1689 till death; M.P. for Aberdeenshire in Scottish parliaments, 1666 and 1667; commissioner for negotiation of treaty of union, 1670. [ii. 447]

BAIRD, JOHN (d. 1804), Irish divine; presbyterian minister in Dublin, 1767-77; D.D.; conformed, and was rector of Cloghran, near Dublin, 1782; published 'Dissertation on the Old Testament', 1778. [ii. 448]

BAIRD, JOHN (1799-1861), Scottish divine; successively minister of Legertwood, Eccles, and Swinton, Berwickshire; founded Pitman Society, Edinburgh, 1823; evangelical preacher in Ireland, 1826; minister of Yetholm, Roxburghshire, 1829-61; worked extensively for education of Scottish gipsies. [ii. 448]

BAIRD, WILLIAM (1803-1872), Scottish physician; practised in London; employed in zoological department of British Museum, 1841-72; published 'Natural History of British Entomozoa', 1850, and 'Cyclopædia of Natural Sciences', 1858. [ii. 448]

BAKER, ALEXANDER (1682-1688), Jesuit; entered Society of Jesus, 1610; twice visited India as missionary. [iii. 1]

BAKER, ANNE ELIZABETH (1786-1861), philologist; assisted her brother, George Baker [q. v.], in his 'History of Northamptonshire', and published 'Glossary of Northamptonshire Words', 1854. [iii. 1]

BAKER, ANSELM (1834-1886), artist; Oistercian monk at Mount St. Bernard's Abbey, Leicestershire, 1857; executed mural paintings and designed heraldic and other illustrations for several publications. [iii. 1]

BAKER, AUGUSTINE (1875-1641). [See BAKER, DAVID.]

BAKER, CHARLES (1617-1679), Jesuit; real name DAVID LEWIS; entered English college at Rome, 1639; priest, 1642; joined Society of Jesus, 1644; professed father, 1655; missionary in South Wales; victim of Titus Oates's plot and executed at Usk. [iii. 1]

BAKER, CHARLES (1803-1874), deaf and dumb instructor; assistant instructor successively at deaf and dumb institutions at Edgbaston, Birmingham, and Doncaster; wrote works relating to teaching of deaf and dumb. [iii. 2]

BAKER, DAVID, in religion AUGUSTINE (1576-1641), Benedictine monk; educated at Christ's Hospital, London, and Broadgates Hall (now Pembroke College), Oxford; member of Lincoln's Inn, and, 1596, of Inner Temple; entered Benedictine monastery at Padua, 1605; ordained priest; spiritual director of English Benedictine nuns at Ombrai, 1624; conventual at Douay, 1633; joined English mission; left collections for ecclesiastical history. [iii. 2]

BAKER, DAVID BRISTOW (1803-1852), religious writer; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1832; incumbent of Claygate, Surrey. [iii. 5]

BAKER, DAVID ERSKINE (1730-1767), writer on the drama; grandson of Daniel Defoe; educated in the Tower as a royal engineer; joined a company of strolling players; published 'Companion to Playhouse', 1764; wrote and translated dramatic pieces. [iii. 5]

BAKER, FRANKLIN (1800-1867), unitarian divine; M.A. Glasgow, 1823; minister of Bank Street Chapel, Bolton, 1823-44. His works include a history of nonconformity in Bolton (1854). [iii. 6]

BAKER, GEOFFREY (fl. 1350), chronicler; less correctly known as WALTER OF SWINBROKE; wrote two chronicles, of which the earlier and shorter extends from the first day of creation to 1326, and the second from 1303 to 1356. [iii. 6]

BAKER, GEORGE (1540-1600), surgeon; member of Barber Surgeons' Company; master, 1597; attached to household of Earl of Oxford; wrote and translated several works on surgery and medicine, 1574-97. [iii. 7]

BAKER, SIR GEORGE (1722-1809), physician; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; graduate and fellow, 1745; M.D., 1766; F.R.C.P., 1757; F.R.S., baronet, and physician to king and queen, 1776; published medical works, including a demonstration that the Devonshire colic epidemic was a form of lead-poisoning. [iii. 7]

BAKER, GEORGE (1773?-1847), musician; studied music in London, and performed in public; Mus. Bac. Oxford, c. 1797; organist at Derby, 1810, and at Rugeley, 1824-47; his best work probably 'The Storm'. [iii. 8]

BAKER, GEORGE (1781-1851), topographer; published in parts, between 1822 and 1841, an elaborate history of Northamptonshire, which, from want of subscribers, remained unfinished. [iii. 9]

BAKER, HENRY (1784-1766), author and lawyer; grandson of Daniel Defoe; left legal writings in manuscript. [iii. 9]

BAKER, HENRY (1698-1774), naturalist and poet; made a large fortune as a teacher of the deaf and dumb

by an original system; married Daniel Defoe's youngest daughter, Sophia, 1729; conducted with Defoe the 'Universal Spectator and Weekly Journal', 1728-33; F.S.A. and F.R.S., 1740; took part in establishing Society of Arts, 1754; published poems, translations, and works on natural science. [iii. 9]

BAKER, HENRY AARON (1753-1836), Irish architect; secretary to Royal Hibernian Academy; teacher of architecture in Dublin Society's school, 1787. [iii. 10]

BAKER, SIR HENRY WILLIAMS, BART. (1821-1877), hymn writer; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1847; vicar of Monkland, near Leominster, 1861; promoted and edited 'Hymns Ancient and Modern', 1861, to which collection he contributed many original hymns besides translations from the Latin. [iii. 11]

BAKER, HUMPHREY (fl. 1562-1567), arithmetician and astrologer; published 'The Wellspring of Sciences', 1562, and other mathematical writings. [iii. 11]

BAKER, SIR JOHN (d. 1558), lawyer; joint ambassador to Denmark, 1528; speaker of House of Commons, attorney-general, and privy-councillor; chancellor of exchequer, 1546-58. [iii. 12]

BAKER, JOHN (1661-1716), admiral; lieutenant, 1688; captain, 1691; served against French in Mediterranean, 1691-1707; rear-admiral of white, 1708; vice-admiral of blue and second in command in Mediterranean, 1709-13, and 1714 till his death at Port Mahon. [iii. 12]

BAKER, JOHN (d. 1745), vice-master of Trinity, Cambridge; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1702; D.D., 1717; vice-master, 1722; rector of Dickleburgh, Norfolk, 1731; firm supporter of Dr. Richard Bentley. [iii. 13]

BAKER, JOHN (d. 1771), flower-painter; an original member of Royal Academy. [iii. 13]

BAKER, JOHN WYNN (d. 1776), agricultural and rural economist; F.R.S., 1771; promoted agriculture in Ireland; published works on rural and agricultural economy. [iii. 13]

BAKER, PACIFICUS (1695-1774), Franciscan friar; provincial of the English province, 1761 and 1770; published religious works. [iii. 13]

BAKER, PHILIP (fl. 1558-1601), divine; educated at Eton; M.A. King's College, Cambridge, 1548; D.D., 1562; provost, 1568; vice-chancellor of Cambridge University, 1562; compelled to fly to Louvain owing to his Roman catholic leanings, 1570. [iii. 14]

BAKER, SIR RICHARD (1568-1645), religious and historical writer; probably grandson of Sir John Baker [q. v.]; shared rooms with (Sir) Henry Wotton at Hart Hall, Oxford; studied law in London; travelled abroad; M.A., 1594; knighted, 1603; high sheriff of Oxfordshire, 1620; died in Fleet prison where he was confined for debt, 1635-45; during residence in Fleet he published religious writings and (1643) a chronicle of the kings of England from the Roman period to 1625. [iii. 14]

BAKER, RICHARD (1741-1818), theological writer; M.A. Pembroke College, Cambridge, 1765; D.D., 1788; fellow; rector of Cawston-with-Portland, Norfolk, 1772; published religious works. [iii. 16]

BAKER, ROBERT (fl. 1563), voyager; made two voyages to Guinea, of which he wrote accounts in verse, printed in Hakluyt's 'Voyages', 1589. [iii. 16]

BAKER, SAMUEL (d. 1660?), divine; M.A. and fellow, Christ's College, Cambridge, 1619; D.D., 1639; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1626; canon of Windsor, 1638, and of Canterbury, 1639; sequestered from preferments by Long parliament. [iii. 17]

BAKER, SIR SAMUEL WHITE (1821-1893), traveller and sportsman; brother of Valentine Baker [q. v.]; visited Ceylon, 1846 and 1848, and successfully established English colony at Newera Eliya; superintended construction of railway connecting Danube with Black Sea, 1859; travelled in Asia Minor, 1860-1; explored Nile tributaries of Abyssinia, 1861-2, and rested at Khartoum, 1863; started up Nile, and reached Gondokoro, 1863; met John Hanning Speke [q. v.] and James Augustus Grant [q. v.] returning from Upper Nile, and, travelling through the Latuka country and Kamrasi's country, arrived at White Nile and Karuma falls, January, 1864, and at Mbatkavia on lake, which he named Albert Nyanza, March 1864; explored the river from Magungo to Island of Patooan, returning to Khartoum, May 1865; received gold medal of Royal Geographical Society; knighted, 1866; honorary M.A. Cambridge, 1866; F.R.S., 1869; published account of expedition, 1866; accompanied Prince of Wales to Egypt and Nile, 1869; appointed for four years governor-general of Equatorial Nile basin with rank of pacha, and major-general in Ottoman army, 1869; arrived at Gondokoro, his seat of government, 1871, established system of administration and vigorously opposed slave trade; published 'Ismaïlia,' 1874; continued to travel occasionally in many parts of the world for purpose of hunting big game. [Suppl. i. 101]

BAKER, THOMAS (1625?-1689), mathematician; educated at Magdalen Hall, Oxford; vicar of Bishop's Nympton, Devonshire, 1681; published a work on the solution of biquadratic equations, 1684. [iii. 17]

BAKER, THOMAS (fl. 1700-1709), dramatist; probably educated at Oxford; published several comedies, which were played at Drury Lane. [iii. 17]

BAKER, THOMAS (1656-1740), antiquary; educated at Durham; fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1680; received living of Long Newton, which he resigned as a nonjuror, 1690; resigned fellowship owing to non-compliance with abjuration oath, 1717, but resided in college as commoner master till death; left in manuscript a very complete and accurate history of Cambridge, with other antiquarian writings. [iii. 18]

BAKER, SIR THOMAS (1771?-1845), vice-admiral; entered navy, 1781; lieutenant, 1792; commander, 1795; captain, 1797; captured (neutral) Danish merchant vessels convoyed by frigate on suspicion that they carried contraband, and occasioned coalition of Russia and Denmark in armed neutrality, 1800; attached to channel fleet, 1803; effected important capture of French frigate Didon, 1805; flag-captain to Rear-admiral (Sir) Thomas Bertie [q. v.] in Baltic, 1808; C.B., 1815; colonel of marines, 1819; rear-admiral, 1821; commander-in-chief off South America, 1829-33; K.C.B., 1831; vice-admiral, 1837. [Suppl. i. 105]

BAKER, THOMAS BARWICK LLOYD (1807-1886), one of the founders of reformatory school system; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1828; magistrate for Gloucestershire, 1833; deputy-lieutenant of Gloucestershire, and high sheriff, 1847-1848; founded, 1852, with George Henry Bengough (1829-1865), Hardwicke reformatory school, and subsequently did much work in connection with prevention of crime. [Suppl. i. 106]

BAKER, SIR THOMAS DURAND (1837-1893), lieutenant-general; ensign, 18th Royal Irish foot, 1854; captain, 1858; major, 1873; lieutenant-colonel, 1881; major-general, 1886; served in Crimea, 1854-6; in India, 1857-63; New Zealand, 1863-7; quartermaster-general in Ashanti expedition, 1873-4; chief of staff, 1874; C.B., 1874; deputy assistant quartermaster-general on headquarters staff in London, 1874; assistant adjutant-general, 1875; aide-de-camp to the queen, 1877; attached to Russian army during Russo-Turkish war, 1877; military secretary to Lord Lytton in India, 1878; accompanied Sir Frederick (afterwards earl) Roberts in Kabul campaign, 1879-80; K.C.B., 1881; quartermaster-general to forces, 1890; temporary lieutenant-general, 1891. [Suppl. i. 107]

BAKER, VALENTINE, afterwards known as BAKER PACHA (1827-1887), cavalry officer; brother of Sir Samuel Baker [q. v.]; ensign, 12th lancers, 1852; served in Kaffir war, 1852-3, and in Crimea, 1854-6; major, 10th hussars, 1859; assistant quartermaster-general, Aldershot, 1874; convicted of criminal offence and dismissed from army, 1875; took service under sultan during Russo-Turkish war, 1877-8; defended position at Tashkessan, and was promoted ferik or lieutenant-general, 1877; entered Egyptian service and commanded police, 1882-7; on intelligence staff of force under Sir Gerald Graham [q. v.] in Egypt, 1884; published works on military subjects. [Suppl. i. 109]

BAKER, WILLIAM (1668-1732), bishop of Norwich; fellow, and afterwards warden, Wadham College, Oxford; bishop of Bangor, 1723, and of Norwich, 1727. [iii. 20]

BAKER, WILLIAM (1742-1785), printer; apprenticed and subsequently in business in London; linguist and classical scholar; published essays and (1783) a volume of extracts from classical authors. [iii. 21]

BAKER, SIR WILLIAM ERSKINE (1808-1881), general; lieutenant in Bengal engineers, 1826; captain, 1840; served in Sikh war, and was subsequently employed in the public works department; returned to England as colonel, 1867; military secretary to India Office; K.C.B., 1870; general, 1877. [iii. 21]

BAKEWELL, ROBERT (1725-1795), grazier; greatly improved breed of oxen and sheep, produced Dishley or 'Leicestershire long-horn' cattle, and was first to carry on trade of ram-letting on large scale. [iii. 22]

BAKEWELL, ROBERT (1768-1813), geologist; made extensive mineralogical surveys in England and Ireland; published 'Introduction to Geology,' 1813; established himself in London as geological instructor, and subsequently extended his surveys to the Alps, publishing an account of his travels, 1823. [iii. 23]

BALAM, RICHARD (fl. 1653), mathematician; author of a work on 'Algebra,' published 1653. [iii. 24]

BALATINE, ALAN (fl. 1560), scientist; probably of Scottish origin; his 'Chronicon Universale' used by Edward Hall in his 'Chronicle.' [iii. 21]

BALCANQUHALL, WALTER (1548-1616), presbyterian divine; minister of St. Giles, Edinburgh, 1574; chaplain of the 'Altar called Jesus,' 1579; compelled to fly from Scotland to escape arrest for preaching against the government, 1584 and 1590; publicly rebuked in St. Giles by the king, 1590; minister of Trinity College Church, 1598. [iii. 24]

BALCANQUHALL, WALTER (1586?-1645), royalist; son of Walter Balcanquhall [q. v.]; M.A. Edinburgh, 1609; B.D. and fellow, Pembroke College, Oxford, 1611; chaplain to king; master of Savoy, London, 1617; D.D. Oxford, 1618; sent by James to synod of Dort; dean of Rochester 1624, and of Durham, 1639. [iii. 25]

BALCARRES, EARL OF. [See LINDSAY, ALEXANDER, first EARL, 1618-1659; LINDSAY, COLIN, third EARL, 1654?-1722; LINDSAY, ALEXANDER, sixth EARL, 1752-1825.]

BALCARRES, COUNTESS OF (1621?-1706?) [See CAMPBELL, ANNA MACKENZIE.]

BALCHEN, SIR JOHN (1670-1744), admiral; attached, after holding a commission in West Indies, to Rooke's fleet on Spanish coast, 1701-2; served in the Channel and North Sea, 1703-5, and on coast of Guinea, 1705; twice captured by French in the Channel, 1708 and 1709; engaged in suppressing piracy in West Indies, 1715-16; second in command to Byng in Mediterranean, 1718; in Baltic, 1719, 1720, 1721, 1726, and 1727; rear-admiral, 1728; second in command in Mediterranean, 1731; vice-admiral, 1734; admiral of the white, 1743; governor of Greenwich Hospital and knighted, 1744; went down with his ship in the Channel. [iii. 26]

BALD, ALEXANDER (1783-1859), poetical writer; regularly contributed to 'Scots Magazine'; among the first to acknowledge the merits of James Hogg, the Ettrick Shepherd. [iii. 28]

BALDOCK, RALPH DE (d. 1313), bishop of London, held prebendal stall of Holborn, 1271; dean of St. Paul's, 1294; bishop of London, 1304; lord chancellor, 1307; wrote a history of England. [iii. 28]

BALDOCK, ROBERT DE (d. 1327), lord chancellor; prebendary of St. Paul's; privy seal, 1320; lord chancellor, c. 1324; died from injuries received in riots attending Queen Isabella's invasion of England, 1326. [iii. 28]

BALDOCK, SIR ROBERT (d. 1691), judge; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1651; recorder of Great Yarmouth, 1671; knighted; serjeant and autumn reader at Gray's Inn, 1677; counsel for king in trial of the seven bishops, 1688; king's bench judge, 1688. [iii. 29]

BALDRED or BALTHERE (d. 608?), saint; a Northumbrian anchorite who lived alone on the Bass Rock in Firth of Forth; feast-day, 6 March. [iii. 30]

BALDRED (fl. 823-825), king of Kent; deposed by Eogberht, and fled 'northwards over the Thames.' [iii. 30]

BALDREY, JOSHUA KIRBY (1754-1828), engraver and draughtsman; exhibited portraits at Royal Academy, 1793-4; executed engravings after Salvator Rosa, Reynolds, and other artists. [iii. 30]

BALDUCHE, LORD (d. 1608). [See LYON, SIR THOMAS.]

BALDWIN (d. 1098), abbot and physician; monk of St. Denys; prior of Liberan, Alsace; physician to Edward the Confessor; abbot of St. Edmund's, 1065; subsequently became a favourite physician of the Conqueror; entered into a dispute with Herfast, bishop of Elmham, who asserted his authority over the abbey, and was finally successful in obtaining a confirmation of its independence. [iii. 30]

BALDWIN OF MOELES (d. 1100?), son of Gilbert, count of Eu, who was grandson of Richard the Fearless; received at the Conquest large estates in Devon, of which county he became sheriff. [iii. 31]

BALDWIN OF CLARE (fl. 1141), warrior; grandson of Richard the Fearless; fought at battle of Lincoln (1141) under Stephen, with whom he was captured. [iii. 34]

BALDWIN OF REIVERS (d. 1155), warrior, grandson of Baldwin of Moeles [q. v.]; earl of Devon and lord of Okehampton and perhaps of Isle of Wight; raised revolts against King Stephen in Devonshire and subsequently in Normandy; held Corfe Castle against king, 1139. [iii. 34]

BALDWIN (d. 1190), archbishop of Canterbury; a Cistercian monk of Ford in Devonshire; became abbot; bishop of Worcester, 1180; archbishop of Canterbury, 1180; employed by King Henry II in negotiations with Rhys ap Gruffydd, prince of South Wales; entered into dispute with dissolute monks of Christ Church, who were supported by the pope and various European princes against the archbishop's authority, but a compromise was effected in 1189; made a legatine visitation to Wales, 1187, and preached there in favour of the crusades, 1188; officiated at Richard I's coronation, 1189; died, a crusader, in the Holy Land; wrote religious works. [iii. 32]

BALDWIN, GEORGE (d. 1826), mystical writer; travelled in Cyprus and the East Indies; in Egypt, 1773; succeeded, 1775, in establishing direct commerce from England to Egypt; consul-general in Egypt, 1786-98; joined, after adventurous travels in Europe, the English commander in the Malta campaign of 1801; studied magnetic cures in Egypt, considering himself possessed of magnetic gifts. On this and on political subjects he wrote several works and pamphlets. [iii. 35]

BALDWIN, JOHN (d. 1548), judge; member of Inner Temple; M.P. for Hindon, Wiltshire, 1529-36; attorney-general for Wales and the marches, 1530-2; serjeant-at-law, 1531; knighted, 1534; chief-justice of common pleas, 1535; judge at trials of Bishop Fisher, Sir Thomas More, Anne Boleyn, and Lord Darcy. [iii. 37]

BALDWIN, RICHARD, D.D. (1672?-1758), provost of Trinity College, Dublin, 1717. [iii. 37]

BALDWIN, ROBERT (1804-1858), Canadian statesman; admitted attorney and called to bar of Upper Canada, 1825; honorary head of Upper Canada bar, 1847-1848 and 1850-8; represented York (now Toronto) in legislative assembly, 1830; member of executive council of Upper Canada, 1836; advocated establishment of parliamentary government; solicitor-general for Upper Canada, 1840; member of Lord Sydenham's executive council on union with Lower Canada, 1841; member of united legislative assembly, 1841; submitted resolutions, which were passed unanimously, to secure that in local affairs local ministers should be answerable to the local houses for all acts of the executive authority, 1841; attorney-general for Upper Canada, in first period of cabinet government in Canada, 1842-3; member for Rimouski in Lower Canada, 1842; again attorney-general of Upper Canada, 1848, under Lord Elgin, and introduced many reforms in administration; resigned, 1851; O.B., 1854. [Suppl. i. 110]

BALDWIN, THOMAS (1750-1820), architect; city architect, c. 1775-1800, at Bath; where he designed many public and private buildings. [iii. 38]

BALDWIN, SIR TIMOTHY (1620-1696), lawyer; B.A. Balliol College, Oxford, 1638; D.C.L., 1662; principal of Hart Hall (now Hertford College); knighted, 1670; master in chancery, 1670-82; clerk in House of Lords, 1680; wrote legal works. [iii. 38]

BALDWIN, WILLIAM (fl. 1647), author; studied at Oxford; corrector of press to Edward Whitechurch, printer; employed in preparing theatrical exhibitions for courts of Edward VI and Mary; clergyman and schoolmaster; superintended publication of and contributed to 'Mirror for Magistrates', 1659; published poetical and other works. [iii. 38]

BALDWIN or BAWDEN, WILLIAM (1663-1632), jesuit; studied at Oxford; joined Society of Jesus in Belgium, 1690; professed father, 1692; in Spain, 1698; captured by English fleet at Dunkirk; vice-prefect of English mission, Brussels, c. 1600-10; accused of complicity in Gunpowder plot; arrested and imprisoned in England, 1610-18; died at St. Omer. [iii. 39]

BALDWULF, BEADWULF, or BADULF (d. 803?), probably last Anglian bishop of Whithorn or Candida Casa, Galloway, 791, till death. [iii. 40]

BALDWIN, EDWARD (1746-1817), pamphleteer; M.A. St. John's College, Oxford, 1784; rector of Abdon, Shropshire. [iii. 40]

BALE, JOHN (1495-1563), bishop of Ossory; educated at Carmelite convent, Norwich, and Jesus College, Oxford; converted to protestantism; held living of Thorneden, Suffolk; lived in Germany, 1540-7, on fall of Cromwell, who had protected him; vicar of Swaffham, Norfolk, 1551; bishop of Ossory, 1553; fled to continent, 1553; subsequently prebendary of Canterbury; wrote several religious plays, a history of English writers, and numerous controversial works of great bitterness. [iii. 41]

BALE, ROBERT (fl. 1461), chronicler; notary of London and judge of civil courts; wrote a chronicle of London, and other historical works. [iii. 42]

BALE, ROBERT (d. 1503), prior of Carmelite monastery, Burnham; wrote historical works. [iii. 42]

BALES or BAYLES, alias EVERS, CHRISTOPHER (d. 1590), priest; sent on English mission from Rheims, 1588; executed, 1590, as priest of foreign ordination exercising sacerdotal functions in England. [iii. 43]

BALES, PETER, or BALESIUS (1547-1610?), calligraphist; educated at Gloucester Hall, Oxford; resided in the Old Bailey, working as a writing-master, and was frequently employed in connection with state correspondence and intercepted letters; published 'The Writing Schoolemaster', 1590. [iii. 43]

BALFE, MICHAEL WILLIAM (1808-1870), musical composer; first appeared in public as a violinist, 1817; articulated to Charles Edward Horn the singer, 1823; violinist in Drury Lane orchestras and at oratorio concerts; went to Italy under patronage of Count Mazzara; studied singing and composition at Milan and Paris, and appeared with great success as Figaro in Rossini's 'Barbiere', 1827; produced his first opera, 'I Rivali di se stessi', at Palermo, 1830; returned to England, 1833; his 'Siege of Rochelle' produced at Drury Lane, 1836; produced other compositions, including 'Faustaff', at short intervals; toured in Ireland and west of England; produced 'Le Puits d'Amour' in Paris and his highly successful 'Bohemian Girl'; in London, 1843; conductor of the Italian Opera, Her Majesty's Theatre, 1846; produced the 'Sicilian Bride', 1852; wrote several works for the Pyne-Harrison company at Covent Garden, 1857-63. [iii. 44.]

BALFE, VICTOIRE (1837-1871). [See CRAMPTON.]

BALFOUR, ALEXANDER (1767-1829), Scottish novelist; apprenticed as weaver; clerk in Arbroath, 1793; began at an early age to contribute verse and prose to newspapers, and finally devoted himself to literature. His novels include: 'Campbell', 1819, and 'The Foundling of Glenhorn', 1823. [iii. 48]

BALFOUR, SIR ANDREW (1630-1694), botanist; educated at St. Andrews and Oxford; M.D. Osen, 1661; practised as physician successively in London, St. Andrews, and Edinburgh; founded botanic gardens, Edinburgh; left botanical writings. [iii. 48]

BALFOUR, OLARA LUOAS (1808-1878), lecturer and authoress; née Liddell; lectured and wrote on temperance and questions relating to women's influence, from 1841; wrote, with a subsidiary theological aim, in support of temperance. [iii. 49]

BALFOUR, EDWARD GREEN (1813-1889), surgeon-general and writer on India; L.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1833; entered medical department of Indian army, 1834; assistant-surgeon, 1836; full surgeon, 1852; formed Government Central Museum, Madras, 1850, and was superintendent till 1869; published 'Encyclopedia of India,' 1857; political agent at court of nawab of Carnatic; surgeon-general and head of Madras medical department, 1871-6; returned to England, 1876; largely responsible for the opening of the Madras Medical College to women, 1876; published works chiefly relating to India. [Suppl. i. 113]

BALFOUR, FRANCIS (f. 1812), Anglo-Indian; probably M.D. of Edinburgh; surgeon in East India Company's service, 1777; retired, 1807; intimate with Warren Hastings; published works on medicine and oriental languages. [iii. 50]

BALFOUR, FRANCIS MAITLAND (1851-1882), naturalist; educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1873; fellow; lecturer on animal morphology at Cambridge, 1876; published a monograph on the embryonic history of the elasmobranch fishes, 1878, and a complete treatise on embryology, 1880-1; F.R.S., 1878; 'royal medalist,' 1881; obtained a special professorship of animal morphology at Cambridge, 1882; killed while climbing in Switzerland. [iii. 50]

BALFOUR, SIR GEORGE (1809-1894), general and politician; brother of Edward Green Balfour [q. v.]; educated at Military Academy, Addiscombe; entered royal artillery, 1826; served with Malacca field force, 1832-3, and with Madras forces in China, 1840-2; consul at Shanghai, 1843-66; captain, 1844; C.B., 1864; member of military finance commission, 1859-60; chief of military finance department, 1860-2; assistant to controller-in-chief at war office, London, 1868-71; K.C.B., 1870; major-general, 1865; general, 1877; liberal M.P. for Kincardineshire, 1872-92. [Suppl. i. 114]

BALFOUR, SIR JAMES, LORD PITTENDREICH (d. 1583), Scottish judge; educated for the priesthood; served in galleys for complicity in plot for assassination of Cardinal Beaton, 1547-9; chief judge of consistorial court of archbishop of St. Andrews, and, on its abolition, one of the commissaries of the court appointed in its stead; probably connected with murder of Darnley; governor of Edinburgh Castle; president of court of session till 1568; gained the reputation of having served, deserted, and profited by all parties; probably author of part of 'Balfour's Practicks' (published 1774), the earliest textbook of Scottish law. [iii. 52]

BALFOUR, SIR JAMES (1600-1657), historian; devoted himself to study of Scottish history and antiquities; studied heraldry in London, and, on his return to Scotland, 1630, was knighted and made Lyon king-of-arms and king's commissioner; created baronet, 1633. Most of his historical, heraldic, and other manuscripts are preserved in the Advocates' Library. His 'Annals of Scotland from Malcolm III to Charles II' was printed, 1837. [iii. 53]

BALFOUR, JAMES (1706-1795), philosopher; studied at Edinburgh and Leyden; called to Scottish bar; treasurer to faculty of advocates; professor of moral philosophy, Edinburgh, 1754, and of law of nature and nations, 1764; published philosophical works. [iii. 55]

BALFOUR, JOHN, third BARON BALFOUR OF BURLEIGH (d. 1688); educated in France; has been traditionally and erroneously styled 'Covenanter,' John Balfour the 'Covenanter' being 'of Kinloch.' [iii. 55]

BALFOUR, JOHN HUTTON (1808-1884), botanist; M.A. Edinburgh; M.D., 1832; F.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1833; professor of botany at Glasgow, 1841, and at Edinburgh, 1845; retired as emeritus professor of botany, 1879; assisted in establishing Botanical Society and Botanical Club, Edinburgh; F.R.S. (Edinburgh and London); LL.D.; wrote botanical text-books. [iii. 56]

BALFOUR, NISBET (1743-1823), general; lieutenant, 1766; captain, 1770; served in American war; lieutenant-colonel, 1778; commandant at Charleston, 1779; colonel and king's aide-de-camp; served in Flanders, 1794; general, 1803; M.P. for Wigton Burghs and Arundel between 1790 and 1802. [iii. 56]

BALFOUR, ROBERT (1550?-1625?), Scottish philosopher and philologist; educated at St. Andrews and Paris; professor of Greek at, and, c. 1586, principal of, college of Guienne, Bordeaux; published commentary on Aristotle (1618), and other works. [iii. 57]

BALFOUR, ROBERT, second BARON BALFOUR OF BURLEIGH (d. 1663), by royal patent having married the heiress of the title; president of the 'estates' of Scottish parliament, 1640; served against Montrose; commissioner of treasury and exchequer, 1649. [iii. 58]

BALFOUR, ROBERT, fifth BARON BALFOUR OF BURLEIGH (d. 1757); Jacobite; condemned to death for shooting his former sweetheart's husband, but escaped, 1710; estates forfeited for his share in rebellion, 1715. [iii. 58]

BALFOUR, THOMAS GRAHAM (1813-1891), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1834; assistant surgeon in grenadier guards, 1840-8; inspector-general in charge of new statistical branch of army, 1859-73; F.R.S., 1858; F.R.C.P., 1860; surgeon-general, 1876. [Suppl. i. 115]

BALFOUR, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1660), parliamentary general; in Dutch service till 1627; lieutenant-colonel; governor of Tower, 1630; employed by king on mission in Netherlands, 1631; lieutenant-general of parliamentary horse at Edgehill, 1642, and other engagements in civil war. [iii. 59]

BALFOUR, WILLIAM (1785-1838), lieutenant-colonel; served in Mediterranean, at Copenhagen, and in Peninsular war. [iii. 60]

BALGUY, CHARLES (1708-1767), physician; M.D. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1750; published, besides medical treatises, a translation of Boccaccio's 'Decamerone.' [iii. 60]

BALGUY, JOHN (1686-1748), divine; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1726; incumbent of Lamesby and Tanfield, 1711; took part in the Bangorian controversy, 1718; prebendary of Salisbury, 1727; published tracts defending Dr. Clarke's metaphysical and ethical principles. [iii. 60]

BALGUY, THOMAS (1716-1795), divine; son of John Balguy [q. v.]; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1741; D.D., 1758; vicar of Alton, Hampshire, 1771; prebendary of Winchester, 1758; archdeacon of Winchester, 1759; published and edited religious works, in which he followed the principles of Warburton. [iii. 61]

BALIOL, ALEXANDER DE, LORD OF CAVERS (f. 1246?-1309?); perhaps son of Henry de Baliol (d. 1246); served in Edward's Welsh wars, 1277; one of the Scottish barons who bound themselves to receive Margaret of Norway as queen in the event of failure of male issue of Alexander III, 1284; chamberlain of Scotland, 1287-96; fought on English side in wars with Scotland. [iii. 61]

BALIOL, BERNARD DE, the elder (f. 1135-1167), did homage with David I of Scotland to the Empress Matilda, daughter of Henry I, 1135, but joined King Stephen's party, 1138; taken prisoner at Lincoln, 1141. [iii. 62]

BALIOL, BERNARD DE, the younger (f. 1167), has been identified with Bernard de Baliol (f. 1135-1167) [q. v.]; joined the northern barons who captured William the Lion, 1174. [iii. 63]

BALIOL, EDWARD DE (d. 1363), king of Scotland; eldest son of John de Baliol, king of Scotland [q. v.], and Mabel, daughter of John de Warrenne, earl of Surrey; succeeded to his French fiefs, 1314; invaded Scotland at head of barons displaced by Bruce, 1332; crowned at Scone; did homage to Edward III, to whom he subsequently surrendered ancient Lothian; compelled to take refuge in England from Scottish patriots under Sir Andrew Murray and Earl of Moray, 1334; restored by Edward III's aid, 1335; left almost entirely in Edward's hands the wars which followed; retired to England, 1338; surrendered kingdom of Scotland to Edward III, 1356, in return for pension of 3,000*l.* [iii. 63]

BALIOL, HENRY DE (d. 1346), chamberlain of Scotland, 1219-c. 1331; probably supported barons against John; attended Henry III in Gascon war, 1241. [iii. 65]

BALIOL, JOHN DE (d. 1269), founder of Balliol College, Oxford; one of the regents of Scotland during Alexander III's minority till 1255, when he was deprived for treason; founded Balliol College, Oxford, 1263; sided with Henry III in barons' war, 1258-65. [iii. 66]

BALIOL, JOHN DE (1249-1315), king of Scotland; third son of John de Balliol (q. v.); on death, in 1290, of Margaret, the Maid of Norway, grandchild of Alexander III, claimed throne of Scotland in right of his maternal grandmother, Margaret, eldest daughter of David, brother of William the Lion; his only serious rivals were Robert Bruce and John Hastings, though there were thirteen claimants in all; settlement of the dispute entrusted to Edward I, who obtained recognition as superior lord of Scotland and selected Balliol; crowned at Soane, 1292; condemned for contumacy on declining to appear in Scottish suit before judges at Westminster, 1293, but yielded and attended parliament held in London, 1294; determined, on being treated with haughtiness, to brave Edward's displeasure, and, on his return to Scotland, refused to send men to the French war; allied himself with Philip of France, 1295; invaded England, 1296; formally renounced homage and fealty; brought to submission by Edward and taken captive to England; liberated, 1299; died in retirement at Castle Galliard, Normandy. [iii. 66]

BALL, SIR ALEXANDER JOHN (1757-1809), rear-admiral; lieutenant, 1778; commander, 1783; on home station, 1790-3, and Newfoundland station, 1793-6; served in Mediterranean under Nelson, with whom he formed a close friendship, 1798; at Aboukir Bay, 1798; reduced Malta, 1798-1800; commissioner of navy at Gibraltar; made baronet and governor of Malta; rear-admiral, 1805. [iii. 70]

BALL, ANDREW (d. 1653), navy captain; captain, 1648; served with Captain Penn in Mediterranean, 1650-1652; commanded squadron at Copenhagen, but being caught in a storm returned, 1652; as captain of the fleet encountered Dutch off Portland and was killed. [iii. 72]

BALL, FRANCES (1794-1861), founder of convents; called Mother Frances Mary Theresa; joined institute of Blessed Virgin Mary at Micklegate Bar convent, York, and in 1821 introduced the institute into Ireland, whence it spread to various parts of the world. [iii. 72]

BALL, HANNAH (1734-1792), Wesleyan methodist attracted at High Wycombe by methodist preachers, including Wesley, with whom she corresponded; opened a Sunday school, 1769; extracts from her diary (begun in 1766) and letters have been published. [iii. 73]

BALL, JOHN (d. 1381), priest; probably attached to abbey of St. Mary's, York; frequently reprimanded and imprisoned for preaching at Colchester doctrines which were in great part those of Wycliffe, and which in 1381 brought about Tyler's rebellion; released by rebels from the archbishop's prison, Maidstone, where he was confined; captured at Coventry; executed at St. Albans. [iii. 73]

BALL, JOHN (1585-1640), puritan divine; M.A. St. Mary's Hall, Oxford; obtained ordination without subscription, 1610; presented to living of Whitmore, Staffordshire; 'deprived,' and more than once imprisoned for nonconformity; published religious works. [iii. 74]

BALL, JOHN (1665?-1745), presbyterian; son of Nathanael Ball (q. v.); minister at Honiton, 1708-45; opened seminary which, on account of his learning, was not suppressed under Toleration Act; published religious works. [iii. 75]

BALL, JOHN (1818-1899), man of science and politician; son of Nicholas Ball (q. v.); educated at Christ's College, Cambridge; honorary fellow, 1888; travelled on continent and made series of observations of glaciers; called to Irish bar, 1845; assistant poor law commissioner, 1846-7, 1849-51; M.P. for Co. Carlow, 1852; under-secretary for colonies, 1856-7; first president of Alpine Club, 1857; published 'The Alpine Guide,' 1863-8; joined botanical expedition to Morocco, 1871; F.R.S., 1868; fellow of Linnean, Geographical, and Antiquarian societies. His publications include treatises on physical and geographical science, and the botany of the Alps. [Suppl. i. 115]

BALL, JOHN THOMAS (1815-1898), lord chancellor of Ireland; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; LL.D.,

1844; called to Irish bar, 1840, and to inner bar, 1854; vicar-general of province of Armagh, 1862; bencher of King's Inns, 1863; queen's advocate in Ireland, 1868; solicitor-general for Ireland, 1868; attorney-general, 1868 and 1874; M.P. for Dublin University, 1868; opposed Irish Church Act; honorary D.C.L. Oxford, 1870; assisted in framing future constitution of disestablished Church of Ireland; opposed Gladstone's Irish land bill, 1870, and Irish university bill, 1873; lord chancellor of Ireland, 1875-80; vice-chancellor of Dublin University, 1880; published 'Reformed Church of Ireland,' 1886, and 'Historical Review of Legislative Systems operative in Ireland,' 1888. [Suppl. i. 118]

BALL, NATHANIEL (1623-1681), divine; M.A. King's College, Cambridge; vicar of Barley, Hertfordshire; ejected, 1659; minister at Royston; resigned under Act of Uniformity; licensed as 'general presbyterian preacher in any allowed place,' 1672; assisted Walton in his great Polyglot, and left religious writings. [iii. 76]

BALL, NICHOLAS (1791-1865), Irish judge; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; called to Irish bar, 1814; bencher of King's Inn, 1836; M.P. for Clonmel, 1835; attorney-general and privy councillor for Ireland, 1837; judge of common pleas (Ireland), 1839. [iii. 76]

BALL or BALLE, PETER (d. 1675), physician; doctor of philosophy and physic, Padua, 1660; hon. F.R.C.P., 1664; original F.R.S. [iii. 77]

BALL, ROBERT (1802-1857), naturalist; in under-secretary's office, Dublin, 1827-52; president of Geological Society of Ireland; director of Trinity College Museum, 1844; hon. LL.D. Trinity College, 1850; secretary of the Queen's University, Ireland, 1851. [iii. 77]

BALL, THOMAS (1590-1659), divine; M.A. Queens' College, Cambridge, 1625; fellow; weekly lecturer at Northampton from c. 1630; published a religious treatise called 'Pastorum Propugnaculum,' 1656, and was joint editor of Dr. John Preston's works. [iii. 78]

BALL or BALLE, WILLIAM (d. 1690), astronomer; joined meetings of the 'Oxonian Society' at Gresham College, 1659; joint founder and first treasurer of Royal Society, 1660; acquired some celebrity for his observations of the planet Saturn. [iii. 78]

BALLANCE, JOHN (1839-1893), prime minister of New Zealand; born in Ireland; emigrated to New Zealand, where he founded 'Wanganui Herald'; served in Maori war, 1867; entered House of Representatives, 1876; treasurer, 1878-9; minister for lands and native affairs, 1884; leader of liberal opposition, 1889; prime minister, 1891, adopting a bold and successful progressive policy. [Suppl. i. 120]

BALLANDEN. [See BELLENDEN.]

BALLANTINE, JAMES (1808-1877), artist and author; originally a house-painter in Edinburgh; one of the first to revive art of glass-painting, on which he published a treatise; executed stained-glass windows for House of Lords; published poetical and other works. [iii. 79]

BALLANTINE, WILLIAM (1812-1887), serjeant-at-law; educated at St. Paul's School; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1834; honorary bencher, 1878; serjeant-at-law, 1856; conducted prosecution at trial of Franz Müller, 1864; appeared for the Tichborne claimant at the first stage of legal proceedings, 1871 [see ORTON, ARTHUR]; successfully defended Mulhar Rao, Gaekwar of Baroda, on a charge of attempted murder, 1875; published reminiscences. [Suppl. i. 120]

BALLANTYNE, JAMES (1772-1833), printer of Sir Walter Scott's works; attended with Scott Kelsie grammar school; solicitor in Kelsie, 1795; undertook printing and editing of 'Kelsie Mail,' 1796; printed Scott's 'Minstrelsy of Scottish Border,' 1802, and thenceforth continued to print Scott's works; received loan from Scott for establishment of a printing business in Edinburgh, 1802, and took with his brother John (q. v.) half share in bookselling business (started, 1808); proprietor, with his brother, of 'Weekly Journal,' 1817; ruined by bankruptcy of Constable & Co., 1826; thenceforth employed in editing 'Weekly Journal,' and in literary management of the printing-house for the creditors' trustees. [iii. 80]

BALLANTYNE, JAMES ROBERT (d. 1864), orientalist; superintendent reorganisation of government Sanskrit college at Benares, 1845; librarian to India Office, London, 1861; published oriental works with object of making Indian philosophies accessible to Europeans. [iii. 81]

BALLANTYNE, JOHN (1774-1821), publisher; brother of James Ballantyne (1772-1833) [q. v.]; partner in his father's business as general merchant, Kelso, 1795; clerk in his brother's printing establishment, 1806; manager of publishing firm established by Scott, 1808; auctioneer, 1813; the 'Novellist's Library' edited gratuitously for his benefit by Scott, 1820. [iii. 82]

BALLANTYNE, JOHN (1778-1830), divine; educated at Edinburgh; secessionist minister at Stonehaven, Kincardineshire, 1805; published controversial pamphlets. [iii. 83]

BALLANTYNE, ROBERT MICHAEL (1825-1894), author; brother of James Robert Ballantyne [q. v.]; apprenticed as clerk in service of Hudson Bay Fur Company, and spent some time in trading with Indians; in printing and publishing firm of Thomas Constable, Edinburgh, 1848-55; published, from 1855, many novels for boys; exhibited watercolour paintings at Royal Scottish Academy. [Suppl. i. 122]

BALLANTYNE, THOMAS (1806-1871), journalist; successively editor of 'Bolton Free Press,' 'Manchester Guardian,' 'Liverpool Journal,' and 'Mercury'; associated with Cobden and Bright in corn-law agitation; edited 'Lewler,' 'Old St. James's Chronicle,' and 'Statesman' (which he started), and was connected with 'Illustrated London News'; published selections from Carlyle and other writers. [iii. 83]

BALLANTYNE, WILLIAM (1616-1661). [See BALLENDEN.]

BALLARD, EDWARD GEORGE (1791-1860), miscellaneous writer; employed in the stamp office, 1809, and, later, in excise office till 1817. [iii. 83]

BALLARD, GEORGE (1706-1755), antiquary; apprenticed as staymaker; studied Anglo-Saxon and proceeded to Oxford, 1750, having received an annuity from various gentlemen interested in his work; clerk at Magdalen College, and, later, one of the university bedells; assisted Aines in his 'History of Printing'; left archaeological writings. [iii. 84]

BALLARD, JOHN (d. 1586), Roman catholic priest; probably educated at Rheims; joined English mission, 1581; travelled to Rome, 1584, with Anthony Tyrrell, and obtained pope's sanction for plot to assassinate Elizabeth; instigated Anthony Babington [q. v.] to organise the plot, 1586, and on its discovery was racked and executed. [iii. 84]

BALLARD, JOHN ARCHIBALD (1829-1880), general; joined Bombay engineers, 1850; went to Constantinople, being ordered to Europe on medical certificate, and received rank of lieutenant-colonel in Turkish army; distinguished himself at sieges of Silistria and Giurgevo; commanded under Omar Pasha in campaign to relieve Kars; returned to India as C.B., 1856; assistant-quarter-master-general in Persian campaign and Indian mutiny; lieutenant-general, 1879. [iii. 85]

BALLARD, SAMUEL JAMES (1764?-1829), vice-admiral; entered navy, 1776; commander, 1794; post-captain, 1796; employed in conveying trade for Baltic, Newfoundland and Quebec, 1796-8; attached to Mediterranean fleet, 1799-1801; at reduction of Guadaloupe, 1810; rear-admiral, 1814; vice-admiral, 1825. [iii. 86]

BALLARD, VOLANT VASHON (1774?-1832), rear-admiral; lieutenant, 1795; captain, 1798; in West Indies, 1809-10; rear-admiral, 1825. [iii. 87]

BALLENDEN or BALLANTYNE, WILLIAM (1616-1661), Roman catholic divine; educated at Edinburgh; converted to catholicism at Paris; became priest at Rome; returned to Scotland on catholic mission, 1649; first prebect-apostolic of the mission, 1653. [iii. 87]

BALLINGALL, SIR GEORGE (1780-1856), surgeon; studied at St. Andrews; military surgeon in India, 1806-18; professor of military surgery, Edinburgh, 1825; knighted, 1830; F.R.S. London and Edinburgh; published medical works. [iii. 83]

BALLIOL. [See BALIOL.]

BALLOW or BELLEWE, HENRY (1707-1782), lawyer; held post in the exchequer; friend of Akenside the poet; left legal manuscripts. [iii. 88]

BALLYANN, -BARON OF (d. 1554). [See KAVANAGH, CAHIR MACAINT.]

BALMER, GEORGE (d. 1846), painter; son of a house-painter; attracted attention by his pictures at Newcastle; painted continental scenes during a tour in Europe. [iii. 89]

BALMER, ROBERT (1787-1844), minister; educated at Edinburgh and Selkirk; licensed preacher by secession church, 1812; minister at Berwick-on-Tweed, 1814-44; professor of pastoral, and, later, of systematic, theology in secession church; D.D., Glasgow, 1840. [iii. 89]

BALMERINO, BARONS. [See ELPHINSTONE, JAMES, first BARON, 1553?-1612; ELPHINSTONE, JOHN, second BARON, d. 1649; ELPHINSTONE, JOHN, third BARON, 1623-1704; ELPHINSTONE, JOHN, fourth BARON, 1682-1736; ELPHINSTONE, ARTHUR, sixth BARON, 1688-1746.]

BALMFORD, JAMES (b. 1556), divine; published religious works, including a 'Dialogue concerning the unlawfulness of playing at Cards,' 1594. [iii. 89]

BALMFORD, SAMUEL (d. 1659?), puritan divine. [iii. 90]

BALMUTO, LORD (1742-1824). [See BOSWELL, CLAUD IRVINE.]

BALMYLE or BALMULE, NICHOLAS DE (d. 1320?), chancellor of Scotland; educated as clerk in monastery of Arbroath; temporarily executed functions of archbishop of St. Andrews, 1297; chancellor of Scotland, 1301-7; bishop of Dunblane, c. 1307. [iii. 90]

BALNAVES, HENRY (d. 1579), Scottish reformer; educated at St. Andrews and Cologne; became acquainted with Swiss and German reformers; lord of session, 1538; secretary of state to the regent; depute-keeper of privy seal, 1542; deprived of offices, 1543; confined in Blackness Castle; transported to Rouen, 1546; reinstated lord of session, 1563; took prominent part in behalf of protestant reformers. [iii. 91]

BALNEA, HENRY DE (fl. 1400?), English Carthusian monk; author of 'Speculum Spiritualium.' [iii. 92]

BALSHAM, HUGH DE (d. 1286), bishop of Ely and founder of Peterhouse, Cambridge; superior of monastery of Ely; elected by the monks bishop of Ely on death of William de Kilkenny, 1256; his election displeasing to Henry III, who allowed John de Waleran, to whom he had committed the temporalities of the see, to do much harm to the diocese; confirmed as bishop by the pope, 1257; obtained charter to introduce 'studious scholars' into his hospital of St. John, Cambridge, in lieu of the secular brethren already residing there, 1280; obtained charter to separate his scholars from the brethren of the hospital, 1284, and founded and endowed Peterhouse for them. [iii. 92]

BALTHER (d. 756), saint; presbyter of Lindisfarne; probably lived as an anchoress at Tynningham in Scotland. [iii. 98]

BALTIMORE, EARLS OF. [See CALVERT, GEORGE, first EARL, 1690?-1642; CALVERT, FREDERICK, seventh EARL, 1731-1771.]

BALTINGLAS, third Viscount (d. 1585). [See EUSTACE, JAMES.]

BALTRODDI, WALTER DE (d. 1270), bishop of Caithness, 1261; doctor of the canon law. [iii. 98]

BALTZAR, THOMAS (1630?-1663), violinist; born at Lübeck; settled, 1656, in England, where he became famous; one of the king's musicians. [iii. 98]

BALUN, JOHN DE (d. 1235). [See BAALUN.]

BALVAIRD, first BARON (1597?-1644). [See MURRAY, SIR ANDREW.]

BALWEARIE, LORD (d. 1532). [See SCOTT, SIR WILLIAM.]

BALY, WILLIAM (1814-1881), physician; studied at University College, London, St. Bartholomew's Hospital, Paris, Heidelberg, and Berlin; M.D. Berlin, 1836; physician to Millbank Penitentiary, 1841; physician to the queen, 1859; F.R.O.P., 1846; F.R.S., 1847; published works on the hygiene of prisons and other medical subjects. [iii. 99]

BAMBRIDGE, CHRISTOPHER (1464?-1514). [See BAINBRIDGE.]

BAMBRIDGE, THOMAS (fl. 1729), attorney and warden of the Fleet; joint-warden to Fleet prison, 1728; taken into custody for cruelty, 1729; twice tried for murder of a prisoner and acquitted; was latterly himself imprisoned in the Fleet. [iii. 99]

BAMFORD, SAMUEL (1788-1872), poet and weaver; actively interested in welfare of labouring classes; unjustly imprisoned for connection with the gatherings dispersed by the Peterloo massacre, 1819; obtained post as messenger at Somerset House, but subsequently returned to trade as weaver; published poems and other writings. [iii. 100]

BAMFIELD, SIR COPLESTONE (1636-1691), justice; educated at Corpus Christi College, Oxford; active in promoting Charles II's restoration; M.P. for Tiverton, 1669, and for Devonshire, 1671-9 and 1685-7. [iii. 101]

BAMFIELD, FRANÇOIS (d. 1683), divine; M.A. Wadham College, Oxford, 1638; prebendary of Exeter; held living of Sherborne; ejected from preferments, 1662; repeatedly imprisoned for preaching; died in Newgate; published religious works. [iii. 101]

BAMFIELD, JOSEPH (fl. 1639-1685), royalist colonel; ensign under Lord Ashley, 1639, in Scottish war; colonel during civil war, in west of England; frequently employed by Charles I in secret negotiations; dismissed as untrustworthy by Charles II; acted as Cromwell's agent in Paris after 1654; commanded English regiment in Holland after Restoration. [iii. 101]

BAMFIELD, THOMAS (d. 1693), speaker of House of Commons, 1658-9; recorder of Exeter; M.P. for Exeter, 1654, 1656, and 1660. [iii. 103]

BAMFYLD, COPLESTONE WARRE (d. 1791), landscape painter; exhibited at Society of Artists, Free Society of Artists, and Royal Academy, 1763-83. [iii. 103]

BAMFYLD, JOHN CODDRINGTON (1764-1796), poet; educated at Cambridge; published sonnets, 1778; led a dissipated life, and was confined in private asylum. [iii. 103]

BAMPTON, JOHN (fl. 1340), Carmelite at Cambridge; D.D.; wrote theological treatises. [iii. 103]

BAMPTON, JOHN (d. 1751), founder of Bampton lectures; M.A. Trinity College, Oxford, 1712; prebendary of Salisbury, 1718; left legacy for foundation of the Bampton divinity lectures at Oxford. [iii. 104]

BANASTRE, ALARD (fl. 1174), sheriff of Oxfordshire, with judicial powers, 1174-5. [iii. 104]

BANBURY, first EARL OF. [See KNOLLYS, WILLIAM, 1547-1632.]

BANCHINUS (fl. 1392). [See BANKY, JOHN.]

BANCK, JOHN VAN DER (1694?-1739). [See VANDERBANK.]

BANCK, PETER VAN DER (1649-1697). [See VANDERBANK.]

BANCKS, JOHN (1709-1761). [See BANKS.]

BANCROFT, EDWARD (1744-1821), naturalist and chemist; frequently visited America, and published 'Natural History of Guiana,' 1769; made important discoveries in dyeing and calico-printing. [iii. 105]

BANCROFT, EDWARD NATHANIEL (1772-1842), physician; son of Edward Bancroft [q. v.]; M.B. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1794; physician to forces in the Windward Islands, Portugal, Mediterranean, and Egypt; M.D., 1804; fellow and Gulstonian lecturer, 1806, and censor, 1808, College of Physicians; physician to St. George's Hospital, 1808-11; physician, 1811, to forces in Jamaica, where he remained till death, being ultimately deputy inspector-general of army hospitals; identified yellow with malarial fever in his 'Essay,' 1811. [iii. 106]

BANCROFT, GEORGE (fl. 1548), translator; published 'Answers that Preachers at Basile made for defence of the Lord's Supper,' 1548, a heated attack on the catholics, translated from Latin. [iii. 107]

BANCROFT, JOHN (1574-1640), seventh bishop of Oxford; nephew of Archbishop Bancroft; educated at Westminster; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1599; rector of Finchley, 1601-8; B.D., 1607; D.D. and prebendary of St. Paul's, 1609; master of University College, Oxford, 1610-32; bishop of Oxford, 1632; built an episcopal residence at Cuddesdon, Oxfordshire, 1635. [iii. 107]

BANCROFT, JOHN (d. 1696), dramatist and surgeon; published several plays, 1679-91. [iii. 108]

BANCROFT, RICHARD (1544-1610), archbishop of Canterbury; B.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1567; prebendary of St. Patrick's, Dublin; D.D., 1585; treasurer of St. Paul's, 1588; ecclesiastical commissioner; canon of Westminster, 1587; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1590; largely responsible for detection of printers of the Marprelate tracts; chaplain to Archbishop Whitgift, 1592; bishop of London, 1597; archbishop of Canterbury, 1604; laid before the privy council his 'Articles of Abuses,' in which he protested, in name of the clergy, against 'prohibitions' by civil judges of proceedings in ecclesiastical courts, 1605; supported scheme of new translation of bible; D.D. and chancellor of university of Oxford, 1608; his works chiefly directed against puritans. [iii. 108]

BANCROFT, THOMAS (fl. 1633-1658), poet; educated at Catherine Hall, Cambridge. His publications include 'Two Bookes of Epigrammes and Epitaphs' (1633), which celebrated many men of letters of the time; contributed to Brome's 'Lachrymæ Musarum' (1649). [iii. 112]

BANCROFT, THOMAS (1756-1811), divine; B.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1781; Craven scholar, 1780; head-master, Henry VIII's school, Chester; vicar of Bolton-le-Moors, 1793; one of the four 'king's preachers' of Lancashire; published sermons. [iii. 113]

BANDINEL, BULKELEY (1781-1861), librarian of Bodleian; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; chaplain to Sir James Sanmarc in Baltic; Bodley's librarian, 1813-60; honorary curator, 1860; published catalogue, 1843. [iii. 113]

BANDINEL, DAVID (d. 1645), dean of Jersey, 1623; took the side of the parliament during the civil war, chiefly owing to his animosity to Sir Philip de Carteret, lieutenant-governor of Jersey. Carteret died from the rigours of a siege directed by Bandinel; and his son, Sir George Carteret, arrested and imprisoned Bandinel and his son, who died after attempting to escape. [iii. 114]

BANDINEL, JAMES (1783-1849), clerk in foreign office; brother of Bulkeley Bandinel [q. v.]; published a work on the African slave trade, 1842. [iii. 115]

BANIM, JOHN (1798-1842), novelist, dramatist, and poet, the 'Scott of Ireland'; studied at drawing academy of Royal Dublin Society; teacher of drawing at Kilkenny; removed to Dublin and took up literature; wrote 'The Celt's Paradise,' a poem; produced 'Damou and Pythias,' performed at Covent Garden Theatre, with Macready and Kemble in principal parts, 1821; settled in London, contributed largely to periodicals, and wrote, in conjunction with his brother Michael [q. v.], several successful novels in a series called 'O'Hara Tales'; went abroad for his health, and soon found himself in straitened circumstances, but was relieved by public subscription. The 'O'Hara Tales' (first series), 1825, to some extent fulfilled the author's object of doing for the Irish what the 'Waverley Novels' had done for the Scottish people. [iii. 115]

BANIM, MICHAEL (1796-1874), novelist; brother of John Banim [q. v.]; studied for bar, but abandoned the law for commerce; began to assist his brother in the 'O'Hara Tales,' 1822, several of which he wrote; met with serious financial misfortunes, c. 1840; postmaster of Kilkenny, c. 1862-73. [iii. 117]

BANISTER or BANESTER, JOHN (1540-1610), surgeon to Earl of Warwick's forces at Havre, 1563; studied at Oxford; served in Leicester's expedition to Low Countries, 1585; wrote, compiled, and edited medical works. [iii. 118]

BANISTER, JOHN (1630-1679), musician; sent by Charles II to study in France, having attracted his attention by his violin playing, and on his return made leader of the king's band, 1663; produced several compositions, including music for the 'Tempest' (written in conjunction with Pelham Humphrey). [iii. 119]

BANISTER, JOHN (d. 1692 ?), naturalist; travelled in East Indies and Virginia as missionary, and wrote on natural history of those countries. [iii. 119]

BANISTER, RICHARD (d. 1626), oculist; published, 1622, a second edition, with additions, of Guillemin's treatise on diseases of the eyes (Paris, 1585). [iii. 120]

BANISTER, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1721), one of the judges of South Wales; baron of exchequer and knighted, 1713; removed, 1714. [iii. 120]

BANKE, RICHARD (fl. 1410), judge; baron of exchequer, 1410; reappointed, 1414. [iii. 120]

BANKES, GEORGE (1788-1856), last of cursitor barons of exchequer; appointed, 1824; educated at Westminster and Trinity Hall, Cambridge; called to bar, 1815; chief secretary of board of control, 1829; junior lord of treasury, 1830; M.P. for Corfe Castle, 1816-23 and 1826-32, and for Dorset, 1841-56; judge-advocate-general and privy councillor, 1852. [iii. 120]

BANKES, HENRY (1757-1834), politician and author; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1781; M.P. for Corfe Castle, 1780-1826; published a history of Rome. [iii. 121]

BANKES, SIR JOHN (1589-1644), chief justice of common pleas, 1641; educated at Queen's College, Oxford; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1614; bench, 1629; treasurer, 1632; M.P. for Morpeth, 1628; attorney-general, 1634; represented crown against John Hampden, 1637; privy councillor, 1641; impeached by parliament and his property confiscated; continued to perform duties of his office at Oxford. [iii. 121]

BANKES, MARY, LADY (d. 1661), heroine of Corfe Castle; wife of Sir John Bankes [q.v.]; occupied the family residence of Corfe Castle for royalists at outbreak of civil war; besieged in 1643 by Sir Walter Earle, who was unsuccessful, and again, 1645-6, when the castle was betrayed by an officer of the garrison. [iii. 123]

BANKES, WILLIAM JOHN (d. 1855), traveller; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1811; M.P. successively for Truro, Cambridge University, Marlborough, and Dorsetshire; travelled widely in the East. [iii. 124]

BANKHEAD, JOHN (1738-1833), Irish presbyterian minister; minister at Ballycarry, co. Antrim, 1763-1833; moderator of synod, 1800; published catechism, based on Westminster Shorter Catechism, 1786. [iii. 124]

BANKS, — (fl. 1588-1637), Scottish showman, to whose 'dancing horse,' Morocco, allusion is made by all the best authors of his day; originally served the Earl of Essex; went to Paris, 1601, where he was imprisoned on suspicion that the horse's tricks were performed by magic; returned to England, 1608; probably became a vintner in Cheapside. [iii. 125]

BANKS, BENJAMIN (1750-1795), violin maker; pupil of Peter Walmsey; subsequently copied the instruments of Nicholas Amati. [iii. 126]

BANKS, SIR EDWARD (1769?-1835), builder, of humble origin; knighted, 1822. His works include Waterloo, Southwark, and London bridges. [iii. 126]

BANKS, GEORGE LINNÆUS (1821-1881), miscellaneous writer; apprenticed as cabinet maker; advocated social advancement of the people; between 1848 and 1864 edited successively several journals in England and Ireland. His writings include poems and dramatic pieces. [iii. 127]

BANKS, ISABELLA, known as MRS. LINNÆUS BANKS (1821-1807), novelist; née Varley; schoolmistress at Cheetham, near Manchester; married, 1846, George Linnaeus Banks [q.v.], whom she assisted in his journalistic work; published poetical works and novels, including the 'Manchester Man,' 1876. [Suppl. i. 123]

BANKS, JOHN (fl. 1696), dramatist; studied law, and was a member of the Society of New Inn; wrote,

1677-96, seven plays, in verse, chiefly on historical subjects, of which the 'Unhappy Favorite' and 'Virtue Betrayed,' were very successfully produced. [iii. 127]

BANKS or BANCCKS, JOHN (1709-1751), miscellaneous writer; weaver's apprentice; came to London and entered service of a bookseller and bookbinder; published poems (2 vols. 1738) and other works, including a 'Life of Christ' and an account of Oliver Cromwell. [iii. 128]

BANKS, JOHN SHERBROOKE (1811-1867), major; cadet in Bengal native infantry, 1829; quartermaster and interpreter, 1833; served at Cabul, 1842; military secretary to Lord Dalhousie; succeeded Sir Henry Lawrence as chief commissioner of Lucknow, 1857. [iii. 128]

BANKS, SIR JOSEPH (1743-1820), president of the Royal Society, 1778-1820; educated at Harrow, Eton, and Christ Church, Oxford; studied natural history; F.R.S., 1766; travelled in Newfoundland; accompanied Cook in his expedition round the world in the Endeavour, 1768-1771, making valuable natural history collections; on his return created hon. D.C.L. of Oxford; visited Iceland, 1772; baronet, 1781; C.B., 1795; P.O., 1797. His collections and library are preserved in the British Museum. [iii. 129]

BANKS, SARAH SOPHIA (1744-1818), virtuoso; sister of Sir Joseph Banks [q.v.]; collected objects of natural history, books, and coins, which were presented to the British Museum. [iii. 133]

BANKS, THOMAS (1735-1805), sculptor; apprenticed as ornament carver; studied under Scheemakers; obtained medals from Society of Arts for classic bas-reliefs and statues, 1763-9; Royal Academy gold medalist, 1770; obtained a travelling studentship and studied in Italy, 1772-9; executed several works at St. Petersburg, 1781; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1780-1803; R.A., 1785; friend of Horne Tooke, and arrested on the charge of high treason about the same time as Tooke. Works by him are in Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, and the Royal Academy. [iii. 133]

BANKS, THOMAS CHRISTOPHER (1765-1854), genealogist; educated for the law; practised largely in cases of disputed inheritance; published many genealogical books, including the 'Dormant and Extinct Baronage of England' (1807-9), a similar work on the peerage (1812), and pamphlets in support of spurious claims to peerages, among which were the dukedom of Norfolk, 1812, and the earldoms of Stirling and Salisbury, 1830. [iii. 134]

BANKS, WILLIAM STOTT (1820-1872), antiquary; attorney, 1861; clerk to Wakefield justices, 1870; published 'Walks in Yorkshire' (1866-72). [iii. 136]

BANCKTON, LORD (1685-1760). [See MACDOWELL, ANDREW.]

BANKWELL, BAKWELL, BACQWELL, or BANQUELLE, JOHN DE (d. 1308), judge; justice itinerant for Kent, 1299; baron of exchequer, 1307. [iii. 136]

BANKWELL, ROGER DE (fl. 1340), judge; appointed justice of king's bench, 1341. [iii. 136]

BANKYN or BANEKYNE, JOHN (fl. 1382), friar of Augustinian monastery, London; D.D. Oxford; opposed Wycliffe at Blackfriars council, 1382. [iii. 136]

BANNARD, JOHN (fl. 1412), Augustinian friar at Oxford; according to Wood, professor of theology, and afterwards chancellor of the university. [iii. 137]

BANNATYNE, GEORGE (1545-1608 ?), collector of Scottish poems; Burgess of Edinburgh, 1587; made, in 1568, a manuscript collection of poems by fifteenth and sixteenth century poets. The 'Bannatyne MS.' has been printed by the Hunterian Club. [iii. 137]

BANNATYNE, RICHARD (d. 1605), secretary to John Knox; subsequently clerk to the advocate Samuel Cockburn; wrote 'Memorials of Transactions in Scotland from 1569 to 1573.' [iii. 138]

BANNATYNE, SIR WILLIAM MACLEOD (1743-1833), Scottish judge; admitted advocate, 1765; promoted to bench as Lord Bannatyne, 1799; knighted, 1823; original member of Highland Society and Bannatyne Club, and a projector of and contributor to the 'Lounger' and 'Mirror.' [iii. 138]

BANNERMAN, ANNE (d. 1829), Scottish poetical writer; published 'Poems,' 1800, and 'Tales of Superstition and Chivalry,' 1802. [iii. 139]

BANNERMAN, JAMES (1807-1868), theologian; educated at Edinburgh; professor of apologetics and pastoral theology, New College (Free church), Edinburgh, 1849-68; published theological works. [iii. 139]

BANNERMANN, ALEXANDER (d. 1766), engraver; member of Incorporated Society of Artists, 1766; executed several portraits for Walpole's 'Anecdotes of Painters.' [iii. 139]

BANNISTER, CHARLES (1738?-1804), actor and vocalist; performed first in London at Haymarket Theatre, 1762; appeared at Ranelagh as imitator of popular vocalists; acted or sang at the Haymarket, the Royalty, Covent Garden, and Drury Lane. [iii. 140]

BANNISTER, JOHN (1760-1836), comedian; son of Charles Bannister [q. v.]; student at Royal Academy; appeared at Haymarket as Dick in Murphy's 'Apprentice,' 1778; engaged as stock actor at Drury Lane, 1778-9; created Don Whiskerandos in the 'Critic,' Drury Lane, 1779, and subsequently numbered among his parts Charles Surface, Parolles, George Barnwell, Brisk (Congreve's 'Double Dealer'), Speed ('Two Gentlemen of Verona'), Sir Anthony Absolute, Bob Acres, and Tony Lumpkin; acting-manager of Drury Lane, 1802-3; retired, 1816. [iii. 140]

BANNISTER, JOHN (1816-1873), philologist; M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1853; LL.D., 1866; perpetual curate of Bridgehill, Derbyshire, 1846-57, and of St. Day, Cornwall, 1857-73; published works on Cornish language. [iii. 141]

BANNISTER, SAXE (1790-1877), miscellaneous writer; M.A. Queen's College, Oxford, 1815; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn; attorney-general of New South Wales, 1823-6; bedel to Royal College of Physicians, 1848; published pamphlets and legal and historical works. [iii. 142]

BANSLEY, CHARLES (d. 1548), poet; published a rhyming satire on feminine love of dress, 1640. [iii. 143]

BANTING, WILLIAM (1797-1878), writer on corpulence; undertaker in London; published 'A Letter on Corpulence,' 1863. [iii. 143]

BANYER, HENRY (d. 1739), medical writer; physician at Wisbeach; extraordinary L.C.S., 1736; published medical works. [iii. 143]

BAPTIST, JOHN GASPARS (d. 1691), portrait and tapestry painter; pupil of Bossaert. [iii. 144]

BARBAR, THOMAS (d. 1587), divine; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1567; B.D., 1576; preacher at St. Mary-le-Bow, c. 1576; suspended for refusing to take the ex-officio oath, 1584. [iii. 144]

BARBAULD, ANNA LETITIA (1743-1825), miscellaneous writer; née Aikin; acquired considerable learning at an early age; published poems, 1773, and, with her brother, prose essays; married Rev. Rochemont Barbauld, 1774; established boys' school at Palgrave, Suffolk, where were written her 'Hymns in Prose for Children'; gave up the school, 1785; published selection of English prose and poetry, entitled 'The Female Speaker,' and 'Eighteen Hundred and Eleven,' a poem, 1811 (original of Macaulay's 'New Zealander'). [iii. 144]

BARBER, CHARLES (d. 1864), landscape painter; teacher of drawing at the Royal Institution, Liverpool, where he helped to found the Architectural and Archaeological Association. [iii. 146]

BARBER, CHARLES CHAPMAN (d. 1882), barrister; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1853; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn; acted for defendants in Tichborne trials, 1867 and 1872, and for crown in subsequent prosecution for perjury. [iii. 146]

BARBER, CHRISTOPHER (1736-1810), miniaturist; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1770. [iii. 146]

BARBER, EDWARD (d. 1874?), baptist minister in the Spital, Bishopsgate Street, London; originally clergyman of established church; wrote controversial and other religious works. [iii. 146]

BARBER, JOHN (d. 1649), clergyman and civilian; D.C.L. All Souls' College, Oxford, and member of College of Advocates, 1632; joined a plot against Cranmer, 1643; probably identical with John Barbour, proctor for Anne Boleyn on occasion of her divorce. [iii. 147]

BARBER, JOHN VINCENT (d. 1830), painter; son of Joseph Barber [q. v.]; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1812, 1821, 1829, and 1830. [iii. 148]

BARBER, JOSEPH (1757-1811), landscape painter; established drawing-school at Birmingham. [iii. 148]

BARBER, MARY (1690?-1757), poetess; wife of a tailor in Dublin; attracted by her poems the attention of Swift, who provided her with introductions in England, where she published with some success, by subscription (1734), 'Poems on Several Occasions.' Being in pecuniary distress she obtained from Swift his unpublished 'Polite Conversations,' the publication (1738) and sale of which placed her in comfortable circumstances. [iii. 148]

BARBER, SAMUEL (1738?-1811), Irish presbyterian minister at Rathfriland, co. Down, 1763-1811; licensed, 1761; colonel of Rathfriland volunteers, 1782; urged sweeping civil and ecclesiastical reforms in volunteer conventions, 1782, 1783, and 1793; moderator of general synod, 1790; imprisoned on charge of high treason, 1798; published, 1786, vigorous 'Remarks' on the bishop of Cloyne's 'Present State of the Church of Ireland.' [iii. 149]

BARBON, NICHOLAS (d. 1698), writer on money; probably son of Praisegod Barbon [q. v.]; M.D. Utrecht, 1661; hon F.C.P., 1664; M.P. for Bramber, 1690 and 1695; erected many buildings in London after fire of 1666; first instituted fire insurance in England; wrote two treatises on raising value of coinage. [iii. 150]

BARBON or BARBONE or BARBONES, PRAISE-GOD (1596?-1679), anabaptist and politician; leather-seller in Fleet Street; freeman of Leathersellers' Company, 1623; warder of yeomanry, 1630; third warder, 1648; chosen minister by pædo-baptist members of a divided congregation in Fleet Street, 1630; published defence of pædo-baptism, 1642; M.P. for City of London, 1653; opposed restoration of Charles II by circulating an account of Charles's life in Holland and petitioning parliament, 1660; confined, after the Restoration, for some time in the Tower. [iii. 151]

BARBOUR, JOHN (1316?-1395), Scottish poet; archdeacon of Aberdeen; probably studied and taught at Oxford and Paris; one of auditors of exchequer, 1372, 1382, and 1384; clerk for audit of king's household, 1373; composed his poem 'Brus,' celebrating the war of independence and deeds of King Robert and James Douglas, 1375. Other poems which have with reasonable certainty been ascribed to him are the 'Legend of Troy,' and 'Legends of the Saints,' being translations from Guido da Colonna's 'Historia Destructionis Troie' and the 'Legenda Aurea.' [iii. 153]

BARCAPLE, LORD (1803-1870). [See MAITLAND, EDWARD FRANCIS.]

BARCHAM, JOHN (1572?-1642). [See BARKHAM.]

BARCLAY, ALEXANDER (1475?-1552), poet, scholar, and divine; probably of Scottish birth; travelled on the continent; priest in college of Ottery St. Mary, Devonshire; translated Brant's 'Narrenschiff' into English verse as 'The Shyp of Follys,' 1508; became a Benedictine monk at Ely, where he wrote his 'Ecliques' and translated a 'Life of St. George' from Baptist Mantuan; left Ely before dissolution of the monasteries and joined Franciscan order at Canterbury; rector of All Hallows, Lombard Street, London, 1662. His works include a translation of Sallust's 'Bellum Jugurthinum.' [iii. 166]

BARCLAY, ANDREW WHYTE (1817-1884), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1839, and Cambridge, 1862; physician, St. George's Hospital, 1862-82; wrote medical works. [iii. 161]

BARCLAY, DAVID (1610-1686), Scottish soldier and politician; served under Gustavus Adolphus; commanded with Middleton before Inverness, 1646; member of Scottish and (1654-8) Cromwell's parliaments; arrested, 1665; released; quaker, 1666. [iii. 167]

BARCLAY, SIR GEORGE (d. 1696), principal agent in assassination plot against William III, 1696; of Scottish descent; commanded under M'Donald at Killiecrankie; lieutenant in James's horse-guards; commissioned, 1696, to stir up a rising in James's favour in England, but detected. [iii. 161]

BARCLAY, HUGH (1799-1884), Scottish lawyer; member of Glasgow faculty of law, 1821; sheriff substitute of western Perthshire, 1829, and of Perthshire, 1833; published legal works, including 'Digest of Law of Scotland' (1852-3). [iii. 162]

BARCLAY, JOHN (1582-1621), author of the 'Argenis,' born at Pont-à-Mousson; perhaps educated by jesuits; lived in London, 1606-16, and in Rome, 1616-21; published 'Satyricon,' 1603-7, 'Sylvæ' (Latin poems), 1606, 'Icon Animorum,' 1614, and 'Argenis,' a Latin satire on political faction and conspiracy, 1621. [iii. 162]

BARCLAY, JOHN (1734-1798), minister of church of Scotland; M.A. St. Andrews; assistant minister at Errol, whence he was dismissed for inculcating obnoxious doctrines; assistant minister at Pettercairn, Kincardineshire, 1763; published religious treatises, including 'Without Faith, without God' (1769), and was inhibited from preaching at Pettercairn, 1772; appealed unsuccessfully to synod; formed with his disciples (who designated themselves Bereans) congregations at Sandyburn and Edinburgh, teaching in the main the doctrines of Calvin; subsequently founded a church of Bereans in London. [iii. 164]

BARCLAY, JOHN (1741-1823), general; lieutenant in marines, 1766; served throughout seven years' war and American war; captain, 1762; brevet-major, 1777; brevet-lieutenant-colonel, 1783; employed on staff in England; general, 1813; retired, 1814. [iii. 166]

BARCLAY, JOHN (1758-1826), anatomist; nephew of John Barclay (1734-1798) [q. v.]; educated at St. Andrews; licensed minister; M.D. Edinburgh, 1796; lectured on anatomy in Edinburgh, 1797-1825; F.R.S. Edinburgh, 1806; published works on anatomy. [iii. 166]

BARCLAY, JOSEPH (1831-1881), bishop of Jerusalem, 1881; M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1857; missionary at Constantinople for Society for Promoting Christianity among Jews, 1858; incumbent of Christ Church, Jerusalem, 1861-70; returned to England and received living of Stapleford; D.D. Dublin, 1880; published translations from Talmud. [iii. 167]

BARCLAY, ROBERT (1618-1690), quaker apologist; son of David Barclay [q. v.]; educated at Scottish college, Paris; joined quakers, 1667; published 'Catechism and Confession of Faith,' 1673, and 'The Apology,' 1676, upholding quaker doctrines; travelled in Holland and Germany, and made acquaintance of Elizabeth, princess Palatine; several times imprisoned, but by 1679 was enjoying favour at court; received, with Penn and other quakers, proprietorship of East New Jersey, 1683, of which he was appointed nominal governor; died at Ury, where he had resided for many years. 'The Apology' is the standard exposition of the tenets of his sect, of which the essential principle is that all true knowledge comes from divine revelation to the heart of the individual. [iii. 167]

BARCLAY, ROBERT (1774-1811), lieutenant-colonel; served with distinction in East Indies, 1789-95; with Moore in Sweden and Portugal as lieutenant-colonel, 1806; died from effects of wound received at Busaco. [iii. 170]

BARCLAY, CAPTAIN ROBERT (1779-1854). [See ALLARDICE, ROBERT BARCLAY.]

BARCLAY, ROBERT (1833-1876), ecclesiastical historiographer; educated at Friends' schools; opened stationery manufacturing business, London, 1855; frequently preached at quaker meetings and missions, though not a minister; published 'Inner Life of Religious Societies of Commonwealth,' 1876. [iii. 170]

BARCLAY, THOMAS (d. 1620), scholar; studied at Bordeaux; professor of ancient and modern law, Toulouse, at Poitiers, and finally again at Toulouse. [iii. 171]

BARCLAY, THOMAS (1792-1873), principal of Glasgow University; M.A. King's College, Aberdeen, 1812; reporter for 'Times,' London, 1818-23; minister of Dunrobin, Shetland, 1822, and of Lerwick, 1827; clerk of synod of Shetland, 1831; D.D. Aberdeen, 1849; principal of Glasgow University, 1858-73. [iii. 172]

BARCLAY, WILLIAM (1546 or 1547-1608), Scottish jurist; educated at Aberdeen; emigrated to France, 1571; studied at Paris and Bourges, where he taught law; professor of civil law at Pont-à-Mousson University, councillor of state, and master of requests; LL.D.; resigned chair and came to England, 1603; returned to France, 1604, and became professor of civil law and dean of faculty of law at Angers, 1605; died at Angers; his most important work, 'De Regno et Regali Potestate,' 1600. [iii. 173]

BARCLAY, WILLIAM (1570 ?-1630 ?), Scottish miscellaneous writer M.A. and M.D. Louvain; professor of humanity, Paris University; practised medicine in Scotland, and subsequently settled at Nantes; his works include 'Nepenthes, or the Vertues of Tobacco,' 1614. [iii. 174]

BARCLAY, WILLIAM (1797-1859), miniature painter; exhibited at Royal Academy and at the Salon. [iii. 174]

BARCROFT, GEORGE (d. 1610), musician; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1574; minor canon and organist at Ely Cathedral, 1579-1610. [iii. 175]

BARD, HENRY, VISCOUNT BELLAMONT (1604 ?-1660), soldier and diplomatist; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; D.C.L. Oxford, 1643; fought for king during civil war; captured by parliamentarians and exiled, 1647; killed in sandstorm while on embassy from Charles II to Persia. [iii. 175]

BARDELBY, ROBERT DE (d. 1323), judge; one of keepers of great seal, 1302-21; canon of Chichester; justice, 1323. [iii. 175]

BARDNEY, RICHARD OF (d. 1503), Benedictine of Bardney, Lincolnshire; B.D. Oxford; wrote a metrical life of Grosstete, 1503. [iii. 176]

BARDOLF, HUGH (d. 1203), justiciar of curia regis; itinerant justice, 1184-9; associated in the charge of the kingdom in Henry's absence, 1188; justiciar with Puiset and Longchamps, 1189. [iii. 176]

BARDOLF or BARDOLPH, THOMAS, fifth BARON BARDOLF (1368-1408), warrior; succeeded to barony, 1386; supported the Percies during Richard II's reign; accompanied Henry IV on invasion of Scotland, 1400; implicated in Hotspur's rebellion, 1403; joined Northumberland, 1405, and suffered confiscation of lands; assisted Owen Glendower [q. v.] in Wales, 1405-6; invaded north of England with Northumberland, and was defeated by Sir Thomas Rokeby [q. v.] at Bramham Moor, where he died of wounds. Lord Bardolf figures in Shakespeare's 'Henry IV.' [Suppl. i. 123]

BARDOLF, WILLIAM (d. 1276), baronial leader; made constable of Nottingham by provisions of Oxford; surrendered Nottingham to the king, 1264; joined Henry III and was captured at Lewes. [iii. 176]

BARDSLEY, SIR JAMES LOMAX (1801-1876), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1823; president, Royal Medical Society; physician to Manchester Infirmary, 1823-43; knighted, 1853; published medical writings. [iii. 176]

BARDSLEY, SAMUEL ARGENT (1764-1851), physician; educated at London, Edinburgh, and Leyden; M.D., 1789; physician to Manchester Infirmary, 1790-1825; published medical and other writings. [iii. 177]

BARDWELL, THOMAS (d. 1780 ?), portrait painter; well-known copyist; published 'Practice of Painting and Perspective made easy,' 1756. [iii. 177]

BAREBONES, PRAISEGOD (1596 ?-1679). [See BARBON.]

BARENGER, JAMES (1780-1831), animal painter; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1807-1831. [iii. 177]

BARET or BARRET, JOHN (d. 1580 ?), lexicographer; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1558; fellow; M.D., 1577; published 'An Alveaire, or Triple Dictionarie in English, Latin, and French,' 1674. [iii. 177]

BARETTI, GIUSEPPE MARCO ANTONIO (1719-1789), miscellaneous writer; born at Turin; keeper of stores of new fortifications, Cuneo, 1743-5; at Turin 1747-51; led by his impetuous disposition into literary controversy with Bartoli, professor of literature at Turin, who appealed to the authorities; came to England, obtained an engagement in Italian Opera House and opened school for teaching Italian, 1751; made acquaintance of Dr. Johnson and Thrale; published 'Italian and English Dictionary,' 1760; returned to Italy after visiting Portugal and Spain, 1760, and at Johnson's suggestion published account of his travels, 1762; undertook publication of 'La Frusta Letteraria' ('The Literary Scourge'), which Italian writers resented, 1765; returned to London, 1766; F.S.A.; travelled with Thrale in France and Flanders; tried at Old Bailey for killing ruffian who attacked him in Haymarket, and acquitted, 1769; accompanied the Thrales and Johnson to France, 1775; published in French a 'Discourse on Shakespeare,' 1777. His portrait was painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds. [iii. 178]

BARFF, SAMUEL (1793?-1880), phil-hellene; born presumably in England; banker and merchant at Zante, 1816, where he took part with Byron in Greek struggle for independence. [iii. 182]

BARFORD, WILLIAM, D.D. (d. 1792), scholar and divine; educated at Eton; D.D. King's College, Cambridge, 1771; public orator, 1761-8; chaplain to House of Commons, 1769; prebendary of Canterbury, 1770; vicar of All Hallows, Lombard Street, 1773-92; published poems and dissertations in Latin and Greek. [iii. 182]

BARGENY, BARONS. [See HAMILTON, JOHN, first BARON, d. 1658; HAMILTON, JOHN, second BARON, d. 1693.]

BARGRAVE, ISAAC (1586-1643), dean of Canterbury; M.A. Clare Hall, Cambridge; M.A. Oxford, and rector of Eythorne, 1611; 'taxor' at Cambridge, 1612; chaplain to Wotton at Venice; D.D. Cambridge, and prebendary of Canterbury, 1622; received living of St. Margaret's, Westminster; chaplain to Prince Charles; dean of Canterbury, 1625; became very unpopular among clergy, and at beginning of civil war was arrested and confined three weeks in the Fleet, 1642; published sermons. [iii. 183]

BARGRAVE, JOHN (1610-1680), divine; nephew of Isaac Bargrave [q. v.]; fellow of St. Peter's College, Cambridge; ejected, 1643; travelled on continent till Restoration; canon of Canterbury, 1662; went on mission to ransom English captives at Algiers. [iii. 184]

BARHAM, CHARLES FOSTER (1804-1884), physician; M.B. Cambridge, 1827; M.D., 1860; successively senior physician and consulting physician at Royal Cornwall Infirmary; wrote scientific papers. [iii. 184]

BARHAM, CHARLES MIDDLETON, first BARON (1726-1813). [See MIDDLETON, CHARLES.]

BARHAM, FRANCIS FOSTER (1808-1871), the 'Alist'; son of T. F. Barham (1766-1844) [q. v.]; enrolled attorney, 1831; joint editor and proprietor of 'New Monthly Magazine,' 1839-40; originated 'Alist,' a system which 'included and reconciled all divine truths' wheresoever found; formed society of Alists. His publications include a revised version of the bible (1848) and an edition of Jeremy Collier's 'Ecclesiastical History of Great Britain' (1840). [iii. 185]

BARHAM, HENRY (1670?-1726), naturalist; apprenticed as surgeon; master-surgeon in navy; visited Spain, Madras, and Jamaica, where he became surgeon-major of the military forces; published treatise on silk manufacture, 1719; F.R.S., 1717; returned to Jamaica, 1720, and died there. His works include a 'History of Jamaica,' and a treatise entitled 'Hortus Americanus,' containing much information on natural history. [iii. 186]

BARHAM, NICHOLAS (d. 1577), lawyer; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1542; 'ancient,' 1582; Lent reader, 1558; serjeant-at-law, 1567; M.P. for Maidstone, 1563; conducted prosecution of Duke of Norfolk for conspiring with Mary Queen of Scots against Elizabeth, 1572, and of the duke's secretary, Higford; died of gaol fever contracted at trial of Jencks, a malcontent Roman catholic. [iii. 187]

BARHAM, RICHARD HARRIS (1788-1848), author of 'Ingoldby Legends'; educated at St. Paul's School and Brasenose College, Oxford; incumbent of Snargate, 1817; minor canon of St. Paul's, 1821; appointed priest-in-ordinary of chapels royal, 1824; divinity lecturer at St. Paul's and vicar of St. Faith's, 1842. The 'Ingoldby Legends' were printed in 'Bentley's Miscellany' and the 'New Monthly Magazine' and were published collectively, 1840; second and third series appeared, 1847. [iii. 188]

BARHAM, THOMAS FOSTER (1766-1844), musician; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1792; engaged in mercantile pursuits; published original musical compositions and miscellaneous works. [iii. 189]

BARHAM, THOMAS FOSTER (1794-1869), physician and classical scholar; son of Thomas Foster Barham [q. v.]; M.B. Queens' College, Cambridge, 1820; practised at Penzance; physician to Exeter dispensary and institution for blind, 1830; actively supported unitarian congregations at Exeter; published theological and classical works. [iii. 190]

BARHAM, WILLIAM FOSTER (1802-1847?), poet; son of Thomas Foster Barham (1766-1844) [q. v.]; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1824; Porson prizeman, 1821 and 1822; M.A., 1827; author of an unpublished poem on 'Moskov.' [iii. 190]

BARING, ALEXANDER, first BARON ASHBURTON (1774-1848), financier and statesman; son of Sir Francis Baring [q. v.], whose financial house he entered; spent some time in United States; M.P. for Taunton, 1806-26, Callington, 1826-31, Thetford, 1831-2, and North Essex, 1833-5; opposed measures against American commerce; president of board of trade and master of mint, 1834; raised to peerage, 1835; commissioner at Washington for settlement of boundary dispute, 1842; published political and economic pamphlets. [iii. 190]

BARING, CHARLES THOMAS (1807-1879), bishop of Darham; grandson of Sir Francis Baring [q. v.]; graduated at Christ Church, Oxford, first-class classics and mathematics, 1829; incumbent of All Saints, Marylebone, 1847; chaplain in ordinary to the queen and select preacher at Oxford, 1850; bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, 1856, of Darham, 1861. [iii. 191]

BARING, SIR FRANCIS (1740-1810), London merchant; founder of financial house of Baring Brothers & Co.; a director of East India Company, 1779, chairman, 1792-3; baronet, 1793; M.P., 1784-90 and 1794-1806; published financial treatises. [iii. 192]

BARING, SIR FRANCIS THORNHILL, BARON NORTHBROOK (1796-1866), statesman; grandson of Sir Francis Baring [q. v.]; M.P. for Portsmouth, 1826-65; lord of treasury, 1830-4, and joint secretary, 1834 and 1835-9; chancellor of exchequer, 1839-41; first lord of admiralty, 1849-52; peer, 1866. [iii. 193]

BARING, HARRIET, LADY ASHBURTON (d. 1867), nee Montagu; daughter of sixth Earl of Sandwich; married William Bingham Baring, second baron Ashburton [q. v.], 1823; of literary tastes; friend of Carlyle. [iii. 193]

BARING, THOMAS (1799-1873), financier; grandson of Sir Francis Baring [q. v.]; M.P. for Great Yarmouth, 1835-7, and Huntingdon, 1844-73; chancellor of exchequer, 1852 and 1858. [iii. 193]

BARING, WILLIAM BINGHAM, second BARON ASHBURTON (1799-1864), statesman; son of Alexander Baring, first baron [q. v.]; M.P. from 1826 to 1848; secretary to board of control, 1841-5; paymaster, 1845-8; president of Geographical Society, 1860-4. [iii. 193]

BARKER, ANDREW (d. 1577), merchant of Bristol; engaged in trade with Spanish settlements; fitted out expedition, 1576, and was killed by Spaniards. [iii. 194]

BARKER, BENJAMIN (1776-1838), landscape painter; brother of Thomas Barker (1769-1847) [q. v.]; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1800-21. [iii. 194]

BARKER, SIR CHRISTOPHER (d. 1549), Garter king-of-arms; Lysley pursuivant and, later, Suffolk herald in Duke of Suffolk's service; successively Calais pursuivant extraordinary, Rouge-dragon pursuivant, Richmond herald (1522), Norroy king-of-arms and Garter king-of-arms (1536); knighted, 1548. [iii. 194]

BARKER or BARKAR, CHRISTOPHER (1529?-1599), queen's printer; originally member of 'Drapers' Company; Geneva bible first printed in England by him, 1576; printed two different versions of bible, 1576; purchased patent including right to print Old and New Testament in English, thereby becoming queen's printer, 1577; warden of Stationers' Company, 1582; obtained exclusive patent for all state printing and for religious books,

1689. He produced thirty-eight editions of the bible or parts thereof between 1676 and 1688, and his deputies produced thirty-four between 1688 and 1699. [iii. 195]

BARKER, COLLET (1784-1831), explorer; captain in 39th regiment in Peninsula and in Ireland; sailed for Australia, 1828; successfully commandant of settlements at Raffles Bay and King George's Sound; lost his life while exploring neighbourhood of St. Vincent's Gulf. [iii. 197]

BARKER, EDMOND (1721-1780 ?), physician; M.D. Leyden, 1747; member of Ivy Lane Club, founded by Dr. Johnson; librarian to College of Physicians, 1760. [iii. 197]

BARKER, EDMUND HENRY (1788-1839), classical scholar; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge; imprisoned in Fleet owing to financial losses arising from an unsuccessful lawsuit to prove his father's legitimacy; edited many editions of Greek and Latin authors and compiled with Professor Dunbar of Edinburgh a Greek and English lexicon. [iii. 198]

BARKER, FRANCIS (d. 1859 ?), Irish physician; established first fever hospital in Ireland, at Waterford; professor of chemistry, Dublin; M.D., 1810; secretary to Irish board of health, 1820-52. [iii. 199]

BARKER, FREDERICK (1808-1882), Australian bishop; M.A. Jesus College, Cambridge, 1839; bishop of Sydney and metropolitan of Australia, 1864; D.D., 1864; formed general synod with authority over church in Australia and Tasmania; died at San Remo. [iii. 199]

BARKER, GEORGE (1776-1845), solicitor of Birmingham, where he founded Philosophical Society, and greatly improved general hospital; member of Royal Society, 1839. [iii. 200]

BARKER, SIR GEORGE ROBERT (1817-1861), colonial royal artillery; served as captain in Crimean war, and as colonel during Indian mutiny; K.C.B. [iii. 200]

BARKER, HENRY ASTON (1774-1856), panorama painter; son of Robert Barker (1739-1806) [q. v.]; pupil at Royal Academy, 1788; between 1802 and 1822 prepared and exhibited panoramas including Constantinople, Malta, Venice, and battle of Waterloo. [iii. 201]

BARKER, HUGH (d. 1632), lawyer; master of school attended by Selden at Chichester; D.L. Oxford, 1605; dean of court of arches. [iii. 201]

BARKER, JAMES (1772-1838), navy captain; lieutenant, 1795; at battles of L'Orient, St. Vincent, and the Nile; commander, 1798; post captain, 1812. [iii. 201]

BARKER, JOHN (fl. 1464), scholar; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; wrote 'Scutum Inexpugnabile,' a work on logic. [iii. 202]

BARKER, JOHN (d. 1653), navy captain; London ship-owner; obtained, with others, letters of marque for vessel, which he commanded in Mediterranean; captain of one of his own ships in Dutch war, 1652; confirmed as captain in navy, 1653; killed in fight off Portland. [iii. 202]

BARKER, JOHN (1708-1748), medical writer; M.D. Wadham College, Oxford, 1743; M.P.C., 1748; physician to his majesty's forces in Low Countries, 1747; published works on epidemic fever of 1740-2. [iii. 203]

BARKER, JOHN (1682-1762), presbyterian divine; minister to congregation at Mare Street, Hackney, 1714-1738; pastor of Salters' Hall congregation, 1741-62; published sermons. [iii. 202]

BARKER, JOHN (1771-1849), British consul-general in Egypt, 1829-33; born in Smyrna; entered London banking house; private secretary to John Spencer Smith, British ambassador to the Porte, 1797-9; British consul at Alexandria, 1825; retired to Suediah, near Antioch, 1833. [iii. 204]

BARKER, JOSEPH (1806-1875), preacher and controversialist; wool-spinner at Bramley, near Leeds, and Wesleyan preacher and home missionary; joined Methodist New Connexion; travelling preacher successively on Hanley, Halifax, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Sunderland circuits, 1829-33; preacher on Chester circuit, 1835-7; expelled from Methodist New Connexion for denying the 'divine appointment of baptism,' 1841; pastor at Newcastle-on-Tyne; imprisoned for connection with Chartist agitation, 1846; went to Central Ohio, 1851; made lecturing tours, 1857-8; returned to England, 1860; joined primitive methodists at Bilston and Tunstall, and was local preacher, 1863-8; died at Omaha. Published controversial and religious works; conducted printing business, issued 'Barker's Library,' a cheap series of theological, philosophical, and ethical works, and founded several periodicals, including 'The People,' to propagate his extreme opinions. [iii. 204]

BARKER, MATTHEW (1619-1698), nonconformist divine; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge; conducted school at Banbury till 1641; incumbent of St. Leonard's, Eastcheap, 1650; ejected, 1662; preached at meeting-house in Miles Lane, 1666; published religious works. [iii. 207]

BARKER, MATTHEW HENRY (1790-1846), writer of sea tales; served on East Indian and in navy; naval editor of 'United Service Gazette.' [iii. 207]

BARKER, ROBERT (d. 1645), king's printer; son of Christopher Barker [q. v.]; freeman of Stationers' Company, 1589; liverrman, 1592; received reversion of his father's patent for English bibles, prayer-books, statutes, and proclamations, 1589; specially licensed 'to print all statutes and libels for life,' 1603, and 'all books in Latin, Greek, and Hebrew, Trinitarius's Latin bible, and all charts and maps, 1604; his most important publication was the first edition of the authorised version of the English bible, 1611, and the 'Wicked' bible, 1631. [iii. 207]

BARKER, SIR ROBERT (1729 ?-1789), officer of East India Company in India, 1749; captain of artillery at Chandernagore and Plassey, 1758; major in Draper's expedition from Madras to Philippine islands, 1762; K.B., 1763; provincial commander-in-chief in Bengal, 1770; concluded treaty with the Rohillas, 1772; quarrelled with Warren Hastings and returned to England; M.P. for Wallingford; published scientific treatises. [iii. 208]

BARKER, ROBERT (1739-1806), reputed inventor of panoramas; portrait painter and teacher of drawing in Edinburgh; exhibited panorama at Edinburgh, Holyrood, and Glasgow, and in London, 1789; subsequently exhibited in London other panoramas, including a view of feet at Spithead, 1794. [iii. 208]

BARKER, SAMUEL (1686-1769), hebraist; wrote a Hebrew grammar, published 1761. [iii. 210]

BARKER, THOMAS (fl. 1651), author of 'The Art of Angling,' 1651; probably gained a living by accompanying gentlemen on fishing expeditions. [iii. 210]

BARKER, THOMAS (1722-1809), scientist and miscellaneous writer; published 'An Account of Discoveries concerning Comets,' 1757, and other works. [iii. 211]

BARKER, THOMAS (1769-1847), painter; attracted attention of a wealthy coachmaker of Bath, who provided him with means of studying in Rome; painted chiefly landscapes and rustic scenes; exhibited occasionally at Royal Academy, 1791-1829, and at British Institution, 1807-47; 'The Woodman' and 'Old Tom' are two of his best-known pictures. [iii. 211]

BARKER, THOMAS JONES (1815-1889), painter; son of Thomas Barker (1769-1847) [q. v.]; studied in Paris, 1834-45, and exhibited frequently at the Salon; returned to England, 1845, and became known as painter of portraits and military subjects; made many sketches at seat of hostilities during Franco-German war, 1870; his works include 'Meeting of Wellington and Blucher' and 'Nelson on board the San Josef.' [iii. 212]

BARKER, THOMAS RICHARD (1799-1870), independent minister; educated at Christ's Hospital; pastor at Alesford, Hampshire, 1822, Harpenden, 1824, and Uxbridge, 1833-8; tutor in classics and Hebrew, Spring Hill College, Birmingham, 1838-70. [iii. 213]

BARKER, WILLIAM (fl. 1672), translator; M.P. for Great Yarmouth; secretary to Duke of Norfolk, for complicity in whose plots he was confined in Tower, 1571; probably author of translations from Italian and Greek, including Xenophon's 'Cyropaedia.' [iii. 213]

BARKER, WILLIAM BUKOHRD (1810 ?-1856), orientalist, son of John Barker (1771-1849) [q. v.]; born at Aleppo; in England, 1819; journeyed to sources of the Orontes, Syria; for many years official resident at Pارس, and subsequently professor of Arabic, Turkish, Russian, and Hindustani, Eton College; during the Crimean war, chief superintendent of land transport at Sinope, where he died; published oriental works. [iii. 213]

BARKER, WILLIAM HIGGS (1744-1815), hebraist; B.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1765; Perry exhibitioner, 1764-7; master of Carmarthen grammar school, 1767; published Hebrew grammar (1774) and lexicon (1812). [iii. 214]

BARKHAM or BAROHAM, JOHN (1672?-1642), antiquary and historian; M.A. Corpus Christi College, 1594; B.D., 1603; chaplain to Bancroft and Abbot, archbishops of Canterbury; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1610, assisted Speed in 'History of Britain,' and left in manuscript a treatise on coins. [iii. 214]

BARKING, RICHARD DE (d. 1246), judge; prior and, 1222, abbot of Westminster; successively privy councillor, baron of exchequer, and treasurer; lord justice during king's absence in Welsh wars, 1245. [iii. 215]

BARKLY, ARTHUR CECIL STUART (1843-1890), colonial governor; son of Sir Henry Barkly [q. v.]; lieutenant-governor of Falkland Islands, 1886-7, and of Heligoland, 1888-90. [Suppl. i. 126]

BARKLY, SIR HENRY (1815-1898), colonial governor; M.P. for Leominster, 1845-8; governor and commander-in-chief of British Guiana, 1848-53; K.C.B., 1853; governor of Jamaica, 1853-6, Victoria, 1856-63, Mauritius, 1863-70, and Cape Colony, 1870-7; high commissioner for settling affairs of territories adjacent to eastern frontier of Cape Colony, 1870; proclaimed Griqualand West a British dependency, 1871; G.O.M.G., 1874; opposed Lord Carnarvon's attempt to force federation on Cape Colony, though considering it ultimately desirable; commissioner on defence of British possessions and commerce abroad, 1879; F.R.S., 1864; F.R.G.S., 1870. [Suppl. i. 124]

BARKSDALE, CLEMENT (1600-1687), author; educated at Merton College and Gloucester Hall (afterwards Worcester College), Oxford; chaplain of Lincoln College; vicar of Hereford and master of the free school, 1637; chaplain to Omands family during civil war; published works chiefly of religious character. [iii. 215]

BARKSTEAD, JOHN (d. 1662), regicide; goldsmith in London; captain of parliamentary infantry under Colonel Venn; governor of Reading, 1645; commanded regiment at siege of Colchester; one of the king's judges, 1648; governor of Yarmouth, 1649, and of the Tower, 1652; M.P. for Colchester, 1654, and Middlesex, 1656; knighted, 1656; escaped to continent, 1660; arrested, 1661; brought to England and executed. [iii. 216]

BARKSTED, WILLIAM (fl. 1611), actor and poet; one of the company known as 'children of the chapel' and later as 'children of the queen's revels'; author of the poems, 'Mirra, the Mother of Venus' (1607), and 'Hiren, or the Faire Greeke,' 1611. [iii. 217]

BARKWORTH or LAMBERT, MARK (d. 1601), Benedictine monk; laboured on English mission; hanged at Tyburn, as catholic priest unlawfully abiding in England. [iii. 218]

BARLING, JOHN (1804-1883), dissenting minister, joined unitarians, and was minister in Halifax, 1854-8; published religious treatises. [iii. 218]

BARLOW, EDWARD, known as AMBROSE (1587-1641), Benedictine monk; worked on English mission in Lancashire; executed at Lancaster as catholic priest unlawfully abiding in England. [iii. 218]

BARLOW, alias BOOTH, EDWARD (1639-1719), priest and mechanic; educated at Lisbon; worked on English mission in Yorkshire and Lancashire; invented repeating clocks, c. 1676, and, later, repeating watches; wrote works on meteorology, published posthumously. [iii. 219]

BARLOW, FRANÇOIS (1626?-1702), animal painter and engraver; executed plates for Æsop's fables, published with Mrs. Behn's translation, 1666. [iii. 219]

BARLOW, SIR GEORGE HILARO (1762-1840), governor-general; appointed to Bengal civil service, 1778; sub-secretary in revenue department, 1788; chief secretary to government, 1796; member of supreme council, 1801; baronet, 1803; governor-general, 1805-7; governor of Madras, 1807; caused great discontent by his economical reforms in the army, an unsuccessful mutiny being the result; recalled, 1812. [iii. 220]

BARLOW, HENRY CLARK (1806-1876), writer on Dante; educated as architect; student at Royal Academy; relinquished the profession in consequence of an accident, 1827; studied medicine at Edinburgh; M.D., 1837; devoted himself to scientific pursuits and artistic criticism in Paris; studied Italian; in Italy, 1841-6; spent many years in research and in collation of manuscripts relating to Dante, in various countries of Europe; published 'Critical, Historical, and Philosophical Contributions to Study of "Divina Commedia,"' 1864; author of many works relating to Dante and Italy. [iii. 221]

BARLOW, PETER (1776-1862), mathematician, physicist, and optician; began life in obscure mercantile position; schoolmaster; assistant mathematical master (1801), and subsequently, till 1847, professor in Royal Military Academy; honorary M.L.C.E., 1820; received Society of Arts' gold medal for scheme for correcting ships' compasses, 1821; F.R.S., 1823; published 'Mathematical and Philosophical Dictionary,' 1814, and 'Essay on Strength of Timber,' 1817. [iii. 222]

BARLOW, PETER WILLIAM (1809-1885), civil engineer; associate M.L.C.E., 1827; resident engineer under Sir William Cubitt [q. v.] of various sections of London and Dover railway, 1836-40, and of the whole line, 1840; engineer-in-chief; F.R.S., 1846; employed in connection with several railways in Ireland from 1850; investigated construction of bridges of great span, 1858; engineer for Lambeth bridge, 1860-2; constructed Tower subway, 1869-1870. [Suppl. i. 126]

BARLOW, SIR ROBERT (1757-1843), admiral; lieutenant, 1778; captain, 1793; attached to fleet under Lord Howe; knighted, 1801; flag-captain to Lord Keith in Downs, 1805-6; commissioner of Chatham dockyard, 1808; K.C.B., 1820; rear-admiral, 1823; admiral, 1840; G.C.B., 1842. [Suppl. i. 127]

BARLOW, RUDESIND (1585-1656), Benedictine monk; superior of St. Gregory's at Douay. [iii. 224]

BARLOW, THOMAS (1607-1691), bishop of Lincoln; M.A. Queen's College, Oxford, 1633; metaphysical reader to university, 1635; strongly supported views then considered orthodox at Oxford, but on its surrender to Fairfax, and again at the Restoration, accommodated himself to circumstances and escaped ejection; provost of Queen's, 1657; librarian of Bodleian, 1642-60; D.D., Lady Margaret professor of divinity, and prebendary of Worcester, 1660; bishop of Lincoln, 1675; displayed strong anti-papish principles in publication of controversial and other tracts; he was one of first to declare his loyalty to James II, and turned whig at William III's accession. In addition to published works, which were chiefly religious, he left many learned treatises in manuscript. [iii. 224]

BARLOW, THOMAS OLDHAM (1824-1889), mezzotint engraver; article as engraver at Manchester, where he studied designing; established himself independently in London, 1847; executed plates after John Phillips, Millais, Turner, Landseer, and others; R.A., 1881; director of etching class at South Kensington, 1886. [Suppl. i. 127]

BARLOW, THOMAS WORTHINGTON (1823?-1866), antiquary and naturalist; F.L.S., 1848; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1848; practised at Manchester; queen's advocate, Sierra Leone, 1856; published work so natural history and the antiquities of Cheshire. [iii. 229]

BARLOW, WILLIAM (d. 1568), bishop of Chichester; D.D. Oxford; canon of St. Osyth's, Essex; prior of Blackmore, Tiptree, 1509, Lees, 1515, Bromehill, c. 1524; wrote, on suppression of Bromehill by Wolsey, a series of heretical pamphlets which were prohibited, 1520, the author subsequently recanting; attached to embassy to France and Rome, 1530; successively prior of Haverfordwest and Bisham; bishop of St. Asaph and, later, of St. David's, 1536; founded Christ College and grammar school, Brecon, 1542; bishop of Bath and Wells, 1548; resigned see on Mary's accession; imprisoned in Tower, but having recanted succeeded in reaching Germany; bishop of Chichester, 1559, and prebendary of Westminster, 1560. [iii. 229]

BARLOW, WILLIAM (d. 1613), bishop of Lincoln; M.A., St. John's College, Cambridge, 1587; fellow of Trinity Hall, 1590; D.D., 1599; chaplain to Whitgift;

prebendary of St. Paul's, 1597, Westminster, 1601-13, and Canterbury, 1606-8; dean of Chester, 1602-5; chaplain to Elizabeth; took part in and drew up report of Hampton Court conference, 1604; bishop of Rochester, 1605: one of the preachers of the controversial sermons commanded by James at Hampton Court, 1606; bishop of Lincoln, 1608; published biography of Richard Cosin (1598) and other works. [iii. 231]

BARLOW or BARLOWE, WILLIAM (d. 1625), divine; B.A. Balliol College, Oxford, 1564; prebendary of Winchester, 1581; prebendary and, later, treasurer of Lichfield, 1589; chaplain to Prince Henry, son of James I.; published works relating to ships' compasses and the loadstone. [iii. 232]

BARNBY, JOHN GOODWYN (1820-1881), Christian socialist; joined group of revolutionists in London, 1837; visited Paris, 1840; founded Communist Propaganda Society, 1841; unitarian minister successively at Southampton, Topham, Lymstone, Lancaster, and Wakefield; published religious works, and contributed to communist journals. [iii. 234]

BARNARD, SIR ANDREW FRANCIS (1773-1865), general; ensign, 1794; captain, 1794; served at St. Domingo, 1795, and subsequently in West Indies, under Sir Ralph Abercromby; accompanied expedition to Helder, 1799; lieutenant-colonel, and inspecting field officer of militia in Canada, 1808-9; served in Peninsula, 1810-14; colonel and K.O.B., 1813; present at Quatre Bras and wounded at Waterloo; lieutenant-governor of Chelsea Hospital, 1849; general, 1861. [iii. 235]

BARNARD, ANNE, LADY (1750-1825), authoress of 'Auld Robin Gray'; daughter of James Lindsay, fifth earl of Balcarres; wrote, 1771, ballad, 'Auld Robin Gray' (published anonymously); married Andrew Barnard (1793), with whom, when appointed colonial secretary to Macartney, she went to the Cape of Good Hope; returned to England, 1807, and lived in Berkeley Square, where her house became a literary centre. [iii. 236]

BARNARD, CHARLOTTE ALINGTON (1830-1869), ballad-writer; between 1858 and 1869, under pseudonym of CLARIBEL, wrote about one hundred ballads. [iii. 237]

BARNARD, EDWARD (1717-1781), provost of Eton; educated at Eton; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1742; D.D., 1756; fellow, 1744-56; headmaster of Eton, 1764; provost, 1764; canon of Windsor, 1761. [iii. 237]

BARNARD, EDWARD WILLIAM (1791-1828), divine and poet; educated at Harrow; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1817; held living of Brantlingthorpe, Yorkshire; published imitations of Meleager (1817) and translations from Marc-Antonio Flaminio (posthumously), 1829. [iii. 237]

BARNARD, FREDERICK (1846-1898), humorous artist; executed many cuts for household edition of Dickens's works, 1871-9, and issued series of 'Character Sketches from Dickens,' 1879-84; exhibited at Royal Academy; contributed to many periodicals, including 'Punch' and Mr. Harry Furniss's 'Lika Joke,' 1894-5. [Suppl. i. 128]

BARNARD, SIR HENRY WILLIAM (1799-1857), lieutenant-general; nephew of Sir A. F. Barnard (q. v.); educated at Sandhurst; obtained commission in grenadier guards, 1814; served on his uncle's staff at Paris, and on Keane's staff in Jamaica; major-general in Crimea, 1854-5; Simpson's chief of staff, 1855; on staff in Bengal during Indian mutiny, 1857; died of pestilence at Delhi. [iii. 238]

BARNARD, JOHN (fl. 1841), musician; minor canon of St. Paul's; published collections of church music, 1641. [iii. 238]

BARNARD or BERNARD, JOHN (d. 1683), biographer; B.A. and fellow, Lincoln College, Oxford, 1648; M.A., 1651; prebendary of Lincoln, 1673; D.D., 1669; published life of Dr. Heylyn, 1683. [iii. 239]

BARNARD, JOHN (fl. 1685-1693), supporter of James II.; B.A. and fellow, Brasenose College, Oxford, 1683; took orders in church of England, but afterwards declared himself papist, and supported James II.; lecturer in moral philosophy, Queen's College, 1687-8; corrected and enlarged Bohun's 'Geographical Dictionary.' [iii. 239]

BARNARD, SIR JOHN (1685-1744), merchant and politician; alderman of London, 1729-56; sheriff, 1725; lord mayor, 1737; knighted, 1732; M.P. for city of London, 1722-61; recognised as a high authority on financial questions; a statue to him was erected on the Royal Exchange by his fellow citizens, 1747; his publications include 'A Present for an Apprentice,' 1740. [iii. 240]

BARNARD, THOMAS (1728-1806), bishop; educated at Westminster; M.A. Cambridge, 1749; archdeacon of Derry and D.D. Dublin, 1761; dean of Derry, 1769; bishop of Killaloe and Kilkennora, 1780, and of Limerick, Ardfer, and Aghadoe, 1794; F.R.S., 1783; member of the Literary Club, to which Johnson and his friends belonged. [iii. 241]

BARNARD, WILLIAM (1697-1768), bishop of Derry; D.D. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1740; vicar of St. Bride's, Fleet Street, 1799; prebendary of Westminster, 1732; dean of Rochester, 1743; bishop of Raphoe, 1744, and of Derry, 1747. [iii. 241]

BARNARD, WILLIAM (1774-1849), mezzotint engraver; for some years keeper of British Institution. [iii. 242]

BARNARDISTON, SIR NATHANIEL (1588-1663), puritan; knighted, 1618; M.P. for Sudbury, Suffolk, 1625-6; refused to act as commissioner for collection of loan enforced without parliamentary consent, 1625, and was imprisoned, 1627-8; M.P. for Suffolk, 1628, and in 1640 in both Long and Short parliaments; took covenant and became parliamentary assessor for Suffolk, 1643; apparently took no active part in Great Rebellion. [iii. 242]

BARNARDISTON, SIR SAMUEL (1620-1707), whig politician; son of preceding; knighted, 1660; baronet, 1663; deputy-governor of East India Company, 1668; fined and imprisoned for protesting against ruling of House of Lords in trading dispute, 1668; stood as whig M.P. for Suffolk, 1672, and, though gaining more votes, his opponent was returned with him by Sir William Soame, the sheriff; declared duly elected by the Commons; brought an action for malice against Soame in the king's bench, and recovered damages; verdict reversed by the exchequer chamber on appeal, and reversal confirmed against Barnardiston's suit by the House of Lords; M.P. for Suffolk, 1678-1702; fined and imprisoned for expressing openly dissatisfaction at proceedings following discovery of Rye House plot, 1684-5; judgment against him reversed, 1689. [iii. 244]

BARNARDISTON, SIR THOMAS (d. 1669), parliamentarian; son of Sir Nathaniel Barnardiston (q. v.); knighted, 1641; M.P. for Bury St. Edmunds, 1646; fought on side of parliament; M.P. for Suffolk, 1654, 1656, and 1659; supported Restoration; created baronet, 1663. [iii. 246]

BARNARDISTON, THOMAS (d. 1752), loyal reporter; serjeant-at-law, 1735; published reports of chancery and king's bench cases. [iii. 247]

BARNATO, BARNETT ISAACS (1852-1897), financier; real name ISAACS; went to South Africa, 1873; assumed name of Barnato and traded as diamond dealer at Kimberley; established in London firm of Barnato Brothers, 1880; floated Barnato Diamond Mining Company, Kimberley, 1881; amalgamated with De Beers company, controlled by Mr. Cecil Rhodes, 1888; member of Kimberley divisional council from 1880; member for Kimberley in Cape Assembly, 1888 and 1894; invested in mining and other property in Rand; chief manipulator of 'Kaffir boom' in London, 1895, suffering heavy losses; drowned himself during voyage from Cape Town. [Suppl. i. 129]

BARNBARROCK, LORD (d. 1597). [See VANA, SIR PATRICK.]

BARNBY, SIR JOSEPH (1838-1896), composer and conductor; chorister in York minster; studied at Royal Academy of Music; organist and choirmaster at St. Andrew's, Wells Street, London, 1863-71, and at St. Anne's, Soho, 1871-86; musical adviser to Messrs. Novello, 1861-76; formed, 1867, and conducted 'Mr. Joseph Barnby's Choir,' which gave many successful 'oratorio concerts' till 1872, when it was amalgamated with M. Gounod's choir as Royal Albert Hall Choral Society (now Royal Choral Society); precentor of Eton, 1875-92; second principal of Guildhall School of Music, 1892-6; knighted, 1893; composed chiefly sacred vocal music. [Suppl. i. 130]

BARNES, AMBROSE (1627-1710), nonconformist; merchant-adventurer, 1655; mayor of Newcastle, 1661; did much to alleviate sufferings of nonconformists in Charles II's reign; wrote social and political treatises. [iii. 247]

BARNES, BARNABE (1569?-1609), poet; educated at Brasenose College, Oxford; accompanied Earl of Essex to join French against Parma, 1591; issued (perhaps privately) Parthenophil and Parthenopoe, Sonnettes, Madrigals, Elegies, and Odes, 1593; and 'A Divine Centurie of Spirituall Sonnets', 1596. In his play 'The Devil's Charter,' parallels have been found to passages in 'The Tempest' and 'Cymbeline.' [iii. 247]

BARNES, SIR EDWARD (1776-1838), lieutenant-general; ensign, 1792; colonel, 1810; on staff in Peninsula, 1812-14, and as adjutant-general in campaign of 1816, being wounded at Waterloo; K.C.B.; lieutenant-general, 1825; governor of Ceylon, 1824-31; commander-in-chief in India, and G.C.B., 1831; M.P. for Sudbury, 1837. [iii. 249]

BARNES, JOHN (d. 1661), Benedictine monk; educated at Oxford, and, being converted to catholicism, at Salamanca, entered Benedictine monastery at Valladolid, and was professed, 1604; ordained priest, 1608; assistant of English mission, 1613; banished from England; divinity lecturer at Douay; raised suspicions of his order, and was imprisoned by inquisition at Rome, where he died; published religious works. [iii. 249]

BARNES, JOSHUA (1654-1712), Greek scholar and antiquary; educated at Christ's Hospital and Emmanuel College, Cambridge; fellow, 1678; M.A., 1679; B.D., 1686; professor of Greek, 1695. His works include 'Sacred Poems,' dramatic pieces in English and Latin, a 'Life of Edward III' (1668), an edition of Homer (1710), and various religious treatises. [iii. 250]

BARNES, JULIANA (b. 1388?). [See BERNERS.]

BARNES, RICHARD (1532-1587), bishop of Durham; fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford, 1559; M.A., 1567; D.D., 1579; chancellor, 1561, and, later, canon-residentary and prebendary of York; suffragan-bishop of Nottingham, 1567; bishop of Carlisle, 1570, and of Durham, 1577. [iii. 252]

BARNES, ROBERT (1495-1540), protestant divine and martyr; joined convent of Austin friars, Cambridge, and subsequently became prior of the house; D.D., 1523; brought before vice-chancellor of Clare Hall for preaching sermon of puritanical character, and, having been examined by Wolsey and four bishops, was called upon (1526) to abjure or burn; abjured; committed to the Fleet, and afterwards to the custody of the Austin friars; escaped to Antwerp, 1528; became acquainted with Luther and other reformers; returned to London on Cromwell's invitation, 1531; sent to Germany to procure from Lutheran divines approval of King Henry's divorce and second marriage, 1535, and was also employed in negotiating marriage with Anne of Cleves, 1539; attacked Gardiner with much scurrilous abuse at St. Paul's Cross; subsequently asked and received the bishop's pardon, but, returning to his old doctrines, was imprisoned under bill of attainder and ultimately burned; published religious tracts in German and English. [iii. 253]

BARNES, THOMAS (1747-1810), unitarian divine and educational reformer; minister at Cockey Moor, 1768, and at Cross Street chapel, Manchester, 1780-1810; mainly instrumental in establishing College of Arts and Sciences; hon. D.D. Edinburgh, 1784; principal of Manchester College, c. 1784-98. [iii. 257]

BARNES, THOMAS (1795-1841), editor of the 'Time'; 1817-41; educated at Christ's Hospital and Pembroke College, Cambridge; acquainted with Hunt, Lamb, and Hazlitt. [iii. 257]

BARNES, WILLIAM (1801-1886) the Dorsetshire poet; son of a farmer in Vale of Blackmore; entered solicitor's office at Dorchester, 1818; master of a school at Mere, Wiltshire, 1823; executed woodcuts for several publications; contributed to 'County Chronicle', 1833; 'Poems in Dorset Dialect', published, 1844; removed school to Dorchester, 1835; entered at St. John's College, Cambridge, as ten years' man, 1838; B.D., 1850; pastor of Whitcombe, 1847-52; published 'Philological Grammar', 1854, and 'Homely Rhymes', 1858; rector of Came,

1862-86. His works include 'Se Gefylsta: an Anglo-Saxon Delectus', 1849; 'Tiw: or a View of Roots and Stems of English as a Teutonic Tongue', 1862; and 'Grammar and Glossary of Dorset Dialect', 1863. His poems in Dorset dialect were collected, 1879. [Suppl. i. 151]

BARNESTAPOLIUS, OBERTUS (d. 1599). [See TURNER ROBERT.]

BARNET, JOHN (d. 1373), bishop; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1347, and of Lichfield, 1354; bishop of Worcester, 1362, Bath and Wells, 1363, and Ely, 1366; treasurer of England, 1363-70. [iii. 258]

BARNETT, CURTIS (d. 1746), commodore; flag-lieutenant to Sir Charles Wagner in Baltic, 1726; served as commander on Irish coast, 1730; in Mediterranean, 1731-4, and during Spanish war, 1740-2; commodore of squadron in East Indies in French war, 1744; died at Fort St. David's. [iii. 258]

BARNETT, JOHN (1802-1890), singer and musical composer; of German origin; articulated to Samuel James Arnold [q.v.]; first appeared in public at Lyceum, 1813, and continued to sing till 1817; musical director at Olympic, 1832; composed 'Mountain Sylph,' opera, produced at Lyceum, 1834, and 'Fair Rosamund' (Drury Lane), 1837; opened St. James's Theatre for English opera, but achieved small success; devoted himself to teaching singing; published 'School for the Voice', 1844. [Suppl. i. 133]

BARNETT, MORRIS (1800-1856), actor and dramatist; played with great success Tom Drops in the 'School-fellows' (Douglas Jerrold) at Drury Lane, 1833; wrote several popular dramas including 'Monsieur Jacques' and 'The Serious Family'; on staff of 'Morning Post' and 'Era.' [iii. 260]

BARNEWALL, ANTHONY (1721-1739), officer in the German army; son of John, eleventh lord Trimleston; served in Germany with Hamilton's cuirassiers; killed at Krotzka. [iii. 260]

BARNEWALL, JOHN, third BARON TRIMLESTON (1470-1538), high chancellor of Ireland; second justice of king's bench 1509; high treasurer of Ireland, 1524; high chancellor, 1534-8. [iii. 260]

BARNEWALL, NICHOLAS, first VISCOUNT KINGSLAND (1692-1663), M.P. for co. Dublin in Irish parliaments, 1634 and 1639; fled on outbreak of Irish rebellion, 1643; created Viscount Kingsland, 1645. [iii. 261]

BARNEWALL, NICHOLAS, third VISCOUNT KINGSLAND (1668-1725), captain in James's Irish army, 1688; outlawed; subscribed Irish catholic petition against infraction of treaty of Limerick, 1703. [iii. 261]

BARNEWALL or BARNWALL, SIR PATRICK (d. 1622), statesman; imprisoned in Dublin and afterwards in Tower for supporting petition in favour of those who refused to attend protestant church on Sundays, 1606; opposed creation of new boroughs in Ireland, 1613. [iii. 261]

BARNEWALL, RICHARD VAUGHAN (1780-1842), lawyer; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1806; reported in court of king's bench, 1817-1834. [iii. 262]

BARNEY, JOSEPH (1751-1827), fruit and flower painter; studied under Zucchi and Angelica Kauffmann; drawing master at Royal Military Academy. [iii. 262]

BARNFIELD, RICHARD (1574-1627), poet; B.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1592; published 'Affectionate Shepherd' (1594), 'Cynthia, with certain Sonnets' (1595), and other poems (1598), including two pieces, which appeared in the 'Passionate Pilgrim', 1599, and were long attributed to Shakespeare. [iii. 262]

BARNHAM, BENEDICT (1569-1698), merchant and benefactor of St. Alban's Hall, Oxford, where he was educated; liveryman of Drapers' Company; alderman of London, 1591; member, Society of Antiquaries, 1572. [iii. 263]

BARNHAM, SIR FRANCIS (d. 1646?), parliamentarian; knighted, 1608; M.P. for Grampound, 1603 and 1614, and Maidstone, 1621, 1624, 1629, and 1640; supported parliamentarians in civil war. [iii. 264]

BARNINGHAM, JOHN (d. 1448), theologian; educated at Oxford and Paris; prior of White Carmelites at Ipswich; wrote religious treatises. [iii. 264]

BARNES, LORD (d. 1894). [See SETON, SIR JOHN.]

BARNSTON, JOHN (d. 1645), divine; fellow, Brasenose College, Oxford, where he endowed, 1628, a lectureship in Hebrew; prebendary of Salisbury, 1600; D.D., 1615. [iii. 264]

BARO, PETER (1534-1599), controversialist; born at Etampes; bachelor of civil law, Bourges, 1556; admitted advocate at Paris, 1557; entered ministry at Geneva, 1560; lecturer in divinity and Hebrew, King's College, Cambridge; Lady Margaret professor of divinity, 1574; D.D., 1576; reprimanded by the vice-chancellor for preaching Arminian doctrine and criticising the Lambeth Articles, 1595; published controversial and other religious works. He was almost the first divine in England who combated the endeavours to impart a definitely ultra-Calvinistic character to the church of England. [iii. 265]

BARON or BARRON, BARTHOLOMEW or BONAVENTURA (d. 1696), Irish Franciscan and miscellaneous writer; entered Franciscan order in Italy, c. 1636; lived at college of St. Isidore, Rome; successively provincial commissary of Franciscans and custos of Scotland; spent close of his life at Rome. His publications include several poems, a treatise on Boethius, and an exposition of the works of Duns Scotus. [iii. 267]

BARON, BERNARD (d. 1762), engraver; reproduced works by Vandyck, Kneller, Hogarth, Rubens, Titian, Watteau, Teniers, and other artists. [iii. 267]

BARON or BARRON, GEOFFREY (d. 1651), Irish rebel; elder brother of Bartholomew Baron [q.v.]; delegate of Irish confederates to court of France, 1642; executed on taking of Limerick. [iii. 268]

BARON, JOHN (1786-1851), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1805; practised at Gloucester; physician to General Infirmary; admitted to the Royal Society, 1823; retired to Cheltenham, 1832; founder of Medical Benevolent Fund, and active supporter of Medical Missionary Society of Edinburgh. His publications include a 'Life of Edward Jenner' and three works on tubercle. [iii. 269]

BARON or BARRON, RICHARD (d. 1766), republican; educated at Glasgow, 1737-40; edited Milton's prose works, Algernon Sidney's 'Discourse concerning Government,' and collections of republican tracts and other works. [iii. 270]

BARON, ROBERT (1592?-1639), divine; successively professor of divinity at St. Salvator's College, St. Andrews, and at Marischal College, Aberdeen; minister of Greyfriars, Aberdeen, 1624; D.D., 1627; published controversial and other religious writings. [iii. 270]

BARON, ROBERT (f. 1645), poet and dramatist; educated at Cambridge. His publications include 'Cyprian Academy,' 1647, which, with other of his works, contains whole passages from Milton's minor poems (1645), 'Mirza,' a tragedy, resembling Denham's 'Sophy' (1642); and 'Apologie for Paris,' 1649, many passages of which are possibly imitated from Jonson's 'Catiline.' He was a skillful plagiarist, but was detected after the lapse of a century. [iii. 270]

BARON, STEPHEN (d. 1520?), Franciscan friar of the Strict Observance; confessor to Henry VIII and provincial of his order in England. [iii. 272]

BARONS or BARNES, WILLIAM (d. 1508), bishop of London; LL.D. Oxford; commissary of chapter and of prerogative court, Canterbury; deputed to reply in St. Paul's to objections to banns of Prince Arthur and Katharine of Aragon, 1501; master of rolls, 1502; bishop of London, 1504. [iii. 272]

BARONSDALE, WILLIAM (d. 1608), physician; M.D. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1568; Lincoln lecturer on medicine; F.O.P.; president College of Physicians, 1588-1600. [iii. 272]

BAROWE or BARROW, THOMAS (d. 1497?), divine and judge; prebendary of Westminster and master of rolls, 1483; master in chancery; keeper of great seal, 1484. [iii. 272]

BARRA, LORD (d. 1664). [See HAY, SIR JOHN.]

BARRALET, JOHN JAMES (d. 1812), water-colour painter; member of London Society of Artists; emigrated to Philadelphia, 1796. [iii. 273]

BARRALLIER, FRANÇOIS LOUIS or FRANCIS (1778?-1853), soldier and explorer; ensign in New South Wales corps, 1800; surveyor to expedition to Bass's Straits (of which he prepared charts) and Hunter's River, 1800-3; lieutenant, 1805; served at Martinique, 1809, and Guadeloupe, 1810; surveyed Barbados, 1812-17; brevet lieutenant-colonel, 1840. [iii. 273]

BARRATT, ALFRED (1844-1881), philosophical writer; educated at Rugby; B.A. Balliol College, Oxford, 1866; fellow of Brasenose College, 1869; called to the bar, 1872; secretary of Oxford University commission, 1880; published 'Physical Ethics,' 1869, and left unfinished a work on 'Physical Metempsychic.' [iii. 274]

BARRAUD, HENRY (1811-1874), painter; exhibited chiefly portraits at Royal Academy, 1853-59. [iii. 276]

BARRAUD, WILLIAM (1810-1860), animal painter; exhibited at Royal Academy and other exhibitions, 1828-1860; brother of Henry Barraud [q.v.] [iii. 276]

BARRÉ, ISAAC (1726-1802), colonel and politician; graduated at Trinity College, Dublin, 1745; served under Wolfe against Rochefort, 1757; M.P. for Chipping Wycombe, 1761-74, and Calne, 1774-90; adjutant-general and governor of Stirling, 1763-4; vice-treasurer of Ireland and privy councillor; treasurer of navy, 1782. [iii. 275]

BARRÉ, RICHARD (f. 1170-1202), ecclesiastic and judge; envoy to papal court at time of Becket's murder; keeper of great seal, 1170; archdeacon of Ely, 1184-96; justice of king's court, 1196. [iii. 276]

BARRÉ, WILLIAM VINCENT (1760?-1829), author; born in Germany of Huguenot parents; served in Russian navy; interpreter to Bonaparte, against whom he wrote satiric verses and was compelled to fly to England, 1803; published 'History of French Consulate under Napoleon Buonaparte,' whom he scurrilously attacked. [iii. 276]

BARRÉT, GEORGE, the elder (1728?-1784), painter; apprenticed as staymaker in Dublin, where he studied and subsequently taught drawing; came to England, 1762, and quickly achieved success as landscape painter; master painter to Chelsea Hospital. [iii. 277]

BARRÉT, GEORGE, the younger (d. 1842), painter; son of George Barret (1728?-1784) [q.v.]; exhibited chiefly landscapes at Royal Academy, from 1795, and at Society of Painters in Watercolours, 1806-42. [iii. 278]

BARRÉT, JOHN (d. 1663), Carmelite friar of King's Lynn; D.D. Cambridge, 1633; vicar of Bishop's Thorpe, 1558, and prebendary of Norwich; published religious works. [iii. 278]

BARRÉT, JOHN (d. 1580?). [See BARET.]

BARRÉT, JOHN (1631-1713), nonconformist divine; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge; presbyterian minister at Nottingham, 1666, where, being ejected in 1662, he held conventicles; published religious works. [iii. 278]

BARRÉT, JOSEPH (1665-1699), religious writer; son of John Barret (1631-1713) [q.v.]; in business at Nottingham; his 'Remains' appeared, 1700. [iii. 279]

BARRÉT, PATRICK (d. 1415), bishop of Ferns, Wexford, 1400; chancellor of Ireland, 1410-12; compiled catalogue of bishops of Ferns. [iii. 279]

BARRÉT, RICHARD (d. 1599), catholic divine; educated at Douay and Rome; D.D. Rome, 1582; superintendent, 1582, and president, 1588, of English college at Rheims and, on its removal thence, at Douay. [iii. 279]

BARRÉT, ROBERT (f. 1600), military and poetical writer; saw service among French, Dutch, Italians, and Spaniards; published in London, 1598, 'Theorike and Practike of Modern Warres,' and left in manuscript an epic poem entitled 'The Sacred War.' [iii. 279]

BARRÉT, WILLIAM (d. 1584), British consul at Aleppo, 1584; wrote treatise on 'Money and Measures of Babylon, Balsara, and the Indies.' [iii. 280]

BARRÉT, WILLIAM (f. 1595), divine; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1668; summoned before Archbishop Whitgift for preaching anti-Calvinistic sermon at Cambridge, 1598; fled to continent and embraced catholicism, 1597; subsequently lived as layman in England. [iii. 280]

BARRETT, EATON STANNARD (1786-1820), poetical writer; studied at Middle Temple, London; published 'Woman, and other Poems,' 1810, and several political satires. [iii. 281]

BARRETT, ELIZABETH (1809-1861). [See BROWN-ING.]

BARRETT, GEORGE (1762-1821), actuary to Hope Life Office, 1813. He prepared a series of life tables, portions of which only were published. [iii. 281]

BARRETT, JOHN (d. 1810), navy captain; lieutenant in navy, 1793; made post-captain after capture of St. Lucia, 1798; served against Danes, 1808; wrecked and drowned while convoying Baltic trade. [iii. 282]

BARRETT, JOHN (1753-1821), divine; fellow and M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1778; D.D., 1790; vice-provost, 1807. His publications include an astrological work on the Zodiac; he edited the 'Codex Z Dublinensis Rescriptus,' discovered while examining manuscripts in Trinity College, 1787. [iii. 282]

BARRETT, LUCAS (1837-1862), geologist and naturalist; educated at University College School; studied at Ebersdorf; made voyages to Shetland, Norway, Greenland, and Spain, studying marine fauna; curator of Woodwardian Museum, Cambridge, and fellow Geological Society, 1855; director of geological survey of Jamaica, 1859; lost his life off Port Royal while diving to investigate Jamaican coral reefs. [iii. 283]

BARRETT, STEPHEN (1718-1801), classical teacher; M.A. University College, Oxford, 1744; master at free school, Ashford; held living of Hothfield, Kent, 1773-1801. His works include a Latin translation of Pope's 'Pastorals,' 1746. [iii. 284]

BARRETT, WILLIAM (1733-1789), surgeon and antiquary; qualified as surgeon, 1758; collected materials for history of Bristol (published, 1789), accepting from Thomas Chatterton [q. v.] as authentic the forged 'Rowley' manuscripts, 1789; F.S.A., 1775. [iii. 284]

BARRI, GIRALDUS DE (1146 ?-1220 ?). [See GIRALDUS CAMBRENSIS.]

BARRINGTON, DAINES (1727-1800), lawyer, antiquary, and naturalist; son of John Shute, first viscount Barrington [q. v.]; called to bar at Inner Temple; marshal of high court of admiralty, 1751; justice of counties of Merioneth, Carnarvon, and Anglesey, 1757; recorder of Bristol, 1764; K.C., and bench of his inn; second justice of Chester, 1778-85; vice-president of the Society of Antiquaries; commissary-general of stores at Gibraltar till death; said to have induced White to write his 'Natural History of Selborne.' His writings include 'Observations on the Statutes,' 1766, and a translation of King Alfred's 'Orosius,' 1773. [iii. 286]

BARRINGTON, GEORGE (b. 1755), pickpocket and author; real name WALDRON; ran away from school and joined a company of strolling players, assuming name George Barrington; turned pickpocket; came to London, and having been twice sentenced to hard labour, was ultimately transported for seven years to Botany Bay, 1790; released in consideration of good behaviour, 1792; became superintendent of convicts and high constable of Paramatta, New South Wales; published description of voyage to Botany Bay (1801-3) and historical works relating to Australia. [iii. 288]

BARRINGTON, JOHN SHUTE, first Viscount BARRINGTON (1678-1734), lawyer, polemic, and Christian apologist; originally named SHUTE; Ph.D. and L.A.M. Utrecht; called to bar at Inner Temple; sent to Scotland to win presbyterian support for the union; inherited estates in Essex and assumed name of Barrington, 1709; published 'Dissuasive from Jacobitism,' 1713; M.P. for Berwick-upon-Tweed, 1715 and 1722; raised to peerage, 1720; expelled from House of Commons for connection with Harburg lottery, which was patronised by the king and Prince of Wales, 1723; published a 'History of the Apostles' and (1701-5) works relating to rights of protestant dissenters. [iii. 289]

BARRINGTON, SIR JONAH (1760-1834), lawyer; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; called to bar; judge in admiralty, 1798; member for Tuam in Irish House of Commons, 1792-8, and for Bannagher, 1799-1800; deprived of office for appropriating money paid into his court, 1830; died at Versailles; wrote works relating to history of Ireland. [iii. 291]

BARRINGTON, SAMUEL (1729-1800), admiral; son of John Shute, first viscount Barrington [q. v.]; lieutenant, 1745; served under Hawke in Basque Roads expedition, 1757; under Rodney at destruction of shipping at Havre-de-Grâce, 1759; with Hon. J. Byron at Louisbourg, 1760, and with Keppel at Belle Isle, 1761; flag-captain under Duke of Cumberland, 1768; attached to Channel fleet, 1771-4; commander-in-chief in West Indies, 1778; took St. Lucia, superseded by Byron; served as second in command at Grenada; second in command of Channel fleet, 1779 and 1782; admiral, 1787. [iii. 291]

BARRINGTON, SHUTE (1734-1826), divine; brother of Samuel Barrington [q. v.]; educated at Eton; M.A. Merton College, Oxford, 1757; chaplain-in-ordinary to George III, 1760; canon of Christ Church, 1761; D.O.L., 1762; held a stall at Windsor, 1776; bishop of Llandaff, 1769, Salisbury, 1782, and Durham, 1791 till his death, when he was count palatine and custos rotularum of Durham; published religious works. [iii. 294]

BARRINGTON, WILLIAM WILDMAN, second Viscount BARRINGTON (1717-1793), statesman; brother of Shute Barrington [q. v.]; M.P. for Berwick-upon-Tweed, 1740, and Plymouth, 1754 and 1755; introduced plan for formation of militia, 1745; lord commissioner of admiralty, and member of committee for impeachment of Lovat, 1746; privy councillor, 1755; chancellor of exchequer, 1761; treasurer of navy, 1762; secretary at war, 1765-78; joint postmaster-general, 1782. [iii. 295]

BARRITT, THOMAS (1743-1820), antiquary; collected and investigated antiquities in neighbourhood of Manchester. [iii. 295]

BARRON, HUGH (d. 1791), portrait-painter; pupil of Reynolds; worked in Lisbon and Rome; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1783 and 1786. [iii. 296]

BARRON, WILLIAM AUGUSTUS (A. 1777), landscape painter; brother of Hugh Barron [q. v.]; held position in exchequer. [iii. 296]

BARROUGH, PHILIP (A. 1590). [See BARROW.]

BARROW, SIR GEORGE (1806-1876), author; son of Sir John Barrow [q. v.]; clerk in colonial office, 1825; secretary to order of St. Michael and St. George, 1870. His works include 'The Valley of Tears,' a volume of poems. [iii. 296]

BARROW or BARROWE, HENRY (d. 1593), church reformer; B.A. Clare Hall, Cambridge, 1570; entered Gray's Inn, 1576; led a profligate life, but subsequently gave himself up to study of the bible; made the acquaintance of Greenwood, and largely adopted 'Brownist' tenets; arrested at instance of Whitgift, and examined by legal and ecclesiastical authorities, 1586; imprisoned in Fleet for denying their authority; published with two fellow-prisoners an account of the examination and other works, for which they were arraigned, and ultimately hanged at Tyburn. His principles required the admission of the supreme authority of Jesus Christ and of Holy Scripture. [iii. 297]

BARROW, ISAAC (1630-1677), divine and mathematical and classical scholar; educated at Charterhouse, Felstead, and Peterhouse, Cambridge; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1648; fellow, 1649; M.A., 1652; incorporated M.A. Oxford, 1653; travelled abroad, 1655-9; took holy orders, 1669; professor of Greek at Cambridge, 1660, and, later, of geometry at Gresham College; first Lucasian professor of mathematics at Cambridge, 1663; resigned in favour of his pupil, Isaac Newton, 1669, having previously resigned the Gresham professorship; wrote 'Exposition of the Creed, Decalogue, and Sacraments,' 1669; D.D. by royal mandate, 1670; master of Trinity, where he founded the library, 1679; published 'Euclid's Elements,' 1655, and 'Archimedes Opera,' 1675. As a mathematician he was considered by his contemporaries second only to Newton, while no more perfect piece of controversial writing than his treatise on the 'Pope's Supremacy' (1680) is extant. His sermons now rank among the finest. [iii. 299]

BARROW, ISAAC (1614-1680), divine; fellow of Peterhouse, Cambridge; ejected from fellowship as royalist, 1643; chaplain of New College, Oxford, 1643-5; returned to fellowship, 1660; bishop of Sodor and Man, 1663, and governor of Isle of Man, 1664; translated to St. Asaph, 1669. [iii. 296]

BARROW, JOHN (A. 1766), geographical compiler; compiled history of the discoveries made by Europeans in different parts of the world, 1768. [iii. 306]

BARROW, SIR JOHN (1764-1848), secretary of the admiralty; born of humble parents; timekeeper and subsequently partner in a Liverpool ironfoundry; comptroller of household in suite of Lord Macartney; private secretary to Macartney at Cape of Good Hope, whither he was sent on mission to reconcile Boers and Kaffirs, and to obtain topographical information; auditor-general of public records; lived near Table Mountain, 1800-2; returned to England, 1803; second secretary of the admiralty, 1804-6 and 1807-48; hon. D.C.L. Edinburgh, 1821; created baronet, 1835; founder of Royal Geographical Society; contributed to the 'Encyclopedia Britannica.' His works include 'Voyages of Discovery and Research in the Arctic Regions,' an 'Autobiography,' and volumes descriptive of his travels. [iii. 306]

BARROW or BARROUGH, PHILIP (A. 1690), medical writer; licensed by Cambridge University to practise chyrurgery and physic; published 'Method of Phisicke,' 1690. [iii. 308]

BARROW, THOMAS (d. 1497?). [See BAROWE.]

BARROW, THOMAS (1747-1813), learned jesuit; rendered great services to English academy at Liège and to Stonyhurst College; published verses in Hebrew and Greek. [iii. 308]

BARROW, WILLIAM (1610-1679). [See WARING.]

BARROW, WILLIAM (1754-1836), divine; gained at Queen's College, Oxford, 1778, chancellor's prize for essay on 'Education' (enlarged and published, 1802); D.C.L., and Bampton lecturer, 1799; prebendary, 1815, and vicar-general, 1821, of collegiate church of Eaton; archdeacon of Nottingham, 1830-2; F.S.A. [iii. 308]

BARROWBY, WILLIAM (1682-1751), physician; M.D. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1713; F.C.P., 1718; F.R.S., 1721; joint physician to St. Bartholomew's, 1750; published work on anatomy. [iii. 309]

BARRY, MRS. ANNSPRANGER (1734-1801), actress; née Street; married an actor named Dancer, and played in Portsmouth and York, c. 1756; played Cordelia to Lear of Spranger Barry [q. v.], whom she married), Juliet, Desdemona, and other parts at Dublin, 1768-67; at Haymarket, 1767, where she soon gained great reputation. Her last appearance was at Covent Garden as Lady Randolph, her great character, 1798. [iii. 309]

BARRY, SIR CHARLES (1795-1860), architect; article as surveyor in Lambeth, 1810-16; regularly exhibited at Royal Academy; travelled in France, Italy, Greece, Turkey, and Egypt, 1817-20; built houses of Travellers' Club (1829-31), Reform Club, Pall Mall (1837); and Bridgewater House (1847); R.A.; queen's gold medallist for architecture; gained first premium in Houses of Parliament competition, 1836, and was occupied in building them, 1840-60. They were finished by his son, Edward M. Barry [q. v.] [iii. 310]

BARRY, SIR DAVID (1760-1835), physician and physiologist; surgeon in army in Peninsula; published works on influence of atmospheric pressure on bodily functions; M.D.; F.R.S. [iii. 313]

BARRY, DAVID FITZ-DAVID, first EARL OF BARRYMORE (1606-1642), soldier; served against Scots, 1639, and supported royal cause in Ireland, 1641-2; probably died from wounds received at battle of Lisacarroil. [iii. 313]

BARRY, DAVID FITZJAMES DE VISCOUNT BUTTEVANT (1660-1617), soldier; second son of James Barry Roe, viscount Buttevant; succeeded to title, 1681, during life of his elder brother, who was deaf and dumb; supported Desmond's rebellion, 1679-83, but during Hugh O'Neill's rebellion, 1694-1603, served against the rebels. [iii. 313]

BARRY, SIR EDWARD (1696-1776), physician; M.D. Leyden, 1719, and Trinity College, Dublin, 1740; F.R.S.

1733; fellow of King and Queen's College of Physicians (Ireland), 1740; president, 1749; F.C.P. London, 1769; created baronet, 1776; professor of physic, Dublin; published medical works. [iii. 314]

BARRY, EDWARD (1759-1822), religious and medical writer; M.D. St. Andrews; curate of St. Marylebone, London; grand chaplain to the freemasons; published medical and theological works. [iii. 314]

BARRY, EDWARD MIDDLETON (1830-1880), architect; son of Sir Charles Barry [q. v.]; educated at King's College, London; rebuilt Covent Garden Theatre, 1867, and Floral Hall, 1868; R.A., 1869; professor of architecture at Royal Academy, 1873-80; treasurer of the Academy, 1874; competed for Albert Memorial, 1862, and for Law Courts, 1867. Among his works are the New Palace, Westminster, 1866-8, new picture galleries added to the National Gallery, 1871-5, and Inner Temple Buildings, 1875-9. [iii. 315]

BARRY, ELIZABETH (1658-1713), actress; owed her entrance on the stage to patronage of Earl of Rochester; first appeared at Dorset Garden as Isabella, queen of Hungary in 'Mustapha,' 1673; 'created' more than one hundred rôles, including Monimia (the 'Orphan'), Cordelia (Tate's version of 'King Lear'), Belvidera ('Venice Preserved'), Cassandra (Dryden's 'Cleomenes'), and Zara (Congreve's 'Mourning Bride'); retired, 1710. [iii. 317]

BARRY, GEORGE (1748-1805), topographical writer; minister at Kirkwall, 1782, and Shapinsay, 1793; D.D. Edinburgh, 1804; published 'History of Orkney Islands,' 1806. [iii. 319]

BARRY, GERAT or GERALD (A. 1624-1642), colonel in the Spanish army; served in Spanish army in Low Countries and Germany; distinguished himself at siege of Breda, 1625 (of which he published an account, 1628), and subsequently as colonel in Ireland during rising of 1641, for assisting which he was outlawed, 1642; published 'Military Discipline,' 1634. [iii. 319]

BARRY, HENRY (1750-1822), colonel; ensign, 1768; aide-de-camp and private secretary to Lord Rawdon during American war; served in India; colonel, 1798. [iii. 320]

BARRY, JAMES, BARON SANTRY (1603-1675), lawyer; recorder of Dublin; prime serjeant-at-law, 1629; second baron of exchequer and knighted, 1634; chairman of Dublin convention which voted unconditional restoration of Charles II, 1659; appointed chief-justice of king's bench and created Baron Santry, 1660. [iii. 320]

BARRY, JAMES (1741-1806), painter; studied under West at Dublin; exhibited at Dublin, and secured friendship of Burke, who brought him to London, 1763, and introduced him to Reynolds and others; visited Paris and Rome; R.A., 1773; published 'Inquiry into Obstructions to Arts in England,' 1776; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1771-8; decorated the walls of the Society of Arts with six pictures on subject of 'Human Culture,' 1777-83; received Society of Arts gold medal; professor of painting at Royal Academy, 1782; expelled from the academy in consequence of continued quarrels with his fellow academicians, 1799; published several engravings. [iii. 321]

BARRY, JAMES (1795-1865), woman who lived as a man; hospital assistant in the army, 1813; assistant surgeon, 1815; surgeon-major, 1827; deputy inspector-general, 1881; inspector-general, 1858; served at Malta and Cape of Good Hope. [iii. 324]

BARRY, JOHN (1745-1803), commodore, U.S.A.; went to sea at early age, and settled at Philadelphia, c. 1760; joined United States navy at outbreak of revolution, 1776; as commander of the Lexington captured the Edward, the first ship taken by America; subsequently suffered defeat and lost his ship; served in army, 1778-80; commodore, 1794. [iii. 326]

BARRY, JOHN MILNER (1768-1832), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1792; founded, and was first physician of, Cork Fever Hospital; introduced into Ireland vaccination, on which and other subjects he wrote papers. [iii. 326]

BARRY, JOHN O'BRIEN MILNER (1816-1881), medical writer; son of John Milner Barry [q. v.]; M.D. Edinburgh, 1837; F.R.O.P.; published medical treatises. [iii. 326]

BARRY or BARREY, LODOWICK (17th cent.), dramatist; published 'Ram Alley or Merry Tricks,' a comedy in verse, 1611. [iii. 326]

BARRY, MARTIN (1802-1856), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1833; studied at Heidelberg; F.R.S., 1840; discovered presence of spermatozoa in ovum, 1843. [iii. 326]

BARRY, PHILIP DE (fl. 1183), warrior, nephew of Robert Fitz-Stephen; held possessions in Cork. [iii. 327]

BARRY, SIR REDMOND (1813-1890), lawyer; B.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1833; called to the bar, 1838; commissioner of court of requests, Melbourne, 1839; solicitor-general of Victoria, 1850; judge, 1861; first chancellor, Melbourne University, 1865; knighted, 1860. [iii. 327]

BARRY, ROBERT DE (fl. 1175), warrior; brother of Philip de Barry [q. v.]; wounded at siege of Wexford, 1169. [iii. 327]

BARRY, SPRANGER (1719-1777), actor; originally Dublin silversmith, but became bankrupt; played successfully Lear, Henry V, Hotspur, and other characters at Dublin, and Othello, under management of Garrick and Lacey, at Drury Lane, 1746; appeared alternately with Garrick in 'Hamlet' and 'Macbeth'; played Romeo to Mrs. Cibber's Juliet at Covent Garden, 1750; in partnership with Woodward built new theatre at Dublin (1758), and Cork (1761); reappeared at Drury Lane (as Othello), 1767, and Covent Garden, 1774. [iii. 327]

BARRY, THOMAS DE (fl. 1560), canon of Glasgow and chief magistrate of Bothwell; wrote poem on Otterburn. [iii. 329]

BARRYMORE, first EARL OF (1605-1642). [See BARRY, DAVID FITZ-DAVID.]

BARTER, RICHARD, M.D. (1802-1870), physician; qualified at London College of Physicians; established St. Anne's water-cure establishment at Blarney, 1842; set up first hot-air baths in British dominions, and subsequently instituted Turkish baths. [iii. 339]

BARTHELEMON, FRANÇOIS HIPPOLITE (1741-1808), violinist; born at Bordeaux; served as officer in Irish brigade; adopted profession of music; composed and produced several operas in London and Paris; leader at Vauxhall Gardens, 1770. [iii. 339]

BARTHELET or BARTLETT, JOHN (fl. 1566), theological writer; minister of church of England with strong Calvinistic opinions; divinity lecturer at St. Giles', Cripplegate; published 'Pedegrewe of Heretiques', 1566. [iii. 339]

BARTHOLOMEW (d. 1184), divine; native of Brittany; bishop of Exeter, 1161; consented to Constitutions of Clarendon, 1164; one of five bishops sent with Henry II's appeal to Alexander III at Sens; took part in coronation of the young Henry, 1170, and was the only bishop who escaped excommunication for his share in that ceremony; left religious manuscripts. [iii. 330]

BARTHOLOMEW, SAINT (d. 1193), Northumbrian hermit; ordained in Norway; joined monks at Durham; became hermit at Farnie. [iii. 331]

BARTHOLOMEW ANGLICUS (fl. 1230-1250). [See BARTHOLOMEW DE GLANVILLE.]

BARTHOLOMEW, ALFRED (1801-1845), architect; article in London; one of earliest members of a society of Freemasons of the Church for furtherance of true principles of architecture; editor of 'Builder,' and author of several practical works on architecture. [iii. 332]

BARTHOLOMEW, ANN CHARLOTTE (d. 1862), authoress and miniaturist; published plays and poems; married Walter Turnbull, and afterwards Valentine Bartholomew [q. v.], 1840; exhibited flower and fruit pieces in watercolour. [iii. 332]

BARTHOLOMEW, DAVID EWEN (d. 1821), navy captain; pressed out of merchant ship, 1794; lieutenant, 1805; commander, 1812; engaged on coast of Georgia and up St. Mary's river, 1815; captain and C.B., 1815; died in St. Iago. [iii. 333]

BARTHOLOMEW, VALENTINE (1799-1879), flower painter in ordinary to Queen Victoria and Duchess of Kent; member of Watercolour Society, 1855-79. [iii. 333]

BARTLEMAN, JAMES (1769-1821), vocalist; cho-rister at Westminster; bass singer at the 'Ancient Concerts,' 1788, and, excepting from 1791-5, was permanently connected with that institution. [iii. 333]

BARTLET, JOHN (fl. 1662), nonconformist divine; held livings in Exeter; ejected, 1662; published religious works. [iii. 334]

BARTLET, WILLIAM (d. 1692), independent minister; lecturer at Bideford, 1649; ejected, 1662; published two learned religious treatises. [iii. 334]

BARTLETT, BENJAMIN (1714-1787), apothecary; formed collection of English coins and seals; F.S.A., 1764; published memoir on 'Episcopal Coins of Durham and Monastic Coins of Reading,' and left in manuscript 'History of Manchester,' published in Nichols's 'Topographical Antiquities.' [iii. 334]

BARTLETT, THOMAS (1789-1864), divine; M.A. St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, 1816; published works maintaining evangelical principles. [iii. 335]

BARTLETT, WILLIAM HENRY (1809-1854), topographical draughtsman; employed by John Britton, the architect, to make sketches in England for architectural publications; subsequently visited Europe, the East, and America, and published illustrated topographical works. [iii. 335]

BARTLEY, GEORGE (1782?-1858), comedian; employed at Bath theatre; appeared at Cheltenham as Orlando in 'As you like it,' 1800; engaged as Orlando by Sheridan at Drury Lane, 1802; reappeared at Drury Lane as Falstaff, 1815; stage-manager of Covent Garden, 1829; last appeared at Princess's, 1852. [iii. 335]

BARTLEY, SARAH (1783-1850), actress; wife of George Bartley [q. v.]; engaged as Lady Townley in the 'Provoked Husband' at Covent Garden, 1805; created Teresa in Coleridge's 'Remorse' at Drury Lane, 1813; toured with her husband in America, 1818-20; last appeared as Lady Macbeth. [iii. 336]

BARTLOT, RICHARD (1471-1557), physician; M.D. All Souls' College, Oxford, 1508; president, College of Physicians, 1527, 1528, 1531, and 1548. [iii. 337]

BARTOLOZZI, FRANCESCO (1727-1815), engraver; born in Florence, where he studied art; apprenticed to John Wagner, an engraver, at Venice; came to England, 1764, as 'engraver to the king,' and was also engaged by Richard Dalton [q. v.], librarian to George III; joined Incorporated Society of Arts, 1765; original member of Royal Academy, 1769; took charge of National Academy at Lisbon, 1802, and there died. Among his best works are engravings after Italian masters and Holbein. [iii. 337]

BARTOLOZZI, GAETANO STEFANO (1757-1821), engraver; son of Francesco Bartolozzi [q. v.]; opened a musical and fencing academy in Paris, becoming involved in difficulties owing to his indulgence. [iii. 339]

BARTON, ANDREW (d. 1511), Scottish naval commander; merchant seaman; gained favour of James IV by exploits against Portuguese ships; cleared Scottish coasts of Flemish pirates, 1506; sent to assist Denmark against Lubeck, 1508; shot in encounter with Sir Thomas and Sir Edward Howard, who had been dispatched by Henry VIII to capture him. [iii. 340]

BARTON, BERNARD (1784-1849), poet; of quaker parentage; coal and corn merchant at Woodbridge, 1807; banking clerk at Woodbridge, 1809-49; he formed a close friendship with Lamb, and was intimately acquainted with Southey and other literary men of his time; published 'The Convict's Appeal,' 1818, 'Household Verses,' 1845, and other volumes of poems. [iii. 340]

BARTON, CHARLES (1768-1843), conveyancer; called to bar, 1795; published legal writings. [iii. 342]

BARTON, EDWARD (1662?-1697), second English ambassador to Constantinople; appointed, 1690; served in Turkish army against Maximilian, 1695; died of plague at Halke. [iii. 342]

BARTON, ELIZABETH (1506?-1534), NUN or MAID OF KENT; domestic servant at Aldington, Kent, c. 1525, when she was attacked by some internal disease, fell into nervous derangement which issued in religious mania; subject to trances, during which her utterances had such effect on her hearers that on recovery she determined to feign divine inspiration: Edward Bocking [q. v.] and William Hadley, monks of Canterbury, directed by Archbishop Warham to observe her; induced by Bocking to anathematise all opponents of the Roman catholic church; removed to priory of St. Sepulchre, Canterbury, where a cell was assigned her; inveighed against Henry's divorce from Catherine of Aragon, prophesying that he would die in month succeeding his marriage with Anne Boleyn, and subsequently saying that he was no longer king in the sight of God—an utterance which Cromwell regarded as incitement to rebellion; repeatedly examined, and ultimately executed with her accomplices at Tyburn.

[iii. 343]
BARTON, FRANCES (1737-1815). [See ABINGTON.]

BARTON, JOHN DE (fl. 1304), judge; otherwise called DE RYTON and DE FRYTON; member of itinerant court constituted for Yorkshire, 1304. [iii. 346]

BARTON, JOHN (15th cent.), physician; author of 'Confutatio Lollardorum,' of which a manuscript copy is preserved at All Souls' College, Oxford. [iii. 346]

BARTON, MATTHEW (1715?-1795), admiral; entered navy, 1730; lieutenant, 1739; with Boscawen in North America, 1755; senior officer on Guinea coast, 1757-8; started under Keppel for Goree, but was wrecked on African shore and captured by emperor of Morocco; ransomed, 1760; served in Belle-Isle expedition, 1761, at Martinique, 1762, and at Jamaica and Havana, 1763; admiral, 1779. [iii. 346]

BARTON, RICHARD (1601-1669), jesuit; entered Society of Jesus, 1625; rector of English college, Liège, 1642; provincial of English province, 1656-60; rector of English college, St. Omer, 1660-9. [iii. 347]

BARTON, SIR ROBERT (1770-1853), general; served as volunteer in French national guard, 1790, and subsequently held commission in English army in Holland and the Peninsula; general, 1819; knighted, 1837. [iii. 348]

BARTON, THOMAS (d. 1683), royalist divine; graduated at Magdalen Hall, Oxford; rector of Eynesbury, 1629, of Westmeston, c. 1631 till 1642 (when he was deprived) and 1660-83; D.D., 1663; wrote theological works. [iii. 348]

BARTON, THOMAS (1730?-1780), divine; graduated at Dublin; opened school at Norriston, Pennsylvania; tutor at Philadelphia academy; missionary of Society for Propagation of Gospel, 1754-9, and subsequently rector at Lancaster, Pennsylvania. [iii. 348]

BARTON, WILLIAM (1598?-1678), hymnologist; probably vicar of Mayfield, Staffordshire; published verse-translation of the psalms, 1644, and 'Century of Select Hymns,' 1659. [iii. 348]

BARTTELOT, EDMUND MUSGRAVE (1859-1888), major; son of Sir Walter Barttelot Barttelot [q. v.]; educated at Rugby and Sandhurst; joined 7th fusiliers, 1879; served in Afghanistan, 1880, and in Egypt, 1882 and 1883; in expedition for relief of Gordon; brevet major, 1883; accompanied Mr. (now Sir) H. M. Stanley's expedition to relieve Emin Pasha, 1887-8; remained with stores at Yambuya, where he was shot by an Arab. [Suppl. i. 135]

BARTTELOT, SIR WALTER BARTTELOT (1820-1893), politician; educated at Rugby; served with 1st royal dragoons, 1839-53, retired as captain; M.P. for West Sussex, 1860-85, and for Horsham division, 1885-93; opposed Irish land bill, 1881; created baronet, 1875; C.B., 1880; privy councillor, 1892. [Suppl. i. 134]

BARVITUS (fl. 546), Scottish saint; perhaps disciple and companion of St. Brandan, whose life he is said to have written. [iii. 349]

BARWELL, LOUISA MARY (1800-1885), musician; daughter of Richard Mackenzie Bacon [q. v.], with whom she was associated in editorship of 'Quarterly Musical Magazine'; married John Barwell of Norwich; wrote educational works and contributed to 'Quarterly Journal of Education.' [iii. 349]

BARWELL, RICHARD (1741-1804), Anglo-Indian; born at Calcutta; writer on Bengal establishment of East India Company, 1756; member of council in Bengal under Warren Hastings (whom he supported) as governor-general, 1773; retired with an immense fortune, 1780; M.P. for St. Ives, 1784, and Winchester, 1790 and 1796. [iii. 350]

BARWICK, JOHN (fl. 1340), doctor of theology at Oxford, where he studied at Franciscan schools; his works include a commentary on Peter Lombard. [iii. 351]

BARWICK, JOHN (1612-1664), divine; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1635; fellow; M.A., 1638; opposed parliament at outbreak of war, 1642, and was compelled to leave Cambridge; made chaplain to Bishop Morton, and received stall at Durham and two rectories; settled in London, whence, assisted by his brother, he communicated to Charles I, and later to Charles II, the designs of the rebels; charged with high treason and at length committed to Tower, 1650; released without trial, 1652; renewed his management of king's correspondence; sent by the bishops to Charles at Breda, 1659; royal chaplain; refused a bishopric and was made dean of Durham, 1660; dean of St. Paul's, 1661; prolocutor of lower house of convocation of province of Canterbury. [iii. 351]

BARWICK, PETER (1619-1705), physician, brother of John Barwick (1612-1664) [q. v.]; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1647; fellow; M.D., 1655; supported his brother in his efforts to assist royal cause during civil war; physician in ordinary to Charles II, 1660; F.C.P., 1665; wrote 'Vita Johannis Barwick,' a life of his brother, published 1721. [iii. 353]

BASEVI, GEORGE (1794-1845), architect; pupil of Sir John Soane; his works include the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge, begun 1837, and, with Sydney Smith, the Conservative Club House, 1843-5. [iii. 354]

BASHAM, WILLIAM RICHARD (1804-1877), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1834; physician to Westminster Hospital, 1843; published works on dropsy and the renal diseases. [iii. 354]

BASING, BARON (1826-1894). [See SC'LATER-BOOTH, GEORGE.]

BASING or BASINGSTOKE, JOHN (d. 1252), divine; probably studied at Oxford, Paris, and Athens; had returned to England and was archdeacon of Leicester by 1235; friend of Grosseteste; did much to encourage the study of Greek, and his writings include 'Donatus Græcorum,' a translation into Latin of a Greek grammar. [iii. 354]

BASIRE, ISAAC (1607-1676), divine and traveller; studied at Rotterdam, 1623, and at Leyden, 1625; settled in England, 1628; became chaplain to Morton, then bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, 1629; B.D. Cambridge; by royal mandate university preacher through England and Ireland, and rector of Eggescliffe, 1636; D.D., 1640; chaplain extraordinary to Charles I, 1641; collated to stall in Durham Cathedral, 1643; archdeacon of Northumberland, 1644; received living of Stanhope, 1645; seized by parliamentarians and compelled to go abroad, 1646; arrived in 1649 at Rome, whence he set out to the East to disseminate the Anglo-catholic faith; returned to England after successful missionary work, 1661, and was restored to his former offices; among his works are a 'History of the English and Scottish Presbytery,' 1659, and a life of Oosin, bishop of Durham; he also left in manuscript notes of several of his journeys. [iii. 356]

BASIRE, ISAAC (1704-1768), map engraver; executed frontispiece to edition of Bailey's dictionary, 1755. [iii. 360]

BASIRE, JAMES (1730-1802), engraver; son of Isaac Basire (1704-1768) [q. v.]; accompanied to Italy Richard Dalton [q. v.], keeper of royal drawings; engraver to Society of Antiquaries, c. 1763-1802; William Blake was his apprentice, 1771-8; his views of Oxford after Turner, and his 'Pyldes and Orestes' after West, are among the best known of his works. [iii. 358]

BASIRE, JAMES (1769-1822), engraver; son of James Basire (1730-1802) [q. v.]; engraver to Society of Antiquaries, by which Society much of his work was published; probably executed or assisted in more than one of the Oxford plates after Turner. [iii. 360]

BASIRE, JAMES (1796-1869), engraver; son of James Basire (1769-1822) [q. v.]; executed plates of Sussex country houses. [iii. 360]

BASKERVILLE, HANNIBAL (1597-1668), antiquary; son of Sir Thomas Baskerville [q. v.]; born at Saint Valéry, Picardy; educated at Brasenose College, Oxford; left in manuscript antiquarian notes. [iii. 360]

BASKERVILLE, JOHN (1706-1775), printer; taught writing and book-keeping and carved monumental inscriptions at Birmingham, where he kept a school in the Bull Ring, 1737; started business at Moor Street as a japanner, 1740; began to occupy himself with type-founding, 1750, and after experimenting several years produced a type with which he was satisfied; his first work a quarto edition of Virgil, which appeared 1757; produced his 'Milton,' 1758; elected printer to Cambridge University for ten years, 1758; first printed his editions of the prayer-book, 1760, and of the bible, one of the finest ever published, 1763; brought out a Greek New Testament (quarto and octavo), 1763, a quarto Horace, 1770, and in 1772-3 a famous series of quarto editions of Latin authors; his printing plant purchased after his death, in 1779, by Beaumarchais; he has the reputation of being the finest printer of modern times, though the opinion of contemporary experts was somewhat unfavourable to his type. [iii. 361]

BASKERVILLE, SIR SIMON (1574-1641), physician; fellow of Exeter College, Oxford; M.A.; M.B., 1611; M.D.; F.O.P., 1615; physician successively to James I and Charles I; knighted, 1636. [iii. 368]

BASKERVILLE, SIR THOMAS (d. 1597), general; served at Porto Rico, in France, 1589, Brittany, 1594, and Picardy, 1596. [iii. 369]

BASKERVILLE, THOMAS (1630-1720), topographer; son of Hannibal Baskerville [q. v.]; wrote account of a journey (1677-8) through various English counties. [iii. 369]

BASKERVILLE, THOMAS (1812-1840?), physician; M.C.S., 1835; published a botanical work. [iii. 369]

BASKETT, JOHN (d. 1742), king's printer; joint purchaser of bible patent and queen's printer, 1709, for term of thirty years, after which, having bought the reversion, he obtained renewal for sixty years; printed editions of Book of Common Prayer, 1713; master of Stationers' Company, 1714 and 1715; produced at Oxford 'The Vinegar Bible,' in two volumes, 1716-17; obtained right to print bibles in Scotland; bankrupt, 1731; his last volume a New Testament, 1742. [iii. 369]

BASS, GEORGE (d. 1812?), explorer; apprenticed to a surgeon at Boston, Lincolnshire; surgeon in navy; sailed to Sydney, 1795; explored coast of New South Wales and circumnavigated Tasmania; gave name to Bass's Strait. [iii. 371]

BASS, MICHAEL THOMAS (1799-1884), brewer; entered as traveller his father's brewery business, which rapidly increased after Great Exhibition (1851) and opening of Trent and Mersey Canal; liberal M.P. for Derby, 1848-83; exhibited lively concern in questions relating to welfare of working classes, and improved social conditions in Burton and Derby by numerous charities. [iii. 371]

BASSANTIN, JAMES (d. 1568), Scottish astronomer; educated at Glasgow University; taught mathematics at Paris; returned to Scotland, 1562; principal work, 'Astronomique Discours,' Lyons, 1557. [iii. 372]

BASSE or BAS, WILLIAM (d. 1653?), poet; retainer to Sir Richard (afterwards Lord) Wenman of Thame Park; probably attached to household of Lord Norreys at Ricot or Rycote, Oxfordshire; published 'Sword and Buckler,' 1603, and 'Great Brittaines Sunnes-set,' 1613, but he is best known by his occasional verses and an 'Epitaph on Shakespeare'; his 'Angler's Song,' quoted in Walton's 'Compleat Angler,' possesses distinction. [iii. 373]

BASSENDYNE or BASSINDEN, THOMAS (d. 1577), printer, bookbinder, and bookseller at the Nether Bow, Edinburgh; king's printer; produced an edition of Sir David Lindsay's works, 1574; printed earliest translation of New Testament published in Scotland, 1576. [iii. 374]

BASSET OF CORNWALL. This family was among the early Norman settlers in England, at first residing in Oxfordshire and other midland counties, and subsequently migrating to Cornwall. Members of it intermarried with prominent Cornish families; during the reigns of Henries VI, VII, and VIII were frequently sheriffs of Cornwall; they were staunch royalists during the civil wars. [iii. 375]

BASSET, ALAN, BARON OF WYCOMBE (d. 1235); younger son of Thomas Basset [q. v.]; close attendant and supporter of John; sent on political mission to France, 1220; sheriff of Rutland, 1217-20. [iii. 376]

BASSET, SIR FRANCIS (d. 1645), recorder and M.P. for St. Ives, 1640; sheriff of Cornwall, 1642-4; actively supported royalist cause in Cornwall, 1643; knighted after battle of Braddock Down, near Lostwithiel. [iii. 376]

BASSET, FRANCIS, BARON DE DUNSTANVILLE OF TEHIDY AND BARON BASSET OF STRATTON (1757-1835), patriot and political writer; at Harrow and Eton; M.A. King's College, Cambridge, 1786; recorder of Penryn, 1778; actively assisted defences of Cornwall when Spanish and French fleets threatened Plymouth, 1779; baronet and M.P. for Penryn, 1779; strongly opposed peace with America; raised to peerage, 1796; expended large sums in developing mining interests of Cornwall and was a liberal patron of the fine arts; wrote political and agricultural treatises. [iii. 377]

BASSET, FULK (d. 1259), bishop of London; son of Alan Basset, baron of Wycombe [q. v.]; provost of Beverley; dean of York, 1239; succeeded to Basset estates, 1241; elected bishop of London by canons of St. Paul's in opposition to wishes of Henry III, 1241; led opposition to Pope Innocent IV's demand on incomes of beneficed clergy, 1246; probably suspended with other bishops for refusal to pay first year's income of all vacant livings to archbishopric of Canterbury, 1247; supported Grosseteste's opposition to tenth of church revenues granted to Henry III by pope, 1252; took king's side after meeting of barons at Oxford, 1258; died of pestilence. [iii. 378]

BASSET, FULK DE (d. 1271). [See SANDFORD.]

BASSET, GILBERT (d. 1241), baronial leader; son of Alan Basset [q. v.]; succeeded his father in barony of Wycombe, 1233; joined barons' opposition to Henry III's foreign relations; outlawed for refusing to meet Henry III at Gloucester, 1233; was reconciled to Henry, 1234, and became one of his familiar councillors. [iii. 380]

BASSET, JOHN (1791-1843), writer on mining; sheriff of Cornwall, 1837; M.P. for Helston, 1840; published treatises on subjects connected with mining. [iii. 381]

BASSET, JOSHUA (1641?-1720), master of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge; M.A. Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, 1665; B.D., 1671; senior fellow, 1673; master of Sidney Sussex College, 1686; by mandate from James II, 1687, declared himself a papist; left college on James's revocation of all mandamuses, 1688. His name appears on the title-page of 'Ecclesiæ Theoria Nova Dodwelliana exposita' (1718) only, but he is credited with authorship of 'Reason and Authority, or the Motives of a late Protestant's Reconciliation to the Catholic Church' (1687), and another eirenicon. [iii. 381]

BASSET, PETER (fl. 1421), chamberlain and intimate friend of Henry V, whose life he is stated by Bale to have written under title of 'Acta Regis Henrici Quinti'; other historical writings attributed to him. [iii. 383]

BASSET, SIR PHILIP (d. 1271), justiciar and royalist baron; son of Alan Basset, baron of Wycombe [q. v.]; joined opposition to king under earl marshal, 1235, and was outlawed; made peace with king, 1234; chosen by barons, deputy to protest against papal policy in England, 1244; associated with justiciar in regency when Henry left for France, 1259; joined royal party, 1260; justiciary of England, 1261-3; fought for king at Dover, 1263, Northampton, and Lewes, where he was made prisoner, 1264; released, 1265; sheriff of Somerset and Dorset; member of king's council, 1270. [iii. 384]

BASSET, RALPH (d. 1127?), justiciar; one of five arbitrators between archbishop of York and abbot of Ripon, 1106. [iii. 385]

BASSET, RALPH (d. 1265), baron of Drayton, Staffordshire; fell at Evesham by De Montfort's side, 1265. [iii. 386]

BASSET, RALPH (d. 1282?), baron of Sapcote, Leicestershire; constable of Northampton, 1258; custos pacis for Leicestershire, 1264; fought for barons at Evesham, 1265. [iii. 386]

BASSET, RICHARD (d. 1144?), justiciary of all England under Henry I; son of Ralph Basset (d. 1127?) [q. v.]. [iii. 385]

BASSET, THOMAS, BARON OF HEDENDON (d. 1182?), itinerant justice for Essex and Hertfordshire; baron of exchequer, c. 1169; and sheriff of Oxfordshire, 1164. [iii. 386]

BASSET, WILLIAM (d. 1185?), judge; son of Richard Basset [q. v.]; sheriff of Warwickshire and Leicestershire, 1163-70; and of Lincolnshire, 1177-84. [iii. 386]

BASSET, WILLIAM (d. 1249?), judge; justiciary, 1225; justice itinerant for Derbyshire and Northamptonshire, 1226, 1227, and 1232. [iii. 386]

BASSET, WILLIAM (fl. 1341), justice of common pleas, c. 1337-41, and of king's bench, 1341-c. 1350. [iii. 386]

BASSET, WILLIAM (1644-1695), divine; M.A. Magdalen College, Oxford; rector of St. Swithin's, London, 1683; published theological works. [iii. 386]

BASSINGBOURNE, HUMPHREY DE (fl. 1206), itinerant justice; perhaps archdeacon of Salisbury between 1188 and 1222. [iii. 386]

BASNETT, CHRISTOPHER (1677?-1744), nonconformist minister at Liverpool, where he assisted in establishing a free school for poor children, 1716. [iii. 387]

BASTARD, JOHN POLLEXFEN (1756-1816), colonel of East Devonshire militia, 1782; prevented destruction of Plymouth dockyards in workmen's revolt, 1793; M.P. for Devonshire, 1784-1816. [iii. 387]

BASTARD, THOMAS (1566-1618), satirist and divine; educated at Winchester; admitted perpetual fellow, New College, Oxford, 1588; M.A.; chaplain to Thomas, earl of Suffolk; held two Dorsetshire livings; published 'Chrestoleros: Seven Bookes of Epigrammes,' 1598. [iii. 387]

BASTON or BOSTON, PHILIP (d. 1320?), Carmelite of Nottingham; gained considerable reputation in rhetoric and poetry at Oxford. [iii. 388]

BASTON, ROBERT (fl. 1300), Carmelite; brother of Philip Baston [q. v.]; Carmelite monk and prior of abbey of Scarborough; crowned with laurel as rhetorician and poet at Oxford; accompanied Edward II to sing his praises on expedition to relieve Stirling, and was captured by Bruce, who forced him to sing his countrymen's defeat; wrote poems on second Scottish war and on miscellaneous subjects. [iii. 388]

BASTWICK, JOHN (1593-1654), physician and controversialist; educated at Emmanuel College, Cambridge; M.D. Padua; published puritanical controversial treatises, for which he was fined and subsequently imprisoned; released by Long parliament, 1640; captain of Leicester trained bands, 1642; published tractates against 'Independents,' 1648. [iii. 389]

BATE, CHARLES SPENCE (1819-1889), scientific writer; practised as dentist; L.R.O.S., 1860; member of Odontological Society, 1856, vice-president, 1860-2, and president, 1886; president, British Dental Association, 1883; closely connected with Plymouth Institution from 1862; F.L.S., 1864; F.R.S., 1861; published writings on crustacea, dentistry, and other subjects. [Suppl. i. 136]

BATE, GEORGE (1608-1669), court physician; M.D. St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, 1637; physician to Charles I at Oxford; F.O.P., 1640; physician to Oliver Cromwell, and subsequently to Charles II; F.R.S.; published medical and political writings. [iii. 390]

BATE, HENRY (1746-1824). [See DUDLEY, SIR HENRY BATE.]

BATE, JAMES (1703-1775), scholar, brother of Julius Bate [q. v.]; B.A. Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1723; fellow of St. John's College; M.A., 1727; chaplain to Horace Walpole when ambassador in Paris; received living at Deptford, 1731; published religious works. [iii. 390]

BATE, JOHN (d. 1439), theologian; educated at Carmelite monastery, York, and at Oxford; deacon, 1415;

prior of Carmelites at York. His works include treatises on Aristotle. [iii. 391]

BATE, JULIUS (1711-1771), divine; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1740; rector of Sutton; Hutchinsonian mystic, and connected with publication of Hutchinson's works; published Hebrew-English dictionary, 1767. [iii. 391]

BATECUMBE or BADECUMBE, WILLIAM (d. 1487?), mathematician; perhaps professor of mathematics at Oxford in Henry V's reign; left manuscript treatises from which Chaucer compiled his 'Astrolabe.' [iii. 392]

BATEMAN, HEZEKIAH LINTHICUM (1812-1876), actor; born in United States; entered firm of mechanical engineers, but subsequently joined the elder Booth and Ellen Tree (Mrs. Charles Kean); manager of St. Louis Theatre, 1855, and of Lyceum, London, 1870-5. Under his management (Sir) Henry Irving gained his first success in the 'Bells.' [iii. 392]

BATEMAN, JAMES (1811-1897), horticulturist; M.A. Magdalen College, Oxford, 1845; took great interest in collecting and cultivating tropical plants; F.L.S., 1833; F.R.S., 1838; fellow of Royal Horticultural Society; published writings on orchids and other horticultural subjects. [Suppl. i. 137]

BATEMAN, JOHN FREDERIC LA TROBE, formerly styled JOHN FREDERIC BATEMAN (1810-1889), civil engineer; began business, 1833; associated with (Sir) William Fairbairn [q. v.] in laying out reservoirs on river Bann, Ireland, 1835; engaged on Longendale works for Manchester water supply, 1846-77, and on Lake Thirlmere works, 1879; published 'History of Manchester Waterworks,' 1884; superintended supply of water to Glasgow from Loch Katrine, 1856-60; constructed waterworks for many other towns in British Islands and abroad; designed scheme to supply London with water from river Severn, 1865; M.I.O.E., 1840, and was president, 1878 and 1879; F.R.S., 1860. [Suppl. i. 138]

BATEMAN, SIDNEY FRANCES (1823-1881), actress; nee Cowell; married Hezekiah Bateman [q. v.], 1839; wrote several plays produced in England and America; managed Lyceum, 1876-8, and Sadler's Wells, 1878-81. [iii. 392]

BATEMAN, STEPHEN (d. 1584). [See BATMAN.]

BATEMAN, THOMAS (1778-1821), physician; studied at St. George's Hospital; M.D. Edinburgh, 1801; pupil of Dr. Willan and subsequently physician to public dispensary and to fever hospital, London, 1804; L.O.P., 1805; connected with 'Edinburgh Medical and Surgical Journal'; became principal authority in London on skin diseases; published 'Synopsis of Cutaneous Diseases,' 1813, in which he followed and established the reputation of Willan. [iii. 393]

BATEMAN, THOMAS (1821-1861), archaeologist, son of William Bateman (1787-1835) [q. v.]; country gentleman in neighbourhood of the Peak; formed large archaeological and ethnological collections, of which the foundations were laid by his father and grandfather; published accounts of his investigations. [iii. 394]

BATEMAN, WILLIAM (1298?-1355), bishop of Norwich, called WILLIAM OF NORWICH; D.C.L. Cambridge; archdeacon of Norwich, 1328; took up residence at court of Pope John XXII at Avignon and was subsequently appointed auditor of the palace; dean of Lincoln, 1340; twice despatched by Pope Benedict XII to reconcile French king and Edward III; bishop of Norwich, 1344; repeatedly employed by Edward III in political negotiations, 1348-54. Founded Trinity Hall, Cambridge, 1350, for students of canon and civil law to recruit ranks of clergy thinned by pestilence of 1349, and completed (1351) scheme for founding college originated by Edmund Gonville, who died before it was fully established; died, perhaps from poison, at Avignon. [iii. 395]

BATEMAN, WILLIAM (1787-1835), archaeologist; excavated several barrows of Peak district and communicated results to 'Archæologia.' [iii. 395]

BATEMAN-CHAMPAIN, SIR JOHN UNDERWOOD (1835-1887), colonel; educated at Addiscombe; second lieutenant, Bengal engineers, 1853; captain, 1863; major, 1873; colonel, 1882; assistant principal at Thomason College, Rurki, India, 1857; served at Delhi, Agra, Cawnpore, and Lucknow, 1857-8; engaged on construction of electric telegraph to India through Russia, Turkey, and Persia, 1862-87; chief director of government Indo-European telegraph, 1870; K.O.M.G.; member of council of Royal Geographical Society and Society of Telegraph Engineers. [Suppl. i. 139]

BATES, HARRY (1850-1899), sculptor; studied under Jules Dalou at Lambeth, at Royal Academy, and under Rodin in Paris; A.R.A., 1892; executed much decorative work for metropolitan buildings. Among the most notable of his productions is the statue of Queen Victoria at Dundee. [Suppl. i. 140]

BATES, HENRY WALTER (1825-1892), naturalist; clerk in Ailsopp's offices, Burton-on-Trent, 1845; went with Alfred Russel Wallace to Para, 1848, and journeyed to the Tapajós and Upper Amazons, 1851-3, fixing his headquarters at Ega, 1854-9, and reaching St. Paulo, 1857; revealed by his researches in natural history over eight thousand species new to science; published 'Naturalist on the Amazons,' 1863; assistant secretary to Royal Geographical Society, 1864-92; F.L.S., 1871; F.R.S., 1881; president of Entomological Society, 1869 and 1878; edited several works on natural history and topography. [Suppl. i. 141]

BATES, JOAH (1741-1799), musician; scholar of Eton, 1766, and King's College, Cambridge, 1760; M.A., 1767; fellow and college tutor; private secretary to Lord Sandwich, first lord of admiralty; conductor to concerts of Ancient Music and, 1784, to Handel commemoration at Westminster; commissioner of customs; published 'Treatise on Harmony.' [iii. 397]

BATES, JOSHUA (1788-1864), financier; entered counting-house of W. R. Gray, merchant, of Boston, United States, America; began business, but became bankrupt on declaration of war with England, 1812; employed by Gray as general European agent; admitted partner in Baring Brothers, and ultimately became senior partner; appellant arbitrator, 1854, to joint commission for consideration of claims arising from peace of 1815. He was a great benefactor to city of Boston. [iii. 398]

BATES, SARAH (d. 1811), singer; wife of Joah Bates [q.v.]; studied singing in London under her husband and Sacchini, and was a successful concert singer, chiefly of sacred music. [iii. 399]

BATES, THOMAS (A. 1704-1719), naval surgeon in Mediterranean; distinguished himself during cattle plague (1714), of which he wrote an account; F.R.S., 1719. [iii. 399]

BATES, THOMAS (1775-1848), stockbreeder; farmed at Wark Eals, North Tyne, and Halton Castle, where he achieved renown as breeder of shorthorns; won many prizes at the Royal Agricultural Society's shows from 1839; contributed to newspapers letters chiefly on politics of agriculture. [Suppl. i. 144]

BATES, WILLIAM (1625-1699), presbyterian divine; B.A. King's College, Cambridge, 1647; held living of St. Dunstan's-in-the-West, London; ejected, 1662; royal chaplain and commissioner for Savoy conference, 1660; D.D. by royal mandate, 1661; made repeated unsuccessful efforts to obtain relief for nonconformists; published theological writings. [iii. 399]

BATESFORD, JOHN DE (d. 1319), judge; acted as justice of assize in several counties, 1293-1311; regularly summoned to parliament, 1295-1318. [iii. 400]

BATESON, THOMAS (1590?-1620?), musical composer; organist of Chester Cathedral, 1599; vicar-choral of cathedral of the Trinity, Dublin, 1609; Mus. Bac. Dublin; published two volumes of madrigals. [iii. 401]

BATESON, WILLIAM HENRY (1812-1881), divine; educated at Shrewsbury; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1836; fellow, 1837; senior bursar, 1846, and master, 1857; public orator, 1848; vice-chancellor, 1858. [iii. 401]

BATH, MARQUISE OF. [See THYNNE, THOMAS, first MARQUIS, 1734-1796; THYNNE, JOHN ALEXANDER, fourth MARQUIS, 1831-1896.]

BATH, EARLS OF. [See GRENVILLE, JOHN, 1638-1701; and PULTENEY, WILLIAM, 1684-1764.]

BATHE or BATHONIA, HENRY DE (d. 1260), judge of common pleas, 1258-50; served on commissions of assize for various counties, 1240-60; fined for corrupt practices, 1261; restored to favour, 1263. [iii. 402]

BATHE, JOHN (1610-1649), jesuit; studied at English college, Seville; entered Society of Jesus at Dublin, 1638; 'missioner' in residence at Drogheda, where he was shot by Cromwell's soldiers. [iii. 402]

BATHE, WILLIAM (1564-1614), jesuit; brought up in protestant religion, but subsequently became Romanist; educated at Oxford; entered jesuit novitiate of Tournai, c. 1596; after studying at Louvain and Padua, was appointed rector of Irish College at Salamanca; died at Madrid. His works include 'Introduction to Art of Music,' 1584, and 'Janua Linguarum,' 1611, a system for teaching languages. [iii. 403]

BATHER, EDWARD (1779-1847), divine; M.A. Oriel College, Oxford, 1808; vicar of Meol-Brace, 1804; archdeacon of Salop, and prebendary of Lichfield, 1828; published religious works. [iii. 403]

BATHER, LUCY ELIZABETH (1836-1864), writer for children, known as AUNT LUCY; daughter of Dr. Blomfield, bishop of London. [iii. 404]

BATHILDA, BALTECHILDIS, BALDECHILD, or BALDHILD (d. 878?), queen; wife of Clovis II, king of the Franks; of Saxon birth; carried off by pirates when young, and sold to Erchinwald, mayor of palace (840-c. 858), in times of Dagobert and his son, Clovis II; married, 649; became regent during last two years of her husband's reign, during which he was afflicted with madness, and during minority of her son; credited with procuring the murder of one Daiphinus, said to have been archbishop of Lyons. She gave generously to many ecclesiastical institutions. Her most cherished work was the reconstruction of nunnery of Chelles, to which she retired, c. 664. Three of her sons became Frankish kings. [iii. 404]

BATHURST, ALLEN, first EARL BATHURST (1684-1775); educated at Trinity College, Oxford; tory M.P. for Cirencester, 1705-12; raised to peerage, 1712; privy councillor, 1742; captain of band of pensioners, 1742-4; earl, 1772. [iii. 406]

BATHURST, BENJAMIN (1784-1809), diplomatist; son of Henry Bathurst (1744-1837) [q.v.]; secretary of legation at Leghorn; mysteriously disappeared while on mission from Vienna to England. [iii. 407]

BATHURST, HENRY, second EARL BATHURST (1714-1794); son of first earl; lawyer; B.A. Balliol College, Oxford, 1733; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1736; M.P. for Cirencester, 1735-54, solicitor-general and attorney-general to Frederick, prince of Wales, 1745; judge of common pleas, 1764; created Baron Apsley, 1771; lord chancellor, 1771-8; lord president of council, 1779-82. [iii. 407]

BATHURST, HENRY (A. 1814), archdeacon of Norwich, 1814; son of Henry Bathurst (1744-1837) [q.v.]; chancellor of church of Norwich, 1806. [iii. 409]

BATHURST, HENRY, third EARL BATHURST (1762-1834); son of second earl; tory statesman; master of mint, 1804; held seals of foreign office, 1809; president of board of trade; secretary for war and colonies; lord president of council, 1828-30. [iii. 408]

BATHURST, HENRY (1744-1837), bishop of Norwich; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; canon of Christ Church, Oxford, 1775; prebendary of Durham, 1795; bishop of Norwich, 1805. [iii. 408]

BATHURST, JOHN (1607-1659), physician to Oliver Cromwell; M.A. Pembroke College, Cambridge, 1621; M.D. and F.R.C.P., 1637; M.P. for Richmond, Yorkshire, 1656 and 1668. [iii. 409]

BATHURST, RALPH (1620-1704), divine; scholar of Trinity College, Oxford, 1637; B.A., 1638; fellow, 1640; ordained priest, 1644; M.D., 1654; though a royalist, was employed by state as physician to navy; among the originators of the Royal Society; abandoned medicine on Restoration; chaplain to king, 1663; president of Trinity, 1664; F.R.S., 1663; dean of Wells, 1670; he gave both pecuniary and personal help to the rebuilding of Trinity College; left miscellaneous writings in English and Latin. [iii. 409]

BATHURST, RICHARD (d. 1762), essayist; born in Jamaica; M.B. Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1746; subsequently army physician in West Indies; friend of Dr. Johnson, and member of the club at the King's Head; contributor to the 'Adventurer'; died at Havannah. [iii. 411]

BATHURST, THEODORE (d. 1651), Latin poet; nephew of Ralph Bathurst [q. v.]; educated at Pembroke College, Cambridge; translated Spenser's 'Shepherd's Calendar' into Latin verse (published 1653). [iii. 411]

BATHURST, WALTER (1764?-1827), navy captain; served under Rodney in West Indies, 1782; under Lord St. Vincent at Cadiz, 1793; captain, 1798; held commands in East Indies, Baltic, and Mediterranean; killed at Navarino. [iii. 412]

BATMAN, JOHN (1800-1840), reputed founder of colony of Victoria; born at Paramatta, New South Wales; formed company (1835) for colonising Port Phillip, whither he proceeded secretly to report on the district; made treaty with aboriginal chiefs for assignment of six hundred thousand acres, including site of Melbourne. The Sydney authorities refused to recognise the treaty, but several of Batman's party settled at Port Phillip, and, in 1837, Melbourne was founded. [iii. 412]

BATMAN, STEPHEN (d. 1584), translator and author; educated at Cambridge; domestic chaplain to Archbishop Parker; employed by Parker to collect library, now in Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; rector of Merstham, Surrey, 1573; published religious and historical works and translations. [iii. 414]

BATMANSON, JOHN (d. 1531), prior of Charterhouse; studied theology at Oxford; employed by Edward Lee in connection with his critical attack on Erasmus; prior of London Charterhouse, 1529; published religious works. [iii. 414]

BATT, ANTHONY (d. 1651), Benedictine monk at English monastery of Dieulouard, Lorraine; published devotional works. [iii. 415]

BATT, WILLIAM (1744-1812), scientist and medical writer; studied at Oxford, Montpellier (M.D., 1770), and Leyden; practised medicine at Genoa; professor of chemistry, Genoa, 1774-87; wrote medical treatises. [iii. 415]

BATTEL, ANDREW (f. 1589-1614), traveller; sailed with Captain Cocke for Rio de la Plata, 1589; driven by storm to St. Sebastian; captured by Indians and delivered to Portuguese; imprisoned at St. Paul-de-Loanda, and subsequently employed as trader at Longo and along coast; returned to England, 1605. [iii. 415]

BATTELEY, JOHN (1646-1708), divine; fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge; domestic chaplain successively to Archbishops Sancroft and Tillotson; chancellor of Brecknock, 1684; archdeacon of Canterbury, 1687, and prebendary, 1688; master of King's Bridge hospital, 1688; wrote work on ancient state of Isle of Thanet (published, 1711), and other treatises. [iii. 416]

BATTELEY, NICHOLAS (1648-1704), antiquary; brother of John Batteley [q. v.]; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1668; M.A. Peterhouse, 1672; held livings in Kent, 1680-5; published 'Antiquities of Canterbury,' 1703. [iii. 417]

BATTELEY, OLIVER (1697-1766), divine; son of Nicholas Batteley [q. v.]; B.D. Christ Church, Oxford, 1734; prebendary of Llandaff, 1757; edited John Batteley's works. [iii. 417]

BATTELL, RALPH (1649-1713), divine; D.D. comitis regis, Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1705; sub-dean of Chapel Royal; sub-almoner to Queen Anne; prebendary of Worcester, 1685; published religious works. [iii. 417]

BATTEN, ADRIAN (f. 1680), musician; educated in choir, Winchester Cathedral; vicar-choral, Westminster, 1614; organist and vicar-choral, St. Paul's, 1624; composed church music. [iii. 418]

BATTEN, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1667), admiral; obtained letters of marque for the Salutation, 1626; surveyor of the navy, 1638; second in command of Warwick's fleet, 1642; engaged in preventing assistance from reaching king by sea, 1643; resigned command, 1647, but resumed it on personal invitation of officers; joined Prince of Wales in Holland, where he was knighted; declined to serve against parliament and returned; reinstated surveyor of navy, 1660; M.P. for Rochester, 1661; master of Trinity House, 1663-7. [iii. 418]

BATTENBERG, PRINCE HENRY OF (1858-1896). [See HENRY MAURICE.]

BATTIE, WILLIAM (1704-1776), physician; educated at King's College, Cambridge; founded Battie scholarship, 1747; Craven scholar, 1726; M.A., 1730; M.D., 1737; F.O.P., 1738, Harveian orator, 1746; president, 1764; Lumeian orator, 1749-54; published editions of Aristotle and Isocrates, and several medical lectures. [iii. 420]

BATTINE, WILLIAM (1765-1836), lawyer and poet; fellow, Trinity Hall, Cambridge; LL.D. and fellow of College of Doctors of Law, London, 1786; advocate-general in high court of admiralty; chancellor of diocese of Lincoln; F.R.S., 1797; published 'Another Cain' (1822), a dramatic poem. [iii. 421]

BATTISHILL, JONATHAN (1738-1801), composer; chorister at St. Paul's; conductor of band at Covent Garden; member of Madrigal Society, 1758, and of Royal Society of Musicians, 1761; engaged in theatrical composition; set music to hymns by Charles Wesley; published church music and glees; buried in St. Paul's. [iii. 421]

BATTLE, RICHARD (1770-1856), chemist; medical attendant to Newcastle collieries; assistant surgeon in navy; apothecary in city of London. Introduced improvements in pharmaceutical operations. [iii. 422]

BATTY, ROBERT (d. 1848), topographical writer; son of Robert Batty (1763?-1849) [q. v.]; M.B. Caius College, Cambridge, 1813; served in Western Pyrenees and Waterloo campaign; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1825-32; published topographical works illustrated by himself. [iii. 422]

BATTY, ROBERT (1763?-1849), obstetric physician; M.D. St. Andrews, 1797; L.O.P., 1806; physician to lying-in hospital, Brownlow Street; edited 'Medical and Physical Journal.' [iii. 422]

BATY, RICHARD (d. 1758), divine; M.A. Glasgow, 1725; vicar of Kirkandrew-upon-Esk, 1732; had local fame as oculist; published religious works. [iii. 423]

BAUMBURGH, THOMAS DE (f. 1332), keeper of the great seal; held living of Emildon, Northumberland, 1328; joint-keeper of the great seal, 1332, 1334, 1338, and 1339-40. [iii. 423]

BAUME, PIERRE HENRI JOSEPH (1797-1876), socialist; born at Marseilles; educated at Naples; private secretary to King Ferdinand, c. 1815-25; acquired considerable wealth in England, which he bequeathed to philanthropic institutions in Isle of Man; gained reputation during Owenite socialistic agitation. [iii. 423]

BAVAND, WILLIAM (f. 1559), student of Middle Temple; published translation from Ferrarius Montanus. [iii. 424]

BAVANT, JOHN (f. 1552-1586), Roman catholic divine; M.A. Oxford, 1552; D.D. Rome; joined English mission, 1581; imprisoned in Wisbech Castle. [iii. 424]

BAWDEN, WILLIAM (1663-1692). [See BALDWIN.]

BAWDEN, WILLIAM (1762-1816), antiquary; vicar of Hooton Pagnel; translated part of Domesday Book (two volumes published, 1809-12). [iii. 424]

BAXENDELL, JOSEPH (1815-1887), meteorologist and astronomer; joint-secretary and editor to Manchester Literary and Philosophical Society, 1861; astronomer to Manchester Corporation from 1859; meteorologist to Southport Corporation; made important meteorological and terrestrial-magnetical researches; F.R.A.S., 1858; F.R.S., 1864. [Suppl. i. 145]

BAXTER, ANDREW (1686-1760), philosophical writer; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; travelled on continent, 1741-7, and made acquaintance of Wilkes, with whom he corresponded till death; published 'Enquiry into the Nature of the Human Soul' (1735). [iii. 425]

BAXTER, CHARLES (1809-1879), portrait and subject painter; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1834; member of Society of British Artists, 1842. [iii. 426]

BAXTER, SIR DAVID (1793-1872), manager of Sugar Refining Company, Dundee; became, on failure of his business (1826), partner with his father and brothers in a linen manufactory; successfully introduced power-loom weaving, 1836; created baronet, 1863. He was a generous benefactor of Dundee, and established several foundations in Edinburgh University. [iii. 436]

BAXTER, EVAN BUCHANAN (1844-1888), physician; born at St. Petersburg; studied at King's College, London, and Lincoln College, Oxford; M.D. London, 1870; professor of materia medica and therapeutics, King's College, London, 1874; F.R.C.P., 1877; wrote, edited, and translated medical works. [iii. 427]

BAXTER, JOHN (1781-1858), printer and publisher; first printer to use the inking roller, an appliance made under his superintendence at Lewes; his publications include 'Baxter's Bible.' [iii. 427]

BAXTER, NATHANIEL (fl. 1606), poet and preacher; probably educated at Magdalen College, Oxford; tutor in Greek to Sir Philip Sidney; warden of St. Mary's College, Yonghal, Ireland, 1692-9; vicar of Troy, Monmouthshire, 1602; published 'Sir Philip Sidney's "Ourania"' (1606) and puritanical controversial works. [iii. 428]

BAXTER, RICHARD (1615-1691), presbyterian divine; taught by Richard Wickstead, chaplain to council at Ludlow; after brief experience of court-life, studied for ministry at Wroxeter; was ordained and became head-master of a school at Dudley, 1638; assistant minister at Bridgnorth, Shropshire; lecturer at Kidderminster, 1641; sided with parliament and recommended the 'protestation,' 1642; retired to Gloucester and thence to Coventry, where he officiated as chaplain to garrison; chaplain to Colonel Whalley's regiment after 1645, and present at several sieges; returned to Kidderminster after living in retirement, where he wrote 'Aphorisms of Justification' (1649) and the 'Saint's Everlasting Rest' (1650); came to London, 1660; one of the king's chaplains; prepared the 'Reformed Liturgy' for Savoy conference; retired from church of England on passing of Act of Uniformity; suffered much ill-treatment under Charles II and James II; imprisoned, 1685-6, and fined by Judge Jeffreys on charge of libelling the church in his 'Paraphrase of New Testament' (1685); complied with Toleration Act. His numerous writings include 'Reliquiae Baxterianae,' an autobiography. [iii. 429]

BAXTER, ROBERT DUDLEY (1827-1875), political writer; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1849; entered his father's firm, Baxter & Co., parliamentary lawyers, 1860; published political works. [iii. 437]

BAXTER, ROGER (1784-1827), jesuit; entered Society of Jesus, 1810; missionary in Maryland and Pennsylvania, where he died; published religious works. [iii. 437]

BAXTER, THOMAS (fl. 1732), pseudo-mathematician; published 'The Circle Squared,' 1732. [iii. 437]

BAXTER, THOMAS (1782-1821), china painter; studied at Royal Academy; established a school of china painting in London, 1814. [iii. 437]

BAXTER, WILLIAM (1650-1723), scholar; nephew of Richard Baxter [q. v.]; educated at Harrow; schoolmaster at Mercers' School, London. Works include 'Anacreon,' 1696, an edition of 'Horace,' 1701, and a dictionary of British antiquities, 1719. [iii. 438]

BAXTER, WILLIAM (d. 1871), botanist; curator of Oxford botanic garden, 1813-54; associate of Linnean Society, 1817; published 'British Phanogamous Botany,' 1834-48. [iii. 438]

BAXTER, WILLIAM EDWARD (1825-1890), traveller; educated at Edinburgh University; partner in his father's mercantile firm of Edward Baxter & Co. (afterwards W. E. Baxter & Co.); liberal M.P. for Montrose burghs, 1855-56; secretary to admiralty, 1868-71; joint secretary of the treasury, 1871-3; privy councillor, 1878; published works on foreign travel. [Suppl. I. 146]

BAYARD, NICHOLAS (fl. 1300?), according to Bale and Pits a Dominican theologian at Oxford; D.D.; said by Quétif to have been a Frenchman of the thirteenth century. Merton College possesses a manuscript of his 'Distinctiones Theologicae.' [iii. 439]

BAYES, JOSHUA (1671-1746), nonconformist divine; itinerant preacher to churches around London; minister at Leather Lane, 1723; lecturer at Salters' Hall, 1732. Completed 'Epistle to Galatians' in Matthew Henry's unfinished 'Commentary.' [iii. 439]

BAYEUX, JOHN DE, or DE BAIJOCIS (d. 1249), justice itinerant for Cornwall, Devon, Somerset, and Dorset, 1218, and for Dorset, 1225. [iii. 440]

BAYEUX, THOMAS OF (d. 1100). [See THOMAS.]

BAYFIELD, RICHARD, alias SOMERSAM (d. 1531), martyr; Benedictine of abbey of Bury St. Edmunds, 1514; priest, 1515; chamberlain of the abbey, c. 1526; burnt at Smithfield for assisting Tyndall to import forbidden books. [iii. 440]

BAYFIELD, ROBERT (fl. 1668), physician, of Norwich; wrote religious and medical works, 1665-82. [iii. 440]

BAYLEE, JOSEPH (1808-1883), theological writer; M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1848; D.D., 1852; founded and was first principal, 1856-71, of St. Aidan's Theological College, Birkenhead; vicar of Shepscombe, Gloucestershire, 1871-83; published controversial and other theological works. [iii. 441]

BAYLEY, CORNELIUS (1751-1812), divine; methodist preacher; took orders, and was incumbent of St. James's Church, Manchester; D.D. Cambridge, 1800; published a Hebrew grammar. [iii. 441]

BAYLEY, SIR EDWARD OLIVE (1821-1884), Indian statesman; under foreign secretary to Indian government and deputy-commissioner of Gujarat, 1849, and of Kangra district, 1851; returned to England; called to bar, 1857; held several posts in Allahabad, 1857-8; Indian judge, 1859; temporary foreign secretary, 1861; home secretary, 1862-72; member of supreme council, 1873-8; K.C.S.I., 1877; published writings on Indian history and antiquities. [iii. 441]

BAYLEY, F. W. N. (1808-1853), first editor of 'Illustrated London News,' 1842; published miscellaneous works in verse and prose. [iii. 442]

BAYLEY, HENRY VINCENT (1777-1844), divine; educated at Eton; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1800; fellow, 1802; chaplain to Bishop Majendie of Chester, 1803; sub-dean of Lincoln, 1806-28; archdeacon of Stow and prebendary of Liddington, 1823; D.D., 1824; appointed to stall in Westminster Abbey, 1828. [iii. 442]

BAYLEY, SIR JOHN (1763-1841), judge; educated at Eton; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1792; judge of king's bench, 1808; judge of exchequer court, 1830-4; made baronet and privy councillor, 1834; published legal and religious works. [iii. 443]

BAYLEY, JOHN [WHITCOMB] (d. 1869), antiquary; junior clerk in Tower Record Office; chief clerk, 1819, and, later, sub-commissioner on the Public Records. Wrote and edited historical works, including 'History and Antiquities of Tower of London,' and an unfinished 'Parliamentary History of England.' [iii. 443]

BAYLEY, PETER (1778?-1823), miscellaneous writer; educated at Rugby and Merton College, Oxford; called to bar at Temple; published writings in verse and prose. [iii. 444]

BAYLEY, ROBERT S. (d. 1859), independent minister; pastor successively in Louth, Sheffield, and London; assisted in founding People's College, Sheffield; published miscellaneous writings. [iii. 444]

BAYLEY, THOMAS (1829-1863). [See BAYLIE.]

BAYLEY, THOMAS BUTTERWORTH (1744-1802), agriculturist and philanthropist; educated at Edinburgh; J.P. for county palatine of Lancaster; introduced many improvements in prison construction, sanitation, and agricultural methods. [iii. 445]

BAYLEY, WALTER (1629-1693), physician; educated at Winchester; fellow of New College, Oxford, 1680; M.D., 1683; canon of Wells; regius professor of physic, Oxford, 1681; physician to Elizabeth; F.O.P., 1681; published treatise on preservation of the eyesight. [iii. 445]

BAYLEY, WILLIAM BUTTERWORTH (1783-1860), Anglo-Indian; educated at Eton; entered Bengal civil service, 1799; registrar of Sudder court; judge at Burd-

wan, 1813; secretary in judicial and revenue department, 1814; chief secretary to government, 1819; member of supreme council, 1828; governor-general, 1828-30; returned to England; director, East India Company, 1833; chairman of court, 1840. [iii. 446]

BAYLIE, THOMAS (1682-1663), puritan divine; M.A., and fellow, Magdalen College, Oxford, 1811; B.D., 1821; rector successively of Manningford Bruce and Miltenhall, Wiltshire; ejected, 1660; set up conventicle at Marlborough. [iii. 446]

BAYLIES, WILLIAM (1724-1787), physician; M.D. Aberdeen, 1748; F.O.P. Edinburgh, 1757; practised at Dresden and Berlin; L.C.P. London, 1765; published remarks on waters at Stratford-on-Avon and Bath. [iii. 447]

BAYLIS, EDWARD (1791-1861), founder between 1838 and 1854 of several insurance offices, of which the English and Scottish Law alone still survives. [iii. 447]

BAYLIS, THOMAS HUTCHINSON (1823-1876), promoter of insurance offices; son of Edward Baylis [q. v.]; clerk in Anchor, and, in 1850, manager of Trafalgar insurance offices; founded several offices with varying success. [iii. 447]

BAYLY, ANSELM (d. 1794), critic and theologian; B.C.L. Christ Church, Oxford, 1749; minor canon of St. Paul's and Westminster, and sub-dean of Chapel Royal; published critical and theological works. [iii. 448]

BAYLY, BENJAMIN (1671-1720), divine; M.A. Oxford, 1695; rector of St. James's, Bristol, 1697-1720; published 'Essay on Inspiration' (1707). [iii. 448]

BAYLY, JOHN (d. 1633), chaplain to Charles I.; son of Lewis Bayly [q. v.]; guardian of Christ's Hospital, Ruthin. [iii. 448]

BAYLY, LEWIS (d. 1631), bishop of Bangor; D.D. probably of Exeter College, Oxford, 1613; vicar of Evesham; chaplain to Henry, prince of Wales; bishop of Bangor, 1616; brought into disfavour by his puritanism; published at beginning of seventeenth century 'Practice of Piety,' which won and retained extraordinary popularity. [iii. 448]

BAYLY, THOMAS (d. 1657?), royalist divine; son of Lewis Bayly [q. v.]; M.A. Magdalene College, Cambridge, 1631; sub-dean of Wells, 1638; incorporated M.A. Oxford, 1644; D.D.; assisted as commissioned officer in defence of Raglan Castle, 1646; converted to Roman catholicism in France; imprisoned for writings offensive to authorities of Commonwealth; subsequently settled at Douay and finally went to Italy; published religious works. [iii. 449]

BAYLY, THOMAS HAYNES (1797-1839), miscellaneous writer; educated at Winchester and St. Mary Hall, Oxford; abandoned original idea of entering church; produced songs, ballads, and dramatic pieces, including 'I'd be a butterfly,' 'She wore a wreath of roses,' and 'Perfection,' a successful farce; became involved in financial difficulties, 1831, and in a short time wrote thirty-six pieces for stage; published five novels. [iii. 451]

BAYLY, WILLIAM (1737-1810), astronomer; assistant at Royal Observatory; accompanied astronomical expedition sent by Royal Society to North Cape, 1769, and Cook's voyages, 1772 and 1776; head-master of Royal Academy, Portsmouth, 1785-1807; published observations made during his voyages. [iii. 452]

BAYNARD, ANN (1672-1697), daughter of Dr. Edward Baynard [q. v.]; noted for her learning and piety. [iii. 452]

BAYNARD, EDWARD (b. 1641), physician; studied at Leyden; honorary F.O.P. London, 1687; published 'Health, a Poem,' 1719. [iii. 453]

BAYNARD, FULK (A. 1226), itinerant justice in Norfolk. [iii. 453]

BAYNARD, ROBERT (d. 1331), justice; son of Fulk Baynard [q. v.]; frequently knight of shire for Norfolk, 1289-1327; justice of king's bench, 1327. [iii. 453]

BAYNBRIGG, CHRISTOPHER (1464?-1514). [See BAINBRIDGE.]

BAYNE, ALEXANDER, of Rires (d. 1797), Scottish lawyer; advocate, 1714; curator of Advocates' Library, and first professor of Scots law, Edinburgh University, 1722; published legal writings. [iii. 453]

BAYNE, PETER (1830-1896), journalist and author; M.A. Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1850; studied for ministry at Edinburgh; editor of 'Glasgow Commonwealth,' and, 1856, of 'Witness' (Edinburgh); editor of 'Dial,' 1860-2, and of 'Weekly Review,' the organ of English presbyterian church, 1862-5; leader-writer for 'Christian World,' and contributor to London periodicals and reviews; published essays and biographical, historical, and other works. [Suppl. i. 146]

BAYNE, WILLIAM (d. 1782), navy lieutenant, 1749; captain, 1760; at reduction of Martinique, 1762; served at Fort Royal, and off Chesapeake, 1781; killed in action with French. [iii. 454]

BAYNES, ADAM (1622-1670), captain in parliamentary army, and successively commissioner of excise and of customs; member of army and admiralty committees; several times M.P. for Leeds, and, 1659, for Appleby; imprisoned in Tower for treasonable practices, 1666. [iii. 454]

BAYNES, JAMES (1766-1837), watercolour painter; pupil of Romney; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1796-1837. [iii. 455]

BAYNES, JOHN (1758-1787), lawyer; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1777; fellow, 1779; M.A., 1780; studied law at Gray's Inn; became a zealous whig; published political writings in verse and prose. [iii. 455]

BAYNES, PAUL (d. 1617), puritan divine; fellow, Christ's College, Cambridge; refused absolute subscription and was compelled to leave university; successfully replied to charge of conducting conventicles; his religious writings were all published posthumously. [iii. 455]

BAYNES, RALPH (d. 1559), bishop; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1521; university preacher; opposed Latimer; professor of Hebrew at Paris; bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, 1554; D.D., 1555; deprived of bishopric, 1559; published a Hebrew grammar. [iii. 456]

BAYNES, ROGER (1546-1623), secretary to Cardinal Allen; abjured protestantism, c. 1579; secretary to Cardinal Allen at Rome; published 'Praise of Solitariness,' 1577, and 'The Baynes of Aquisgrane,' 1617. [iii. 456]

BAYNES, THOMAS SPENCER (1823-1887), philosopher; educated at Edinburgh, where he studied logic under Sir William Hamilton [q. v.]; graduate of London, 1850; teacher of philosophy at Philosophical Institution, Edinburgh, and assistant to Hamilton, 1850; editor of 'Edinburgh Guardian,' 1850-4; introduced to Carlyle by G. H. Lewes; assistant editor of 'Daily News,' 1858-64; professor of logic, metaphysics, and English literature, St. Andrews, 1864; wrote articles on Shakespeare's obscure and unfamiliar words and on his school-learning, which were collected as 'Shakespeare Studies,' 1894; superintended ninth edition of 'Encyclopaedia Britannica,' 1873-1887, being associated with Professor William Robertson Smith [q. v.] from 1880. [Suppl. i. 147]

BAYNEAM, JAMES (d. 1552). [See BAINHAM.]

BAYNING, first BARON (1728-1810). [See TOWNSEND, CHARLES.]

BAYNTON, SIR ANDREW (A. 1540), scholar; attended Knyvett on embassy from Henry VIII to the emperor; several times M.P. [iii. 457]

BAYNTON, THOMAS (d. 1820), surgeon at Bristol. Published works on ulcer and spinal diseases. [iii. 457]

BAYNTUN, SIR HENRY WILLIAM (1766-1840), admiral; captain, 1794; served in West Indies, Mediterranean, and at Buenos Ayres, 1794-1807; at Trafalgar, 1805; rear-admiral, 1812; vice-admiral, 1821; admiral, 1837; K.O.B., 1815; G.O.B., 1839. [iii. 457]

BAZALGETTE, SIR JOSEPH WILLIAM (1819-1891), civil engineer; pupil of Sir John Benjamin McNeill [q. v.]; engineer at Westminster, 1842; chief engineer to metropolitan board of works, 1855-89; carried out construction of metropolitan drainage system, 1858-75, and Thames embankment, 1863-74; M.L.O.E., 1838, president, 1884; C.B., 1871; knighted, 1874. He did much work in connection with metropolitan bridges, and published many valuable professional reports. [Suppl. i. 149]

BAZLEY, SIR THOMAS (1797-1885), manufacturer and politician; cotton-spinner and merchant in Manchester, 1826-62; member of council of Anti-Cornlaw League; chairman of Manchester Chamber of Commerce, 1845-59; M.P. for Manchester, 1858-80; created baronet, 1889; published pamphlets. [Suppl. i. 181]

BEACH or BROKE, JOHN (d. 1539), abbot; educated at Oxford; abbot of St. John's, Colchester, 1538, opposing its dissolution, 1539; subsequently attainted of treason, and perhaps hanged at Colchester. [iii. 458]

BEACH, THOMAS (d. 1737), poet; wine merchant at Wrexham; published 'Eugenio, or the Virtuous and Happy Life', 1737. [iii. 458]

BEACH, THOMAS (1738-1806), portrait-painter; pupil of Reynolds; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1785-1797. [iii. 458]

BEACH, THOMAS MILLER, (1841-1894), government spy, known as 'MAJOR LE CARON'; apprenticed as draper at Colchester; went to New York, 1861, and served with federalists under name of Henry le Caron; major, 1866; joined Fenian organisation; furnished English government with information about intended Fenian invasion of Canada, 1866; paid spy in United States, 1867-1869; military organiser of Irish republican army; reported to English government second Fenian invasion of Canada, 1868; betrayed to Canadian government plans of John O'Neill, the Fenian leader, and Louis Riel [q. v.], 1871; M.D. Detroit; practised medicine successfully at Detroit and Braidwood; retained confidence of Fenians; closely connected with Irish Land League agitation and Fenian movement in England, 1879, and communicated plans of the Clan-na-Gael to Mr. Robert Anderson, chief of criminal detective department in London; finally left America, 1888; gave evidence against Irish agitators at Parnell commission, 1889; published 'Twenty-five Years in Secret Service', 1892. [Suppl. i. 181]

BEACON. [See BECON.]

BEACONSFIELD, EARL OF (1804-1881). [See DISRAELI, BENJAMIN.]

BEADLE, JOHN (d. 1667), divine; educated at Cambridge; rector of Little Leighs and (1632) of Barnstone (1656); signed 'Essex Testimony'; published 'Journal of a Thankful Christian'. [iii. 459]

BEADON, SIR CECIL (1816-1881), Indian statesman; educated at Eton and Shrewsbury; entered Bengal civil service, 1836; under-secretary to Bengal government, 1843; represented Bengal presidency on commission on Indian postal system, 1850; successively secretary to Bengal government, home and foreign secretary to Indian government, member of governor-general's council and lieutenant-governor of Bengal; his deservedly brilliant reputation marred by unfortunate measures in regard to tea-planting in Assam, the disastrous mission to Bhutan, and failure (partly due to ill-health) in relieving the Orissa famine; returned to England, 1866; K.C.S.I. [iii. 459]

BEADON, FREDERICK (1777-1879), divine; son of Richard Beadon (1737-1824) [q. v.]; educated at Charterhouse and Trinity College, Oxford; presented to living of Weston-super-Mare; rector of North Stoneham, 1811; canon residentiary of Wells, 1812-75. [iii. 461]

BEADON, RICHARD (1737-1824), bishop; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1758; fellow and tutor; public orator, 1768; master of Jesus College, Cambridge, 1781; bishop of Gloucester, 1789, and of Bath and Wells, 1802. [iii. 462]

BEAL, SAMUEL (1825-1889), Chinese scholar; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1847; ordained priest, 1852; naval chaplain on China station; naval interpreter, 1856-8; professor of Chinese, University College, London, 1877; D.C.L. Durham, 1886; published translations from Chinese, and other writings. [Suppl. i. 183]

BEAL, WILLIAM (1816-1870), religious writer; educated at King's College, London, and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1847; LL.D. Aberdeen; vicar of Brooke, Norfolk, 1847; published religious works. [iv. 1]

BEALE, BARTHOLOMEW (fl. 1680), portraitist and physician; son of Mary Beale [q. v.]. [iv. 3]

BEALE, CHARLES (fl. 1689), portrait-painter, son of Mary Beale [q. v.]; retired from profession, 1689. [iv. 3]

BEALE, FRANCIS (fl. 1656), author of 'Royal Game of Chess Play', 1656. [iv. 1]

BEALE, JOHN (1603-1683?), scientific writer; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; M.A., 1636; rector of Yeovil, Somerset, 1660-83; F.R.S., 1663; chaplain to Charles II, 1666; wrote on Herefordshire orchards. [iv. 1]

BEALE, MARY (1632-1697), portrait-painter, née Oradock; perhaps a pupil of Sir Peter Lely, but more probably of Robert Walker; copied many of Lely's pictures. Her works include portraits of Charles II, Cowley, James, duke of Monmouth, and Milton. [iv. 2]

BEALE, ROBERT (1541-1601), diplomatist and anti-quary; compelled to leave England during Mary's reign, owing to his religious opinions; connected with English embassy in Paris, 1564; secretary to Walsingham, when ambassador resident there, 1570; M.P., Totnes, 1572; clerk to the council; sent by Elizabeth to Lutheran princes of Germany, to plead for toleration of Cryptocalvinists, who denied doctrine of ubiquity of the body of Jesus, 1577-8; acted as secretary of state during Walsingham's absence, 1578, 1581, and 1583; deputy to Walsingham when governor of Mines Royal, 1581; engaged in negotiating with Mary Queen of Scots between 1581 and 1584; M.P. for Dorchester, 1586, 1586, and 1588; notified Mary of sentence of death passed on her, 1586, and read warrant before her execution, 1587; served under Leicester in attempt to relieve Sluys, 1587; employed in negotiation with the States, 1589; banished from court and parliament for his attitude in debate upon supply and towards inquisitorial practices of bishops, 1592; M.P., Lostwithiel, Cornwall, 1592; envoy to treat for peace with Spain at Boulogne, 1600; wrote legal, historical, political, and other works; member of Elizabethan Society of Antiquaries. [iv. 3]

BEALE, THOMAS WILLERT (1828-1894), miscellaneous writer; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1863; studied music under Edward Roedel; managed operas in London and provinces; originated national music meetings at Crystal Palace; published songs, and piano-forte and dramatic pieces. [Suppl. i. 154]

BEALE, WILLIAM (d. 1651), royalist divine; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1610; fellow of Jesus College, 1611; M.A., 1613; archdeacon of Carmarthen, 1623; D.D., 1627; master of Jesus College, 1632, and of St. John's College, 1634; vice-chancellor of university, 1634; rendered considerable assistance to the king at outbreak of war, 1642; captured and imprisoned by Cromwell, 1642-5; ultimately went into exile in Spain, where he died. [iv. 7]

BEALE, WILLIAM (1784-1854), musician; chorister at Westminster Abbey; gentleman of Chapel Royal, 1816; organist to Trinity College, Cambridge, 1820, and to two London churches, 1821; composed glees and madrigals. [iv. 8]

BEALES, EDMOND (1803-1881), political agitator; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1828; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1830; equity draughtsman and conveyancer; achieved celebrity by his connection with Polish Exiles' Friends Society, Circassian Committee, Emancipation Society, Garibaldi Committee, and the Reform League, of which he was president at the time of the Hyde Park riots, July 1866; county court circuit judge, 1870. [iv. 9]

BEALKNAP or BELKNAP, SIR ROBERT DE (d. 1400?), judge; king's sergeant and justice of assize, 1366; commissioner for defence of Kentish coast; chief justice of common pleas; unsuccessful in quelling Wat Tyler's rebellion, 1381; knighted, 1386; exiled to Ireland for giving opinion unfavourable to parliament's action towards Michael de la Pole; recalled, 1397. [iv. 9]

BEANISH, NORTH LUDLOW (1797-1872), military writer; obtained commission in 4th Irish dragoons, 1816; subsequently attached to the vice-regal suite in Hanover. His works include translations of Count von Bismarck's military writings. [iv. 10]

BEAMONT, WILLIAM JOHN (1828-1868), divine; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1850; fellow, 1853; M.A., 1855; ordained, 1854; missionary in Palestine; chaplain in British army during Crimean war; published religious, oriental, and other works. [iv. 11]

BEAN or BEYN, SAINT (d. 1011), first bishop of Murchlach; perhaps identical with the Irish Mophlog, the day of each (16 Dec.) being the same. [iv. 12]

BEARBLOCK or BEREBLOCK, JOHN (d. 1566), draughtsman; educated at Oxford; M.A., 1565; senior proctor of the university, 1579; executed drawings of the Oxford colleges, which have been several times reproduced. [iv. 12]

BEAROROFF, PHILIP (1697-1761), antiquary; B.A. Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1716; fellow, Merton College, and M.A., 1719; B.D. and D.D., 1730; took orders; chaplain to the king, 1738; master of Charterhouse, 1753; prebendary of Wells, 1756; published antiquarian writings. [iv. 12]

BEARD, CHARLES (1827-1888), unitarian divine; son of John Rely Beard [q.v.]; B.A. London University, 1847; assistant at Hyde chapel, Gee Cross, Cheshire, 1850, and sole pastor, 1854-66; minister at Renshaw Street chapel, Liverpool, 1867-88; vice-president of University College, Liverpool; Hibbert lecturer, 1883; LL.D. St. Andrews, 1888; published religious writings. [Suppl. I. 154]

BEARD, JOHN (1716?-1791), actor and vocalist; trained in the King's chapel; appeared at Drury Lane as Sir John Loverule in 'The Devil to pay,' 1737; at Covent Garden in the 'Beggars Opera,' as Macheath, which became his favourite character, 1743; manager of Covent Garden Theatre, 1761; retired, 1767. [iv. 13]

BEARD, JOHN RELLY (1800-1876), unitarian minister; took charge of congregations at Salford, 1825, at Strangeways, Manchester, 1848-64, and at Sale, 1865-73; hon. D.D. Giessen University, 1838; first principal of Unitarian Home Missionary Board, Manchester; published religious and other works, which did much for the cause of popular education. [iv. 14]

BEARD, RICHARD (d. 1553-1574). [See BEARD.]

BEARD, THOMAS (d. 1632), puritan divine; educated at Cambridge; rector of Hengrave, 1598; master of Huntingdon hospital and grammar school, where Oliver Cromwell was educated under his care; J.P. for Huntingdonshire, 1630; D.D. Cambridge; wrote religious works, including the 'Theatre of Gods Judgements,' 1597. [iv. 14]

BEARD, WILLIAM (1772-1868), collector of bones, which he found in excavations in the neighbourhood of Hutton, Bleadon, and Sandford. His collection, containing many bones of great rarity, is now in the museum at Taunton Castle. [iv. 15]

BEARDMORE, NATHANIEL (1816-1872), engineer to works for draining and navigating river Lee, 1850; published writings on hydraulic engineering. [iv. 16]

BEARDSLEY, AUBREY VINCENT (1872-1898), artist in black and white; worked in architect's office, and later as clerk in office of Guardian Insurance Company; illustrated 'Morte d'Arthur'; contributed drawings to 'Pall Mall Budget'; art editor of 'Yellow Book,' 1894; joined Mr. Arthur Symonds in production of 'The Savoy' magazine, 1896. His work included designs for Oscar Wilde's 'Salome,' the 'Rape of the Lock,' 'Madeleine de Maupin,' and Ernest Dowson's 'Pierrot of the Minute.' [Suppl. I. 155]

BEATNIFFE, RICHARD (1740-1818), bookseller and topographer; journeyman bookbinder at Norwich, where he subsequently kept a secondhand bookshop; published 'Norfolk Tour,' 1772. [iv. 16]

BEATON or BETHUNE, DAVID (1494-1546), archbishop of St. Andrews; educated at St. Andrews, Glasgow, and Paris; abbot of Arbroath, 1523; bishop of Mirepoix in Foix, 1537; cardinal of San Stefano on Monte Cello; archbishop of St. Andrews, 1539; at an early age resident for Scotland at court of France; lord privy seal, 1528; chancellor, 1543; protonotary apostolic and legate a latere, 1543; murdered by John Leslie, in revenge for his condemnation of Wishart, one of the most popular preachers of Reformation. [iv. 17]

BEATON or BETHUNE, JAMES (d. 1539), archbishop of St. Andrews; M.A. St. Andrews, 1493; prior of Whitthorn and abbot of Dunfermline, 1504; bishop of Galloway; archbishop of Glasgow, 1509; archbishop of St. Andrews and primate, 1522; lord treasurer, 1505-6; chancellor, 1518-26; one of the regents during James V's minority. [iv. 18]

BEATON or BETHUNE, JAMES (1517-1603), archbishop of Glasgow; brother of David Beaton [q.v.]; educated in Paris; abbot of Arbroath; counsellor of queen regent during struggles with lords of congregation; on death of regent went to Paris, where he remained till death as Scottish ambassador; last Roman catholic archbishop of Glasgow, 1552. [iv. 19]

BEATSON, ALEXANDER (1759-1833), governor of St. Helena; ensign, Madras infantry, 1776; engineer and field officer; colonel, 1801; governor of St. Helena, 1808-1813; major-general, 1810; lieutenant-general, 1814; introduced in St. Helena improved system of agriculture and wrote miscellaneous works. [iv. 20]

BEATSON, BENJAMIN WRIGGLESWORTH (1803-1874), classical scholar; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and Pembroke College, Cambridge; M.A., 1828; fellow; published classical works. [iv. 20]

BEATSON, GEORGE STEWARD (d. 1874), surgeon-general; M.D. Glasgow, 1836; on army medical staff in Ceylon, 1839-51, and subsequently in Burmah and Turkey; surgeon-general and principal medical officer of European troops in India, 1863-8 and 1871; in charge of Netley Hospital, 1868; C.B., 1869. [iv. 21]

BEATSON, ROBERT (1742-1818), miscellaneous writer; educated for military profession; accompanied royal engineers against Rochefort, 1787, and to West Indies, 1769; retired, 1766; devoted himself to practical agriculture in Fifehire, on which, and on military and political subjects, he published works, including 'Political Index to the Histories of Great Britain and Ireland' (1786). [iv. 21]

BEATTIE, GEORGE (1786-1823), Scottish poet; son of a Kincardineshire crofter; established himself successfully as an attorney at Montrose; committed suicide from disappointment in love. His principal poems were contributed to the 'Montrose Review.' [iv. 22]

BEATTIE, JAMES (1735-1803), Scottish poet; son of a shopkeeper and small farmer; M.A. Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1753; schoolmaster and parish clerk at Fardoun, Kincardine; studied divinity at Aberdeen; master at Aberdeen grammar school, 1758; professor of moral philosophy and logic at Marischal College, 1760; published 'Original Poems and Translations,' 1761; formed acquaintance with Gray, 1765; published 'Essay on Truth,' 1770, and, anonymously, first book of the 'Minstrel,' 1771; met Dr. Johnson and members of his circle, 1771; hon. LL.D. Oxford, 1773; published second book of 'Minstrel,' 1774, 'Evidences of the Christian Religion,' 1786, and 'Elements of Moral Science,' 1790-93. [iv. 22]

BEATTIE, JAMES HAY (1768-1790), son of James Beattie [q.v.]; educated at Marischal College; M.A., 1786; appointed assistant and successor to his father in chair of moral philosophy and logic, Aberdeen, 1787. [iv. 25]

BEATTIE, WILLIAM (1793-1875), physician; studied medicine at Edinburgh; M.D., 1818; practised in Edinburgh, and subsequently in Cumberland; attended Duke of Clarence (afterwards William IV) on visits to Germany, 1822, 1826, and 1826; studied at Paris; L.R.C.P. London, 1827; practised at Hampstead, 1827-45. He was on terms of the closest friendship with Thomas Campbell, while the Countess of Blessington and Lady Byron were among his intimate acquaintances. His writings include several poems, a series of descriptive and historical works, illustrated by W. H. Bartlett [q.v.], and 'The Life and Letters of Thomas Campbell' (1849). [iv. 26]

BEATTY, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1849), surgeon; physician to Greenwich Hospital, 1806-40. Published, 1807, 'Narrative of Death of Lord Nelson,' whom he attended at Trafalgar; M.D. St. Andrews, and L.C.P., 1817; F.R.S., 1818; knighted, 1831. [iv. 37]

BEAUCHAMP, EARL. [See LYGON, WILLIAM, first EARL, 1747-1816; LYGON, FREDERICK, sixth EARL, 1830-1891.]

BEAUCHAMP, GUY DE, EARL OF WARWICK (d. 1315), lord ordainer; one of seven earls who signed letter rejecting pope's authority in Scottish questions, 1301; attended Edward II in his last campaign, 1307; took part in procuring Gaveston's banishment, 1308; chosen one of the ordainers, 1310; assisted Lancaster in capture of Gaveston, 1312, but took no part in his execution. [iv. 38]

BEAUCHAMP, HENRY DE, DUKE OF WARWICK (1425-1445), succeeded his father, Richard, earl of Warwick [q. v.], 1439; created duke, 1444. [iv. 28]

BEAUCHAMP, SIR JOHN DE, BARON BEAUCHAMP (d. 1388), steward of household to Richard II; beheaded for treason. [iv. 29]

BEAUCHAMP, RICHARD DE, EARL OF WARWICK (1382-1459), son of Thomas, earl of Warwick [q. v.]; K.B., 1389; succeeded his father, 1401; admitted to order of Garter between 1403 and 1420; visited Jerusalem and several European countries, 1408-10; lord high steward at Henry V's coronation, 1413; instrumental in suppressing lollard rising, 1414; deputy of Calais; accompanied English embassy to council of Constance, 1414; went with Henry V to France, 1415, and held important commands in the war; arranged truce preparatory to treaty of Troyes; charged with care of educating infant Henry VI, 1428; arranged truce with Scotland, 1430; lieutenant of France and Normandy, 1437; died at Rouen. [iv. 29]

BEAUCHAMP, RICHARD DE (1430?-1481), divine; son of Sir Walter de Beauchamp [q. v.]; bishop of Hereford, 1448; translated to Salisbury, 1450; chancellor of order of Garter, 1475; dean of Windsor, 1478. [iv. 31]

BEAUCHAMP, ROBERT DE (d. 1252), constable of Oxford and sheriff of the county, 1215; judge, 1234; justice itinerant, 1234 and 1238. [iv. 31]

BEAUCHAMP, THOMAS DE, EARL OF WARWICK (d. 1401), statesman; accompanied John of Gaunt in French campaign, 1373, and Richard in Scottish campaign, 1385; joined Gloucester and Arundel in opposing Richard, 1387; imprisoned for treason in Tower (the Beauchamp Tower being named after him), 1397; sentenced to forfeiture and imprisonment in Isle of Man; liberated on triumph of Henry IV, 1399. [iv. 32]

BEAUCHAMP, WALTER DE (d. 1236), castellan of Worcester and sheriff of Worcestershire, 1216; declared for Louis of France, 1216; excommunicated, but restored to offices by Henry III; itinerant justice, 1226 and 1227. [iv. 32]

BEAUCHAMP, SIR WALTER DE (fl. 1415), lawyer; fought in French wars of Henry IV and Henry V; knight of shire for Wiltshire, 1415; speaker of House of Commons, 1416. [iv. 33]

BEAUCHAMP, WILLIAM DE (d. 1260), judge; accompanied John's expedition to Poitou, 1214, and subsequently assisted baronial party; sheriff of Bedfordshire and Buckinghamshire, 1234-7; baron of exchequer, 1234. [iv. 33]

BEAULIERK, LORD AMELIUS (1771-1846), admiral; lieutenant, 1792; commander, 1793; at blockade of Toulon, 1794; on Irish coast, 1796; rear admiral, 1811; vice-admiral, 1819; commander-in-chief at Lisbon and on Portuguese coast, 1824-7, and at Plymouth, 1836-9; admiral, 1880; F.R.S.; K.C.B., 1816; G.O.B., 1831; G.O.B., 1836. [iv. 38]

BEAULIERK, LORD AUBREY (1710?-1741), post-captain; in Leeward Islands, 1731; in Mediterranean, 1734-5 and 1737-9; killed in attack on Boca Chica. [iv. 34]

BEAULIERK, CHARLES, first DUKE OF ST. ALBANS (1670-1728), son of Charles II by Nell Gwynn; created Duke of St. Albans, 1684; served in Imperial army against Turks, 1688, and under William III in Landen campaign, 1693; captain of band of pensioners; volunteer in Flanders, 1694 and 1697; dismissed from captaincy of pensioners by tory ministry, 1712, but restored by George I; K.G., 1718. [iv. 34]

BEAULIERK, LADY DIANA (1784-1808), amateur artist; eldest daughter of Charles Spencer, second duke of Marlborough; married second Viscount Bolingbroke, 1767; was divorced, and married Topham Beauclerk [q. v.], 1768. Her works include illustrations for Dryden's 'Fables.' [iv. 36]

BEAULIERK, TOPHAM (1739-1780), friend of Dr. Johnson; grandson of Charles Beauclerk, first duke of St. Albans; educated at Trinity College, Oxford; enjoyed friendship of Dr. Johnson after 1767; married Lady Diana Spencer, 1768. [iv. 36]

BEAUFU, BELLOFAGO, or BELLOFAGO, ROBERT DE (fl. 1190), secular canon of Salisbury; reputed author of 'Encomium Topographiae' and other works. [iv. 36]

BEAUFU or BELLO FAGO, ROGER DE (fl. 1305), judge; on commission of trailbaston for western circuit, 1305; summoned to attend Edward I at Berwick-on-Tweed on invasion of Scotland, 1301. [iv. 36]

BEAUFU, WILLIAM, otherwise DE BELLOFAGO, BELLOFAGO, BELFOU, GALBAGUS, VELSON (d. 1091), bishop of Thetford; consecrated by Lanfranc, 1086. [iv. 37]

BEAUFORT, DUKES OF. [See SOMERSET, HENRY, first DUKE, 1629-1700; SOMERSET, HENRY, second DUKE, 1684-1714; SOMERSET, HENRY, seventh DUKE, 1792-1853.]

BEAUFORT, DANIEL AUGUSTUS (1739-1821), geographer; son of Daniel Cornelius de Beaufort [q. v.]; M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1764; hon. LL.D., 1789; vicar of Colton, co. Louth, 1790-1821; published map of Ireland, 1792. [iv. 38]

BEAUFORT, DANIEL CORNELIUS DE (1700-1788), provost and archdeacon of Tuam; French refugee. [iv. 38]

BEAUFORT, EDMUND, second DUKE OF SOMERSET (d. 1455); younger brother of Duke John; held command in France, 1431; recaptured Harfleur from France, 1440; relieved Calais, and obtained earldom of Dorset, 1442; succeeded to earldom of Somerset, 1444, and to dukedom, 1448; lieutenant of France; during his term of rule most of the English ascendancy in France lost; returned, and, with Henry's support, carried on government; imprisoned in Tower on appointment of York as protector, 1453; killed at first battle of St. Albans. [iv. 38]

BEAUFORT, EDMUND, styled fourth DUKE OF SOMERSET (1438?-1471), son of Edmund Beaufort, second duke of Somerset [q. v.]; styled fourth duke after death of his brother, Henry Beaufort, third duke [q. v.], whose attainder, however, was not reversed, and whose titles consequently remained forfeit; fought for Lancastrians at Tewkesbury, and was taken prisoner and executed. [Suppl. i. 156]

BEAUFORT, SIR FRANCIS (1774-1857), rear-admiral and hydrographer; son of Daniel Augustus Beaufort [q. v.]; navy lieutenant, 1798; commander, 1800; surveyed entrance to Rio de la Plata, 1807; post-captain, 1810; surveyed coast of Karamania, 1811-12, and published results, 1817; hydrographer to navy, 1829-55; rear-admiral on retired list, 1846; K.C.B., 1848; prepared atlas used by Society for Diffusion of Useful Knowledge; F.R.S. and F.R.A.S. [iv. 39]

BEAUFORT, FRANCIS LESTOCK (1815-1879), son of Sir Francis Beaufort [q. v.]; author of the 'Digest of Criminal Law Procedure in Bengal' (1860). [iv. 41]

BEAUFORT, HENRY (d. 1447), bishop of Winchester; second and illegitimate son of John of Gaunt, by Catherine Swynford; declared legitimate by Richard II, 1397; read law at Aachen; received prebendal stalls at Lincoln, 1389 and 1391; dean of Wells, 1397; bishop of Lincoln, 1398; chancellor of Oxford University, 1399; chancellor, 1403-4; member of king's council, 1403; bishop of Winchester, 1404; exercised considerable influence over Prince of Wales, and thus came into conflict with Archbishop Arundel [q. v.], who in great measure guided the king's actions; chancellor on accession of Henry V, 1413; accompanied unsuccessful embassy to France with terms of peace, 1414; attended council at Constance, 1417, and effected change in the policy by which Henry V, in alliance with the Emperor Sigismund, had previously opposed the election of a pope until measures had been taken to reform church; nominated cardinal by Cardinal Colonna, the new pope (Martin V) elected after the council had pledged itself to reformation; forbidden by Henry V to accept the cardinalate; named guardian of the infant prince by Henry V on his deathbed, 1422; member of council, 1422; chancellor, 1424-6; nominated cardinal-priest of St. Eusebius, 1426; legate in Germany, Hungary, and Bohemia; assisted pope in Hussite war; employed in affairs of French kingdom, 1430-1; crowned Henry VI king of France, at Paris, 1431; defeated, with support of parliament, an attempt by Duke of Gloucester and his party to deprive him of his see on ground that a cardinal could not hold an English see, 1432; attempted unsuccessfully to arrange peace with France,

1439 and 1440, but did not discourage efforts to prosecute the war with vigour, lending large sums for equipment of expeditions. Buried in Winchester Cathedral, the building of which he completed. [iv. 41]

BEAUFORT, HENRY, third DUKE OF SOMERSET (1438-1484), son of Edmund Beaufort, second duke [q. v.]; succeeded to dukedom, 1465; lieutenant of Isle of Wight, 1457; nominated by Margaret captain of Calais in place of Earl of Warwick, 1469; was refused admission by Warwick and defeated at Newnham bridge (Neullay), 1460; defeated Yorkists at Wakefield, 1460, and at second battle of St. Albans, 1461; attainted, 1461; submitted to Edward, 1462; pardoned, 1463; returned to Margaret, 1464; captured and executed at Hexham, the act restoring his dignities being annulled. [Suppl. i. 157]

BEAUFORT, JOHN, first EARL OF SOMERSET and MARQUIS OF DORSET and of SOMERSET (1373?-1410), eldest son of John of Gaunt, by his mistress, Catherine Swynford [q. v.]; legitimated, 1397; served against Barbary, 1390; knighted, c. 1391; served with Teutonic knights in Lithuania, 1394; created Earl of Somerset and Marquis of Dorset and Somerset, and elected K.G., 1397; lieutenant of Aquitaine, 1397; admiral of the Irish fleet, 1398, and later of northern fleet; deprived of marquises on Richard II's fall, 1399; great chamberlain, 1399; privy councillor and captain of Calais, 1401; lieutenant of South Wales, 1403; deputy constable of England, 1404. [Suppl. i. 158]

BEAUFORT, JOHN, first DUKE OF SOMERSET (1403-1444), son of John Beaufort, son of John of Gaunt, by Catherine Swynford [q. v.]; earl of Somerset, 1419; duke, 1443; captain-general in Aquitaine and Normandy, 1443. [iv. 48]

BEAUFORT, MARGARET, COUNTESS OF RICHMOND AND DERRY (1443-1509), daughter and heiress of John, first duke of Somerset [q. v.]; married, 1455, Edmund Tudor, earl of Richmond (d. 1486); on outbreak of Wars of Roses retired to Pembroke, where she was detained in honourable confinement after triumph of Yorkists, 1461; married Henry Stafford, and subsequently Lord Stanley (afterwards Earl of Derby); took an active part in planning marriage of Henry with Elizabeth of York, and insurrections of 1484 and 1485, after which she lived chiefly in retirement; she instituted, on advice of John Fisher, the foundations bearing the name of 'Lady Margaret' at both universities, and Christ's (1505) and St. John's colleges, Cambridge (1508); she was an early patron of Caxton and Wynchyn de Worde. [iv. 48]

BEAUFORT, SIR THOMAS, DUKE OF EXETER (d. 1427), son of John of Gaunt, by Catherine Swynford [q. v.]; legitimated, 1397; admiral of fleet for northern parts, 1403; commanded royal forces in rebellion, 1405; captain of Calais, 1407; admiral of northern and western seas, 1409; chancellor, 1410-12; took prominent part in French wars, 1412-27; lieutenant of Normandy and K.G., 1416; created Duke of Exeter for life, 1416; relieved Roxburgh, 1417; captain of Rouen, 1419; negotiated treaty of Troyes, 1420; on council under Gloucester's protectorate. [iv. 49]

BEAUFORT, HENRY (d. 1795), whig politician; M.P. for Minehead, 1780, and Great Yarmouth, 1784 and 1790; advocated repeal of test and corporation acts, 1787-90; published political works. [iv. 50]

BEAUFORT, MARK (1764-1827), astronomer and physicist; principal founder of Society for Improvement of Naval Architecture, 1791; made valuable observations to determine laws of diurnal variation and on eclipses of Jupiter's satellites; received Astronomical Society's silver medal, 1827; colonel, Tower Hamlets militia, 1797; member of Royal Society (1815), and of Astronomical Society, and fellow of Linnæan Society. [iv. 51]

BEAULIEU, LUKE DE (d. 1793), divine; native of France; educated at Saumur; took refuge in England on account of his religion, 1687; chaplain to Judge Jeffreys, 1683-8; B.D. Christ Church, Oxford, and rector of Whitechurch, near Reading, 1686; published 'Cianstrum Animæ,' 1677-78, and other religious works. [iv. 52]

BEAUMONT, SIR ALBANIS (d. 1810?), engraver and landscape painter; born in Piedmont; published between 1787 and 1806 many views in South of France, the Alps, and Italy, some of which were coloured by Bernard Long the elder. [iv. 53]

BEAUMONT, BASIL (1669-1708), rear-admiral; lieutenant, 1688; captain, 1689; commanded squadron off Dunkirk, 1686; senior officer at Spithead, 1699; commanded squadron in the Downs and North Sea, 1689-1703; rear-admiral, 1703; drowned in wreck on Goodwin Sands. [iv. 53]

BEAUMONT, FRANÇOIS (d. 1598), judge; educated at Peterhouse, Cambridge; called to the bar at Middle Temple; autumn reader, 1581; serjeant-at-law, 1589; M.P. for Aldborough, 1572; judge of common pleas, 1593. [iv. 54]

BEAUMONT, FRANÇOIS (1584-1616), dramatist; son of Francis Beaumont (d. 1598) [q. v.]; educated at Broadgates Hall (afterwards Pembroke College), Oxford; entered Inner Temple, 1600; made acquaintance of Drayton and Jonson, for several of whose plays he wrote commendatory verses; wrote conjointly with John Fletcher from about 1606 to 1616; the first collected edition of Beaumont and Fletcher's plays appeared in 1647. [iv. 54]

BEAUMONT, SIR GEORGE HOWLAND (1753-1827), art patron and landscape painter; educated at Eton and New College, Oxford; M.P. for Beeralston, 1790-8; acquainted with Dr. Johnson, Reynolds, Scott, Wordsworth, Byron, and Coleridge; presented several valuable pictures to the National Gallery, the foundation of which owed much to his endeavours. His own paintings do not rise above mediocrity. [iv. 56]

BEAUMONT, HENRY (1612-1673). [See HARCOURT.]

BEAUMONT, JOHN (fl. 1560), master of rolls; legal adviser to corporation of Leicester, 1530; on commission for ecclesiastical survey of Leicestershire, 1534; reader, 1537, double reader, 1543, and treasurer, 1547, of Inner Temple; recorder of Leicester and master of rolls, 1550; deprived of his offices and fined for grossly abusing his position for his own advantage, 1552. [iv. 57]

BEAUMONT, SIR JOHN (1583-1627), poet; son of Francis Beaumont (d. 1598) [q. v.]; educated at Broadgates Hall (now Pembroke College), Oxford; entered Inner Temple; published 'Metamorphosis of Tobacco,' 1602; made baronet on his introduction to the king by Buckingham, 1626. His poems were published by his son under the title 'Boesworth Field, with other poems,' 1629. The work on which he probably spent most labour, a poem entitled 'The Crown of Thorns,' has disappeared. [iv. 58]

BEAUMONT, JOHN (d. 1701), colonel; attended Charles II in exile, and was employed at James II's court; as lieutenant-colonel cashiered by court-martial for opposing admission of Irishmen into his regiment, 1688; accompanied Prince of Orange at his landing; fought as colonel at battle of Boyne, in Flanders, and in Holland. [iv. 59]

BEAUMONT, JOHN (d. 1731), geologist and writer on spiritualism; surgeon at Stone-Easton, Somerset; wrote letters to Royal Society on 'Rock-plants in Lead Mines of Mendip Hills,' 1676 and 1683; F.R.S., 1685; published 'Treatise of Spirits and Magical Practices,' 1705. [iv. 60]

BEAUMONT, JOHN THOMAS BARBER (1774-1841), founder of insurance offices; founded County Fire and Provident Life offices, 1807; in early life secured medals for historic painting from Royal Academy and Society of Arts. [iv. 60]

BEAUMONT, JOSEPH (1616-1699), master of Peterhouse; B.A. Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1634; fellow, 1636; M.A., 1638; ejected from Cambridge, as royalist, 1644; published 'Psyche,' an epic poem, 1648; canon of Ely, 1646; domestic chaplain to Wren, bishop of Ely, 1650; D.D. and chaplain to king, 1660; master of Jesus College, 1662, and of Peterhouse, 1663; regius professor of divinity, 1674. [iv. 61]

BEAUMONT, JOSEPH (1794-1855), Wesleyan minister; became widely known as an eloquent preacher on circuit; minister successively at Edinburgh (where he graduated M.D.), Hull, Liverpool, London, Nottingham, and Bristol. [iv. 62]

BEAUMONT, LOUIS DE (d. 1333), bishop of Durham; said to have been related to kings of France, Sicily, and England; born in France; treasurer of Salisbury Cathedral, c. 1301; prebendary of Auckland; consecrated bishop of Durham, 1318; the remainder of his life was principally occupied with bickerings with the prior and chapter of St. Mary's, Durham, and Archbishop Melton of York. [iv. 63.]

BEAUMONT, PHILIP (1663-1635). [See TESIMOND, OSWALD.]

BEAUMONT, ROBERT DE (d. 1118), count of Meulan; distinguished himself at Senlac, 1066, and was rewarded with land in Warwickshire; became one of the most prominent laymen under William II, whom he assisted in his struggle in Normandy with Robert, 1096, and in invasion of France, 1097; became Henry I's 'trusted counsellor'; despatched on mission to Normandy, 1103; fought at Tenchebrai, 1106. [iv. 64]

BEAUMONT, ROBERT DE, EARL OF LEICESTER (1104-1168), justiciary of England; son of Robert de Beaumont (d. 1118) [q. v.]; Stephen's chief adviser with his twin-brother, 1137; took active part in civil war, 1139; secured interest with Angevin party on Stephen's defeat, 1141; founded abbey of St. Mary de Pré, Leicester; chief justiciar under Henry II, 1155 and 1156; regent during Henry's absence, 1158-63, and 1165. [iv. 66]

BEAUMONT, ROBERT DE, EARL OF LEICESTER (d. 1180), son of Robert de Beaumont (1104-1168) [q. v.]; joined Prince Henry in rebellion against Henry II, 1173; his English fiefs confiscated and Leicester burned; imprisoned at Falaise, 1173-4; restored in blood and honours, 1177; went on pilgrimage to Palestine, 1189, and died in Greece on his return journey. [iv. 67]

BEAUMONT, ROBERT (d. 1567), divine; educated at Westminster and Peterhouse, Cambridge; B.A. and fellow, 1544; M.A., 1550; during Mary's reign fled to Zurich; Margaret professor of divinity, Cambridge, 1559; master of Trinity College, 1561; D.D., 1564; vice-chancellor of university, 1565 and 1566; canon of Ely, 1564; he was a prominent figure in the Calvinist opposition at Cambridge to ordinances of Elizabeth and Parker. [iv. 68]

BEAUMONT, ROBERT (fl. 1639), essayist; author of 'Love's Missives to Virtue', published 1660. [iv. 69]

BEAUMONT, THOMAS WENTWORTH (1792-1848), politician; educated at Eton and St. John's College, Cambridge; B.A., 1813; M.P. for Northumberland, 1818-1826, and South Northumberland 1830-7; joint-founder of 'Westminster Review.' [iv. 69]

BEAUMONT, WALERAN DE, COUNT OF MEULAN (1104-1166), warrior; brother of Robert de Beaumont, earl of Leicester (1104-1168) [q. v.]; joined movement in favour of William 'Clito' and Anjou, 1112, and was imprisoned for five years; espoused Stephen's cause, 1136, and became his chief adviser; joined Geoffrey of Anjou, 1143; went on pilgrimage to Jerusalem, 1145; assisted Matilda against Stephen, 1150. [iv. 69]

BEAUVALE, BARON (1782-1853). [See LAMB, FREDERICK JAMES.]

BEAVER, PHILIP (1766-1813), navy captain; lieutenant, 1783; accompanied unsuccessful expedition for colonising island of Bulama, near Sierra Leone, 1792-4; took part in conquest of Cape of Good Hope, 1795, and in reduction of Ceylon; commander, and, later, assistant-captain of fleet under Lord Keith, 1799; commanded at bombardments of Genoa, 1800; post-captain in Egypt, 1800-1; placed in charge of Essex sea fencibles, 1803; in West Indies, 1806-9; assisted in reduction of Mauritius, 1810; served in Mozambique and on Madagascar coast, 1811-12; died at Table Bay. [iv. 70]

BEAVER, EDMOND (d. 1745), navy captain; lieutenant, 1734; served in West Indies; captain, 1743; lost in a storm while engaged against Scottish rebels, 1745. [iv. 73]

BEAZLEY, SAMUEL (1786-1851), architect and playwright; served as volunteer in Peninsula; designed several London theatres; wrote upwards of a hundred dramatic pieces. [iv. 72]

BECHER, SIR HENRY THOMAS DE LA (1790-1855), geologist; entered military school at Marlborough, 1810, but left army at peace of 1815; studied geology in Dorset, France, Switzerland (1824), Jamaica, publishing papers embodying results of his investigations; began at his own expense geological map of England; was appointed, 1832, by government to conduct geological survey, and ultimately secured the erection of the Jermyn Street museum, opened 1851; president of Geological Society, 1847; knighted,

1848; received Wollaston medal, 1855; published geological works. [iv. 73]

BECHER, ELIZA, LADY (1791-1872), actress, née O'Neill; first appeared at Drogheda Theatre and subsequently made her mark as Juliet at Dublin; played Juliet at Covent Garden, 1814, and soon achieved success in tragic characters; married, 1819, William Becher, M.P., afterwards baronet, and retired from stage. [iv. 74]

BECHER, HENRY (fl. 1561), translator; vicar of Mayfield; translated into English two books of 'St. Ambrose de Vocatione Gentium.' [iv. 75]

BECHER, JOHN THOMAS (1770-1848), divine and social economist; educated at Westminster and Oxford; M.A., 1795; successively vicar of Rumpston and of Midsummer Norton; prebendary, 1818, and subsequently vicar-general of Southwell; rector of Barnborough, 1830; wrote on questions relating to social economy. [iv. 75]

BECK. [See also BEK.]

BECK, CAVE (1623-1706?), writer on pasigraphy; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge; incorporated M.A. Oxford, 1643; master of free grammar school, Ipswich, 1655-7; rector of St. Helen's and perpetual curate of St. Margaret's, Ipswich, 1662; published 'The Universal Character' (1657), a system for universal language both for writing and speaking. [iv. 76]

BECK, DAVID (d. 1656), portrait-painter; born at Delft; pupil of Vandyck; worked at courts of England, France, and Denmark, and subsequently entered service of queen of Sweden. [iv. 77]

BECK, THOMAS ALOOCK (1795-1846), author of 'Annales Furnesienses' (1844), an exhaustive history of Furness abbey. [iv. 77]

BECKE, EDMUND (fl. 1550), divine; ordained, 1551; supervised editions of the bible with annotations, 1549 and 1551. [iv. 77]

BECKER, LYDIA ERNESTINE (1827-1890), advocate of women's suffrage; secretary, 1867, of Manchester women's suffrage committee, which was merged in the same year in Manchester National Society for Women's Suffrage, Miss Becker continuing as secretary; editor of 'Women's Suffrage Journal', 1870-90; member of Manchester school board from 1870; published pamphlets on women's suffrage. [Suppl. i. 159]

BECKET, THOMAS (1118?-1170), archbishop of Canterbury. [See THOMAS.]

BECKET, WILLIAM (1684-1738), surgeon and antiquary; F.R.S., 1718; original member of Society of Antiquaries, 1717; surgeon to St. Thomas's Hospital, Southwark; published historical and practical works on surgery. [iv. 78]

BECKETT, GILBERT ARTHUR A. (1837-1891). [See A. BECKETT.]

BECKETT, ISAAC (1653-1719), mezzotint engraver; associated with Lutterel as mezzotint engraver; executed, between 1681 and 1688, subject plates and portraits of celebrities. [iv. 78]

BECKFORD, PETER (1740-1811), sportsman and master of foxhounds; published 'Thoughts upon Hare and Fox Hunting,' 'Essays on Hunting,' 1781, and 'Familiar Letters from Italy,' 1806; M.P. for Morpeth, 1768. [iv. 79]

BECKFORD, WILLIAM (1709-1770), lord mayor of London; born in Jamaica, of which colony his father was governor; educated at Westminster; attained considerable eminence as merchant in London; alderman of Billingsgate ward, 1752; M.P. for city of London, 1764, 1761, and 1768; sheriff of the city, 1755; lord mayor, 1762 and 1769; strongly supported Wilkes when charged with libel in the 'North Briton,' 1763; presented an address to the king complaining of a false return made at the Middlesex election, 1770, and replied to the king's curt answer with an impromptu speech, which was subsequently inscribed on a monument erected in his honour in Guildhall; laid first stone of Newgate, 1770; master of the Ironmongers' Company, 1768. [iv. 80]

BECKFORD, WILLIAM (d. 1799), historian; published works relating to Jamaica, where he lived many years, and a history of France (1794). [iv. 82]

BECKFORD, WILLIAM (1759-1844), author of 'Vathek'; son of William Beckford (1709-1770) [q. v.]; travelled in Europe with a private tutor; wrote 'Vathek' in French, 1781 or 1782, of which an anonymous translation in English (perhaps by Rev. S. Henley) was published, 1784, and the first French edition, 1787; spent some time in Paris, Lausanne, and Cintra; M.P. successively for Wells and Hindon, from which constituency he retired in 1794, but again represented it, 1806-20; lived in almost complete seclusion at his family mansion of Fonthill Giffard, where he spent large sums in fantastic decoration and in collecting works of art and curios; compelled by extravagance to dispose of Fonthill, 1822. His publications include letters written in various parts of Europe and a translation of the oriental tale 'Al Raouï.' [iv. 82]

BECKINGHAM, CHARLES (1699-1731), dramatist; educated at Merchant Taylors' School; wrote poems and two plays, 'Scipio Africanus' (1718) and 'Henry IV of France' (1719), which were produced at Lincoln's Inn Fields theatre. [iv. 85]

BECKINGHAM, ELIAS DE (d. 1305?), king's sergeant and justice for Middlesex, 1274; justice of common pleas, 1288-1305. [iv. 85]

BECKINGTON, THOMAS (1390?-1485), bishop and statesman; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; fellow, 1408-20; entered service of Humphrey, duke of Gloucester, 1420; prebendary of York, 1423; canon of Wells, 1439; master of St. Katherine's Hospital, London; dean of arches, 1423; prolocutor of convocation, c. 1433-8; accompanied embassies to France and to the court of John, count of Armagnac, between 1432 and 1442; king's secretary, c. 1439; lord privy seal, c. 1443; bishop of Bath and Wells, 1443. He adorned the city of Wells with many fine buildings. [iv. 86]

BECKINSALL, JOHN (1496?-1559). [See BEKINSAU.]

BECKLEY, WILLIAM (d. 1438), Carmelite; probably graduated D.D. at Cambridge, where he spent many years; head of Carmelite friary at Sandwich; wrote theological works. [iv. 87]

BECKMAN, SIR MARTIN (d. 1709), colonel, chief engineer and master gunner of England; Swedish captain of artillery; entered service of Charles II as engineer, 1660; accompanied Lord Sandwich's expedition to Algiers and Tangiers, 1661-2; third engineer of Great Britain, 1670, second engineer, 1681, and chief engineer, 1685; accompanied Prince Rupert to Holland, 1673; on commission for strengthening fortifications of Portsmouth, 1678; major; served with Lord Dartmouth at Tangiers, 1683; knighted, 1685; head of royal laboratory at Woolwich, 1688; served under Major-general Thomas Tollemache [q. v.] in Ireland and France, 1691-4, and was colonel commanding ordnance train for sea expedition, 1692; commanded ordnance trains in expeditions against Gibraltar and France, 1695-6. [Suppl. i. 160]

BECKWITH, SIR GEORGE (1753-1823), lieutenant-general; ensign, 37th regiment, 1771; lieutenant, 1775; major, 1781; took prominent part in American war, 1776-82; lieutenant-colonel, 1790; colonel, 1795; lieutenant-general, 1806; governor of Bermuda and commandant, 1797; governor of St. Vincent, 1804, and of Barbados, 1808; completed conquest of Martinique, 1809, and Guadaloupe, 1810; K.B., 1809; commanded forces in Ireland, 1818-20. [iv. 88]

BECKWITH, JOHN CHARLES (1789-1862), major-general; nephew of Sir George Beckwith [q. v.]; ensign, 1803; lieutenant, 1805; served in Hanover and, under Moore, in Peninsula; captain, 1808; accompanied Walcheren expedition; with Wellington in Portugal, 1810; deputy assistant quartermaster-general; lost his leg at Waterloo, and was made lieutenant-colonel and O.B., 1815; settled in Piedmont among the Waldenses and devoted his life to educating them and reawakening in them the evangelical faith; major-general, 1846. [iv. 89]

BECKWITH, JOHN CHRISTMAS (1759-1809), organist; organist of St. Peter Mancroft's, Norwich, 1794, and of Norwich Cathedral, 1808-9; Mus. Doc. Oxford, 1808; published chants adapted to the Psalms (1806). [iv. 90]

BECKWITH, JOSTIAH (fl. 1784), antiquary; educated as attorney; produced enlarged edition of Blount's 'Fragmenta Antiquitatis,' 1784. [iv. 90]

BECKWITH, SIR THOMAS SYDNEY (1772-1831), lieutenant-general; brother of Sir George Beckwith [q. v.]; lieutenant, 71st regiment in India, 1791; captain, 1794; major in Manningham's rifle brigade (the 95th) at Copenhagen, 1802; lieutenant-colonel, 1803; accompanied expedition to Hanover, 1806; served in Denmark, 1807, and Peninsula, 1808-11; assistant quartermaster-general in Canada, 1812; major-general and K.C.B., 1814; colonel of rifle brigade, 1827; commander-in-chief at Bombay, 1829; lieutenant-general, 1830. [iv. 90]

BECON, JOHN (d. 1587), divine; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1564; university orator, 1571-3; proctor, 1571-2; canon (1574) and chancellor (1575) of Norwich; LL.D., 1576; precentor of Chichester, 1579; prebendary of Lichfield, 1581; joint-chancellor of Lichfield and Coventry, 1582. [iv. 92]

BECON or BEACON, RICHARD (fl. 1594), Irish administrator and author; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1578; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1585; attorney for province of Munster, 1586-91; published political pamphlet on Ireland, 1594. [iv. 92]

BECON, THOMAS (1512-1567), protestant divine; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1530; vicar of Brenzett, Kent; manifested sympathy with Reformation, and was compelled to recant, 1541 and 1543; supported himself by teaching; rector of St. Stephen, Walbrook, 1548; chaplain to Cranmer and Protector Somerset, and preacher in Canterbury Cathedral; on Edward's death committed to Tower as 'seditious preacher,' 1553-4, and ejected from his living as married priest; on release, retired to Strasburg; returned to England, 1558, and was restored to his benefice and priesthood; D.D. Cambridge; published religious works, most of which were 'proclaimed' as 'heretical' by Roman catholic authorities. [iv. 92]

BEDDOES, THOMAS (1760-1808), physician; M.D. Pembroke College, Oxford; studied medicine at London and Edinburgh; reader in chemistry at Oxford, 1789-92; succeeded in establishing at Clifton a 'Pneumatic Institute' for the treatment of disease by inhalation, 1798; married Anna, sister of Maria Edgeworth; wrote and edited several medical and other works. [iv. 94]

BEDDOES, THOMAS LOVELL (1803-1849), poet and physiologist; son of Thomas Beddoes [q. v.]; educated at Charterhouse and Pembroke College, Oxford; published 'The Bride's Tragely' (written in 1819), which enjoyed considerable success, 1822; graduated B.A., and began 'Death's Jest Book,' 1825; studied physiology under Blumenbach at Göttingen; M.A. Oxford, 1828; M.D. Würzburg University, 1832; settled at Zurich, 1835; took great interest in cause of liberal politics, and was compelled to fly to Berlin from the anti-liberal insurgents at Zurich, 1841; from 1842 to 1848 lived much on continent; died at Bale. 'Death's Jest Book' was published in 1850, and a volume of his poems and fragments in 1851. [iv. 95]

BEDDOME, BENJAMIN (1717-1795), hymn-writer; baptist minister at Bourton-on-the-Water, Gloucestershire, 1740-95. Wrote hymns, a volume of which was published in 1818. [iv. 97]

BEDE or BEDA (673-735), historian and scholar; placed under charge of Benedict Biscop, abbot of Wearmouth, and of Ceolfrith, abbot of Jarrow; ordained deacon, 692, and priest, 703; spent his life mainly at Jarrow from the time when Ceolfrith was appointed abbot; being a diligent teacher and Latin, Greek, and Hebrew scholar, found many pupils among the monks of Wearmouth and Jarrow; buried at Jarrow, but his bones were taken to Durham during the first half of the eleventh century. The epithet 'Venerable' was first added to his name in the century following his death. His 'Historia Ecclesiastica' was brought to an end in 731, and by that year he had written nearly forty works, chiefly biblical commentaries. The treatise 'De Natura Rerum,' one of his earliest works, contains such physical science as was then known, and has the merit of referring phenomena to natural causes. Collective editions of his works were printed at Paris, 1545 and 1554, Basle, 1563, Cologne, 1612, London, 1845-4, and in J. F. Migne's 'Patrologiae Cursus Completus,' Paris, 1844. [iv. 98]

BEDEL, HENRY (A. 1571), divine; probably M.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1566; vicar of Christ Church, London, 1567-76. [iv. 105]

BEDDLE, WILLIAM (1571-1642), bishop; scholar of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1585; M.A., 1592; fellow, 1593; ordained priest, 1597; B.D. 1599; appointed to church of St. Mary's, Bury St. Edmund's, 1602-7; chaplain to Sir Henry Wotton at Venice, 1607-10; rector of Horningheath, 1616; provost of Trinity College, Dublin, 1627; bishop of Kilmore and Ardagh (co. Longford), 1629; resigned see of Ardagh, 1633; died from hardships endured during rebellion of 1641. [iv. 105]

BEDEMAN or STEVINE, LAWRENCE (A. 1372-1410), scholar; fellow, and rector (1379-80) of Stapeldon Hall (now Exeter College), Oxford; suspended from preaching as advocate of Wycliffe's doctrines, 1382; rector of Lifton, Devonshire, 1382-1410. [iv. 108]

BEDERIC or DE BURY, HENRY (A. 1380), theologian; entered Augustinian monastery at Clare, Suffolk; studied probably at Oxford and Cambridge and at Paris, where he graduated D.D.; provincial in England; wrote theological works. [iv. 109]

BEDFORD, DUKES OF. [See JOHN OF LANCASTER, 1389-1435; TUDOR, JASPER, 1431?-1495; RUSSELL, WILLIAM, first DUKE of the RUSSELL family, 1613-1700; RUSSELL, JOHN, fourth DUKE, 1710-1771; RUSSELL, FRANCIS, fifth DUKE, 1765-1806; RUSSELL, JOHN, sixth DUKE, 1766-1839; RUSSELL, FRANCIS CHARLES HASTINGS, ninth DUKE, 1819-1891.]

BEDFORD, EARLS OF. [See RUSSELL, JOHN, first EARL, 1486?-1555; RUSSELL, FRANCIS, second EARL, 1527?-1585; RUSSELL, FRANCIS, fourth EARL, 1593-1641.]

BEDFORD, COUNTESS OF (d. 1627). [See RUSSELL, LUCY.]

BEDFORD, ARTHUR (1668-1745), miscellaneous writer; M.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1691; incumbent of Temple Church, Bristol, 1692, and Newton St. Loe, Somerset, 1700; joined Collier in crusade against the stage, and issued several tracts; chaplain to Haberdashers' Company's hospital at Hoxton, 1724; chaplain to Frederick, prince of Wales; published works on music, chronology, and other subjects. [iv. 109]

BEDFORD, FRANÇOIS (1799-1893), bookbinder; entered workshop of Charles Lewis [q. v.]; in partnership with John Clarke of Frith Street, Soho, 1841-50; went to Cape of Good Hope, 1851, and subsequently established himself in Blue Anchor Yard, Westminster. [Suppl. i. 162]

BEDFORD, HILKIAH (1663-1724), nonconformist divine; educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; fellow; rector of Wittering; ejected at the revolution; chaplain to Dr. Ken; fined and imprisoned unjustly on suspicion of having written 'The Hereditary Right of the Crown of England asserted' (1713); became a bishop among nonjurors; published religious and other works. [iv. 110]

BEDFORD, JOHN (1810-1879), Wesleyan; educated as solicitor at Wakefield; Wesleyan minister at Glasgow, 1831, and subsequently in Manchester, Birmingham, West Bromwich, and Derby; president of conference, 1867. [iv. 110]

BEDFORD, PAUL (1792?-1871), comedian; first appeared on stage at Swansea; in Drury Lane opera company, 1824-35; joined Macready's company as singer at Covent Garden, 1833; subsequently played second low-comedy parts at Adelphi; last appeared, 1868, at Queen's Theatre. [iv. 111]

BEDFORD, THOMAS (A. 1650), theologian; B.D. Queens' College, Cambridge; rector of St. Martin Outwich, London, before 1648; published theological works and (1620-60) took prominent part in religious controversy. [iv. 112]

BEDFORD, THOMAS (d. 1773), nonjuror; son of Hilkiah Bedford [q. v.]; educated at Westminster and St. John's College, Cambridge; minister to nonjurors at Compton, Derbyshire; published edition of Symeon of Durham's history of Durham Cathedral (1732) and other works of ecclesiastical history. [iv. 112]

BEDFORD, WILLIAM (1764?-1827), vice-admiral; captain in navy, 1794; served in North Sea, 1801, at

blockade of Brest, 1805, and as flag-captain in expedition to Basque roads, 1809; vice-admiral, 1821. [iv. 113]

BEDINGFIELD, THOMAS (1760-1789), poet; educated at Liège; studied conveyancing at Newcastle and Lincoln's Inn; began practice as chamber counsel, 1787. A volume of his poems was published in 1800. [iv. 113]

BEDINGFIELD or BENIFIELD, SIR HENRY (1511-1583), supporter of Queen Mary; privy councillor, 1553; constable of Tower, 1555, when the Princess Elizabeth was committed to his charge for complicity in Wyatt's rebellion; knight of shire for Norfolk, 1553, 1554, and 1557; retired from public life on Elizabeth's accession. [iv. 113]

BEDINGFIELD, SIR HENRY (1633-1687), chief-justice of common pleas; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1657; received the coif, 1683; king's serjeant and knighted; sub-steward of Great Yarmouth, 1684; judge, 1686; chief-justice common pleas, 1686. [iv. 115]

BEDINGFIELD, THOMAS (d. 1613), son of Sir Henry Bedingfield (d. 1583) [q. v.]; gentleman pensioner to Queen Elizabeth; published miscellaneous works. [iv. 115]

BEDINGFIELD, SIR THOMAS (1593?-1661), lawyer; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1615; Lent reader, 1636; attorney-general of duchy of Lancaster and knighted; committed for contempt of House of Lords in refusing to defend Sir Edward Herbert, who was impeached by the Commons for sharing in the attempt to arrest the five members, 1642; serjeant-at-law and justice of common pleas, 1648; retired at interregnum; reappointed serjeant, 1660. [iv. 115]

BEDLAY, LORD (1590?-1684). [See ROBERTSON, JAMES.]

BEDLOE, WILLIAM (1650-1680), adventurer; worked as clockmaker and cobbler; educated by David Lewis, a Jesuit; came to London, 1670, and lived by sharpening; claimed to have been anticipated by Oates in making revelations of the popish plot, 1678-9; in receipt of 10*l.* weekly from the royal funds, 1679; public confidence in his statements diminished, c. 1680. He published several works on his 'Revelations, the chief being 'A Narrative and Impartial Discovery of the Horrid Popish Plot . . . by Captain William Bedloe, lately engaged in that horrid design,' &c., 1679. [iv. 116]

BEDWELL, THOMAS (d. 1595), mathematician; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1567; fellow; M.A., 1570; keeper of ordnance stores in Tower; military engineer at Tilbury and Gravesend at time of Spanish Armada. [iv. 118]

BEDWELL, WILLIAM (d. 1632), Arabic scholar; nephew of Thomas Bedwell [q. v.]; M.A. Cambridge, 1588; rector of St. Ethelburgh's, Bishopsgate Street, 1601; one of the Westminster translators of the bible, 1604; published at Leyden Epistles of John in English and Arabic, 1612; published Arabic and mathematical works (including treatise explaining use of carpenter's square), and left a manuscript Arabic lexicon. [iv. 119]

BEDYLL, THOMAS (d. 1537); divine; clerk of privy council; B.O.L. New College, Oxford, 1508; secretary to archbishop Warham, 1520-32; royal chaplain and clerk of council, 1532; employed by Henry VIII in business relating to his divorce and the royal supremacy. [iv. 120]

BEE, St. (d. 660?). [See BROGA.]

BEEARD, BEARD, or BEEDE, RICHARD (A. 1553-1574), author; rector of St. Mary Hill, London, 1560-74; published poetical pieces. [iv. 121]

BEECHAM, JOHN (1787-1856), Methodist; general secretary to Wesleyan Missionary Society, 1831; president Wesleyan conference, 1840; published historical and other works. [iv. 121]

BEECHY, FREDERICK WILLIAM (1796-1856), rear-admiral and geographer; son of Sir William Beechey [q. v.]; entered navy, 1806; lieutenant, 1815; accompanied Franklin's Arctic expedition, 1818, an account of which he published, 1845; employed in survey of coasts of North Africa, 1821-3, South America, 1835, and Ireland, 1837; captain, 1827; rear-admiral; president, Royal Geographical Society, 1855; published geographical works. [iv. 121]

BEECHY, GEORGE D. (fl. 1817-1855), portrait painter; brother of Sir William Beechey [q. v.]; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1817-32; became court painter to king of Oudh. [iv. 122]

BEECHY, HENRY WILLIAM (d. 1870?), painter and explorer; brother of George D. Beechey [q. v.]; secretary (c. 1816) to consul-general in Egypt, where he accompanied exploring expeditions on the Nile; surveyed, with his brother, coast-line from Tripoli to Derna, 1821-2; F.S.A., 1825; probably died in New Zealand. [iv. 122]

BEECHY, SIR WILLIAM (1753-1839), painter; worked in a London lawyer's office; first exhibited, 1775; A.R.A., portrait painter to Queen Charlotte, knight, and R.A., 1793. [iv. 123]

BEECHING, JAMES (1788-1858), inventor of 'self-righting' lifeboat; boatbuilders' apprentice; invented at Great Yarmouth the 'self-righting' lifeboat, 1851. [iv. 123]

BEEDEME, THOMAS (d. 1641?), author of 'Poems Divine and Humane,' published 1641, and edited by Henry Glapthorne. [iv. 124]

BEEKE, HENRY (1751-1837), divine; M.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1776; D.D., 1800; fellow of Oriel, 1776; professor of modern history, 1801; vicar of St. Mary the Virgin, Oxford, 1782; dean of Bristol, 1814. Gained wide reputation as financial authority; published a work on the income tax. [iv. 124]

BEESELY, ALFRED (1800-1847), author of 'History of Banbury, 1841. [iv. 125]

BEESELY or BISLEY, GEORGE (d. 1891), catholic missionary; educated at Douay; ordained priest, 1887; joined English mission, 1888; executed. [iv. 125]

BESTON, SIR WILLIAM (fl. 1702), lieutenant-governor of Jamaica; went to Jamaica, 1680; member for Port Royal in first house of assembly and judge of court of common pleas, Jamaica, 1684; speaker of house of assembly, 1677-9; knighted, 1692; lieutenant-governor, 1693; resisted, as commander-in-chief, French invasion, 1694; superseded, 1702, on refusing to account for money which he was accused of appropriating; left topographical and other manuscripts. [iv. 125]

BEGA (8th cent.?), saint; perhaps founded monasteries in Cumberland and Northumbria. Her history has been confused with that of St. Hein and St. Begu. [iv. 126]

BEGGIE, JAMES (1798-1869), physician; M.D., 1821, F.R.C.S., 1822, and F.R.C.P., 1847, Edinburgh; physician in ordinary to queen in Scotland; published medical essays. [iv. 126]

BEGGIE, JAMES WARBURTON (1826-1876), physician; son of James Begbie [q. v.]; M.D., 1847, and F.R.C.P., 1852, Edinburgh; studied in Paris; physician to Royal Infirmary, Edinburgh, 1855-65; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1875; published medical works. [iv. 127]

BEGG, JAMES (1808-1883), free church minister; M.A. Glasgow; licensed as preacher, 1829; ordained, 1830; minister at Paisley, 1831, Liberton, 1835-43, and Newington, 1843-83; supported measures of evangelical party in Scotland, and took keen interest in cause of protestantism; moderator of general assembly of the Free church, 1865. [iv. 127]

BEGHA (d. 660?), saint; Irish virgin of royal birth; fled to Scotland to avoid marriage; founded monasteries in England and at Strathclyde (c. 666). [iv. 128]

BEHN, AFRA, APHRA, or AYFARA (1640-1689), dramatist and novelist, nee Johnson; lived as child in Surinam, West Indies; returned to England, 1668; married Behn, a city merchant, and gained entrance to the court; employed by Charles II as spy in Antwerp on outbreak of Dutch war; returned to London and became a professional writer; made friends among playwrights, and in 1671 brought out her 'Forc'd Marriage' at the Duke's Theatre; achieved popularity as a dramatist, some of her plays continuing to hold the stage in the eighteenth century; wrote poems, novels (including 'Oronoko'), and many ephemeral pamphlets. [iv. 129]

BEHNES or BURLOWE, HENRY (d. 1837), sculptor; worked under name of Burlowe; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1881-3; subsequently employed in Rome as bust modeller. [iv. 131]

BEHNES, WILLIAM (d. 1864), sculptor; brother of Henry Behnes [q. v.]; trained as a piano manufacturer; student of Royal Academy, 1819; gained high reputation, chiefly for portrait busts, between 1820 and 1840; bankrupt, 1861; was picked up from the street and died in Middlesex Hospital. [iv. 131]

BEIGHTON, HENRY (d. 1743), surveyor; surveyed Warwickshire, 1725-9, and illustrated Dr. Thomas's edition of Dugdale's 'Warwickshire'; prepared map of Warwickshire (published 1760); editor of 'Ladies' Diary,' 1713-34; F.R.S., 1720; published and left in manuscript scientific writings. [iv. 132]

BRIGHTON, THOMAS (1790-1844), missionary; sent by London Missionary Society to Malacca; established printing press, from which he issued works translated by himself into Malay language. [iv. 132]

BEILBY, RALPH (1744-1817), engraver; in partnership, 1777-97, as engraver with Thomas Bewick, who was his pupil; engaged with Bewick on engravings for Osterwald's bible, 1806, and other works. [iv. 133]

BEILBY, WILLIAM (1783-1849), physician; M.D., 1816, Edinburgh; practised at Edinburgh; philanthropist and interested in religious matters. [iv. 133]

BEITH, ALEXANDER (1799-1891), divine; educated at Glasgow University; minister successively at Oban, Glasgow, Kilbrandon, Glenelg, and Stirling (1839-76); among founders of free church of Scotland, 1843; D.D. Princetown University, U.S.A., 1880; moderator of general assembly of free church, 1888; published pamphlets and religious works. [Suppl. i. 163]

BEITH or BEETH, WILLIAM (15th cent.), Dominican; probably provincial of his order in England, c. 1480; author of learned works. [iv. 133]

BEK, name of Lincolnshire family descended from Walter Bek, who came over with William the Conqueror. From his three sons sprang three great Lincolnshire families: (1) Bek of Eresby; (2) Bek of Luceby; (3) Bek of Bothebay. [iv. 133]

BEK, ANTONY I (d. 1310), bishop of Durham; son of Walter Bek, baron of Eresby, Lincolnshire; held five benefices in see of Canterbury; bishop of Durham, 1283; one of royal commissioners to arrange marriage of Prince Edward with Margaret of Scotland, 1290; one of Edward I's chief advisers during negotiations respecting Baliol; substantially assisted Edward in Scottish expeditions, 1296 and 1298; entered into dispute with Richard de Hoton, prior of convent of Durham, concerning visitation of the convent, 1300; refused to accept Edward's decision as mediator, and was deprived of his temporalities, but regained them on application to the pope; granted sovereignty of Isle of Man by Edward II, 1307. [iv. 134]

BEK, ANTONY II (1279-1343), divine; son of Walter Bek of Luceby, constable of Lincoln Castle; educated at Oxford; prebendary of Lincoln; chancellor of the cathedral, 1316; appointed bishop of Lincoln, 1320, but election was annulled by the pope; dean of Lincoln, 1329; chaplain to the pope and clerk of Roman curia; bishop of Norwich, 1337; perhaps poisoned by monks of his cathedral. [iv. 136]

BEK, THOMAS I (d. 1293), divine; elder brother of Antony Bek I [q. v.]; chancellor of Oxford University, 1269; keeper of wardrobe to Edward I, 1274; lord-treasurer and temporary keeper of great seal, 1279; prebendary of Lincoln, and, later, bishop of St. David's, 1280; unsuccessfully opposed, as a protest in behalf of the independence of the Welsh church, archbishop Peckham's visitation of the Welsh diocese, 1284; perhaps went on pilgrimage to Holy Land, 1290. [iv. 137]

BEK, THOMAS II (1282-1347), divine; youngest brother of Antony Bek II [q. v.]; doctor of canon law; prebendary of Lincoln, 1335; bishop of Lincoln, 1340. [iv. 138]

BEKE, CHARLES TILSTONE (1800-1874), Abyssinian explorer; entered on business career in London, 1820, but subsequently studied law at Lincoln's Inn; published 'Origines Biblicæ,' 1834, and papers on oriental subjects, 1834-5; fellow of Society of Antiquaries, Royal Geographical Society, and other learned institutions; journeyed in Abyssinia, making many valuable discoveries, 1840-3; published 'The Sources of the Nile,' 1860; travelled in Syria and Palestine, 1861-2, for purpose of exploring localities mentioned in Genesis; undertook mission to King Theodore of Abyssinia to urge him to release British prisoners, 1864, and on outbreak of war, following Theodore's non-compliance, supplied British government with valuable information; explored alleged situation of Mount Sinai, 1873-4. His 'Discoveries of Sinai in Arabia and of Midian' was published posthumously. [iv. 138]

BEKINSAU, JOHN (1496?-1559), divine; fellow of New College, Oxford, 1520; M.A., 1526; Greek lecturer at Paris University; published a treatise, 'De supremo et absoluto Regis imperio', 1546. [iv. 141]

BEKYNTON, THOMAS (1390?-1465). [See BECKINGTON.]

BELASYSE, ANTHONY (d. 1552), civilian; B.O.L. Cambridge, 1520; LL.D., probably of a foreign university; advocate, 1528; held benefices: prebendary of Auckland (1540), Lincoln (1544), Wells (1546), and York (1549); canon of Westminster (1540); master in chancery, 1544; master of Sherburn Hospital, co. Durham, c. 1545. [iv. 141]

BELASYSE, JOHN, BARON BELASYSE (1614-1689), royalist; created baron, 1646; fought for Charles I in many engagements; after Restoration, appointed lord-lieutenant of East Riding, governor of Hull, and, subsequently governor of Tangier; first lord commissioner of treasury, 1687. [iv. 142]

BELASYSE, THOMAS, EARL FAUCONBERG (1627-1700), supporter of Cromwell; married Mary, Cromwell's daughter, 1657; privy councillor of Charles II. [iv. 142]

BELCHER, SIR EDWARD (1799-1877), admiral; entered navy, 1812; lieutenant, 1818; commander, 1829; employed successively on survey of coasts of Northern and Western Africa, Ireland, Western America, China, Borneo, Philippine Islands, and Formosa, 1830-47; captain and O.B., 1841; knighted, 1843; commanded expedition to Arctic in search of Sir John Franklin, 1852; vice-admiral, 1866; admiral, 1873; published accounts of voyages, and other works. [iv. 142]

BELCHER, JAMES (1781-1811), prize-fighter; fought Bill Warr at Covent Garden; beat successively Tom Jones of Paddington, 1799, Jack Bartholomew, 1800, Andrew Gamble, 1800, Joe Berks, 1801 and 1802, and John Firby, 1803; lost an eye, 1803, and became publican; was subsequently many times beaten, his last fight being with Tom Oribb, 1809. [Suppl. i. 164]

BELCHER, TOM (1783-1854), pugilist; brother of James Belcher [q.v.]; defeated Dogherty and Firby, but was beaten by Dutch Sam (Samuel Elias, 1775-1816). [Suppl. i. 165]

BELCHIAM, THOMAS (1508-1537), Franciscan friar of convent of Greenwich; imprisoned for refusing to take oath of royal supremacy; died in Newgate. [iv. 143]

BELCHIER, DAUBRIDGECOURT or DAWBRIDGE-COURT (1580?-1621), dramatist; B.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1600; settled in the Low Countries; wrote dramatic and other works. [iv. 144]

BELCHIER, JOHN (1706-1785), surgeon; educated at Eton; surgeon to Guy's Hospital, 1736; F.R.S., 1752; contributed to 'Philosophical Transactions.' [iv. 144]

BELER, ROGER DE (d. 1326), judge; supporter of Earl of Lancaster and included in the amnesty, 1318; baron of exchequer, 1322; murdered near Reberby. [iv. 144]

BELESME, ROBERT DE (fl. 1098). [See BELLEME.]

BELET, MICHAEL (fl. 1182), judge; sheriff of Worcestershire, 1176-81 and 1184, of Leicestershire and Warwickshire, 1186-8 and 1189-90; justice itinerant for Warwickshire and Leicestershire, 1177, and for Lincolnshire, 1178. [iv. 145]

BELET, MICHAEL (fl. 1238), judge; son of Michael Belet (fl. 1182) [q.v.]; incumbent of Hinclesham, 1201, and Setburgham (now Serbergham), 1204; receiver of rents of see of Coventry, 1223; founded priory at Wroxton for Augustinian canons regular, c. 1230. [iv. 145]

BELETH, JOHN (fl. 1182?), author of 'Rationale divinum officiorum'; perhaps rector of a theological school at Paris. [iv. 146]

BELFAST, EARL OF (by courtesy) (1827-1863). [See CHICHESTER, FREDERICK RICHARD.]

BELFORD, WILLIAM (1709-1780), general; entered royal artillery on its formation, 1726; fireworker, 1729; first lieutenant, 1740; adjutant at Carthage, 1741; served in Flanders, 1742-5; lieutenant-colonel, 1749; major-general, 1758; commander of Woolwich district, with charge of arsenal, 1758; general, 1777. [iv. 146]

BELFOUR, HUGO JOHN (1809-1827), author of poems signed St. JOHN DORSET; curate, 1826, in Jamaica, where he died. [iv. 147]

BELFOUR, JOHN (1768-1842), orientalist and miscellaneous writer; member of Royal Society of Literature. His works include a Coptic version, with literal translation, of the Psalms. [iv. 147]

BELFRAGE, HENRY (1774-1835), divine of secession church; educated at Edinburgh; entered theological hall of his church, Selkirk, 1789; ordained, 1794; appointed to Falkirk congregation; hon. D.D. St. Andrews, 1824; published religious works, 1814-33. [iv. 147]

BELHAVEN, VISCOUNT (1874?-1839). [See DOUGLAS, ROBERT.]

BELHAVEN, second BARON (1656-1708). [See HAMILTON, JOHN.]

BELING, RICHARD. [See BELLINGS.]

BELKNAP, SIR ROBERT DE (d. 1400?). [See BEALKNAP.]

BELL, ALEXANDER MONTGOMERIE (1808-1866), writer on law; educated at Glasgow; member of Society of Writers to Signet, 1835; professor of conveyancing, Edinburgh, 1856. His lectures (published posthumously) form a standard treatise on conveyancing. [iv. 148]

BELL, ANDREW (1726-1809), engraver; half-proprietor, and subsequently sole proprietor, of the 'Encyclopaedia Britannica' (first published in three volumes, 1771), for which he furnished plates. [iv. 149]

BELL, ANDREW (1753-1832), founder of Madras system of education; educated at St. Andrews; tutor in Virginia, 1774-81; sailed for India, 1787, and in two years held simultaneously eight army chaplainships; superintendent of Madras Male Orphan Asylum, 1789, where he successfully introduced a system of mutual instruction by the scholars; returned to England, 1796; received pension from East India Company; published, 1797, a work on his educational system, which was adopted in many schools, including Christ's Hospital; rector of Swanage 1801; master of Sherburn Hospital, Durham, 1800; superintendent of National Society for Promoting Education of Poor in Principles of Established Church, with full powers to carry out Madras system, 1811; journeyed abroad to spread his ideas, but with small success, 1816; prebendary of Westminster, 1819; buried in Westminster Abbey. His system was found applicable to certain parts, and certain parts alone, of school-work. [iv. 149]

BELL, ARCHIBALD (1755-1854), miscellaneous writer; member of faculty of advocates, Edinburgh, 1795; sheriff-depute of Ayrshire. [iv. 152]

BELL, BEAUPRÉ (1704-1745), antiquary; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1729; became active member of Spalding Society; assisted Blomefield in history of Norfolk, and Hearne in many antiquarian works; left books, medals, and manuscripts to Trinity College. [iv. 153]

BELL, BENJAMIN (1749-1806), surgeon; apprenticed as surgeon at Dumfries; studied medicine at Edinburgh and Paris; surgeon to Royal Infirmary, Edinburgh, 1772, and Watson's Hospital, 1778; published works on agriculture and medical subjects. [iv. 153]

BELL, SIR CHARLES (1774-1842), discoverer of distinct functions of the nerves; educated at Edinburgh; published a 'System of Dissections,' illustrated by his own drawings, 1798; F.R.S. Edinburgh, 1799; published in London, 'Anatomy of Expression,' 1806, and 'New Idea of the Anatomy of the Brain,' 1811, formulating his nerve theory; his discovery complete in its modern form in 1826, and his investigations published in the 'Nervous System of the Human Body,' 1830; knighted; medallist, Royal Society, 1829; professor of surgery, Edinburgh, 1856; wrote on surgery, and (1836) joined Brougham in annotating Paley's 'Natural Theology.' [iv. 154]

BELL, FRANOIS (1590-1643), Franciscan friar; educated at Jesuit colleges of St. Omer and Valladolid; ordained; entered convent of Douay; successively confessor to the Poor Clares, Gravelines, and to Franciscan nuns at Brussels; superior of St. Bonaventure's convent, Douay, 1630; English missioner, 1634-43; executed as Jesuit; linguist and author of religious works and translations. [iv. 157]

BELL, SIR GEORGE (1794-1877), colonel; ensign, 1811; captain, 1828; in Canada, 1836-8; brevet-major, 1839; served in Gibraltar, Nova Scotia, West Indies, Mediterranean, Turkey, and the Crimea; C.B., 1865; colonel, 1863; K.O.B., 1867. [iv. 157]

BELL, GEORGE JOSEPH (1770-1843), lawyer, brother of Sir Charles Bell [q.v.]; studied at Edinburgh; advocate, 1791; published works on Scottish bankruptcy law, 1804 and 1810; professor of conveyancing to Society of Writers to Signet, 1816-18; professor of Scots law, Edinburgh, 1822; on commission, 1823, which resulted in Scottish Judicature Act (1825), and chairman, 1833, of commission which resulted in Scottish Bankruptcy Act (1839); clerk of session, 1832. [iv. 158]

BELL, HENRY (1767-1830), builder of Comet steamship; apprenticed as millwright; worked under Rennie in London; conceived idea of applying steam to navigation, and made engine for first practical steamboat that appeared on any European river—the Comet, which plied (1812-20) on the Clyde. [iv. 159]

BELL, HENRY GLASSFORD (1803-1874), sheriff; studied law at Edinburgh; started and conducted 'Edinburgh Literary Journal', 1828; published a defence of Mary Queen of Scots, 1830; advocate, 1832; sheriff-substitute of Lanarkshire, 1839-67; sheriff-principal, 1867-74; one of the originators of the Royal Scotch Academy; published miscellaneous works in verse and prose. [iv. 160]

BELL, HENRY NUGENT (1792-1822), genealogist; registered at Inner Temple, 1818; successfully advocated claim of Mr. Hastings to earldom of Huntingdon. [iv. 161]

BELL, JACOB (1810-1889), founder of Pharmaceutical Society; in business as pharmaceutical chemist; founded, 1841, Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain (incorporated 1843); established and superintended for eighteen years 'Pharmaceutical Journal'; M.P. for St. Albans, 1850; brought forward bill to regulate qualifications of pharmaceutical chemists, 1851; fellow of Chemical, Linnean, and Zoological societies, and of Society of Arts; published works relating to pharmacy. [iv. 162]

BELL, JAMES (1524-1584), Roman catholic priest; educated at Oxford; adopted protestantism, c. 1563, but became reconciled to Roman church, 1581, and was executed at Lancaster as a heretic. [iv. 163]

BELL, JAMES (A. 1551-1596), reformer; B.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1551; fellow of Trinity College and lecturer in rhetoric, 1556; published religious works. [iv. 164]

BELL, JAMES (1769-1833), geographical author; gave up his business as a weaver and became classical tutor to university students, c. 1806; edited and annotated Rollin's 'Ancient History', 1828; published 'System of Geography', 1830. His 'Gazetteer of England and Wales' appeared in 1836. [iv. 164]

BELL, JOHN (d. 1556), bishop; educated at Balliol College, Oxford; LL.B. Cambridge, 1504; LL.D. Oxford, 1531; vicar-general and chancellor of diocese of Worcester, 1518; prebendary of Lichfield, St. Paul's, Lincoln, and Southwell; one of Henry VIII's chaplains; employed by Henry in matters relating to his divorce; bishop of Worcester, 1537; undertook revision of Epistles to Thessalonians in Testament of 1542; resigned bishopric, 1543; benefactor of Balliol College. [iv. 165]

BELL, JOHN (1691-1780), traveller; sent by Russian emperor on embassy to Persia, 1715-18, and to China, 1717-22; merchant at Constantinople; published account of journey to China, 1763. [iv. 166]

BELL, JOHN (1747-1798), artilleryist; served in artillery in Gibraltar and England; invented military and nautical contrivances; first lieutenant, 1794. [iv. 167]

BELL, JOHN (1763-1820), surgeon, brother of Sir Charles Bell [q.v.]; educated at Edinburgh; F.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1786; held appointment at Royal Infirmary, but was excluded on limitation of number of surgeons, 1800; travelled to Italy for his health, 1817; died in Italy. His works include 'Anatomy of Human Body' and 'Principles of Surgery' (1801-8), 'Observations on Italy' appearing posthumously in 1826. [iv. 167]

BELL, JOHN (1745-1831), publisher; refused to join the combination of publishing firms which issued 'Johnson's Poets'; brought out 'Bell's British Poets', 109 vols., 1777-82, and similar editions of 'Shakespeare' and the 'British Theatre'; first printer to discard long f (s). [iv. 168]

BELL, JOHN (1764-1836), lawyer; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1786; senior wrangler; fellow; M.A., 1789; studied at Middle Temple and Gray's Inn; called to bar, 1792; king's counsel, 1816. [iv. 169]

BELL, SIR JOHN (1782-1876), general; ensign, 1805; served in Peninsular war; C.B., 1815; chief secretary to Cape of Good Hope government, 1828-41; lieutenant-governor of Guernsey, 1848-54; colonel, 1860; G.C.B. and general, 1860. [iv. 170]

BELL, JOHN (1811-1895), sculptor; studied at Royal Academy, where he exhibited between 1832 and 1879. His works include the Wellington monument at the Guildhall, 1856-8, and the Guards' Memorial in Waterloo Place, 1858-60; published writings on subjects connected with his art. [Suppl. i. 165]

BELL, JOHN GRAY (1823-1866), bookseller; son of Thomas Bell (d. 1860) [q.v.]; bookseller in London, 1848, and in Manchester, 1854-66; issued antiquarian works. [iv. 170]

BELL, JOHN MONTGOMERIE (1804-1862), Scottish advocate; called to Edinburgh bar, 1825; advocate-depute, 1847; sheriff of Kincardine, 1851; published treatise on Scottish law of arbitration, 1861. [iv. 170]

BELL, JONATHAN ANDERSON (d. 1865), architect; educated at Edinburgh; studied art in Rome, 1829-30; executed drawings for architectural publications, including Le Keux's 'Memorials of Cambridge'. [iv. 170]

BELL, MARIA, LADY (d. 1825), amateur painter; pupil of William Hamilton, R.A. (her brother), and Reynolds; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1809-24. [iv. 171]

BELL, PATRICK (1799-1869), inventor of reaping machine; studied at St. Andrews; constructed machine for reaping, 1828; minister of Carnylie, Arbroath, 1843; hon. LL.D. St. Andrews. [iv. 171]

BELL, SIR ROBERT (d. 1577), judge; educated at Cambridge; autumn reader at Middle Temple, 1566; M.P. for Lyme Regis, 1562; speaker, 1572-6; knighted; serjeant-at-law; chief baron of exchequer, 1577. [iv. 172]

BELL, ROBERT (1800-1867), journalist; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; settled in London, 1833; editor of the 'Atlas' weekly journal; indicted for libelling Lord Lyndhurst; found guilty, but escaped punishment; contributed to Larner's 'Cabinet Cyclopaedia', 1830 seq.; began an edition of English poets, of which 24 vols. appeared, 1864-7, and produced several dramatic pieces, novels, and other writings. [iv. 173]

BELL, ROBERT CHARLES (1806-1873), line-engraver; practised at Edinburgh; engraved 'Preston Pans' (completed 1873), after Sir William Allen, for Royal Scottish Association. [iv. 174]

BELL, THOMAS (A. 1573-1610), anti-Romanist writer; perhaps held benefice in Lancashire; became Roman catholic, studied at Douay and Rome, and was priest, 1581; sent to England, 1589; arrested, c. 1592; recanted; wrote polemics against Romanism. [Suppl. i. 168]

BELL, THOMAS (1733-1803), divine; educated at Edinburgh; minister of Relief congregation at Jedburgh, 1767, and at Glasgow, 1777; translated religious works from Dutch and Latin. [iv. 174]

BELL, THOMAS (1785-1860), antiquary; land valuer and surveyor; promoter of Newcastle Literary and Philo-sophical Society, and a founder of Newcastle Society of Antiquaries. [iv. 174]

BELL, THOMAS (1792-1880), dental surgeon; studied at Guy's and St. Thomas's Hospitals; F.R.C.S., 1844; dental surgeon at Guy's, 1817-61; lecturer on comparative anatomy; professor of zoology, King's College, London, 1836; F.R.S., 1828; vice-president, Zoological Society; secretary of Royal Society, 1848-53; president of Linnean Society, 1853-61; published zoological works and an edition of White's 'Selborne.' [iv. 175]

BELL, WILLIAM (A. 1699), lawyer; educated at Balliol College, Oxford; studied at Clement's Inn; clerk of peace for Hampshire. [iv. 175]

BELL, WILLIAM (1625-1693), divine; B.A. St. John's College, Oxford, 1647; fellow; ejected from benefice in Norfolk by parliamentary visitors; B.D., 1681; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1665; chaplain to king, 1667. [iv. 175]

BELL, WILLIAM (1740?-1804?), portrait painter; gained Royal Academy gold medal, 1771. [iv. 176]

BELL, WILLIAM (1731-1816), divine; M.A. Magdalene College, Cambridge, 1756; domestic chaplain and secretary to Princess Amelia, daughter of George III; prebendary of Westminster, 1765; D.D., 1767; rector of Christ Church, London, 1780-99; treasurer of St. Paul's; published sermons and other religious works. [iv. 176]

BELLAMONT, EARL OF (1636-1701). [See COOTE, RICHARD.]

BELLAMONT, VISCOUNT (1604?-1660). [See BARD, HENRY.]

BELLAMY, DANIEL, the elder (b. 1687), miscellaneous writer; educated at St. John's College, Oxford; published religious, dramatic, and other works. [iv. 177]

BELLAMY, DANIEL, the younger (d. 1788), divine; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1759; vicar of St. Stephen's, near St. Albans, 1749; published miscellaneous, religious, and dramatic works. [iv. 178]

BELLAMY, GEORGE ANNE (1731?-1788), actress; illegitimate daughter of Lord Tyravley; educated in a convent at Boulogne; on returning to England became acquainted with Garrick and went on stage; first appeared in 'Love for Love,' at Covent Garden, 1742; successfully played Juliet to Garrick's Romeo in the rivalry with Barry and Mrs. Cibber, 1750; died in reduced circumstances; published her 'Apology,' 1785. [iv. 178]

BELLAMY, RICHARD (1743?-1813), bass singer; Mus. Bac.; gentleman of Chapel Royal, 1771; vicar choral of St. Paul's, 1777; almoner and master of choristers, 1793-1800. [iv. 179]

BELLAMY, THOMAS (1745-1800), miscellaneous writer; hosiery and subsequently bookseller's clerk; started 'General Magazine and Impartial Review,' 1787, and other unsuccessful periodicals; published poetical, dramatic, and other works. [iv. 179]

BELLAMY, THOMAS LUDFORD (1770-1843), singer; son of Richard Bellamy [q. v.]; sang at Handel commemoration, Westminster, 1784; stage-manager, Dublin theatre, 1797; embarked unsuccessfully in various theatrical enterprises; engaged at Covent Garden, and later at Drury Lane; choirmaster of Spanish chapel, 1819. [iv. 180]

BELLASIS. [See BELASYSE.]

BELLASIS, EDWARD (1800-1873), lawyer; educated at Christ's Hospital; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1824; practised in court of chancery and in county palatine of Lancaster; engaged as barrister in parliamentary business, 1836-66; serjeant-at-law, 1844; one of commissioners to examine working of Heralds' College, 1869; evinced great interest in Tractarian movement, 1833-45, and took part in discussion produced by Pius IX's bull in 1850; entered the Roman catholic communion, 1850; magistrate of Middlesex and Westminster; published religious writings, and left an autobiography and manuscript verses. [iv. 180]

BELLEMAN or BELMAIN, JOHN (A. 1553), French tutor of Edward VI; left manuscript translation into French of Edward VI's second Prayer-book. [iv. 182]

BELLEME, ROBERT OF, EARL OF SHREWSBURY (A. 1098), a magnate of Normandy; knighted, 1073; supported Duke Robert in the revolt against William I,

1077; pardoned, but on the death of the Conqueror again joined Duke Robert against William Rufus; took part in defence of Rochester, and on surrender was reconciled to the king, 1088; captured and imprisoned by Duke Robert, but was soon released; engaged in war with his neighbours in Normandy; joined Henry of Coutances (Henry I) in suppressing revolt of citizens of Rouen, 1090; captain of king's forces in Rufus's abortive invasion of France, 1097; engaged in war with Helias of Maine, 1098; captured Helias and delivered him to Rufus, who continued the war; earl of Shrewsbury, 1098; did homage to Henry I, 1100, but with his brothers and Duke Robert conspired against him, 1101; outlawed, 1102; fortified himself in Shrewsbury; forced to surrender; returned to Normandy; after several attempts to obtain allies against Henry, made peace with him, 1106; soon afterwards he joined Fulk of Anjou against Henry; sent, 1112, by Louis of France as ambassador to Henry, who seized and kept him in close confinement until his death. [iv. 182]

BELLENDEN, ADAM (d. 1639?), bishop; son of Sir John Bellenden [q. v.]; M.A. Edinburgh, 1590; minister at Falkirk, 1608; 'suspended,' 1614; released, 1615; left presbyterian church, and was made bishop of Dunblane, 1618, and of Aberdeen, 1635; deprived of see on abolition of episcopacy in Scotland, 1638. [iv. 186]

BELLENDEN, SIR JOHN, of Auchnoul or Auchnoul (d. 1577); Scottish lawyer; justice-clerk, 1547; privy councillor to Mary Queen of Scots, 1561; implicated in murder of Rizzio, but soon restored to favour; joined nobles against Mary at Bothwell; privy councillor to Regent Murray; employed in framing pacification of Perth, 1573. [iv. 187]

BELLENDEN, BALLENDEN, or BALLENTYNE, JOHN (A. 1533-1587), poet; educated at St. Andrews and Paris; D.D. Sorbonne; translated, by command of James V of Scotland, into Scottish vernacular, Boeet's 'Historia Scotorum' (1536) and Livy, first published in 1822; archdeacon of Moray and canon of Ross; opposed Reformation and withdrew to the continent. [iv. 186]

BELLENDEN, SIR LEWIS, LORD AUCHINOL (1553?-1591), Scottish judge; eldest son of Sir John Bellenden [q. v.]; justice-clerk, 1578; privy councillor, 1579; judge, 1584; instrumental in Earl of Arran's downfall, 1585; accompanied James VI in his matrimonial excursion to Norway and Denmark, 1589-90. [iv. 188]

BELLENDEN, WILLIAM (d. 1633?), Scottish professor; employed in diplomatic service by James VI and Mary Queen of Scots; professor at university of Paris; produced works illustrating Roman history by extracts from Roman authors. [iv. 189]

BELLENDEN, WILLIAM, BARON BELLENDEN (d. 1671), created Lord Bellenden, 1661, and treasurer-depute and privy councillor of Scotland, 1661; supported Lauderdale against Middleton's faction. [iv. 189]

BELLERS, FETTIPLAOE (1687-1750?), dramatist and philosophical writer; F.R.S., 1711; produced a tragedy which was acted at Drury Lane, 1732, and philosophical works, including 'A Delineation of Universal Law,' 1750. [iv. 190]

BELLERS, JOHN (1654-1725), philanthropist; member of Society of Friends; devised schemes for the abolition of war, education of poor children, improvement of prisons, and establishment of hospitals. He wrote many short works, the most important being 'Proposals for Raising a College of Industry of all useful Trades and Husbandry,' 1695. [iv. 190]

BELLERS, WILLIAM (A. 1761-1774), landscape-painter; contributed to exhibitions of Free Society of Artists, 1761-73. [iv. 192]

BELLEW, HENRY WALTER (1834-1899), surgeon-general; studied at St. George's Hospital, London; M.R.C.P., 1855; served in Crimea, 1854-5; assistant surgeon, Bengal medical service, 1855; surgeon, 1867; deputy surgeon-general, 1881; served with Major (Sir) Henry Lumsden [q. v.] on Candahar mission; O.S.I., 1878; chief political officer at Oabul; retired as surgeon-general, 1886; published journals, works on oriental languages, and other writings. [Suppl. I. 187]

BELLEW, JOHN CHIPPENDALL MONTESQUIEU (1828-1874), author, preacher, and public reader; son of Captain Robert Higgins; educated at St. Mary's Hall, Oxford; assumed his mother's maiden name, Bellew, 1844; after holding two curacies in England, he was chaplain of St. John's Cathedral, Calcutta, 1861-6; successively minister at several London churches; was converted to Roman catholicism, 1868, and devoted himself to literature and public readings; published miscellaneous works. [iv. 192]

BELLEW, RICHARD (A. 1685), legal reporter; published reports in Norman-French of cases in time of Richard II. [iv. 193]

BELLIN, SAMUEL (1799-1893), engraver; practised in England, c. 1831-70. His plates are all from popular English painters of his day. [Suppl. i. 168]

BELLINGER, FRANÇOIS (d. 1721), physician; L.C.P., 1708; published medical works. [iv. 193]

BELLINGHAM, SIR EDWARD (d. 1549), lord deputy of Ireland; served in Hungary with Sir Thomas Seymour, and with Earl of Surrey in Boulogne and Isle of Wight (1545); privy councillor of Edward VI.; lord deputy of Ireland, 1548; suppressed rebellion in King's and Queen's counties. [iv. 193]

BELLINGHAM, RICHARD (1592?-1672), governor of Massachusetts; recorder of Boston, Lincolnshire, 1625-1633; deputy-governor of Massachusetts, 1635; governor, 1641; held the office uninterruptedly, 1666-72; assistant major-general, 1664. [iv. 194]

BELLINGS, RICHARD (d. 1677), Irish historian; studied at Lincoln's Inn; composed a sixth book to Sidney's 'Arcadia', 1638; Irish M.P.; secretary to supreme council of Irish confederation, 1642; royalist, 1646-8, retiring to France till Restoration; wrote a history of contemporary Irish affairs (part printed 1882). [iv. 194]

BELLOFAGO or BELLAFAGO. [See BRAUFU.]

BELLOMONT. [See BEAUMONT.]

BELLOMONT, CHARLES HENRY, EARL OF (d. 1683). [See KIRKHOVEN, CHARLES HENRY.]

BELLOT, HUGH (1542-1596), bishop; B.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1564; M.A. and fellow of Jesus College, 1567; D.D., 1579; bishop of Bangor, 1585; member of council of Wales; bishop of Chester, 1595; assisted William Morgan in translating bible into Welsh. [iv. 195]

BELLOT, THOMAS (1806-1857), surgeon and philologist; M.R.C.S., 1828; surgeon in navy, 1831; F.R.C.S., 1844; in charge of naval hospital of Therapia on Bosporus, 1844-5; published 'Sensory Derivations of English Words' (1856), and some classical translations. [iv. 195]

BELMEIS or BELESMAINS, JOHN, JOHN OF THE FAIR HANDS (d. 1203?), divine; brought up in household of archbishop Theobald; treasurer of York, c. 1168; friend and adviser of Becket during controversy with Henry II.; bishop of Poitiers, 1162; papal legate, c. 1177; one of five chief ecclesiastics sent to convert Toulouse, 1178; elected archbishop of Narbonne, 1181, but transferred by pope to see of Lyons; resigned, 1193; came to England to perform vows at Becket's tomb; retired to St. Bernard's abbey of Clairvaux, c. 1194; said to have written a history and other learned works, now lost. [iv. 196]

BELMEIS or BEAUMEIS, RICHARD DE, surnamed RUFUS (d. 1128), bishop; follower of Roger of Montgomery and Earl Hugh, but afterwards adherent of Henry I.; royal agent, till 1123, in Shropshire, the forfeited palatinate of Robert of Bellême; bishop of London, 1108; devoted revenue of bishopric to carrying out the rebuilding of St. Paul's; founded St. Osyth's Priory, Essex, where he died. [iv. 198]

BELMEIS or BEAUMEIS, RICHARD DE (d. 1162), bishop; nephew of Richard de Belmeis [q. v.]; at an early age prebendary of St. Paul's and prebendary of St. Alkmund, Shrewsbury; converted estates of secular canons of St. Alkmund to foundation of college at Lillieshall of canons regular of the Arroasian branch of Augustinian order; bishop of London, 1152. [iv. 200]

BELON, WILLIAM (1756-1817), divine; educated at Bene't College, Cambridge; for three years assistant master under Parr at Norwich grammar school; rector of All Hallows, London Wall, 1796; keeper of printed books at British Museum, 1803-6; contributed to ' Cooke's 'Biographical Dictionary,' and established with Archdeacon Nares the 'British Critic,' 1793. Works include 'Anecdotes of Literature and Scarce Books,' 1806-12, the 'Sexagenarian,' consisting of personal recollections, and several classical translations. [iv. 201]

BELPER, first BARON (1801-1880). [See STRUTT, EDWARD.]

BELSHAM, THOMAS (1750-1829), unitarian divine; minister of independent congregation at Worcester, 1778; professor of divinity at Daventry, 1781-9, and, having adopted unitarianism, at Hackney College, 1789-96; minister of Gravel Pit chapel, Hackney, 1794, and Essex Street chapel, 1805; published theological works. [iv. 202]

BELSHAM, WILLIAM (1752-1827), political writer and historian; brother of Thomas Belsham [q. v.]; published philosophical and historical works in support of whig principles. [iv. 203]

BELSON, JOHN (A. 1688), catholic gentleman; renowned for knowledge of history and controversial matters. [iv. 203]

BELSON, THOMAS (d. 1589), catholic gentleman; executed for assisting catholic priests. [iv. 204]

BELT, THOMAS (1832-1878), geologist; made geological investigations in Australian gold-diggings, 1852-62; superintendent of Nova Scotia Gold Company's mines, 1862; conducted gold-mining operations of Chontales Company, Nicaragua, 1868-72; fellow, Geological Society; died at Denver, Colorado; published works chiefly relating to glacial period. [iv. 204]

BELTZ, GEORGE FREDERICK (1777-1841), Lancaster herald; gentleman usher of scarlet rod of order of the Bath, and Brunswick herald, 1814; portcullis pursuivant, 1817-22; Lancaster herald, 1822; published genealogical writings. [iv. 204]

BELZONI, GIOVANNI BAPTISTA (1778-1823), actor, engineer, and traveller; born at Padua; came to London, 1803, and exhibited feats of strength at Astley's Amphitheatre; toured in Spain and Portugal, and introduced improved hydraulic machines in Egypt, 1815; engaged in archaeological exploration in Egypt, and published an account of his discoveries, 1820; died of dysentery at Gato, Benin, while on journey of exploration to Timbuktu. [iv. 205]

BEN, BANE, BENE, BENNET, or BIORT, JAMES (d. 1332), bishop; archdeacon and, 1328, bishop of St. Andrews; chamberlain of Scotland, c. 1331, on Baliol's invasion fled to Bruges, where he died. [iv. 206]

BENAZECH, CHARLES (1767?-1794), painter; son of Peter Paul Benazech [q. v.]; studied under Greuze in Paris. His best-known pictures are of incidents in French Revolution. [iv. 207]

BENAZECH, PETER PAUL (1744?-1783?), line-engraver; pupil of Francis Vivarès. [iv. 207]

BENBOW, JOHN (1658-1702), vice-admiral; served as master's mate in Mediterranean, 1678; master, 1679; probably in merchant service, 1681-9; captain, 1689; successively master attendant of Chatham and Deptford dockyards, 1690-8; master of the fleet in battle off Beachy Head, 1690, and Barfleur and La Hogue, 1692; commanded bombarding flotilla at St. Malo, 1693 and 1695, and at Dunkirk, 1694; commander-in-chief of squadron before Dunkirk, and, later, that in the Soundings, 1696; commander-in-chief in West Indies, 1698-1700, and in Downs, 1700-1; vice-admiral of the blue, 1701; again in West Indies, 1701-2; encountered French under Du Casse off Santa Marta, and followed them for several days, but gave up the pursuit because his captains protested against his plan; died of wounds at Port Royal. [iv. 207]

BENBOW, JOHN (1681?-1708), traveller, son of John Benbow (1658-1702) [q. v.]; volunteer in navy, 1695; joined merchant service; served in East Indies as fourth mate, and subsequently second mate, 1701; wrecked off Madagascar, captured by natives, but escaped and returned to England. [iv. 211]

BENDIGO (1811-1889). [See THOMPSON, WILLIAM.]

BENDINGS, WILLIAM (A. 1180), judge: one of Henry II's envoys to Ireland to fetch Reinmund Fitzgerald, 1176; appointed to northern circuit, 1179; sheriff of Dorset and Somerset, 1184. [iv. 212]

BENDISH, BRIDGET (1650-1726), daughter of General Henry Ireton, by Bridget, Oliver Cromwell's eldest daughter; married Thomas Bendish, 1670; said to have compromised herself in Rye House plot, 1683. [iv. 212]

BENDLOWES, EDWARD (1603?-1676). [See BENLOWES.]

BENDLOWES, WILLIAM (1516-1584), lawyer: educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn; serjeant-at-law, 1555; M.P. successively for Helston, Penryn, and Dunbeved, 1553-4; a governor of Lincoln's Inn, 1576; some of his reports published posthumously. [iv. 213]

BENEDICT (d. 1193), chancellor to archbishop of Canterbury, 1174; prior of Christ Church, Canterbury, 1175; abbot of Peterborough, 1177-93; built a large portion of his church; wrote histories of the passion and Thomas Becket's miracles. [iv. 213]

BENEDICT BISCO (628?-690), founder of monasteries; thegn of Oswin, king of Northumbria; monk of monastery of Lerins, 665-7; conducted Theodore of Tarsus from Rome to Canterbury, 669; abbot of St. Peter's, Canterbury, 669; built, 674, at mouth of river Wear, monastery of St. Peter, which by papal letter was exempted from external control, 678; established sister monastery of St. Paul at Jarrow; collected an extensive library. [iv. 214]

BENEDICT CHELYDONIUS or CALEDONIUS (A. 1519), abbot of Scottish monastery at Vienna; opponent of Luther. [iv. 216]

BENEDICT OF GLOUCESTER (A. 1120), monk of St. Peter's, Gloucester; compiled a life of St. Dubricius. [iv. 216]

BENEDICT OF NORWICH (A. 1340), abbot of Austin friars at Norwich; suffragan of Norwich; linguist, scientist, and theologian. [iv. 216]

BENEDICT, SIR JULIUS (1804-1885), musician; born at Stuttgart; pupil of J. C. L. Abelle, Hummel, and Weber; conductor at Kärnthnerthor Theatre, Vienna, 1823-5, and at San Carlo and Fondo theatres, Naples, 1826-35; conducted series of Italian comic operas at Lyceum, 1836; conductor of English opera, Drury Lane; accompanied Jenny Lind on American tour, 1850; conductor of Italian opera, 1852; for many years conducted Norwich festival; knighted, 1871; in 1882 was performed his well-known 'Lily of Killarney.' [iv. 216]

BENEFACIA, RICHARD (d. 1090?). [See CLARE, RICHARD DE.]

BENEFIELD, SEBASTIAN (1559-1630), divine; B.A. and M.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford; D.D., 1608; Margaret professor of divinity, 1613; rector of Meysey-Hampton, Gloucestershire; published scholarly religious works. [iv. 217]

BENESE, RICHARD (d. 1546), divine; B.O.L. Oxford, 1519; canon of Augustinian priory of Merton, which he surrendered to Henry VIII, 1538; published a work on land surveying. [iv. 218]

BENET, FATHER (1563-1611). [See OANFIELD, BENEDICT.]

BENET or BENEDICTUS, MAGISTER (d. 1224), bishop of Rochester; keeper of great seal on deposition of Longchamp, 1191; bishop of Rochester, 1215. [iv. 218]

BENET, WILLIAM (d. 1533), ambassador; LL.D.; canon of Leighlin, 1522; occasionally acted as Cardinal Wolsey's commissary; accompanied embassy to Rome, 1528, on business connected with Henry VIII's divorce; ambassador at Rome, 1529-33; died at Susa in Piedmont. [iv. 218]

BENEZET, ANTHONY (1713-1784), philanthropist; born at St. Quentin, France, whence his family came to England on account of their protestant opinions; joined Society of Friends; emigrated to America, 1781; schoolmaster in Friends' school, Philadelphia, 1743; founded school for females, 1765; interested himself in cause of negroes and Indians; published pamphlets embodying his religious and social opinions. [iv. 219]

BENFIELD, PAUL (d. 1810), Indian trader; civil servant of East India Company, 1764; acquired large fortune by trade contracts, and moneylending; ordered home and resigned the service, the character of a transaction between him and nabab of the Carnatic being called in question, 1777; M.P. for Oricklade, 1780; subsequently restored to his position; finally returned to England, 1793; lost fortune in unfortunate speculations; died in Paris in indigent circumstances. [iv. 220]

BENGER, ELIZABETH OGILVY (1778-1827), author; came to London, 1800; made acquaintance of the Lambes, Mrs. Inchbald, Campbell, Smirke the painter, and others; published poem 'On the Slave Trade,' illustrated with engravings after Smirke, 1809; wrote two novels, several historical works, and translated one volume of Klopstock's letters. [iv. 221]

BENHYEM or BENHAM, HUGO DE (d. 1282), bishop of Aberdeen, 1272; wrote theological works. [iv. 222]

BENISCH, ABRAHAM (1811-1878), hebraist; born of Jewish parents at Drosau, Bohemia; studied medicine at Vienna; settled in England, 1841; edited 'Jewish Chronicle,' 1854-69, and 1876-8; zealously promoted cause of his co-religionists; published works on Hebrew literature. [iv. 222]

BEN ISRAEL, MANASSEH (1604-1657). [See MANASSEH.]

BENJAMIN, JUDAH PHILIP (1811-1884), lawyer; born of Jewish parents of English nationality in St. Croix, West Indies; educated at Yale; called to the bar, New Orleans, 1832; counsellor of supreme court, New Orleans, 1848; senator for Louisiana, 1852 and 1857; on secession of South Carolina cast in his lot with the South and was attorney-general, and, later, acting secretary of war, in cabinet of Davis's provisional government for the Southern confederacy, 1861; secretary of state, 1864; on fall of confederacy came to England; studied English law at Lincoln's Inn; called to the bar, 1866; joined northern circuit; published a work on contract of sale (1868), which was immediately successful; 'Palatine silk' for county of Lancaster; obtained large practice, chiefly in colonial appeals before the privy council; retired, 1883; several of his speeches published. [iv. 222]

BENLOWES, EDWARD (1603?-1676), poet, educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; inherited estate of Brent Hall, but squandered his money on friends, among whom were many distinguished men; his chief work, 'Theophilus, or Love's Sacrifice' (1652), was illustrated by Hollar and others. [iv. 228]

BENN, GEORGE (1801-1882), historian; educated under Sheridan Knowles at Belfast; engaged in distilling near Downpatrick; subsequently discovered the presence of iron ore in Glenravel hills, which were successfully worked; published writings relating to history of Belfast. [iv. 227]

BENN or BEN, WILLIAM (1600-1680), divine; educated at Queen's College, Oxford; chaplain to Marchioness of Northampton; preacher at All Saints, Dorchester, 1629-62; ejected under Act of Uniformity; a volume of his sermons was published posthumously. [iv. 228]

BENNET, BENJAMIN (1674-1726), nonconformist divine; ordained, 1699; colleague with Richard Gilpin [q. v.] at Newcastle-on-Tyne, 1703; published hymns and religious and historical works including 'Memorial of Reformation in England,' 1717. [iv. 228]

BENNET, CHRISTOPHER (1617-1655), physician; M.A. Lincoln College, Oxford, 1639; incorporated M.A. Cambridge, where he graduated M.D. 1646; F.O.P., 1649; and censor, 1654; published treatise on consumption, 1654. [iv. 229]

BENNET, GEORGE (1750-1835), hebraist; presbyterian minister at Carlisle, and subsequently of Strathmiglo, Fife; devoted much time to study of Hebrew; one of principal contributors to 'British Critic'; published 'Olam Hanashamoth, a View of the Intermediate State,' 1800. [iv. 229]

BENNET, HENRY (A. 1561), of Calais; translator; published, 1561, a volume of translations from German reformers. [iv. 230]

BENNET, HENRY, first EARL OF ARLINGTON (1618-1686), member of Cabal ministry; grandson of Sir John Bennet [q. v.]; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; joined royal forces as volunteer; travelled in France and Italy; agent of Prince Charles at Madrid, 1658; keeper of privy purse after Restoration; secretary of state, 1662-74; M.P.; centre of opposition to Clarendon, 1663; created Lord Arlington, 1668; probably ultimately responsible for outbreak of first Dutch war; arranged conclusion of triple alliance, 1668; member of Cabal; arranged secret treaty of Dover, 1670; peer and K.G., 1672; unsuccessfully impeached in House of Commons as instrument of the king's evil measures, 1674; lord chamberlain, 1674; spent his last years in retirement. [iv. 230]

BENNET, JOHN (fl. 1600), musician; composed and published many excellent madrigals, 1599-1614. [iv. 233]

BENNET, SIR JOHN (d. 1627), ecclesiastic and civilian; educated at Christ Church, Oxford; junior proctor, 1585; LL.D., 1589; prebendary of York, 1591; vicar-general in spirituals to Archbishop of York; chancellor of the diocese; M.P. for Ripon, 1597 and 1603, and York, 1601; member of council of the north, 1599; knighted, 1603; judge of prerogative court of Canterbury; chancellor to Queen Anne of Denmark; M.P. for Oxford University, 1614 and 1620; impeached, 1621, for administering estates of intestates in consonance with wishes of highest bidder; trial discontinued by the Lords owing to his illness, but resumed in Star-chamber, 1622; sentenced to fine, imprisonment, and permanent disability from holding office; sentence remitted, with exception of fine, 1624. [iv. 233]

BENNET, JOHN (d. 1686), controversial writer; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1683; published (1683) a pamphlet in reply to Samuel Johnson's 'Julian the Apostate.' [iv. 236]

BENNET, JOSEPH (1629-1707), nonconformist divine; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1650; obtained living of Brightling, 1658; ejected under Act of Uniformity, 1662; subsequently took charge of nonconformist congregations at Hellingly and Hastings. [iv. 235]

BENNET, ROBERT (d. 1617), bishop; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1569; incorporated at Oxford, 1572; master of hospital of St. Cross, Winchester, 1583; dean of Windsor, 1595; registrar of order of Garter, 1596; bishop of Hereford, 1603. [iv. 236]

BENNET, ROBERT (1605-1683), parliamentary colonel during civil war; member of council of state, 1653; M.P. for Cornwall, 1653, for Launceston and Looe, 1654, and Launceston, 1659. [iv. 236]

BENNET or BENNETT, ROBERT (d. 1687), author; B.D. Oxford; rector of Waddesden, 1648; ejected 1682; subsequently preached to small congregation at Aylesbury; published 'Theological Concordance of Synonymous Terms in Holy Scriptures,' 1687. [iv. 237]

BENNET, SIR THOMAS (1592-1670), judge; LL.D. All Souls' College, Oxford, 1624; member of Gray's Inn; admitted to College of Advocates, 1636; master in chancery, 1635-70; knighted, 1661. [iv. 237]

BENNET, THOMAS (1645?-1681), grammarian; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1669; corrector of University Press; obtained livings of Steventon by Abingdon and Hungerford; published work known as 'Oxford [Latin] Grammar,' 1673. [iv. 237]

BENNET, THOMAS (1673-1728), divine; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1694; fellow; lecturer at St. Olave's, Southwark, deputy chaplain to Chelsea Hospital, and morning preacher at St. Lawrence Jewry, c. 1711; presented to St. Giles, Cripplegate; D.D., 1711; published works, including controversial treatises directed against dissenters and quakers, a paraphrase of the 'Book of Common Prayer, with Annotations' (1708), and a Hebrew grammar (1736). [iv. 238]

BENNET, WILLIAM (1746-1820), bishop of Cloyne; educated at Harrow and Emmanuel College, Cambridge; M.A., 1770; fellow, 1773; D.D., 1790; bishop of Cork and Ross, 1790-4, and of Cloyne, 1794-1820; F.R.S., 1790; published archaeological writings. [iv. 239]

BENNET or BENNETT, WILLIAM (1767?-1833?), musician; studied under J. C. Bach and Schroeter; organist of St. Andrew's, Plymouth, 1793; published musical compositions. [iv. 240]

BENNETT, AGNES MARIA (d. 1808), novelist; wrote seven novels, published between 1785 and 1816, several of which were translated into French. [iv. 240]

BENNETT, CHARLES HENRY (1829-1867), draughtsman on wood; worked on staff of 'Punch.' [iv. 241]

BENNETT, EDWARD TURNER (1797-1836), zoologist; surgeon in London; promoted establishment of entomological society, 1832, which ultimately developed into London Zoological Society; published zoological works. [iv. 241]

BENNETT, GEORGE JOHN (1800-1879), actor; served in navy, 1813-17; appeared at Covent Garden as Richard III and Hotspur, 1823; in Covent Garden company 1830-41; with Macready at Drury Lane, 1841-3, and with Phelps at Sadler's Wells, 1844-62. [iv. 241]

BENNETT, JAMES (1785-1856), printer and bookseller at Tewkesbury, 1810-52; published 'History of Tewkesbury,' 1830. [iv. 242]

BENNETT, JAMES (1774-1862), congregational minister; minister at Romsey, 1797-1813; tutor and pastor at Rotherham, 1813; transferred to London, 1828; secretary to London Missionary Society; published works, chiefly theological. [iv. 242]

BENNETT, JAMES GORDON (1800-1872), journalist; went to America, 1819; obtained employment in printing and publishing offices at Boston; successively on staff of 'Charleston Courier,' 'National Advocate,' and 'Enquirer'; started the short-lived 'New York Globe'; contributed to 'New York Mirror'; founded 'New York Herald,' of which for some time he prepared the entire contents, 1835; subsidised Stanley's expedition to find Livingstone, 1871-2. He made great improvements in the system of obtaining news, and regularly employed men of literary attainments. [iv. 243]

BENNETT, SIR JAMES RISDON (1809-1891), physician; son of Rev. James Bennett [q. v.]; M.D. Edinburgh, 1833; physician to Aldersgate Street dispensary, 1837; assistant physician to St. Thomas's Hospital, 1843, and physician, 1849; physician to City of London Hospital for Diseases of Chest, 1848; F.R.S., 1875; knighted and made president Royal College Physicians, 1876; published medical treatises. [Suppl. i. 168]

BENNETT, SIR JOHN (1814-1897), sheriff of London and Middlesex; brother of William Cox Bennett [q. v.]; watchmaker in Cheapside, 1846-89; sheriff of London and Middlesex, 1879; knighted; common councillor for ward of Cheap, 1863-89; thrice elected alderman, but each election annulled. [Suppl. i. 169]

BENNETT, JOHN HUGHES (1812-1875), physician and physiologist; apprenticed as surgeon at Maidstone, 1829; one of presidents of Royal Medical Society; M.D. Edinburgh, 1837; proceeded to Paris; founded, and was first president of, Parisian Medical Society; studied in Germany; lectured on histology at Edinburgh, 1841; F.R.S. and F.C.P. Edinburgh; physician to Royal Dispensary, and pathologist to Royal Infirmary; editor of 'London and Edinburgh Monthly Journal of Medical Science,' 1846; professor of Institutes of Medicine, Edinburgh, 1848-74; LL.D. Edinburgh, 1875. His works include important treatises on clinical medicine, physiology, pathology, pneumonia, cancerous and canceroid growths, and leucocythemia. [iv. 244]

BENNETT, JOHN JOSEPH (1801-1876), botanist; studied at Middlesex Hospital; was, till 1870, keeper of Banksian herbarium and library on its transfer to British Museum in 1837; F.R.S., 1841; F.L.S., 1828, and secretary, 1840-60; published botanical papers. [iv. 246]

BENNETT, WILLIAM COX (1820-1896), miscellaneous writer; watchmaker at Greenwich; on staff of 'Weekly Dispatch,' 1869-70; member of London council of the Education League; published songs and other writings. [Suppl. i. 168]

BENNETT, WILLIAM JAMES EARLY (1804-1886), ritualist divine; born at Halifax, Nova Scotia; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1829;

usher at Westminster School, 1826-8; minister of Portman Chapel, 1836-43, and of St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, 1840; attracted hostile notice owing to his ritualistic innovations and, in consequence, resigned incumbency, 1850; vicar of Frome Selwood, Somerset, 1852-86; published sermons and controversial and other religious writings. [Suppl. i. 169]

BENNETT, WILLIAM MINEARD (1778-1858), miniaturist; pupil of Sir Thomas Lawrence; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1812-16 and 1834-5. [iv. 247]

BENNETT, SIR WILLIAM STERNDALÉ (1816-1876), musical composer; in choir of King's College, Cambridge, 1824-6; studied violin under Oury and Spagnoletti, and piano under Cipriani Potter, and Ortoch at Royal Academy of Music, 1826-36; attracted Mendelssohn's attention by his first concerto (1832), which was the occasion of a long intimacy; organist at Wandsworth church, 1834; attended the Lower Rhine Festival conducted by Mendelssohn, 1836, and visited the Rhine, where he conceived the idea of the 'Naiads', which was produced at the Society of Musicians, 1837; conducted performance of the 'Naiads' at the Gewandhaus, Leipzig, 1837; took prominent part in forming Bach Society, 1849; appointed permanent conductor at Philharmonic Society's concerts, 1855, and professor of music at Cambridge, 1856; Mus. Doc., 1856; composed the 'May Queen', 1858; principal of Academy of Music, 1866; received Beethoven gold medal from Philharmonic Society, 1867; hon. M.A. Cambridge, 1867; D.C.L. Oxford, 1870; knighted, 1871. His works include overtures to the 'Tempest' (1832) and 'Merry Wives of Windsor' (1833); 'Paradise and the Peri' (1862), symphony in G minor (1864), 'Woman of Samaria' (1867), and 'Ajax' (1872). [iv. 247]

BENNIS, GEORGE GEARY (1790-1866), author; for some years grocer in Limerick; director of a bibliothèque des étrangers, Paris, 1830-6; librarian to British embassy; editor of 'Galignani's Messenger'; published miscellaneous works. [iv. 251]

BENOIST, ANTOINE (1721-1770), draughtsman and engraver; born at Soissons; teacher of drawing in England. [iv. 252]

BENOLT, THOMAS (d. 1534), herald; Berwick pursuivant in Edward IV's reign; Rougecroix pursuivant in Richard III's reign; Windsor herald under Henry VII; Norroy king-at-arms, 1510; Clarendieux king-at-arms, 1511; issued the challenges for tournaments at Field of Cloth of Gold, 1520. [iv. 252]

BENSLY, ROBERT (1738?-1817?), actor; appeared at Drury Lane as Pierre ('Venice Preserved'), 1765, subsequently playing Edmund ('King Lear'), Buckingham ('Richard III'), and Merlin ('Cymon') at Covent Garden, 1767-76; alternated between Drury Lane and Haymarket, 1776 to 1796, when he retired from stage with a benefit performance of the 'Grecian Daughter', in which he took Evander to Mrs. Siddons's Euphrasia. [iv. 253]

BENSLEY, THOMAS (d. 1833), printer; produced Macklin's folio bible (1800), Hume's 'History of England', and an octavo Shakespeare; originated some mechanical adjustments adopted by the 'Times', 1814. [iv. 254]

BENSLY, ROBERT LUBBOCK (1831-1893), orientalist; educated at King's College, London, and Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge; B.A., 1855; lecturer in Hebrew, 1861-89; fellow, 1876-93; under-librarian of the university, 1864-76; Lord Almoner's professor of Arabic, 1887-93; member of Old Testament revision committee, 1870; published translations and works connected with oriental research. [Suppl. i. 171]

BENSON, CHRISTOPHER (1789-1868), divine; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1815; first Hulsean lecturer, Cambridge, 1820; canon of Worcester, 1825; for several years master of the Temple; published religious works, including 'Chronology of our Saviour's Life' (1819). [iv. 255]

BENSON, EDWARD WHITE (1829-1896), archbishop of Canterbury; educated at King Edward's School, Birmingham, and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1852; senior chancellor's medalist; master at Rugby, 1852; fellow of Trinity, 1853; ordained deacon, 1853; for several years master of the Temple; published religious works, including 'Chronology of our Saviour's Life' (1819). [iv. 255]

BENSON, EDWARD WHITE (1829-1896), archbishop of Canterbury; educated at King Edward's School, Birmingham, and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1852; senior chancellor's medalist; master at Rugby, 1852; fellow of Trinity, 1853; ordained deacon, 1853; for several years master of the Temple; published religious works, including 'Chronology of our Saviour's Life' (1819). [iv. 255]

BENSON, EDWARD WHITE (1829-1896), archbishop of Canterbury; educated at King Edward's School, Birmingham, and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1852; senior chancellor's medalist; master at Rugby, 1852; fellow of Trinity, 1853; ordained deacon, 1853; for several years master of the Temple; published religious works, including 'Chronology of our Saviour's Life' (1819). [iv. 255]

bishop of Truro, 1877; formed divinity school at Truro; served on royal commission upon ecclesiastical courts, 1881; archbishop of Canterbury, 1893; advocated Parish Councils Bill in House of Lords, 1893; member of 'sweating' committee of House of Lords; introduced Clergy Discipline Bill, passed, 1892; obtained appointment of royal commission to inquire into working of Education Acts, 1886; created house of laymen to sit in connection with convocation of his province, 1886; vigorously opposed disestablishment of Welsh church, and organised Central Church Committee for Church Defence and Instruction, 1893; presided and delivered judgment at trial of Dr. Edward King, bishop of Lincoln, for alleged ritual offences, 1889-90; made preaching tour in Ireland, 1896; published sermons and other works, including 'Cyprian: his Life, his Times, his Work' (posthumously, 1897), and 'The Apocalypse' (posthumously, 1900). [Suppl. i. 171]

BENSON, GEORGE (1699-1762), divine; educated at Glasgow; pastor of congregation of protestant dissenters at Abingdon, 1723; embraced Arminian doctrines; joint pastor of presbyterian congregation at Birmingham, c. 1742; D.D. Aberdeen, 1744; pastor of congregation of protestant dissenters in Poor Jewry Lane, Crutchedfriars, 1749-63; published theological works, including paraphrases of St. Paul's Epistles and the Seven Catholic Epistles, and, in 1738, a 'History of the First Planting of the Christian Religion'. [iv. 255]

BENSON, SIR JOHN (1812-1874), architect and engineer; county surveyor to East Riding of York, 1846; engineer to Cork harbour commissioners, 1850; architect of Great Industrial Exhibition, Dublin, 1853; knighted, 1863. [iv. 257]

BENSON, JOSEPH (1749-1821), Scottish divine; educated under presbyterian minister, but subsequently joined methodists; opened school in Cumberland, c. 1765; went to London, 1766; appointed by Wesley classical master of Kingswood school; entered St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, 1769; presented to parish of Rowley, near West Bromwich; became famous as a preacher; published controversial and other religious works. [iv. 257]

BENSON, MARTIN (1689-1752), bishop; educated at Charterhouse and Christ Church, Oxford; prebendary of Durham, 1724; chaplain to Prince of Wales, 1728; rector of Bletchley, 1727; D.D. Cambridge, 1728; bishop of Gloucester, 1736. [iv. 258]

BENSON, ROBERT, BARON BINGLEY (1676-1731), politician; M.P. for Thetford, 1702-6, and York, 1706-13; treasury lord, 1710; chancellor, under-treasurer of exchequer, and privy councillor, 1711; raised to peerage, 1713; ambassador-extraordinary to Spain, 1713; treasurer of household, 1730. [iv. 259]

BENSON, ROBERT (1797-1844), lawyer; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1821; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1821; practised in equity courts; recorder of Salisbury, 1836. His works include, 'Memoirs of Rev. Arthur Collier' (1837). [iv. 259]

BENSON or BOSTON, WILLIAM (d. 1549), divine; member of Benedictine house at Boston, Lincolnshire; B.D. Cambridge, 1521; D.D., 1528; abbot of Benedictine monastery of St. Mary and St. Mowden, Burton-on-Trent, 1531; abbot of monastery of Westminster, 1533; surrendered monastery to the king, and was dean of Westminster, 1540. [iv. 259]

BENSON, WILLIAM (1682-1754), critic and politician; sheriff of Wiltshire, 1710; published 'Letter to Sir Jacob Banks . . . concerning the late Minehead Doctrine,' 1711; M.P. for Shaftesbury, 1715; surveyor-general of works in place of Sir Christopher Wren; auditor of the impost; a generous patron of literature; erected monument to Milton in Westminster Abbey. [iv. 261]

BENSTEDE, SIR JOHN DE (d. 1323?), judge; keeper of great seal, 1297, 1298, and 1304-5; chancellor of exchequer, 1305-7; keeper of wardrobe, 1308; one of commission of trailbaston on northern circuit, 1308; justice of common bench, 1307, and of common pleas, 1309. [iv. 261]

BENT, JAMES THEODORE (1852-1897), explorer and archaeologist; educated at Repton school and Wadham College, Oxford; B.A., 1875; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1874; travelled abroad; studied local traditions and customs in Karpatoth, Samos, and Thasos, 1886-7, and engaged in archæological research on coast of Asia Minor, 1888-9, Bahrain Islands, 1889, Ollioia Tracheia, 1890, Mashonaland, 1891, Abyssinia, 1893, and the Arabian peninsula, 1893-7; published works relating to his travels. [Suppl. i. 179]

BENTHAM, EDWARD (1707-1776), divine; entered Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1724; vice-principal, Magdalen Hall 1730; fellow of Oriel, 1731; M.A., 1732; prebendary of Hereford, 1748; D.D., 1749; canon of Christ Church, Oxford, 1764; regius professor of divinity, 1763; published philosophical, religious, and other works. [iv. 262]

BENTHAM, GEORGE (1800-1884), botanist; son of Sir Samuel Bentham [q. v.], and nephew of Jeremy Bentham [q. v.]; lived in France, 1814-27; studied at Montauban; published translations in French from works of Jeremy Bentham (Paris, 1823), and 'Catalogue des Plantes indigènes des Pyrénées, &c. (1826); studied at Lincoln's Inn, 1826; published, 1827, 'Outlines of a new System of Logic,' in which the doctrine of qualification of predicate was first clearly set forth; F.L.S., 1828; honorary secretary of Horticultural Society, 1829-40; published memoirs of genera and natural orders of Indian plants, 1832-6; published 'Handbook of British Flora,' 1858; worked on descriptive botany at Kew after 1861, and produced works on flora of Hongkong and Australia, 'Genera Plantarum' (7 vols., 1863-78), and 'Outlines of Botany'; vice-president, Linnean Society, 1858; president, 1861-74; member of Royal Society, 1862; received royal medal, 1869; O.M.G., 1878. [iv. 263]

BENTHAM, JAMES (1708-1794), divine; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1738; vicar of Stapleford, Cambridgeshire, 1733-7; minor canon of Ely, 1737; rector of Feltwell St. Nicholas, Norfolk, 1768-74, and of Northwold, 1774-9; prebendary of Ely, 1779; published 'History of Ely Cathedral,' 1771, and two works embodying suggestions for improvement of the fen country. [iv. 267]

BENTHAM, JEREMY (1748-1832), writer on jurisprudence; educated at Westminster and Queen's College, Oxford; M.A., 1766; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, of which society he became a member in 1817; made very little effort to succeed as a barrister, but turned his mind to physical science and speculations on politics and jurisprudence; produced, between 1776 and 1780, work printed in 1780 as 'Introduction to Principles of Morals and Legislation'; published anonymously, 1776, 'Fragment on Government,' a masterly criticism on Blackstone's 'Commentaries,' which obtained for him the friendship of Lord Shelburne; wrote, in Russia, 'Defence of Usury,' and a series of letters on a 'Panopticon, or house for inspection of industries, by which he hoped to improve the condition of prison discipline, the scheme meeting with considerable favour, though a partial failure; published 'Protest against Law Taxes' and 'Supply without Burden, or Evasive vice Taxation,' 1795; directed his attention to defects of poor laws, 1797-8; completed criticism on working of English libel law, 1809; wrote, at Ford Abbey, 'Chrestomathia,' 'The Church of England and its Catechism,' and 'Not Paul, but Christ'; published 'A Catechism of Parliamentary Reform,' 1817; aided in establishing 'Westminster Review,' 1823; published 'Petition for Justice,' 1829, letters advocating sale of public offices, 1830, and 'Pannomial Fragments,' 1831. In his numerous works Bentham sought to compass the whole field of ethics, jurisprudence, logic, and political economy. To the last science his contributions are of small account, and to the literature of logic he made no very valuable additions; his nephew, George Bentham's 'Outlines of a New System of Logic' contains his ideas on the subject. His influence on jurisprudence and ethics can scarcely be over-estimated. His 'Introduction to Principles of Morals and Legislation' expounded many schemes which since his time have been applied to the amendment of the administration of justice. In the history of ethics he stands out as one of the ablest champions of utilitarianism. [iv. 268]

BENTHAM, JOSEPH (1694?-1671), divine; rector of Broughton and, later, of Neather Wickenden, Buckinghamshire; sequestered by order of parliament, 1643; restored to parish of Broughton, 1660; published sermons and religious treatises. [iv. 280]

BENTHAM, SIR SAMUEL (1757-1831), naval architect and engineer; brother of Jeremy Bentham [q. v.];

educated at Westminster; apprenticed as shipwright; travelled in Russia and Siberia, studying methods of working metals, 1780-2; received rank of lieutenant-colonel from Prince Potemkin, who made him superintendent of his shipbuilding yard at Kritehev; directed equipment of flotilla at Oherson for service against Turks, 1787; commanded flotilla in the Liman, 1788, and received military cross of St. George, rank of brigadier-general, and sword of honour; returned to England, 1791; assisted Jeremy Bentham in fitting up his Panopticon; inspector-general of navy works, 1795-1807; introduced numerous improvements in machinery of dock-yard and build of ships; commissioner of the navy, 1807-12; published papers on professional subjects. [iv. 281]

BENTHAM, THOMAS (1513-1578), bishop; perpetual fellow, Magdalen College, Oxford, 1546; M.A., 1547; ejected from fellowship, 1553; bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, 1559; D.D., 1565; translated Ezekiel and Daniel (1568) in the Bishops' Bible. [iv. 284]

BENTINCK, LORD GEORGE, whose full christian names were WILLIAM GEORGE FREDERIC CAVENDISH (1802-1848), statesman; fifth child and second surviving son of fourth Duke of Portland; cornet, 10th hussars, 1819; private secretary to Canning (who married Bentinck's mother's sister) when Canning was foreign secretary and leader of House of Commons; major, 2nd life guards, 1826; M.P. for King's Lynn, 1826-48; devoted himself to horse-racing; rode his first public match at Goodwood, 1824; introduced many improvements in management of racecourse; strongly opposed Sir Robert Peel's measures for suspension of restrictions on imported corn to meet failure of potato crop in Ireland and insufficient supply of corn in England; accepted leadership of protectionists, 1846; sold his racing stud, 1846; proposed a scheme, which was rejected, for employment of distressed Irish on construction of railways in Ireland, 1847; resigned leadership, December 1847; chairman of committee to inquire into interests of sugar and coffee planters, 1848; advocated unsuccessfully maintenance of protective duty on foreign sugar. [iv. 297]

BENTINCK, SIR HENRY JOHN WILLIAM (1796-1878), general; ensign, Coldstream guards, 1813; lieutenant-colonel, 1851; served in Crimea; colonel, 1854; K.O.B., 1855; general, 1867. [iv. 284]

BENTINCK, JOHN ALBERT (1737-1775), captain; grandson of William Bentinck, first earl of Portland [q. v.]; midshipman, 1753; commander, under Lord Anson at St. Malo, 1758; captain, 1758; employed in cruising, 1760-2; held various commands at Portsmouth, 1766-73; count of the empire. [iv. 285]

BENTINCK, WILLIAM, first EARL OF PORTLAND (1649-1709), son of Henry Bentinck of Diepenheim; page of honour in William of Orange's household; gentleman of prince's bedchamber; accompanied William to England, 1670; D.C.L. Oxford, 1670; sent by William on mission to Charles II to negotiate the marriage with Princess Mary, which took place in 1677; took large share in preparations for William's invasion of England, 1688; created Baron Cirencester, Viscount Woodstock, and Earl of Portland, and appointed groom of the stole, first gentleman of the bedchamber and privy councillor, on coronation of William and Mary; obtained command of regiment of Dutch guards, and subsequently held rank of lieutenant-general in English army; became the most trusted agent of William's foreign policy; accompanied king on his Irish campaign, 1690, at Landen, 1693, and in Dutch campaign, 1694; K.G., 1697; conducted negotiations for peace of Ryswyk, 1697; went on an embassy to France to treat concerning Spanish succession, 1698; signed first partition treaty, 1698; resigned places in royal household from jealousy of Albemarle, 1699; took active part in direction of Scottish affairs, and incurred much odium by collapse of Darien scheme; signed second partition treaty, 1700; his impeachment in House of Lords after debates on partition treaties dismissed, 1701. [iv. 285]

BENTINCK, LORD WILLIAM CAVENDISH (1774-1839), governor-general of India; second son of William Henry, third duke of Portland [q. v.]; captain, 1792; lieutenant-colonel, 24th light dragoons, 1794; on Duke of York's staff in Netherlands, 1794; attached to headquarters staff of Marshal Suwarroff's army in Italy and served in campaigns of 1799; with Austrian forces, 1801; governor of Madras, 1803; major-general; recalled after mutiny at Velore, for which he was held mainly responsible, 1807; commanded brigade at Coruña; lieutenant-general; commander-in-chief of British forces in Sicily, 1811; served in Spain, 1813; commanded successful expedition against Genoa, 1814; governor-general of Bengal, 1827; effected important financial reforms, and greatly improved condition of revenue, reorganised judicial department, and extended system of employment of natives in official positions; first governor-general of India, 1833; met Macaulay, with whom he contracted a warm friendship; returned to England, 1835; liberal M.P. for Glasgow, 1837. [iv. 292]

BENTINCK, WILLIAM HENRY CAVENDISH, third DUKE OF PORTLAND (1738-1809), statesman; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; M.P. for Weobly, Herefordshire, 1760; succeeded to dukedom, 1762; lord chamberlain of household and privy councillor, 1765; married Lady Dorothy Cavendish, daughter of William, fourth duke of Devonshire, 1768; lord lieutenant of Ireland, 1782; prime minister, 1783; chancellor of Oxford University, 1792; allied with Pitt at time of French revolution; home secretary, 1794-1801; K.G. and lord lieutenant of Nottinghamshire, 1794; greatly assisted passing of Act of Union with Ireland, 1798; lord president of the council in Addington's and Pitt's cabinets; retired on death of Pitt, but returned to public life when Pitt's friends came again into power, 1807; prime minister, 1807; resigned, 1809. [iv. 302]

BENTINCK-SCOTT, WILLIAM JOHN CAVENDISH, fifth DUKE OF PORTLAND (1800-1879), succeeded to his brother's title of Marquis of Titchfield, 1824; M.P. for King's Lynn, 1824-6; succeeded to dukedom, 1854; deputy lieutenant of Nottinghamshire, 1859-79; lived life of a recluse. [iv. 304]

BENTLEY, CHARLES (1806-1854), painter; member of old Water-Colour Society, 1844; painted chiefly coast and river scenes. [iv. 305]

BENTLEY, GEORGE (1828-1895), publisher and author; son of Richard Bentley (1794-1871) [q. v.]; educated at King's College, London; entered his father's office, c. 1845; edited 'Temple Bar Magazine', 1866-95; succeeded his father as publisher in ordinary to the queen; member of Stationers' Company and F.R.G.S. Among the more notable novelists whom he introduced to the public are Wilkie Collins, Mrs. Henry Wood, Miss Rhoda Broughton, Miss 'Marie Corelli', Mr. 'Maarten Maartens', and Mrs. Riddell. [Suppl. i. 180]

BENTLEY, SIR JOHN (d. 1772), vice-admiral; entered navy, c. 1720; lieutenant, 1734; commander after battle of Toulon, 1744; served at Finisterre and in Bay of Biscay, 1747, and at blockade of Brest, 1759; knighted, 1759; commissioner of navy, 1761; promoted to flag, 1763; vice-admiral, 1770. [iv. 305]

BENTLEY, JOSEPH CLAYTON (1809-1851), landscape painter and line-engraver; exhibited paintings at London and provincial exhibitions from 1833. Some of his best engravings are in Vernon Gallery. [iv. 306]

BENTLEY, NATHANIEL (1735?-1809), bean; called DIRTY DICK; known for many years as the 'Beau of Leadenhall Street' (where he kept a warehouse); frequently presented himself at court, but in later life developed habits of squalor, the filth of his premises becoming proverbial. [iv. 306]

BENTLEY, RICHARD (1662-1742), scholar and critic; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1680; master of Spalding school, Lincolnshire, 1682; appointed chaplain to Stillingfleet, bishop of Worcester, 1690; brought into great repute as a minute and accurate scholar by his critical letter to Mill in Mill's edition of the 'Oribonicle of Malelas', 1691; delivered the first course of Boyle lectures, taking as his subject 'A Confutation of Atheism', 1692; prebendary of Worcester, 1692; keeper of royal libraries and F.R.S., 1694; chaplain in ordinary to king, 1695; contributed to second edition of William Wotton's 'Reflections on Ancient and Modern Learning' (1697), an essay in which he proved the 'Letters of Phalaris' to be forgeries, and reviewed an edition of them edited, in 1695, by the Hon. Charles Boyle, who had printed in his preface an insolent reference to Bentley; answered by Boyle and his friends in 'Dr. Bentley's Dissertations on the Epistles of Phalaris,' &c., 1698; retaliated in 1699, with his 'Dissertation on the Letters of Phalaris,' which effectually crushed his aggressors and takes rank as a permanent masterpiece of literature; master of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1700-42; having committed a number of petty encroachments on the privileges of the fellows, he was, 1714, brought to trial before the bishop of Ely (Moore), who died before delivering sentence, leaving judgment against Bentley among his papers; ruled with practically despotic power, and in 1733 was again brought before bishop of Ely (Dr. Greene) and deprived of his mastership, but retained it because the successive vice-masters, who alone could execute the sentence, refused to act against him. His works include valuable editions of many classical authors, including a daring Horace, 1711, and a somewhat unsympathetic edition of 'Paradise Lost', 1732. Among his numerous contributions to classical scholarship may be mentioned his discovery and restoration of the 'digamma' to certain words in the Homeric poems. [iv. 306]

BENTLEY, RICHARD (1708-1782), miscellaneous writer; youngest son of Richard Bentley (1662-1742) [q. v.]; entered Trinity College, Cambridge, 1718; fellow, 1723; lived many years in south of France and in Jersey; constant correspondent of Horace Walpole until 1761, when there was a rupture between them; executed drawings for editions of Gray's poems printed by Walpole, 1753; wrote, after 1761, some unsuccessful plays. [iv. 314]

BENTLEY, RICHARD (1794-1871), publisher; educated at St. Paul's School; joined his brother Samuel [q. v.] in printing business, 1819; in partnership (1829) with Henry Colburn; started 'Bentley's Miscellany,' with Dickens as editor, 1837; published 'Young England' newspaper, 1845, and 'Bentley's Quarterly Review,' 1859; one of his successful ventures was the issue of 127 volumes of 'Standard Novels.' [iv. 316]

BENTLEY, ROBERT (1821-1893), botanist; studied medicine at King's College, London; M.R.C.S., 1847; F.L.S., 1849; lectured on botany, London Hospital; professor of botany at London Institution and King's College, and of botany and materia medica to Pharmaceutical Society; edited 'Pharmaceutical Journal'; published botanical writings. [Suppl. i. 181]

BENTLEY, SAMUEL (1786-1868), printer and antiquary; brother of Richard Bentley (1794-1871) [q. v.]; educated at St. Paul's School; in partnership with John Nichols, his brother Richard [q. v.], 1819, and, later, with his nephew, John Bentley, Wilson, and Fley. He prepared and published several antiquarian works, including 'Excerpta Historica' (1831). [iv. 317]

BENTLEY, THOMAS (1693?-1742), classical scholar; grandson of Thomas Bentley, half-brother of Dr. Richard Bentley (1662-1742) [q. v.]; educated at St. Paul's School and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1715; fellow; librarian of Trinity; LL.D., 1724; published annotated editions of classical authors, including Horace (1713), and Callimachus (1741). [iv. 318]

BENTLEY, THOMAS (1731-1780), manufacturer of porcelain; apprenticed to woollen and cotton trades in Manchester; removed to Liverpool, 1754, where he was a prominent member of the body of dissenters called Octagonians; entered into partnership with Josiah Wedgwood for manufacture and sale of ornamental pottery, 1768; came to London, 1769. [iv. 317]

BENWELL, JOHN HODGES (1764-1785), genre painter; studied at Royal Academy; executed drawings in water-colours combined with crayons. [iv. 319]

BENWELL, MARY (fl. 1761-1800), portrait painter; exhibited crayon portraits and miniatures at Incorporated Society of Artists and Royal Academy, 1761-91. [iv. 319]

BENWELL, WILLIAM (1765-1796), classical scholar; M.A. Trinity College, Oxford, 1789; rector of Chilton, Suffolk. He edited Xenophon's 'Memorabilia,' 1804. [iv. 319]

BENYNG OR DE BININ WILLIAM (fl. 1350), biographer; prior of Cistercian abbey of Newbattle until 1243; abbot of Cupar, 1243-58; wrote life of John Scot, bishop of Dunkeld. [iv. 320]

BEORHTRIC OR BEIHTRIC, king of the West-Saxons (d. 803), succeeded Cynwulf, 786; married Eadburh, daughter of Offa, king of the Mercians, 787; died from the effects of poison prepared by Eadburh for her husband's favourite. During his reign the Northmen first landed (787) in England. [iv. 320]

BEORHTWULF or BERTULF, king of the Mercians (d. 852), succeeded Wiglaf, 839; defeated by invading Danes, 851. [iv. 320]

BEORN, Earl of the Middle Angles (d. 1049), son of Ulf and Estrith, Cnut's sister; received earldom, c. 1045; murdered by order of Godwine's eldest son, Sweyn, who had been banished, 1046, and whose lands had been divided between Beorn and Harold. [iv. 320]

BEORNWULF, king of the Mercians (d. 826), deposed Ceolwulf and succeeded to kingdom, 823; settled, at councils held at Clevesho, 824 and 825, the long dispute between see of Canterbury and Mercian crown; defeated at Ellandune by Egberht, king of Wessex, 825; killed in fight against East Anglians. [iv. 321]

BERANGER, GABRIEL (d. 1817), artist; born in Rotterdam; opened print shop and artist's warehouse, Dublin, 1750; antiquarian draughtsman in Dublin exchequer office; executed drawings of antiquities in many parts of Ireland. [iv. 322]

BERCHET, PETER (1659-1720), painter; born in France; worked on decorations of William III's palace at Loo; executed paintings in several important buildings in England. [iv. 322]

BERCHTHUN, SAINT (d. 733), abbot; first abbot of Beverley, 700. [iv. 322]

BERDMORE, SAMUEL (1740-1802), master of Charterhouse; B.A. Jesus College, Cambridge, 1759; fellow; M.A., 1762; master of Charterhouse School, 1769-1791; D.D., 1773; published works of criticism on poetry. [iv. 323]

BERE, RICHARD (d. 1524), scholar; abbot of Glastonbury, 1493; accompanied an embassy to Rome, 1503; engaged with archbishop Warham in dispute concerning genuineness of relics of St. Dunstan at Glastonbury, which was still unsettled when he died. [iv. 323]

BEREBLOCK, JOHN (A. 1566). [See BEARBLOCK.]

BEREFORD, RALPH DE (A. 1329), judge; served on commissions of oyer and terminer in various counties, 1314-24; justice itinerant, c. 1330. [iv. 324]

BEREFORD, RICHARD DE (A. 1283-1317), judge; treasurer of Irish exchequer, 1300; justice of assize for six English counties, 1310; chancellor of Ireland, 1314. [iv. 324]

BEREFORD, WILLIAM DE (d. 1326), judge; probably justice itinerant, c. 1292; appointed justice of common bench, 1294 and 1307; one of twenty-one English members of parliament appointed to confer on Scottish affairs with Scottish representatives, 1305; chief justice of common bench, 1309. [iv. 324]

BERENGARIA (d. after 1230), queen of Richard I; daughter of Sancho VI of Navarre; married and crowned at Limasol, Cyprus, 1191; proceeded to Acre and remained there till 1192, when she travelled to Sicily, Rome, Pisa, Genoa, Marseilles, and Poitou; was perhaps with Richard at Chaluz when he received his death wound; founded, 1230, Clisterian monastery at Espan, in Maine, where she was buried. [iv. 325]

BERENGER, RICHARD (d. 1783), for many years gentleman of horse to George III; famous for his charming manner in social life; published works on horsemanship and some poems and essays. [iv. 326]

BERESFORD, JAMES (1764-1840), miscellaneous writer; M.A. Merton College, Oxford, 1798; fellow; rector of Kibworth Beauchamp, Leicestershire; author of 'Miseries of Human Life', 1867. [iv. 327]

BERESFORD, JOHN (1738-1805), Irish statesman; second son of Marcus, earl of Tyrone; B.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1757; called to bar, 1780, but never practised; M.P. for Waterford, 1760-1805; privy councillor, 1768; first commissioner of revenue, 1780; introduced reforms in methods of revenue collection and greatly improved architecture and street communication of Dublin; principal adviser of Pitt in his Irish policy; privy councillor of England, 1786; dismissed from office by Lord Fitzwilliam, 1795, but reinstated on Fitzwilliam's recall; helped to bring about the union, 1801; retired from office, 1802. [iv. 327]

BERESFORD, LORD JOHN GEORGE DE LA POER (1773-1862), primate of Ireland; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1796; D.D., 1806; priest, 1797; dean of St. Macartin's, Clogher, 1799; bishop of Cork and Ross, 1805, of Raphoe, 1807, and of Clogher, 1819; archbishop of Dublin and privy councillor in Ireland, 1820; archbishop of Armagh and primate of Ireland, 1822; vice-chancellor of Dublin University, 1829, and chancellor, 1851; published speeches and sermons. [iv. 328]

BERESFORD, SIR JOHN POO (1768-1844), admiral; natural son of Lord de la Poer (afterwards Marquis of Waterford); entered navy, 1782; captain, 1795; successfully engaged French in Hampton roads, 1795; commanded in North Sea, 1803, and on North American station, 1806; commanded blockade of Lorient, 1808-9; senior officer off Brest, 1810, in North Sea, 1811, and on American coast, 1812-14; commanded Royal Sovereign yacht, 1814; baronet and rear-admiral, 1814; K.C.B., 1819; commanded at Leith, 1820-3, and at Nore, 1830-3; vice-admiral, 1821; admiral, 1838; represented various constituencies in parliament between 1812 and 1835. [iv. 329]

BERESFORD, MARCUS GERVAIS (1801-1885), archbishop of Armagh; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1828; D.D., 1840; rector of Kildallon, co. Cavan, 1824; vicar of Drung and Larah, c. 1827; archdeacon of Ardagh, 1839; bishop of Kilmore and Ardagh, 1854; bishop of Clogher and archbishop of Armagh, 1862; Irish privy councillor; honorary D.C.L. Oxford, 1864. [Suppl. i. 182]

BERESFORD, WILLIAM CARR, VISCOUNT BERESFORD (1768-1854), general; illegitimate son of George de la Poer Beresford, marquis of Waterford; entered military school, Strasburg, 1785; ensign, 1785; served in Nova Scotia, 1786; captain, 1791; at Toulon, 1791-3; in Corsica, at captures of Martello, Bastia, Calvi, and San Fiorenzo, 1794; brevet-major; lieutenant-colonel, 1794; commanded Connaught rangers in reconquest of West Indies, 1795, in Jersey, 1797-9, India, 1800, and Egypt, 1801-3; brevet-colonel, 1803; commanded first brigade at capture of the Cape, 1805; in conjunction with Sir Home Popham captured Buenos Ayres, but being compelled subsequently to capitulate, was there imprisoned for six months; returned to England, 1807; occupied Madeira as governor and commander-in-chief, in name of king of Portugal, 1807-8; major-general and commandant of Lisbon, 1808; fought at Ocufoia, 1809; marshal in Portuguese army; local lieutenant-general in Portugal, 1809; reorganised Portuguese army; K.B. and Conde de Trancoso in Portuguese peerage, 1810; with valuable assistance from Colonel Hardinge, quartermaster-general of Portuguese army, won battle of Albuera, 1811; wounded at Badajoz; present at Vittoria and battles of Pyrenees, 1813; commanded centre of army at battles of Nivelle, the Nive, and Orthez, 1814; created Lord Beresford of Albuera and Cappoquin, co. Carlow, after battle of Toulouse; resumed command of Portuguese army at Lisbon; lieutenant-general, 1812; governor of Jersey, 1814; returned to England, 1822; lieutenant-general of ordnance and colonel of 16th regiment, 1822; Viscount Beresford, 1823; general, 1825; master-general of ordnance, 1828-30; published pamphlets defending his conduct at Albuera against attacks by Colonel Napier. [iv. 330]

BEREWYK, JOHN DE (d. 1312), judge; entrusted with charge of vacant abbey of St. Edmund, 1279, and of see of Lincoln 1279-81; treasurer of Queen Eleanor, 1284; justice itinerant, 1292. [iv. 335]

BERGENROTH, GUSTAV ADOLPH (1813-1869), historical student; born at Oletzko, East Prussia; educated at Königsberg University; manifested advanced democratic opinions in outbreak of 1848; emigrated to California, 1850; came to London with view of studying Tudor period of history, 1857; after research in Spanish archives at Simancas, published (1862-8) calendar of Simancas documents relating to English affairs between 1485 and 1525; died at Madrid. [iv. 335]

BERGNE, JOHN BRODRIBB (1800-1873), numismatist and antiquary; entered foreign office, 1817, and was superintendent of treaty department, 1854-73; member of commission to revise slave trade instructions, 1855; a founder and treasurer (1845-57) of the Numismatic Society; F.S.A.; contributed to 'Numismatic Chronicle.' [iv. 336]

BERINGTON, CHARLES (1748-1798), catholic divine; educated at Douay and in English seminary, Paris; D.D., 1776; member of catholic committee, 1788; vicar-apostolic of midland district, 1795; renounced, under compulsion of the holy see, the committee's doctrines, 1797. [iv. 337]

BERINGTON, JOSEPH (1746-1827), catholic divine; educated at St. Omer; ordained priest in France; leader of fifteen priests known as 'Staffordshire Clergy'; priest at Oscott, 1786, and subsequently in London district, from which he was twice suspended for opinions expressed in certain of his works; priest at Buckland, Berkshire, 1814-27; published philosophical, historical, and theological works. [iv. 337]

BERKELEY, FAMILY OF. Roger, first tenant of Berkeley, 1086, was succeeded by his nephew William, and by William's son. Part of Berkeley, with the castle, passed in Henry II's reign to Robert Fitz-Harding, whose family intermarried with the Berkeleys, and has held the property for seven hundred years. From one of Fitz-Harding's descendants sprang the Berkeley family of Beverston Castle, important in fifteenth and sixteenth centuries; while from another came the Berkeleys of Stoke Gifford, Gloucestershire, of Bruton and Pyll, Somerset (now represented by Edward Berkeley-Portman, Baron, 1837, and Viscount Portman, 1873), and of Boycourt, Kent. Berkeley Castle ultimately passed to James Berkeley, who was summoned to parliament, 1421-61, in right of his possession of the castle. From James's youngest son was descended Chief Baron Sir Robert Berkeley (d. 1656) [q. v.], of Spetchley. James's eldest son, William, died childless, after which the castle passed into the family of his nephew Maurice. Maurice's descendant, George (d. 1698) [q. v.], was created Viscount Dursley and Earl of Berkeley, 1679, after whom the earldom descended to Frederick Augustus, fifth earl. The fifth earl alleged that he secretly married, in 1786, a lady whom he publicly married in 1796. His secret marriage not being proved, the title of sixth earl went to Thomas Moreton Fitzhardinge Berkeley, the eldest of his sons born after the public marriage. [iv. 339]

BERKELEY, ORAVEN FITZHARDINGE (1805-1855), member of parliament; son of Frederick Augustus, fifth earl of Berkeley; officer in 1st life guards; M.P. for Cheltenham, 1832; re-elected, 1835, 1837, 1841, 1848, and 1852; defeated, 1847, and his election in 1848 declared void. [iv. 343]

BERKELEY, ELIZA (1734-1800), authoress, née Frinsham; married George Berkeley (1733-1795), the bishop's son, 1761; published with prefaces 'Sermons' by her husband, 1799, and 'Poems', 1797, by her eldest son, George Monck Berkeley [q. v.] [iv. 344]

BERKELEY, FRANCIS HENRY FITZHARDINGE (1794-1870), politician; fourth son of Frederick Augustus, fifth earl of Berkeley; born before his parents' marriage in 1796; educated at Christ Church, Oxford; M.P. for Bristol, 1837, and 1841-70; repeatedly advocated ballot, but without success, 1848-70. [iv. 345]

BERKELEY, GEORGE, BARON BERKELEY (1801-1858), succeeded to family honours, 1813; K.B., 1816; canon-commoner, Christ Church, Oxford, 1819; M.A., 1823; spent much time in foreign travel. [iv. 346]

BERKELEY, GEORGE, first EARL OF BERKELEY (1828-1898), statesman; younger son of George Berkeley (1801-1858) [q. v.]; succeeded as Baron Berkeley, 1858; educated at Christ Church, Oxford; one of commissioners to invite Charles to England from 'The Hague, 1860; on council for foreign plantations, 1861; original member of Royal African Company, and F.R.S., 1863; created Viscount Dursley and Earl of Berkeley, 1879; governor of Levant Company, 1880; a master of Trinity House, 1881; member of East India Company; privy councillor, 1885; member of provisional government after flight of James II, 1688. [iv. 347]

BERKELEY, GEORGE (1893?-1746), politician, fourth son of Charles, second earl of Berkeley; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1713; M.P. for Dover, 1718, and for Heydon, Yorkshire, 1734-46; master-keeper and governor of St. Katharine's, near the Tower, 1723. [iv. 348] and fellow, 1707; studied philosophy and published 'Essay towards a New Theory of Vision', 1708, 'Treatise concerning Human Knowledge', 1710, and 'Dialogues between Hylas and Philonous', 1713; junior-dean, 1710-11; junior Greek lecturer, 1712; came to England, 1713, and became associated with Steele, Addison, Pope, Swift, and others; chaplain to Lord Peterborough while ambassador to king of Sicily, 1718-14; travelled as tutor to son of Bishop St. George Ashe [q. v.], 1716-20; dean of Derry, 1724; circulated proposals for founding, in the Bermudas, college for training of missionaries, 1725; senior fellow, Dublin, 1717; divinity lecturer and senior Greek lecturer, 1721; D.D., 1721; Hebrew lecturer and senior proctor, 1722; came to England, 1724, and obtained charter for proposed college, 1726; went to America, 1728, and returned on failure to receive from government money for furthering his scheme, 1732; published 'Alciphron', 1732; bishop of Cloyne, 1734; published 'Querist', 1736-7, in which he made a number of suggestions upon uses of money; retired to Oxford, 1752, and there died. As a philosopher he aimed at discrediting materialism. He formed a link between Locke and Hume. [iv. 348]

BERKELEY, GEORGE (1685-1753), bishop of Cloyne; educated at Kilkenny, and Trinity College, Dublin; M.A.

BERKELEY, GEORGE CHARLES GRANTLEY FITZHARDINGE (1800-1881), writer; sixth son of Frederick Augustus, fifth earl of Berkeley; educated at Corpus Christi College and Sandhurst; joined Coldstream guards, 1816, and subsequently entered 82nd foot; M.P. for West Gloucestershire, 1832-52; his romance, 'Berkeley Castle', savagely reviewed in 'Fraser's Magazine', 1836; Berkeley, in consequence, publicly assaulted Fraser, the publisher (who brought an action against him and obtained damages), and fought a duel with Dr. Maginn, the author; proposed, 1836, and obtained, 1841, admission of ladies to gallery of House of Commons; devoted himself largely to field-sports after 1852; published autobiographical, sporting, and other works. [iv. 356]

BERKELEY, GEORGE CRANFIELD, seventeenth BARON BERKELEY (1753-1818), admiral; entered navy, 1766; accompanied Caroline Matilda to Denmark; with Captain Cook during survey of coast of Newfoundland and Gulf of St. Lawrence; lieutenant, 1772; on Victory at Ushant, 1778; surveyor-general of ordnance, 1786; wounded at victory of 1 June 1794; rear-admiral, 1799; vice-admiral, on Halifax station, 1805; held chief command on Portuguese coast and in Tagus, 1808-12; admiral, 1810; M.P. for Gloucester, 1781-1812; G.C.B., 1814. [iv. 358]

BERKELEY, GEORGE MONCK (1768-1793), miscellaneous writer; son of Eliza Berkeley [q. v.], educated at Eton, St. Andrews, Magdalen Hall, Oxford, and Inner Temple; LL.B. Dublin, 1789; his works include two dramatic pieces, and 'Poems' edited by his mother (1797). [iv. 359]

BERKELEY, GILBERT (1501-1581), bishop; B.D. Oxford, c. 1539; bishop of Bath and Wells, 1560; chancellor of Wells, 1560-2; D.D., 1563; opposed attempt of burgesses of Wells to obtain renewal of their ancient corporation, 1574. [iv. 359]

BERKELEY, JAMES, third EARL OF BERKELEY (1680-1738), admiral; captain of frigate in Channel, 1701; served in Mediterranean with Sir George Rooke and Sir Cloudesley Shovell, 1704-7; raised to flag-rank, 1708; with Byng in the Forth, 1708; lord-lieutenant of Gloucestershire, 1710-11 and 1714; first lord commissioner of admiralty, 1717-27; lord high admiral and commander-in-chief in channel, 1719; K.G., 1718. [iv. 360] privy councillor, 1663; one of masters of ordnance, 1663; on committee of Tangier, 1665; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1670-2; one of the ambassadors extraordinary at congress of Nineuen, 1676-7; published an apology for his share in proceedings connected with Charles I's flight from Hampton Court. [iv. 361]

BERKELEY, JOHN, first BARON BERKELEY OF STRATTON (d. 1878), soldier; ambassador from Charles I to Christina of Sweden to propose alliance to help elector palatine, 1637; knighted, 1638; held commission in army raised to coerce Scots; M.P. for Heytesbury, 1640; imprisoned in Tower on accusation of conspiring to corrupt army in interest of king; received ball; royalist commander-in-chief in Devonshire; took Exeter, 1643; defeated at Alresford, 1644; lieutenant-colonel of Devonshire and Cornwall, 1645; surrendered Exeter to Fairfax, 1646; unsuccessfully attempted to mediate between king and parliamentary leaders, 1647; accompanied Charles in his flight until the king went to Carlisle; retired to France; governor to Duke of York, 1663; accompanied Duke of York under Turenne in Flanders, 1662-5, and in Netherlands, 1666; raised to peerage, 1668; on admiralty staff, 1660; lord-president of Connaught for life, 1661;

BERKELEY, JOHN, third BARON BERKELEY OF STRATTON (1663-1697), admiral; second son of John Berkeley (d. 1678) [q. v.], lieutenant, 1685; rear-admiral of fleet under Lord Dartmouth, 1688; vice-admiral of red squadron under Admiral Herbert, 1689; successively vice-admiral of blue, and admiral of blue under Killigrew, Delavall, and Shovell, 1693; took part in attack on Brest, 1694; bombarded Dieppe and Havre, 1694; combined with Dutch in ineffectual bombardment of St. Malo, 1695; engaged in harassing French coast, 1695-7. [iv. 364]

BERKELEY, MAURICE FREDERICK FITZ-HARDINGE, first BARON FITZ-HARDINGE (1786-1867), admiral, son of fifth Earl of Berkeley; entered navy, 1802; flag-lieutenant, 1810; commanded flagship at Cork, 1828-1831; in Mediterranean, 1841; admiral, 1863; with brief intervals M.P. for Gloucester, 1831-67, and held seat at admiralty, 1833-57; raised to peerage, 1861; privy councillor and K.C.B., 1866; G.C.B., 1861. [iv. 365]

BERKELEY, MILES JOSEPH (1803-1889), botanist; educated at Rugby and Christ's College, Cambridge; M.A., 1828; honorary fellow, 1833; orator of St. John's, Margate, 1829; perpetual orator of Apeithorpe and Wood Newton, 1833; rural dean of Rothwell; vicar of Sibbertoft, Northamptonshire, 1868; F.L.S., 1836; F.R.S., 1879. His works include 'Introduction to Cryptogamic Botany', 1867, 'Outlines of British Fungology', 1860, and the volume on fungi in Smith's 'English Flora', 1856. [Suppl. i. 183]

BERKELEY, ROBERT (d. 1219), justiciar; eldest son of Maurice Berkeley (d. 1190); succeeded to manor of Berkeley, 1190; justiciar at Derby, 1208; sided with barons against John, and Berkeley Castle being forfeited, he died still dispossessed. [iv. 366]

BERKELEY, SIR ROBERT (1584-1666), judge; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1608; high sheriff of Worcestershire, 1613; called to degree of coif, 1627; king's serjeant and justice of court of king's bench, 1632; supported king in imposition of ship-money, 1635-7, and was impeached in House of Lords, 1641; fined, and incapacitated from holding office, 1642. [iv. 366]

BERKELEY, ROBERT (1713-1804), author of 'Considerations on Oath of Supremacy,' and 'Considerations on Declaration against Transubstantiation.' [iv. 367]

BERKELEY, SIR WILLIAM (1639-1666), vice-admiral; lieutenant, 1661; commander, 1662; rear-admiral of red squadron under Duke of York, 1664; in Channel, 1664-5; lieutenant-governor of Portsmouth, 1665; killed in battle with Dutch off North Foreland. [iv. 368]

BERKELEY, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1677), governor of Virginia; brother of John, first baron Berkeley of Stratton [q. v.]; M.A. Merton College, Oxford, 1629; one of commissioners of Canada, 1632; gentleman of privy chamber to Charles I; governor of Virginia, 1641; deprived of office by parliament, but reappointed at Restoration; returned to England, 1677; published 'The Lost Lady,' a tragedy, 1638. [iv. 368]

BERKENHOUT, JOHN (1730?-1791), physician; studied in Germany; entered Prussian army; captain; obtained commission in English army, 1756; studied medicine at Edinburgh and at Leyden, where he graduated doctor of physic, 1765; accompanied government commissioners to America, 1778-80; published 'Outlines of Natural History of Great Britain', 1769-71, 3 vols., 'Biographia Literaria', 1771, and several medical and other works. [iv. 369]

BERKLEY, JAMES JOHN (1819-1882), engineer; educated at King's College, London; pupil of Robert Stephenson, 1839; chief resident engineer, Great Indian Peninsula Railway, 1849; completed line from Bombay to Tanna (twenty miles), initiating Indian railway system, 1853; completed line from Bombay to Calcutta, Madras, and Nagpore (1,237 miles), 1856; held several municipal appointments in Bombay; M.I.C.E., 1856. [iv. 370]

BERKSHIRE, EARL OF (1679-1623). [See NORRIS, FRANCIS.]

BERKSTED, BIRKSTED, or BURGHSTED, STEPHEN (d. 1287), bishop of Chichester, 1262; one of those chosen after the battle of Lewes to nominate council of nine to exercise royal power, 1264; suspended by cardinal-legate, 1266, and summoned to Rome, where he remained till 1272. [iv. 371]

BERLIOZ, HARRIET CONSTANCE (1800-1854). [See SMITHSON.]

BERMINGHAM, SIR JOHN, EARL OF LOUTH (d. 1328), lord justice of Ireland; knighted, 1312; commander-in-chief of English forces in Ireland, 1318; defeated Edward Bruce near Dundalk; created Earl of Louth, 1318; lord justice of Ireland, 1321; slain in quarrel between Anglo-Irish families of Oriel. [iv. 371]

BERMINGHAM, MICHEL (b. 1685), surgeon; member of Academy of Surgery, Paris; published medical writings (1720-60). [iv. 372]

BERMINGHAM, PATRICK (d. 1532), judge; chief justice of king's bench in Ireland, 1513-32; chancellor of green wax of exchequer, Ireland, 1521. [iv. 372]

BERMINGHAM, WILLIAM (d. 1312), archbishop of Tuam, 1289; litigated on visitatorial powers with Dominican friars of Athenry, who obtained judgment against him from lord chancellor, 1297; attempted unsuccessfully to unite sees of Annadown and Tuam. [iv. 372]

BERNAL, RALPH (d. 1854), politician; M.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1809; barrister, 1810; M.P. for Lincoln, 1818-20, Rochester, 1820-41, and 1847-52; and Weymouth, 1841-7; chairman of committees, c. 1830-1850; president British Archaeological Society, 1853. His collection of works of art sold for 71,000*l.*, 1855. [iv. 373]

BERNAL OSBORNE, RALPH (1808-1882), politician; eldest son of Ralph Bernal [q. v.]; educated at Charterhouse and Trinity College, Cambridge; ensign, 71st regiment, 1831; liberal M.P. for Chipping Wycombe, 1841; married daughter of Sir Thomas Osborne, whose name he assumed, 1844; secretary of admiralty, 1852-8; M.P. for Middlesex, 1847, 1852, Dover, 1857-59, Liskeard, 1859-65, Nottingham, 1866-8, and Waterford, 1869-74. [iv. 373]

BERNARD. [See also BARNARD.]

BERNARD (f. 865), traveller in Palestine; called SAPIENS; erroneously identified with Bernard, a Scottish monk, and with another native of Scotland who, according to Dempster, preached the crusade in Scotland, 1095-1105; set out from Rome between 863 and 867, and on return from Palestine proceeded to monastery of Mont St. Michel, Brittany; wrote a description of his journey in Palestine, A 'History of Jerusalem' and other works have also been attributed to him. [iv. 374]

BERNARD (f. 1093), warrior; of Neufmarché or 'of Newmarch'; came to England with Conqueror; joined Norman lords against Rufus, 1088, and was defeated at Worcester; invaded and settled in Brecknock; founded and endowed priory of St. John at Brecknock. [iv. 376]

BERNARD (d. 1333?), bishop; chancellor of Scotland, c. 1307; abbot of Arbroath, c. 1311; probably drew up letter from Scottish nation to John XXII, claiming right to choose its own king; bishop of Sodor, 1324; wrote Latin poem on victory of Bannockburn. [iv. 376]

BERNARD A SANCTO FRANCISCO (1628-1709). [See EYSTON.]

BERNARD, CHARLES (1650-1711), surgeon; surgeon to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1686; serjeant-surgeon to Queen Anne, 1702; master of Barber Surgeons' Company, 1703. [iv. 377]

BERNARD, DANIEL (d. 1588), brother of John Bernard (d. 1567?) [q. v.]; D.D. Christ Church, Oxford, 1585; canon of Christ Church, 1577; vice-chancellor of Oxford, 1586. [iv. 382]

BERNARD, EDWARD (1638-1696), critic and astronomer; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and St. John's College, Oxford; fellow, 1668; M.A., 1662; D.D., 1684; studied oriental mathematical manuscripts at Leyden, 1668; chaplain to Dr. Mews, bishop of Bath and Wells

1678; Savilian professor, Oxford, 1678-91; F.R.S., 1678; tutor at Paris to Dukes of Grafton and Northumberland, sons of Charles II by Duchess of Cleveland, 1676; returned to Oxford, 1677; obtained living of Brightwell, Berkshire, 1691; left works in manuscript which were purchased by the Bodleian. His writings include 'De mensuris et ponderibus antiquis libri tres' (1688), 'Etymologicum Britannicum' (1689), 'Chronologicæ Samaritanæ Synopsi' (1691), and some astronomical works. [iv. 378]

BERNARD, FRANÇOIS (1627-1698), physician; M.D. Cambridge, 1678; F.O.P., 1687; assistant physician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1678; physician in ordinary to James II, 1688. His library of medical books was reputed to be the largest ever made in England. [iv. 380]

BERNARD, SIR FRANÇOIS (1711?-1779), governor of Massachusetts Bay; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1736; called to bar at Middle Temple; bench; practised on midland circuit; governor of province of New Jersey, 1768, and of Massachusetts Bay, 1760; his thorough administration of the home government's policy, for which he was as a reward created baronet in 1769, undoubtedly hastened the war; recalled, 1769; D.O.L. Oxford, 1772. He published political writings. [iv. 380]

BERNARD, HERMAN HEDWIG (1788-1857), hebraist; for many years Hebrew teacher at Cambridge; published works relating to Hebrew literature and history. [iv. 381]

BERNARD, JOHN (d. 1567?), author; B.A. Queen's College, Cambridge, 1544; Trotter's priest, 1544; fellow, c. 1545; M.A., 1547; bursar, 1561-2; wrote protestant religious tract in Latin, published (1568), by his brother Thomas Bernard [q. v.]. [iv. 381]

BERNARD, JOHN (1756-1828), actor; light comedian on Norwich circuit, 1774; member of Bath company, 1777; in Ireland, 1780-4; played Archer in 'Beaux' Stratagem' at Covent Garden, 1787; again at Covent Garden, 1793-6; played in New York, 1797, Philadelphia, 1797-1803, Boston, 1803; joint manager of Federal theatre, Boston, 1806-10; travelled in United States and Canada, 1810-17; made last appearance, Boston, 1819; selections from his 'Reminiscences' appeared after his death. [iv. 382]

BERNARD, JOHN PETER (d. 1750), biographer; graduate of Leyden; taught literature and mathematics in London after 1733; contributed largely to 'General Dictionary, Historical and Critical', 1734-41. [iv. 383]

BERNARD, MOUNTAGUE (1820-1882), international lawyer, B.C.L. Trinity College, Oxford; Vinerian scholar and fellow; called to the bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1846; one of founders of 'Guardian', 1846; first professor of international law, Oxford, 1859-74; judge of chancellor's court; on commission of naturalisation and allegiance, 1868; fellow of All Souls' College, c. 1870; one of high commissioners who signed treaty of Washington, 1871; privy councillor; member of judicial committee of council; D.C.L.; member of University of Oxford Council, 1877; original member of Institut de Droit International (founded, 1873); published works relating to international law. [iv. 383]

BERNARD, NICHOLAS (d. 1661), divine; educated at Cambridge; chaplain and librarian to archbishop Ussher; dean of Kilmore, 1627; incorporated M.A. Oxford, 1628; prebendary of Dromore and dean of Ardagh, 1637; preacher of Gray's Inn, 1651; chaplain and almoner to Oliver Cromwell; published religious, historical, and other works, including a life of archbishop Ussher, 1666. [iv. 384]

BERNARD, RICHARD (1668-1641), puritan divine; M.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1698; vicar of Worksop, 1601 presented to Batcombe, 1618. His numerous publications include an edition, with translations, of 'Terence' (1698), 'Bible Battels, or the Sacred Art Military' (1629), works directed against the separatists, and various religious and other treatises, some of which enunciated benevolent schemes which have since been generally adopted. [iv. 384]

BERNARD, THOMAS (d. 1682), divine; brother of John Bernard [d. 1667?] [q. v.]; M.A. King's College, Cambridge, 1693; B.D. Oxford, 1667; canon of Christ Church, Oxford, 1646; Crammer's chaplain, 1647. [iv. 381]

BERNARD, SIR THOMAS (1750-1818), philanthropist; son of Sir Francis Bernard [q. v.]; educated at Harvard; secretary to his father in America; came to England; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1780; conveyancer; with bishop of Durham, Wilberforce, and others, founded Society for Bettering Condition of Poor, 1796; set on foot plan of Royal Institution, Piccadilly, 1799; established British Institution for Promotion of Fine Arts, 1806; chancellor of diocese of Durham; M.A. Lambeth and LL.D. Edinburgh, 1801. He was connected with foundation of many societies for relief of poor, and was a liberal benefactor of the Foundling Hospital. [iv. 387]

BERNARD, WILLIAM BAYLE (1807-1786), dramatist; born at Boston, America, of English parents; came to England, 1820; clerk in army accounts office, 1826-30; wrote many dramatic pieces of considerable merit, the greater number being still unpublished. [iv. 389]

BERNARDI, JOHN (1657-1736), major; son of Genoese nobleman living in Worcestershire; ran away, and subsequently went to Holland with his uncle, Colonel Anselme, and enlisted in States army, afterwards exchanging into an English independent regiment; received English commission under Fenwick, 1674; captain, 1685; accompanied James II on Irish expedition from St. Germain; served in Scotland, and was captured after James's defeat at the Boyne, 1690; died in Newgate, after nearly forty years' imprisonment. [iv. 389]

BERNAYS, ALBERT JAMES (1823-1892), chemist; educated at King's College school; Ph.D. Giessen; analyst and lecturer on chemistry at Derby, 1846; lecturer on chemistry at St. Mary's Hospital, London, 1855-60, and at St. Thomas's Hospital, 1860-92; fellow of Chemical Society and of Institute of Chemistry; published popular works on chemistry. [Suppl. i. 188]

BERNERS, second BARON (1467-1533). [See BOURCHIER, JOHN.]

BERNERS, BERNES, or BARNES, JULIANA (b. 1388?), writer; said to have been daughter of Sir James Berners (whose son was created Baron Berners, temp. Henry IV) prioress of Sopwell nunnery, Hertfordshire; probably spent youth at court and shared in the woodland sports then fashionable; published work on field-sports and heraldry, 'The Boke of St. Albans' (1486). The 'Boke' contained treatises on 'Hawking', 'Hunting', 'Lynage of Coote Armiris', and the 'Blasyng of Armys'. An edition printed by Wynkyn de Worde, 1496, contained also a 'Treatyse on Fysshynge with an Angle.' [iv. 390]

BERNEER, AUGUSTINE (fl. 1554), servant of Latimer; of Swiss or Belgian origin; minister of congregation in London during Mary's reign; attended Latimer while imprisoned in Tower, 1553, and with other bishops at Oxford, 1554; a constant friend of the martyrs during Marian persecution; rector of Sutton in Elizabeth's reign; wrote religious works. [iv. 392]

BERNICIA, kings of. [See IDA, d. 559; ADDA, d. 565; ETHELFRID, d. 617; OSWALD, 605?-642; OSWY, 612?-670.]

BERRINGHAM, RICHARD DE (fl. 1313), justice itinerant; frequently summoned to parliament, 1313-1324; included in judicial commissions; collector of scutages in Yorkshire, 1314-15; knight of Yorkshire, 1323. [iv. 393]

BERRIDGE, JOHN (1716-1793), evangelical clergyman; M.A. Clare Hall, Cambridge, 1742; fellow; inducted to college of Everton, Bedfordshire, 1756, where he remained till death; became acquainted with Wesley and Whitefield, 1758; began preaching tours in neighbouring counties, 1759; at first an Arminian and afterwards a Calvinist; published religious works. [iv. 393]

BERRIMAN, JOHN (1691-1768), divine; M.A. St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, 1720; rector of St. Olave's and St. Alban's; published religious works and edited his brother William's 'Christian Doctrines' (1761). [iv. 394]

BERRIMAN, WILLIAM (1688-1750), divine; brother of John Berriman [q. v.]; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and Oriel College, Oxford; M.A., 1711; D.D., 1722; domestic chaplain to Dr. Robinson, bishop of London, 1720; fellow of Eton College, 1727; Boyle lecturer, 1730-1; published theological works. [iv. 394]

BERROW, CAPEL (1715-1782), divine; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and Christ's College, Cambridge; M.A., 1758; successively lecturer of St. Benedict and Paul's Wharf, rector of Rossington, and chaplain to Honourable Society of Judges and Serjeants in Serjeants' Inn; published theological works. [iv. 395]

BERRY, CHARLES (1783-1877), unitarian minister; educated for independent ministry, but subsequently developed heretical views; minister of Great Meeting, Leicester, 1803-59; opened (1808) a school, which he conducted for over thirty years; one of founders of Literary and Philosophical Society, and town museum, Leicester. [iv. 395]

BERRY, SIR EDWARD (1768-1831), rear-admiral; volunteer in East Indies, 1779-83; lieutenant, 1794; distinguished himself under Nelson at Porto Ferrajo, 1796, and at Cape St. Vincent, 1797; commander, 1796; Nelson's flag-captain at battle of Nile, of which he wrote an account, 1798; captured by French while carrying despatches; returned to England, and was knighted, 1798; served at blockade of Malta, 1800, Trafalgar, 1805, and St. Domingo, 1806; baronet, 1806; K.C.B., 1815; rear-admiral, 1821. [iv. 396]

BERRY, JAMES (A. 1655), major-general; clerk in ironworks, Shropshire, c. 1642; took service under Cromwell; captain-lieutenant at battle of Gainsborough, 1643; president of council of adjutators, 1647; employed in suppressing attempted rising in Nottinghamshire, 1655; major-general of Hereford, Shropshire, and Wales, 1655; member of Cromwell's House of Lords; member of council of state and of committee who nominated to offices, 1659; imprisoned (1680) by council of state in Scarborough Castle. [iv. 397]

BERRY, SIR JOHN (1635-1690), admiral; entered navy, 1663; served as boatswain in West Indies; captain, 1665; commanded squadron against French and Dutch at St. Nevis and St. Kitts, 1667; knighted for services at battle of Solebay, 1672; conducted Duke of York to Scotland in the Gloucester, which was wrecked off Yorkshire coast with considerable loss of life, 1682; vice-admiral of squadron sent against Tangier, 1683; commissioner of navy, 1683. [iv. 398]

BERRY, MARY (1763-1852), authoress; travelled in Holland, Switzerland, Italy, and France, 1788-9; began at Florence, 1783, 'Journals and Correspondence,' which she completed, 1852; made acquaintance of Horace Walpole, 1788, who addressed many letters to her and her sister Agnes in most affectionate terms, and wrote for their amusement his 'Reminiscences of Courts of George I and II'; removed, 1791, to Little Strawberry Hill, a house of Walpole's, which, on his death, he left to the sisters. To Mary and Agnes, and their father, Robert Berry, Walpole entrusted his literary remains, and in 1798 the 'Works of Horace Walpole' appeared, nominally edited by Robert Berry, but in reality by Mary. She published Mme. du Deffand's letters from the originals at Strawberry Hill, 1810. Her works include 'Life of Rachel Wriothesley' (1819), 'Social Life of England and France from 1660 to 1830' (1828-31). [iv. 399]

BERRY, WILLIAM (1774-1851), genealogist; clerk in College of Arms, 1793-1809; published: 'History of Guernsey,' 1815; genealogical peerage of England, Scotland, and Ireland, begun in 1832 and never completed; 'Encyclopaedia Heraldica,' 1828-40, and several county genealogies. [iv. 401]

BERSTED or BURGSTED, WALTER DE (A. 1287), justice itinerant; sub-sheriff of Kent, 1287; sheriff, 1287-8; constable of Dover Castle; justice itinerant in Leicestershire, 1292, and in Norfolk, Suffolk, and Lincolnshire, 1293. [iv. 401]

BERTHA, BEROTA, or ADILBERGA (d. before 616), daughter of Haribert, king of Franks; married Ethelbert, king of Kent; came to England with Lindhard, bishop of Senlis, and introduced Christianity at St. Martin's Church, Canterbury, where Augustine and his companions afterwards preached. [iv. 402]

BERTHEAU, CHARLES (1660-1732), pastor of church of Charenton, Paris, and, after edict of Nantes (1685), of French church, Threadneedle Street, London. [iv. 403]

BERTHON, EDWARD LYON (1818-1899), inventor; studied surgery in Liverpool and Dublin; travelled on continent; invented screw-propeller for ships, which he abandoned on its rejection by admiralty, 1838; studied at Magdalene College, Cambridge; M.A., 1849; curate of Lymington, 1848; held living of Holy Trinity, Fareham, 1847-55; invented a nautical log, which was condemned by admiralty; designed collapsible boat, which was tried and adversely reported upon by admiralty; held living of Romsey; recurred to design of collapsible boats, which at length were approved by admiralty; published reminiscences. [Suppl. I. 184]

BERTIE, SIR ALBEMARLE (1755-1824), admiral; lieutenant, 1777; captain, 1782; in action of First of June, 1794; rear-admiral, 1804; vice-admiral, 1808; commander-in-chief at Cape of Good Hope; commanded at capture of Mauritius, 1810; baronet, 1812; admiral, 1814; K.C.B., 1815. [iv. 402]

BERTIE, CATHARINE, DUCHESS (DOWAGER) OF SUFFOLK (1520-1580), only child of William Willoughby, eighth baron Willoughby of Eresby; married, 1536, Charles Brandon, duke of Suffolk (d. 1545), and c. 1552, Richard Bertie; distinguished for her zeal for the Reformation. [iv. 403]

BERTIE, MONTAGUE, second EARL OF LINDSEY (1608?-1666), royalist; served in Low Countries; raised regiment of cavalry for king, 1642; prisoner after Edgehill; after being exchanged, fought at Naseby; as privy councillor and gentleman of bedchamber, accompanied Charles in his flight, in Isle of Wight; privy councillor, and one of judges for trial of regicides, 1660; K.G., 1661. [iv. 403]

BERTIE, PEREGRINE, LORD WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY (1555-1601), soldier; son of Richard and Catharine Bertie (q. v.), who were fleeing from Marian persecution when he was born, at Lower Wesel, Cleves; naturalised in England, 1559; succeeded to barony of Eresby, 1580; sent to Denmark to discuss commercial relations with England, 1582, and petition to Frederick II to help Henry of Navarre, 1585; governor of Bergen-op-Zoom, 1586; helped to surprise Axel, 1586; succeeded Norris in command of cavalry, 1587; assisted Leicester in attempt to relieve Sluys, and succeeded him as commander of English forces in Low Countries, 1587; defended Bergen against Spaniards, 1588; returned to England, 1589; nominated to command of army sent to aid Henry of Navarre at Dieppe, 1589; took part in capture of Vendôme, Mons, Alençon, and Falaise; returned home, 1590; governor of Berwick and warden of East March, 1598-1601. [iv. 404]

BERTIE, RICHARD (1517-1582), husband of the Duchess Dowager of Suffolk; B.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1537; joined household of Thomas Wriothesley, lord chancellor (afterwards Earl of Southampton); fled from Marian persecution to Wesel, Cleves, 1555, removed thence successively to Strasburg and Weinheim, and ultimately to Poland, where the king placed him in earldom of Kroze, Samogitia; returned to England after Mary's death; knight for county of Lincoln, 1563; M.A. Cambridge, 1564. [iv. 407]

BERTIE, ROBERT, first EARL OF LINDSEY (1582-1642), admiral; eldest son of Peregrine Bertie (q. v.); accompanied expedition against Spain, 1597; at siege of Amiens, 1598; retired to Lincolnshire; drained and reclaimed fens lying between Kyme Eau and the Glen, 1635-8; lord high chamberlain, 1626; served in Low Countries, 1624, and in Buckingham's naval expeditions; Earl of Lindsey, 1626; admiral of fleet for relief of Rochelle, 1628; K.B., and privy councillor, 1630; lord high admiral of England, 1636; governor of Berwick, 1639; raised counties of Lincoln and Nottingham for king, 1642; died from wounds received at Edgehill. [iv. 408]

BERTIE, SIR THOMAS (1758-1825), admiral; entered navy, 1773; lieutenant, 1780; commander, 1782; married daughter of Peregrine Bertie, esq., whose name he assumed, 1788; post-captain, 1790; with Nelson at Copenhagen, 1801; at blockade of Cadiz, 1802; vice-admiral and knight, 1813; admiral, 1825. [iv. 408]

BERTIE, VERE (d. 1680), judge; son of Montague Bertie (q. v.); called to bar at Middle Temple, 1659; master of benchers, 1674; serjeant-at-law, before 1685; baron of exchequer, 1676; justice of common pleas, 1678; discharged from office in 1679. [iv. 410]

BERTIE, WILLOUGHBY, fourth EARL OF ABINGDON (1740-1799), politician, succeeded to earldom, 1760; educated at Westminster and Magdalen College, Oxford; M.A., 1761; adopted democratic principles and became a friend and supporter of Wilkes; published 'Thoughts on Burke's Letter on Affairs of America,' 1777, and a eulogy on French revolution, 1798, both of which pamphlets gained considerable popularity. [iv. 410]

BERTON, WILLIAM OF (fl. 1376), chancellor of Oxford; B.D. Merton College, Oxford, 1376; D.D., and chancellor of the university, c. 1380; issued decree condemning Wycliffe's sacramental doctrine; signed condemnation of Wycliffe's 'conclusions,' 1382. [iv. 411]

BERTRAM. [See RATHMUNUS.]

BERTRAM, CHARLES (1723-1765), sometimes self-styled CHARLES JULIUS; literary forger; English teacher in school for naval cadets, Copenhagen; produced between 1747 and 1757 an alleged transcript of a manuscript work on Roman antiquities by Richard of Cirencester, a fourteenth-century chronicler and an inmate of Westminster, together with a copy of an ancient itinerary of Britain, at many points supplementing and correcting the itinerary of Antoninus; imposed on Dr. William Stukeley and most English antiquaries; published works of Gildas and Nennius, with the text of his forgery and a commentary on it, at Copenhagen, 1757, and several philological works. His imposture was finally exposed by B. B. Woodward in 'Gentleman's Magazine,' 1866-7. [iv. 412]

BERTRAM, ROGER (d. 1249), judge and baronial leader; deprived of castle and barony of Mitford for share in barons' rebellion, 1215; justice itinerant for Northumberland, Cumberland, and Lancashire, between 1225 and 1237. [iv. 413]

BERTRAM, ROGER (fl. 1264), baronial leader; son of Roger Bertram (d. 1242) [q. v.]; captured by Henry III at Northampton, 1264; freed by victory at Lewes; summoned to De Montfort's parliament, 1264. [iv. 414]

BERTRIC (d. 802). [See BRORHTRIC.]

BERTULF (d. 852). [See BRORHTWULF.]

BERWICK, DUKE OF (1670-1734). [See FITZJAMES, JAMES.]

BERWICK, third BARON (d. 1842). [See HILL, WILLIAM NOEL.]

BERWICK, EDWARD (b. 1750), Irish divine; scholar of Trinity College, Dublin; rector of Clongish, and domestic chaplain to Earl of Moira; published classical and theological works. [iv. 414]

BESSBOROUGH, fourth EARL OF (1781-1847). [See PONSONBY, JOHN WILLIAM.]

BESSE, JOSEPH (1683?-1757), quaker convert from Anglican church; writing master at Colchester; published controversial and other works, including 'Sufferings of the Quakers from 1650 to 1689,' 1753. [iv. 414]

BESSEMER, SIR HENRY (1813-1898), engineer and inventor; engaged at Charlton in his father's business as manufacturer of gold chains and type-founder; came to London, 1830, and traded in art work in white metal; invented perforated die for impressing date on stamps affixed to deeds, 1833, and soon afterwards produced plumbago pencils; invented type-composing machine, c. 1838; engaged in manufacture of bronze powder and gold paint by an original process, 1840; made experiments with view to obtaining stronger material for gun manufacture than that in use; patented combination of cast iron and steel, 1855, and in the same and following years obtained patents for the manufacture of steel by new process from melted pig-iron through which air under pressure or steam was blown with object of abstracting carbon; described process in paper read at Obeltenham meeting of British Association for Advancement of Science, 1856; established, 1859, steel works at Sheffield, where he made a speciality of gun-making, and subsequently was extensively occupied in manufacture of steel rails; invented swinging saloon for sea-going vessels, which was tried with small success, 1875; received Albert gold medal from Society of Arts, 1879; one of founders, 1868, and president, 1871-3, of Iron and Steel

Institute; M.I.C.E., 1877; F.R.S., 1879; knighted, 1879. The Bessemer steel manufacture was introduced into the United States and developed by Alexander L. Holley (1867-70), and at present it is probably equal to that of the rest of the world collectively. [Suppl. i. 185]

BEST, CHARLES (fl. 1602), poet; contributed to Francis Davidson's 'Poetical Rhapsodie.' [iv. 415]

BEST, GEORGE (d. 1584?), navigator; accompanied Frobisher in voyages to discover North-west Passage, 1576, 1577, and 1578, of which he published an account, 1578. [iv. 415]

BEST, afterwards BESTE, HENRY DIGBY (1768-1836), author; M.A., and fellow, Magdalen College, Oxford, 1791; curate of St. Martin's, Lincoln; published 'Christian Religion Defended against Philosophers and Republicans of France,' 1793; entered Roman catholic church, 1799; lived some years in France and Italy after 1818, and published accounts of his residence there, 1826 and 1828. His 'Personal and Literary Memorials' appeared in 1829. [iv. 416]

BEST, PAUL (1590?-1657), controversialist; M.A. Jesus College, Cambridge; fellow of Catharine Hall, 1617; served under Gustavus Adolphus; studied unitarian theology in Germany; returned to England; submitted his conclusions on doctrine of the Trinity to Roger Ley, a fellow-student at Cambridge, who appears to have made them public, with result that Best was imprisoned in the Gatehouse, 1645; released, 1647, having addressed three petitions to House of Commons. [iv. 417]

BEST, SAMUEL (1738-1825), pretended prophet; according to various accounts a servant in London and a Spitalfields weaver; inmate of Shoreditch workhouse, 1787, where, under name of 'Poor-help,' he received visitors and professed to foretell their future; gained considerable reputation, and subsequently removed to Kingsland Road. [iv. 418]

BEST, THOMAS (1570?-1638?), navy captain; perhaps son of George Best [q. v.]; went to sea, 1583; inflicted on Portuguese at Surat defeats which effected recognition of English trading rights as equal to those of Portugal, 1612; opened trade with Slam, 1613; appointed chief commander at Bantam, but, owing to disagreement with East India Company, was dismissed, 1617; senior officer in Downs, 1623; commanded expedition against Dutch, who had blockaded a Dunkirk privateer at Aberdeen; served in disastrous expedition to Rhé, 1627; master of Trinity House, 1634, probably till death. [iv. 418]

BEST, WILLIAM DRAPER, first BARON WYNFORD (1767-1845), judge; educated at Wadham College, Oxford; barrister, Middle Temple, 1789; joined home circuit; serjeant-at-law, 1799; whig M.P. for Petersfield, 1802; recorder of Guildford, 1809; tory M.P. for Bridport, 1812; solicitor-general, 1813, and attorney-general, 1816, to Prince of Wales; chief-justice of Chester, 1818; elevated to king's bench, 1818; knighted, 1819; chief-justice of common pleas and privy councillor, 1824; raised to peerage, 1829; a deputy speaker of the House of Lords; D.C.L. Oxford, 1834. [iv. 420]

BEST, WILLIAM THOMAS (1826-1897), musician; studied engineering at Liverpool, where he became organist of baptist chapel, Pembroke Road, and subsequently adopted musical profession; organist at church for the blind, 1847, and to Liverpool Philharmonic Society, 1849; organist at Royal Panopticon (now the Alhambra), c. 1853, and at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, and Lincoln's Inn; organist to Liverpool corporation, 1855-94; inaugurated organ at Albert Hall, 1871; for some years organist of West Derby church. He published 'The Art of Organ Playing,' 1869, besides pianoforte and vocal pieces and organ compositions, including 'Benedicite,' 1864, and a service in F, also editing much of the music of Handel and Bach. [Suppl. i. 191]

BESTON, JOHN (d. 1428), prior of Carmelite convent, Bishop's Lynn; doctor in theology, Cambridge and Paris; wrote theological works. [iv. 421]

BETAGH, THOMAS (1739-1811), jesuit; professor of languages at seminary of Society of Jesus, Pont-à-Mousson; schoolmaster at Dublin, where he became parish priest and vicar-general of diocese. [iv. 421]

BETHAM, EDWARD (1707-1783), divine; fellow, 1781, and bursar, King's College, Cambridge; held living of Greenford, Middlesex, where he founded and endowed charity schools (1780); one of preachers at Whitehall; fellow of Eton, 1771. [iv. 422]

BETHAM, JOHN (d. 1709), catholic priest; educated and ordained at Douay; studied at Paris; doctor of the Sorbonne, 1877; chaplain to James II in England, and later at St. Germain's; opened and presided over St. Gregory's Seminary, Paris, 1701; published sermons. [iv. 422]

BETHAM, MARY MATILDA (1778-1852), miniaturist and woman of letters; eldest daughter of William Betham [q. v.]; published 'Biographical Dictionary of Celebrated Women,' 1804; gave Shakespearean readings in London; exhibited miniature portraits at Royal Academy; formed friendships with the Lambs, Coleridge, Southey, and others; published three volumes of verse. [iv. 423]

BETHAM, WILLIAM (1749-1839), antiquary; head-master of endowed school at Stonham Aspel, Suffolk, 1784-1833; rector of Stoke Lacy, 1833; published 'Genealogical Tables of Sovereigns of the World,' 1795, and 'Baronetage of England,' 1801-5. [iv. 423]

BETHAM, Sir WILLIAM (1779-1853), Ulster king-of-arms; son of William Betham (1749-1839) [q. v.]; deputy-keeper of records in 'the tower,' Dublin Castle, 1805; sub-commissioner under record commission, 1811-1812; knighted, 1812; Ulster king-of-arms, 1820; member of Royal Irish Academy, 1826. Published: 'Irish Antiquarian Researches,' 1827; 'The Gael and Cymbrri,' 1834; and 'Etruria Celtica,' 1842. [iv. 424]

BETHEL, SLINGSBY (1617-1697), republican; in business in Hamburg, 1637-49; M.P., Knarresborough, 1659; member of council of state, 1660; chosen sheriff of London and Middlesex, 1680, though unable to serve in consequence of not having taken oaths commanded by Corporation Act; subsequently qualified and elected, the election and taking of the oaths being the subject of several pamphlets; in Hamburg, 1682-9. His chief work is 'The World's Mistake in Oliver Cromwell,' 1668. [iv. 425]

BETHELL, CHRISTOPHER (1773-1859), bishop of Bangor; M.A. King's College, Cambridge, 1799; D.D., 1817; dean of Chichester, 1814-24; prebendary of Exeter, 1830; bishop of Gloucester, 1824, of Exeter, 1830, and of Bangor, 1830-59; published theological works. [iv. 426]

BETHELL, RICHARD, first BARON WESTBURY (1800-1878), lord chancellor; B.A. Wadham College, Oxford, 1818; fellow; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1823; practised in equity courts; Q.C., 1840; liberal M.P. for Aylesbury, 1851, and for Wolverhampton, 1852; vice-chancellor of duchy of Lancaster, 1851; solicitor-general in 'government of all the talents,' 1852; attorney-general, 1856; supported Succession Duty Bill, Oxford University Bill (1854), Probate and Administration Bill (1857), and other important measures; first of the Statute Law Revision Acts passed under his guidance, 1861; introduced the second of these acts, 1863; lord chancellor, with title of Baron Westbury of Westbury in Wiltshire, 1861; passed an unsuccessful act to facilitate the proof of title to and the conveyance of real estate, 1862; sat as member of judicial committee of privy council to hear appeals on 'Essays and Reviews' cases, 1864, and acquitted defendants on all counts; resigned office on passing of vote of censure on him in House of Commons as being inattentive to public interests, 1865; retired to Italy, but soon returned to sit on appeals in House of Lords and privy council; arbitrator in winding-up of affairs of European Assurance Society, a work which his death interrupted. He had extraordinary power of sarcastic speech and an unequalled mastery of luminous exposition. [iv. 426]

BETHUNE, ALEXANDER (1804-1843), Scottish poet; employed as a labourer; published 'Tales and Sketches of Scottish Peasantry,' which were immediately successful, 1838; produced, with his brother John, 'Lectures on Practical Economy,' 1839; turnkey in Glasgow prison; brought out his 'Scottish Peasants' Fireside,' 1843; prevented by his last illness from undertaking editorship of 'Dumfries Standard.' [iv. 431]

BETHUNE, Sir HENRY LINDESAY (1787-1861), major-general; appointed to Madras artillery, 1804; as

subaltern accompanied Sir John Malcolm to Persia, 1810; employed in disciplining Persian army; returned to England, 1821; went back to Persia, 1834; served in war of succession, 1835, and in 1838-9 as major-general in Asia; died at Tabriz. [iv. 432]

BETHUNE, JOHN (1812-1839), poet; brother of Alexander Bethune [q. v.]; apprenticed as carver; set up weaving looms with his brother, 1825, but failed in the business; oversaw of estate of Inchtyre, 1835; contributed to his brother's 'Tales of Scottish Peasantry,' and various Scottish periodicals. [iv. 432]

BETHUNE, JOHN DRINKWATER (1762-1844), historian of the siege of Gibraltar; son of one John Drinkwater; ensign in royal Manchester volunteers, c. 1777; stationed at Gibraltar during siege by Spanish, 1779-83, of which he published an account, c. 1785; captain; stationed at Gibraltar, 1787; military secretary and deputy judge-advocate during English occupation of Corsica; published 'Narrative of Battle of St. Vincent'; lieutenant-colonel, 1796; placed on half-pay as colonel; commissary general of Helder force, 1799; member and subsequently chairman of parliamentary commission of military inquiry, 1805; comptroller of army accounts, 1811-35; assumed surname of Bethune. [iv. 433]

BETHUNE, JOHN ELLIOT DRINKWATER (1801-1851), Indian legislator; son of John Drinkwater Bethune [q. v.]; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge; called to bar, 1827; counsel to home office; legislative member of supreme council of India, 1848; effected several important legislative reforms, and established school for native girls at Calcutta. [iv. 434]

BETHUNE, ROBERT DE (d. 1148). [See ROBERT.]

BETTERTON, THOMAS (1635?-1710), actor and dramatist; probably first acted in company licensed to Rhodes; a bookseller, 1659, his chief successes being in 'Pericles,' the 'Mad Lover,' the 'Loyal Subject,' the 'Bondman,' and the 'Changeling'; joined Sir John Davenant's company at Lincoln's Inn Fields Theatre, 1661; visited Paris by royal command, with view of introducing in England improvements in dramatic representation; played Hamlet, 1661, and Mercutio, Sir Toby Belch, Macbeth, and Bosola ('Duchess of Malfi'), 1662-6; associated after Davenant's death (1668) with Harris and Davenant's son Charles in management of Dorset Garden Theatre, 1671; played Orestes in Charles Davenant's 'Circe,' 'Edipus in Dryden and Lee's 'Edipus,' 'Timon of Athens,' King Lear, Troilus, and other characters in adaptations of Shakespeare by Dryden, Shadwell, and Tate; amalgamated with the rival company of Drury Lane, 1682; opened 'theatre in Little Lincoln's Inn Fields,' 1696; produced successfully Congreve's 'Love for Love,' Congreve undertaking to provide a play each year, a promise which was not kept; opened theatre erected by Sir John Vanbrugh in Haymarket, 1705, but resigned management to Congreve and Vanbrugh; performances of 'Love for Love' (1709) and the 'Maid's Tragedy' (1710) given for his benefit at Haymarket; highly esteemed as an actor by most of his contemporaries. His dramas include the 'Roman Virgin,' acted 1670, adapted from Webster's 'Appius and Virginia,' the 'Prophetess,' 1690, an opera from the 'Prophetess' of Beaumont and Fletcher, 'King Henry IV,' 1700 (in which he played Falstaff, from Shakespeare, the 'Amorous Widow,' c. 1670, from Molière's 'Georges Dandin,' and the 'Bondman,' 1719, from Massinger. [iv. 434]

BETTES, JOHN (d. 1670?), miniature painter; executed oil-painting of Queen Elizabeth and engravings for Hall's 'Chronicle.' [iv. 441]

BETTESWORTH, GEORGE EDMUND BYRON (1780-1808), naval captain; lieutenant, 1804; served in West Indies; carried Nelson's despatches from Antigua to England, and was promoted post-captain, 1806; killed in engagement off Bergen. [iv. 441]

BETTS, JOHN (d. 1695), physician; B.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1647; M.D., 1654; physician to Charles II; F.C.P., 1664; censor, College of Physicians, 1671, 1673, 1685, and 1686; 'elect,' 1685; published medical works. [iv. 442]

BETTY, WILLIAM HENRY WEST (1791-1874), actor, called the 'Young Roscius'; played Romeo at Belfast, and Hamlet and Prince Arthur, at Dublin 1808; played at Cork, Waterford, Glasgow, Edinburgh

Birmingham, and at Covent Garden and Drury Lane, 1804; appeared on alternate nights at Drury Lane and Covent Garden, 1805, adding Richard III and Macbeth to his Shakespearean repertoire; last appeared as boy actor at Bath, 1808; fellow-commoner of Christ's College, Cambridge, 1809; returned to stage, 1812, and finally retired, 1824. [iv. 442]

BEULAN, a priest to whom the author of 'Historia Britonum' (perhaps 'Nennius') dedicated his work. Some historical writings have been attributed to him. [iv. 443]

BEUNO or BEINO, St. (d. 660?), monk; related to St. Cadoc the Wise of Llancafian and to St. Kentigern; became a monk; established religious society at Clynnog Fawr, Carnarvonshire, 616; founded several churches. [iv. 444]

BEVAN, EDWARD (1770-1860), physician and apirarian; studied at St. Bartholomew's Hospital; M.D. St. Andrews, 1818; after some years' practice retired to Bridgton, near Ross, Herefordshire, where he developed an apirary; one of founders of Entomological Society, 1833; published 'The Honey-Bee: its Natural History, Physiology, and Management', 1827. [iv. 444]

BEVAN, JOSEPH GURNEY (1753-1814), quaker; entered his father's business of chemist and druggist, 1776; retired, 1794; able quaker apologist. His works include 'Refutation of Misrepresentations of Quakers', 1800, 'Thoughts on Reason and Revelation', 1805, 'The Life of St. Paul', 1807, and memoirs of Robert Barclay, Isaac Penington, and Sarah Stephenson. [iv. 445]

BEVER, JOHN (d. 1311), chronicler. [See JOHN OF LONDON.]

BEVER, THOMAS (1725-1791), scholar and civilian; LL.D. All Souls' College, Oxford, 1758; admitted to Doctors' Commons, 1758; judge of Cinque Ports and chancellor of Lincoln and Bangor; lectured on civil law, Oxford, 1762; published a 'History of Legal Polity of the Roman State', 1781. [iv. 446]

BEVERIDGE, WILLIAM (1637-1708), bishop; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1660; vicar of Ealing, 1661-72; published 'Collection of Canons received by Greek Church', 1672; vicar of St. Peter's, Cornhill, 1672; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1674; D.D., 1679; prebendary of Canterbury, 1684; bishop of St. Asaph, 1704. Several religious works by him were published posthumously. [iv. 447]

BEVERLEY, CHARLES JAMES (1788-1868), naturalist; assistant-surgeon in navy, 1810; accompanied Polar expeditions under Ross (1818) and Parry (1819-20); and assisted in preparation of examples of Arctic zoology; full surgeon and F.R.S., 1821. [iv. 448]

BEVERLEY, HENRY ROXBY (1796-1863), actor; played low comedy parts at Adelphi, 1833; manager of Victoria Theatre, 1839, and later of the Sunderland theatre and other houses, principally in north of England. [iv. 449]

BEVERLEY, St. JOHN OF (d. 721). [See JOHN.]

BEVERLEY, JOHN OF (d. 1414), Carmelite; doctor and professor of divinity at Oxford; B.D., 1393; canon of St. John's Church, Beverley; probably same with John of Beverley the lollard, who was drawn and hanged at St. Giles's Fields; left works in manuscript. [iv. 449]

BEVERLEY, JOHN (1748-1827), esquire bedell of Cambridge University; M.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1770; esquire bedell, 1770-1827; held office under the admiralty. His works include an account of Cambridge University customs. [iv. 450]

BEVERLEY or INGLEBERD, PHILIP (c. 1290), Oxford benefactor; rector of Kayingham, Yorkshire; endowed University College, Oxford. [iv. 450]

BEVERLEY, THOMAS OF (fl. 1174). [See THOMAS.]

BEVERLEY, WILLIAM ROXBY (1814?-1889), scene-painter; employed (1830) at Theatre Royal, Manchester, managed by his father, William Roxby (1765-1842), who had taken the name of Beverley; subsequently accompanied his father on tour, and was with his brother, Henry Beverley [q.v.], at Victoria Theatre, London, 1839; principal artist at Princess's Theatre, 1846; painted scenes for Vestris and Mathews at Lyceum, 1847-55; executed dioramic views for 'Ascent of Mont Blanc', exhibited by Albert Smith at Egyptian Hall, Piccadilly, 1862; scenic director at Covent Garden, 1853; began (1854) connection with Drury Lane, which lasted till 1884, and worked exclusively for that theatre, 1868-79; painted panorama of Lakes of Killarney for Grand Theatre, Islington, 1884; exhibited pictures at Royal Academy between 1868 and 1880. [Suppl. i. 192]

BEVILLE, ROBERT (d. 1824), barrister-at-law; called to bar at Inner Temple; practised on Norfolk circuit; registrar to Bedford Level corporation, 1812-24; published treatise on law of homicide. [iv. 450]

BEVIN, ELWAY (fl. 1605-1631), composer; of Welsh origin; gentleman-extraordinary of Chapel Royal, 1605; according to Wood organist of Bristol, 1689 till 1637, when, as Roman catholic, he was dismissed from appointments; published 'Brief Instruction of Art of Musike', 1631, and composed some church music. [iv. 451]

BEVIS or BEVANS, JOHN (1693-1771), astronomer; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1718; physician in London before 1730; fitted up an observatory at Stoke Newington, c. 1738; compiled 'Uranographia Britannica', 1745-50, which was not published, the intending publisher becoming bankrupt; fellow, 1765, and foreign secretary, 1766-71, of Royal Society. He was a diligent observer, and published astronomical and medical works. [iv. 451]

BEWICK, JANE (1787-1881), writer of memoirs; daughter of Thomas Bewick [q.v.], a memoir of whom, written by herself, she edited and issued, 1862. [iv. 452]

BEWICK, JOHN (1760-1795), wood-engraver; younger brother of Thomas Bewick [q.v.], to whom he was apprenticed at Newcastle, 1777; obtained employment in London on blocks for children's books, 1782; executed illustrations for 'Gay's Fables' (1788), 'Emblems of Mortality', a copy of Holbein's 'Icones' (1789), 'Proverbs Exemplified' (1790), 'Progress of Man and Society' (1791), 'Locking-Glass for the Mind' (1792), and other works. As an engraver he falls far below his brother. [iv. 453]

BEWICK, ROBERT ELLIOT (1788-1849), wood-engraver, son of Thomas Bewick [q.v.], whose partner he became, 1812; assisted in 'Fables of Æsop' (1818) and 'History of British Fishes'. [iv. 454]

BEWICK, THOMAS (1753-1828), wood-engraver; apprenticed to Ralph Beilby [q.v.], 1767, and was soon entrusted with most of Beilby's wood-engraving business; executed cuts for several children's books, 1771-4; came to London, 1776, and shortly afterwards went again to Newcastle and entered into partnership with Beilby; engraved blocks for 'Gay's Fables' (1779), 'Select Fables' (1784), 'General History of Quadrupeds' (1790), for which Beilby supplied the letterpress, 'History of British Birds' (1797 and 1804), the text being by the Rev. Mr. Cotes, and 'Fables of Æsop' (1818), in which he was assisted by his son, R. E. Bewick [q.v.], and two of his pupils; left unfinished illustrations for a 'History of British Fishes.' The 'Chillingham Bull' (1789) was one of his most ambitious works. [iv. 455]

BEWICK, WILLIAM (1795-1866), portrait and historical painter; pupil of Haydon, 1817-20; copied Michael Angelo's Prophets and Sibyls in Sistine Chapel, 1826-9; exhibited copies, 1840; took part in Westminster Hall competition, 1843. He excelled in reproducing Rembrandt. [iv. 460]

BEWLEY, WILLIAM (d. 1788), friend of Dr. Burney; practised medicine at Massingham, Norfolk; contributed largely to 'Monthly Review'. [iv. 460]

BEKFIELD, WILLIAM RICHARD (1824-1863), composer; article to Dr. Buck, organist of Norwich Cathedral; Mus. Bac. Oxford, 1846; organist at Boston, Lincolnshire, and, 1848, of St. Helen's, Bishopsgate; Mus. Doc. Cambridge, 1849; wrote oratorio, 'Israel Restored', 1861. [iv. 461]

BEXLEY, first BARON (1766-1821). [See VANSITTART, NICHOLAS.]

BIANCONI, CHARLES (1786-1875), promoter of the Irish car system in Ireland; born at Tregolo, Lombardy; itinerant vendor of prints in Ireland; opened as carver and glider a shop in Carrick-on-Suir, 1806; instituted car to carry passengers, goods, and mail-bags between Clonmel and Cahir (8 miles), 1815, the result of which was that a car system was formed and rapidly extended; deputy-lieutenant, 1863; friend and adherent of O'Connell. [iv. 461]

BIBBY, THOMAS (1799-1863), Irish poetical writer; educated at Kilkenny and Trinity College, Dublin; one of the best Greek scholars of his day; lived latterly in eccentric retirement; published two dramatic poems 'Gerald of Kildare', 1854, and 'Silken Thomas', 1859. [v. 462]

BIBBESWORTH or BIBBESWORTH, WALTER DE (fl. 1270), poet; accompanied Prince Edward to Holy Land, 1270; wrote two French poems. [v. 463]

BIBER, GEORGE EDWARD (1801-1874), miscellaneous writer; born at Ludwigsburg, Würtemberg, and studied at lyceum there: Ph.D. Tübingen; LL.D. Göttingen; took part in agitation for German unity, and retired successively to Italy and the Grisons; master in Pestalozzi institution, Yverdon; head of classical school at Hampstead, and later at Coombe Wood; became naturalised; vicar of Holy Trinity, Roehampton, 1842-74; member of council of English Church Union, 1863-4; published works dealing with theological questions; edited 'John Bull', 1848-56. [v. 463]

BICHENO, JAMES EBENEZER (1785-1851), statesman; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1822; joined Oxford circuit; F.L.S., 1812, and secretary, 1824-32; published 'Ireland and its Economy,' 1830; member of commission to investigate condition of poor in Ireland, c. 1833; colonial secretary in Van Diemen's Land, 1842, where he died; wrote works on economic and scientific subjects. [v. 1]

BICKERSTAFF, WILLIAM (1728-1789), antiquary; under-master of Lower Free grammar school, Leicester, 1750; held successively various curacies in Leicestershire; contributed papers on antiquarian subjects to 'Gentleman's Magazine.' [v. 2]

BICKERSTAFFE, ISAAO (d. 1812?), dramatic writer; page to Lord Chesterfield, when lord lieutenant of Ireland; produced between 1756 and 1771 many successful dramatic pieces, including 'Love in a Village' (1762); died abroad, being suspected of a capital crime, 1772; fled abroad in degraded circumstances. [v. 2]

BICKERSTETH, EDWARD (1786-1850), evangelical divine; received appointment in General Post Office, c. 1800; in partnership with his brother-in-law, a solicitor at Norwich, 1812; abandoned practice of law, and was ordained; one of secretaries of Church Missionary Society, 1816-30, during which time he travelled as 'deputation'; assistant minister of Wheler Episcopal Chapel, Spitalfields; rector of Watton, Hertfordshire, 1830. Took an active part in opposing the Tractarian movement; one of the founders of the Parker Society and of the Irish Church Missions Society; frequently acted as 'deputation' for Society for Conversion of Jews, and other religious associations. His works include 'Help to Studying the Scriptures' and 'Christian Psalmody,' a collection of over seven hundred hymns. [v. 3]

BICKERSTETH, EDWARD (1814-1892), dean of Lichfield; M.A. Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, 1839; D.D., 1864; vicar of Aylesbury and archdeacon of Buckinghamshire, 1853; honorary canon of Christ Church, Oxford, 1866; dean of Lichfield, 1875; during several years prolocutor over lower house of convocation of Canterbury; published religious writings. [Suppl. i. 194]

BICKERSTETH, EDWARD (1850-1897), bishop of South Tokyo, Japan; B.A. Pembroke College, Cambridge, 1873; fellow, 1875; M.A., 1876; ordained deacon, 1873; priest, 1874; head of Cambridge mission to Delhi, 1877-1882; rector of Framlingham, 1882; bishop of South Tokyo, Japan, 1886. [Suppl. i. 194]

BICKERSTETH, HENRY, BARON LANGDALE (1783-1851), master of rolls, brother of Edward Bickersteth (1786-1850) [q.v.]; studied medicine in London and Edinburgh; Hewitt scholar, Caius College, Cambridge, 1802; senior wrangler and senior Smith's mathematical prizeman, 1808; B.A. and fellow; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1811; bencher, 1827; M.A., 1811; gave valuable evidence before commission on procedure of court of chancery, 1824; K.O., 1827; sworn privy councillor, appointed master of rolls, and created Baron Langdale of Langdale, Westmoreland, 1836; temporarily speaker of House of Lords, 1840; head of commission entrusted with seal, 1850. [v. 4]

BICKERSTETH, ROBERT (1816-1884), bishop of Ripon; graduated at Queens' College, Cambridge, 1841; hon. secretary of Irish Church Missions, 1850; canon residentiary and treasurer, Salisbury Cathedral, 1854; bishop of Ripon, 1867; gained considerable reputation as evangelical preacher. [v. 6]

BICKERTON, SIR RICHARD (1727-1792), vice-admiral; entered navy, 1739; lieutenant in West Indies, 1746-1748; post-captain in Mediterranean, 1759, West Indies, and Channel, 1761; knighted, 1773; baronet, 1778; assisted in second relief of Gibraltar, 1781; commodore of first class in East Indies, 1782-4; commander-in-chief at Leeward Islands, 1786-7; rear-admiral, 1787; vice-admiral, 1790; port-admiral at Plymouth till death. [v. 6]

BICKERTON, SIR RICHARD HUSSEY (1769-1832), admiral; son of Sir Richard Bickerton [q.v.]; entered navy, 1771; lieutenant, 1777; commander, 1779; in Channel, 1779-80, West Indies, 1781 and 1787-90, and Channel, 1793-4, West Indies and Newfoundland, 1794, North Sea, 1795, and Channel, 1797-9; rear-admiral, 1799; served at Cadix and on Egyptian coast; commander-in-chief in Mediterranean; second in command under Nelson, 1804-5; admiral, 1810; commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, 1812; K.C.B., 1816; general of marines, 1830. [v. 7]

BICKHAM, GEORGE, the younger (d. 1758), engraver; son of George Bickham (d. 1769) [q.v.]; published essay on drawing, also humorous and other engravings. [v. 8]

BICKHAM, GEORGE, the elder (d. 1769), writing master and engraver; published portraits, engravings, and (1743) 'The Universal Penman.' [v. 8]

BICKLEY, THOMAS (1518-1596), bishop of Chichester; chorister in free school of Magdalen College, Oxford; fellow, 1541; one of Edward VI's chaplains at Windsor; retired to France during Mary's reign; chancellor in Lichfield Cathedral and warden of Merton College, Oxford, after Elizabeth's accession; bishop of Chichester, 1585. [v. 8]

BICKNELL, ALEXANDER (d. 1796), author; published works, including fiction and histories, between 1777 and 1785. [v. 9]

BICKNELL, ELHANAN (1788-1861), patron of art; collected, between 1838 and 1850, at his residence at Herne Hill, Surrey, many valuable pictures by masters of the modern British school. [v. 9]

BICKNELL, HERMAN (1830-1875), author, orientalist, and traveller; son of Elhanan Bicknell [q.v.]; educated at Paris, Hanover, University College, and St. Bartholomew's Hospital; graduated at College of Surgeons, 1854; military surgeon in Hong Kong, 1855, India, 1856-60, and at Aldershot; resigned commission, and devoted himself to languages and to travelling in all parts of the world. Translations from Häfiz by him were published posthumously. [v. 10]

BICKNELL, M— (1695?-1723), actress; first heard of as playing at the Haymarket in Cibber's 'Careless Husband,' 1706; at Drury Lane, from 1708 to 1721, when she was the original Lady Wrangle in Cibber's 'Refusal'; last appeared, 1723. [v. 11]

BICKNOR or BYKENORE, ALEXANDER (d. 1349), archbishop of Dublin; prebendary of Maynooth and treasurer of Ireland; elected archbishop of Dublin, 1310, but his election set aside by Edward II; consecrated, 1317; lord justice of Ireland, 1318; went on embassies to France, 1323 and 1324; joined conspiracy formed in France to overthrow the Despensers; sided with Queen Isabella against Edward II, 1326; papal collector, 1330; during last years of his life, engaged in dispute with archbishop of Armagh concerning primacy of Ireland; founded college in St. Patrick's Church, 1320. [v. 11]

BIDDER, GEORGE PARKER (1806-1878), engineer; exhibited, when very young, by his father as a 'calculating phenomenon'; educated at Edinburgh; took to engineering, and became associated with Robert Stephenson in London and Birmingham railway, 1834; obtained work in connection with parliamentary committees; a founder of the Electric Telegraph Company. His constructive works include the Victoria Docks, London. [v. 12]

BIDDLE, JOHN (1815-1862), unitarian; M.A. Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1841; master of free school of St. Mary-le-Crypt, Gloucester; imprisoned in Gloucester by parliamentary commissioners, his religious views being called in question, but released on bail, 1845; brought before parliamentary commission at Westminster, and, having published works refuting Godhead of Holy Spirit, was remanded to prison, 1847; liberated on bail, but soon afterwards again confined in Newgate; released by decree of oblivion, 1852; published 'A Two-fold Catechism,' 1854, and was imprisoned in Gatehouse, 1854-5; became entangled in dispute with a baptist pastor, and was exiled to Scilly Islands, 1855-8; released, but rearrested; subsequently died from disease contracted in prison. His controversial writings attracted considerable attention. [v. 13]

BIDDLECOMBE, SIR GEORGE (1807-1878), captain and author; midshipman in mercantile marine, 1823; second master in royal navy, 1833; in active service, and engaged in naval surveys, c. 1828-54; master attendant at Woolwich yard, 1864-8; staff-captain and C.B., 1867; knighted, 1873; published works relating to naval matters. [v. 16]

BIDDULPH, SIR THOMAS MYDDLETON (1809-1878), general; lieutenant, 1829; master of Queen Victoria's household, 1851; colonel, 1854; K.C.B., 1863; keeper of Queen Victoria's privy purse, 1867; lieutenant-general, 1873; brevet-general and privy councillor, 1877. [v. 17]

BIDDULPH, THOMAS TREGENNA (1763-1838), evangelical divine; M.A. Queen's College, Oxford, 1787; incumbent of Bengeworth, near Evesham, 1793-1803, and of St. James's, Bristol, 1799-1838; published theological works. [v. 17]

BIDGOOD, JOHN (1824-1890), physician; educated at Exeter College, Oxford; Petrean fellow, 1842; bachelor of physic, 1848; excluded from fellowship by parliamentary visitors, 1849-60; M.D. Padua; practised at Chard and subsequently at Exeter; incorporated M.D. Oxford, 1860; F.O.P., 1866. [v. 18]

BIDLACE, JOHN (1755-1814), divine and poet; M.A. and D.D. Christ Church, Oxford, 1808; minister at Stonehouse; chaplain to prince regent and Duke of Clarence; Bampton lecturer, 1811; afflicted with blindness, 1811; published religious and poetical works. [v. 18]

BIDWILL, JOHN CARNE (1815-1853), botanist and traveller; became merchant at Sydney, New South Wales; accompanied exploring expeditions in New Zealand and made several botanical discoveries; contributed to the 'Gardener's Chronicle.' [v. 18]

BIFFIN or BEFFIN, SARAH (1794-1850), miniature painter; born without arms or legs, but contrived to use pencil and paintbrush with her mouth; travelled about the country exhibiting her powers, 1812; received medal from Society of Artists, 1821. [v. 19]

BIFIELD, NICHOLAS (1579-1622). [See BYFIELD.]

BIGG, JOHN STANYAN (1828-1866), poet and journalist; published 'The Sea King,' a metrical romance, 1848; edited in Ireland 'Downshire Protestant'; returned and became editor and proprietor of 'Ulverston Advertiser,' 1860-5. His most important poem, 'Night and the Soul' (1854), shows that his sympathies were with the 'Spasmodic School.' [v. 19]

BIGG, WILLIAM REDMORE (1755-1828), painter; pupil of Edward Penny, R.A.; entered Academy schools, 1778; R.A., 1814. [v. 20]

BIGGAR, JOSEPH GILLIS (1828-1890), Irish politician; provision merchant at Belfast, 1861-80; town councillor, 1871; chairman of Belfast water commission; joined Isaac Butt's Home Rule Association, 1870; M.P. for co. Ansan, 1874 till death; joined Irish Republican Brotherhood (the Fenians), 1875, and became member of supreme council, but was expelled from the body, 1877, for refusing to sever his connection with the parliamentary movement; treasurer of land league, 1879; opposed Gladstone's Irish policy, 1880-1; suspended for disorderly conduct, 1881; he was one of the Irish politicians whose conduct was investigated during the Parnell commission, 1887; he adopted, with considerable success, from 1875, a policy of parliamentary 'obstruction.' [Suppl. I. 196]

BIGLAND, JOHN (1760-1833), schoolmaster and author; village schoolmaster; published 'Reflections on

Resurrection and Ascension of Christ,' 1803; adopted literary profession and published series of popular works connected chiefly with geography and history. [v. 20]

BIGLAND, RALPH (1711-1784), Garter king-of-arms; blue mantle, College of Arms, 1757; Somerset and registrar, 1763; Norroy king-of-arms, 1773; Clarenceux, 1774; Garter king-of-arms, 1780; made collections for history of Gloucestershire. [v. 21]

BIGNELL, HENRY (1611-1660?), divine; B.A. St. Mary's Hall, Oxford; rector, 1645, of St. Peter-le-Bayly, Oxford, whence he was ejected for scandalous conduct. [v. 21]

BIGNELL, MRS. (1695?-1723). [See BICKNELL, M.—.]

BIGOD or BYGOD, SIR FRANCIS (1508-1537), rebel; knighted, c. 1529; educated at Oxford; in Cardinal Wolsey's service, 1527; employed under Thomas Cromwell in advancing Henry VIII's reforms in Yorkshire; hanged for heading insurrection at Beverley in connection with Pilgrimage of Grace. [v. 21]

BIGOD, HUGH, first EARL OF NORFOLK (d. 1176 or 1177), second son of Roger Bigod (d. 1107); governor of Norwich till 1122; king's dapifer, 1123; took active part in rebellions against Henry I.; Earl of Norfolk on Stephen's accession; held Norwich against Stephen, 1136; surrendered and was pardoned; fought under Stephen at Lincoln, 1141; joined Henry of Anjou's party and held Ipswich against Stephen, 1153, but escaped punishment on its fall; showed signs of hostility to Henry II, but gave in his submission, 1157; assisted prince Henry's rebellion against his father, 1173; submitted to Henry II, 1174; probably died in Holy Land, whither he had accompanied Philip of Flanders on pilgrimage. [v. 22]

BIGOD, HUGH (d. 1266), justiciar; chief ranger of Farndale forest, Yorkshire, 1255; chief justiciar, 1258-60; keeper of Tower of London, 1258; governor of Dover Castle, 1258-61. [v. 24]

BIGOD, ROGER, second EARL OF NORFOLK (d. 1221), son of Hugh, first earl [q. v.]; steward of royal household under Richard I.; ambassador to Philip of France to arrange crusade; justiciar after Richard's return; justice itinerant in Norfolk; enjoyed John's favour until 1213, when he was imprisoned; released and restored to favour; joined barons against John, 1215. [v. 24]

BIGOD, ROGER, fourth EARL OF NORFOLK (d. 1270), marshal of England; grandson of Roger Bigod, second earl [q. v.]; knighted, 1233; head of commission of justices itinerant in Essex and Hertfordshire, 1234; accompanied unsuccessful embassy to Lyons to protest against papal exactions, 1246; earl marshal, 1246; played prominent part in bringing forward Provisions of Oxford, 1258; supported Henry III against Simon de Montfort, 1259, but subsequently joined de Montfort's party. [v. 25]

BIGOD, ROGER, fifth EARL OF NORFOLK (1246-1306), marshal of England; son of Hugh Bigod (d. 1266) [q. v.]; refused, with Earl of Hereford, to serve in Gascony unaccompanied by Edward I, 1297, and, on the king's departure to Flanders, protested in arms against taxation without national consent, Edward renouncing the right at Ghent, 1298; gave up marshal's rod, 1301. [v. 26]

BIGSEY, JOHN JEREMIAH (1792-1881), geologist; M.D. Edinburgh, 1814; army medical officer at Cape, 1817; commissioned to report on geology of Upper Canada, 1819; British secretary and medical officer of Canadian boundary commission, 1822; fellow, Geological Society, 1823; F.R.S., 1869; practised medicine at Newark, 1827-1846, and in London, 1846-81; published scientific and other writings. [v. 27]

BIGSEY, ROBERT (1806-1873), antiquary; educated for legal profession, but abandoned it and turned his attention to study and accumulation of antiquities, acquiring several curious relics of Sir Francis Drake; published historical, antiquarian, and other works. [v. 27]

BILFRETH (? 750), anchorite of Lindisfarne; adorned with gold and gems the 'Durham Book,' a manuscript of the gospels now in Cottonian Library. [v. 28]

BILL, ROBERT (1754-1827), inventor; educated for the army, but occupied himself with literary and scientific pursuits; originated improvements in domestic and other contrivances. [v. 28]

BILL, WILLIAM (d. 1561), dean of Westminster; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1533; fellow, 1535; M.A., 1536; D.D. and master of his college, 1547; Linacre lecturer, 1547-9; vice-chancellor, 1549; master of Trinity and itinerant chaplain to the king, 1551; deprived of mastership by Mary, but reinstated, 1558; chief almoner, 1554; fellow and provost of Eton College, 1559; prebendary of Lincoln, 1559; on commission for revision of prayer-book, 1560; dean of Westminster, 1560. [v. 29]

BILLING, AROHIBALD (1791-1881), physician; A.B. Trinity College, Dublin, 1811; M.D., 1818; incorporated M.D. Oxford, 1818; F.C.P., 1819, censor, College of Physicians, 1823, and councillor, 1832-5; physician to London Hospital, 1822-45; instituted clinical lectures in London, 1823; member of senate of London University, 1836; F.R.S.; published medical works and a text-book on engraved gems, coins, and similar objects. [v. 30]

BILLING, SIR THOMAS (d. 1481?), lawyer; member of Gray's Inn; M.P. for London, 1448; recorder, 1451; serjeant-at-law, 1454; king's serjeant, 1458; knighted, c. 1458; took part against the Lancastrians; judge of king's bench, 1464; chief-justice of king's bench, 1469 till death. [v. 31]

BILLINGHAM or BULLINGHAM, RICHARD (fl. 1360), schoolman; educated at Merton College, Oxford; concerned in riot occasioned by election to chancellorship of university, 1349. [v. 32]

BILLINGS, JOSEPH (b. 1758?), explorer; sailed as A.B. under Captain Cook on his last voyage; lieutenant in Russian navy; commanded Russian exploring expedition to north-eastern parts of Asia, 1785, and was promoted successively captain-lieutenant, and captain of second and first class. [v. 32]

BILLINGS, ROBERT WILLIAM (1813-1874), architect; employed in illustrating architectural works; published on his own account 'Archæological Antiquities of County of Durham' (1846), 'Baronial and Ecclesiastical Antiquities of Scotland' (1845-52), and other works; restored many important old buildings in England and Scotland. [v. 33]

BILLINGSLEY, SIR HENRY (d. 1606), lord mayor of London and first translator of Euclid into English; scholar of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1551; studied at Oxford; apprenticed to London haberdasher; sheriff of London, 1584; lord mayor, 1596; knighted, c. 1597; M.P. for London, 1604; published, 1570, the first translation of Euclid into English. [v. 33]

BILLINGSLEY, JOHN, the elder (1625-1684), nonconformist divine; educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; fellow of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1648; incorporated B.A., 1649; minister at Chesterfield; ejected, 1662, but continued to preach in private; published controversial and other religious works. [v. 34]

BILLINGSLEY, JOHN, the younger (1657-1722), nonconformist divine; son of John Billingsley (1625-1684) [q. v.]; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge; ministered successively at Chesterfield, Sheffield, Selston, Kingston-upon-Hull, and at Crutched Friars (1706); sided with opponents of subscription, 1719; published religious tracts. [v. 35]

BILLINGSLEY, MARTIN (fl. 1618-1637), writing-master, probably to Prince Charles; published 'The Pens Excellencie, or the Secretaries Delight', 1618. [v. 35]

BILLINGSLEY, NICHOLAS (1633-1709), poet and divine; educated at Eton and Merton College, Oxford; held living of Woobley; ejected, 1662; kept school at Abergavenny; received living of Blakeney in parish of Awre, Gloucestershire, from which he was subsequently suspended; published religious poems. [v. 36]

BILLINGTON, ELIZABETH (1768-1818), singer; daughter of Carl Welchel, a native of Freiberg, Saxony, principal oboist at the King's Theatre; studied music under her father and Schroeter; appeared at concert at Oxford, 1782; married James Billington, double bass player at Drury Lane, 1783; engaged at Covent Garden, 1788; received lessons from Sacchini at Paris, 1786, and later from Morelli, Faer, and Himmel; sang at Covent Garden, the concerts of ancient music, the oratorios, and Handel commemorations, till 1793; travelled on continent, where, on her husband's death, she married M.

Felissent, a Frenchman, 1799; appeared, on alternate nights, at Covent Garden and Drury Lane, 1801; sang at King's Theatre in Italian opera, 1802 till 1811, when she retired; one of England's greatest singers. [v. 37]

BILLINGTON, THOMAS (d. 1832), harpsichord and singing master; brother-in-law of Elizabeth Billington [q. v.]; member of Royal Society of Musicians, 1777; published instrumental and other musical compositions. [v. 39]

BILLINGTON, WILLIAM (1827-1884), dialect writer; employed in cotton mills at Blackburn; published verse and prose writings in Lancashire dialect. [v. 40]

BILNEY or BYLNEY, THOMAS (d. 1531), martyr; educated at Trinity Hall, Cambridge; LL.B.; gained friendship of Matthew Parker and Latimer; licensed to preach throughout diocese of Ely, 1525, and delivered many sermons against prayers to saints and image worship; arrested at instance of Wolsey and confined in Tower, 1527; persuaded to recant and released, 1529; preached in Norfolk, 1531; apprehended and subsequently burned at Bishopsgate. He maintained a consistent orthodoxy, after mediæval standards, on the power of the pope and of the church, the sacrifice of the mass, and the doctrine of transubstantiation. [v. 40]

BILSON, THOMAS (1547-1616), bishop of Winchester; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; M.A., 1570; D.D., 1581; prebendary of Winchester, and warden of Winchester College, 1576; bishop of Worcester, 1596, and of Winchester, 1597; published religious works. [v. 43]

BINCKES, WILLIAM (d. 1712), dean of Lichfield; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1674; fellow of Peterhouse; M.A., 1678; prebendary of Lincoln, 1683, and of Lichfield, 1697; D.D., 1699; dean of Lichfield, 1703. [v. 44]

BINDLEY, CHARLES, known as HARRY HIKOVER (1795-1869), sporting writer; published works on sporting subjects, including a revised and corrected edition of Delabere Blaine's 'Encyclopædia of Rural Sports', 1852. [v. 45]

BINDLEY, JAMES (1737-1818), book collector; educated at Charterhouse and Peterhouse, Cambridge; M.A., 1762; commissioner of stamp duties, 1765; senior commissioner, 1781-1818; F.S.A., 1768; formed valuable collection of rare books, engravings, and medals. [v. 45]

BINDON, FRANÇOIS (d. 1765), painter and architect; executed portraits of Swift, Richard Baldwin [q. v.], and other eminent Irishmen; retired, c. 1750. [v. 46]

BINGHAM, GEORGE (1715-1800), divine; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; fellow of All Souls; M.A., 1739; B.D., 1748; proctor, 1745-6; rector of Pimperne, Dorsetshire, 1748; proctor for diocese of Salisbury in convocations of 1761, 1768, 1774, and 1780. He assisted the Rev. John Hutchins in compiling his 'History of Dorsetshire,' and published religious works. [v. 46]

BINGHAM, GEORGE CHARLES, third EARL OF LUCAN (1800-1888), field-marshal; educated at Westminster; ensign, 1816; lieutenant, 1820; major, 1825; and lieutenant-colonel, 1826-37, 17th lancers; M.P. for co. Mayo, 1826-30; succeeded to earldom, 1839; elected representative peer of Ireland, 1840; lord-lieutenant of Mayo, 1845; major-general, 1851; commanded cavalry division in army in Turkey, 1854; directed charge of heavy brigade at Balaklava, and followed light brigade with two regiments of the heavy brigade to cover its retirement; censured by Lord Raglan and recalled, 1855; K.O.B. and colonel of 8th Hussars, 1855; lieutenant-general, 1858; general, 1865; colonel of 1st life guards, 1865; G.O.B., 1869; field-marshal, 1887. [Suppl. i. 196]

BINGHAM, SIR GEORGE RIDOUT (1777-1833), major-general; ensign in Corsica, 1793; served in Cape and in Kafir war, 1800; major, 1801; lieutenant-colonel of 2nd battalion 53rd foot in Ireland, 1805; in Peninsula, 1809-14; knighted; brigadier-general in St. Helena till 1819; commanded Cork district, 1827-32. [v. 47]

BINGHAM, JOHN (1607-1689), nonconformist divine; educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; head-master in free school, Derby; vicar of Marston-upon-Dove, Derbyshire; ejected, 1662, subsequently suffering considerable persecution; assisted Walton with his great polyglot bible. [v. 47]

BINGHAM, JOSEPH (1668-1723), divine; B.A. University College, Oxford, 1688; fellow, 1689; withdrew from university, being unjustly charged with preaching impious and heretical doctrines, 1696; collated to living of Havant, 1712; lost money in South Sea Bubble; published 'Origines Ecclesiasticæ,' or 'Antiquities of the Christian Church,' 10 vols., 1708-22, and other works relating to ecclesiastical history and doctrine. [v. 48]

BINGHAM, MARGARET, COUNTESS OF LUCAN (d. 1814), amateur painter; married, 1760, Sir Charles Bingham (created Earl of Lucan, 1795); spent many years in embellishment of Shakespeare's historical plays. Her miniatures were extravagantly praised by Horace Walpole. [v. 50]

BINGHAM, PEREGRINE, the elder (1754-1826), biographer and poet; B.O.L. New College, Oxford, 1780; rector of Berwick St. John, Wiltshire, 1817; published memoirs of his father, George Bingham [q. v.] [v. 51]

BINGHAM, PEREGRINE, the younger (1788-1864), legal writer; son of Peregrine Bingham (1754-1826) [q. v.]; B.A. Magdalen College, Oxford, 1810; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1818; for many years legal reporter; published legal works. [v. 51]

BINGHAM or BYNGHAM, SIR RICHARD (1628-1599), governor of Connaught; served in Scotland under Somerset, 1647, at St. Quentin, 1657, in expedition against Outer-Isles of Scotland, 1668, under Don John of Austria against Turks, in conquest of Cyprus, 1672, in Low Countries, 1673, and under Dutch flag against Spaniards, 1678; knighted and appointed governor of Connaught, 1684; rigorously suppressed Connaught rebellion, 1686; temporarily recalled to take part in war in Netherlands, 1687-8; repressed O'Rourke's revolt, 1690-1; imprisoned in Fleet on charge of exercising undue severity, 1696; returned to Ireland as marshal, 1698. [v. 52]

BINGHAM, RICHARD, the elder (1785-1858), divine; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; B.A., 1787; D.C.L., 1801; prebendary of Chichester, 1807; imprisoned at Winchester for fraud, 1813, and published vehement protestation of innocence; issued, 1829, third edition of 'Origines Ecclesiasticæ,' published by his ancestor, Joseph Bingham [q. v.] [v. 53]

BINGHAM, RICHARD, the younger (1798-1872), divine; son of Richard Bingham (1785-1858) [q. v.]; M.A. Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1827; vicar of Queenborough, Isle of Sheppey, 1856-70; published writings relating to liturgical revision, and an edition of works of Joseph Bingham [q. v.] [v. 54]

BINGLEY, BARON (1676-1731). [See BENSON, ROBERT.]

BINGLEY, WILLIAM (1774-1823), miscellaneous writer; M.A. St. Peter's College, Cambridge, 1803; minister of Fitzroy chapel, Charlotte Street, London, 1816-23; F.L.S.; published works on various subjects, including topography and natural history. [v. 55]

BINHAM or BYNHAM, SIMON (A. 1335), chronicler; monk of priory of Binham, Norfolk; assisted in opposing exactions of Hugh, abbot (1308-26) of St. Albans; said to have contributed to 'Chronicle of Rishanger.' [v. 56]

BINHAM or BYNHAM, WILLIAM (A. 1370), prior of Wallingford; D.D. Oxford, where he was for a time intimate with Wycliffe, against whom he afterwards wrote 'Contra Positiones Wiclei.' [v. 56]

BINNEMAN, HENRY (d. 1583). [See BYNNEMAN, HENRY.]

BINNEY, EDWARD WILLIAM (1812-1881), geologist; practised as solicitor in Manchester from 1836; a founder and first honorary secretary of Manchester Geological Society; president, 1867-9 and 1866-7; member of London Geological Society, 1853; F.R.S., 1856; wrote many papers on geological subjects, of which Sigillaria was among the most important. [v. 56]

BINNEY, THOMAS (1798-1874), nonconformist divine; apprenticed to a Newcastle bookseller; studied at theological seminary at Wyomondley, Hertfordshire; pastor of St. James's Street chapel, Newport, Isle of Wight, 1824, and congregation at Weigh House, London, 1829-69; acquired high reputation as preacher; visited Australia, 1857; L.L.D. Aberdeen, 1852; on two occasions he was elected chairman of the Congregational Union of England and Wales; wrote polemical works and verse of a religious character. [v. 57]

BINNING, LORD (1697-1733). [See HAMILTON, CHARLES.]

BINNING, HUGH (1627-1685), Scottish divine; M.A. Glasgow; professor of philosophy, 1647-51; licensed minister; called to parish of Govan, near Glasgow, 1649; ordained, 1650; sided with protesters against resolutions, and took prominent part in dispute before Cromwell at Glasgow, 1651; published religious works. [v. 59]

BINNS, SIR HENRY (1837-1899), prime minister of Natal; went to Natal, 1858; conducted sugar estate at Riet River, 1860, and floated, 1868, Umbilanga Valley Sugar Estate Company, of which he was general manager till 1892; nominee member of legislative council, 1873, and was member for Victoria county, 1883-99; prime minister of Natal, 1897; colonial secretary and minister of agriculture, 1897, but soon resigned latter portfolio; advocated and (1898) brought about entrance of Natal into South African customs union; K.C.M.G., 1898. [Suppl. i. 198]

BINNS, JOHN (1772-1860), journalist and politician; engaged as plumber in London, 1794; member of London Corresponding Company; connected with schemes of United Irishmen; in prison, 1798-1801; went to America, 1801; edited successively 'Republican Argus' and 'Democratic Press.' [v. 60]

BINYON, EDWARD (1830?-1876), landscape painter; contributed to exhibitions of Royal Academy and Dudley Gallery, 1857-76. [v. 61]

BIONDI, SIR GIOVANNI FRANCESCO (1672-1644), historian; born at Lesina, in Gulf of Venice; secretary to Venetian ambassador at Paris; came to England, 1609; represented James I at Calvinist assembly, Grenoble, 1615; knighted, 1622; gentleman of king's privy chamber; died at Aubonne, Switzerland; published in Italian at Venice three romances and a work on the Wars of the Roses, which all appeared in English translations. [v. 61]

BIRCH, CHARLES BELL (1832-1893), sculptor, son of Jonathan Birch [q. v.]; studied at school of design, Somerset House, and at Royal academies, Berlin and London; assistant to John Henry Foley [q. v.]; won premium from Art Union of London for 'Wood Nymph,' 1864; exhibited at Burlington House from 1864; A.R.A., 1880; produced bronze 'Griffin' on Temple Bar memorial, Fleet Street, 1880; his works include a statue of Lord Beaconsfield at Liverpool, and statues of Queen Victoria at Aberdeen and Odeypore, India. [Suppl. i. 199]

BIRCH, JAMES (A. 1759-1795), heresiarch; watch-motion maker in London; joined Muggletonians, c. 1759, but rejected part of their doctrine, 1772; began to claim personal inspiration, 1778; published theological works. [v. 62]

BIRCH, JOHN (1616-1691), presbyterian colonel; merchant in Bristol; after surrender of Bristol to royalists, levied regiment in London and served as colonel under Sir William Waller; wounded at Arundel; present at battle of Alresford, blockade of Oxford, and skirmish at Cropredy Bridge; entrusted with care of Bath; assisted in assault on Bristol, 1645, which, later, was given into his charge; took Hereford and became its governor; M.P. for Leominster; opposed extreme measures of Cromwellians; imprisoned at Hereford, 1654-5; took prominent part in Restoration; member of council of state, 1660; auditor of exchequer; M.P. for Leominster in Convention parliament, Penryn, 1671-8, and for Weobly, 1678-81. [v. 62]

BIRCH, JOHN (1745?-1815), surgeon; served as surgeon in army, and afterwards settled in London; surgeon to St. Thomas's Hospital, 1784-1815; surgeon extraordinary to prince regent; advocated use of electricity as a remedial agent, and opposed introduction of vaccination; published medical works. [v. 64]

BIRCH, JONATHAN (1783-1847), translator of 'Faust'; in office of John Argelander, a timber merchant at Memel (with whom, in 1807, the three eldest sons of Frederick William III of Prussia took refuge), 1808-12; returned to England, 1812; on terms of close intimacy with Frederick William IV of Prussia; published several works, including translations of Goethe's 'Faust,' 1839-43, and the 'Nibelungen Lied,' 1848. [v. 65]

BIRCH, PETER (1652?-1710), divine; educated at Cambridge and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1674; D.D., 1688; successively curate of St. Thomas's, Oxford, rector of St. Ebbe's Church and lecturer at Carfax; chaplain to James, duke of Ormonde; chaplain to House of Commons and prebendary of Westminster, 1689; rector of St. James's, Westminster, 1692, but was removed owing, probably, to his high church principles, which were offensive to the court; vicar of St. Bride's, Fleet Street, 1695; published sermons. [v. 66]

BIRCH, SIR RICHARD JAMES HOLWELL (1803-1876), general; ensign, Bengal infantry, 1821; judge-advocate-general to Bengal forces, 1841; C.B., 1849; secretary to Indian military department, 1852; colonel, 1854; major-general, 1858; K.O.B., 1860; lieutenant-general, 1862. [v. 67]

BIRCH, SAMUEL (1757-1841), dramatist; pastry-cook in Cornhill; common councillor, 1781; alderman of Candlewick ward, 1807-40; sheriff, 1811; lord mayor, 1814; wrote poems and musical dramas, of which the 'Adopted Child' (1795) was the most successful. [v. 67]

BIRCH, SAMUEL (1813-1888), Egyptologist; grandson of Samuel Birch (q. v.); educated at Merchant Taylors' School, where he studied Chinese; entered service of commissioners of public records, 1834; assistant in department of antiquities in British Museum, 1836, and was assistant-keeper, 1844-61; studied Egyptology, and quickly established importance of Champollion's system of decipherment of Egyptian; keeper of oriental, British, and mediæval antiquities at British Museum, 1861, and, from 1866 till death, of oriental antiquities alone; founded Society of Biblical Archaeology, 1870, and was president, 1870-86; LL.D. Aberdeen, 1862, and Cambridge, 1876; D.C.L. Oxford, 1876; honorary fellow of Queen's College, Oxford; Rede lecturer at Cambridge, 1876; he published translations from oriental writings and archaeological, Egyptological, and other treatises, besides popular educational works on Egyptian language and history. [Suppl. i. 199]

BIRCH, THOMAS (1705-1766), divine; rector of Ulting, Essex, 1732, Llandewi-Velfrey, Pembroke (a sinecure), 1743, Siddington, near Cirencester, 1744, St. Michael, Wood Street, London, 1744, St. Margaret Pattens, London, 1746-66, and Depden, Suffolk, 1761-6; D.D. Marischal College, Aberdeen, and of Lambeth, 1753; F.R.S. and F.S.A., 1735; secretary of Royal Society, 1752-66; bequeathed historical and biographical manuscripts to the British Museum; published historical works and contributed to 'General Dictionary, Historical and Critical' (1734-41). [v. 68]

BIRCH, THOMAS LEDLIE (d. 1808), Irish Presbyterian divine; minister of Saintfield, 1776; went to America after insurrection of 1798, with which he was connected; published religious works. [v. 70]

BIRCH, WILLIAM (1755-1834), enamel painter and engraver; practised after 1794 in Philadelphia; received Society of Arts medal, 1788. [v. 70]

BIRCHENSHA, JOHN (A. 1664-1672), musician; lived in family of Earl of Kildare, and afterwards taught the viol in London; prepared notes for a work on the mathematical basis of music. [v. 70]

BIRCHINGTON, STEPHEN (A. 1389), historical writer; monk of Christ Church, Canterbury, 1382; treasurer and warden of manors of the monastery; wrote historical works. [v. 71]

BIRCHLEY, WILLIAM (1613-1669). [See AUSTIN, JOHN.]

BIRCKBEK, SIMON (1584-1666), divine; B.A. Queen's College, Oxford, 1604; B.D., 1616; vicar of Gilling, and of Forcet, near Richmond, Yorkshire, 1617; published religious works. [v. 71]

BIRD, CHARLES SMITH (1795-1862), divine; articled as conveyancing solicitor, Liverpool, 1812; scholar of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1818; fellow, 1820; took pupils, among whom was Lord Macaulay; vicar of

Gainsborough, and prebendary of Lincoln, 1843; chancellor of Lincoln Cathedral, 1859; F.L.S., 1828; published poems and theological works. [v. 71]

BIRD, EDWARD (1773-1819), painter; conducted a drawing school at Bristol; first exhibited at Royal Academy, 1809; awarded premium by British Institution for 'Death of Eli'; R.A., 1815; court painter to Queen Charlotte, 'The Field of Chevy Chase' is considered his greatest work. [v. 72]

BIRD, FRANCIS (1667-1731), sculptor; studied at Brussels and Rome, and under Gibbons and Cibber, to whose practice he succeeded; employed in decorations of St. Paul's Cathedral; his best work is the statue of Dr. Busby in Westminster Abbey. [v. 73]

BIRD, GOLDING (1814-1854), physician; studied at Guy's Hospital, 1832; licensed, without examination, to practise as apothecary, 1836; M.D. St. Andrews, 1838; M.A., 1840; L.C.P., London, 1840; F.C.P., 1845; lecturer on natural philosophy at Guy's Hospital, 1836-53; physician to Finsbury dispensary; assistant physician to Guy's, 1843-53; lecturer on materia medica, College of Physicians, 1847; F.R.S., and member of Linnean and Geological societies; published 'Elements of Natural Philosophy,' 1839, and medical works. [v. 74]

BIRD, JAMES (1738-1839), dramatist and poetical writer; apprenticed as miller but abandoned the trade for that of stationer, 1820; wrote two plays which were produced with some success, and some narrative poems. [v. 75]

BIRD, JOHN (d. 1558), bishop; Carmelite friar; B.D. Oxford, 1510; D.D., 1513; provincial of his order, 1516-19, and 1522-5; suffragan to bishop of Llandaff, with title of bishop of Penrith, 1537; accompanied Wotton on embassy to Germany, 1539; bishop of Bangor, 1539, and of Chester, 1541; deprived of his bishopric on account of his being married, 1554; suffragan to Bonner, bishop of London, 1554; left religious writings in manuscript. [v. 76]

BIRD, JOHN (1709-1776), mathematical instrument maker; employed by Sisson, in London, in making mathematical instruments, 1740; carried on business independently in Strand, 1745; acquired considerable fame by making instruments of improved accuracy for the astronomer Bradley; constructed brass mural quadrant for Greenwich Observatory, 1750, and for several continental observatories; published treatises describing his methods of working. [v. 77]

BIRD, RICHARD (d. 1609), canon of Canterbury; B.D. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1569; fellow; M.A., 1572; D.D., 1608; archdeacon of Cleveland, 1589; canon of Canterbury, 1590. [v. 77]

BIRD, ROBERT MERTTINS (1788-1853), Bengal civil servant; commissioner of revenue and circuit for Gorakhpur division, 1829; member of board of revenue, 1832; successfully conducted settlement of revenue of north-west provinces, 1833-41; returned to England, 1842. [v. 78]

BIRD, SAMUEL (A. 1600), divine; M.A. Queens' College, Cambridge, 1573; fellow, Corpus Christi College, 1573-6; minister of St. Peter's, Ipswich, c. 1580-1604; incorporated M.A. Oxford, 1605; published religious works. [v. 79]

BIRD, WILLIAM (1538?-1623). [See BYRD.]

BIRDSALL, JOHN AUGUSTINE (1775-1837), Benedictine; joined Benedictines at Lamspringe, Hanover, 1795; priest, 1801; came to England on suppression of abbey, 1803; established catholic mission at Cheltenham, 1810, and at Broadway, Worcestershire, 1828; provincial of Canterbury, 1822; re-elected, 1826; president-general of Benedictines in England, and cathedral prior of Winchester, 1826; abbot of Westminster, 1830. [v. 79]

BIRINUS, SAINT (d. 650), first bishop of Dorchester; Benedictine monk of Rome; landed in Wessex, 634; made many converts to Christianity; bishop of Dorchester, 635. [v. 80]

BIRKBECK, GEORGE (1776-1841), founder of mechanics' institutions; M.D. Edinburgh, 1799; professor of natural philosophy, Andersonian University, Glasgow, 1799; established, 1800, for working men at Glasgow, cheap courses of lectures on science, which developed into the 'Glasgow Mechanics' Institution,' 1823; practised as physician in London; founder and first president of Birkbeck Mechanics' Institution, London, 1824; founder and councillor of University College, London, 1827. [v. 80]

BIRKENHEAD or BERKENHEAD, Sir JOHN (1616-1679), author of 'Mercurius Aulicus'; M.A. Oriel College, Oxford, 1659; probationer-fellow, All Souls' College, 1640; devised and mostly wrote 'Mercurius Aulicus', the weekly journal of royalists at Oxford, 1642-5; in exile with Prince Charles, 1648; probably knighted at St. Germain, 1649; D.O.L., 1661; M.P. for Wilton; member of Royal Society; one of masters of requests; published satirical poems. [v. 81]

BIRKENSHAW, JOHN (A. 1664-1672). [See BIRCHENSHAW.]

BIRKHEAD or BIRKET, GEORGE (d. 1614), archpriest; educated at Douay and Rome; ordained, 1577; joined English mission, 1580; archpriest of England, 1606-14. [v. 83]

BIRKHEAD, HENRY (1617?-1696), Latin poet; scholar, Trinity College, Oxford, 1635; studied at St. Omer; B.A.; fellow of All Souls, 1658-57; M.A., 1641; registrar of dioceses of Norwich, 1660-61; published poems in Latin and left in manuscript an allegorical play; professorship of poetry at Oxford founded in 1708 from funds left by him. [v. 83]

BIRKS, THOMAS RAWSON (1810-1883), divine and philosopher; second wrangler and second Smith's prizeman, Trinity College, Cambridge, 1834; fellow; vicar of Trinity Church, Cambridge, 1866-77; honorary canon of Ely, 1871; professor of moral philosophy, Cambridge, 1873. His works include 'The Bible and Modern Thought', 1861, and 'Modern Utilitarianism', 1874. [v. 84]

BIRMINGHAM, JOHN (1816-1884), astronomer; revised Schjellerup's 'Catalogue of Red Stars', 1872; discovered a deep red star in Cygnus, which became known by his name, 1881; inspector under board of works. [v. 85]

BIRNIE, ALEXANDER (1826-1862), poet and journalist; baptist minister at Preston; painter at Falkirk; joined staff of 'Falkirk Advertiser'; started 'Falkirk Liberal', which was unsuccessful; made his way on foot to Edinburgh and thence to Newcastle, and died of starvation at Morpeth. [v. 86]

BIRNIE, Sir RICHARD (1760?-1832), police magistrate; partner in an extensive saddler and harness-maker's business in Haymarket, London; police magistrate at Union Hall and subsequently at Bow Street; knighted, 1821. [v. 86]

BIRNIE, WILLIAM (1563-1619), Scottish divine; M.A. St. Leonard's College, St. Andrews, 1588; became shipmaster merchant; vicar of Lanark, 1597; master and economist of St. Leonard's hospital and almshouse, 1603; dean of Chapel Royal, 1612; constant moderator of presbytery, 1606; member of high commission court, 1610 and 1616. [v. 87]

BIRNSTAN (d. 933). [See BYRNSTAN.]

BIRREL, ROBERT (A. 1567-1605), diarist; burgess of Edinburgh; wrote a diary, 1532-1605, published in 'Fragments of Scottish History', 1798. [v. 88]

BISBY or BISSIE, NATHANIEL (1635-1695), divine; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1660; D.D., 1668; rector of Long Melford, 1660; deprived as nonjuror, 1690; wrote against nonconformists. [v. 88]

BISCHOFF, JAMES (1776-1845), author of works on the wool trade; connected with woollen trade in Leeds, and subsequently carried on business as merchant and insurance broker in London; published works aiming at reform in laws relating to wool. [v. 88]

BISCOE, JOHN (d. 1679), puritan divine; B.A. New Inn Hall, Oxford, 1627; minister of St. Thomas's, Southwark; ejected, 1660; published religious works. [v. 89]

BISCOE, RICHARD (d. 1748), divine; dissenting minister of meeting-house in Old Jewry, 1716; conformed and became rector of St. Martin Outwich, London, 1727; chaplain to George II; Boyle lecturer, 1786-8; published lectures, 1742. [v. 89]

BISHOP, ANN (1814-1884), soprano singer; née Rivière; student of Royal Academy of Music, 1824-31; married Sir Henry Rowley Bishop [q. v.], 1831; took prominent place at Vauxhall; eloped with Boocsa, the harp-player, 1839; travelled and sang in European towns, 1839-46, in England, 1846-7, America, 1847, and Australia, 1855; died at New York. [v. 89]

BISHOP, GEORGE (1785-1861), astronomer; proprietor of a wine-making business in London; admitted to Royal Astronomical Society, 1830; secretary, 1833-9; treasurer, 1840-57; president, 1857 and 1858; F.R.S., 1848; fellow of Society of Arts; on council of University College, London; erected, 1836, an observatory near his residence at South Villa, Regent's Park, where Rev. William Dawes and John Russell Hind conducted many important investigations. [v. 90]

BISHOP, Sir HENRY ROWLEY (1786-1855), musical composer; his first opera, 'The Circassian Bride', produced at Drury Lane, 1809; composer and director at Covent Garden, 1810; produced 'Knight of Snowdoun' (founded on Scott's 'Lady of the Lake'), 1811, which was followed, in rapid succession, by other pieces, including 'Midsummer Night's Dream', 1816, 'Comedy of Errors', 1819, 'Antiquary', 1820, 'Twelfth Night', 1820, 'Henry IV Part II', 1821, 'Two Gentlemen of Verona', 1821, and 'As you like it', 1824; original member of Philharmonic Society, 1813; musical director of King's Theatre, Haymarket, 1816-17; sole manager, 1820, of the 'oratorios' given during Lent; engaged, 1825, at Drury Lane, where he produced 'Aladdin' as counter-attraction to Weber's 'Oberon' at Covent Garden, 1826; wrote music for 'Faustus' in collaboration with Cooke and Horn, 1826, 'Hamlet', 1830, 'Kenilworth' and 'Waverley', 1832, and 'Love's Labour's Lost', 1839, and 'Fortunate Isles' to celebrate Queen Victoria's marriage, 1840; musical director at Vauxhall Gardens, 1830-3; Mus. Bac. Oxford, 1839; professor of harmony, Royal Academy of Music; Reid Professor at Edinburgh, 1841-3; conducted Antient Concerts, 1840-8; knighted, 1842; professor of music, Oxford, 1848; Mus. Doc., 1853. His fame rests almost entirely on his glees. [v. 91]

BISHOP, JOHN (1665-1737), musical composer; teacher of chorists at King's College, Cambridge, 1688; organist of Winchester College, 1695; lay-vicar, 1696, and organist and master of chorists, 1729, Winchester Cathedral; published psalm-tunes and anthems and left compositions in manuscript. [v. 94]

BISHOP, JOHN (1797-1873), surgeon; studied at St. George's Hospital; obtained diploma of Royal College of Surgeons, 1824; senior surgeon, Islington dispensary, and surgeon Northern and St. Pancras dispensaries; F.R.S., c. 1844; wrote surgical works. [v. 95]

BISHOP, SAMUEL (1731-1795), poet; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and St. John's College, Oxford; fellow, 1753; M.A., 1758; head-master of Merchant Taylors' School, 1783; rector of Ditton, Kent, and St. Martin Outwich, London; published essays and poems. [v. 95]

BISHOP, WILLIAM (1554-1624), catholic divine; educated at Oxford and at English college, Rheims; ordained priest, 1583; joined English mission; imprisoned in Marshalsea, 1583-4; studied at Paris; returned to English mission, 1591; D.D. Paris; sent to Rome to remonstrate against maladministration of George Blackwell [q. v.], archpriest; confined in English college; imprisoned for refusing oath of allegiance to James I, 1611; on release went to Arras College, Paris; vicar-apostolic and bishop of Chalcedon, 1623; came to England, 1623; published theological works. [v. 96]

BISLEY, GEORGE (d. 1591). [See BEESLEY.]

BISSAIT or BISSET, BALDRED (A. 1308), divine; rector of Kinghorn; commissioner to pope in dispute between Boniface VIII, Edward I, and Scottish government. His 'Progressus contra signmenta regis Anglie' contains earliest mention of Scottish coronation stone. [v. 97]

BISSE, PHILIP (1687-1721), bishop of Hereford; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; M.A., 1698; D.D., 1706; F.R.S., 1706; bishop of St. David's, 1716, and Hereford, 1718; published sermons. [v. 98]

BISSE, THOMAS (d. 1731), divine; younger brother of Philip Bisse [q. v.]; M.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1698; D.D., 1712; preacher at Rolls chapel, 1715; chancellor of Hereford, 1716; prebendary of Hereford, 1731; published religious works. [v. 98]

BISSET, CHARLES (1717-1791), physician and military engineer; studied medicine at Edinburgh; second surgeon of military hospital, Jamaica, 1740; served in Admiral Vernon's fleet; returned to England, 1745; ensign in 42nd Highlanders, 1746; prepared reports of progress of siege of Bergen-op-Zoom; engineer-extraordinary in engineer brigade; practised medicine at Skelton, Yorkshire; published works on fortification and on medical subjects. [v. 99]

BISSET, JAMES (1762?-1832), artist, publisher, and verse writer; established museum and curiosity shop at Birmingham; coined medals and practised as miniature and fancy painter; opened museum, news-room, and picture gallery at Leamington, 1812. His publications include 'Poetic Survey round Birmingham' (1800) and several volumes of verse. [v. 100]

BISSET, JAMES (1795-1872), scholar; educated at Marischal College and University, Aberdeen; D.D., 1851; assumed control of private school kept by his father, and developed remarkable teaching ability, 1812; minister at Bourtie, Aberdeenshire, 1826; moderator of general assembly of church of Scotland, 1862. [v. 100]

BISSET, SIR JOHN (1777-1854), commissary-general; commissary-general in Spain, 1811; knight commander of Guelfique order, 1830; K.C.B., 1850; published a work on commissariat duties. [v. 101]

BISSET, BISSAT, or BISSART, PETER (d. 1568), professor of canon law; studied at St. Andrews, Paris, and Bologna; LL.D., and subsequently professor of canon law, Bologna; wrote two works in Latin. [v. 101]

BISSET, ROBERT (1759-1805), historian; LL.D.; master of an academy in Sloane Street, Chelsea. His works include a life of Burke (1798) and a 'History of George III' (1804). [v. 101]

BISSET, WILLIAM (d. 1747), divine; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1690; rector of Whiston, 1697; elder brother of St. Catherine's Collegiate Church, 1699; published, 1710, reply to Dr. Sacheverell's sermon of 5 Nov. 1709, occasioning pamphlet war to which he largely contributed; chaplain to Queen Caroline. [v. 102]

BISSET, WILLIAM (1758-1834), Irish bishop; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1779; M.A., 1782; D.D.; rector of Dublin, co. Louth, 1784; prebendary of Armagh, 1791-1807; archdeacon of Ross, 1804; chancellor of Armagh, 1817; bishop of Raphoe, 1822. [v. 102]

BIX, ANGEL (d. 1695), Franciscan friar; chaplain to Spanish ambassador in London in James II's reign; published sermons. [v. 103]

BIZARI, PIETRO (1530?-1586?), Italian historian and poet; adopted reformed faith and came to England; fellow, St. John's College, Cambridge, 1549; prebendary of Salisbury, 1567; published historical, poetical, and other works in Italian and Latin, and left manuscripts, which include a 'Universal History.' [v. 103]

BLAAUW, WILLIAM HENRY (1793-1870), antiquary; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1816; F.S.A., 1850; treasurer of Camden Society; published, 1844, history of barons' war of Henry III's reign. [v. 105]

BLACADER or BLACKADDER, ROBERT (d. 1508), Scottish archbishop; prebendary of Glasgow and rector of Cardross; bishop of Aberdeen, 1490, and of Glasgow, before 1484; archbishop of Glasgow, 1492; frequently employed in public transactions with English; died in Holy Land on pilgrimage to Jerusalem. [v. 105]

BLACATER, ADAM (A. 1319), born in Scotland; professor of philosophy successively in Poland and at Bologna and rector of a college in Paris University. [v. 106]

BLACHFORD, BARON (1811-1889). [See ROGERS, FREDERIC.]

BLACK, ADAM (1784-1874), politician and publisher; carried on bookselling business at Edinburgh, at first alone, and subsequently in partnership with his nephew Charles; twice lord-provost of and, 1856-65, liberal M.P. for Edinburgh. His firm acquired copyrights of 'Encyclopædia Britannica,' 1827, and Scott's novels, 1851. [v. 105]

BLACK, ALEXANDER (1789-1864), Scottish theologian; studied medicine at Aberdeen; ordained minister of Tarves, 1818; professor of divinity, Marischal College, 1832-43; accompanied expedition to the East in connection with proposed formation of mission to Jews, 1839; joined Free church, 1843; D.D. [v. 106]

BLACK, JAMES (1788?-1867), physician; L.C.S. Edinburgh, 1808; served in navy; practised successively at Manchester, 1839-48, Bolton, 1848-56, and Edinburgh; M.D. Glasgow, 1820; L.R.O.S., 1823; F.R.C.P., 1860; published medical works and papers on geological subjects. [v. 106]

BLACK, JOHN (1783-1855), journalist; employed as clerk at Dunse; in accountant's office at Edinburgh, where he studied at the university; contributed to 'Universal Magazine'; went to London, 1810; translator of foreign correspondence and reporter to 'Morning Chronicle'; became editor, 1817, and maintained the journal's position as the most uncompromising of opposition papers till 1843, when a decline of energy in its management occasioned a request for his resignation; retired to Snodland, near Maidstone; published translations from Leopold von Buch, Schlegel, and others. [v. 107]

BLACK, JOSEPH (1728-1799), chemist; studied medicine at Glasgow and at Edinburgh, where he graduated M.D. with an important thesis, 'De humore acido a cibus orto, et Magnesia alba,' which laid the foundations of quantitative analysis and pneumatic chemistry, 1754; professor of medicine, Glasgow, 1756-66; practised as physician; made investigations into the question of 'latent heat,' which formed the basis of modern thermal science, and gave the first impulse to Watt's improvements in the steam engine, 1756-62; experimented with object of testing validity of thermometrical indications, and originated theory of 'specific heat,' 1760; professor of medicine and chemistry, Edinburgh, 1766-97. He was first physician to George III for Scotland and a member of Royal Society, Edinburgh, and Royal College of Physicians. [v. 108]

BLACK, PATRICK (1813-1879), physician; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; M.D., 1836; physician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1860; lecturer on medicine; F.R.C.P.; published medical treatises. [v. 112]

BLACK, ROBERT (1752-1817), Irish presbyterian divine; educated at Glasgow; ordained minister of Dromore, 1777; captain of Irish volunteers, 1782; joint-minister at Derry, 1784; synod agent for regnum donum, 1788-1817; D.D.; strongly advocated catholic emancipation and parliamentary reform, and was the friend and correspondent of Castlereagh; committed suicide from disappointment at lack of success of his opposition to establishment of Belfast Academical Institution (opened 1814). [v. 112]

BLACK, WILLIAM (1749-1829), physician; M.D. Leyden, 1772; L.C.P., 1787; practised in London; one of the first Englishmen who published (1788) statistics of diseases and mortality. [v. 113]

BLACK, WILLIAM (1841-1898), novelist; studied art at Glasgow; became contributor to 'Glasgow Citizen'; came to London, 1864, and was connected, 1865, with 'Morning Star,' for which paper he was war correspondent during Franco-Prussian war, 1866; subsequently sub-editor of 'Daily News.' His novels include 'A Daughter of Heth,' 1871, 'The Strange Adventures of a Phaeton,' 1872, and 'A Princess of Thule,' 1874. [Suppl. i. 202]

BLACK, WILLIAM HENRY (1808-1872), antiquary; assistant keeper in Public Record Office. He was a prolific writer on antiquarian subjects. [v. 114]

BLACKADDER, ADAM (A. 1674-1696), covenanter, son of John Blackadder the elder [q. v.]; apprenticed as merchant at Stirling; repeatedly imprisoned for Calvinistic principles; retired to Sweden, and subsequently settled in Edinburgh; wrote narrative of his father's sufferings. [v. 114]

BLACKADDER, JOHN, the elder (1616-1686), Scottish divine; M.A. Glasgow, 1650; called to parish of Troqueer, 1652; ordained, 1653; ejected by episcopal party and imprisoned at Edinburgh, 1662; preached in conventicles and was outlawed, 1674; fled to Rotterdam, 1678; returned to Edinburgh, 1679; arrested, 1681, and imprisoned on Bass Rock, where he died. [v. 115]

BLACKADDER, JOHN, the younger (1664-1729), lieutenant-colonel; son of John Blackadder (1616-1686) [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; served in Cameronian regiment against highlanders at Dunkeld, under Prince of Orange in Flanders, and in Marlborough's campaigns; promoted to command of regiment, 1709; sold commission; fought at Stirling, 1716; deputy governor of Stirling Castle, 1717. [v. 115]

BLACKADDER, WILLIAM (1647-1704), physician; brother of John Blackadder (1664-1729) [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; M.D. Leyden, 1680; accompanied Earl of Argyll in expedition to Scotland, 1685; apprehended and imprisoned; on liberation retired to Holland; conducted secret negotiations for Prince of Orange in Edinburgh, 1688; physician to William III. [v. 116]

BLACKADDER, OUTHBERT, or more correctly ROBERT (d. 1485), Scottish border chieftain; fought for Lancastrians in Wars of the Roses; killed at Bosworth. [v. 116]

BLACKADER, ROBERT (d. 1508). [See BLACKADER.]

BLACKALL, JOHN (1771-1860), physician; M.A. Balliol College, Oxford, 1796; M.D., 1801; studied at St. Bartholomew's Hospital; physician to Devon and Exeter Hospital, 1797; resigned, 1801; reappointed, 1807; physician to St. Thomas's lunatic asylum, 1812; published 'Observations on Nature and Cure of Dropsies,' 1813; F.R.C.P., 1815. [v. 117]

BLACKALL or BLACKHALL, OFFSPRING (1654-1716), bishop of Exeter; educated at St. Catharine Hall, Cambridge; rector of St. Mary, Aldermay, London, 1694; chaplain to William III.; Boyle lecturer, 1700; bishop of Exeter, 1708; renowned as a preacher; published sermons and controversial pamphlets. [v. 117]

BLACKALL, SAMUEL (d. 1792), divine; grandson of Offspring Blackall [q. v.]; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1763; B.D., 1770; fellow and tutor; rector of Loughborough, 1786-92; published sermons and controversial pamphlets. [v. 118]

BLACKBOURNE, JOHN (1683-1741), nonjuror; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1706; consecrated by 'King James III' bishop of nonjurors, 1726; member of the section of nonjurors known as 'nonusagers.' His publications include an edition of Bacon's works (1730). [v. 119]

BLACKBURN, COLIN, BARON BLACKBURN (1813-1896), judge; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1838; honorary LL.D. Edinburgh, 1870; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1838; honorary bencher, 1877; joined northern circuit; appointed justice of queen's bench, and invested with cof., 1859; knighted, 1860; justice of high court, 1875; raised to peerage, 1876; privy councillor, 1876; retired, 1886; served on several royal commissions; published legal writings. [Suppl. I. 203]

BLACKBURN, WILLIAM (1750-1790), surveyor and architect; studied at Royal Academy; obtained highest premium in competition for penitentiary houses, 1782, and subsequently executed designs for prisons and other structures throughout the country. [v. 120]

BLACKBURNE, ANNA (d. 1794), botanist; friend and correspondent of Linnæus. [v. 121]

BLACKBURNE, FRANÇOIS (1705-1787), divine; educated at St. Catharine Hall, Cambridge; rector of Richmond, Yorkshire, 1739-87; prebendary of York; published 'The Confessional,' 1766, controversial works, and memoirs of Thomas Hollis [q. v.] [v. 121]

BLACKBURNE, FRANÇOIS (1782-1867), Irish lawyer; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; studied at King's Inn, Dublin, and Lincoln's Inn, London; called to bar, 1805; joined home circuit; administered Insurrection Act on its renewal, 1822, in Limerick; serjeant, 1826; attorney-general for Ireland, 1830-4 and 1841; master of rolls in Ireland, 1842; chief-justice of queen's bench, 1846; lord chancellor of Ireland, 1852, and resigned the same year; commissioner of national education, 1852; lord justice of appeal in Ireland, 1856; reappointed lord chancellor, but resigned, 1866; vice-chancellor of Dublin University. [v. 122]

BLACKBURNE, JOHN (1690-1786), botanist; maintained extensive garden at Orford. [v. 123]

BLACKBURNE, LANCELOT (1658-1743), archbishop of York; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; ordained, 1681; M.A., 1683; prebendary of Exeter, 1691, and sub-dean, 1695; rector of Calstock, Cornwall, 1696; resigned sub-deanery, 1702; reinstated, 1704; dean of Exeter, 1705; bishop of Exeter, 1717-24; archbishop of York, 1724-43. [v. 123]

BLACKBURNE, RICHARD (b. 1652), physician; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1683; M.D. Leyden, 1676; F.R.C.P., 1687; censor, College of Physicians, 1688; probably wrote 'Thomæ Hobbes Angli Malmesburiensis Philosophi Vita,' sometimes attributed to Hobbes himself, and certainly wrote a supplement to it. [v. 124]

BLACKBURNE, SIR WILLIAM (1764-1839), major-general; infantry cadet in Madras army, 1782; Mahratta interpreter at Tanjore, 1787; captain, 1801; resident at Tanjore, 1801-23; major-general; knighted, 1838. [v. 125]

BLACKER, GEORGE (1791-1871), antiquary; M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1858; vicar of Maynooth, 1840; prebendary in St. Patrick's Cathedral; published (privately) antiquarian works. [v. 126]

BLACKER, VALENTINE (1778-1823), lieutenant-colonel; obtained commission in Madras cavalry, 1798; cornet, 1799; aide-de-camp to Colonel Stevenson in Walnád, 1800; quartermaster-general, 1810; served in Deccan, 1817; lieutenant-colonel; surveyor-general of India; C.B., 1818; published history of Mahratta war. [v. 126]

BLACKERBY, RICHARD (1674-1648), puritan; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge; minister at Feltwell, Norfolk; taught classics and theology to private pupils at Ashdon, Essex; minister at Great Thurlow. [v. 126]

BLACKET, JOSEPH (1786-1810), poet; apprenticed to his brother, a shoemaker, in London, 1797; suffered much from poverty, but gained patrons and achieved some reputation as a poet. A volume of his poetry was published in 1809, and his 'Remains,' containing poems and dramatic sketches, in 1811. [v. 126]

BLACKHALL, GILBERT (A. 1667), Scottish catholic; entered Scots College, Rome, 1626; ordained; returned to Scotland, 1630; fled from jesuit opposition to Paris; missionary in Scotland, 1637-43; wrote autobiography in Paris, c. 1666. [v. 127]

BLACKHALL, OFFSPRING (1654-1716). [See BLACKALL.]

BLACKIE, JOHN STUART (1809-1895), Scottish professor and man of letters; educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen, Edinburgh University, Göttingen, and Berlin; studied for Scottish bar; advocate, 1834; appointed first regius professor of humanity (Latin) at Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1839, and installed, 1841; instituted 'Hellenic Society,' Aberdeen, 1850; professor of Greek at Edinburgh, 1852-82; founded and endowed Celtic chair at Edinburgh, 1882. His publications include 'Faust... translated into English Verse,' 1834; 'Lyrical Dramas of Æschylus... translated into English Verse,' 1860, 'Lays and Legends of Ancient Greece,' 1867, and many other works in verse and prose. [Suppl. I. 204]

BLACKLOCK, THOMAS (1731-1791), poet; born of humble parents; lost his sight when six months old; began to write poetry when twelve years old, and was noticed by Dr. Stevenson, a physician of Edinburgh, where he studied at the university; made the acquaintance of David Hume, who exerted himself in his behalf; minister at Kirkcubright, c. 1762-4; took private pupils in Edinburgh; D.D. Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1767; published poems, religious works, and translations. [v. 127]

BLACKLOCK, WILLIAM JAMES (1812?-1868), landscape painter; apprenticed as bookseller at Carlisle; adopted art as profession, and exhibited at Royal Academy and other exhibitions, 1836-56. [v. 129]

BLACKLOE, THOMAS (1693-1676). [See WHITE, THOMAS.]

BLACKMAN, JOHN (fl. 1436-1448). [See BLACKMAN.]

BLACKMORE, CHEWNING (1663-1737), minister; son of William Blackmore [q. v.]; minister at Worcester, 1688-1737. [v. 131]

BLACKMORE, SIR RICHARD (d. 1729), physician and writer; educated at Westminster and St. Edmund Hall, Oxford; M.A., 1676; M.D. Padua; F.R.C.P., 1687; censor, College of Physicians, 1716; elect, 1716-22; physician in ordinary to William III. and knighted, 1697; physician to Queen Anne. He produced religious and medical treatises and some indifferent poems, including 'Creation,' 1712, which was warmly praised by Dr. Johnson. [v. 129]

BLACKMORE, RICHARD DODDRIDGE (1825-1900), novelist and barrister; educated at Blundell's school, Tiverton, and Exeter College, Oxford; M.A., 1852; engaged as private tutor; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1852; practised as conveyancer; classical master at Wellesley House school, Twickenham Common, 1853; published 'Poems by Melancton,' 1853, and, later, 'Euphonia,' and other volumes of verse, including 'The Farm and Fruit of Old,' 1862; established himself, c. 1858, at Gomer House, Teddington, where he remained till death; produced 'Clara Vaughan,' 1864, 'Craddock Nowell,' 1866, 'Lorna Doone,' 1869, and twelve other novels. [Suppl. i. 207]

BLACKMORE, THOMAS (1740 ?-1780 ?), mezzotint engraver; practised in London, 1769-71. His works include plates after pictures by Reynolds and Vandyck. [v. 131]

BLACKMORE, WILLIAM (d. 1684), nonconformist divine; M.A. Lincoln College, Oxford; rector of Pentice, Essex, 1645; presbyter, 1647; rector of St. Peter's, Cornhill, 1656; arrested on charge of complicity in Christopher Love's plot, but released, 1651; seceded with nonconformists, 1662. [v. 131]

BLACKNER, JOHN (1770-1816), historian of Nottingham; apprenticed as stocking-maker in Nottingham; edited successively the 'Statesman' (a London radical daily paper), 1812, and 'Nottingham Review'; published 'History of Nottingham' (1815). [v. 132]

BLACKRIE, ALEXANDER (d. 1773), apothecary; published work exposing secret of Dr. Chittick's cure for gravel, 1768. [v. 132]

BLACKSTONE, JOHN (d. 1753), botanist; apothecary in London; published botanical works. [v. 132]

BLACKSTONE or BLAXTON, WILLIAM (d. 1675), one of the earliest episcopal clergymen in Massachusetts; lived successively on peninsula of Shawmut (where Boston now stands), in colony of Roger Williams, 1631, and at Blaxton river, near Providence. [v. 132]

BLACKSTONE, SIR WILLIAM (1723-1780), judge; educated at Charterhouse School and Pembroke College, Oxford; entered Middle Temple, 1741; fellow of All Souls, 1744; B.O.L., 1748; called to bar; recorder of Wallingford; first professor of English law, Oxford, 1758-66; published 'Considerations on Copyholders,' 1758, and his edition of the Great Charter, 1759; M.P. for Hindon, Wiltshire, and principal of New Inn Hall, 1761-6; solicitor-general to the queen, 1763; published lectures as 'Commentaries on the Laws of England,' 4 vols., 1765-9, which met with a considerable amount of more or less hostile criticism, but still remains the best general history of English law; M.P. for Westbury, Wiltshire, 1768; gave it as his opinion that Wilkes was disqualified from sitting in parliament, and was answered by Grenville's quoting from the 'Commentaries' the causes of disqualification, none of which applied to Wilkes; retired from parliament; appointed justice of common pleas, 1770, but exchanged into court of king's bench; returned to common pleas in same year. The 'Commentaries' have passed through numerous editions, and have been translated into French, German, Italian, and Russian. [v. 133]

BLACKWALL, ANTHONY (1674-1780), classical scholar; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1698; headmaster of Derby school and lecturer of All Saints, Derby; headmaster of Market Bosworth grammar school,

1722-6 and 1729-30, where Dr. Johnson was perhaps his assistant for a few months; rector of Clapham, 1728-9. His most important work is the 'Sacred Classics Defended,' 1726. [v. 140]

BLACKWALL, JOHN (1790-1881), zoologist; engaged in importation of Irish linen at Manchester; retired to Llanrwst, North Wales, 1833; contributed to scientific publications; published 'History of Spiders of Great Britain and Ireland,' 1861-4. [v. 142]

BLACKWELL, ALEXANDER (d. 1747), adventurer; probably brother of Dr. Thomas Blackwell [q. v.]; practised as printer in London, 1730; became bankrupt; studied medicine and agriculture; inspector of Duke of Chandos's improvements at Cannons; physician in ordinary to king of Sweden; suspected of quackery; arrested for his connection with a political intrigue, the true nature and object of which remain a mystery; condemned without public trial and executed; published works on agriculture. [v. 142]

BLACKWELL, ELIZABETH (fl. 1737), botanical delineator; wife of Alexander Blackwell [q. v.]; relieved her husband when in embarrassed circumstances by publishing 'A Curious Herbal,' 1737, containing illustrations of medicinal plants, which she executed, engraved, and coloured. [v. 144]

BLACKWELL, GEORGE (1545 ?-1613), archpriest; B.A. Trinity College, Oxford, 1562; perpetual fellow, 1566; M.A., 1567; left fellowship and retired to Gloucester Hall; entered English College at Douay, 1574; ordained priest, 1575; B.D., 1578; joined English mission, 1576; imprisoned 1578, and, after release, lived in continual fear of arrest; appointed archpriest over secular clergy, 1598; incurred great unpopularity by his stern fulfilment of his duties; deprived of office, 1608, for subscribing to an oath which was imposed on Catholics in 1606, to test their civil allegiance, and which was twice condemned by the pope; published theological works. [v. 144]

BLACKWELL, JOHN (1797-1840), Welsh poet; shoemaker at Mold, Flintshire; educated by friends' liberality; B.A. Jesus College, Oxford, 1828; presented to living of Manor Deivy, Pembrokehire; edited a Welsh illustrated magazine, 'Y Cylchgrawn.' His poems and essays were published in 1851. [v. 146]

BLACKWELL, THOMAS, the elder (1660 ?-1728), Scottish divine; Presbyterian minister at Paisley, Renfrewshire, 1694, and Aberdeen, 1700; professor of divinity, Marischal College, 1710-28, principal, 1717-28; published theological writings. [v. 147]

BLACKWELL, THOMAS, the younger (1701-1757), classical scholar; son of Thomas Blackwell (1660 ?-1728) [q. v.]; studied at Marischal College, Aberdeen; M.A., 1718; professor of Greek, 1723-57; principal, 1748-57; LL.D., 1752. His works include 'An Enquiry into Life and Writings of Homer,' 1735, and 'Memoirs of the Court of Augustus,' 1753-5, a third and incomplete volume being published posthumously, 1764. [v. 147]

BLACKWOOD, ADAM (1539-1613), Scottish writer; educated at university of Paris; studied civil law at Toulouse; taught philosophy at Paris; published 'De Vinculo,' 1575, and another work condemning heretics as rebels against divinely constituted authority; counsellor or judge of parliament of Poitiers; entered into controversy with George Buchanan; published, in French, account of sufferings of Mary Queen of Scots, 1587. [v. 149]

BLACKWOOD, GEORGE FREDERICK (1658-1800), major; educated at Edinburgh Academy and at Addiscombe; second lieutenant, Bengal artillery, 1687; captain, 1687; commanded artillery in Loosha expedition, 1873; major, 1876; served in second Afghan campaign; killed at Malwand. [v. 150]

BLACKWOOD, HELEN SELINA (1807-1867). [See SHERIDAN.]

BLACKWOOD, HENRY (d. 1614), physician; M.D. Paris; M.O.P. Paris, and subsequently dean of the faculty; left philosophical and medical manuscripts. [v. 160]

BLACKWOOD, SIR HENRY (1770-1833), vice-admiral; entered navy as volunteer, 1781; lieutenant, 1790; studied in Paris, 1793; captain, 1796; attached to North Sea fleet, 1796-8; on Newfoundland station, 1798-9; in

Channel, 1799; rendered distinguished service at blockade of Malta, 1800; commanded inshore squadron at Trafalgar, 1806; took part in ceremonies at Nelson's funeral; commanded inshore squadron at blockade of Toulon, 1810; baronet and rear-admiral, 1814; K.C.B., 1819; commander-in-chief in East Indies, 1819-22; vice-admiral, 1821; commander-in-chief at Nore, 1827-30. [v. 150]

BLACKWOOD, JOHN (1818-1879), publisher; son of William Blackwood [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh University; entered London publishing firm, 1839; superintendent of London branch of Blackwood's Edinburgh firm, 1840-5; editor of 'Blackwood's Magazine' on death of eldest brother, 1845; became, by death of another brother, head of publishing business, 1852; published nearly all George Elliot's works. [v. 152]

BLACKWOOD, WILLIAM (1776-1834), publisher; apprenticed as bookseller at Edinburgh; manager of publishing business, Glasgow; employed by bookseller in London; began business independently in Edinburgh, 1804; principal founder of 'Edinburgh Encyclopedia', 1810; combined, as Edinburgh agent, with John Murray, in publication of Scott's 'Tales of my Landlord'; established, 1817, 'Edinburgh Monthly Magazine', which became 'Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine'. His publications include 'Edinburgh Encyclopedia', 1810 (completed 1830), and 'New Statistical Account of Scotland.' [v. 153]

BLADEN, MARTIN (1680-1746), soldier and politician; educated at Westminster; served in Low Countries and Spain; aide-de-camp to Henri de Ruvigny [q. v.]; lieutenant-colonel; M.P. for Stockbridge, 1715-34, Maldon, Essex, 1734-41, and Portsmouth, 1741-6; comptroller of the mint, 1714; commissioner of trade and plantations, 1717-46; a steady supporter of Sir Robert Walpole. [v. 154]

BLADES, WILLIAM (1824-1890), printer and bibliographer; apprenticed to his father's printing firm of Blades & East, London, 1840, and subsequently became partner; wrote 'Life of Caxton' (2 volumes, 1861-3), for which he carefully collated many works from Caxton's press; liveryman of Scriveners' Company; published works chiefly relating to early history of printing, and edited facsimiles and other reprints. [Suppl. i. 210]

BLADEN, SIR CHARLES (1748-1820), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1768; medical officer in army till 1814; F.R.S., 1772, and secretary, 1784; contributed to 'Philosophical Transactions.' [v. 155]

BLAGDON, FRANCIS WILLIAM (1778-1819), journalist and author; engaged successively as newspaper seller, amanuensis, and probably teacher of Spanish and Italian; undertook various literary works, including series of 'Modern Discoveries,' 1802-3, and 'Flowers of Literature' (with Rev. F. Prevost), 1803-9; assistant editor of 'Morning Post,' c. 1808; came into conflict with William Cobbett [q. v.], 1809. His works include 'Authentic Memoirs of George Morland,' 1806, and 'Letters of Princess of Wales,' 1813. [Suppl. i. 211]

BLAGGE or BLAGE, ROBERT (d. 1522?), judge; appointed for life king's remembrancer in exchequer, 1502; third baron of exchequer, 1511; repeatedly justice of the peace for Kent and Middlesex; joint-surveyor of crown lands, 1515; one of general purveyors of king's revenue, 1516; successively commissioner of sewers in several counties, 1515-17. [v. 156]

BLAGRAVE, DANIEL (1603-1668), regicide; nephew of John Blagrave [q. v.]; educated for the bar; M.P. for Reading, 1640; recorder of Reading, 1648-56 and 1658; signed Charles I's death warrant; sat in Convention parliament, 1658; settled at Aachen, 1660, and there died. [v. 156]

BLAGRAVE, JOHN (d. 1611), mathematician; educated at St. John's College, Oxford; published works describing instruments of his own invention, and other mathematical treatises. [v. 157]

BLAGRAVE, JOSEPH (1610-1682), astrologer; lived at Swallowfield, near Reading. His works include: 'Ephemerides, with Rules for Husbandry,' 1658, 1659, 1660, and 1665; 'Astrological Practice of Physick,' 1671, and 'Introduction to Astrology,' published posthumously, 1682. [v. 157]

BLAGRAVE, THOMAS (d. 1688), musician; gentleman of the chapel, 1661; clerk of the cheque, 1662; member of Charles II's private band; author of some songs published in contemporary collections. [v. 158]

BLAGROVE, HENRY GAMBLE (1811-1879), musician; studied with Spagnoletti, 1821, and at Royal Academy of Music under Dr. Crotch and F. Cramer; solo-violinist in royal private band, 1830-7; studied with Spohr at Cassel, 1832-4; played with success on continent; connected with state band, 1837-72; published violin exercises and studies. [v. 158]

BLAGUE or BLAGE, THOMAS (d. 1611), divine; B.A. Queens' College, Cambridge; non-resident rector of Braxted Magna, Essex, 1570; held livings of St. Vedast, Foster Lane, London, 1571, and Ewelme, Oxfordshire, 1580-96; D.D. Oxford; dean of Rochester, 1591; non-resident rector of Bangor, 1604; author of 'A Schoole of wise Conceytes,' 1572. [v. 159]

BLAIR, WILLIAM GARDEN (1820-1899), Scottish divine; educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen, and Edinburgh; licensed by Aberdeen presbytery, 1841; minister of Drumblade, 1842; joined free church of Scotland, 1843; minister of Pilrig, 1844-68; edited 'Free Church Magazine,' 1849-53, 'North British Review,' 1860-1863, 'Sunday Magazine,' 1873-4, and 'Catholic Presbyterian,' 1879-83; professor of apologetics and pastoral theology, New College, Edinburgh, 1868-97; Cunningham lecturer, 1888; moderator to general assembly, 1892; honorary D.D. Edinburgh, 1864, and LL.D. Aberdeen, 1872; published religious, biographical, and other works. [Suppl. i. 212]

BLAIR, HUGH (1718-1800), divine; M.A. Edinburgh, 1739; licensed preacher, 1741; ordained minister of Collessie, Fife, 1742; minister to Lady Yester's church, Edinburgh, 1754, and to High church, 1758-1800; professor of rhetoric, 1760; regius professor of rhetoric and belles-lettres, 1762. Published 'Critical Dissertation on Poems of Ossian,' 1763, and Sermons, 5 vols. 1777-1801. He belonged to the distinguished literary circle that included Hume, A. Carlyle, Adam Ferguson, Adam Smith, and Robertson. [v. 160]

BLAIR, JAMES (1656-1743), Scottish episcopalian divine; held a benefice in revived episcopal church in Scotland till c. 1679; sent as missionary to Virginia, 1685; commissary under Sir Francis Nicholson when lieutenant-governor, 1689; obtained charter, 1692, for a college in Virginia, of which he became president, 1729; president of council of Virginia; published commentary on Sermon on the Mount. [v. 161]

BLAIR, SIR JAMES HUNTER (1741-1787), lord-provost of Edinburgh; one of head partners in Coutts's banking house, Edinburgh; married, 1770, and took wife's name of Blair, 1777; M.P. for Edinburgh, 1781 and 1784; lord-provost, 1784. Burns wrote an elegy on his death. [v. 162]

BLAIR, JOHN (fl. 1300), chaplain to Sir William Wallace; educated at Dundee and university of Paris; joined Benedictines at Dunfermline; chaplain to Sir William Wallace when governor of Scotland; wrote life of Wallace. [v. 162]

BLAIR, JOHN (d. 1782), chronologist; educated at Edinburgh; schoolmaster near London; published 'Chronology of World from Creation to 1753,' 1754; F.R.S., 1755; chaplain to Princess-dowager of Wales; prebendary of Westminster, 1761; rector of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, 1776. [v. 162]

BLAIR, PATRIOK, M.D. (fl. 1728), physician; practised as doctor successively at Dundee, London, and Boston, Lincolnshire; published medical and botanical works. [v. 163]

BLAIR, ROBERT (1593-1666), divine; M.A. Glasgow; professor at Glasgow University, c. 1615-22; licensed presbyterian preacher, 1616; minister of Bangor, Ireland, 1623; suspended, 1631, and deposed for nonconformity, 1632; restored, again ejected and excommunicated, 1634; minister at Burntisland, 1638, and at St. Andrews, 1639; moderator of general assembly, 1646; chaplain in ordinary to king; joined party of 'resolutioners,' 1660; resigned as covenantor, 1661, and continued to preach at hazard of his life; left political and theological manuscripts. [v. 163]

BLAIR, ROBERT (1699-1746), poetical writer; educated at Edinburgh and in Holland; ordained minister of Aboheistanefer, East Lothian, 1731; published, 1743, the 'Grave,' a poem in blank verse, which enjoyed instant success. Blair forms, as a poet, a connecting link between Otway and Crabbe. [v. 164]

BLAIR, ROBERT, of Avontoun (1741-1811), judge; son of Robert Blair (1699-1746); educated at Edinburgh; advocate depute and solicitor-general for Scotland, 1789-1806; dean of Faculty of Advocates, 1801; president of College of Justice, 1808. [v. 166]

BLAIR, ROBERT (d. 1828), inventor of the 'aplanatic' telescope; appointed to chair of practical astronomy erected for his benefit, Edinburgh, 1785; invented fluid lenses of media, consisting of metallic solutions, with object of removing the 'secondary spectrum'; fellow of Royal Society of Edinburgh (1786), in whose 'Transactions' appeared, 1794, an abridgment of his 'Experiments on Refrangibility of Light.' [v. 166]

BLAIR, WILLIAM (1741-1782), captain, royal navy; commander, 1777; captain, 1778; fought at Doggerbank, 1781; killed in battle off Dominica. [v. 167]

BLAIR, WILLIAM (1766-1822), surgeon; surgeon to Lock Hospital, the Asylum, Finchbury and Bloomsbury dispensaries, female penitentiary, Pentonville, and New Rupture Society; M.R.C.S.; edited 'London Medical Review and Magazine'; published works on surgical and miscellaneous subjects, including stenography and cipher writing. [v. 168]

BLAK or BLACK, JOHN (d. 1563), Dominican friar of Aberdeen; stoned to death by protestants; wrote religious treatises. [v. 169]

BLAKE, CHARLES (1664-1730), divine and poet; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and St. John's College, Oxford; M.A., 1688; D.D., 1696; successively prebendary of Ochester and (1716) of York; archdeacon of York, 1720; published Latin verses. [v. 169]

BLAKE, SIR FRANCIS (1708-1780), mathematician; assisted government in Durham during rebellion, 1745; baronet, 1774; F.R.S., 1746. [v. 169]

BLAKE, SIR FRANCIS (1738?-1818), political writer; son of Sir Francis Blake (1708-1780) [q.v.]; educated at Westminster and Trinity Hall, Cambridge; LL.B., 1763; published political tracts. [v. 169]

BLAKE, JAMES (1649-1728), jesuit, known as JAMES CROSS; professed father of Society of Jesus, 1675; provincial in England, 1701. [v. 170]

BLAKE, JOHN BRADBY (1746-1773), naturalist; supercargo in East India Company, Canton; collected Chinese plants and seeds, which were successfully propagated in Great Britain and the colonies. [v. 170]

BLAKE, MALACHI (1687-1760), dissenting minister; presbyterian minister of Blandford, published, 1735, account of fire at Blandford (1731). [v. 170]

BLAKE, ROBERT (1599-1657), admiral and general at sea; entered St. Alban Hall, Oxford, 1615; removed to Wadham College; graduated; engaged in business of merchant; M.P. for Bridgwater, 1640 and 1645; took part in defence of Bristol against royalists, 1643; lieutenant-colonel of Popham's regiment; held Lyme against royalists, 1643-4; took and held, Taunton, 1644-5; governor of Taunton, 1645; appointed admiral and general at sea, 1649; unsuccessfully blockaded Prince Rupert at Kinsale, 1649, and pursued him to Portugal, 1650; blockaded mouth of Tagus, 1650, and subsequently followed Rupert to Mediterranean and destroyed many of his ships; commanded squadron in Irish Sea, and reduced Scilly Islands, which were held by royalist privateers, 1651; assisted in reduction of Jersey, 1651; member of council of state, 1651-2; with Rear-admiral Bourne, defeated Dutch under Tromp in Downs, 1652; defeated De Witt and De Ruyter off mouth of Thames, and, later, was defeated by Tromp off Dungeness, 1652; in company with Deane, Monck, and Penn, fought indecisive battle with Tromp off Portsmouth, 1653, the advantage being slightly with the English; took part in battle of 3 June, 1655; engaged in admiralty business at London, and executive duties at Portsmouth; destroyed Turkish pirate fleet at Porto Farina, 1655; destroyed Spanish West Indian fleet at Santa Cruz, 1657; died of fever while returning to England. His body was buried in Westminster Abbey, but removed after Restoration. [v. 170]

BLAKE, THOMAS (1697?-1657), puritan; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford; took holy orders; joined covenanters, 1648; pastor successively at Shrewsbury and Tamworth; assistant to Cromwell's commissioners for ejecting ministers; published works on puritan theology. [v. 179]

BLAKE, WILLIAM (1773-1821), dissenting minister; educated at Northampton under Horsey; presbyterian minister at Crewkerne, 1798-1821; published religious works. [v. 180]

BLAKE, WILLIAM (1757-1827), poet and painter; apprenticed to James Basire, engraver to Society of Antiquaries, 1771-8; executed plates for Gough's 'Sepulchral Monuments'; student at Royal Academy, 1778; engraved plates for Harrison's 'Novelists' Magazine'; kept, in partnership, printseller's shop in Broad Street, 1784-7; engraved and published 'Songs of Innocence,' 1789, and 'Songs of Experience,' 1794; employed by Johnson, the bookseller, on engravings for Mary Wollstonecraft's works, 1791; illustrated Young's 'Night Thoughts'; (Edwards's edition), 1793-1800; made designs for Blair's 'Grave,' which were subsequently engraved by Schiavonetti; executed series of 'Spiritual Portraits,' c. 1818; executed and engraved 'Inventions to Book of Job,' his finest work, from 1820, and produced designs for 'Divina Commedia,' of which only seven were published, 1827; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1780-1808, his 'Prophetic Books' (1793-1804), and most of his other works, engraved and coloured by hand. His favourite tenet, which he translated into art, was that 'all things exist in the human imagination alone.' [v. 180]

BLAKELEY, WILLIAM (1830-1897), actor; accompanied Sothern on tour; appeared first in London at Prince of Wales's Theatre, 1867; at Olympic, 1871; with Sothern in America, 1880; at Criterion, with which his name is chiefly associated, 1881. Among his best parts was Harcastle in 'She stoops to conquer.' [v. 180]

BLAKELY, FLETOHER (1783-1862), Irish remonstrant minister; graduated at Glasgow; presbyterian minister of Moneyrea, co. Down, 1809-57; adopted unitarian principles; joined remonstrant secession from synod of Ulster, 1829; joint-editor of 'Bible Christian,' 1830-3; published tracts and sermons. [v. 184]

BLAKELY, JOHNSTON (1781-1814), commander in United States navy; born in Dublin; entered United States navy, 1800; lieutenant, 1812; commanded sloop in Channel, and captured English brig, 1814; lost in the Atlantic. [v. 185]

BLAKENEY, SIR EDWARD (1778-1868), field-marshal; commanded 7th foot in Peninsular campaign, 1811-1814; in Belgium and at Paris, 1815; colonel, 7th foot, 1832-54; commander-in-chief in Ireland, 1838-55; colonel of 1st foot, 1854-68; governor of Chelsea Hospital, 1856; general, 1854; field-marshal, 1862. [v. 186]

BLAKENEY, RICHARD PAUL (1820-1884), divine; B.A. Dublin, 1842; LL.D.; rural dean of Bridlington, 1876; canon of York, 1882; D.D. Edinburgh, 1888; published controversial works. [v. 186]

BLAKENEY, WILLIAM, BARON BLAKENY (1672-1761), defender of Minorca; volunteered with army in Flanders; ensign, 1702; adjutant in Marlborough's campaigns; colonel, 1737; brigadier-general in expedition to Cartagena, 1741; major-general, and lieutenant-governor of Stirling Castle, 1744; defended Stirling against highlanders, 1745; lieutenant-general and lieutenant-governor of Minorca, 1747; gallantly defended Minorca against French, but, from want of reinforcements, was compelled to surrender, 1756; made K.C.B., colonel of Enniskillen regiment, and a peer of Ireland. [v. 186]

BLAKESLEY, JOSEPH WILLIAMS (1808-1885), dean of Lincoln; educated at St. Paul's School and Corpus Christi and Trinity College, Cambridge, when he became a friend of Tennyson; M.A., 1834; B.D., 1849; fellow of Trinity, 1831; tutor, 1839-45; vicar of Ware, 1845-72; canon of Canterbury, 1863; proctor in convocation for his chapter; dean of Lincoln, 1873; wrote extensively for the 'Times.' His chief work was an edition of Herodotus, 1852-4. [v. 187]

BLAKEWAY, JOHN BRICKDALE (1766-1836), topographer; educated at Westminster and Oriel College, Oxford; M.A., 1795; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1789; joined Oxford circuit; ordained, 1793; minister, 1794, and, subsequently, official of Royal Peculiar of St. Mary's, Shrewsbury; published history of Shrewsbury, 1825. [v. 189]

BLAKEY, NICHOLAS (fl. 1753), Irish engraver; lived chiefly in Paris; associated with Francis Hayman, R.A., in producing set of English historical prints. [v. 189]

BLAKEY, ROBERT (1795-1878), miscellaneous writer; of humble parentage; received private tuition; contributed to 'Newcastle Magazine' and other periodicals; published philosophical works, 1831 and 1833; produced, 1838, 'Newcastle Liberator,' and, 1840, 'Northern Liberator and Champion' newspapers; studied philosophy in France and Belgium; published 'History of Philosophy of Mind,' 1848; professor of logic and metaphysics, Queen's College, Belfast, 1849. His works include books on angling. [v. 189]

BLAKISTON, JOHN (1603-1649), regicide; mercer in Newcastle; excommunicated for puritanical principles; M.P. for Newcastle, 1641; one of Charles I's judges, signing his death-warrant. [v. 190]

BLAKISTON, JOHN (1785-1867), major; served at Assaye, at capture of Bourbon, Mauritius, and Java, and in Peninsular war; published reminiscences. [Suppl. i. 214]

BLAKISTON, THOMAS WRIGHT (1832-1891), explorer and ornithologist; son of preceding; educated at Royal Military Academy, Woolwich; commissioned in royal artillery, 1851; served in Crimea; member of scientific expedition under John Palliser [q.v.] for exploration of British North America between Canada and Rocky Mountains, 1857; served in Chinese war, 1859, and organised exploration of middle and upper course of Yang-tze-Kiang, 1861; resigned commission, 1862; settled as merchant in Hakodate, Japan, and engaged in ornithological and other investigations, on which he published various writings; died at San Diego, California; published 'Five Months on the Yang-tze,' 1862. [Suppl. i. 214]

BLAKMAN, BLAKEMAN, or BLACKMAN, JOHN (fl. 1436-1448), biographer; fellow of Merton College, Oxford, 1436, and, later, was fellow of Eton; said to have been B.D. and monk of Charterhouse; wrote, in Latin, a memoir of Henry VI, published, 1732, by Thomas Hearne [q.v.]. [Suppl. i. 215]

BLAMIRE, SUSANNA (1747-1794), poetess; the 'Muse of Cumberland'; was associated with Catherine Gilpin. Some of her poems, which depict with admirable truth the Cumbrian folk, appeared in magazines, but no collection of them was published until 1842. She wrote several songs of high merit in Scottish dialect, including 'The Traveller's Return' and 'What ails this heart o' mine?' [v. 191]

BLAMIRE, WILLIAM (1790-1862), tithe commissioner; nephew of Susanna Blamire [q.v.]; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1811; farmer at Thackwood Nook, Cumberland; high sheriff of Cumberland, 1828; whig M.P. for Carlisle, 1831; chief commissioner, 1836-51, for carrying into effect Tithe Commutation Bill of 1834; commissioner for carrying out Copyhold Emfranchisement Act, 1841; enclosure commissioner. [v. 192]

BLANCHARD, EDWARD LITT LAMAN (1820-1899), miscellaneous writer; son of William Blanchard [q.v.], who he accompanied to New York, 1831; edited Chambers's 'London Journal,' 1841, and 'New London Magazine,' 1845. He produced pantomime for Drury Lane for thirty-seven years, besides many other dramatic pieces, and contributed extensively to newspapers and periodicals. [Suppl. i. 216]

BLANCHARD, SAMUEL LAMAN (1804-1845), author; clerk to a proctor in Doctors' Commons; made acquaintance of Douglas Jerrold; joined travelling troop of actors; contributed to 'Monthly Magazine'; secretary to Zoological Society, 1827-30; published 'Lyric Offerings'; acting editor of 'Monthly Magazine'; edited 'True Sun,' 1832-6, 'Constitutional,' 1836, and 'Courier,' 1837-9 (all liberal papers), and 'Court Journal,' 1837; connected with 'Examiner,' 1841-5; edited 'George Cruikshank's Omnibus,' 1842; published L. E. Landon's

'Life and Literary Remains,' 1841. Three volumes of his essays appeared in 1846. [v. 194]

BLANCHARD, WILLIAM (1769-1835), comedian; in office of his uncle, William Blanchard, proprietor of 'York Chronicle,' 1782; joined Welsh's travelling company of actors, 1785; became manager of several provincial theatres; played, 1800, Bob Acres at Covent Garden, where he remained almost continuously till death. His characters include Sir Hugh Evans, Fluellen, Menenius, and Polonius. [v. 195]

BLANCHARD, WILLIAM ISAAO (d. 1796), stenographer; practised as shorthand-writer in Westminster Hall, 1767-96; published two original systems of stenography. [v. 196]

BLAND, ELIZABETH (fl. 1681-1712), hebraist; née Fisher; married, 1681; wrote in Hebrew a phylactery for Thoresby's 'Museum Thoresbianum.' [v. 196]

BLAND, HUMPHREY (1686?-1763), general and military writer; obtained commission, 1704; served as lieutenant and captain in Marlborough's campaigns; at battle of Almanara, 1710; successively lieutenant-colonel and colonel of dragoons, and colonel of foot; quartermaster-general at headquarters, 1742; served in Flanders; major-general in Culloden campaign; governor of Gibraltar, 1749, and of Edinburgh, 1752-63; commander-in-chief of forces in Scotland, 1763; published 'Treatise on Discipline,' 1727. [v. 196]

BLAND, JOHN (d. 1555), Marian martyr; educated at Eton and Cambridge; M.A.; schoolmaster; rector of Adisham, Kent; opposed celebration of mass, 1553; burned at Canterbury. [v. 197]

BLAND, JOHN (1702-1750), writing-master; educated at Westminster; clerk in custom-house, 1717; writing-master at academy in Little Tower Street, and subsequently established himself independently; published 'Essay on Writing,' 1730. [v. 198]

BLAND, JOHN (d. 1788), dramatist; author of drama, 'Song of Solomon,' 1750. [v. 198]

BLAND, MARIA THERESA (1769-1838), vocalist; daughter of Italian Jews named Romanzini; first sang at Drury Lane, 1786; married the actor Bland, 1790; attached to Drury Lane almost continuously from 1789 to 1824, but sang also at Haymarket and Vauxhall; developed melancholia after 1824. [v. 198]

BLAND, MILES (1786-1867), mathematician; B.A., second wrangler, and Smith's prizeman, St. John's College, Cambridge, 1808; fellow, 1808; public mathematical examiner, 1817-18; prebendary of Wells and D.D., 1826; F.R.S.; F.S.A.; published mathematical works. [v. 199]

BLAND, NATHANIEL (1803-1865), Persian scholar; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1825; contributed valuable papers to Royal Asiatic Society's 'Journal,' 1843-53; committed suicide. [Suppl. i. 216]

BLAND, ROBERT, the elder (1730-1816), physician; M.D. St. Andrews, 1778; L.O.P., 1786; published works on midwifery. [v. 199]

BLAND, ROBERT, the younger (1779?-1825), divine; son of Robert Bland (1730-1816) [q.v.]; educated at Harrow and Pembroke College, Cambridge; B.A. 1802; assistant master, Harrow; minister to English church, Amsterdam; held two English curacies; published works relating to Greek classics. [v. 199]

BLAND, TOBIAS (1663?-1604), divine; B.A. Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1581; expelled from Corpus Christi College for libelling the master; M.A., 1584; B.D., 1591; sub-almoner to Elizabeth, 1594; canon of Peterborough, 1602. [v. 200]

BLAND, WILLIAM (1789-1868), Australian statesman; son of Robert Bland the elder [q.v.]; passed naval surgeon, fifth rate, 1809; exiled to Sydney for duelling, 1814; pardoned; practised surgery; imprisoned twelve months for libel; passed naval surgeon, 1826; member of elective legislature for Sydney, 1843. [v. 200]

BLANDFORD, WALTER (1619-1675), bishop; fellow, Wadham College, Oxford, 1644; warden, 1659; prebendary of Gloucester; chaplain in ordinary to the king; vice-chancellor of the university, 1663; bishop of Oxford, 1665; dean of Chapel Royal; bishop of Worcester, 1671. [v. 201]

BLANDIE or BLANDY, WILLIAM (A. 1580), author; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; B.A., 1586; 'fellow' of Middle Temple; served with English army in Low Countries, 1580; published works relating to political and civil customs. [v. 201]

BLANDY, MARY (d. 1782), murderess; at the instance of her lover, William Henry, son of fifth Lord Cranston, poisoned her father, who objected to her engagement; was convicted and hanged at Oxford. [v. 202]

BLANE, Sir GILBERT (1749-1834), physician; M.D. Glasgow, 1778; private physician to Admiral Rodney, whom he accompanied to West Indies, 1779; physician to fleet, 1779-83; came to England with Rodney, 1781, but returned, 1782; L.O.P., 1781; did much to improve sanitary condition of navy; published work on means for preserving health of seamen, 1780; physician at St. Thomas's Hospital on return to England, 1783, till 1795; physician extraordinary, and later physician in ordinary to Prince of Wales, 1785; commissioner for sick and wounded seamen, 1795-1802; assisted in framing rules forming basis of Quarantine Act, 1799; sent to report on condition of army in Walcheren expedition, and arranged for transport of sick and wounded; created baronet, 1812; physician in ordinary to George IV; F.R.S.; published dissertations on medical subjects. [v. 202]

BLANEFORDE, HENRY (A. 1330), chronicler; monk of St. Albans; wrote chronicle for years 1323-4 (Cotton MSS. Claudius, D. vi.). [v. 204]

BLANFORD, HENRY FRANÇOIS (1834-1893), meteorologist and geologist; studied at Royal School of Mines; appointed to geological survey of India, 1855; professor at Presidency College, Calcutta, 1862-72; meteorological reporter to government of Bengal, 1872, and later to government of India; retired and returned to England, 1888; published scientific writings. [Suppl. i. 217]

BLANKETT, JOHN (d. 1801), admiral; volunteer and midshipman at reduction of Louisbourg, 1758, and Quebec, 1759; lieutenant, 1761; commander, 1779; served in East Indies; captain, 1780; in Mediterranean, 1783; commanded convoy to China, 1790; commodore of squadron sent to Cape of Good Hope, serving at reduction of that settlement; served in Egyptian operations; rear-admiral, 1799. [v. 208]

BLANTYRE, BARONS. [See STEWART, WALTER, first BARON, d. 1437; STEWART, ALEXANDER, fifth BARON, d. 1704.]

BLAQUIERE, JOHN, BARON DE BLAQUIERE (1732-1812), politician; son of a French emigrant; under Lord Harcourt as secretary of legation in France, 1771-2, and chief secretary in Ireland, 1772-7; M.P. successively for several Irish and English constituencies: privy councillor, 1774; baronet, 1784; raised to Irish peerage, 1800. [v. 206]

BLATHWAYT, WILLIAM (1649?-1717), politician; secretary to Sir William Temple at the Hague, 1668; engaged in public business successively at Rome, Stockholm, and Copenhagen; secretary-at-war, 1683-1704; clerk of privy council, 1689; secretary of state with William III in Flanders; commissioner of trade, 1696-1706; M.P. for Newtown, Isle of Wight, 1688-8, and Bath, 1698-1710. [v. 208]

BLAYNEY, ANDREW THOMAS, eleventh BARON BLAYNEY (1770-1834), lieutenant-general; ensign, 1789; captain, 1792; major in 89th regiment, part of which he raised in Ireland, 1794; served under Duke of York in Flanders, 1794-5; lieutenant-colonel of 89th regiment in Ireland, 1798; assisted in reduction of Malta; major-general in Peninsula, 1810; captured at Malaga; imprisoned in France, 1810-14; lieutenant-general, 1819; published account of his captivity, 1814. [v. 208]

BLAYNEY, BENJAMIN (1728-1801), Hebrew scholar; M.A. Worcester College, Oxford, 1753; fellow, and afterwards vice-principal, Hertford College; B.D., 1768; prepared for Orlarend Press edition of authorised version of bible, 1769; regius professor of Hebrew, canon of Christ Church, and D.D., 1787; published dissertations on and translations of Old Testament Scriptures. [v. 208]

BLEDEI, surnamed DNOTH, or the Wise (d. 1022?), perhaps bishop of Llandaff between 995 and 1006. [v. 208]

BLEEK, ARTHUR HENRY (1827?-1877), orientalist; successively employed in British Museum and in land transport corps at Sinope during Crimean war; published works on oriental languages and a translation of the 'Avesta.' [v. 209]

BLEEK, WILHELM HEINRICH IMMANUEL (1827-1875), philologist; born at Berlin; educated at Bonn and Berlin; set out with W. B. Blaikie [q. v.] in expedition up Niger, 1854; interpreter to Sir George Grey at Capetown, 1857, and subsequently librarian at Grey's library; published works on South African languages. [v. 209]

BLEGBOROUGH, RALPH (1769-1827), physician; educated at Edinburgh and Guy's and St. Thomas's hospitals; M.D. Aberdeen, 1804; L.O.P., 1805; devoted himself exclusively to midwifery. [v. 210]

BLENCOW or BLINCOW, JOHN (A. 1640), divine; fellow, St. John's College, Oxford, 1627; B.O.L., 1633; probably expelled from fellowship, 1648. [v. 210]

BLENCOWE, Sir JOHN (1642-1726), judge; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1673; master of the bench, 1687; serjeant-at-law, 1689; M.P. for Brackley, Northamptonshire, 1690-5; baron of exchequer, 1696; probably removed to king's bench, 1697, and to common pleas, 1714; knighted, 1714; retired, 1722. [v. 210]

BLENCOWE, WILLIAM (1683-1712), decipherer; son of Sir John Blencowe [q. v.]; B.A. Magdalen College, Oxford, 1701; fellow of All Souls, 1702; M.A., 1704; decipherer to government, 1703; shot himself during temporary insanity. [v. 211]

BLENERHASSET, THOMAS (1550?-1625?), poet; educated at Cambridge; entered army; captain at Guernsey Castle; one of 'undertakers' for plantation of Ulster, 1610. His publications include an expansion (1578) of the 'Mirrour for Magistrates' and a work on 'Plantation in Ulster.' [v. 211]

BLENKINSP, JOHN (1783-1831), one of pioneers of the locomotive; engaged in Middleton collieries, near Leeds; obtained, 1811, patent for double cylinder locomotive worked by means of rucked rail and toothed wheel, which was successfully tested, 1812. Locomotives made upon the Blenkinsop pattern were employed regularly from 1812. [Suppl. i. 217]

BLENKIRON, WILLIAM (1807?-1871), breeder of racehorses; farmer in Yorkshire; manufacturer of stocks and collars, 1845; kept racehorses at Dalston, and subsequently at Middle Park, Kent, Waltham Cross, and Esher, his stud becoming the most celebrated in Europe. [v. 212]

BLANNERHASSET, HARMAN (1764?-1831), lawyer; educated at Westminster and Dublin; B.A., and LL.B., 1790; travelled on continent, adopted republican principles, and settled, 1798, near Parkersburg on the Ohio; became implicated in schemes of Aaron Burr; arrested, but released, 1807; lawyer in Montreal, 1819; retired to Guernsey. [v. 213]

BLESSINGTON, MARGUERITE, COUNTESS OF (1789-1849), authoress; née Power; married, 1804, captain Maurice Farmer (d. 1817), from whom she separated almost immediately; married, 1818, Charles John Gardiner, first earl of Blessington; travelled on continent with her husband and Alfred, count d'Orsay, 1822; made acquaintance of Byron; settled in Paris, 1828; removed to London, 1831; published her first novel, 'Cassidy,' 1833; edited 'Book of Beauty' from 1834, and 'The Keepsake,' 1841-1849; contributed to 'Daily News' on its foundation, 1846; became bankrupt, 1849, and fled to Paris to Count d'Orsay, who had lived with her for some years; died in Paris. Her first book, 'The Magic Lantern,' was published anonymously, 1822, and between 1833 and 1847 she produced numerous works of fiction and personal reminiscence. 'Country Quarters,' a novel, appeared posthumously in 1850. [v. 213]

BLETHYN, WILLIAM (d. 1590), divine; educated at Oxford; bishop of Llandaff, 1575. [v. 216]

BLEW, WILLIAM JOHN (1808-1894), liturgiologist; M.A. Wadham College, Oxford, 1832; curate of Nut-hurst, 1832-40, and of St. Anne's, Soho, 1840-5; incumbent of St. John's, Milton-next-Gravesend, 1842-50; published edition of 'Aberdeen Breviary,' 1854, translations from Greek, and other works. [Suppl. i. 218]

BLEWITT, JONAS (d. 1805), organist in city of London; published a 'Treatise on the Organ,' and musical compositions. [v. 216]

BLEWITT, JONATHAN (1780?-1853), composer; son of Jonas Blewitt [q. v.]; organist successively in London, Haverhill, Brecon, Sheffield, and at St. Andrew's, Dublin; in London, 1826; produced numerous pantomime compositions; at different times musical director at Theatre Royal, Dublin, Sadler's Wells, and Vauxhall. [v. 216]

BLEWITT, OCTAVIAN (1810-1884), secretary, Royal Literary Fund; studied medicine at infirmary of St. George's, Hanover Square, London; secretary of Royal Literary Fund, 1839-84; knight of the order of Leopold, 1872; published topographical and other works. [v. 216]

BLICKE, SIR CHARLES (1745-1815), surgeon; surgeon of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1787; governor of College of Surgeons, 1801; knighted, 1803; edited 'Essay on Yellow Fever of Jamaica,' 1772, anonymous. [v. 217]

BLIGH, RICHARD (1780-1838?), chancery barrister; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1806; published legal works. [v. 218]

BLIGH, SIR RICHARD RODNEY (1737-1821), admiral; entered navy, 1761; commander under Rodney in West Indies, 1762; captured by French, 1793; rear-admiral, 1794; released, 1795; second in command in Jamaica, 1796-9; vice-admiral, 1799; commander-in-chief at Leith, 1803-4; admiral, 1804; G.C.B. 1820. [v. 218]

BLIGH, THOMAS (not EDWARD) (1685-1775), lieutenant-general; Irish M.P. for Athboy, co. Meath, 1715; captain, 1717; lieutenant-colonel, 6th horse; colonel of 20th foot, 1740; brigadier-general, 1745; major-general, 1747; colonel, 6th horse, 1747; lieutenant-general, 1754; commanded unsuccessful expedition against French to create diversion in favour of Ferdinand of Brunswick, 1758; retired, 1759. [v. 217]

BLIGH, WILLIAM (1754-1817), vice-admiral; entered navy and accompanied Cook as sailing-master in second voyage round world, 1772-4, and discovered bread-fruit at Otaheite; lieutenant; commanded vessel sailing to Otaheite to obtain bread-fruit plants, 1787; cast adrift in open boat by his mutinous crew; landed at Timor, 1789; reached England, 1790; post-captain; sailed to Society Islands, 1791; received Society of Arts' medal, 1794; F.R.S., 1801; captain-general and governor of New South Wales, 1805; forcibly deposed, 1808, and imprisoned till 1810; returned to England, 1811; rear-admiral, 1811, and vice-admiral of blue, 1814. [v. 219]

BLIGHT, WILLIAM (1786-1862), rear-admiral; lieutenant, 1803; at Trafalgar, 1805; agent for transports, Palermo, 1812-14; commander, 1821; post-captain, 1830; retired as rear-admiral, 1855. [v. 220]

BLIND, MATHILDE (1841-1896), poetess; born at Mannheim; daughter of a banker named Cohen; adopted name of Blind; came to London, c. 1849; published 'Poems by Claude Lake,' 1867, 'The Prophecy of St. Oran,' 1881, 'The Heather on Fire,' 1886, 'Ascent of Man,' 1888, 'Dramas in Miniature,' 1891, 'Songs and Sonnets,' 1893, and 'Birds of Passage,' 1895. She translated Strauss's 'Old Faith and New,' 1873-4, and 'Journal of Marie Bashkirtseff,' 1890. [Suppl. i. 219]

BLISS, NATHANIEL (1700-1784), astronomer; M.A. Pembroke College, Oxford, 1723; rector of St. Ebbe's, Oxford, 1736; Savilian professor of geometry and F.R.S., 1742; assisted Bradley at Royal Observatory; astronomer-royal, 1762-4. Observations made under his supervision were published in 1805. [v. 220]

BLISS, PHILIP (1787-1857), antiquary; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and St. John's College, Oxford; fellow, 1809; D.O.L., 1820; ordained priest, 1818; under-librarian of Bodleian, 1822-8; university registrar, 1824-1856; keeper of archives, 1828-57; registrar of university court, 1831; principal of St. Mary Hall, 1848-57; deputy professor of civil law; compiled and edited many antiquarian works, including editions of Wood's 'Athens Oxoniensis,' 1813-20, and 'Reliquie Hearnianae,' 1857. [v. 221]

BLITH, WALTER (f. 1649), agricultural writer; published, 1649, 'The English Improver, or a new Survey of Husbandry,' reissued, 1652, as 'The English Improver Improved.' He was probably a captain in parliamentary army. [Suppl. i. 220]

BLITHEMAN or BLYTHEMAN, WILLIAM (d. 1591), organist and gentleman of the chapel under Elizabeth; left musical compositions in manuscript. Dr. John Bull [q. v.] was perhaps his pupil. [v. 222]

BLIZARD, THOMAS (1772-1838), surgeon; nephew of Sir William Blizard [q. v.]; surgeon to London Hospital; published surgical writings. [v. 222]

BLIZARD, SIR WILLIAM (1743-1835), surgeon; studied at London and St. Bartholomew's hospitals; surgeon, 1780, to London Hospital, where, with Dr. Mac-laurin, he founded medical school, 1785; F.R.S., 1787; twice president of College of Surgeons; published medical writings. [v. 223]

BLOCHMANN, HENRY FERDINAND (1838-1878), orientalist; born at Dresden; studied oriental languages at Leipzig and Paris; came to England and enlisted in British army, 1858; went as private soldier to India, obtained employment in office at Fort William, received discharge, and entered service of Peninsular and Oriental Company as interpreter; assistant professor of Arabic and Persian, in Calcutta Madrasa, 1860-2; M.A. and LL.D. Calcutta, 1861; professor of mathematics, Doveton College, 1862-5; returned to the Madrasa, 1865, and ultimately became principal; published oriental works, including translation of first volume of 'Ain-i-Akbari' of Abul-Fazl. [Suppl. i. 220]

BLOET, BLUET, or BLOETT, ROBERT (d. 1123), Norman divine; chancellor successively to William the Conqueror and William II; consecrated bishop of Lincoln, 1094; judiciary under Henry I; besieged Tickhill, Robert of Belesme's castle, for the king, 1102. [v. 223]

BLOIS, PETER DE (f. 1190). [See PETER.]

BLOMBERG, WILLIAM NICHOLAS (1702?-1750), divine; M.A. Merton College, Oxford, 1726; fellow; held livings in Middlesex and Kent; published life of his grandfather, Edmund Dickinson, M.D. [v. 224]

BLOME, RICHARD (d. 1705), publisher and compiler; issued many splendid works by the aid of subscriptions adroitly levied. His publications include editions of Guillim's 'Display of Heraldrie,' 1680 and 1679; 'Geographical Description of . . . the World,' 1670; and 'Britannia,' 1673. [v. 225]

BLOMEFIELD, FRANCOIS (1705-1752), topographer; B.A. Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, 1727; rector of Hargham, 1729-30; held living of Fersfield, 1730; set up private press, 1736, and began to issue in numbers his 'History of Norfolk,' 1739; died leaving the third volume unfinished. The published volumes, chiefly based on Le Neve's collections, contained accounts of Thetford and Norwich. His work was continued by the Rev. Charles Parkin, and ultimately finished by a hack writer, the whole being republished, 1805-10. [v. 226]

BLOMEFIELD, LEONARD, formerly LEONARD JENYNS (1800-1893), naturalist; educated at Eton and St. John's College, Cambridge; B.A., 1822; curate, 1823, and vicar, 1828-49, of Swaffham Bulbeck, Cambridgeshire; published 'Manual of British Vertebrate Animals,' 1835; removed successively to South Stoke, near Bath, 1850, Swainswick, 1852, and Bath, 1860; founder, 1855, and first president of Bath Natural History and Antiquarian Field Club; presented to the town of Bath the 'Jenyns Library'; member of Linnean Society and of Cambridge Philosophical Society, 1829; original member of Zoological (1826), Entomological (1834), and Ray (1844) societies; adopted name of Blomefield, 1871; published writings relating to natural history and an autobiography (privately printed, 1889). [Suppl. i. 221]

BLOMEFIELD, MILES (1525-1574?), alchemist; licensed physician by Cambridge University; practised at Bury St. Edmunds; published works on alchemy. [v. 228]

BLOMEFIELD, SIR THOMAS (1744-1822), major-general; joined navy, but entered as cadet military academy, Woolwich, 1768; lieutenant fire-worker, c. 1759; commanded bomb-ketch at bombardment of Havre; joined Hawke's fleet at Quiberon; personal aide-de-camp successively to General Conway and Lord Townshend, master-

general of ordnance, 1771; brigade-major to Brigadier Phillips in American war; wounded at Saratoga; captain, inspector of artillery, and superintendent of Royal Brass Foundry, 1780; entrusted with reorganisation of ordnance department, 1783; lieutenant-colonel, 1793; colonel, 1800; major-general, 1803; colonel-commandant of battalion, 1806; commanded artillery in Copenhagen expedition, 1807; created baronet. [v. 228]

BLOMFIELD, SIR ARTHUR WILLIAM (1828-1899), architect; son of Charles James Blomfield [q. v.]; educated at Rugby and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1853; articled to Philip Charles Hardwick (1822-1892), son of Philip Hardwick [q. v.]; opened office in Adelphi Terrace, 1856; president of Architectural Association, 1861; F.R.I.B.A., 1867 and vice-president, 1886; architect to Bank of England, 1883; associated with Arthur Edmund Street, son of George Edmund Street [q. v.], in erection of Law Courts in London, 1881; A.R.A., 1888; knighted, 1889. His works include Sion College Library on Thames Embankment, Queen's School at Eton College, the scheme for Church House, Dean's Yard, Westminster, and many churches in England and abroad. He made important restorations in the cathedrals of Salisbury, Canterbury, Lincoln, and Chichester. [Suppl. i. 223]

BLOMFIELD, CHARLES JAMES (1786-1857), bishop of London; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1808; fellow; presented to St. Botolph, Bishopsgate; bishop of Chester, 1824; translated to see of London, 1828; instituted, 1836, for building and endowing churches in metropolis a fund which, 1854, was merged in London Diocesan Church Building Society; in the Tractarian movement (c. 1842) upheld definitely the views of neither party while agreeing on some points with both; edited five plays of Æschylus, with notes and glossaries, three Greek lyric poets for Gaisford's 'Pœtae Minores Graeci' (1823), and contributed on classical subjects to magazines. [v. 229]

BLOMFIELD, EDWARD VALENTINE (1788-1816), classical scholar; brother of Charles James Blomfield [q. v.]; B.A. Caius College, Cambridge, 1811; first chancellor's classical metallist; classical lecturer and fellow, Emmanuel College, till death. His chief work, a translation of Matthiæ's 'Greek Grammar', appeared posthumously, edited by his brother. [v. 230]

BLOMFIELD, EZEKIEL (1778-1818), nonconformist divine; minister at Wymondham; founded Norfolk and Norwich Auxiliary British and Foreign Bible Society; partner of Brightley, printer, of Bungay; published various compilations. [v. 231]

BLON, JACQUES CRISTOPHE, LE (1670-1741). [See LE BLON.]

BLONDEL, JAMES AUGUSTUS (d. 1734), physician; born in Paris; M.D. Leyden, 1692; practised in London; L.O.P., 1711; published medical writings. [v. 232]

BLOOD, HOLCROFT (1660?-1707), general; son of Thomas Blood [q. v.]; served at sea in Dutch war, 1672, and in Irish campaigns after 1688; rendered signal service as engineer, Namur, 1695, and Höchstädt, c. 1703; subsequently promoted brigadier-general. [v. 232]

BLOOD, THOMAS (1618?-1680), adventurer; obtained estates in Ireland which were forfeited at Restoration; headed unsuccessful attempt to take Dublin Castle from royalists, 1663; escaped arrest, and subsequently fled to Holland; returned to England, associated with Fifth-monarchy men, and later with covenanters till 1668; attempted, perhaps at Buckingham's instigation, to assassinate Duke of Ormonde, who, however, escaped, 1670; formed an elaborate plan, 1671, to steal the crown jewels, and actually with an accomplice made off with the crown and globe, but was arrested; obtained admission to Charles II's presence, gained his favour, and received back his Irish estates; committed by court of king's bench for slander of Buckingham, 1680, but received bail. [v. 232]

BLOOMFIELD, BENJAMIN, first BARON BLOOMFIELD (1768-1846), lieutenant-general; second lieutenant, royal artillery, 1781; chief quarry to Prince of Wales, c. 1806; major-general, 1814; knighted, 1816; keeper of privy purse and receiver of duchy of Lancaster, 1817; minister plenipotentiary at Stockholm, 1824; raised to Irish peerage, 1825; commanded garrison at Woolwich. [v. 235]

BLOOMFIELD, JOHN ARTHUR DOUGLAS, second BARON BLOOMFIELD (1802-1879), diplomatist; son of Benjamin Bloomfield [q. v.]; joined diplomatic service, 1818; envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary at St. Petersburg, 1844, and Berlin, 1851; envoy extraordinary and plenipotentiary to emperor of Austria, 1860-71; created peer of United Kingdom, 1871. [v. 236]

BLOOMFIELD, ROBERT (1766-1823), poet; worked as shoemaker under his brother George, in London; endured extreme poverty; wrote his 'Farmer's Boy,' c. 1798 (published 1800); under-sealer in seal office, 1808; manufactured Æolian harps; embarked unsuccessfully in book-trade; visited Wales and wrote 'Banks of the Wye,' 1811. A collected edition of his works appeared in 1824. [v. 236]

BLOOR, JOSEPH (d. 1846), assistant at Robert Bloor's Old Derby China Works. [v. 237]

BLOOR, ROBERT (d. 1846), ceramist, brother of Joseph Bloor [q. v.]; worked in and, c. 1811, bought Old Derby China Works. [v. 237]

BLORE, EDWARD (1787-1879), architect and artist; son of Thomas Blore [q. v.]; employed on illustrations for his father's 'History of Rutland,' Britton's 'English Cathedrals,' and Sartrees' 'Antiquities of Durham'; built Sir Walter Scott's house at Abbotsford, c. 1816; managed production of Scott's 'Provincial Antiquities of Scotland'; architect to William IV and Queen Victoria, and to Westminster Abbey; F.R.S.; F.S.A.; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1834; published 'Monumental Remains of Eminent Persons,' 1824. [v. 37]

BLORE, ROBERT (d. 1866?), manufacturer of porcelain 'biscuit' figures in Bridge Gate, Derby; apprenticed at Old Derby China Works. [v. 238]

BLORE, THOMAS (1764-1818), topographer; solicitor at Derby, and, later, at Hopton; entered Middle Temple, 1795; published topographical writings and left manuscript collections for history of Hertfordshire. [v. 238]

BLOUNT, CHARLES, fifth BARON MOUNTJOY (d. 1545), son of William Blount, fourth baron [q. v.]; page to Queen Catherine; served with Henry VIII in France, 1544; patron of learning. [v. 239]

BLOUNT, CHARLES, EARL OF DEVONSHIRE and eighth BARON MOUNTJOY (1563-1606), grandson of Charles Blount, fifth baron [q. v.]; M.A. Oxford, 1589; entered Inner Temple; came to court, c. 1583; M.P. for Beeralston, 1584, 1586, and 1593; knighted, 1586; served in Netherlands, in pursuit of Armada, and in Brittany, 1588-93; captain of town and island of Portsmouth, 1594; lieutenant of land forces in Essex's expedition to Azores, 1597; K.G., 1597; implicated in Essex's conspiracy, but escaped punishment; lord deputy of Ireland, 1601; put down Tyrone's rebellion; reinstated deputy by James I.; styled lord-lieutenant, 1603; suppressed disaffection resulting from military occupation; returned to England, and was created Earl of Devonshire, 1603; master of ordnance, 1603; keeper of Portsmouth Castle, 1604; commissioner to discharge office of earl marshal, 1605; married, 1605, Lord Rich's divorced wife, Essex's sister, Penelope, with whom he had contracted a liaison in early life. [v. 240]

BLOUNT, CHARLES (1654-1693), deist; son of Sir Henry Blount [q. v.]; author of freethinking books which have caused him to be considered as a link between Herbert of Cherbury and Toland. These include 'Anima Mundi,' an attack on priestcraft entitled 'Great is Diana of the Ephesians,' 1680; and a translation with notes of 'The Two First Books of Apollonius Tyaneus,' 1680. He published also political papers of high tendency, and a 'Vindication of Liberties of the Press.' [v. 243]

BLOUNT, SIR CHRISTOPHER (1655?-1601), soldier; probably younger brother of Charles, earl of Devonshire [q. v.]; gentleman of horse to Elizabeth; served in Netherlands; knighted, 1588; married, c. 1589, widow of first Earl of Essex (d. 1576); colonel of land force, and, later, camp master in Essex's expedition to Cadix, 1596; joined attempt on Azores, 1597; M.P. for Staffordshire, 1597; marshal of Essex's army in Ireland, 1599; assisted in Essex's conspiracy against government, and was executed on Tower Hill. [v. 245]

BLOUNT or BLUNT, EDWARD (d. 1589-1632), stationer; freeman of Stationers' Company, 1588; published Florio's 'Italian and English Dictionary', 1596; and translation of 'Montaigne's Essays', 1607; Marlowe's 'Hero and Leander', 1598; Shelton's 'Don Quixote', 1620, the first folio of Shakespeare's 'Works', with Isaac Jaggard and others, 1623, and Lyly's 'Sicke Court Comedies', 1632, besides 'Ars Aulica', 1607, and other translations by himself. [v. 246]

BLOUNT, SIR HENRY (1602-1682), traveller; B.A. Trinity College, Oxford, 1618; entered Gray's Inn; travelled on continent and in Egypt; published 'Voyage to the Levant', 1636; knighted, 1640; sided with royalists in civil war. [v. 247]

BLOUNT, SIR JAMES (d. 1493), lieutenant of Hammes, 1476; son of Walter Blount, first baron Montjoy (d. 1474) [q. v.]; knighted, 1485. [v. 258]

BLOUNT, SIR JOHN (d. 1413), governor of Calais; son of Sir Walter Blount [q. v.]; K.G., 1413; at siege of Rouen, 1418. [v. 258]

BLOUNT, SIR JOHN, third BARON MOUNTJOY (d. 1486), second son of Walter Blount, first baron [q. v.]; captain of Guisnes and Hammes, 1477. [v. 258]

BLOUNT, MARTHA (1690-1762), friend of Pope; educated at Hammersmith and in Paris; made acquaintance of Pope as early as 1705; Pope dedicated to her his 'Epistle on Women', 1735, and at his death bequeathed her considerable property. [v. 248]

BLOUNT, MOUNTJOY, BARON MOUNTJOY and EARL of NEWPORT (1597?-1666), natural son of Charles Blount, earl of Devonshire [q. v.]; by Penelope, lady Rich; created Baron Mountjoy, in Irish peerage, 1618, and in English peerage, 1627; served in Low Countries, 1622; created Earl of Newport, Isle of Wight, 1628; rear-admiral of fleet in Rochelle expedition, 1628; accompanied Charles I to Scotland, 1639; joined opposition in the Lords to Charles I in Long parliament; constable of Tower, 1641; fought with king's forces in Yorkshire, 1642; lieutenant-general under Duke of Newcastle; quarrelled with Newcastle and was imprisoned in Pomfret Castle, and subsequently committed to custody of gentleman usher of House of Lords, 1643; released, 1644; fought for king at Newbury, 1644; taken prisoner at Dartmouth, 1646; released on bail; committed to Tower on suspicion of treason, 1655; pensioned as gentleman of bedchamber, 1662. [v. 249]

BLOUNT, RICHARD (1565-1638), jesuit; educated at Oxford, English College, Douay (temporarily removed to Rheims), and Rome; ordained priest, 1589; went to Spain and came thence to England, 1591, in disguise; entered Society of Jesus in England, 1596; professed of four vows, 1608; superior of English missions, 1617; provincial, 1623; lived in hiding in London. [v. 252]

BLOUNT, SIR THOMAS (d. 1400), supporter of Richard II; deputy king's 'naperer', 1377; joined barons' insurrection against Henry IV, 1399; captured and executed near Oxford. [v. 253]

BLOUNT, SIR THOMAS (d. 1422), treasurer of Calais in Henry VI's reign; son of Sir Walter Blount [q. v.]; founded chantry at Newark, 1422. [v. 258]

BLOUNT or BLUNT, THOMAS (d. 1668), parliamentarian colonel; on committee of Kent, 1643; imprisoned, 1660; member of Royal Society, 1665; noted for several ingenious inventions. [v. 253]

BLOUNT, THOMAS (1619-1679), miscellaneous writer; entered Inner Temple; compelled, being Roman catholic, to flee from his home during agitation due to popish plot, 1678; published historical, legal, and other works, including 'Academie de Eloquence', 1654, 'Glossographia', 1666, 'A Law Dictionary', 1670, 'Fragmenta Antiquitatis, Ancient Tenures of Land', 1679, and 'Boscobel', 1680, a history of Charles II's escape after battle of Worcester. He left in manuscript a 'History of Hereford', now lost. [v. 254]

BLOUNT, SIR THOMAS POPE (1649-1697), politician; son of Sir Henry Blount [q. v.]; created baronet, 1679; M.P. for St. Albans; knight of shire for Hertford; commissioner of accounts in House of Commons; published 'Censurs celebriorum Authorum', 1690, 'A Natural History', 1693, 'Remarks on Poetry', 1694, and 'Essays on several Subjects', 1692. [v. 256]

BLOUNT, SIR WALTER (d. 1403), soldier; accompanied Black Prince to Spain, 1367; probably went with John of Gaunt to Castile, 1386; one of Gaunt's executors, 1399; M.P. for Derbyshire, 1399; killed at battle of Shrewsbury. He figures as Blunt in Shakespeare's '1 Henry IV.' [v. 257]

BLOUNT, WALTER, first BARON MOUNTJOY or MOUNTJOY (d. 1474), lord high treasurer of England; grandson of Sir Walter Blount [q. v.]; fought for Yorkists at Towton, 1461; knighted; governor of Calais; high treasurer of England, and raised to peerage, 1465; K.G. [v. 258]

BLOUNT, WILLIAM (d. 1471), son of Walter Blount (d. 1474) [q. v.]; killed fighting for Edward IV at Barnet. [v. 258]

BLOUNT, WILLIAM, fourth BARON MOUNTJOY (d. 1534), statesman and patron of learning; grandson of Walter Blount (d. 1474) [q. v.]; privy councillor; studied in Paris, c. 1496, under Erasmus, whom he brought to England, 1498; became intimate with Prince Henry, afterwards Henry VIII; served against Perkin Warbeck, 1497; lieutenant of marches of Calais, 1509; bailiff of Tournai, 1514-17; attended Henry VIII at Field of Cloth of Gold, 1520, and at meeting with Charles V at Dover, 1522; master of mint; K.G. Among the scholars whom he befriended were Erasmus, Leland, Richard Whytforie, Battus, and Richard Sampson. [v. 259]

BLOW, JAMES (d. 1759), printer; apprenticed to Patrick Neill [q. v.], at Glasgow, and was subsequently his assistant in Belfast; printed works for the presbyterians, 'Church Catechism in Irish and English', 1722, and some editions of the bible, after c. 1726. [v. 260]

BLOW, JOHN (1648-1708), composer; one of children of Chapel Royal, 1660; organist of Westminster Abbey, 1669-80; master of the children of Chapel Royal, 1674; organist of Chapel Royal, 1676; composer in ordinary to James II, 1686; almoner and master of chorists at St. Paul's Cathedral, 1687-93; composer to Chapel Royal, 1699; buried in Westminster Abbey. His compositions include anthems for 'Divine Services and Anthems', 1663, the 'Club Anthem' 'I will always give thanks', 1663, due to Herriek's 'Goe, perjur'd man', 'Venus and Adonis' (a masque never printed), and a collection of part-songs. [v. 261]

BLOWER, SAMUEL (d. 1701), nonconformist divine; ejected from fellowship at Magdalen and, 1662, from Woodstock, Oxfordshire; subsequently founded Castle Hill meeting-house, Northampton. [v. 263]

BLOXAM, ANDREW (1801-1878), divine; educated at Rugby and Worcester College, Oxford, fellow; made collection of natural-history specimens on voyage to Sandwich Islands, 1824; wrote works relating to natural history. [v. 264]

BLOXAM, JOHN ROUSE (1807-1891), historian of Magdalen College; educated at Rugby and Worcester and Magdalen Colleges, Oxford; M.A., 1835; D.D., 1847; fellow of Magdalen College, 1836-63; pro-rector of university, 1841; held various offices at his college till 1862; he was in full sympathy with the Tractarians; vicar of Upper Beeding, Sussex, 1862-91; published and left in manuscript valuable collections relating to the history of Magdalen College. [Suppl. i. 224]

BLOXAM, MATTHEW HOLBECH (1805-1888), antiquary; brother of John Rouse Bloxam [q. v.]; educated at Rugby, where he was articled as solicitor; clerk to magistrates for Rugby division, 1832-72; F.S.A., 1863; published, 1829, 'Principles of Gothic Architecture' (issued in an enlarged form, 1882), and other architectural and antiquarian works. [Suppl. i. 226]

BLOXHAM, JOHN (d. 1334?), Carmelite of Chester; educated at Oxford; provincial of his order in England; wrote religious works. [v. 264]

BLOXHAM, JOHN (d. 1387), warden of Merton College, Oxford; bachelor of theology, Oxford; seventh warden of Merton, 1376. [v. 264]

BLUND or BLUNT, JOHN LE (d. 1248), divine; educated at Oxford and Paris; canon of Chichester; chancellor of York; nominated archbishop of Canterbury by Peter des Roches and elected, 1232, but the pope refused assent and the election was annulled. [v. 264]

BLUNDELL, HENRY (1724-1810), art collector; made at Ince-Blundell Hall, Lancashire, valuable collection of pictures, statuary, and other works of art; published works relating to his collection. [v. 265]

BLUNDELL, JAMES (1790-1877), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1818; lectured on midwifery at Guy's Hospital; L.C.P., 1818; F.O.F., 1838; published medical works. [v. 266]

BLUNDELL, PETER (1520-1601), merchant; of humble origin; accumulated great wealth as merchant and manufacturer in kersey trade; endowed Blundell's school (erected 1604), Tiverton, and left considerable sums for charitable purposes. [v. 266]

BLUNDELL, WILLIAM (1620-1698), topographer; captain of dragoons in royalist army, 1642; wounded at Lancaster. He left a topographical manuscript relating to Isle of Man (published 1876-7), and other writings. [v. 267]

BLUNDEVILL, RANDOLPH DE, EARL OF CHESTER (d. 1232), warrior and statesman; succeeded as earl of Chester, 1180; married Constance, widow of Geoffrey, son of Henry II, 1187; joined, in Richard's interest, in siege of Nottingham, 1194; accompanied Richard to Normandy; quarrelled with Constance and imprisoned her in castle of St. Jean Beveron, 1196; married Clemence, sister of Geoffrey, c. 1200; accompanied John abroad, 1199; led armies engaged in Welsh wars, 1210 seq.; accompanied John to Poitou, 1214; took John's and, later, Henry III's side against barons, 1215; with Fulk de Bréauté stormed and plundered Worcester, 1216; laid siege unsuccessfully to Mountsorrel, Leicestershire, and shared in royalist victory at Lincoln, 1217; received earldom of Lincoln; went to Holy Land, 1218; joined in siege of Damietta, 1219; deserted royal party and plotted ineffectually with Aumale and De Bréauté to surprise the Tower and obtain dismissal of Hubert de Burgh, but ultimately submitted; took part with Henry in siege of Nantes, 1230, and was left in Brittany with Aumale and William Marshall in charge of the army; returned to England, 1231. [v. 267]

BLUNDEVILLE or BLUNVILLE, THOMAS DE (d. 1236), bishop of Norwich; nephew of Hubert de Burgh; clerk in exchequer; bishop of Norwich, 1228. [v. 272]

BLUNDEVILLE, THOMAS (fl. 1561), writer on horsemanship; inherited and lived on estate at Newton Plotman; published 'The fower chiefest offices belonging to Horsemanshippe', 1565-6, and works on horses, government, education of young gentlemen, logic, and astronomy. [v. 271]

BLUNT. [See also BLOUNT.]

BLUNT, ARTHUR CECIL (1844-1896). [See CECIL, ARTHUR.]

BLUNT, HENRY (1794-1843), divine; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and Pembroke College, Cambridge; B.A., 1817; fellow; vicar of Clare, Suffolk, 1820; incumbent, 1830, and rector, 1832, Trinity Church, Sloane Street; rector of Streatham, 1835-43; published religious works, including lectures on the life of Christ. [v. 272]

BLUNT, JOHN LE (d. 1248). [See BLUND.]

BLUNT, JOHN HENRY (1823-1884), divine; engaged in business as manufacturing chemist; entered University College, Durham, 1880; M.A., 1885; vicar of Kington, near Oxford, 1868; held crown living of Beverston, Gloucestershire, 1873-84; D.D., 1882; published works of theology and ecclesiastical history. [v. 273]

BLUNT, JOHN JAMES (1794-1855), divine; B.A. and fellow, St. John's College, Cambridge, 1816; M.A., 1819; B.D., 1826; appointed a Wort's travelling bachelor, 1818; travelled in Italy and Sicily, and published results of observations; preached (and afterwards published) Hulsean Lectures, 1831 and 1832; rector of Great Oakley, Essex, 1834-9; Lady Margaret professor of divinity, 1839; author of sermons, lectures, and other theological works, some of which were published posthumously. [v. 274]

BLYKE, RICHARD (d. 1776), antiquary; F.R.S.; F.S.A.; deputy-auditor of office of Imprest; clerk of journals, 1764; left manuscript collections for topographical history of Herefordshire. [v. 276]

BLYSE, JOHN (d. 1530), physician; B.A. Oxford, 1507; M.O.P., 1526; left 'astronomical tables' at Merton College, Oxford, now lost. [v. 276]

BLYTH, SIR ARTHUR (1823-1891), premier of South Australia; born and educated at Birmingham; went to South Australia, 1839; engaged in business as ironmonger in Adelaide; member of Adelaide chamber of commerce; member for Yatala district in legislative council, 1855; member for Gumeracha in first elected council, 1857, and 1870; commissioner of works, 1857 and 1858-60; treasurer, 1860-1, 1862, and 1865; commissioner of lands and immigration, 1864-5 and 1870-1; chief secretary and premier, 1868-7; premier and treasurer, 1871-2; premier, 1873-5; member for North Adelaide, 1875; treasurer, 1876; agent-general for the colony in England, 1877; K.O.M.G., 1877; C.B., 1886. [Suppl. i. 226]

BLYTH, EDWARD (1810-1873), zoologist; druggist at Tooting; curator of museum of Asiatic Society of Bengal, Calcutta, 1841; returned to England with pension, 1862; published catalogues of the museum and other zoological works. [v. 276]

BLYTHE, GEOFFREY (d. 1530), bishop of Lichfield and Coventry; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; prebendary of York and archdeacon of Cleveland, 1493; treasurer of church of Sarum, 1494; prebendary of St. Paul's, c. 1496; dean of York, 1496; master of King's Hall, 1499-1528; prebendary and archdeacon of Sarum, 1499; bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, 1503; LL.D.; lord-president of Wales, 1512-1524. [v. 277]

BLYTHE, GEOFFREY (d. 1542), divine; M.A. King's College, Cambridge, 1523; LL.D., 1529; master of King's Hall, Cambridge, 1528. [v. 278]

BLYTHE, JOHN (d. 1499), bishop of Salisbury; warden of King's Hall, Cambridge, 1488; master of rolls, 1492; bishop of Salisbury, 1494; chancellor of Cambridge University, 1493-5. [v. 278]

BLYTHE, JOHN DEAN (1842-1869), miscellaneous writer; successfully factory hand, newspaper reporter at Ashton-under-Lyne, and assistant in a Manchester firm; left miscellaneous writings, selections from which were published posthumously. [v. 278]

BOADEN, JAMES (1762-1839), journalist; editor of 'Oracle' newspaper, 1789; studied at Middle Temple; wrote several successful plays and published an exposure (1796) of the Ireland Shakespearean forgeries, a work (1837) on Shakespeare's 'Sonnets,' identifying Mr. W. H. with William Herbert (afterwards Earl of Pembroke), and biographies of actors and actresses. [v. 278]

BOADEN, JOHN (d. 1839), portrait painter; son of James Boaden [q. v.]; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1810-1833. [v. 279]

BOADICEA (d. 69), wife of Prasutagus, king (d. c. 60), of Iceni of Norfolk and Suffolk, who revolted ineffectually against Ostorius, c. 60; headed revolt of Iceni and Trinobantes, destroyed Camulodunum and Londinium, and, being at length defeated by Suetonius Paulinus, took poison. [v. 279]

BOAG, JOHN (1775-1863), compiler of the 'Imperial Lexicon'; educated at Glasgow; joined congregationalists and acted for many years as evangelist; pastor and schoolmaster at Blackburn, Lincithgowshire; published 'Imperial Lexicon' (c. 1847-8), which held its own until publication of Ogilvie's 'Dictionary.' [v. 280]

BOARDMAN, BORDMAN, BOURDMAN, or BOURMAN, ANDREW (1550?-1639), divine; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1575; D.D., 1594; Lady Margaret fellow, 1673; Greek lecturer, 1680; junior bursar, 1682; held livings at Allchurch, Warwickshire, 1586-1639. [v. 281]

BOASE, CHARLES WILLIAM (1828-1896), historian; B.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1850; fellow, 1850; M.A., 1853; ordained deacon, 1855; tutor, 1855-84; lecturer in Hebrew, 1859-69, and in modern history, 1855-94; university reader in modern history, 1884-94; honorary secretary of Oxford Historical Society, 1884; published historical works relating to Oxford and other writings, including a translation (with Dr. G. W. Kitchen) of Ranke's 'History of England.' [Suppl. i. 237]

BOASE, GEORGE OLEMENT (1829-1897), bibliographer, brother of Charles William Boase [q. v.]; engaged in banking and insurance offices successively in Penzance and London; in Australia, 1854-64; manager of provision business of Whitehead & Co, 1865-74; retired and occupied himself with literary pursuits; published bibliographical and antiquarian writings. [Suppl. I. 228]

BOASE, HENRY (1763-1827), banker and author; chief clerk in Messrs. Ransom, Morland, and Hammersley's London banking house, 1792, and managing partner, c. 1799; became partner in Penzance Union Bank; fellow of Royal Society of Literature, 1821; published works on finance. [v. 281]

BOASE, HENRY SAMUEL (1799-1883), geologist, son of Henry Boase [q. v.]; studied chemistry at Dublin; M.D. Edinburgh, 1821; physician at Penzance; removed to London; F.R.S., 1837; managing partner to Turnbull Brothers, bleachers, of Claverhouse Bleachfield; published scientific works. [v. 282]

BOAST, JOHN (1543?-1594). [See BOSTE.]

BOATE, DE BOOT, BOOTIUS, or BOTIUS, ARNOLD (1600?-1653?), hebraist; M.D. Leyden; studied Hebrew rabbinical writings; practised medicine at Dublin; physician-general of English forces in Ireland; removed to Paris; published 'Animadversiones sacre ad textum Hebraicum Veteris Testamenti', 1644, also medical and other works. [v. 283]

BOATE, DE BOOT, BOOTIUS, or BOTIUS, GERARD (1604-1650), physician; brother of Arnold Boate [q. v.]; born at Goreum, Holland; M.D. Leyden, 1628; settled in London; physician to the king; produced in conjunction with his brother, a treatise depreciatory of the Aristotelian philosophy, 1641; L.C.P., 1646; doctor to hospital at Dublin, 1649; wrote 'Ireland's Natural History', which was published posthumously in 1652 by Samuel Hartlib, Milton's friend. [v. 284]

BOBART or BOBERT, JACOB, the elder (1599-1680), botanist; born at Brunswick; superintendent, 1632, of Oxford Physic Garden, of which he published a catalogue. [v. 285]

BOBART, JACOB, the younger (1641-1719), botanist; son of Jacob Bobart (1599-1680) [q. v.]; succeeded his father as superintendent of Oxford Physic Garden; botanical professor, Oxford, 1683-c. 1719; brought out the third part of Morison's 'Historia Plantarum', 1699, and left manuscripts relating to botanical subjects. [v. 286]

BOBBIN, TIM (1708-1786). [See COLLIER, JOHN.]

BOCFELD, ADAM (A. 1380), Franciscan; wrote commentaries on Aristotle. [v. 286]

BOCHER, BOUCHER, or BUTCHER, JOAN (d. 1550), anabaptist martyr; sometimes called JOAN OF KENT; friend of Anne Askew [q. v.]; asserted, 1548, that Christ did not 'take flesh of the virgin'; examined by Cranmer, imprisoned, and subsequently burned at Smithfield. [v. 286]

BOCK, EBERHARDT OTTO GEORGE VON (d. 1814), baron; entered Hanoverian cavalry, c. 1781; captain, 1800; came to England; raised, and was made colonel of 1st dragons, king's German legion, 1804; major-general, 1810; served in Peninsula; wrecked in transport on Tulbest rocks. [v. 287]

BOOKING, EDWARD (d. 1534), Benedictine; leading supporter of Elizabeth Barton [q. v.]; D.D. Canterbury College, Oxford, 1518; warden; entered Benedictine priory of Christ Church, Canterbury, c. 1526; sent to report on Elizabeth Barton's alleged revelations, and induced her to feign her manifestations; hanged as one of her supporters. [v. 287]

BOOKING, RALPH (d. 1270), Dominican; private confessor to Richard Wych, bishop of Chichester, whose life he wrote. [v. 288]

BOCKMAN, R. (A. 1750), portrait painter and mezzotint engraver in Amsterdam and later in England; produced engravings after Vandyck and others. [v. 288]

BOOLAND, GEOFFREY DE (A. 1195-1224), justice; justiciar, 1195-7, 1201-4, and 1218; justice itinerant in Herefordshire, 1220; dean of St. Martin's-le-Grand; concerned in barons' revolt, 1216; died before 1231. [v. 289]

BOOLAND, HUGH DE, or HUGH OF BUCKLAND (d. 1119?), sheriff of Berkshire before 1100, and subsequently sheriff of Middlesex and other counties. [v. 289]

BODDINGTON, HENRY JOHN (1811-1865), artist; son of Edward Williams; took his wife's name, Boddington, to prevent confusion with relations who were artists; from 1837 exhibited scenes of country life at Royal Academy and Society of British Artists. [v. 290]

BODE, JOHN ERNEST (1816-1874), divine; educated at Eton, Charterhouse, and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1840; censor, 1844; examiner in classics, 1848-8; Bampton lecturer, 1855; rector of Westwell, 1847, and of Castle Camps, 1860; published poetical and other works. [v. 290]

BODEN, JOSEPH (d. 1811), lieutenant-colonel; lieutenant in Bombay native infantry, 1781; major, 1802; lieutenant-colonel, 1806; judge-advocate; member of military board, Bombay; left money to found Boden professorship of Sanscrit, Oxford. [v. 291]

BODENHAM, JOHN (A. 1600), reputed editor of Elizabethan miscellanies; planned publication of the Elizabethan miscellanies; 'Wits Commonwealth', 1597, 'Wits Theater', 1598, 'Belvedere, or the Garden of the Muses', 1600, and 'Englands Helicon', 1600. [v. 291]

BODICHON, BARBARA LEIGH SMITH (1827-1891), benefactress of Girton College; daughter of Benjamin Smith [q. v.]; studied water-colour drawing under William Henry Hunt [q. v.]; married Dr. Eugene Bodichon, 1857; proposed plan of and endowed Girton College. [Suppl. I. 229]

BODKIN, SIR WILLIAM HENRY (1791-1874), legal writer; hon. secretary of Society for Suppression of Mendicity, 1821; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1826; joined home circuit; recorder of Dover, 1832; M.P. for Rochester, 1841-7; assistant judge of Middlesex sessions, 1859; knighted, 1867; counsel to treasury; wrote work relating to poor laws. [v. 292]

BODLEY, SIR JOSIAS (1550?-1618), military engineer; educated at Merton College, Oxford; served in Netherlands; captain in Leinster against Tyrone, 1598; governor of Newry; trenchmaster at sieges of Kinsale, 1601, Waterford, 1603, and other garrisons; superintendent of Irish castles, 1607; assisted in survey of Ulster plantations, 1609; appointed for life director-general of fortifications in Ireland, 1612; left manuscripts relating to his life and duties in Ireland. [v. 293]

BODLEY, LAURENCE (d. 1615), canon of Exeter; elder brother of Sir Josias Bodley [q. v.]; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1568; D.D.; canon of Exeter before 1568. [v. 294]

BODLEY, SIR THOMAS (1545-1613), diplomatist and scholar; eldest brother of Josias and Laurence Bodley [q. v.]; educated at Geneva, whither his parents had fled from protestant persecution, and at Magdalen College, Oxford; M.A., 1566; lecturer in natural philosophy; university proctor, and deputy public orator, 1569; usher to the queen; engaged in missions to Denmark, 1585, and to Henry III of France, 1588; queen's permanent resident in United Provinces, 1589-96; began, 1598, formation of Bodleian Library, Oxford, which was opened 1603 and endowed by Bodley in 1611; knighted, 1604. A portrait of him is in the Bodleian Library. [v. 294]

BOEOE or BOETHIUS, HECTOR (1465?-1536), historian; educated at Dundee and Paris, in which university he was regent or professor, c. 1492-8, Erasmus being one of his contemporaries; assisted William Elphinstone; bishop of Aberdeen, in founding (1506) university of Aberdeen; first principal; published lives of bishops of Mortlach and Aberdeen, 1522, and history of Scotland to accession of James III, 1527 (both printed in Paris); the history was translated into Scottish prose by John Bellenden, 1530-3 (printed 1536), and into English for Holinshed's chronicles by William Harrison, 1577; chaplain of St. Andrew's altar in church of St. Nicholas, Aberdeen; vicar of Tullynessle, 1528. [v. 297]

BOEHM, ANTHONY WILLIAM (1673-1729), divine; born at Fyrnort, Germany; came to London, 1701; opened school, 1702; assistant chaplain to Prince George, and subsequently to George I.; published and left in manuscript many works and translations in German and English. [v. 300]

BOEHM, SIR JOSEPH EDGAR, first BARONET (1834-1890), sculptor; born at Vienna; studied sculpture in London, Italy, Paris, and Vienna; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1862, and soon obtained extensive practice as portrait sculptor; R.A., 1880; lecturer on sculpture at Royal Academy; sculptor in ordinary to Queen Victoria; created baronet, 1889. [Suppl. I. 229]

BOGAN, ZACHARY (1625-1659), author; M.A. Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1650; fellow, 1647; tutor; published religious and learned works. [v. 301]

BOGDANI or BOGDANE, JAMES (d. 1720), painter of still-life and birds; born in Hungary; patronised in England by Queen Anne. [v. 301]

BOGLE, GEORGE (1748-1781), diplomatist; educated at Edinburgh University; entered service of East India Company, 1769; assistant secretary to revenue board, 1772; envoy to and subsequently personal friend of Lama of Tibet, 1774-8; superintended renewal of leases of company's provinces, 1776; commissioner of law suits; collector of Rangpür, 1779; left manuscript journal. [v. 302]

BOGUE, DAVID (1760-1826), divine; educated at Edinburgh; licensed as preacher; usher in academies at Edmonton, Hampstead, and Camberwell; congregational minister at Gosport; tutor in institution for training for ministry, Gosport, 1780; a founder of the London Missionary Society, British and Foreign Bible Society, and Religious Tract Society; published religious works, including 'History of Dissenters,' 1809. [v. 302]

BOGUE, RICHARD (1783-1813), captain royal artillery; second lieutenant royal artillery, 1798; second captain, 1806; killed at Leipzig. [v. 303]

BOHEMUS, MAURITIUS (f. 1647-1662), nonconformist divine; born at Colberg; rector of Halluton, Leicestershire; ejected, 1662; published religious works. [v. 303]

BOHLER, JOHN (1797-1872), botanist; became collector of medicinal plants for doctors, and subsequently published botanical writings. [v. 304]

BOHN, HENRY GEORGE (1796-1884), bookseller and publisher; entered his father's business of bookbinder and second-hand bookseller; began business independently, 1831; published 'guinea catalogue' of old books, 1841; took up the 'remainder' trade; published 'Standard Library,' 1846, 'Scientific' and 'Antiquarian,' 1847, 'Classical,' 1848, 'Illustrated,' 1849, 'Shilling Series,' 1850, 'Ecclesiastical,' 1851, 'Philological,' 1852, 'British Classics,' 1853, the series numbering in all over 600 volumes; he made some translations for his 'Classical Library,' and produced works and compilations, including reprint of Lowndes's 'Bibliographer's Manual.' [v. 304]

BOHN, JAMES STUART BURGESS (1803-1880), bookseller; educated at Winchester and Göttingen; opened bookselling business in London, 1834; republished Dugdale's 'Monasticon' and compiled catalogues. [v. 306]

BOHUN, EDMUND (1646-1699), chief-justice of Carolina; fellow-commoner Queens' College, Cambridge, 1663; on commission of peace; licensor of publications, 1692; imprisoned, 1693, for sanctioning publication of tract by Charles Blount [q. v.] defending doctrine of conquest by William III; chief-justice of Carolina, 1698; published tracts, compilations, and translations. [v. 306]

BOHUN, HENRY DE, first EARL OF HEREFORD (1176-1290), created earl, 1199; grandson of Humphrey III de Bohun [q. v.]; constable of England; joined barons against John, 1215; died on pilgrimage to Holy Land. [v. 307]

BOHUN, HUMPHREY III DE (d. 1187), baron; sewer to Stephen, 1140; taken prisoner at Winchester while fighting for Matilda, 1141; attended council at Clarendon, 1164; took Henry II's side in rebellion of Prince Henry, 1173. [v. 307]

BOHUN, HUMPHREY V DE, second EARL OF HEREFORD and first EARL OF ESSEX (d. 1274), constable of England; joined Richard of Cornwall against the king, 1237; marshal of the household, 1236; sheriff of Kent, 1299-41; took part in Henry's French expedition, 1242; joined federation of barons, 1268; justice itinerant, 1260; served with king against de Montfort, 1263; taken prisoner at Lewes, 1264. [v. 308]

BOHUN, HUMPHREY VII DE, third EARL OF HEREFORD and second EARL OF ESSEX (d. 1298), constable of England; served with Welsh army of occupation, 1286; joined Roger Bigod, earl of Norfolk [q. v.], in opposing Edward I's reforms; refused to serve in Gascony, and was deprived of office of constable, 1297. [v. 309]

BOHUN, HUMPHREY VIII DE, fourth EARL OF HEREFORD and third EARL OF ESSEX (1276-1322), constable of England; sent to oppose Robert Bruce, 1308; among barons who besieged Gaveston at Scarborough, 1312; taken prisoner at Bannockburn, 1314, and exchanged for Bruce's wife then captive in England; quelled rising in Wales, 1315; served in expedition against Scotland, 1318-19; took lead in denouncing the Despencers; defeated by king and slain at Boroughbridge, Yorkshire, 1322. [v. 309]

BOHUN, WILLIAM DE, EARL OF NORTHAMPTON (d. 1360), earl, 1337; son of Humphrey de Bohun VIII [q. v.]; king's lieutenant and captain-general in Brittany, 1342 and 1345-6; fought at Cressy; warlen of Scottish marches, 1350; in France, 1355, and Gascony, 1357-9. [v. 310]

BOILEAU, SIR JOHN PETER (1794-1869), archaeologist; second lieutenant of Rifle Corps, 1813; created baronet, 1838; F.R.S., 1843; F.S.A., 1852; vice-president Society of Antiquaries, 1858-62, and 1863-7, and of other scientific societies; sheriff in Norfolk, 1844; published archaeological papers. [v. 311]

BOIS, JOHN (1561-1644), translator of the bible; educated at St. John's and Magdalene Colleges, Cambridge; fellow of St. John's, 1580; Greek lecturer at Cambridge, 1584-96; appointed one of Cambridge translators for King James's bible, 1604, and member of board of revision; translated portions of Apocrypha and of the section from Chronicles to Canticles; assisted in Sir Henry Savile's edition of 'St. Chrysostom' (printed in 1610-13); prebendary of Ely, 1615; published treatise on Greek accents, 1630. His critical notes on passages in Greek Testament appeared posthumously, 1655. [v. 311]

BOISIL, SAINT (d. 664), superior of the monastery at Melrose; gives name to St. Boswell's, Roxburghshire; several religious writings are attributed to him. [v. 313]

BOISSIER, GEORGE RICHARD (1791-1861), ecclesiologist; B.A. Magdalene College, Cambridge, 1828; incumbent of Oakfield, Kent; published 'Notes on Cambridgeshire Churches,' 1827. [v. 313]

BOIT, CHARLES (d. 1726 ?), enamel painter; born at Stockholm; worked with success as enamel painter in London; ran into debt and fled to Paris, where he prospered; died in Paris. [v. 313]

BOITARD, LOUIS PETER (f. 1750), engraver; born in France; pupil of La Farge; executed in England portraits and plates for publications. [v. 314]

BOKENHAM or BOKENAM, OSBORN (1393-1447 ?), poet; professed member of Augustinian convent of Stoke Clare, Suffolk. His writings include poems in Suffolk dialect commemorating lives of twelve holy women and of the 11,000 virgins (Arundel MSS. Brit. Mus. No. 327, printed for Roxburghe Club, 1835). [v. 314]

BOOKINGHAM or BUCKINGHAM, JOHN (d. 1398), bishop; prebendary and, 1349, dean of Lichfield; prebendary of Lincoln, 1352; keeper of privy seal to Edward III; elected bishop of Ely, but election quashed by pope, 1361; bishop of Lincoln, 1363-97, and retired to Christ Church monastery, Canterbury; opponent of the Wyclifites. [v. 315]

BÖLCKOW, HENRY WILLIAM FERDINAND (1806-1878), ironmaster; born at Sulten, Mecklenburg; came to England, 1827; entered partnership, 1841, as manufacturer of iron at Middlesbrough, to which town he was an extensive benefactor, and (1853) first mayor; M.P., 1868. [v. 316]

BOLD, HENRY (d. 1677), divine; educated at Christ Church, Oxford; chaplain to Earl of Arlington. [v. 317]

BOLD, HENRY (1627-1683), poetical writer; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; probationer-fellow; dislodged, 1648; employed in the examiner's office in Chancery; published several volumes of poems in English and Latin and translations from Latin. [v. 316]

BOLD, JOHN (1679-1761), divine; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1698; curate of Stoney Stanton, 1703-1761; wrote religious works. [v. 317]

BOLD, SAMUEL (1649-1737), controversialist; vicar of Shapwick, Dorsetshire, 1674; resigned or was ejected, 1688; rector of Steeple Isle of Purbeck (1682-1737), to which Tyneham was united in 1721; preached against persecution, and published 'Plea for Moderation towards Dissenters,' 1682, for which he was fined and imprisoned. His works include tracts defending John Locke's philosophy. [v. 317]

BOLDERO, EDMUND (1608-1679), divine; M.A. and fellow of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1631; ejected from fellowship under Commonwealth and imprisoned; D.D., 1660; held rectories in Suffolk; master of Jesus College, Cambridge, 1663; vice-chancellor of university, 1668 and 1674. [v. 318]

BOLEYN, ANNE (1507-1536). [See ANNE.]

BOLEYN, GEORGE, VISCOUNT ROCHFORD (d. 1536), son of Sir Thomas Boleyn, earl of Wiltshire [q. v.]; and brother of Anne Boleyn; chief steward of honour of Beaulieu, 1529; governor of Bethlehem Hospital, 1629; knighted and created Viscount Rochford, c. 1530; warden of Cinque ports, 1534; arraigned for incest and high treason, and executed, 17 May, two days before his sister. [v. 319]

BOLEYN, GEORGE (d. 1603), divine; perhaps son of George Boleyn, viscount Rochford [q. v.]; sizar, Trinity Hall, Cambridge, 1544; M.A., 1560; prebendary of York, 1560; prebendary of Chichester; canon of Canterbury, 1566; D.D. and dean of Lichfield, 1576; prebendary of Dasset Parva, 1577-9. [v. 320]

BOLEYN, SIR THOMAS, EARL OF WILTSHIRE (1477-1539), lord privy seal; keeper of exchange at Calais and of foreign exchange in England, 1509; joint-constable of Norwich Castle, 1512; accompanied Sir Edward Poyning on embassy to Low Countries; took part in invasion of France, 1513; sheriff of Kent, 1517; went on embassy to Francis I, 1519-20, and negotiated arrangements for Field of Cloth of Gold; Wolsey's agent in conferences at Calais, 1521; joint-ambassador to Spain, 1522-3; treasurer of household, 1522; created Viscount Rochford, 1525; ambassador with Sir Anthony Browne to France, 1527; created Earl of Wiltshire and Ormonde, 1529; lord privy seal; ambassador to Charles V, 1530, and to France on business of Henry VIII's divorce; father of Queen Anne Boleyn. [v. 321]

BOLINGBROKE, EARL OF (1580?-1646). [See ST. JOHN, OLIVER.]

BOLINGBROKE, VISCOUNT (1678-1751). [See ST. JOHN, HENRY.]

BOLINGBROKE, HENRY (1785-1855), writer on Demerara, whither he made a voyage in 1798. [v. 323]

BOLLAND, SIR WILLIAM (1772-1840), judge; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1797; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1801; practised at Old Bailey; recorder of Reading, 1817-29; baron of exchequer, 1829-39; one of originators of Roxburghe Club. [v. 323]

BOLLARD, NICHOLAS (A. 1500?), naturalist; author of a manuscript work on cultivation of trees. [v. 324]

BOLRON, ROBERT (A. 1674-1680), informer; successively jeweller's apprentice, foot-soldier, and manager of Sir Thomas Gascoigne's collieries, Barmbow, Yorkshire; became party to popish plot against James II, and informed against Gascoigne, who was tried and acquitted. [v. 324]

BOLTON, DUKES OF. [See PAULET, CHARLES, first DUKE, 1625?-1699; PAULET, CHARLES, second DUKE, 1661-1729; PAULET, CHARLES, third DUKE, 1686-1764; PAULET, HARRY, sixth DUKE, 1719-1794.]

BOLTON, DUCHESS OF (1708-1780). [See FENTON, LAVINIA.]

BOLTON, first BARON (1746-1807). [See ORDE, THOMAS.]

BOLTON or BOULTON, EDMUND (1575?-1633?), historian and poet; free commoner, Trinity Hall, Cambridge; studied at Inner Temple; contributed to 'England's Helicon,' 1600; formulated a scheme, 1617, for a royal academy of letters and science, which was favourably received by James I, who died before it was carried out; subsequently imprisoned successively in Fleet and Marshalsea. Among his writings are 'The Roman Histories of Lucius Iulius Florus' (translated), 1618, 'Nero Cæsar,' 1624, and a life of Henry II. [v. 326]

BOLTON, SIR FRANCIS JOHN (1831-1887), soldier and electrician; enlisted in royal artillery; ensign in Gold Coast artillery corps, 1857; served at Crobhoze Heights, 1858; captain, 12th foot, 1860; engaged, with Captain (afterwards Rear-admiral) Philip Howard Colomb [q. v.], in developing system of visual signalling; brevet-major, 1868; assisted in founding Society of Telegraph Engineers and Electricians, 1871; lieutenant-colonel, 1877; honorary colonel, 1881; designed and controlled coloured fountains and electric lights for exhibitions at South Kensington, 1883-6; knighted, 1884. [Suppl. i. 230]

BOLTON, SIR GEORGE (d. 1807?), preceptor to royal princesses; knighted; wrote on firearms. [v. 327]

BOLTON, JAMES (A. 1775-1795), naturalist; of humble birth; published works on natural history. [v. 327]

BOLTON, JAMES JAY (1824-1863), evangelical divine; educated in America and at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; B.A., 1848; incumbent of St. Paul's Episcopal Chapel, Kilburn; published religious works. [v. 328]

BOLTON, SIR RICHARD (1570?-1648), lawyer; practised at English bar; recorder of Dublin, 1604; member of Society of King's Inn, Dublin, 1610-13; M.P. for Dublin, 1613; knighted, 1618; solicitor-general for Ireland, 1619; attorney-general to court of wards, Dublin, 1622; chief baron of Irish exchequer, 1625; chancellor of Ireland, 1639; chief adviser of Strafford in his attempts to introduce arbitrary government; impeached of high treason by Irish House of Commons, but the impeachment abandoned, 1641-2; one of principal counsellors of Ormonde in negotiating with Irish confederation concerning peace, 1644; published 'Statutes of Ireland,' 1621, and other legal writings. [v. 328]

BOLTON, ROBERT (1572-1631), puritan; educated at Blackburn and Lincoln and Brasenose colleges, Oxford; B.A., 1596; fellow of Brasenose and M.A., 1602; lecturer in logic and moral and natural philosophy; B.D., 1609; rector of Broughton, Northamptonshire, 1610-31; published religious works. [v. 330]

BOLTON, ROBERT (1697-1763), divine; M.A. Wadham College, Oxford, 1718; LL.D.; transferred to Hart Hall, 1719; fellow of Dulwich College, 1722-5; preacher at Rolls Chapel, London, 1729; dean of Carlisle, 1736, and vicar of St. Mary's, Reading, 1738-63; published religious works. [v. 332]

BOLTON, SAMUEL (1606-1654), divine; educated at Christ's College, Cambridge; member of Westminster assembly of divines, 1643; D.D.; master of Christ's College, 1645; vice-chancellor of Cambridge University, 1651; published religious works. [v. 333]

BOLTON, WILLIAM (d. 1532), architect; prior of monastery of St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield, c. 1506; said to have designed Henry VII's chapel in Westminster Abbey. [v. 335]

BOLTS, WILLEM or WILLIAM (1740?-1808), Dutch adventurer; merchant in Lisbon; entered Bengal civil service, 1769; second in council at Benares, 1764; resigned the service, being reprimanded for using the East India Company's authority for private trading scheme, 1766; deported to England, 1768; published work attacking government in Bengal; became colonel in Austrian service, 1778, and founded establishments in India for an Austrian East India Company; died in Paris. [v. 335]

BOMELIUS, ELISEUS or LICIUS (d. 1574?), physician and astrologer; born at Weel; M.D. Cambridge; physician and astrologer in London; arrested for practising without license of College of Physicians, 1567; 'open prisoner,' 1570; settled in Russia, 1570, and, as magician, gained favour of Ivan IV; arrested, c. 1574, on charges of intriguing with kings of Poland and Sweden against the tsar, and subsequently died in prison; published astrological works. [v. 334]

BONAR, ANDREW ALEXANDER (1810-1892), Scottish divine; brother of Horatius Bonar [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; licensed preacher, 1835; ordained minister of Collicae, Perthshire, 1838; joined Free church, 1843; minister of Finneston, Glasgow, 1856-92; published religious writings. [Suppl. I. 232]

BONAR, ARCHIBALD (1753-1816), divine; son of John Bonar the elder [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; minister successively at Newburn, Glasgow, and Cramond; published religious works. [v. 336]

BONAR, HORATIUS (1808-1889), Scottish divine; educated at Edinburgh University; engaged in mission work at Leith; minister of new North Church, Kelso, 1837; joined Free church, 1843; honorary D.D. Aberdeen, 1853; minister of Chalmers Memorial Church, Edinburgh, 1866; moderator of general assembly of Free church, 1883; edited several religious periodicals, and published hymns (including 'I heard the voice of Jesus say') and other religious writings. [Suppl. I. 231]

BONAR, JAMES (1757-1821), brother of Archibald Bonar [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; solicitor in excise office; treasurer of Royal Society, Edinburgh; promoter of Astronomical Institution; contributed to 'Encyclopædia Britannica' and 'Edinburgh Encyclopedia'. [v. 336]

BONAR, JOHN, the elder (1722-1761), Scottish divine; educated at Edinburgh University; minister of Cockpen, near Dalkeith, 1746; called to collegiate church of Perth, 1756; published sermons and other religious works. [v. 336]

BONAR, JOHN, the younger (1747-1807), first solicitor of excise in Scotland; son of John Bonar (1722-1761) [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; joint-editor of 'Miscellaneous Pieces of Poetry', 1765. [v. 336]

BONAR, JOHN JAMES (1803-1891), Scottish divine; brother of Horatius Bonar [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; D.D., 1883; licensed preacher, 1827; minister of St. Andrew's, Greenock, 1835; joined Free church, 1843; published religious handbooks. [Suppl. I. 232]

BONAVENTURA, THOMASINE (d. 1510?), Cornish benefactress; Cornish peasant girl; married successively three rich London merchants, the last being Sir John Percyvall, lord mayor, 1498; worked for the improvement of social conditions in Cornwall. [v. 336]

BOND, DANIEL (1726-1803), painter; exhibited landscapes at Society of Arts, 1762-3, and received premiums from the society, 1764 and 1765. [v. 337]

BOND, DENNIS (d. 1658), politician; woollen draper at Dorchester; bailiff, 1630; mayor, 1635; M.P., 1640; one of commissioners to try Charles I., 1649; member of council of state, 1649-53; president of council, 1652 and 1653; member of council's committee for trade, 1655; M.P. for Weymouth and Melcombe Regis, 1654 and 1656; buried in Westminster Abbey, but body exhumed, 1661. [v. 337]

BOND, SIR EDWARD AUGUSTUS (1815-1898), principal librarian of British Museum; educated at Merchant Taylors' School; assistant in Record Office, 1833, and in British Museum, 1838; Egerton librarian, 1880; keeper of manuscripts, 1866; principal librarian, 1878-88; substituted printed for manuscript catalogue in printed book department, and adopted sliding press for books; founded, with Sir E. Maunde Thompson, Palaeographical Society, 1873; O.B., 1885; K.C.B., 1898; honorary LL.D. Cambridge. He edited historical and other works. [Suppl. I. 232]

BOND, GEORGE (1750-1796), lawyer; barrister of Middle Temple; serjeant, 1786; practised at Surrey sessions. [v. 338]

BOND, HENRY JOHN HALES (1801-1883), physician; M.B. Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1825; M.D., 1831; studied at London, Edinburgh, and Paris; regius professor of physic, Cambridge, 1851-72. [v. 338]

BOND, JOHN (1560-1613), physician and classical scholar; M.A. Oxford, 1579; master of free school, Taunton; practised as physician; probably chief secretary to lord chancellor Egerton; M.P. for Taunton, 1601 and 1603; published commentaries on Horace (1609), and left notes on Persius (published posthumously, 1614). [v. 339]

BOND, JOHN (1612-1676), puritan divine; son of Dennis Bond [q. v.]; B.A. St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, 1631; fellow; M.A., 1635; LL.D., 1646; minister, 1646, and master of the Savoy; master of Trinity Hall, 1646; vice-chancellor of Cambridge University, 1658; professor of law, Gresham College, London, 1649; lost preferments at Restoration. [v. 340]

BOND, JOHN JAMES (1819-1883), chronologist; senior assistant keeper in public record office; compiled chronological tables. [v. 340]

BOND, JOHN LINNELL (1766-1837), architect, gold medallist, Royal Academy, 1786; prepared design for Waterloo Bridge. [v. 340]

BOND, MARTIN (1558-1643), merchant adventurer; son of William Bond (d. 1576) [q. v.]; chief captain of train-bands, 1588-1643; treasurer of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1619-36. [v. 340]

BOND, NATHANIEL (1634-1707), king's serjeant; son of Dennis Bond [q. v.]; B.O.L. All Souls' College, Oxford, 1654; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1661; M.P.; recorder of Weymouth, 1683; serjeant-at-law, 1689; king's serjeant and knighted, 1693. [v. 338]

BOND, NICHOLAS (1540-1608), president of Magdalen College, Oxford; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1564; fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1565-75; M.A. Oxford, 1574; D.D., 1580; canon of Westminster, 1582; chaplain of Savoy and chaplain in ordinary to queen; vice-chancellor of Oxford University, 1590-1 and 1592-3; president of Magdalen College, 1590. [v. 341]

BOND, OLIVER (1760?-1798), republican; wool merchant in Dublin; original member of 'Society of United Irishmen', 1791; tried and imprisoned in Newgate as secretary of society for publication of resolutions condemning government's policy towards Ireland and Catholics, 1793; directed organisation to establish independent Irish republic, 1798; found guilty of high treason; died in prison. [v. 341]

BOND, THOMAS (1765-1837), topographer; town clerk of East Looe and West Looe, Cornwall, on which places he published a topographical work (1823). [v. 342]

BOND, WILLIAM (d. 1576), sheriff of London in 1567. [v. 340]

BOND, WILLIAM (d. 1735), dramatist; wrote 'Tuscan Treaty' (acted at Covent Garden, 1733), and other works, including contributions to 'Plain Dealer', 1724. [v. 342]

BONE, HENRY (1755-1834), painter; employed in London as enameller; exhibited portraits in Royal Academy from 1780; enamel painter to Prince of Wales, 1800, and to the king 1801, till death; A.R.A., 1801; R.A., 1811. [v. 343]

BONE, HENRY PIERCE (1779-1855), painter; son of Henry Bone [q. v.]; painted classical subjects in oils, 1806-33, and subsequently in enamels. [v. 344]

BONE, ROBERT TREWICK (1790-1840), painter; brother of Henry Pierce Bone [q. v.]; painter of sacred, classic, and domestic subjects. [v. 344]

BONER, CHARLES (1815-1870), author; lived with Baron August Doernberg and, later, with Prince Thurn and Taxis in Germany and Ratisbon; special correspondent of 'Daily News' in Vienna, 1865; published poetical and other works. [v. 344]

BONHAM, SIR SAMUEL GEORGE (1803-1863), politician; employed under East India Company; governor of Penang, Singapore, and Malacca, 1837-47; governor of Hongkong and plenipotentiary and superintendent of trade in China, 1847; K.C.B., 1851; returned to England and was made baronet, 1863. [v. 345]

BONHAM, THOMAS (d. 1629?), physician; M.D. St. John's College, Cambridge, and incorporated at Oxford, 1611; his medical writings were published posthumously. [v. 345]

BONNOTE, ELIZABETH (1744-1818), authoress; published novels, essays, and other works, 1773-1810. [v. 345]

BONIFACE, SAINT (680-755), the apostle of Germany; born at Kirton or Crediton, Devonshire; his original name Winfrid or Winfrith; educated in monastery at Exeter, and at Nursling, near Winchester; ordained priest, c. 710; went to Frisia, 716, but being refused by Radbod, the pagan chief, permission to preach, returned to Nursling; went to Rome, 718, and obtaining letters of authority from Gregory II proceeded to Bavaria and Thuringia; on death of Radbod laboured successfully among Frisians and Hessians, 719-22; bishop, 723; instituted ecclesiastical organisation in Hessa and Thuringia; archbishop, 732; organised Bavarian church, 739; appointed legate to Pope Zacharias, and entrusted with reformation of Frankish church, 741; took possession of see of Mentz, with jurisdiction over sees of Worms, Cologne, Utrecht, and others established by him in Germany, 746; established monasteries at Fritzlar, Utrecht, Fulda, Amanaburg, and Ordorf or Ohdruf; slain with his followers by pagans at Dokkum on the Bordau. He left a set of ecclesiastical statutes, fifteen sermons, and other religious works. [v. 346]

BONIFACE OF SAVOY (d. 1270), archbishop; son of Thomas I, count of Savoy; entered Carthusian order; bishop of Belley, near Chambéry, 1234; undertook administration of bishopric of Valence, 1241; related to Henry III by the marriage of his sister Beatrix's daughter Eleanor; elected archbishop of Canterbury, 1241; came to England, 1244; reformed financial management of archbishopric; attended council of Lyons, 1244; returned to England, 1249; instituted visitation of province of Canterbury, which was strongly resisted; retired to Rome, 1250-2; made expedition to relieve his brother Thomas when imprisoned for tyranny by people of Turin, 1255; took part at first with bishops against king and pope, 1256, but joined papal legate in excommunicating rebellious barons (1263) at Boulogne; returned to England, 1265; died at St. Helena, Savoy, while accompanying Edward I on crusade. [v. 350]

BONINGTON, RICHARD PARKES (1801-1828), painter; studied water-colour painting under Louis Francia at Calais and at the Louvre and Institute, and under Baron Gros in Paris; first exhibited at Salon, 1822; made drawings for Baron Taylor's 'Voyages Pittoresques dans l'ancienne France' and other works; began to paint in oil-colours, c. 1824; visited England (1825), where he first exhibited, 1826; painted, in England, 'Deux femmes au milieu d'un paysage' (engraved for the 'Anniversary', 1826); died during visit to England. [v. 352]

BONNAR, GEORGE WILLIAM (1796-1836), wood-engraver; executed wood-engravings for Douce's edition of 'The Dance of Death', 1833, and other works. [v. 354]

BONNAR, WILLIAM (1800-1853), painter; foreman of decorative business; member of Royal Scottish Academy soon after its foundation. His pictures include portraits and historical, rural, and humorous pieces. [v. 354]

BONNEAU, JACOB (d. 1786), painter; expert of drawing and perspective; member of the Society of British Artists, exhibiting landscapes, 1765-78. [v. 355]

BONNELL, JAMES (1653-1699), accountant-general of Ireland; born of English parents at Genoa; came to England, his father (and himself in reversion) having been appointed accountant-general of Ireland in return for services to Charles II while in exile; educated at St. Catharine's Hall, Cambridge; undertook, c. 1684, duties of accountant-general of Ireland. He translated parts of Synesius into English. [v. 355]

BONNER or BONER, EDMUND (1500?-1569), bishop of London; educated at Pembroke College, Oxford; was ordained and took degrees of bachelor of canon and civil law, 1519; D.O.L., 1525; chaplain to Cardinal Wolsey, 1529; sent to Rome to protest against Henry VIII's being cited thither on the question of his divorce, 1532; received benefice of Cherry Burton, 1532; appealed in person to Clement VII against Henry's excommunication after marriage with Anne Boleyn, 1533; received living of East Dereham, Norfolk, 1534; bishop of Hereford and ambassador to French court, 1538; bishop of London, 1539; ambassador to the emperor, 1542-3; imprisoned in Fleet for non-acceptance of Edward VI's injunctions and the Book of Homilies, 1547; reprimanded for neglecting to enforce use of new prayer-book, and imprisoned in Marshalsea, 1549-53; deprived of bishopric for omission to set forth in a sermon at Paul's Cross that Edward's authority in his minority was not less than if he were of mature years; restored to his see, 1553; joined in judicial capacity with great severity in Marian persecution; refused oath of supremacy and was deprived of bishopric, 1559; died in the Marshalsea. [v. 356]

BONNER, RICHARD (fl. 1548), author of a treatise on the sacrament. [v. 360]

BONNEY, HENRY KAYE (1780-1862), divine; educated at Charterhouse, Emmanuel and Christ's colleges, Cambridge; M.A., 1805; D.D., 1824; prebendary of Lincoln, 1807; examining chaplain to Dr. Pelham, bishop of Lincoln, 1820; dean of Stamford, 1827. His published works include a life of Jeremy Taylor, 1815. [v. 360]

BONNOR, CHARLES (fl. 1777-1829?), actor; apprenticed as coachmaker; appeared successfully on stage at Bath, 1777, and played at Covent Garden, 1783; endeavoured ineffectually to establish an English theatre in Paris, 1784; appointed deputy-comptroller of the post-office and retired from stage, c. 1788; comptroller-general, 1788; comptroller of inland department, 1792-4. [v. 361]

BONNOR, THOMAS (fl. 1763-1807), topographical draughtsman; engraved plates for several county histories. [v. 362]

BONNYCASTLE, JOHN (1750?-1821), mathematical writer; kept an academy at Hackney; professor of mathematics, Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, c. 1782; wrote works on elementary mathematics. [v. 362]

BONNYCASTLE, SIR RICHARD HENRY (1791-1847), lieutenant-colonel royal engineers; first lieutenant, royal engineers, 1809; in American campaigns, 1812-14, and with army of occupation in France; served during Canadian rebellion of 1837-9; knighted, 1838; commanding engineer in Newfoundland; lieutenant-colonel, 1840; retired, 1847; published topographical works relating to America. [v. 363]

BONOMI, JOSEPH, the elder (1739-1808), architect; born at Rome; came to England, 1767; settled in practice in London, 1784; A.R.A., 1789; exhibited drawings at Royal Academy, 1783-1806. His works, which are chiefly in Grecian renaissance style, include several country mansions. [v. 363]

BONOMI, JOSEPH, the younger (1796-1878), sculptor and draughtsman; son of Joseph Bonomi (1739-1808) [q. v.]; student at Royal Academy; studied sculpture under Nollekens; visited Egypt with Lepsius, 1842; made drawings for Warren and Fahey's panoramas of Nile; curator of Soane's Museum, Lincoln's Inn Fields, 1861-78; illustrated egyptological works. [v. 364]

BONVILLE, ANTHONY, alias TERILL (1621-1676), jesuit; born at Canford; educated at St. Omer and English college, Rome; ordained priest, 1647; entered Society of Jesus, 1647; successively professor of philosophy at Florence and Parma, and of theology and mathematics at Liège; published philosophical and religious treatises. [v. 364]

BONVISI, ANTONIO (d. 1558), merchant; of Italian descent; probably born in London; dealt in wool, jewels, and foreign articles, and acted as banker to government; fled to continent at beginning of Edward VI's reign, being a catholic; died at Louvain. [v. 365]

BONWICKE, AMBROSE, the younger (1692-1714), nonjuror; son of Ambrose Bonwicke (1652-1722) [q. v.]; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and St. John's College, Cambridge, having been, as nonjuror, disqualified at Oxford. [v. 366]

BONWICKE, AMBROSE, the elder (1652-1722), nonjuror; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and St. John's College, Oxford; fellow; M.A., 1675; B.D., 1682; ordained priest, 1680; head-master of Merchant Taylors' School, 1686; refused oath of allegiance to William III, and was dismissed from head-mastership, 1691. [v. 366]

BONYTHON, CHARLES (d. 1705), lawyer; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1678; steward of courts of Westminster, 1683-1705; M.P. for Westminster, 1686-7; serjeant-at-law, 1692; committed suicide. [v. 367]

BONYTHON, RICHARD (1680-1650?), American settler; settled in Maine, America, 1681; commissioner for government of Maine, 1686; member of council, 1640-7. [v. 367]

BOOKER, JOHN (1603-1667), astrologer; apprenticed as haberdasher in London, and was subsequently writing-master at Hadley and clerk in the city; became professional astrologer; licenser of mathematical works; published 'Telescopium Uranium,' an almanack, from 1631, 'Bloody Irish Almanack,' and other works. [v. 368]

BOOKER, LUKE (1762-1835), divine and poet; rector of Tedstone-de-la-Mere, Herefordshire, 1806, and, in addition, vicar of Dudley, 1812; published history of Dudley Castle, 1826, and poetical and religious works. [v. 368]

BOOLDE, WILLIAM (fl. 1456), monk and 'notarius' of Christ Church, Canterbury; wrote historical and topographical works. [v. 369]

BOOLE, GEORGE (1815-1864), mathematician; opened a school in Lincolnshire, c. 1835; professor of mathematics, Queen's College, Cork, 1849-64; public examiner, Queen's University; Royal Society metallist, 1844; Keith metallist, Royal Society, Edinburgh, 1857; LL.D. Dublin; D.C.L. Oxford; published, besides textbooks on 'Differential Equations,' 'Finite Differences,' and other mathematical treatises, 'Laws of Thought' (1854), in which he employed symbolic language and notation in a generalisation of logical processes, the fundamental principle being that of continued dichotomy. [v. 369]

BOONE, JAMES SHERGOLD (1799-1859), author; educated at Charterhouse and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1823; master at Charterhouse; incumbent of St. John's, Paddington, 1832-59; edited 'The Council of Ten,' 1822-3; published sermons, essays, and poems. [v. 370]

BOORDE or BORDE, ANDREW (1490 ?-1549), physician and traveller; educated at Oxford; joined Carthusians; suffragan bishop of Chichester, c. 1521; studied medicine abroad; took oath of conformity at London Charterhouse, 1534; sent abroad by Cromwell to report on state of feeling about Henry VIII, 1535; practised medicine at Glasgow, 1536; journeyed to Jerusalem, 1538; settled at Montpellier, c. 1538-42; imprisoned in Fleet, 1549; published accounts of his travels and treatises on medical subjects. [v. 371]

BOOT, ARNOLD (1600 ?-1653 ?). [See BOATE.]

BOOTH, ABRAHAM (1734-1806), dissenting minister; superintendent of Kirby-Woodhouse baptist congregation, 1760; ordained pastor of Particular baptist church, Little Prescott Street, Goodman's Fields, 1769; published works vindicating baptist doctrine. [v. 373]

BOOTH, BARTON (1681-1793), actor; educated at Westminster; appeared as Oroonoko at Smock Alley Theatre, Dublin, 1698; engaged by Berteton at Lincoln's Inn Fields, 1700-4, and accompanied him to newly erected Haymarket Theatre, 1708; played Ghost to Wilks's Hamlet at Drury Lane, 1708; gained great reputation by his performance of Pyrrhus in Philips's 'Distressed Mother,' 1712, and Cato in Addison's tragedy, 1713; became by command of Queen Anne joint-manager with Colley Cibber, Doggett, and Wilks, of Drury Lane, c. 1713; retired, 1727; published 'Death of Dido, a Masque,' 1716. Among his best impersonations were Brutus, Lear, Henry VIII, and Hotspur. [v. 374]

BOOTH, BENJAMIN (fl. 1789), writer on book-keeping; merchant in New York and afterwards in London; published a system of bookkeeping, 1789. [v. 376]

BOOTH, Mrs. CATHERINE (1829-1890), 'mother of the Salvation Army'; daughter of John Mumford, a coachbuilder; came to London, 1844, and joined Wesleyan church in Brixton; excommunicated with 'reformers' from Wesleyan church, 1848; married, 1856, William Booth, pastor of reformers, who held, 1868-61, a ministry at Gateshead, where Mrs. Booth first appeared as preacher, 1860; founded at Whitechapel with her husband, 1865, 'Christian Revival Association'; which by 1877 had developed into the 'Salvation Army'; published many religious papers and addresses. [Suppl. 1, 233]

BOOTH, DAVID (1766-1846), lexicographer; brewer near Newburgh, Fifeshire, and, later, schoolmaster at Newburgh; came to London and superintended for press publications of Society for Diffusion of Useful Knowledge, c. 1820; published first volume of an 'Analytical Dictionary of English Language' (1835), and other works. [v. 376]

BOOTH, EDWARD (1639-1719). [See BARLOW.]

BOOTH, SIR FELIX (1775-1850), promoter of Arctic exploration; head of firm of Booth & Co., distillers; sheriff of London and Middlesex, 1828; provided funds for Captain Ross's voyage of discovery in north-eastern America, 1828; baronet, 1835. [v. 377]

BOOTH, GEORGE, first BARON DELAMER or DELAMERE (1622-1684), took parliamentary side in civil war; military commissioner for Cheshire and treasurer-at-war, 1656; M.P. for Cheshire, 1645, 1654, and 1666; joined 'New Royalists'; entered plot for restoring Charles, and commanded king's forces in Cheshire, Lancashire, and North Wales, 1659; seized Chester, but was defeated by Lambert at Nantwich; apprehended, but released on bail; raised to peerage at Charles II's coronation; custos rotulorum in county of Chester, 1660-73. [v. 377]

BOOTH, GEORGE, second EARL OF WARRINGTON (1675-1758), lord-lieutenant of Chester, 1694; published pamphlet in defence of divorce for incompatibility of temper, 1739. [v. 379]

BOOTH, GEORGE (1791-1859), divine; M.A. Lincoln College, Oxford, 1816; B.D., 1823; fellow, Magdalen College, Oxford, 1816-34, vice-president, 1830, and dean of divinity, 1832; vicar of Findon, 1833; published Latin verses. [v. 380]

BOOTH, HENRY, second BARON DELAMERE and first EARL OF WARRINGTON (1652-1694), custos rotulorum of county of Chester, 1673-c. 1683; committed to Tower on suspicion of being concerned in Rye House plot, 1683, but released on bail; charged with complicity in Monmouth's rebellion, and acquitted, 1685; took up arms for Prince of Orange, 1688; one of those deputed to advise James to retire from the metropolis; privy councillor, 1689; chancellor of exchequer, 1689-90; lord-lieutenant of city and county of Chester; reappointed custos rotulorum of the county; created Earl of Warrington, 1690; mayor of Chester, 1691. [v. 380]

BOOTH, HENRY (1788-1869), railway projector; corn merchant at Liverpool; honorary secretary to committee for promoting railway between Liverpool and Manchester, 1822, and secretary and treasurer to company, 1826; secretary to northern section of London and North-Western Railway company, 1846; director, 1848-1849; published writings on questions relating to railways and other subjects, and invented many mechanical contrivances still in use on railways. [v. 382]

BOOTH, JAMES (d. 1778), lawyer; licensed and practised as conveyancer, being disabled as Roman catholic from practising at bar. [v. 384]

BOOTH, JAMES (1806-1878), mathematician; M.A., 1840, Trinity College, Dublin; LL.D., 1842; principal of Bristol College, 1840-3; ordained, 1842; vice-principal of Liverpool Collegiate Institution, 1843-8; vicar of Stone, near Aylesbury, 1859; F.R.S., 1846; F.R.A.S., 1859; published works on mathematics and education. [v. 384]

BOOTH, JAMES (1796-1880), legal writer; educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1824; practised in chancery courts; counsel to speaker of House of Commons, 1839; secretary to board of trade, 1850-65; C.B., 1866. He prepared the Clauses Consolidation Acts, and published legal writings. [v. 385]

BOOTH, JOHN (1854-1859), genealogist; made researches into Cheshire pedigrees. [v. 385]

BOOTH, JOHN (1779-1857), cattle breeder; son of Thomas Booth (d. 1835) [q. v.]. [v. 389]

BOOTH, JUNIUS BRUTUS (1796-1852), actor; first appeared on stage at a theatre in Pancras Street, London, 1813, and subsequently played in Belgium and Holland; at Covent Garden as Sylvius ('As you like it'), 1816; acting manager at Worthing; played Richard III at Covent Garden, fago to Kean's Othello at Drury Lane, and, returning to Covent Garden, gave Richard III amid general disapproval, 1817; in America from 1821 till 1852, except from 1825-6, when he played Brutus at Drury Lane and travelled on continent, and 1838-7, when he appeared at several London theatres. [v. 386]

BOOTH or BOTHE, LAWRENCE (d. 1480), archbishop of York; licentiate in civil and canon law; Pembroke Hall, Cambridge; master, 1450; chancellor of university; prebendary and, 1456, dean of St. Paul's; provost of Beverley, 1453; prebendary of York and of Lichfield; chancellor to Queen Margaret; keeper of privy seal, c. 1456; tutor to Prince of Wales; bishop of Durham, 1457; suspended, 1462-4; keeper of great seal, 1473-4; archbishop of York, 1476. [v. 387]

BOOTH, PENISTON (1681-1765), dean of Windsor, 1729; chancellor of London, 1733; D.D. [v. 388]

BOOTH, RICHARD (1788-1864), cattle breeder at Studley and, 1835, at Warlaby; son of Thomas Booth (d. 1835) [q. v.] [v. 390]

BOOTH, ROBERT (d. 1657), puritan divine; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1610; minister of Halifax, 1650-7; left philosophical manuscript. [v. 389]

BOOTH, SIR ROBERT (1626-1681), chief-justice of king's bench in Ireland; son of Robert Booth [q. v.]; educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1649; judge of common pleas, Ireland, 1660; knighted, 1668; chief-justice of common pleas (1669) and of king's bench (1679) in Ireland. [v. 389]

BOOTH, SARAH (1738-1867), actress; at Surrey Theatre, 1810, and Covent Garden, where, later, she played Cordelia to Junius Brutus Booth's Lear. [v. 389]

BOOTH, THOMAS (A. 1611), divine; B.D. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1609. [v. 390]

BOOTH, THOMAS (d. 1835), cattle breeder, at Killerby, Yorkshire, and, 1819, at Warlaby; raised a greatly improved breed of shorthorns. [v. 390]

BOOTH or BOTHE, WILLIAM (1390 ?-1464), archbishop of York; half-brother of Lawrence Booth [q. v.]; studied at Gray's Inn and Pembroke Hall, Cambridge; prebendary of Southwell, 1416; sub-dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, c. 1420, and chancellor, 1421; prebendary of Lincoln, 1420, and of St. Paul's, 1421; bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, 1447; archbishop of York, 1452. [Suppl. I. 235]

BOOTH, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1703), captain in the navy; captain, 1673; served against Algerine pirates in Mediterranean; knighted and appointed commissioner of navy, 1689; engaged in unsuccessful plot to assist James II., and fled to France. [v. 391]

BOOTHBY, SIR BROOKE (1743-1824), baronet and poet; friend of the Edgeworths and the Lichfield literary circle; published poems and works on political questions of the day. [v. 391]

BOOTHBY, MISS HILL (1708-1758), friend of Dr. Johnson, her letters to whom were published in 1805. [v. 391]

BOOTHBY, LOUISA CRANSTOUN, LADY (1812 ?-1858). [See NISBETT.]

BOOTHROYD, BENJAMIN (1768-1836), independent minister and Hebrew scholar; ordained minister, 1790, at Pontefract, where he opened a shop as bookseller and printer; co-pastor at Highfield chapel, Huddersfield, 1818; LL.D.; D.D. Glasgow, 1824; published at his own press a Hebrew bible, 1810-13, a 'Family Bible,' 1818, and other works. [v. 392]

BOOTT, FRANÇOIS (1792-1863), physician; born in Boston, United States; educated at Harvard; made several journeys to England; M.D. Edinburgh, 1824; practised in London; F.L.S., 1819, secretary, 1832-9, and treasurer, 1856-61; published botanical and medical works. [v. 393]

BORDE, ANDREW (1490 ?-1549). [See BOORDE.]

BORDWINE, JOSEPH (d. 1835), professor at Addiscombe; born in America; served under General Whitlock; professor of fortification at East India Company's College, Addiscombe; published work on fortification. [v. 393]

BOREMAN or BOUREMAN, ROBERT (d. 1675), royalist divine; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; B.A., 1631; fellow, 1634; M.A., 1635; deprived of fellowship; restored, 1660; D.D., 1660; prebendary of Westminster, 1667; published religious works, including a pamphlet directed against Richard Baxter. [v. 394]

BORGARD, ALBERT (1659-1751), lieutenant-general; born at Holbeck; served in Danish army against Sweden, 1675-9; fire-worker, 1679; served in Polish and Prussian armies; lieutenant-colonel under Lord Galway in Spain and Portugal; chief fire master in England, 1712; formed, and became colonel-commandant of, regiment of royal artillery, 1722; lieutenant-general, 1739. [v. 395]

BORGARUCCI, GIULIO (A. 1564-1579), physician; came to England as protestant refugee; M.O.P.; M.D. Cambridge, 1572; successfully treated plague in London (1563) by bleeding; physician to royal household for life, 1573. [v. 396]

BORINGDON, JOHN, second BARON (1772-1840). [See PARKER, JOHN.]

BORLAND, JAMES (1774-1863), inspector-general of army hospitals; surgeon's mate, 42nd highlanders, 1792; served in Flanders, West Indies, and Helder expedition, 1793-9; inspector-general of army hospitals, 1807; reported, with Dr. Lemprière and Sir Gilbert Blane [q. v.] on state of health at Walcheren; M.D.; principal medical officer in Mediterranean, 1810-16; honorary physician to H.R.H. Duke of Kent. [v. 396]

BORLASE or BURLACE, EDMUND (d. 1682), historical writer; educated at Dublin; doctor of physic, Leyden, 1650; practised at Chester; M.D. Oxford, 1660; published works on Irish history. [v. 397]

BORLASE, HENRY (1806-1835), separatist clergyman; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1828; took orders in established church, but subsequently joined 'Plymouth Brethren'; published religious writings. [v. 398]

BORLASE, SIR JOHN (1576-1648), soldier; master of ordnance in Ireland, 1633-49; lord justice in Ireland, 1640-4. [v. 398]

BORLASE, WILLIAM (1695-1772), antiquary; M.A. Exeter College, Oxford; presented, 1722, to living of Ludgvan, near Penzance, to which the vicarage of St. Just was added, 1732; published, in 'Philosophical Transactions,' essay on Cornish diamonds, and was made F.R.S., 1760; subsequently produced several works, including 'Cornish Antiquities,' 1754; LL.D., 1766; presented collections to Ashmolean Museum. [v. 398]

BOROUGH, CHRISTOPHER (A. 1579-1587), traveller; son of Stephen Borough [q. v.]; acted as Russian interpreter to Muscovy Company's expedition into Persia and Media, 1579. His account of the journey appears in Hakluyt. [v. 399]

BOROUGH, BURGH, or DE BURGO, JOHN (d. 1386), divine; D.D. Cambridge; chancellor of the university, 1384; rector of Collingham, Nottinghamshire; wrote theological works. [v. 400]

BOROUGH, SIR JOHN (d. 1643), Garter king-of-arms; studied at Gray's Inn; keeper of Tower records, 1623; Norroy king-of-arms, 1623; knighted, 1624; Garter king-of-arms, 1634; attended Charles I during civil war; clerk to conferences between royalists and parliamentarians at York, Ripon, and London; D.C.L. Oxford, 1643; wrote historical works, some of which were printed posthumously. [v. 401]

BOROUGH, STEPHEN (1525-1584), navigator; served as master in the only successful ship of three which attempted the first voyage of the English to Russia, 1553; discovered Russia and named North Cape; discovered entrance to Kara Sea, 1556; took charge of fleet of three ships of merchant adventurers on voyage to Muscovy, 1560, and probably again in 1561; chief pilot and one of four masters of queen's ships in Medway, 1563-64; wrote records of his voyages, some of which were published in Hakluyt. [v. 402]

BOROUGH, WILLIAM (1536-1599), navigator and author; brother of Stephen Borough [q. v.], with whom, as common seaman, he sailed to Russia, 1553, 1556, and 1557; engaged in voyages to St. Nicholas, 1558-68; accompanied voyage to discover passage to Cathay, 1568; dispersed pirates in Gulf of Finland, 1570; agent to merchant adventurers journeying between St. Nicholas, Moscow, and Narva, 1574-5; comptroller of queen's navy; probably commanded fleet at Flushing, 1585; vice-admiral under Drake in expedition to Cadiz, 1587, when he was put under arrest for questioning Drake on wisdom of an attack on Lagos; commanded a vessel against Armada, 1588. His works include a treatise on variation of compass, several charts, and accounts of his voyages (printed in Hakluyt). [v. 404]

BORRELL, H. P. (d. 1851), numismatist; engaged in trade at Smyrna; published writings on numismatics. [v. 406]

BORRER, WILLIAM (1781-1862), botanist; fellow of Royal, Linnean, and Wernerian societies; contributed to botanical publications. [v. 406]

BORROW, GEORGE (1803-1881), author; educated at Edinburgh High School; articulated to solicitor at Norwich; adopted literature as profession; assisted in compiling 'Newgate Calendar'; toured through England and journeyed in France, Germany, Russia, Spain, and the East, studying the language of each country he visited; agent for British and Foreign Bible Society; settled at Oulton Broad, where he became celebrated for his promiscuous hospitality; published translations and several volumes, including 'Bible in Spain' (1843), 'Gypsies in Spain' (1841), 'Lavengro' (1851), and 'Romany Rye' (1857), relating to his travels, and marked by their idealisation of an open air and vagrant life. [v. 407]

BORSTALE, THOMAS (d. 1290?), theologian; Augustinian friar at Norwich; D.D. Sorbonne, Paris. [v. 408]

BORTHWICK, DAVID (d. 1881), lord advocate of Scotland; educated at St. Leonard's College, St. Andrews; called to bar, 1849; legal adviser to Bothwell; king's advocate and lord of session, 1873. [v. 408]

BORTHWICK, PETER (1804-1852), editor of the 'Morning Post'; educated at Edinburgh University and Jesus College, Cambridge; fellow-commoner, Downing College; spoke against abolition of slavery; M.P. for Evesham, 1835-47; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1847; editor of 'Morning Post,' 1850-2; published speeches. [v. 409]

BORTHWICK, WILLIAM, fourth BARON BORTHWICK (d. 1842), guardian of James V, 1513. [v. 410]

BORTHWICK, WILLIAM (1760-1820), general; served in royal artillery in Flanders; prepared siege trains for Ciudad Rodrigo and Badajoz, 1812; major-general, 1812. [v. 410]

BORTON, SIR ARTHUR (1814-1893), general and governor of Malta; educated at Eton; ensign, 9th foot, 1832; colonel, 1854; major-general, 1868; lieutenant-general, 1875; general, 1877; colonel of Norfolk regiment, 1889; served in Afghanistan campaign, 1842, Satlaj campaign, 1845-6, Crimea, 1854-6, and Canada, 1866; commanded Mair division of Madras army, 1870-5; K.O.B., 1877; governor and commander-in-chief of Malta, 1878-1884; G.O.M.G., 1880; G.C.B., 1884. [Suppl. i. 235]

BORUWLASKI or BORUSLAWSKI, JOSEPH (1739-1837), dwarf; born at Halicz, Polish Galicia; enjoyed, until his marriage, the patronage of Countess Humiecka, with whom he travelled in France, Holland, and Germany; came to England, where he lived chiefly on proceeds of concerts; published 'Memoirs' in French and English (the English a translation by M. des Carrières), 1788. [v. 410]

BOSA (d. 705), bishop; monk of Hilda's monastery at Streoneshalch (Whitby); bishop of York, 678, on division of Wilfrid's diocese by Egfrith and Archbishop Theodore; superseded by Wilfrid, 686, but probably reinstated, 691. [v. 411]

BOSANQUET, CHARLES (1769-1850), city merchant; governor of South Sea Company; high sheriff of Northumberland, 1828, and J.P. and D.L. for that county; lieutenant-colonel, 1819, and later colonel of light horse volunteers; published economic treatises. [v. 412]

BOSANQUET, JAMES WHATMAN (1804-1877), chronologist; educated at Westminster; became partner in banking-house of Bosanquet, Salt & Co.; published works embodying researches into biblical and Assyrian chronology. [v. 412]

BOSANQUET, SIR JOHN BERNARD (1778-1847), judge; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1800; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1800; counsel to East India Company and to Bank of England; serjeant-at-law, 1814; king's serjeant, 1827; presided over commission to inquire into practice of common law courts, 1828-30; judge of common pleas and knighted, 1830; privy councillor, 1833; lord commissioner of great seal, 1856-8. [v. 413]

BOSANQUET, SAMUEL RICHARD (1800-1882), author; educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1829; called to bar at Inner Temple; one of revising barristers appointed on passing of Reform Act, 1832; chairman of Monmouthshire quarter sessions; published miscellaneous works, including 'Hindoo Chronology and Antediluvian History.' [v. 413]

BOSCAWEN, FAMILY OF. The first member of importance, Hugh (d. 1641), recorder of Truro, whose son Edward was father of Hugh, first viscount Falmouth [q. v.], from whom was descended Edward [q. v.], the admiral, whose youngest son, George Evelyn, was third viscount; George Evelyn's son, Edward [q. v.], became first Earl of Falmouth. [v. 414]

BOSCAWEN, EDWARD (1711-1761), admiral, third son of Hugh, first viscount Falmouth [q. v.]; lieutenant, 1732; served at Porto Bello, 1739-40, at Cartagena, 1741; commanded small squadron in Soundings, 1746; wounded off Finisterre, 1747; appointed commander-in-chief by land and sea in East Indies, 1747; unsuccessfully attempted to reduce Pondicherry; nominally M.P. for Truro after 1741; lord commissioner of admiralty, 1751-61; vice-admiral, 1755; commanded on North American station, in Channel, off Brest, and in Bay of Biscay at intervals between 1755 and 1757; second in command under Hawke, 1757; admiral of the blue, 1758; commander-in-chief of fleet at siege of Louisbourg, 1758; privy councillor, 1759; commanded squadron in Mediterranean, and defeated French in Lagos Bay, 1759; general of marines; commanded fleet in Quiberon Bay, 1760; his portrait was painted by Reynolds. [v. 415]

BOSCAWEN, EDWARD, first EARL OF FALMOUTH (1787-1841), son of George Evelyn, third viscount Falmouth; ensign in Coldstream guards; recorder of Truro; created earl, 1820. [v. 419]

BOSCAWEN, HUGH, first VISCOUNT FALMOUTH (d. 1734), M.P. for Tregony, 1702-5, county of Cornwall, 1705-10, Truro, 1710-13, and Penryn, 1713-1720; steward of duchy of Lancaster and lord warden of the Stannaries, 1708; comptroller of household, 1714-20; joint vice-treasurer of Ireland, 1717-34; raised to peerage, 1720. [v. 420]

BOSCAWEN, WILLIAM (1752-1811), author; nephew of Edward Boscawen (1711-1761) [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Exeter College, Oxford; commissioner of victualling office, 1785; published translations of Horace and other works. [v. 420]

BOSGRAVE, JAMES (1547?-1633), jesuit; entered Society of Jesus at Rome, 1564; ordained priest, 1572; came to England, 1580; suffered much persecution, and was sent into exile, 1585; died in Poland. [v. 420]

BOSHAM, HERBERT DE (f. 1162-1186). [See HERBERT.]

BOBO (d. 1181?), third English cardinal; nephew of Nicholas Breakspear, pope Adrian IV [q. v.]; monk of St. Albans; joined Adrian at Rome; cardinal-priest, 1155; wrote in verse lives of female saints. [v. 421]

BOSSAM, JOHN (f. 1550), painter and draughtsman in black and white. [v. 422]

BOSSEWELL, JOHN (f. 1572), antiquary and public notary; published writings on heraldry. [v. 423]

BOSTE or BOAST, JOHN (1543?-1594), catholic priest; M.A. Oxford; entered English College, Douay (temporarily removed to Rheims); ordained priest; joined English mission, 1581; executed. [v. 422]

BOSTOCK, JOHN (d. 1465). [See WRETHAMSTEDE.]

BOSTOCK, JOHN, the elder (1740-1774), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1769; extra licentiate, College of Physicians, London, 1770; practised in Liverpool; physician to Royal Infirmary. [v. 422]

BOSTOCK, JOHN, the younger (1773-1846), physician, son of John Bostock (1740-1774) [q. v.]; M.D. Edinburgh, 1798; practised in Liverpool; removed (1817) to London, where he abandoned medicine for general science; lectured on chemistry at Guy's Hospital; F.R.S.; president, Geological Society, 1826; vice-president, Royal Society, 1832; chief work, 'System of Physiology,' 1824. [v. 422]

BOSTON BURIENSIS (A. 1410), or JOHN BOSTON OF BURY, bibliographer: Augustinian monk of Bury St. Edmund's; wrote 'Catalogus Scriptorum Ecclesie', a list, with authors' names, of books, in libraries of English monasteries and elsewhere; and 'Speculum Cœnobitarum,' an account of origin of monastic life. [v. 423]

BOSTON, THOMAS, the elder (1677-1739), Scottish divine; employed in office of Alexander Cockburn, writer to signet, 1689; M.A. Edinburgh, 1694; studied theology, 1690-1701; parish schoolmaster at Glencairn, 1696; ordained minister at Sliprin, Berwickshire, 1699; clerk of synod, 1701; minister at Ettrick, 1707-32; basing his views on a work entitled 'Marrow of Modern Divinity,' he, with eleven others, opposed act of assembly (1720) condemning the book, the twelve being nicknamed 'the twelve apostles' and 'Marrow-men'; published religious works, a treatise on Hebrew accents appearing posthumously. [v. 424]

BOSTON, THOMAS, the younger (1713-1767), Scottish relief minister; son of Thomas Boston (1677-1739) [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh University; ordained, 1733; minister at Oxnam, Roxburghshire, 1749; prohibited by presbytery, 1758, from employment in any office; continued in his ministry at Jedburgh in independent capacity, and with Thomas Gillespie and another minister formed, 1761, new ecclesiastical body called 'presbytery of relief,' of which Boston was first moderator. [v. 426]

BOSVILLE, WILLIAM (1745-1813), bon vivant; lieutenant, 1769; served in American war; retired from army, 1777; travelled in France, Italy, and Morocco, and subsequently settled in Welbeck Street, London, where he became renowned for his hospitality. [v. 427]

BOSWELL, ALEXANDER, LORD AUCHINLECK (1706-1782), Scottish judge; graduated at Leyden, 1727; member of Faculty of Advocates, 1729; sheriff-depute of Wigtownshire, 1748-50; lord of session, 1754; lord justiciary, 1755-80. [v. 428]

BOSWELL, SIR ALEXANDER (1775-1822), antiquary and poet; eldest son of James Boswell the elder [q. v.]; educated at Westminster and Oxford; settled at Auchinleck, where he established a private press, 1815, and issued a series of reprints of old poems under title of 'Fronde Caduceæ,' 1816-18; member of Roxburgh Club, 1819; conservative M.P. for Plympton, Devonshire, 1818 and 1820; accepted Chiltern Hundreds, 1821; created baronet, 1821; died from effects of duel with James Stuart of Dunearn, whom he had attacked in the 'Glasgow Sentinel'; originated the idea of erecting on banks of the Doon the monument to Burns; published poetical and antiquarian writings, and edited several reprints of old works. [v. 428]

BOSWELL, CLAUD IRVINE, LORD BALMUTO (1742-1824), Scottish judge; nephew of James Boswell, the elder [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh University; member of Faculty of Advocates, 1766; lord of session, 1799-1822. [v. 430]

BOSWELL, EDWARD (1760-1842), solicitor; published antiquarian works. [v. 430]

BOSWELL, JAMES, the elder (1740-1795), biographer of Johnson; son of Alexander Boswell, lord Auchinleck [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh High School and university; studied law at Glasgow under Adam Smith, and at Edinburgh; made acquaintance of Johnson in London, 1768; studied civil law at Utrecht, 1765, and travelled thence to Berlin and Geneva, meeting Voltaire and Rousseau; made acquaintance of Wilkes in Italy, and was introduced to General Paoli in Corsica; returned to England, 1766; advocate, 1766; published 'Account of Corsica,' 1768, and 'Essays in Favour of the Brave Corsicans,' 1769; took part in Shakespearean jubilee celebration at Stratford, 1769; made frequent visits to Johnson in London between 1772 and 1784; toured with Johnson in Hebrides, August to November, 1773; elected member of Literary Club, 1773; began to keep terms at Inner Temple, 1775; succeeded to his father's estate, 1782; published 'Letter to People of Scotland on Present State of the Nation,' hoping to gain political influence, 1783; published 'Journal of Tour to Hebrides,' the work being revised by Malone, 1788; called to English bar, 1786; recorder of Carlisle, 1788-90; came to reside in London, 1789; published 'Life of Johnson' (also previously revised by Malone), 1791; secretary of foreign correspondence to Royal Academy, 1791. His portrait was painted by Reynolds. [v. 431]

BOSWELL, JAMES, the younger (1778-1822), lawyer; second surviving son of James Boswell the elder [q. v.]; educated at Westminster and Brasenose College, Oxford; M.A., 1806; Vinerian fellow; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1806; commissioner of bankrupts; completed second edition of Malone's Shakespeare; member of Roxburgh Club; edited third variorum Shakespeare, 1821. [v. 438]

BOSWELL, JOHN (1698-1767), author; B.A. Balliol College, Oxford, 1720; tutor; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge; prebendary of Wells, 1736; published miscellaneous works. [v. 439]

BOSWELL, ROBERT (1746-1804), psalmist; writer to signet; teaching elder in church of 'Sandemanians,' Edinburgh; published metrical version of Psalms. [v. 440]

BOSWELL, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1649), diplomatist; fellow, Jesus College, Cambridge, 1606; secretary to Sir Dudley Carleton, when ambassador at the Hague, succeeding him in the post; knighted, 1633; continued Carleton's policy at the Hague, and supported Gomarists against Barneveldt and the 'remonstrants.' [v. 440]

BOSWORTH, JOSEPH (1789-1876), Anglo-Saxon scholar; M.A. and LL.D. Aberdeen; member of Trinity College, Cambridge; vicar of Little Horwood, Buckinghamshire, 1817-29; chaplain at Amsterdam, 1829, and afterwards at Rotterdam; D.D. Cambridge, 1839; incorporated member of Christ Church, Oxford, 1857; Rawlinson professor of Anglo-Saxon, Oxford, 1858; F.R.S.; published 'Anglo-Saxon Dictionary,' 1838, and translated Ælfred's 'Orosius,' 1855. [v. 440]

BOSWORTH, WILLIAM (1607-1650?), poetical writer. A volume of his poems was published posthumously in 1651. [v. 442]

BOTELER. [See BUTLER.]

BOTELER, EDWARD (d. 1670), divine; fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge; ejected, 1644; king's chaplain, 1660; prebendary of Lincoln, 1665. [v. 442]

BOTELER, NATHANIEL (A. 1625-1627), navy captain; served in expeditions to Cadiz and Isle of Ré; wrote an account of naval customs (published, 1685). [v. 442]

BOTELER, WILLIAM FULDER (1777-1845), commissioner of bankruptcy; educated at Charterhouse and St. John's College, Cambridge; senior wrangler, 1799; fellow of St. Peter's College; M.A., 1802; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1804; K.C., 1831; senior commissioner of district court of bankruptcy, Leeds, 1844. [v. 442]

BOTEVILLE, FRANÇOIS (1545?-1608). [See THYNNE.]

BOTEVILLE, WILLIAM (d. 1546). [See THYNNE.]

BOTFIELD, BERIAH (1807-1863), bibliographer; educated at Harrow and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1828; sheriff of Northamptonshire, 1831; M.P. for Ludlow, 1840-7, and 1867-68; established private press at Norton Hall, Northamptonshire. His publications include 'Notes on Cathedral Libraries of England,' 1849, and editions for the Roxburghe, Maitland, Abbotsford, and Bannatyne clubs, and Surtees Society. [v. 443]

BOTHWELL, EARLS OF. [See HEPBURN, PATRICK, third EARL, 1512?-1556; HEPBURN, JAMES, fourth EARL, 1556?-1575; HEPBURN, FRANCIS STEWART, fifth EARL, d. 1624.]

BOTHWELL, ADAM (1527?-1593), divine; bishop of Orkney, 1559; on commission for revising Book of Discipline, 1563; lord of session, 1565; performed, after protestant form, marriage ceremony of Mary Queen of Scots and James Hepburn, earl of Bothwell, at Holyrood House, and crowned and anointed Mary's son, Charles James, at Stirling, 1567; suspended from ministry for solemnising the marriage, 1567-8; exchanged greater part of temporalities of Orkney, while retaining title of bishop, for abbacy of Holyrood House, 1570; on commission to frame revised ecclesiastical settlement, 1572; one of council of twelve forming provisional government overthrown on 10 June, 1578; one of lords of articles at parliament, 1584. [v. 444]

BOTLEY, SAMUEL (1642-1696?), writer on stenography. [v. 446]

BOTOLPH or BOTULF (d. 680), saint; studied in Germany, where he became a Benedictine monk; founded monastery at Ikanho (perhaps near present town of Boston), 654; commemorated on 17 June. [v. 446]

BOTONER, WILLIAM (1415-1482?). [See WORCESTER.]

BOTT, THOMAS (1688-1754), divine; held various livings in Norfolk; published 'Answer to Warburton's Divine Legation,' 1743. [v. 446]

BOTT, THOMAS (1829-1870), china painter; artist in Royal Porcelain Works, Worcester, where his work in 'Worcester enamel' gained considerable reputation. [v. 447]

BOTTETOURT, JOHN DE (d. 1324), baron and admiral; governor of St. Briavel's Castle, and warden of Forest of Dean; commanded fleet at burning of Cherbourg, 1296; served under Edward I in Gascony and Scotland; joined Warwick against Piers Gaveston. [v. 447]

BOTTISHAM or BOTTLESHAM, WILLIAM OF (d. 1400), bishop; Dominican; D.D., and fellow, Pembroke College, Cambridge; bishop of Bethlehem, c. 1385, Llandaff, 1386, and Rochester, 1389. [v. 447]

BOTTOMLEY, JOSEPH (f. 1820), musician; organist at Bradford, 1807, and Sheffield, 1820; published dictionary of music (1816) and other musical works. [vi. 1]

BOUCH, SIR THOMAS (1822-1880), civil engineer; resident engineer on Stockton and Darlington railway; manager and engineer of Edinburgh and Northern railway, 1849; instituted steam ferries over Forth and Tay; constructed Tay bridge, 1870-7; knighted, 1879; died from mental shock resulting from destruction of Tay bridge by hurricane; M.I.C.E., 1868. [vi. 1]

BOUCHER, JOHN (1777-1818), divine; fellow, Magdalen College, Oxford, 1799; M.A., 1802; vicar of Kirk Newton, Northumberland, 1804-18; his sermons were published posthumously. [vi. 2]

BOUCHER, JOHN (1819-1878), divine; unitarian minister successively at Southport, Glasgow, and Hackney; studied for Anglican orders at St. John's College, Cambridge; B.A., 1857. [vi. 2]

BOUCHER, JONATHAN (1738-1804), divine; engaged in tuition in America, c. 1754-62; held successively several ecclesiastical charges in America, where until the war of independence he was intimate with George Washington; returned to England, 1775; vicar of Epsom, 1785-1804; published sermons and writings relating to Cumberland, and left incomplete a supplement to Johnson's 'Dictionary.' [vi. 3]

BOUCHERY, WEYMAN (1683-1712), Latin poet; M.A. Jesus College, Cambridge, 1706; rector of Little Blakenham, 1709; published a Latin poem. [vi. 4]

BOUCHIER, BARTON (1794-1865), religious writer; son of Jonathan Boucher [q.v.]; changed his name to Bouchier after 1822; M.A. Balliol College, Oxford, 1827; published hymns and religious works. [vi. 4]

BOUCHIER or BOUCHIERE, GEORGE (d. 1643), royalist; merchant of Bristol; hanged for conspiring to deliver Bristol to Prince Rupert, 1643. [vi. 4]

BOUOICHAULT, DION (1820?-1890), originally called BOURICAULT, actor and dramatist; educated at London University; produced his 'London Assurance' at Covent Garden theatre, 1841; sometimes wrote in conjunction with Benjamin Webster [q.v.]; manager of Astley's, 1868; produced 'Arrah-na-Pogue' at Princess's, 1865, himself playing Shaun; retired, 1876, to America, where he died. His plays, invariably adapted from some previous play or novel by another hand, include 'Faust and Marguerite,' 1862, and the 'Colleen Bawn,' 1860. [Suppl. i. 237]

BOUGH, SAMUEL (1822-1878), landscape-painter; successively shoemaker and lawyer's clerk in Carlisle; wandered about England making sketches; scene-painter in Manchester and Glasgow; took to landscape-painting, member of Royal Scottish Academy, 1875. [vi. 4]

BOUGHEN, EDWARD (1587-1660?), royalist divine; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford;

M.A., 1612; rector of Woodchurch, 1633-40; D.D., 1646; published sermons and religious works. [vi. 5]

BOUGHTON, JOAN (d. 1494), martyr; burnt at Smithfield, at the age of eighty or more, for supporting Wycliffe's doctrines. [vi. 6]

BOULT, SWINTON (1809-1876), agent for insurance offices in Liverpool; founded, 1836, and became managing director of, Liverpool Fire Office (afterwards Liverpool, London, and Globe Insurance Company). [vi. 8]

BOULTBEE, THOMAS POWNALL (1818-1884), divine; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1844; theological tutor and chaplain of Cheltenham College, 1852-63; principal of London College of Divinity, 1863; LL.D., 1872; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1883; published religious works. [vi. 6]

BOULTER, HUGH (1672-1742), archbishop of Armagh; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1693; D.D., 1708; fellow of Magdalen College; chaplain to Archbishop Tenison; chaplain to George I in Hanover, bishop of Bristol, and dean of Christ Church, Oxford, 1719; protestant archbishop of Armagh, 1724; frequently acted as lord justice in Ireland, displaying prejudice against the Irish. [vi. 7]

BOULTON, MATTHEW (1728-1809), engineer; entered partnership with Watt, whom he greatly assisted in completion and introduction of the steam-engine; made coins for Great Britain and other countries, and supplied new mint with machinery (1805); F.R.S. [vi. 8]

BOULTON, RICHARD (f. 1697-1724), physician; educated at Brasenose College, Oxford; published medical works. [vi. 9]

BOUND, NICHOLAS (d. 1613). [See BOWNDE.]

BOUQUET, HENRY (1719-1765), general; born at Rolle, Switzerland; served in armies of States-General of Holland, king of Sardinia, and Prince of Orange; captain-commandant of Swiss guards at Hague, 1748; lieutenant-colonel in America, 1754; brigadier-general and commandant in southern British America. [vi. 9]

BOUQUETT, PHILIP (1669-1748), Hebrew professor; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow; M.A., 1696; D.D., 1711; professor of Hebrew, 1712. [vi. 10]

BOURCHIER, GEORGE (d. 1643). [See BOUCHIER.]

BOURCHIER, HENRY, first EARL OF ESSEX (d. 1483), great-grandson of Robert Bouchier [q.v.]; lieutenant-general under Duke of York in France, 1440; captain of Crototy, Picardy, 1443; married Isabel, aunt of Edward IV; treasurer of England, 1456-6 and 1471-83; with March and Warwick at battle of Northampton, 1460; created Earl of Essex, 1461. [vi. 10]

BOURCHIER, HENRY, second EARL OF ESSEX (d. 1539), grandson of Henry Bouchier, first earl [q.v.]; member of Henry VII's privy council; captain of Henry VIII's bodyguard; served at Terouenne and Tournay, 1513; chief captain of king's forces, 1514; attended Henry at Guisnes, 1520. [vi. 11]

BOURCHIER or BOUSSIER, JOHN DE (d. 1330?) judge; justice of assize for Kent, Surrey, and Sussex, 1315; justice of common bench, 1321 till death. [vi. 11]

BOURCHIER, JOHN, second BARON BERNERS (1467-1533), statesman and author; grand-nephew of Henry Bouchier, first earl of Essex [q.v.]; marshal of Surrey's army in Scotland, 1513; chancellor of exchequer, 1516; accompanied John Kite, archbishop of Armagh, to Spain to negotiate alliance between Henry VIII and Charles V, 1518; attended Henry at Field of Cloth of Gold, 1520; deputy of Calais, 1520-33; published translation of Froissart's 'Chronicles,' 1523-5; and translated 'Hon of Burdeaux' (probably printed in 1534). 'Castell of Love' (printed 1540), and, under title of 'Golden Boke of Marcus Aurelius' (1534), a French version of Guevara's 'El redox de Principes.' [vi. 12]

BOURCHIER, SIR JOHN (d. 1660), regicide; M.P. for Ripon, 1645; one of Charles I's judges, 1649; signed death-warrant; member of council of state, 1661 and 1662; surrendered as regicide, 1660, but died before settlement of exceptions to act of indemnity. [vi. 14]

BOURCHIER or BOUSSIER, ROBERT (d. 1349), chancellor; son of John de Bouchier [q. v.]; M.P. for Essex, 1330, 1332, 1338, and 1339; chancellor, 1340-1; fought at Orecy, 1346. [vi. 14]

BOURCHIER, THOMAS (1404?-1486), cardinal; brother of Henry Bouchier, first earl of Essex [q. v.]; educated at Oxford; prebendary of Litchfield, 1424; chancellor of Oxford University, 1434; bishop of Worcester, 1434, and of Ely, 1443; archbishop of Canterbury, 1454; lord-chancellor, 1456-6; Lancastrian, drawing up with Waynflete terms of agreement between Lancastrians and Yorkists, 1458; crowned Edward IV, 1461, and his queen, Elizabeth Woodville, 1465; nominated cardinal, 1467, and installed, 1473; raised troops for restoration of Edward IV to throne, 1471; one of four arbitrators to whom difficulties between England and France were referred by peace of Amiens, 1475; headed deputation which persuaded the queen-dowager to entrust her second son, Richard, to his uncle, the Protector; officiated at coronation of Richard III, 1483; married Henry VII to Elizabeth of York, 1486. [vi. 16]

BOURCHIER, THOMAS (d. 1586?), friar of Observant order of Franciscans; probably educated at Magdalen Hall, Oxford; doctor of theology, Sorbonne, Paris; joined Reformed Franciscans at Rome; penitentiary in the Lateran; wrote a history of Franciscan martyrs (1582). [vi. 18]

BOURDIEU, ISAAC DU (1597?-1692?). [See DU BOURDIEU.]

BOURDIEU, JEAN DU (1642?-1720). [See DU BORDIEU.]

BOURDILLON, JAMES DEWAR (1811-1833), Madras civil servant; went to Madras, 1829; secretary to government in revenue and public works departments, 1854-61; did much for improvement of irrigation and system of land revenue. [vi. 19]

BOURGEOIS, Sir PETER FRANÇOIS (1766-1811), painter; studied under De Louthembourg; exhibited at Royal Academy and British Institution between 1779 and 1810; R.A., 1793; landscape-painter to George III, 1794; painter to Stanislaus, king of Poland, and knighted, 1791; bequeathed 371 pictures to Dulwich College. [vi. 19]

BOURKE, Sir RICHARD (1777-1855), colonial governor; educated for bar; ensign in grenadier guards, 1798; captain, 1799; assistant quartermaster-general to army in Portugal, 1808-9; in Galicia, 1812; colonel and C.B.; major-general, 1821; lieutenant-governor of eastern Cape of Good Hope, 1825-8; governor of New South Wales, 1831-7; established regular scheme of emigration; K.C.B., 1835; general, 1851. [vi. 20]

BOURKE, RICHARD SOUTHWELL, sixth EARL OF MAYO (1822-1872), viceroy and governor-general of India; graduated at Trinity College, Dublin; M.P. for Kildare, 1847-52, Coleraine, 1852-7, and Cockermonth, after 1857; chief secretary for Ireland, under conservative governments, 1852, 1858, and 1866; viceroy and governor-general of India, 1869; assassinated at Port Blair. His policy was to endeavour, while insisting on the superior power of Britain, to maintain intimate relations of friendship with neighbouring states, opposing their neutralisation in the European sense. In finance he adopted a policy of 'decentralisation.' [vi. 21]

BOURMAN, ROBERT (d. 1676). [See BOREMAN.]

BOURN, NICOL (fl. 1581). [See BURNE.]

BOURN, SAMUEL, the elder (1648-1719), dissenting minister; educated at Emmanuel College, Cambridge; presbyterian minister at Calne, 1678, and Bolton, 1695-1719. A volume of his sermons appeared, 1722. [vi. 24]

BOURN, SAMUEL, the younger (1689-1754), dissenting minister; second son of Samuel Bourn (1648-1719) [q. v.]; joint-pastor at New Meeting, Birmingham, and at Coseley, 1732; published controversial and religious works. [vi. 26]

BOURN, SAMUEL (1714-1796), dissenting minister; second son of Samuel Bourn (1689-1754) [q. v.]; educated at Glasgow University; joint-minister of presbyterian congregation at Norwich, 1754; published controversial and religious works. [vi. 27]

BOURN, THOMAS (1771-1832), school teacher; compiled 'Gazetteer of the World,' 1807. [vi. 28]

BOURN, WILLIAM (d. 1583). [See BOURNE.]

BOURNE, GILBERT (d. 1569), bishop of Bath and Wells; fellow, All Souls' College, Oxford, 1531; B.A., 1532; prebendary of Worcester, 1541, of St. Paul's, 1545; proctor for clergy of diocese of London, 1547; chaplain to Bishop Bonner; bishop of Bath and Wells, 1554; warden of Welsh marches; refused oaths of allegiance to Elizabeth, and was committed to Tower, 1559; subsequently detained in private custody. [vi. 28]

BOURNE, HENRY (1696-1733), divine and antiquary; M.A. Christ College, Cambridge, 1724; published 'Antiquitates Vulgares,' 1726, and left unfinished a history of Newcastle (published, 1736). [vi. 29]

BOURNE, HUGH (1772-1852), founder of the primitive methodists; local preacher among Wesleyan methodists; revived camp meetings for preaching and fellowship, 1807, and accordingly was expelled from Wesleyan Methodist Society, 1808; founded primitive methodists, 1810, and subsequently travelled in Scotland, Ireland, and America, enrolling recruits; published work relating to his sect. [vi. 29]

BOURNE, IMMANUEL (1590-1679), divine; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1618; rector of Waltham-on-the-Wolds, 1656; conformed at Restoration; rector of Aylestone, 1670-9; published religious works. [vi. 30]

BOURNE, NEHEMIAH (fl. 1649-1662), major in parliamentary army; captain in navy on remodelling of fleet, c. 1649; rear-admiral of fleet, 1652; commissioner for equipment of fleets, 1652; emigrated to America on Restoration. [vi. 31]

BOURNE, REUBEN (fl. 1692), dramatist; member of Middle Temple; published 'The Contented Cuckold,' a comedy, 1692. [vi. 31]

BOURNE, ROBERT (1761-1829), physician; M.D. Worcester College, Oxford, 1787; F.R.C.P., 1790; professor of physic, 1803, and clinical medicine, 1824, Oxford. [vi. 32]

BOURNE, VINCENT (1695-1747), Latin poet; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow, 1720; M.A., 1721; master at Westminster School, Cowper being one of his pupils; housekeeper and deputy serjeant-at-arms to House of Commons, 1734; published 'Poemata, Latine partim reddita, partim scripta' (1734), some of which were translated by Cowper and Lamb. [vi. 32]

BOURNE or BOURN, WILLIAM (d. 1583), mathematician; self-taught; probably employed at Gravesend as gunner and ship-carpenter; published almanacs and works on gunnery and navigation, leaving manuscripts on similar subjects. [vi. 33]

BOURNE, WILLIAM STURGES (1769-1846), politician; educated with Oanning at Winchester and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1793; D.C.L., 1831; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1793; M.P., 1798-1831; joint-secretary of treasury, 1804-6; lord of treasury, 1807-9; privy councillor, 1814; home secretary, 1827; commissioner of woods and forests, 1827; lord warden of New Forest, 1828-1831. [vi. 34]

BOUTEL, Mrs. (fl. 1663-1696), actress; member of Theatre Royal company; her first recorded character, Betfania in 'Rule a Wife, and Have a Wife,' c. 1664, and her last, Thomyris, in 'Cyrus the Great,' 1696. [vi. 35]

BOUTELL, CHARLES (1812-1877), archaeologist; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1834; incorporated at Trinity College, Oxford, and M.A., 1836; rector of Norwood, Surrey; published works on archaeology and heraldry. [vi. 35]

BOUWFLOWER, HENRY CREWE (1796-1863), Hulsean essayist; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1822; Hulsean prizeman, 1816; head-master, Bury school, Lancashire, 1823; rector of Elmdon, 1867-68; published Hulsean essay. [vi. 36]

BOUVERIE, EDWARD FLEYDELL (1818-1889), politician; second son of William Fleydell-Bouverie, third earl of Radnor [q. v.]; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1838; barrister, Inner Temple, 1843; liberal M.P., Kilmarnock, 1844-74; president of poor-law board, 1858-8; opposed Gladstone's Irish University Bill, 1873; wrote numerous letters to the 'Times' signed E. F. B. [xiv. 423]

BOUVERIE, SIR HENRY FREDERICK (1768-1862), general; ensign, 1799; aide-de-camp to Rosslyn, 1807, and Wellesley, 1809; on staff, 1810; colonel, 1814; K.C.B., 1815; governor and commander-in-chief of Malta, 1836-1843; lieutenant-general, 1838; G.C.B., 1852. [vi. 36]

BOUVERIE, WILLIAM PLEYDELL-, third EARL OF RADNOR (1779-1869), whig politician; M.P. for Downton, 1801, and Salisbury, 1802-28; actively supported social measures; friend of William Cobbett. [vi. 36]

BOUYER, REYNOLD GIDEON (d. 1826), divine; LL.B. Jesus College, Cambridge, 1769; prebendary of Sarum, 1786; established parochial libraries throughout Northumberland. [vi. 37]

BOVEY or BOEVEY, CATHARINA (1669-1726), philanthropist; née Riches; married, 1684; associated with a Mrs. Mary Pope in many charitable works. [vi. 37]

BOVILL, SIR WILLIAM (1814-1873), judge; barrister of Middle Temple, 1841; Q.O., 1855; conservative M.P. for Guildford, 1857; solicitor-general and chief justice of common pleas, 1866; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1870; F.R.S.; presided at first Tichborne trial. [vi. 38]

BOVILLIUS (d. 1526). [See BULLOCK, HENRY.]

BOWACK, JOHN (A. 1737), writing-master at Westminster School; clerk to turnpike commissioners, 1732; assistant secretary to Westminister Bridge commissioners, 1737; began publication of 'Antiquities of Middlesex,' 1706. [vi. 39]

BOWATER, SIR EDWARD (1787-1861), lieutenant-general; educated at Harrow; ensign, 1804; served in Peninsula and Waterloo campaigns, 1808-15; groom-in-waiting in ordinary to the queen, 1846; lieutenant-general and colonel 49th foot. [vi. 39]

BOWDEN, JOHN (d. 1750), presbyterian divine; minister at Frome, 1707-50; published sermons and contributed to 'Divine Hymns and Poems' (1704). [vi. 40]

BOWDEN, JOHN WILLIAM (1798-1844), ecclesiastical writer; educated at Harrow and Trinity College, Oxford; M.A., 1823; commissioner of stamps, 1826-40; intimate friend of John Henry Newman, and a zealous partisan in the Tractarian movement. His works include a 'Life of Gregory VII' (1840). [vi. 41]

BOWDEN, SAMUEL (A. 1733-1761), physician; published poems, 1733-5. [vi. 41]

BOWDICH, THOMAS EDWARD (1791-1824), African traveller; obtained writership in service of African Company, and went to Cape Coast Castle, 1814; formed treaty with king of Ashantee, granting peace to British settlements on Gold Coast, 1815; returned to England, 1818; studied science in Paris; published works and translations relating to Ashantee and African exploration. [vi. 41]

BOWDLER, HENRIETTA MARIA (1754-1830), religious writer; sister of John Bowdler the elder [q. v.]; published religious poems and essays. [vi. 43]

BOWDLER, JANE (1743-1784), authoress; sister of Henrietta Maria Bowdler [q. v.]; a selection of her poems and essays appeared, 1766. [vi. 43]

BOWDLER, JOHN, the younger (1783-1816), author; younger son of John Bowdler (1746-1829) [q. v.]; barrister of Lincoln's Inn, 1807; selections from his verse and prose appeared, 1816. [vi. 44]

BOWDLER, JOHN, the elder (1746-1823), author; chamber conveyancer, 1770-80; one of founders of Church Building Society; published political and religious pamphlets. [vi. 43]

BOWDLER, THOMAS (1754-1825), editor of Shakespeare; brother of John Bowdler the elder [q. v.]; M.D. Edinburgh, 1776; F.R.S. and L.O.P., 1781; F.S.A., 1784; visited Low Countries, 1787, and wrote narrative of their political disunion; published 'Family Shakespeare' (10 vols. 1818), an expurgated version of the text; prepared, on similar lines, edition of Gibbon's 'History.' His works gave rise to the term 'bowdlerise.' [vi. 44]

BOWDLER, THOMAS, the younger (1782-1866), divine; son of John Bowdler the elder [q. v.]; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1806; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1849; edited (1826) his uncle's 'Gibbon.' [vi. 46]

BOWEN, CHARLES SYNGE CHRISTOPHER, BARON BOWEN (1835-1894), judge; educated at Rugby and Balliol College, Oxford; fellow, 1857; M.A., 1872; D.C.L., 1883; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1861; bench, 1879; joined western circuit; junior counsel against 'Claimant' in 'Tichborne case,' 1871-4; appointed judge of queen's bench and knighted, 1879; lord of appeal in ordinary, receiving life peerage, 1893; published translations from Virgil, and other writings. [Suppl. i. 238]

BOWEN, EMANUEL (A. 1752), map-engraver to George II and Louis XV. [vi. 48]

BOWEN, SIR GEORGE FERGUSON (1821-1899), colonial governor; educated at Charterhouse and Trinity College, Oxford; B.A. and fellow of Brasenose, 1844; M.A., 1847; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1844; president of university of Corfu, 1847-51; chief secretary to government in Ionian Islands, 1854; K.O.M.G., 1856; first governor of Queensland, 1859; G.O.M.G., 1860; appointed governor of New Zealand, 1867; successfully pursued policy of conciliation towards Maoris and settlers; governor of Victoria, 1872; honorary D.C.L. Oxford, 1875; appointed to Mauritius, 1879, and Hongkong, 1882; reconstructed colonial legislature and established friendly foreign policy; retired from office, 1887; privy councillor, 1886; honorary LL.D. Cambridge, 1886; chief of royal commission on new constitution of Malta, 1887; published 'Mount Athos, Thessaly, and Epirus' (1852), and other works. [Suppl. i. 240]

BOWEN, JAMES (d. 1774), painter and topographer; made collections for history of Shropshire. [vi. 48]

BOWEN, JAMES (1751-1835), rear-admiral; commanded ship in African and West India trade; master in navy, 1781-9; inspecting agent of transports in Thames, 1789; master of Howe's flagship in battle of 1 June 1794; captain, 1795; commissioner of transport board, c. 1803, and of navy, 1816-25; rear-admiral, 1825. [vi. 46]

BOWEN, JOHN (1756-1832), painter and genealogist; son of James Bowen (d. 1774) [q. v.]; made antiquarian collections relating to Shropshire. [vi. 47]

BOWEN, JOHN (1815-1859), colonial bishop; emigrated to Canada, 1835; returned home and entered Trinity College, Dublin, 1843; LL.D., 1857; visited many foreign stations of Church Missionary Society, 1848-51 and 1854-6; bishop of Sierra Leone, 1857. [vi. 47]

BOWEN, THOMAS (d. 1790), map-engraver; son of Emanuel Bowen [q. v.]; his works include maps and charts of West Indies from Captain James Speer's surveys. [vi. 48]

BOWER, ALEXANDER (A. 1804-1830), assistant-librarian at Edinburgh University; published biographical and historical works. [vi. 48]

BOWER, ARCHIBALD (1686-1766), historian; educated at Scots college at Douay; entered Society of Jesus, 1706; studied divinity at Rome, 1717-21; professed of four vows, c. 1723; came to England, 1728; conformed to church of England; classical tutor to Lord Aylmer; contributed history of Rome to 'Universal History,' 1735-44; readmitted jesuit, 1745, but again left the society, 1747; published 'History of the Popes,' 7 vols. 1748-66; accused, in pamphlets, by Rev. Alban Butler and Rev. John Douglas (afterwards bishop of Salisbury), and proved guilty of being secretly a member of catholic church. [vi. 48]

BOWER or BOWERS, GEORGE (d. 1690), engraver to the mint, 1664-90. [vi. 51]

BOWER or BOWMAKER, WALTER (d. 1449), abbot of Inchcolm; probably member of Augustinian priory of St. Andrews; B.O.L.; commissioner to collect ransom money of James I (of Scotland), 1423 and 1424; present at council held at Perth, 1432; reputed continuator (1440-7) of Fordun's 'Chronica Gentis Scotorum,' as it appears in the 'Scotchchronicon,' of which he wrote an abridgment called 'Book of Cupar.' A complete edition of the 'Scotchchronicon' was published in 1759. [vi. 52]

BOWERBANK, JAMES SCOTT (1797-1877), geologist; partner in London distillery; lectured on botany, 1822-4, and human osteology, 1831; one of founders of 'London Clay Club,' 1856, and of Palaeontographical Society, 1847; F.R.S., 1842; most important work, 'Fossil Fruits of the London Clay' (1840). [vi. 53]

BOWERS, GEORGE HULL (1794-1872), divine; D.D. Clare College, Cambridge, 1849; dean of Manchester, 1847-71; joint founder of Marlborough School; published works on ecclesiastical matters. [vi. 54]

BOWES, ELIZABETH (1602?-1668), disciple of John Knox; née Aske; married Richard, son of Sir Ralph Bowes; fell under influence of John Knox, who adopted her as a relative and married her daughter, Marjory; lived chiefly with Knox, from 1666. [vi. 55]

BOWES, SIR GEORGE (1617-1686), commander in border wars; accompanied Hertford in his raid, 1644, and was knighted. [vi. 55]

BOWES, SIR GEORGE (1627-1680), soldier; son of Elizabeth Bowes [q. v.]; marshal of Berwick, 1668; knighted, 1660; provost marshal of Earl of Sussex's army; M.P. for Knaresborough, 1671, and Morpeth, 1672; high sheriff of county palatine, 1676. [vi. 56]

BOWES, SIR JEROME (d. 1618), ambassador; temporarily banished from court for slandering Earl of Leicester, 1577; ambassador to Russia, 1683; dismissed after death of the Czar Ivanvasilovitch; translated from French an 'Apology for Christians of France,' 1679. [vi. 57]

BOWES, JOHN (1690-1767), lord chancellor of Ireland; called to bar in England, 1718, and in Ireland, 1725; solicitor-general, 1730; M.P. for Taghmon, 1731; attorney-general for Ireland, 1739, chief baron of exchequer, 1741, and chancellor, 1757; received title of Baron of Clonllyn, 1758; lord justice in Ireland, 1765 and 1766. [vi. 58]

BOWES, JOHN (1804-1874), preacher; preached among Wesleyans; became primitive methodist minister; renounced all party appellations and started mission at Dundee, 1830; open-air preacher; published pamphlets. [vi. 58]

BOWES, MARMADUKE (d. 1585), catholic martyr; executed at York for harbouring catholic priests. [vi. 59]

BOWES, SIR MARTIN (1500?-1566), lord mayor of London; deputy 'keeper of exchange,' 1530; sub-treasurer of mint; sheriff of London, 1540; lord mayor, 1545. [vi. 59]

BOWES, MARY ELEANOR, COUNTESS OF STRATHMORE (1749-1800); née Bowes; married, 1767, John Lyon, ninth earl of Strathmore (d. 1776); married Lieutenant Andrew Stoney; left Stoney and, 1789, obtained divorce for cruelty; published 'Confessions' and other writings. [vi. 60]

BOWES, PAUL (d. 1702), editor of D'Ewes's 'Journals'; pensioner of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1650; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1661; bencher, 1679; F.R.S., 1699; edited 'Journals' of his uncle, Sir Simonds D'Ewes, 1682. [vi. 61]

BOWES, SIR ROBERT (1495?-1554), commander and lawyer; warden of east and middle marches, 1550, and drew up 'Book of State of Frontiers and Marches betwixt England and Scotland'; privy councillor, 1551; master of rolls, 1552. [vi. 61]

BOWES, ROBERT (1535?-1597), English ambassador to Scotland; son of Elizabeth Bowes [q. v.]; sheriff of county palatine of Durham, 1569; M.P. for Carlisle, 1571; treasurer of Berwick, 1575-97; ambassador to Scotland, 1577-83. [vi. 62]

BOWES, THOMAS (fl. 1586), translator; translated first and second parts of Peter de Primaudaye's 'French Academy,' 1586-84. [vi. 62]

BOWES, SIR WILLIAM (1389-1460?), military commander; served in French wars, 1415-32; knighted at Verneuil; governor of Berwick. [vi. 63]

BOWET, HENRY (d. 1423), archbishop of York; chaplain to Urban VI at Rome; enjoyed confidence of Richard II; prebendary of Lincoln before 1386; banished as abettor of Bolingbroke, 1399; prebendary of London; one of four regents of king's possessions in southern France; bishop of Bath and Wells, 1401; treasurer, 1402; archbishop of York, 1407; accompanied army against Scottish invaders, 1417. [vi. 63]

BOWIE, JAMES (d. 1853), botanist; travelled in Brazil, 1814, and the Cape, 1817 and 1827; collector for Kew Gardens, 1814-23. [vi. 63]

BOWLEY, THOMAS WILLIAM (1817-1860), 'Times' correspondent; solicitor in London; correspondent of the 'Times' in Berlin, 1848, and China, 1860; captured by Tartar general San-ko-lin-sin; died from effects of ill-treatment. [vi. 65]

BOWLE or BOWLES, JOHN (d. 1637), bishop of Rochester; fellow, Trinity College, Cambridge; D.D., 1613; incorporated D.D. Oxford, 1616; dean of Salisbury, 1620; bishop of Rochester, 1629; published religious works. [vi. 68]

BOWLE, JOHN (1725-1788), writer on Spanish literature; M.A. Oriel College, Oxford, 1750; F.S.A., 1776; vicar of Idmiston; member of Johnson's Essex Head Club; earliest discoverer of Lauder's forgeries; published, 1781, a life of Cervantes in Spanish. [vi. 66]

BOWLER, THOMAS WILLIAM (d. 1869), landscape painter; assistant-astronomer at the Cape; published views of South African scenery. [vi. 67]

BOWLES, CAROLINE ANNE (1786-1854). [See SOUTHEY.]

BOWLES, EDWARD (1613-1662), presbyterian minister; educated at Catharine Hall, Cambridge; parliamentary minister in York, 1644; actively supported Restoration, 1660; published religious works. [vi. 67]

BOWLES, SIR GEORGE (1787-1876), general; served in Peninsular and Waterloo campaigns; in Canada, 1818-20; deputy adjutant-general in West Indies, 1820-5; lieutenant-colonel in Canada, 1838; master of queen's household, 1845; major-general, 1846; K.O.B. and lieutenant of Tower, 1861. [vi. 68]

BOWLES, JOHN (d. 1637). [See BOWLE.]

BOWLES, PHINEAS (d. 1722), major-general; colonel of foot regiment in Ireland, 1705; served at Barcelona, Almanza, Saragossa (1710), and was captured in Castile; raised corps of dragoons (now 12th lancers), 1715. [vi. 68]

BOWLES, PHINEAS (d. 1749), lieutenant-general; son of Phineas Bowles (d. 1722) [q. v.]; succeeded his father as colonel of 12th dragoons; lieutenant-general, 1745, and governor of Londonderry. [vi. 68]

BOWLES, WILLIAM (1705-1780), naturalist; studied science in Paris; superintendent of state mines in Spanish service, 752; published work in Spanish on natural history and geography of Spain, 1775. [vi. 69]

BOWLES, WILLIAM LISLE (1762-1850), divine, poet, and antiquary; educated at Winchester and Trinity College, Oxford; B.A., 1792; vicar of Bremhill, Wiltshire, 1804-50; prebendary of Salisbury, 1804, and canon residentiary, 1828; chaplain to prince regent, 1818; published poems, his sonnets being especially graceful, 1789-1837, an edition of Pope, 1806, and various ecclesiastical and antiquarian works. [vi. 69]

BOWLEY, ROBERT KANZOW (1813-1870), amateur musician; conductor of Benevolent Society of Musical Amateurs; connected with Sacred Harmonic Society, 1834-70; originated plan of Handel festivals, 1856. [vi. 71]

BOWLY, SAMUEL (1802-1884), quaker; cheese factor at Gloucester; took active part in the anti-slavery agitation, and was a strong advocate of total abstinence. [vi. 71]

BOWMAN, EDDOWES (1810-1869), dissenting tutor; son of John Eddowes Bowman (1785-1841) [q. v.]; sub-manager of Varteg ironworks, near Pontypool, 1835-40; M.A. Glasgow; professor of classical literature and history at Manchester, New College, 1846-53; published theological and other works. [vi. 71]

BOWMAN, HENRY (fl. 1677), musician; organist of Trinity College, Cambridge; published songs and other musical compositions. [vi. 72]

BOWMAN, HENRY (1814-1883), architect; son of John Eddowes Bowman (1785-1841) [q. v.]; joint author of 'Ecclesiastical Architecture of Great Britain,' 1845. [vi. 73]

BOWMAN, JOHN EDDOWES, the elder (1785-1841), banker and naturalist; managing partner of a bank at Wrexham; fellow of Linnean and Geological Societies; published writings on natural history. [vi. 72]

BOWMAN, JOHN EDDOWES, the younger (1819-1854), chemist; son of John Eddowes Bowman (1785-1841) [q. v.]; professor of chemistry, King's College, London, 1851; published scientific works. [vi. 73]

BOWMAN, WALTER (d. 1782), antiquary; compiler of port of Bristol; F.S.A., 1735; F.R.S., 1742. [vi. 73]

BOWMAN, SIR WILLIAM (1816-1892), ophthalmic surgeon; surgeon, King's College Hospital, 1856; professor of physiology and general and morbid anatomy, 1848; member of council, 1879; surgeon to Royal Ophthalmic Hospital, Moorfields, 1851-76; F.R.S., 1841; F.R.C.S., 1844; first president of Ophthalmological Society of United Kingdom, 1880; created baronet, 1884; established, with Robert Bentley Todd (1809-1860) [q. v.], St. John's House and sisterhood; published surgical writings. [Suppl. I. 242]

BOWNAS, SAMUEL (1676-1753), quaker minister; came under influence of Anne Wilson, a quakeress, and subsequently travelled as missionary in Great Britain and Ireland; went to America, 1702, and was imprisoned in Long Island for preaching, 1702-3; returned to England, 1706; revisited America, 1726-8; wrote autobiographical and other works. [vi. 73]

BOWNE or BOUND, NICHOLAS (d. 1613), divine; fellow of Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1570; M.A., 1575; D.D., 1594; incorporated M.A. Oxford, 1577; minister of church of St. Andrew the Apostle, Norwich, 1611-13; published religious works, including 'The Doctrine of the Sabbath', 1596, which gave rise to the first disagreement between high church party and puritans on point of doctrine. [vi. 74]

BOWNE, PETER (1575-1624?), physician; fellow, Corpus Christi College, Oxford, D.M., 1614; F.C.P., 1617; published 'Pseudo-Medicorum Aenigma', 1624. [vi. 75]

BOWNESS, WILLIAM (1809-1867), painter of domestic and figure subjects; self-taught; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1836-67; wrote pieces in Westmoreland dialect. [vi. 75]

BOWRING, SIR JOHN (1792-1872), linguist, writer, and traveller; acquired many languages in a mercantile house at Exeter, clerk in London house of Milford & Co., who sent him to Peninsula, 1811; began business independently; editor of 'Westminster Review', 1824; LL.D. Groningen, 1829; made journeys to examine system of keeping public accounts in European countries; appointed (1831) secretary to commission for inspecting accounts of United Kingdom; sent by government on commercial mission to Belgium, 1833, and Egypt, Syria, and Turkey, 1837-8; M.P. for Clyde burghs, 1835-7; assisted in forming Anti-Cornlaw League, 1838; M.P. for Bolton, 1841; obtained issue of florin as first step towards introduction of decimal system of currency; consul at Canton, 1847; plenipotentiary to China, governor, commander-in-chief and vice-admiral of Hong-Kong, 1854; knighted, 1864; established diplomatic and commercial relations with Siam, 1855; went on commercial mission to Philippine Islands, 1858; returned to England, 1860; investigated British commercial relations with Italy, 1860; F.R.S. His publications include accounts of his missions, works connected with European and eastern poetry, hymns, and political and economical treatises. [vi. 76]

BOWTELL, JOHN (1753-1815), topographer; book-binder and stationer at Cambridge; left manuscript history of Cambridge. [vi. 80]

BOWYER, SIR GEORGE (1740?-1800), admiral; lieutenant, 1758; captain, 1762; served in West Indies under Byng and Rodney, 1778-81; M.P., Queenborough, 1784; rear-admiral, 1793; wounded in engagement off Ushant, 1794; created baronet, 1794; admiral 1799. [vi. 81]

BOWYER, SIR GEORGE (1811-1883), seventh baronet; lawyer; cadet at Royal Military College, Woolwich; called to bar at Middle Temple, and created hon. M.A. Oxford, 1839; equity draughtsman and conveyancer; D.C.L. Oxford, 1844; reader in law at Middle Temple, 1850; M.P. for Dundalk, 1852-68, and for Wexford county, 1874-80; magistrate and deputy-lieutenant of Berkshire; published a series of valuable text-books on constitutional jurisprudence. [vi. 81]

BOWYER, ROBERT (1768-1834), painter; exhibited miniatures at Royal Academy, 1783-1828; produced, with assistance of other artists, an illustrated edition of Hume's 'History of England'. [vi. 82]

BOWYER, WILLIAM, the elder (1663-1737), printer; apprenticed to Miles Flesher, 1679; freeman of Stationers' Company, 1686; liveryman, and one of twenty printers allowed by Star-chamber, 1700. [vi. 82]

BOWYER, WILLIAM, the younger (1699-1777), 'the learned printer'; son of William Bowyer (1663-1737) [q. v.]; educated under Ambrose Bonwicke the elder [q. v.], and at St. John's College, Cambridge; partner with, and corrector of the press for, his father, 1722; printer of votes of House of Commons, 1729; printer to Society of Antiquaries, and F.S.A., 1736; liveryman of Stationers' Company, 1738; master, 1771; in partnership with James Emonson, 1754-7; printer to Royal Society, 1761; appointed printer of rules of parliament and journal of House of Lords, 1767; published 'Origin of Printing', 1774. He supplied notes and prefaces to many of his publications, and wrote (1763) 'Conjectural Emendations' of the Greek Testament. [vi. 83]

BOXALL, JOHN (d. 1571), secretary of state; educated at Winchester, and graduated at New College, Oxford; dean of Ely, prebendary of Winchester, and secretary of state to Mary, 1553-8; warden of Winchester College, 1554; privy councillor, and master and councillor of court of requests, 1556; registrar of order of Garter; D.D., and prebendary of York and Salisbury, 1558; deprived of ecclesiastical preferments, 1560; committed to Tower and subsequently to 'free custody' of the archbishop. [vi. 86]

BOXALL, SIR WILLIAM (1800-1879), portrait-painter; studied at Royal Academy and in Italy; first exhibited at Royal Academy, 1823; R.A., 1863; director of National Gallery, 1865-74; knighted, 1867. [vi. 87]

BOXER, EDWARD (1784-1855), rear-admiral; entered navy, 1798; commander, 1815; took part in siege of Acre, and was made C.B., 1840; harbour-master at Quebec, 1843-53; rear-admiral, 1853; second in command in Mediterranean, and superintendent at Balaclava, 1854; died of cholera. [vi. 87]

BOYCE, SAMUEL (d. 1775), author of a dramatic pastoral, and several poems. [vi. 88]

BOYCE, THOMAS (d. 1793), dramatist; rector of Worlingham, Suffolk; author of 'Harold,' a tragedy (1786). [vi. 88]

BOYCE, WILLIAM (1710-1779), musician; chorister at St. Paul's Cathedral; composer and joint-organist to Chapel Royal, 1736; member of Royal Society of Musicians; produced 'Solomon,' his best work, 1743; Mus.Doc. Cambridge, 1749; organist of Allhallows the Great and Less, Thames Street, 1749-69; master of the king's band of musicians, and conductor of festivals of Sons of the Clergy, 1755; organist of Chapel Royal, 1758; composed birthday and new year odes, settings to masques and plays (including 'Tempest,' 'Cymbeline' and 'Winter's Tale'), songs (including 'Hearts of Oak'), and church music, editing also the collection entitled 'Cathedral Music'. [vi. 88]

BOYCOTT, CHARLES OUNNINGHAM (1832-1897), land agent, from whose name the word 'boycott' is derived; educated at Woolwich; obtained commission in 39th foot, 1850; retired as captain; agent for Lord Erne's estates in county Mayo, 1873; came into conflict with Land League agitators, 1879, and suffered annoyances which in 1880 gave rise to word 'boycott'. [Suppl. I. 243]

BOYD, ANDREW KENNEDY HUTCHINSON (1825-1890), Scottish divine; studied at King's College and Middle Temple, London, and at Glasgow; B.A., 1846; minister of St. Bernard's, Edinburgh, 1859; honorary D.D. Edinburgh, 1864; minister of first charge, St. Andrews, 1865; LL.D. St. Andrews, 1889; moderator of general assembly, 1890. His publications include 'Recollections of a Country Parson,' three series, 1859-61-78. [Suppl. I. 244]

BOYD, ARCHIBALD (1803-1883), divine; M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1834; D.D., 1868; honorary canon of Gloucester, 1857-67; dean of Exeter, 1867; published 'History of Book of Common Prayer' (1850) and other works. [vi. 90]

BOYD, BENJAMIN (1796-1861), Australian squatter; stockbroker in London, 1824-39; went to Sydney to organise branches of Royal Australian Banking Company; engaged in whaling and sheep farming. [vi. 91]

BOYD, HENRY (d. 1832), translator of Dante; probably educated at Dublin University; published translations in English verse of Dante's 'Inferno', 1785, and 'Divina Commedia', 1802, also other translations and original poems. [vi. 91]

BOYD, HUGH (1746-1794), essayist; M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1785; studied law in London; became acquainted with Goldsmith, Garrick, Burke, and Reynolds; secretary to Lord Macartney, governor of Madras, 1781, and subsequently master-attendant at Madras; conducted 'Madras Courier' and other papers in India; his writings were collected and published after his death. The 'Letters of Junius' have been attributed to him. [vi. 92]

BOYD, HUGH STUART (1781-1848), Greek scholar; educated at Pembroke Hall, Cambridge; taught Greek when blind (1828-48) to Elizabeth Barrett Browning; published classical translations and other works. [vi. 92]

BOYD, JAMES (1795-1856), author; M.A. Glasgow; studied medicine; licensed preacher by presbytery of Dumbarton, 1822; house governor in George Heriot's Hospital, Edinburgh, 1825; classical master, high school, Edinburgh, 1829-56; edited school-books. [vi. 93]

BOYD, MARK (1805?-1879), author; engaged in business in London; promoted colonisation of Australia and New Zealand; published 'Reminiscences.' [vi. 93]

BOYD, MARK ALEXANDER (1563-1601), Latin scholar; educated at Glasgow; served in troop of horse under Henri III, 1587; subsequently travelled in France and Low Countries, meeting with many adventures; published letters and Latin and Greek poems, 1592, leaving also manuscripts in prose and verse. [vi. 94]

BOYD, ROBERT, LORD BOYD (d. 1469?), Scottish statesman; created Lord Boyd, 1454; one of regents during minority of James III, 1460; conspired with his brother, Sir Alexander, obtained possession of king's person, and was made by act of parliament sole governor of realm; negotiated marriage between James and Margaret of Norway, 1468; appointed great chamberlain for life, 1467; found guilty of treason, 1469; died at Alnwick, Northumberland, where he died. [vi. 95]

BOYD, ROBERT, fourth LORD BOYD (d. 1590), statesman; assisted the regent Arran in quelling Lennox's rebellion, 1544; took part with lords of congregation in war against queen regent, 1559; signed treaty of Berwick and joined English army at Prestonpans, 1560; subscribed to 'Book of Discipline of Kirk', 1561; perhaps privy to murder of Darnley; member of jury which acquitted Bothwell, 1567, but joined confederacy of nobles to protect the young prince against Bothwell after his marriage to Mary; subsequently again took Bothwell's part against his calumniators; made a permanent member of privy council, 1567; with Mary's forces at Langside, 1568; member of Mary's council, 1569; suspected of complicity in murder of Murray, 1570; joined regent's party (perhaps at Mary's suggestion), and was made privy councillor, 1570; appointed by Morton extraordinary lord of session, 1573; party to 'Raid of Ruthven' and banished, 1583; restored to place on bench, 1586; one of wardens of marches, 1587. [vi. 96]

BOYD, ROBERT, of Trochrig (1578-1627), divine; educated at Edinburgh and on continent; professor in university of Saumur, 1606; principal of Glasgow University, 1615-21, and of Edinburgh University, 1622, but was deprived for nonconformity with 'five articles of Perth'; minister of Paisley, 1627; wrote 'Commentary on Epistle to Ephesians' (published posthumously) and other works. [vi. 98]

BOYD, SIR ROBERT (1710-1794), general; storekeeper (civilian) of ordnance at Port Mahon, Minorca, till 1756; distinguished himself at siege, 1756, and was made lieutenant-colonel, 1768; colonel of 59th foot, 1766; lieutenant-governor of Malta, 1768; lieutenant-general, 1777; second in command at defence of Gibraltar, 1779-83; K.B.; general, 1793. [vi. 99]

BOYD, ROBERT (d. 1883), alienist; M.R.C.S., 1830; M.D. Edinburgh, 1831; F.R.C.P., 1852; proprietor of a private lunatic asylum, Southall Park; published treatises relating to insanity. [vi. 100]

BOYD, THOMAS, EARL OF ARRAN (fl. 1469), son of Robert, first lord Boyd [q. v.]; created Earl of Arran and Baron Kilmarnock, 1467; married Lady Mary, sister of James III of Scotland, 1467; escorted Margaret of Norway from Denmark to Scotland, 1469; died on hearing of his father's trial, and died at Antwerp. [vi. 95]

BOYD, WALTER (1754?-1837), financier; banker in Paris; fled from revolution and established business with Paul Benfield [q. v.] in London, 1793; contracted for large government loans; M.P. for Shaftesbury, 1796-1802; bankrupt, 1799; visited France, c. 1802, and was detained until 1814; M.P. for Lynton, 1823-30; wrote pamphlets on financial subjects. [vi. 100]

BOYD, WILLIAM, fourth EARL OF KILMARNOCK (1704-1746), general; educated at Glasgow; joined Young Pretender in hope of advancement, 1745; made privy councillor to Prince Charles, colonel of guards, and subsequently general; fought at Falkirk, 1746; captured at Culloden; executed on Tower Hill. [vi. 101]

BOYD, WILLIAM (d. 1772), Irish presbyterian divine; ordained minister of Macosquin, co. Derry, 1710; carried commission signed by many presbyterians to Colonel Smithe, governor of New England, proposing emigration to that colony, 1718; signed Westminster confession, 1721; elected moderator at Dungannon, 1730; one of the divines who drew up 'Serious Warning', 1747; published religious works. [vi. 102]

BOYD, ZACHARY (1585?-1653), Scottish divine; M.A. St. Andrews, 1607; minister of Barony parish, Glasgow, 1623; dean of faculty, rector, and vice-chancellor of Glasgow University; published works in verse and prose, and left various manuscripts. [vi. 103]

BOYDELL, JOHN (1719-1804), engraver; studied at St. Martin's Lane academy; published small sets of landscape engravings and views of London, Oxford, and other towns; set up as printseller and publisher of engravings, c. 1751, and rapidly established extensive trade; sheriff of London, 1785; lord mayor, 1790; commissioned well-known artists to paint pictures illustrative of Shakespeare (engravings from which were contained in an edition of Shakespeare published in 1802) and built Shakespeare Gallery in Pall Mall for their exhibition; compelled by financial difficulties to dispose of his property by lottery, but died before lottery was drawn. [vi. 104]

BOYDELL, JOSIAH (1752-1817), painter and engraver; nephew of John Boydell [q. v.], and partner and successor in his engraving business; painted pictures for the Shakespeare Gallery; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1772-99; master of Stationers' Company and alderman of Cheap ward. [vi. 106]

BOYER, ABEL (1667-1729), miscellaneous writer; born in Upper Languedoc; came to England, 1689; French teacher to William, duke of Gloucester; published yearly register of political and other occurrences, 1708-13, and 'Political State of Great Britain', a monthly periodical, 1711-29. [vi. 107]

BOYES, JOHN FREDERICK (1811-1879), classical scholar; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and St. John's College, Oxford; M.A.; head-master, Walthamstow proprietary school; published works relating to classical and English poetry. [vi. 108]

BOYLE, CHARLES, fourth EARL OF ORRERY and first BAKON MARSTON (1676-1731), antagonist of Bentley; educated at Christ Church, Oxford; edited epistles of Phalaris, which led to controversy with Richard Bentley [q. v.], and to Swift's 'Battle of the Books'; fought at Malplaquet; major-general, 1709; took part in negotiations preceding treaty of Utrecht; privy councillor; lord of bedchamber, 1714-16; imprisoned for connection with Layer's Jacobite plot, 1721. [vi. 109]

BOYLE, DAVID, LORD BOYLE (1772-1853), president of session; called to Scottish bar, 1798; solicitor-general for Scotland, 1807; M.P. for Ayrshire, 1807-11; judiciary and lord justice clerk, 1811; privy councillor, 1820; lord justice general and president of Scottish court of session, c. 1840-52. [vi. 109]

BOYLE, HENRY, BARON CARLETON (d. 1795), politician; M.P. for Tamworth, 1689-90; Cambridge University, 1692-1705; Westminster, 1705-10; chancellor of exchequer, 1701; lord treasurer of Ireland, 1704-10; principal secretary of state, 1708-10; raised to peerage, 1714; lord president of council, 1721-5; patron of Addison. [vi. 110]

BOYLE, HENRY, EARL OF SHANNON (1692-1764), whig politician; privy councillor, chancellor of exchequer, commissioner of revenue, and speaker of Irish House of Commons, 1733; created Earl of Shannon, 1756; frequently acted as lord justice of Ireland. [vi. 110]

BOYLE, JOHN (1563?-1620), Irish bishop, brother of Richard, first earl of Cork [q. v.]; D.D. Oxford; bishop of Roscarberry, Cork, and Cloyne, 1617. [vi. 112]

BOYLE, JOHN, fifth EARL OF CORK, fifth EARL OF ORRERY, and second BARON MARSTON (1707-1762), author; son of Charles Boyle [q. v.]; educated at Christ Church, Oxford; D.O.L., 1743; F.R.S., 1750; friend of Swift, Pope, and Johnson; his works include 'Remarks on Swift,' 1751, and a 'Translation of Letters of Pliny the Younger,' 1751. [vi. 111]

BOYLE, MICHAEL, the elder (1580?-1635), Irish bishop; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and St. John's College, Oxford; M.A., 1601; D.D., 1611; bishop of Waterford and Lismore, 1619. [vi. 112]

BOYLE, MICHAEL, the younger (1609?-1702), archbishop of Armagh, nephew of Michael Boyle (1580?-1635) [q. v.]; M.A. Trinity College, Dublin; incorporated M.A. Oxford, 1637; D.D., 1637; chaplain-general to English army in Munster; privy councillor in Ireland and bishop of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross, 1680; bishop of Dublin, 1683; chancellor of Ireland, 1685; archbishop of Armagh, 1705. [vi. 112]

BOYLE, MURRAGH, VISCOUNT BLESSINGTON (d. 1712), son of Michael Boyle (1609?-1702) [q. v.]; wrote 'The Lost Princess,' a tragedy. [vi. 113]

BOYLE, RICHARD, first EARL OF CORK (1566-1643), Irish statesman; called the 'great earl'; educated at Bennet's (Corpus Christi) College, Cambridge; entered Middle Temple; went to Ireland, 1588; escheator to John Crofton, escheator general, 1590; imprisoned on charge of embezzling records, 1592; again accused of embezzling records, but obtained acquittal; clerk of council of Munster; conveyed news to Elizabeth of victory near Kinsale, 1601; purchased for 1,000*l.* Sir Walter Raleigh's Irish possessions, out of which he rapidly acquired a large fortune; knighted, 1603; privy councillor for Munster, 1606, and for Ireland, 1612; created Lord Boyle, baron of Yonghal, 1616, and Viscount Dungarvan and Earl of Cork, 1620; appointed one of lords justices of Ireland, 1629; lord high treasurer, 1631; he worked skilfully and with persistent secrecy to undermine Wentworth's authority from 1633, and was probably largely responsible for his impeachment, 1641. [vi. 113]

BOYLE, RICHARD (d. 1644), divine; brother of Michael Boyle the elder [q. v.]; dean of Waterford, 1603; bishop of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross, 1620; archbishop of Tuam, 1638. [vi. 116]

BOYLE, RICHARD, first EARL OF BURLINGTON and second EARL OF CORK (1612-1697), statesman; son of Richard Boyle, first earl of Cork [q. v.]; knighted, 1624; assisted his father in Irish rebellion, 1642; supported king during war; created Baron Clifford of Lanesborough, Yorkshire, 1643; lord-lieutenant of West Riding of Yorkshire, and custos rotulorum, c. 1663; created Earl of Burlington, 1663; promoted cause of William and Mary. [vi. 116]

BOYLE, RICHARD, third EARL OF BURLINGTON and fourth EARL OF CORK (1696-1753), statesman; privy councillor, 1714; lord-lieutenant of West Riding of Yorkshire, custos rotulorum of North and West Ridings, and lord high treasurer of Ireland, 1715; K.O.G., 1730; he was a patron of literature and art, and spent large sums of money in gratifying a taste for architecture, altering and partly reconstructing Burlington House, London, 1716. [vi. 117]

BOYLE, HON. ROBERT (1627-1691), natural philosopher and chemist; son of Richard Boyle, first earl of Cork [q. v.]; educated at Eton and by private tutors; studied on continent; returned to England, 1644; settled at Oxford, 1654, erected laboratory, and in 1660 published 'New Experiments Physico-Mechanical,' (to second edition of which (1662) was appended his 'Defence against Linus,' containing experimental proof of proportional relation between elasticity and pressure, known as 'Boyle's Law'; published moral and religious essays, and studied Hebrew, Greek, Chaldee, and Syriac; governor of Corporation for the Spread of the Gospel in New England, 1681-89, and a director of the East India Company; took leading part in founding Royal Society, on first council of which he sat, declining office of president from a scruple about the oaths. His voluminous writings (published between 1680 and 1691), while embodying no great discovery, exhibit vividly the fruitfulness of the experimental method; the first complete edition of them was published by Birch in 1744, 5 vols. Boyle bequeathed his mineralogical collections to the Royal Society, and by his will founded and endowed the 'Boyle Lectures.' [vi. 118]

BOYLE, ROGER, BARON BROGHILL and first EARL OF ORRERY (1621-1679), statesman, soldier, and dramatist; son of Richard Boyle, first earl of Cork [q. v.]; created Baron Broghill, 1627; educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and at Oxford; travelled in France and Italy; commanded troops in Scotland, and (1641-2) Ireland; served under parliamentarians, 1647-8; accepted from Cromwell general's command in Ireland, 1650; M.P. for Cork, 1654, and for Cork and Edinburgh, 1656, being sent, as lord president of council, to Scotland; member of Cromwell's council; obtained command in Munster, being convinced that Richard Cromwell's cause was hopeless, and, with Sir Charles Coote, secured Ireland for the king; M.P. for Arundel in Convention parliament; one of lords justices of Ireland, and created Earl of Orrery, 1660; impeached for raising money by his own authority from the king's subjects, but proceedings stopped by the king's proroguing parliament; his publications include a 'Treatise on the Art of War' (1677), and rhymed tragedies, some of which were produced with success. [vi. 123]

BOYLE, ROGER (1617?-1687), bishop; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; dean of Cork; bishop of Down and Connor, 1667, and of Clogher, 1672; wrote religious works. [vi. 126]

BOYNE, first VISCOUNT (1639-1723). [See HAMILTON, GUSTAVUS.]

BOYNE, JOHN (d. 1810), water-colour painter and engraver; drawing master in London; his works include heads from Shakespeare's plays. [vi. 127]

BOYS or BOSCHUS, DAVID (d. 1461), Carmelite; lecturer in theology at Oxford; head of Carmelite community at Gloucester. [vi. 127]

BOYS, EDWARD (1599-1667), divine; educated at Eton and Corpus Christi College, Oxford; M.A., 1627; B.D., 1634; rector of Mautboy, Norfolk, 1639-67. [vi. 127]

BOYS, EDWARD (1785-1866), captain; son of John Boys (1749-1824) [q. v.]; entered navy, 1796; prisoner in France, 1803-9; commander, 1814; superintendent of Deal dockyard, 1837-41; published account of his captivity, 1837. [vi. 158]

BOYS, JOHN (1571-1625), divine; M.A. Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; fellow of Clare Hall; master of Eastbridge Hospital; D.D., 1605; dean of Canterbury, 1619; member of high commission court, 1620; chief works, 'Expositions' of the Dominical epistles and gospels and of the proper psalms. [vi. 128]

BOYS, JOHN (1561-1644). [See BOIS.]

BOYS, JOHN (1614?-1661), translator of Virgil; nephew of Edward Boys (1599-1667) [q. v.]; presented to mayor of Canterbury declaration in favour of the assembly of a free parliament, and narrowly escaped imprisonment, 1660; published verse translations from Virgil. [vi. 129]

BOYS, SIR JOHN (1607-1664), royalist; captain in royal army and governor of Donnington Castle, Berkshire, which he three times successfully defended, 1644; knighted, and appointed colonel, 1644; imprisoned for petitioning for free parliament, 1659; receiver of customs at Dover under Charles II. [vi. 130]

BOYS, JOHN (1749-1824), Kentish agriculturist; famous for his breed of Southdown sheep; published works on agricultural subjects. [vi. 131]

BOYS, THOMAS (1729-1880), theologian and antiquary; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1817; attached to military chest in Peninsula, 1813; ordained, 1822; incumbent of Holy Trinity, Hoxton; professor of Hebrew at Missionary College, Islington, 1836; published translation of bible into Portuguese. [vi. 131]

BOYS, THOMAS SHOTTER (1803-1874), water-colour painter and lithographer; studied painting in Paris; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1824; executed, lithographed, and engraved illustrations for several publications, including Ruskin's 'Stones of Venice.' [vi. 132]

BOYS, WILLIAM (1735-1803), surgeon; mayor of Sandwich, 1767 and 1782; F.S.A., 1776; surgeon to sick and wounded seamen at Deal, 1789; published archaeological and topographical writings. [v. 132]

BOYSE, JOSEPH (1660-1728), presbyterian minister; ministered at Brownist church at Amsterdam, 1682; minister at Dublin, 1683-1728; published controversial tracts in behalf of the presbyterian dissent. [vi. 133]

BOYSE, SAMUEL (1708-1749), poet; son of Joseph Boyse [q. v.]; educated at Glasgow University; adopted no profession, and during the latter part of his life experienced great poverty. His writings include 'The Deity,' a poem (1739), and 'An Historical Review of the Transactions of Europe, 1739-46' (1747). [vi. 135]

BRABAZON, ROGER LR (d. 1317), judge; justice itinerant of pleas of forest in Lancashire, 1287; justice of king's bench, 1289; prepared proofs of legality of Edward I's claim to suzerainty over Scotland, 1291; justice itinerant in west of England, 1291; chief-justice, 1295-1316; member of Prince Edward's council, 1297; sat on trial of Earl of Atholl and convicted him, 1307; commissioner of various royal forests, 1300-16. [vi. 137]

BRABAZON, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1552), lord justice of Ireland; knighted and appointed vice-treasurer and general receiver of Ireland, 1534; lord justice of Ireland, 1543, 1546, and 1549; Irish privy councillor, 1547. [vi. 138]

BRABOURNE, BARON (1829-1893). [See KNATCHBULL-HUGESSEN, EDWARD HUGESSEN.]

BRABOURNE, THEOPHILUS (b. 1590), divine; ordained before 1628; minister at Norwich; published 'Discourse upon Sabbath Day,' maintaining that Saturday was the sabbath, 1628, and 'Defence of Sabbath Day,' 1632; imprisoned and ultimately recanted to the satisfaction of the high commission court. [vi. 139]

BRACEGIRDLE, ANNE (1663?-1748), actress; appeared at Theatre Royal, 1688, as Lucia in Shadwell's 'Squire of Alsatia'; with Betterton at Lincoln's Inn Fields Theatre as Angelica in 'Love for Love,' 1695; created Belinda in Vanbrugh's 'Provoked Wife,' and Almeria in Congreve's 'Mourning Bride,' 1697; played Isabella, Portia, Desdemona, Ophelia, Cordelia, and Mrs. Ford, in Shakespearean adaptations; eclipsed by Mrs. Oldfield, 1707, retiring from the stage in consequence. [vi. 141]

BRACEGIRDLE, JOHN (d. 1614), poet; B.D. Queens' College, Cambridge, 1602; vicar of Rye, 1602-14; author of a poetical translation from Boethius. [vi. 142]

BRACKEN, HENRY (1697-1764), physician; studied in London, Paris, and Leyden; M.D. Leyden; mayor of Lancaster, 1747-8, and 1757-8; groundlessly imprisoned for abetting Jacobite rebellion, 1746; published works on farriery. [vi. 142]

BRACKENBURY, CHARLES BOOTH (1831-1890), major-general; second lieutenant, royal artillery, 1850; served in Crimea; captain, 1865; military correspondent of the 'Times' with Austrian army, 1866, in Le Mans campaign, 1870-1, and Turkish war, 1877; colonel, 1882; director of artillery studies at Woolwich, 1887; received temporary rank of major-general, 1889; wrote on military subjects. [Suppl. i. 245]

BRACKENBURY, SIR EDWARD (1785-1864), lieutenant-colonel; lieutenant, 1808; served in Peninsula; attached to Portuguese and Spanish army, 1814-16; knighted, 1836; lieutenant-colonel, 1837. [vi. 143]

BRACKENBURY, JOSEPH (1788-1864), poet; graduated at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; chaplain to Madras establishment, 1812; published poems. [vi. 144]

BRACKENBURY or BRAKENBURY, SIR ROBERT (d. 1486), constable of the Tower; appointed master and worker of moneys and keeper of king's exchange at Tower of London, and constable for life of Tower, 1483; served against rebels headed by Henry Stafford, second duke of Buckingham [q. v.]; 'esquire of royal body'; keeper of lions in Tower, 1484; vice-admiral and commissioner of admiralty, 1484; knighted; sheriff of Kent, 1485; refused to obey command of Richard III to make away with princes in Tower and delivered keys to Sir James Tyrrell [q. v.]; held command under Richard at Bosworth and was killed. [Suppl. i. 246]

BRACKLEY, VISCOUNTS. [See EGBERTON, SIR THOMAS, first VISCOUNT, 1540?-1617; EGBERTON, JOHN, second VISCOUNT, 1679-1649.]

BRACTON, BRATTON, or BRETTON, HENRY DE (d. 1268), ecclesiastic and judge; justice itinerant for Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire, 1245, Northumberland, Westmoreland, Cumberland, and Lancashire, 1246, and western counties between 1280 and 1267; chancellor of Exeter Cathedral, 1264; prebendary of Exeter and of Bosham, and perhaps chief-justice; wrote, between 1235 and 1259, 'De Legibus et Consuetudinibus Anglie' (first complete edition, Richard Tottell's, 1569), the earliest attempt to treat the whole extent of the law in a manner at once systematic and practical. [vi. 144]

BRADBERRY, sometimes called BRADBURY, DAVID (1736-1803), nonconformist divine; minister of baptist congregations in London, Ramsgate, and Manchester; published religious works. [vi. 147]

BRADBIDGE or BRODEBRIDGE, WILLIAM (1501-1578), bishop of Exeter; B.A. Magdalen College, Oxford, 1528; fellow, 1529; M.A., 1532; B.D., 1539; espoused reformed religion and fled from England, 1553; prebendary of Sarum, 1555; canon of Chichester; subscribed to articles of 1562 and 1571; chancellor of Chichester, 1562; dean of Salisbury, 1563; bishop of Exeter, 1571. [vi. 147]

BRADBURN, SAMUEL (1751-1816), methodist preacher; itinerant minister, c. 1772, and one of the greatest preachers of his day. [vi. 149]

BRADBURY, GEORGE (d. 1696), judge; M.A. Oxford, 1663; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1667; one of chiefs of bar summoned to consult with peers on political crisis, 1688; judge in exchequer court, 1689. [vi. 149]

BRADBURY, HENRY (1831-1860), writer on printing; studied nature-printing in Vienna. [vi. 150]

BRADBURY, THOMAS (1677-1759), congregational minister; pastor of independent congregations in New Street, Fetter Lane, 1707, and at New Court, Lincoln's Inn Fields, 1728; published religious works and sermons, many of which were political. [vi. 150]

BRADDOCK, EDWARD (1696-1755), major-general; ensign, 1710; captain and lieutenant-colonel, grenadier company, 1735; second major, Coldstreams, 1743; accompanied Admiral Lestock's expedition to L'Orient, 1746; served under Prince of Orange in Holland, 1746-8; colonel of 14th foot at Gibraltar, 1753; major-general, 1754; general and commander-in-chief in North America, 1755; commanded expedition against Fort Duquesne, 1756, when he was mortally wounded. [vi. 153]

BRADDOCKE, JOHN (1656-1719), divine; M.A. St. Catharine's Hall, Cambridge, 1678; chaplain to Bishop of Exeter, 1707; master of Eastbridge Hospital, Kent, 1709. [vi. 155]

BRADDON, LAURENCE (d. 1724), politician; called to bar at Middle Temple; imprisoned, 1683-9, for disseminating rumours that Earl of Essex (who died in Tower, 1683) was murdered; solicitor to wine licence office, 1695; published works relating to Essex's death, and other writings. [vi. 155]

BRADE, JAMES (1795?-1860). [See BRAID.]

BRADE, WILLIAM (fl. 1615), English musician; violinist to Duke of Holstein-Gottorp and to town of Hamburg; capellmeister to margrave of Brandenburg, 1619; perhaps died at Frankfurt, 1647; published musical compositions. [vi. 156]

BRADFIELD, HENRY JOSEPH STEELE (1805-1852), surgeon and author; stipendiary magistrate in Tobago, 1835, and Trinidad, 1836; colonial secretary in Barbados, 1842; dismissed; published poetical and other works. [vi. 156]

BRADFORD, first EARL OF (1619-1708). [See NEWPORT, FRANCIS.]

BRADFORD, BARONS OF. [See NEWPORT, RICHARD, first BARON, 1567-1661; NEWPORT, FRANCIS, second BARON, 1619-1708.]

BRADFORD, JOHN (1510?-1556), protestant martyr; studied at Inner Temple, 1547; entered St. Oatharine's Hall, Cambridge, 1548; M.A., 1549; fellow of Pembroke Hall; chaplain to Bishop Ridley; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1551; one of king's chaplains in ordinary; imprisoned on charge of preaching seditious sermons, 1553-5; condemned and burnt at Smithfield; wrote sermons and other religious works and translations. [vi. 157]

BRADFORD, JOHN (d. 1780), Welsh poet, presided in bardic chair of Glamorgan, 1750. [vi. 159]

BRADFORD, JOHN (1750-1805), dissenting minister; B.A. Wadham College, Oxford; curate at Frelsham, Berkshire; joined Countess of Huntingdon's connexion; preached at City Chapel, Grub Street, London, 1797-1805; published religious works. [vi. 160]

BRADFORD, SAMUEL (1652-1731), bishop of Rochester; educated at St. Paul's School, Charterhouse, and Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; M.A., 1680; D.D., 1705; incorporated M.A. Oxford, 1697; rector of St. Mary-le-Bow, 1693; chaplain in ordinary to William III, 1698; prebendary of Westminster, 1708; Boyle lecturer, 1699; master of Corpus Christi College, 1716-24; bishop of Carlisle, 1718; bishop of Rochester and dean of Westminster, 1723; dean of order of Bath, 1725. [vi. 160]

BRADFORD, SIR THOMAS (1777-1853), general; ensign, 1793; assistant adjutant-general in Scotland, 1801; served in Peninsula, 1808; colonel, 1810; commanded Portuguese division at Vittoria; held command in France, 1815-17, and in Scotland, 1819-25; commander-in-chief at Bombay, 1825-9; G.C.B., 1838; general, 1841. [vi. 161]

BRADFORD WILLIAM (1590-1657), second governor of Plymouth, New England; joined Brownists, 1606, and followed them to Amsterdam, 1607; accompanied the community to Leyden, 1609, and, in the Mayflower, to Plymouth, New England, 1620; succeeded Carver as governor of Plymouth, 1621, and was re-elected every year (with exception of two intervals of three years and two years respectively at his own request); joint author of 'A Diary of Occurrences, 1622, leaving in manuscript a 'History of the Plymouth Plantation' (published 1856). [vi. 161]

BRADFORD, WILLIAM (1663-1752), first printer in Pennsylvania; accompanied William Penn on his first voyage to Pennsylvania, 1682; established first American paper mill, near Philadelphia, 1686; appointed royal printer for New York and New Jersey; projected first book printed in America, 1688; began publication of 'New York Gazette,' the first New York newspaper, 1725. [vi. 164]

BRADICK, WALTER (1706-1794), merchant at Lisbon; published poetical and other writings. [vi. 165]

BRADLAUGH, CHARLES (1833-1891), freethought advocate and politician; private soldier in army, 1850-3; clerk in solicitor's office in London, 1853; entered into freethought and radical propaganda under name of 'Iconoclast'; proprietor of 'National Reformer' from 1863; member of parliamentary reform league, 1866; elected M.P. for Northampton, 1880; was refused right to affirm instead of swearing on bible; unelected, re-elected, 1881, and was ejected from house by force; expelled, 1882; re-elected, 1882, and excluded, 1883; re-elected, 1884, excluded, 1885; again elected, 1885, and allowed to take his seat, 1886, remaining M.P. for Northampton till death. He engaged in several lawsuits to maintain freedom of press, published pamphlets, and from 1874 to 1885 was associated with Mrs. Besant's work. [Suppl. i. 248]

BRADLEY, CHARLES (1789-1871), preacher; educated at St. Edmund Hall, Oxford; vicar of Glasbury, Brecknockshire, 1825-71; incumbent of St. James's Chapel, Clapham, 1829-52; published sermons. [vi. 165]

BRADLEY, EDWARD (1827-1899), author of 'Verdant Green'; B.A. University College, Durham, 1848; licentiate in theology, 1849; rector of Stretton, Rutland, 1871; published 'Adventures of Mr. Verdant Green, an Oxford Freshman, 1853-6'; vicar of Lenton with Hanby, 1883; contributed extensively (as E. B. or 'Cuthbert Beale') to periodicals, and published works in verse and prose, some illustrated by himself. [Suppl. i. 250]

BRADLEY, GEORGE (1816-1863), editor of 'Newcastle Guardian,' 1848; published system of shorthand. [vi. 166]

BRADLEY, JAMES (1693-1762), divine and astronomer; M.A. Balliol College, Oxford, 1717; made observations on Jovian system and had his 'Corrected Tables' printed in Halley's 'Planetary Tables,' 1719; F.R.S., 1718; presented to vicarage of Bridstow, 1719; chaplain to bishop of Hereford; elected Savilian professor of astronomy at Oxford, and resigned preferments, 1721; announced discovery of 'aberration of light' in paper read to Royal Society, 1729; lecturer on experimental philosophy at Oxford, 1729-60; astronomer-royal, and D.D. by diploma, Oxford, 1742; published discovery of nutation of earth's axis in paper read to Royal Society, 1748, and was awarded Copley medal; member of council of Royal Society, 1752-62. His observations were published in two volumes (1798 and 1805). [vi. 166]

BRADLEY, RALPH (1717-1788), lawyer; called to bar at Gray's Inn; conveyancing barrister at Stockton-on-Tees; published works on conveyancing. [vi. 171]

BRADLEY, RICHARD (d. 1732), botanist; F.R.S., 1720; appointed professor of botany at Cambridge, 1724; lectured on 'Materia Medica,' 1729; published horticultural works. [vi. 172]

BRADLEY, THOMAS (1597-1670), divine; B.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1620; accompanied Buckingham to Isle of Rhé and Rochelle as chaplain, 1627; chaplain to Charles I, 1628; D.D. Oxford, 1642; temporarily deprived of his livings in Yorkshire by parliamentary committee; prebendary of York, 1666; published sermons. [vi. 172]

BRADLEY, THOMAS (1751-1813), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, and L.C.P., 1791; physician to Westminster Hospital, 1794-1811; published revised edition of Fox's 'Medical Dictionary,' 1803. [vi. 173]

BRADLEY, WILLIAM (1801-1857), portrait painter; exhibited at Royal Academy and other institutions between 1823 and 1846. [vi. 173]

BRADDOCK, THOMAS (fl. 1578-1604), translator; M.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1580; incorporated M.A. Oxford, 1584; head-master, Reading grammar school, 1588; translated into Latin Jewell's confutation of Harding's attack on Jewell's 'Apologia.' [vi. 173]

BRADSHAIGH, RICHARD (1601-1669). [See BARTON.]

BRADSHAW, ANN MARIA (1801-1862), actress and vocalist; née Tree; appeared, after 1819, as Ariel, Viola, Imogen, Julia ('Two Gentlemen of Verona'), Ophelia, and Rosalind at Covent Garden; retired, 1826. [vi. 174]

BRADSHAW, GEORGE (1801-1853), originator of railway guides; engraver and printer at Belfast and afterwards at Manchester; first produced, 1839, 'Railway Time Tables,' which developed into 'Bradshaw's Monthly Railway Guide' (first published 1841); associate of Institution of Civil Engineers, 1842. [vi. 174]

BRADSHAW, HENRY (d. 1513), Benedictine monk of Chester; studied theology at Gloucester College, Oxford. Wrote 'De Antiquitate et Magnificencia Urbis Oestriae' and 'Oronicon and a Life of St. Werburgh' in English verse (published 1521). [vi. 175]

BRADSHAW, HENRY (d. 1661), parliamentary; elder brother of John Bradshaw (1602-1659) [q. v.]; served in parliamentary army; sat on court-martial which tried Earl of Derby and other royalists at Chester, 1652; imprisoned for this act, 1660-1; pardoned, 1661. [vi. 181]

BRADSHAW, HENRY (1831-1886), scholar, antiquary, and librarian; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; fellow, 1853; B.A., 1854; assistant in Cambridge University Library, 1856-8; appointed to supervise and arrange manuscripts and early printed books at Cambridge, 1859; took prominent part in exposing pretences of forger Simonides, 1663; librarian of the university, 1667-86; published treatises on typographical and antiquarian subjects, some containing original discoveries. The 'Henry Bradshaw Society,' for editing rare liturgical texts, was founded in his memory, 1890. [Suppl. I. 261]

BRADSHAW, JAMES (1636?-1702), nonconformist divine; educated at Corpus Christi College, Oxford; ordained minister of Hindley, Lancashire; concerned in Sir George Booth's royalist rising; ejected, 1662; minister at Rainford chapel, Prescot, 1672; published religious works. [vi. 176]

BRADSHAW, JAMES (1717-1746), Jacobite rebel; merchant in Manchester; joined cause of Young Pretender, 1746; captured at Culloden and subsequently executed. [vi. 176]

BRADSHAW, JOHN (1576-1618). [See WHITE.]

BRADSHAW, JOHN (1602-1659), regicide; called to bar at Gray's Inn, 1627; judge of sheriffs' court, in London, 1643; chief-justice of Chester and judge in Wales, 1647; serjeant-at-law, 1648; lord president of parliamentary commission for trial of Charles I, 1649; presided at Charles's trial and pronounced sentence, and subsequently at trials of leading royalists; president of council of state, 1649-52; attorney-general of Cheshire and North Wales, 1649; chancellor of duchy of Lancaster, 1649-53; opposed Cromwell's gradual assumption of arbitrary power, and temporarily retired from political life; member of council of state and commissioner of great seal, 1659; buried in Westminster Abbey. In 1660 Bradshaw, Cromwell, Ireton, and Pride, though dead, were attainted, and their bodies exhumed, hanged, and reburied at Tyburn. [vi. 176]

BRADSHAW, JOHN (fl. 1679), political writer; condemned to death for violence at Corpus Christi College, Oxford, but pardoned; subsequently turned quaker and, later, papist. [vi. 181]

BRADSHAW, LUORETTA (fl. 1714), actress; married Martin Folkes [q. v.], 1714; played Sylvia in the 'Double Dealer.' [xix. 362]

BRADSHAW, RICHARD (fl. 1650), parliamentarian; quartermaster-general under Sir William Brereton [q. v.] in civil war; employed by parliament on diplomatic missions, 1650-9; commissioner of navy, 1660. [vi. 181]

BRADSHAW, THOMAS (fl. 1591), poet; M.A. Oxford, 1549; published 'The Shepherd's Starre,' 1591, a Theocritean paraphrase in prose and verse. [vi. 182]

BRADSHAW, WILLIAM (1571-1618), puritan divine; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge; came under influence of Thomas Cartwright [q. v.]; fellow of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, 1599; lecturer at Chatham, 1601, but suspended for heretical teaching; lecturer at Christ Church, Newgate, c. 1605; published 'English Puritanisme,' 1605, basing a scheme of church polity on complete autonomy of individual congregations, while advocating strongly duty of submission to civil authority. [vi. 182]

BRADSHAW, WILLIAM (fl. 1700), hack writer, employed by the eccentric bookseller John Dunton, whom he robbed. [vi. 185]

BRADSHAW, WILLIAM (1671-1732), bishop of Bristol; M.A. New College, Oxford, 1700; prebendary of Canterbury, 1717; D.D., 1723; dean of Christ Church, Oxford, and bishop of Bristol, 1724. [vi. 186]

BRADSHAW, NICHOLAS (fl. 1635), author of 'Canticum Evangelicvm Summam Sacri Evangelii continens,' 1635. [vi. 186]

BRADSTREET, ANNE (1612-1672), poetess; née Dudley; settled at Chariestown, New England, 1630, at Ipswich, 1634, and Merrimac, 1638; published 'The Tenth Muse' (1650), and left in manuscript 'Meditations.' [vi. 186]

BRADSTREET, DUDLEY (1711-1768), adventurer; employed as spy by government officials and the Dukes of Newcastle and Cumberland during Jacobite rising, 1745; wrote an acting play entitled the 'Magician, or Bottle Conjurer,' printed with his 'Life' (1765). [vi. 187]

BRADSTREET, ROBERT (1766-1836), poet; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1789; published 'The Sabine Farm,' a poem, 1810. [vi. 187]

BRADSTREET, SIR SAMUEL (1735?-1791), baronet; called to Irish bar, 1758; recorder of Dublin, 1766; M.P. for city of Dublin in Irish parliament, 1776 and 1783; judge, 1784; commissioner of great seal, 1788. [vi. 188]

BRADWARDINE, THOMAS (1290?-1349), archbishop of Canterbury; educated at Merton College, Oxford; university proctor, 1325; expanded his lectures on theology into a treatise which earned for him the title of Doctor Profundus; chaplain to Richard of Bury, bishop of Durham, 1335; chancellor and prebendary of St. Paul's, 1337; prebendary of Lincoln; royal chaplain and confessor, 1338; one of commissioners to treat of peace with King Philip after battles of Cressy and Neville's Cross; consecrated archbishop of Canterbury at Avignon, 1349; wrote religious treatises. [vi. 188]

BRADY, SIR ANTONIO (1811-1881), admiralty official; second-class clerk in accountant-general's office, Somerset House, 1844; registrar of contracts, 1864; first superintendent of admiralty new contract department, 1869-70; knighted, 1870; devoted himself to social, educational, and religious reforms. [vi. 190]

BRADY, HENRY BOWMAN (1835-1891), naturalist and pharmacist; carried on business as pharmaceutical chemist at Newcastle, 1855-76; on council of pharmaceutical Society; F.L.S., 1859-87; F.R.S., 1874; honorary LL.D. Aberdeen, 1888; published 'Report on Foraminifera, collected by H.M.S. Challenger,' 1884, and other works. [Suppl. i. 254]

BRADY, HUGH (d. 1584), Irish bishop; bishop of Meath and Irish privy councillor, 1563; bishop of united see of Meath and Clonmacnoise from 1568. [Suppl. i. 254]

BRADY, JOHN (d. 1814), clerk in victualling office; published 'Clavis Calendaria,' 1812. [vi. 191]

BRADY, SIR MAZIERE (1796-1871), Irish lawyer; M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1819; called to Irish bar, 1819; solicitor-general for Ireland, 1837; attorney-general, 1839; chief baron of exchequer, 1840; judge of Irish court of chancery, 1846; lord chancellor in Ireland, 1847-52, 1853-8 and 1859-66; first vice-chancellor of the Queen's University, 1850; created baronet, 1869. [vi. 191]

BRADY, NICHOLAS (1659-1726), divine and poet; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1682; B.A. Dublin, 1686; M.A., 1686; D.D., 1699; prebendary of Cork, 1688; upheld cause of Prince of Orange during revolution; held living of Richmond, Surrey, 1696-1726, rectory of Stratford-on-Avon, 1702-5, and rectory of Clapham, 1705-8; chaplain to William III, Mary, and Anne, and to Duke of Ormonde's regiment of horse; wrote, with Nahum Tate, metrical version of Psalms. [vi. 192]

BRADY, ROBERT (d. 1700), historian and physician; M.D. and master of Caius College, Cambridge, 1660; F.R.S., 1680; physician in ordinary to Charles II and James II; regius professor of physic at Cambridge; M.P. for the university, 1681 and 1686; published works on English history. [vi. 193]

BRADY, THOMAS (1752?-1827), general; major-general, 1796, and lieutenant-general, 1801, in Austrian service; governor of Dalmatia, 1804; privy councillor, 1807; general, 1809. [vi. 193]

BRAGG, PHILIP (d. 1759), lieutenant-general; served in Marlborough's campaigns; captain in Ireland, 1713; master of Royal Hospital, Kilmalsham, 1732; lieutenant-general, 1747; M.P. for Armagh. [vi. 194]

BRAGGE, WILLIAM (1823-1884), engineer and antiquary; engineer on railway from Chester to Holyhead; engaged in railway engineering in Brazil; managing director of firm of Sir John Brown & Co., Sheffield, 1858-72; developed organisation for manufacture of watches by machinery at Birmingham, 1876; collected books and curios; F.S.A.; F.R.G.S. [vi. 194]

BRAHAM, FRANCES ELIZABETH ANNE, afterwards Countess Waldegrave (1821-1879). [See WALDEGRAVE.]

BRAHAM, JOHN (1774?-1856), tenor singer; first appeared at Covent Garden, 1787; engaged at Royalty Theatre, Wellclose Square, 1787-9; at Bath, 1794-6; achieved great success at Drury Lane, 1796; toured on continent with Nancy Storace, 1797-1801; associated with Storace at Drury Lane from 1805 until her retirement, 1808; continued attached to Drury Lane, but appeared also at other theatres, in Italian opera, and in most provincial festivals and important concerts and oratorios; made provincial tour with Mrs. Billington, 1810; joined Yates in buying the Colosseum, Regent's Park, 1831, and built St. James's Theatre, 1835, both speculations proving disastrous; toured unsuccessfully in America, 1840; retired, 1852. The duet 'All's Well' is one of the best-remembered of his works. [vi. 195]

BRAHAM, ROBERT (fl. 1555), editor of Lydgate's 'Ancient Historie of Warres betwixte Grecians and Troyans' (1555). [vi. 187]

BRAID, JAMES (1795?-1860), writer on hypnotism; educated at Edinburgh University; M.R.O.S.E.; surgeon to miners at Earl Hopetoun's works in Lanarkshire; made experiments relating to mesmerism, and proved the personal nature of the mesmeric influence: published works on hypnotism, which term he originated. [vi. 198]

BRAIDLEY, BENJAMIN (1799-1845), writer on Sunday schools; constable of Manchester, 1831, and boroughreeve, 1832; high constable of hundred of Salford; published a work on 'Sunday Schools.' [vi. 199]

BRAIDWOOD, JAMES (1800-1861), superintendent of London fire-brigade; builder, and afterwards superintendent of fire-engines in Edinburgh; superintendent of London fire-engine establishment, 1832; killed in a fire near London Bridge; published pamphlet relating to fire-brigades. [vi. 199]

BRAIDWOOD, THOMAS (1715-1806), teacher of the deaf and dumb; educated at Edinburgh University; kept mathematical school at Edinburgh, and subsequently school for teaching the deaf and dumb, which he removed, in 1783, to Hackney. [vi. 199]

BRAILSFORD, JOHN, the elder (fl. 1712-1739), poetical writer; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1717; rector of Kirby, Nottinghamshire. [vi. 200]

BRAILSFORD, JOHN, the younger (d. 1775), divine; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1766; head-master of free school, Birmingham, 1766-75. [vi. 200]

BRAITHWAITE, JOHN (fl. 1660), quaker; follower of George Fox, writing in support of his doctrines. [vi. 200]

BRAITHWAITE, JOHN (1700?-1768?), historian; served under African Company, in fleet in Anne's reign, and, later, in army; published 'History of Morocco, 1727-8' (1729). [vi. 201]

BRAITHWAITE, JOHN, the elder (d. 1818), engineer; constructed one of the earliest successful diving bells, c. 1783. [vi. 201]

BRAITHWAITE, JOHN, the younger (1797-1870), engineer; son of John Braithwaite (d. 1818) [q. v.]; arranged ventilation of House of Lords by means of air-pumps, 1820; constructed donkey-engine, 1822; manufactured first practical steam fire-engine, c. 1829; built with Ericsson calorific engine, 1833; engineer-in-chief to Eastern Counties railway, 1836-43; F.S.A., 1819; M.I.C.E., 1838; M.S.A., 1819; joint-founder and editor of 'Railway Times', 1837. [vi. 201]

BRAITHWAITE, RICHARD (1688?-1673). [See BRATHWAITE.]

BRACKLONDE, JOCELIN DE (fl. 1200). [See JOCELIN.]

BRAMAH, JOSEPH (1748-1814), inventor; worked as cabinet-maker in London; invented Bramah locks; patented the 'Bramah' hydraulic press, 1795. [vi. 202]

BRAMHALL, JOHN (1894-1663), archbishop of Armagh; M.A. Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, 1616; D.D., 1630; sub-dean of Ripon; chaplain to Wentworth in Ireland, 1633; bishop of Derry, 1634; impeached by Irish Commons for rigorous opposition to covenanters, and imprisoned, but liberated through influence of Ussher, 1641; came to England and assisted royalists, 1644; retired to continent, 1644; in Ireland, 1648-9, but again retired to continent; archbishop of Armagh, 1661; speaker of Irish House of Lords, 1661; enforced conformity, though with comparative moderation. His religious writings were collected and published 1677. [vi. 203]

BRAMIS or BROMIS, JOHN (14th cent.), writer; monk of Thetford; translated 'Romance of Waldef' from French metre into Latin prose. [vi. 206]

BRAMLEY-MOORE, JOHN (1800-1886), chairman of the Liverpool docks; in trade in the Brazils; alderman of Liverpool, 1841; chairman of dockyard committee, 1842; mayor, 1848; conservative M.P. for Maldon, 1854-9, and for Lincoln, 1862-5; chairman of Brazilian chamber of commerce in Liverpool. [Suppl. i. 255]

BRAMSTON, FRANÇOIS (d. 1683), judge; son of Sir John Bramston the elder [q. v.]; M.A. Queens' College, Cambridge, 1640; fellow, c. 1642; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1642; steward of king's courts in Essex, 1660; bench and reader of Middle Temple, 1668; serjeant-at-law and steward of court of common pleas, Whitechapel, 1669; baron of exchequer, 1678-9. [vi. 206]

BRAMSTON, JAMES (1694?-1744), poet; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1720; vicar of two Sussex parishes; published 'Art of Politicks,' 1729, and 'Man of Taste,' and other poems. [vi. 207]

BRAMSTON, JAMES YORKE (1763-1836), catholic bishop; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge; studied at Lincoln's Inn; theological student at English college, Lisbon, 1792; engaged in missionary work at Lisbon; entrusted with catholic mission in St. George's-in-the-Fields; vicar-general of London district, under Bishop Poynter, 1819; vicar-apostolic, 1827; bishop of Usulut in partibus infidelium, 1823. [vi. 207]

BRAMSTON, SIR JOHN, the elder (1577-1654), judge; educated at Jesus College, Cambridge; studied at Middle Temple; reader, 1623; counsel to Cambridge University, 1607; serjeant-at-law, 1623; queen's serjeant, 1632; king's serjeant, 1634; chief-justice of king's bench, 1635; presided temporarily in House of Lords, 1640; impeached by Commons for subscribing opinion on ship-money, 1640; removed from office in king's bench, 1642, but restored, 1643, having been made serjeant-at-law. [vi. 208]

BRAMSTON, SIR JOHN, the younger (1611-1700), lawyer; son of Sir John Bramston (1577-1654) [q. v.]; educated at Wadham College, Oxford; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1635; K.B., 1660; frequently acted as chairman of committees of whole House of Commons; M.P. for Maldon, 1685, and, later, for Chelmsford; left autobiography (published 1845). [vi. 210]

BRAMWELL, GEORGE WILLIAM WILSHERE, BARON BRAMWELL (1808-1892), judge; studied law under Fitzroy Kelly [q. v.]; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1838; joined home circuit; Q.C., 1851; served, 1853, on commission resulting in Companies Act (1862), appointed judge of exchequer and knighted, 1856; lord justice, 1876-81; raised to peerage, 1882. [Suppl. i. 256]

BRANCASTRE or BRANKESTRE, JOHN DE (d. 1218), clerk in exchequer; vicar of Brancastre, Norfolk; prebendary of Lincoln, 1208. [vi. 211]

BRANCH, THOMAS (fl. 1753), author of 'Thoughts on Dreaming' (1739) and 'Principia Legis et Aequitatis' (1753). [vi. 211]

BRANCKER or BRANKER, THOMAS (1633-1676), mathematician; B.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1655; fellow, 1656; M.A., 1658; rector of Tilston, near Malpas, 1668; head-master of Macclesfield grammar school; published translation of introduction to algebra from High Dutch of Rhonius. [vi. 211]

BRAND, BARBARINA, LADY DACRE (1768-1854), poet and dramatist; daughter of Admiral Sir Chaloner Ogle; married, first, Valentine Wilmot, and, secondly, 1819, Thomas Brand, twenty-first lord Dacre; wrote dramas, translations, and poems. [vi. 213]

BRAND, HANNAH (d. 1821), actress and dramatist; schoolmistress at Norwich; appeared at King's Theatre, Haymarket, in her own tragedy of 'Huniadas,' 1799; played Lady Townly in 'Provoked Husband' at York Theatre, 1794; again became governess; published 'Dramatic and Poetical Works,' 1798. [vi. 212]

BRAND, SIR HENRY-BOUVERIE WILLIAM, first Viscount Hampden and twenty-third Baron Dacre (1814-1892), speaker; educated at Eton; private secretary to Sir George Grey [q. v.], 1846; liberal M.P. for Lewes, 1852, 1857, 1859, and 1865, and for Cambridgeshire, 1868-1884; parliamentary secretary to treasury, 1859-66; speaker of House of Commons, 1872-84; G.O.B., 1881; created Viscount Hampden of Glynde, 1884; succeeded to title of Dacre, 1890. [Suppl. i. 257]

BRAND, SIR JOHANNES HENRICUS (JAN HENDRIK) (1823-1888), president of the Orange Free State; born at Cape Town; educated at South African College, Cape Town, and Leyden; LL.D. Leyden, 1845; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1849; practised in supreme court of Cape Colony; member for Olanwilliam in first House of Assembly, 1854; professor of law, South African College, 1858; elected president of Orange Free State, 1863; engaged in war with Basutos, 1865-6 and 1867; re-elected president, 1869, 1874, and 1879; remained neutral during Transvaal war, 1881; G.O.M.G., 1886; resigned, 1887, in consequence of vote of censure of Raad on his negotiations with President Kruger of Transvaal, who unsuccessfully sought his alliance against British on railway question; withdrew resignation. [Suppl. i. 258]

BRAND, JOHN (1668?-1738), Scottish minister; M.A. Edinburgh, 1688; minister of Borrowstouness, Linlithgowshire, 1695; journeyed to Orkney, 1701, and published 'A Brief Description of Orkney.' [vi. 213]

BRAND, JOHN (1744-1806), antiquary; apprenticed as cordwainer at Newcastle, 1758; B.A. Lincoln College, Oxford, 1775; received perpetual curacy of Cramlington, near Newcastle, 1774; F.S.A., 1777; rector of St. Mary-at-Hill and St. Mary Hubbard, London, 1784; resident secretary to Society of Antiquaries, 1784-1806; published 'History of Newcastle-upon-Tyne' and other works, leaving in manuscript antiquarian collections. [vi. 213]

BRAND, JOHN (d. 1808), divine; M.A. Caius College, Cambridge, 1772; rector of St. George's, Southwark, 1797-1808; published in tory interest pamphlets on politics and political economy. [vi. 214]

BRAND, THOMAS (1635-1691), nonconformist divine; educated at Merton College, Oxford; studied law at the Temple; ordained minister of Staplehurst, whence he was driven by persecution. He built many meeting-houses, and devoted large sums to charitable purposes. [vi. 215]

BRANDARD, ROBERT (1805-1862), engraver; studied under Edward Goodall; exhibited oil and water-colour paintings between 1831 and 1858. [vi. 216]

BRANDE, WILLIAM THOMAS (1788-1866), chemist; apprenticed as apothecary; delivered lectures in London on physics, chemistry, and materia medica, 1808; F.R.S., 1809; professor of chemistry, 1812, and, later, of materia medica, to Apothecaries' Company; succeeded Sir Humphry Davy as professor of chemistry at Royal Institution, 1813; chief officer of coinage department of mint, 1854; joint-editor of 'Quarterly Journal of Science and Art,' 1825; one of secretaries of Royal Society, 1816-1826; fellow and member of Senate of London University, and examiner in chemistry, 1846-58; hon. D.C.L. Oxford; F.R.S. Edinburgh; published 'Manual of Chemistry' and 'Dictionary of Pharmacy and Materia Medica,' besides editing 'Dictionary of Science and Art,' 1842. [vi. 216]

BRANDER, GUSTAVUS (1720-1787), merchant and antiquary; trader in London; director of Bank of England; F.R.S.; curator of British Museum; collected antiquarian curiosities, pictures, and books. [vi. 218]

BRANDON, first Viscount (d. 1694). [See GERARD, CHARLES.]

BRANDON, CHARLES, first Duke of Suffolk (d. 1545), soldier and statesman; squire of the royal body to Henry VIII, and chamberlain of principality of North Wales, 1409; marshal of king's bench, 1510; ranger of New Forest, 1512; created Viscount Lisle, 1513; marshal of army invading France, 1513; created Duke of Suffolk, 1514; went on royal mission to France, 1514, and, although he had already a wife living, secretly married Henry's sister, Mary, at Paris, 1516, the validity of the marriage being secured by a papal bull; accompanied Henry to Field of Cloth of Gold, 1520; commanded unsuccessful invasion of France, 1523; supported Henry in efforts to obtain divorce from Catherine of Arragon; warden of marches against Scotland, 1542; commanded army invading France and captured Boulogne, 1544; steward of king's household. [vi. 218]

BRANDON, HENRY (1535-1551), and CHARLES (1537?-1551), Dukes of Suffolk; sons of Charles Brandon, first duke of Suffolk [q. v.]; educated under Thomas (afterwards Sir Thomas) Wilson, and at St. John's College, Cambridge, where they caught the sweating sickness, which proved fatal. [vi. 222]

BRANDON, JOHN (fl. 1687), divine; B.A. Oriel College, Oxford, 1685; rector of Finchamstead; published religious works. [vi. 222]

BRANDON, JOHN RAPHAEL (1817-1877), architect; carried on business with his brother, Joshua Arthur Brandon [q. v.], whom he assisted in writing 'Parish Churches,' 1848, 'Analysis of Gothic Architecture,' 1847, and 'Open Timber Roofs of Middle Ages,' 1849; committed suicide. [vi. 222]

BRANDON, JOSHUA ARTHUR (1802-1847), architect; joint-author with his brother, John Raphael Brandon [q. v.], in architectural publications. [vi. 222]

BRANDON, RICHARD (d. 1649), executioner of Charles I and various distinguished royalists; son of Gregory Brandon, common hangman of London. [vi. 223]

BRANDON, SAMUEL (16th cent.), author of 'The Tragi-comedy of the Virtuous Octavia,' 1598. [vi. 224]

BRANDON, SIR THOMAS (d. 1609), diplomatist; uncle to Charles Brandon, duke of Suffolk [q. v.]; Lancastrian; accompanied embassies to conclude peace with France, 1492, and a treaty with Emperor Maximilian at Antwerp, 1503; held offices in royal household; K.G. [vi. 224]

BRANDRAM, SAMUEL (1824-1892), reciter; educated at Merchant Taylors' and King's College schools and Trinity College, Oxford; M.A., 1849; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1850; practised as barrister till 1876; became professional reciter, gaining wide popularity; published selections for recitation. [Suppl. i. 260]

BRANDRETH, JEREMIAH, called JEREMIAH COKE (d. 1817), rebel; served in army; headed, as tool of one Oliver, a rising in midland counties; executed at Derby. [vi. 224]

BRANDRETH, JOSEPH (1746-1815), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1770; established the Dispensary at Liverpool; published medical treatises. [vi. 225]

BRANDRETH, THOMAS SHAW (1788-1873), scholar and mathematician; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; second wrangler, second Smith's prizeman, and chancellor's medallist, 1810; M.A., 1813; fellow; called to bar; practised at Liverpool; F.R.S., 1821; invented several mechanical devices connected with locomotion; published a treatise on the digamma, and a verse translation of the 'Iliad.' [vi. 226]

BRANDT, FRANÇOIS FREDERICK (1819-1874), legal writer; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1847; published treatises, relating chiefly to the law as affecting sport. [vi. 226]

BRANDWOOD, JAMES (1739-1828), quaker; joined quakers, 1761, and became itinerant preacher. A selection from his letters and papers was published posthumously, 1828. [vi. 226]

BRANKER, THOMAS (1633-1676). [See BRANCKER.]

BRANSEY, JAMES HEWS (1783-1847), unitarian divine; minister of presbyterian congregation at Moreton Hampstead, Devonshire, 1803; kept a school at Dudley; developed tendency to kleptomania, and subsequently committed forgery, and was permitted to retire to Wales, 1828; published historical and other works. [vi. 227]

BRANSTON, ALLEN ROBERT (1778-1827), wood-engraver; apprenticed to his father as copper-plate engraver; came to London, 1799; illustrated Bloomfield's 'Wild Flowers,' 1806, and other works. [vi. 227]

BRANTHWAITE, WILLIAM (d. 1620), translator of the bible; B.A. Clare Hall, Cambridge, 1582; fellow of Emmanuel College, 1584; M.A., 1586; D.D., 1598; member of one of two Cambridge committees appointed to revise translation of bible, 1607-11, his share being the Apocrypha. [vi. 228]

BRANTINGHAM, THOMAS DE (d. 1394), lord treasurer and bishop of Exeter; canon and prebendary of St. Paul's, 1361; treasurer of Calais and Guisnes, 1361-8; prebendary of Hereford, 1363; treasurer of Bath and Wells Cathedral, 1367; lord treasurer, 1369-71, 1377-81, and 1389; bishop of Exeter, 1370; one of lords appointed to reform and regulate realm and king's household, 1386. [Suppl. i. 260]

BRANWHITE, CHARLES (1817-1880), landscape painter; son of Nathan Branwhite [q.v.]; practised as landscape painter in water-colour; exhibited pictures from 1849. [vi. 228]

BRANWHITE, NATHAN (A. 1895), miniature painter and engraver; son of Peregrine Branwhite [q.v.]; exhibited at Royal Academy between 1802 and 1826. [vi. 228]

BRANWHITE, PEREGRINE (1745-1795?), minor poet; conducted a school at Lavenham, Suffolk; published poetical writings. [vi. 229]

BRASSE, PHILIP DE (A. 1172), soldier; uncle of William de Brasse [q.v.]; held command in Henry II's military operations at Wexford, 1172. [vi. 229]

BRASSE, WILLIAM DE (d. 1211), rebel baron; sheriff of Herefordshire, 1192-9; justice itinerant in Staffordshire, 1196; with Richard in Normandy, 1195; granted, by John, all the lands he could conquer from Welsh; sheriff of Herefordshire, 1206-7; obtained honour of Limerick (without the city), 1201; attended John at Rouen, 1203; received grant of city of Limerick at ferm, 1203; lost favour, and subsequently (1210) raised a rebellion in Wales; died an outlaw in France. [vi. 229]

BRASBRIDGE, JOSEPH (1743-1832), autobiographer; silversmith in London; became bankrupt; published 'Fruits of Experience,' an autobiography, 1824. [vi. 231]

BRASBRIDGE, THOMAS (A. 1590), divine; fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1562; M.A., 1564; obtained living at Banbury, where he opened a school and practised medicine; published miscellaneous writings. [vi. 231]

BRASBRIGG or BRACEBRIGGE, JOHN (A. 1428), priest of convent of Syon. Reputed author of manuscript entitled 'Catholicon continens quatuor partes grammaticæ.' [vi. 231]

BRASS or BRASSE, JOHN (1790-1833), educational writer; rector, Trinity College, Cambridge, 1811; M.A., 1814; D.D., 1829; held living of Stotfold, Bedfordshire, 1824-33; published educational works. [vi. 231]

BRASSEY, ANNA or ANNIE, BARONESS BRASSEY (1839-1887), traveller and authoress; née Allnut; married, 1860, Mr. Thomas Brassey (created Baron Brassey, 1886); published 'Voyage of the Sunbeam,' 1878, and other descriptions of long sea-voyages; dame chevalière of order of St. John of Jerusalem, 1881; died at sea near Brisbane. [Suppl. i. 261]

BRASSEY, THOMAS (1805-1870), railway contractor; originally articled to a land surveyor; contracted for various works on London and Southampton railway, and subsequently for many large railway undertakings, including English Great Northern (1847-51), Canadian Grand Trunk (1852-9), Ormeau (1854), Australian (1859-1863), Argentine (1864), and Indian (1858-66). [vi. 232]

BRATHWAITE, RICHARD (1588?-1673), poet; educated at Oriel College, Oxford; possibly served on royalist side in civil war; produced between 1611 and 1666 a number of works of varying merit, of which the most famous is 'Barnabe Ruminarium, or Barnabee's Journal,' a record of English travel in doggerel verse (1638). [vi. 233]

BRAVONIUS (d. 1207). [See SENATUS.]

BRAXFIELD, LORD (1722-1799). [See MACQUEEN, ROBERT.]

BRAY, ANNA ELIZA (1790-1893), novelist; née Kempe; married Charles Alfred Stothard [q.v.], an artist, 1818; he died, 1821, while engaged on a work, 'Monumental Effigies of Great Britain,' which was completed by his widow and published 1832; she married, secondly, the Rev. Edward Atkins Bray [q.v.]; published several novels of historical character between 1826 and 1874, besides other writings, including letters to Southey on legends of the Tamar and Tavy. [vi. 234]

BRAY, CHARLES (1811-1884), philosophical writer; ribbon manufacturer at Coventry, 1835 till 1856; engaged in numerous enterprises for amelioration of condition of working classes; published philosophical writings, based chiefly on phrenology and the doctrine of necessity. [vi. 235]

BRAY, EDWARD ATKYNS (1778-1857), miscellaneous writer; called to the bar at Middle Temple, 1806; joined western circuit, but abandoned law for the church; vicar of Tavistock and perpetual curate of Brent Tor, 1812; B.D. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1822; published selections of sermons by eminent divines. His 'Poetical Remains' appeared, 1859. [vi. 236]

BRAY, JOHN (A. 1377), physician; author of a manuscript list of herbs in Latin, French, and English. [vi. 237]

BRAY, SIR REGINALD (d. 1503), statesman and architect; receiver-general and steward of household to Sir Henry Stafford, second husband of Margaret, countess of Richmond, mother of Earl of Richmond, afterwards Henry VII; actively engaged in bringing about marriage of Earl of Richmond with the Princess Elizabeth; created K.B. at Henry VII's coronation; K.t.; privy councillor and joint chief-justice of forests south of Trent; high treasurer and chancellor of duchy of Lancaster; paymaster of forces in Brittany, 1492; high steward of Oxford (and perhaps of Cambridge) university, 1494; knight-banneret, after Blackheath, 1497; conducted improvements in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and probably designed Henry VII's Chapel, Westminster. [vi. 237]

BRAY, THOMAS (1656-1730), divine; B.A. All Souls' College, Oxford, 1678; M.A. Hart Hall, 1693; rector of Sheldon, 1690; published 'Catechetical Lectures,' which brought him immediate popularity; selected by the bishop of London as his commissary in Maryland, which province had lately been divided into parishes; projected a scheme for establishing parochial libraries in England, which was successful, and developed into the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge; D.D. Magdalen College, Oxford, 1698; arrived in Maryland, 1700, but returned at once, finding that he could serve the Maryland church better in England; obtained charter incorporating society for propagating gospel throughout British plantations, 1701; received living of St. Botolph-without, Aldgate, 1706; negrophile; published religious works and writings relating to his various projects. [vi. 239]

BRAY, THOMAS (1759-1820), archbishop of Cashel; author of a work in Latin and English (privately printed, 1813), containing a papal bull against freemasonry, and a decree of Council of Trent against duellists; D.D. [vi. 241]

BRAY, WILLIAM (d. 1644), divine; M.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1620; B.D., 1631; chaplain to Archbishop Laud; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1632; vicar of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, 1633; sequestered, 1643. [vi. 241]

BRAY, WILLIAM (1736-1832), [antiquary; educated at Rugby; held position in board of green cloth for nearly fifty years; F.S.A., 1771, treasurer, 1803. He completed the Rev. Owen Manning's 'History of Surrey' (1804-14), and published antiquarian writings of his own. [vi. 242]

BRAYBROOK, HENRY DE (d. 1234?), judge; sheriff of Rutlandshire, Buckinghamshire, Northamptonshire, and Bedfordshire; joined barons against John, and was excommunicated, 1215; reinstated in his lands after battle of Lincoln, 1217; justice of assize in Bedfordshire and Buckinghamshire, 1224; imprisoned by Falkes de Breauté [q.v.]; justice itinerant for Bedfordshire and Buckinghamshire, 1226; justice of bench, 1227. [vi. 242]

BRAYBROKE, ROBERT DE (d. 1404), ecclesiastic and judge; licentiate in civil law at Oxford; prebendary of York, 1364, Lincoln, 1378, and Lichfield, 1379; dean of Salisbury, 1380; bishop of London and chancellor of Bristol, 1381; tried, unsuccessfully, to mediate between Richard II and barons, 1387; reformed chapter of St. Paul's, 1398; privy councillor under Henry IV. [vi. 243]

BRAYBROOKE, BARONS OF. [See GRIFFIN, JOHN GRIFFIN, first BARON, 1719-1797; NEVILLE, RICHARD ALDWORTH GRIFFIN, second BARON, 1750-1825; NEVILLE, RICHARD GRIFFIN, third BARON, 1783-1858; NEVILLE, RICHARD CORNWALLIS, fourth BARON, 1820-1861.]

BRAYLEY, EDWARD WEDLAKE, the elder (1773-1854), topographer and archaeologist; associated with John Britton (1771-1857) [q. v.] in several publications, including 'Beauties of England and Wales,' to which he contributed; F.S.A., 1823; librarian and secretary of Russell Institution, Great Coram Street, 1826-54; published topographical and archaeological works. [vi. 244]

BRAYLEY, EDWARD WILLIAM, the younger (1802-1870), writer on science; son of Edward Wellake Brayley [q. v.]; studied science in London and Royal Institutions; joint-librarian of London Institution, Finsbury Circus; joint-editor of 'Annals of Philosophy,' 'Zoological Journal,' and 'Philosophical Magazine,' 1822-1846; an original member of the Chemical and Zoological societies; wrote and edited several scientific works, and contributed to 'English Cyclopædia' and other works; F.R.S., 1854. [vi. 246]

BRAYNE, WILLIAM (d. 1657), governor of Jamaica; Lieutenant-colonel of foot in Scotland, 1653; governor of Inverlochy; governor of Jamaica, 1656-7. [Suppl. i. 262]

BREADALBANE, second MARQUIS (1796-1862). [See CAMPBELL, JOHN.]

BREADALBANE, EARLS. [See CAMPBELL, JOHN, first EARL, 1635-1716; CAMPBELL, JOHN, third EARL, 1696-1732; CAMPBELL, JOHN, fifth EARL, 1796-1862.]

BREAKEPEAR, NICHOLAS (d. 1159). [See ADRIAN IV.]

BREARCLIFFE, JOHN (1609?-1682). [See BRIERCLIFFE.]

BREAUTÉ, FALKES DE (d. 1226), military adventurer; a Norman of mean birth; sheriff of Glamorgan, 1211; became one of John's evil counsellors; held command in royal army against barons, 1215-17; conducted his operations with considerable success, and contributed largely to the victory over the dauphin Louis at Lincoln which virtually ended the war; abetted Albemarle's revolt, 1220; assisted Hubert de Burgh in quelling insurrection in favour of Louis at Oxford, 1222; joined Earl of Chester and other lords in scheme for seizing the Tower, 1223; surrendered to king at Northampton on threats of excommunication; found guilty of more than thirty acts of wrongful disseisin, 1224, and heavily fined; ordered his garrison at Bedford to seize the justices, one of them, Henry de Braybroc [q. v.], being in consequence captured and imprisoned at Bedford Castle, which was commanded by Falkes's brother William, and was surrendered to the king after a stubborn resistance; captured soon afterwards, and his possessions being forfeited, was committed to keeping of bishop of London; banished, 1225; enlisted the sympathies of the pope, who appealed unsuccessfully to Henry III in his behalf. [vi. 247]

BRECHIN, SIR DAVID (d. 1321), Scottish warrior; gained title of 'The Flower of Chivalry' for feats of arms probably in crusades; supported English cause in Scotland; warden of Dundee, 1312; captured at Bannockburn, 1314, and gained favour of King Robert; executed for complicity in Lord Soules's conspiracy against Robert. [vi. 261]

BREE, ROBERT (1759-1839), physician; B.A. University College, Oxford, 1778; studied medicine at Edinburgh; M.A., 1781; M.D., 1781; F.R.O.S., 1807; censor, College of Physicians, 1810, 1819, and 1830; elect, 1830; Harveian lecturer, 1837; F.R.S.; vice-president, 1811; published medical writings. [vi. 252]

BREEKS, JAMES WILKINSON (1830-1872), Indian civil servant; entered Madras civil service, 1849; commissioner of the Nilagiris, c. 1867; died from illness contracted while collecting tribal utensils, arms, &c., for Indian Museum, Calcutta; wrote 'Account of Tribes and Monuments of the Nilagiris,' published posthumously by government. [vi. 252]

BREEN, JAMES (1826-1866), astronomer; calculator at Greenwich, c. 1842; assistant in Cambridge observatory, 1846; spent some years in study abroad; F.R.A.S., 1862; published astronomical writings. [vi. 253]

BREGWIN or BREGOWINE (d. 765), archbishop of Canterbury; born in the old Saxon land; came to England to study; archbishop, 769; buried at Canterbury. [vi. 263]

BREKELL, JOHN (1697-1769), presbyterian divine; sole pastor at Kaye Street, Liverpool, 1744-69; published religious works. [vi. 254]

BREMBRE, SIR NICHOLAS (d. 1388), lord mayor of London; alderman of Bread Street ward, 1376; lord mayor, 1377 and 1378; one of collectors of customs for port of London, c. 1379-86, his comptroller being Geoffrey Chaucer; accompanied king to Smithfield on rising of Commons, 1381, and was knighted; M.P. for city of London, 1383; obtained by force his election as lord mayor, 1383; supported Richard II's struggle for absolute power, 1387, and was executed. [vi. 255]

BREMER, SIR JAMES JOHN GORDON (1786-1860), rear-admiral; lieutenant in navy, 1806; captain, 1814; O.B., 1815; took part in Burmese war; K.O.H., 1836; commanded expedition to China, 1840-1; K.C.B., 1841; second in command of Channel squadron, 1846; commodore superintendent of Woolwich dockyard, 1846; rear-admiral, 1849. [vi. 256]

BREMNER, DAVID (d. 1852), engineer for Clyde trustees; son of James Bremner [q. v.]. [vi. 257]

BREMNER, JAMES (1784-1856), engineer; settled as shipbuilder at Pulteney Town, and was engaged in designing harbours and piers on northern coast of Scotland; published professional writings. [vi. 257]

BREMNER, ROBERT (d. 1789), music printer and publisher; produced several collections of songs and works of musical instruction, including 'Rudiments of Music' (1756). [vi. 257]

BRENNAN, — (fl. 1756), painter in Dublin; published 'Painter's Breakfast,' a dramatic satire, 1756. [vi. 258]

BRENNAN, JOHN (1768?-1830), physician; M.D. Glasgow; practised at Dublin from 1801; started 'Milesian Magazine' (1812), in which he attacked College of Physicians and ventilated grievances in satirical verse of considerable poignancy; discovered remedy for puerperal fever and internal inflammation. [vi. 258]

BRENCHLEY, JULIUS LUCIUS (1816-1873), traveller and author; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1843; ordained curate of Holy Trinity, Maidstone, 1843; made (1847-67) journeys to Utah, New Mexico, Panama, Ecuador, Peru and Chili, India, China and Mongolia, and Japan, Australia and New Zealand, Siberia and Poland; bequeathed large miscellaneous collections to Maidstone; published writings on his travels. [Suppl. i. 263]

BRENDAN or BRENNAINN, SAINT (490?-573), of Birr, now Parsonstown, King's County; of second order of Irish saints; a disciple of St. Finnian of Clonard. His day is 29 Nov. [vi. 259]

BRENDAN or BRENNAINN, SAINT (484-577), of Clonfert; of second order of Irish saints; studied under St. Ita, Bishop Erc, and St. Jarlath of Tuam; presbyter; perhaps made journey to western and northern islands, which formed basis of mediæval legend of 'Navigation of St. Brendan,' in the original form of which two journeys are described; visited Brittany between 520 and 530; founded monastery of Cluan Fearth, 553. His day is 16 May. [vi. 259]

BRENT, CHARLOTTE (d. 1802), singer; pupil of Dr. Arne; first appeared in public, 1758; engaged at Covent Garden, 1769-70, creating principal parts in several operas; married Thomas Pinto, 1766; toured with her husband in Scotland and Ireland, 1770-80; last appeared in 'Comus' at Covent Garden, 1784. [vi. 261]

BRENT, JOHN (1808-1882), antiquary and novelist; held offices in Canterbury corporation; F.S.A., 1853; member of British Archaeological Association and other societies; published poetical works and novels, and contributed to archaeological publications. [vi. 261]

BRENT, SIR NATHANIEL (1573?-1659), warden of Merton College, Oxford; M.A. Merton College, Oxford, 1598; university proctor, 1607; bachelor of law, 1623; warden of Merton, 1622; commissary of diocese of Canterbury and vicar-general to the archbishop; judge of prerogative court; knighted, 1629; successfully opposed Laud, who on a visitation to Merton, 1638, insisted on many radical reforms; sided with parliament on outbreak of civil war; was made judge-marshal, and signed the covenant; deposed from wardenship by Charles I.

1645; resumed office, 1646; president of parliamentary commission for visitation of universities, 1647-51; published translation into English of Pietro Sarpi's 'History of Council of Trent,' 1620, and other works. [vi. 262]

BRENTFORD, EARL OF (1573?-1661). [See RUTHVEN, PATRICK.]

BRENTON, EDWARD PELHAM (1774-1839), navy captain; entered navy, 1788; lieutenant, 1795; captain, 1808; served in American war, 1811; flag-captain to Sir Benjamin Hallowell, 1815; published 'Naval History of Great Britain, 1783-1822,' 1823. [vi. 264]

BRENTON, SIR JAHLEEL (1770-1844), vice-admiral; born in Rhode Island; served in royalist navy at outbreak of war of independence; accepted commission in Swedish navy, and was promoted lieutenant in English navy, 1790; post-captain, 1800; flag-captain to Sir James Saumarez, 1801; prisoner of war in French hands, 1803-8; served in Mediterranean, 1807 till 1810, when he was wounded in action off Naples; baronet, 1812; K.C.B., 1815; commissioner of dockyard of Port Mahon, 1813, and, later, of Cape of Good Hope till 1822; rear-admiral, 1830; lieutenant-governor, Greenwich Hospital, 1831; vice-admiral, 1840; published religious writings. [vi. 265]

BRERELEY, JOHN (fl. 1624). [See ANDERTON, JAMES.]

BRERELEY or BRIERLEY, ROGER (1586-1637), divine and poet; perpetual curate of Grindleton Chapel, Mitton-in-Oxen, where his followers became known as Grindletonians; probably charged (before 1625) at York by high commissioners with holding doctrines of antinomian tendency, but acquitted; received living of Burnley, Lancashire, 1631. Volumes of his literary remains appeared posthumously. [vi. 266]

BRERETON, JOHN (fl. 1603), voyager to New England; accompanied first party of English who landed in New England with intention of settling, 1603, but returned almost immediately; published 'Description of Elizabeth's Ile, and some others towards North Part of Virginie, 1602.' [vi. 267]

BRERETON, OWEN SALUSBURY (1715-1798), antiquary; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; called to bar, 1738; recorder of Liverpool, 1742-98; vice-president, Society of Arts, 1785-98; M.R.S.; bench of Lincoln's Inn; treasurer and keeper of Black Book; M.P. for Ilchester, 1775-80; contributed to 'Archæologia' and 'Philosophical Transactions.' [vi. 268]

BRERETON, THOMAS (1691-1722), dramatist; B.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1712; held government office connected with customs at Chester; drowned while attempting to escape prosecution for libel; published two English adaptations from plays by Racine and Corneille, and some poetical writings. [vi. 269]

BRERETON, THOMAS (1782-1832), lieutenant-colonel; volunteered in West Indies, 1797; ensign, 1798; captain, 1804; invalided home, 1813; lieutenant-governor of Senegal and Goree, 1814; lieutenant-colonel royal African corps, 1815; commanded Cape Town garrison, 1819-23; commanded troops quartered near Bristol at outbreak of the Reform riots, 1831; court-martialled for negligence, inaction, and neglect of civil authority; committed suicide before trial was concluded. [vi. 269]

BRERETON, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1541), lord justice in Ireland; knighted, 1523; deputy chamberlain of Chester; marshal of army in Ireland and Irish privy councillor, 1539; temporarily lord justice of Ireland, 1540. [Suppl. i. 264]

BRERETON, SIR WILLIAM (1604-1661), parliamentary commander; created baronet, 1627; travelled in Great Britain, Ireland, and on continent, 1634-5 (his 'Diary' published by Chetham Society, 1844); M.P. for Cheshire, 1628 and 1640; headed parliamentary movement in Cheshire, c. 1642; commander-in-chief of forces in Cheshire and neighbouring southern counties; defeated Sir Thomas Aston at Nantwich and at Middlewich, 1643; defeated Rupert at Tarvin and captured Liverpool and Shrewsbury, 1644; captured Lichfield and Dudley Castle and defeated Lord Ashley near Stow-in-the-Wold, 1646; chief forer of Macclesfield forest and seneschal of hundred of Macclesfield on conclusion of war. [vi. 271]

BRERETON, SIR WILLIAM (1780-1864), lieutenant-general; second lieutenant, royal artillery, 1805; served in Peninsular and Waterloo campaigns, 1809-15; after varied service, he was second in command in Bocca Tigris expedition, and at capture of Canton, 1848; at siege of Sevastopol, 1854; K.C.B., 1861; lieutenant-general, 1864. [vi. 272]

BREREWOOD or BRYERWOOD, EDWARD (1565?-1613), antiquary and mathematician; M.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1590; first professor of astronomy, Gresham College, London, 1596; member of Old Society of Antiquaries; left mathematical, religious, and antiquarian manuscripts, which were published posthumously. [vi. 273]

BREREWOOD, SIR ROBERT (1588-1654), judge; educated at Brasenose College, Oxford; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1615; judge of North Wales, 1637; recorder of Chester, 1639; reader at Middle Temple, 1638; serjeant-at-law, 1640; king's serjeant, 1641; knighted, 1643; judge, 1644. [vi. 274]

BREREWOOD, THOMAS (d. 1748), poetical writer; grandson of Sir Robert Brerewood (q. v.) His 'Galfrid and Juetta' appeared in 1772. [vi. 274]

BRETLAND, JOSEPH (1742-1819), dissenting minister; minister of Mint Chapel, Exeter, 1770-2 and 1789-1793, and at George's meeting house, Exeter, 1794-7, where he kept a classical school, 1772-90; tutor at academy in west of England for educating protestant dissenters, 1799-1806. [vi. 274]

BRETNOT, THOMAS (fl. 1607-1618), almanac maker; published two almanacs, 1607 and 1615, and a work (translated from French) on opium. [vi. 275]

BRETTON, JOHN LE (d. 1275), bishop of Hereford; canon, and, c. 1268, bishop of Hereford. He was believed at beginning of 14th century to have been author of the work known as 'Britton' (mainly Bracton's treatise on English law condensed), probably written c. 1290. [vi. 275]

BRETTON, NICHOLAS (1545?-1626?), poet; probably educated at Oxford, perhaps at Oriel College; produced between 1577 and 1626, satirical, religious, romantic and pastoral writings, in verse and prose, which include (in verse) 'The Countess of Pembroke's (Pembroke's) Passion' (first privately printed) (1583), 'Pasquill's Mad-cappe' (earliest known copy) (1626), 'The Soules Heavenly Exercise' (1601), 'The Passionate Shepherd' (1604), 'The Honour of Valour' (1605), and (in prose) an angling idyll entitled 'Wits Trenchmour' (1597), 'The Will of Wit, Wit's Will or Wit's Wit' (1599), 'Crossing of Proverbs,' 1616, 'The Figure of Foure' (first published c. 1597), and 'A Mad World, my Masters' (1603), a dialogue. [vi. 275]

BRETTON, WILLIAM (d. 1586). [See BRITON.]

BRETT, ARTHUR (d. 1677?), poet; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1659; vicar of Market Lavington, Wiltshire; subsequently subsisted by begging in London; published poetical writings. [vi. 281]

BRETT, GEORGE (1630-1659). [See KEYNES.]

BRETT, HENRY (d. 1724), colonel; studied at Oxford and the Temple; M.P. for borough of Bishop's Castle, Shropshire, c. 1700; lieutenant-colonel of foot regiment raised by Sir Charles Hotham, 1705; member of Addison's circle. [vi. 282]

BRETT, JOHN (d. 1785), navy captain; lieutenant, 1734; captain, 1741; served on North American coast, 1755; published translations from Spanish of Feyjoo. [vi. 282]

BRETT, JOHN WATKINS (1805-1863), telegraphic engineer; originated scheme of submarine telegraphy; established telegraphic communication between England and France, 1850. [vi. 283]

BRETT, SIR PEIROY (1709-1781), admiral; second lieutenant under Commodore Anson at Païta, 1741; engaged and disabled the Elisabeth, which, with munitions of war, was conveying Young Pretender's vessel to Scotland, 1746; served at Finisterre, 1747; knighted, 1753; commodore in Downs, 1758-61; second in command in Mediterranean, 1762; lord commissioner of admiralty, 1766-70; vice-admiral, 1770; admiral, 1778. [vi. 283]

BRETT, RICHARD (1560?-1637), divine; B.A. Hart Hall, Oxford; fellow of Lincoln College; D.D., 1605; rector of Quainton, 1595; appointed by James I one of translators of bible into English; published translations from Greek into Latin. [vi. 284]

BRETT, ROBERT (1808-1874), surgeon; studied at St. George's Hospital, London; M.R.C.S.E. and L.S.A.L., 1830; practised at Stoke Newington; took active part in Tractarian movement, Dr. Pusey being among his friends; vice-president of English Church Union. [vi. 284]

BRETT, THOMAS (1667-1744), nonjuring divine; LL.B. Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1689; LL.D., 1697; rector of Ruckinge, 1705, and soon afterwards adopted nonjuring principles; resigned living, 1714; consecrated bishop by nonjuring bishops Collier, Spinckes, and Howes, 1716; published religious and other works. [vi. 285]

BRETT, WILLIAM BALIOL, VISCOUNT ESHER (1815-1899), judge; educated at Westminster and Oriel College, Cambridge; M.A., 1845; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1846; bench, 1861; joined northern circuit; Q.O., 1861; conservative M.P. for Helston, Cornwall, 1866-8; solicitor-general, 1868; additional justice of common pleas, 1868; justice in high court, 1875; privy councillor, 1876; lord justice of appeal, 1877; master of rolls, 1883; created Baron Esher of Esher, 1885; retired, and was created Viscount Esher, 1897. [Suppl. i. 264]

BRETTARGE, KATHARINE (1579-1601), puritan; sister of John Bruen [q. v.]; married William Brettargh, c. 1599; persecuted for her religious opinions. [vi. 286]

BRETTELL, JACOB (1793-1862), unitarian divine; educated at Manchester College, York; minister of Rotherham, 1816; took part in anti-corn law agitation. [vi. 287]

BRETTELL, JACOB CHARLES OATES (1817-1867), lawyer; son of Jacob Brettell [q. v.]; educated for unitarian ministry; became Roman catholic and went to America, where he was successively tutor, minister of a German church, and barrister; published poetical, religious, and other works. [vi. 287]

BRETtingham, MATTHEW, the elder (1699-1769), architect; pupil of William Kent, designer of Holkham, the Earl of Leicester's seat in Norfolk, on which Brettingham worked; designed mansions in Palladian style; published 'Remarks' on places visited in Continental tours. [vi. 287]

BRETtingham, MATTHEW, the younger (1725-1803), architect; son of Matthew Brettingham (1699-1769) [q. v.]; worked in Palladian style. [vi. 288]

BRETtingham, ROBERT FURZE (1760-1806?), architect; nephew of Matthew Brettingham the elder [q. v.]; studied in Italy; erected many mansions throughout the country, and, after 1790, obtained extensive practice as prison architect; resident clerk of board of works, c. 1771-1806. [vi. 288]

BREVAL, JOHN DURANT (1680?-1738), miscellaneous writer; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; fellow, 1702; M.A., 1704; expelled for alleged misconduct, 1708; volunteer in army in Flanders; became successively ensign and captain; employed by Marlborough in diplomatic missions; subsequently engaged in dramatic and other writing in London; noticed at some length in the 'Dunciad' in retaliation for his merciless ridicule of Pope. [vi. 289]

BREVINT or BREVIN, DANIEL (1616-1695), divine; educated at protestant university at Samur; M.A., 1624; fellow of Jesus College, Oxford, 1637; incorporated M.A. Oxford, 1638; deprived of fellowship by parliamentary commissioners; retired to Jersey, his birthplace, and thence to France; chaplain to Turenne; returned to England, 1660; received stall in Durham Cathedral, 1660; D.D. Oxford, 1663; dean and prebendary of Lincoln, 1682; published protestant polemics, and devotional works, including 'The Christian Sacrament and Sacrifice', 1673. [vi. 290]

BREWER, ANTONY (fl. 1655), dramatic writer; wrote 'The Love-sick King'. [vi. 292]

BREWER, EBENEZER COBHAM (1810-1897), miscellaneous writer; son of John Sherren Brewer [q. v.]; B.C.L. Trinity Hall, Cambridge, 1835; ordained priest,

1836; LL.D., 1840. His works include 'Dictionary of Phrase and Fable', 1870. [Suppl. i. 266]

BREWER, GEORGE (b. 1766), miscellaneous writer; served as midshipman in navy; lieutenant in Swedish navy, 1791; attorney in London; contributed to the 'European Magazine', and published dramas, novels, and miscellaneous writings. [vi. 292]

BREWER, JAMES NORRIS (fl. 1799-1829), author of many novels and topographical compilations, including contributions to series called 'Beauties of England and Wales'. [vi. 293]

BREWER, JEHOIADA (1752?-1817), dissenting minister; published religious writings. [vi. 293]

BREWER, JOHN (1744-1822), English Benedictine monk; appointed to mission at Bath, where a new chapel built by him was destroyed by rioters, 1780. [vi. 294]

BREWER, JOHN SHERREN (1810-1879), historical writer; graduated at Queen's College, Oxford, 1832; lecturer in classical literature, King's College, London, 1839, and professor of English language and literature and lecturer in modern history, 1865-77; commissioned, 1866, by master of rolls, Sir John Romilly, to prepare calendar of state papers of Henry VIII; principal of Working Men's College; received crown living of Toppsfield, 1877; published historical works, including 'Student's Hume'. [vi. 294]

BREWER, SAMUEL (d. 1743?), botanist; engaged in woollen manufacture at Trowbridge, Wiltshire; having met with misfortune became head-gardener to Duke of Beaufort at Badminton. He rendered valuable assistance to Dillenius in his botanical work. [vi. 295]

BREWER, THOMAS (fl. 1624), author of tracts in verse and prose, including 'The Life and Death of the Merry Devil of Edmonston' (prose), 1631, 'A Knot of Fooles' (satirical verses), 1624; and poems descriptive of the plague. [vi. 296]

BREWER, THOMAS (b. 1611), musician; educated at Christ's Hospital; a celebrated performer on viol; published musical compositions. [vi. 297]

BREWER, BRIWERE, or BRUER, WILLIAM (d. 1226), baron and judge; sheriff of Devon; justice itinerant, 1187; one of four justices left by Richard in charge of the kingdom, 1189; assisted Richard, then in captivity, at interview with Emperor Henry VI, and, later, with other envoys, arranged peace of Nantes, 1193; one of John's evil advisers; signed charter surrendering crown and kingdom of England to Innocent III, 1213; joined barons after their entry into London, 1215; signed Great Charter; leader in John's army on outbreak of baronial war; assisted Henry III against French, c. 1216; baron of exchequer, 1221. [vi. 297]

BREWSTER, ABRAHAM (1796-1874), Irish lawyer; M.A. Dublin, 1847; called to Irish bar, 1819; took silk, 1835; solicitor-general of Ireland, 1846; privy councillor in Ireland, 1853; attorney-general, 1853-5; lord justice of appeal in Ireland, 1866; lord-chancellor of Ireland, 1867. [vi. 299]

BREWSTER, SIR DAVID (1781-1868), natural philosopher; educated at Edinburgh University; editor of 'Edinburgh Magazine' (afterwards called successively, 'Edinburgh Philosophical Journal' and 'Edinburgh Journal of Science'), 1802; licensed preacher, 1804, but subsequently abandoned clerical profession; LL.D. St. Andrews, 1807; M.A. Cambridge; editor of 'Edinburgh Encyclopedia', 1807-29; F.R.S., and Copley medallist, 1815; Rumford medallist, 1818, and subsequently Royal medallist for discoveries in relation to polarisation of light; invented kaleidoscope, 1816; M.L.O.E. London, 1820; first director of Royal Scottish Society of Arts, 1821; assisted in organising British Association for Advancement of Science, 1831; knighted, 1831; principal of united colleges of St. Salvador and St. Leonard in university of St. Andrews, 1838; aided Scottish Free church movement, 1844; vice-chancellor, Edinburgh University, 1860; president, Royal Society of Edinburgh, 1864. His works relate chiefly to optical investigations. [vi. 299]

BREWSTER, SIR FRANCOIS (d. 1704), writer on trade; lord mayor of Dublin, 1674; published writings on trade and navigation. [vi. 308]

BREWSTER, JOHN (1753-1842), author; M.A. Lincoln College, Oxford, 1778; rector of Redmarshall, 1805, Boldon, 1809, and Egglecliffe, 1814; published 'History of Stockton-on-Tees,' and religious works. [vi. 308]

BREWSTER, PATRIOK (1788-1859), Scottish divine; brother of Sir David Brewster [q. v.]; held second charge of Abbey Church, Paisley, 1818-59; published sermons. [vi. 304]

BREWSTER, THOMAS (b. 1705), translator; M.D. St. John's College, Oxford, 1738; fellow; published verse translations from Persius, 1733-84. [vi. 304]

BREWSTER, WILLIAM (1560?-1644), a founder of Plymouth, New England; educated at Peterhouse, Cambridge; entered, c. 1584, service of William Davison [q. v.], whom he accompanied on embassy to Low Countries, 1585-7; keeper of 'post office' at Serooby, 1594-1607; interested himself in separatist movement, and after suffering considerable persecution went to Amsterdam, 1608; set up printing press at Leyden; sailed for Virginia in Mayflower, 1620, and founded New Plymouth, where he worked as teacher and preacher. [vi. 304]

BRIAN (926-1014), king of Ireland; known as Brian mac Kennedy (or Cennedigh); son of Cenneide; with his brother Mathgamhain, chief of the Dal Cais; defeated Danes at Sulcoit, Tipperary, c. 988; chief of Dal Cais, 978; defeated and slew Maelduadh, king of Oshel, 978, and succeeded him; defeated Gillapatric, king of Ossory, and was acknowledged king of Leinster, 984; allied with Maelsechlainn mac Domhnaill, chief king of Ireland, and defeated Danus at Glenmama, Wicklow, 1000; defeated Maelsechlainn and became chief king of Ireland, 1001; received submission of Connaughtmen; made charter acknowledging ecclesiastical supremacy of Armagh, 1004; made circuit of Ireland, receiving hostages of all territories through which he passed, joined Maelsechlainn and besieged Danes near Dublin, without success, 1013; defeated Danes at Cluantarbh; after the battle was murdered by a Dane in his tent, 1014. [vi. 306]

BRIANT. [See BRYAN.]

BRIANT, ALEXANDER (1553-1581), jesuit; educated at Hart Hall, Oxford, and at Douay and Rheims; ordained priest, 1578; joined English mission, 1579; imprisoned in Compter, tortured, and executed for high treason at Tyburn, having been admitted while in prison to the Society of Jesus. [vi. 309]

BRICE, ANDREW (1690-1775), printer; apprenticed in Exeter; carried on a printing business in spite of financial difficulties for many years after 1714; issued a weekly newspaper, c. 1715-73. His works include 'A Grand Gazetteer, or Topographic Dictionary,' 1759. [vi. 310]

BRICE or BRYCE, EDWARD (1569?-1636), first presbyterian minister in Ireland; entered Edinburgh University, c. 1589; minister of Bothkenner, 1595, and Drymen, 1602; deposed on charge of adultery; received cure of Templecorran, co. Antrim, c. 1614; prebendary of Kilroot, 1619; silenced for non-subscription to the canons, 1636. [vi. 310]

BRICE, THOMAS (d. 1570), martyrologist; ordained deacon and priest, 1560; published 'A Compendious Register in Metre' (1559), containing names of martyrs in England, 4 Feb. 1555 to 17 Nov. 1558. [vi. 311]

BRIQIE, BRIQIUS, or BRIKIXUS (d. 1222), bishop; second prior of Lismahagow; bishop of Moray, 1203; founded college of canons at Spynie. [vi. 312]

BRIEMORE, BRICHEMORE, or BRYGEMOORE, H— (14th cent.), surnamed SOPHISTA; scholastic; said to have studied at Oxford, to have been canon of Holy Rood, Edinburgh, and to have written commentaries on Aristotle; perhaps identical with BRICHMON. [vi. 312]

BRIDE, SAINT (453-523). [See BRIGIT.]

BRIDELL, FREDERICK LEE (1831-1863), landscape painter; apprenticed to a picture dealer, who arranged for his education abroad; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1851. 'The Temple of Venus,' 1858, and 'Sunset on the Atlantic,' 1857, are among his best-known works. [vi. 312]

BRIDEOAKE, RALPH (1613-1678), bishop of Chichester; M.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1636; master of Manchester free grammar school, 1638, and feebee,

1663; lost mastership on outbreak of civil war; preacher of the rolls; vicar of Witney, Oxfordshire, 1654-63; commissioner for approbation and admission of presbyterian ministers, 1659; chaplain to Charles II, canon of Windsor, and D.D., 1680; dean of Salisbury, 1667; bishop of Chichester, 1675. [vi. 313]

BRIDFERTH (fl. 1000). [See BYRHTFERTH.]

BRIDGE, BEWICK (1767-1833), mathematician and senior wrangler; B.A. St. Peter's College, Cambridge, 1790; M.A., 1793; B.D., 1811; fellow; professor of mathematics at East India Company's College, Haileybury; vicar of Cherryhinton, 1816-33; F.R.S.; published mathematical works. [vi. 314]

BRIDGE, SIR JOHN (1824-1900), police magistrate; M.A. Trinity College, Oxford, 1849; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1850; practised on home circuit; police magistrate in London; chief metropolitan magistrate, 1890; knighted, 1890. [Suppl. i. 267]

BRIDGE or BRIDGES, RICHARD (fl. 1750), organ-builder; constructed organ for Christ Church, Spitalfields, and other churches. [vi. 315]

BRIDGE, WILLIAM (1600?-1670), puritan divine; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1626; fellow; lecturer at Colchester, 1631; rector of St. Peter's Hungate, Norwich, 1636; excommunicated; high pastor at Rotterdam; frequently preached before Long parliament; ejected from living at Great Yarmouth, 1682; one of the writers of the 'Apologetical Narration,' 1643. [vi. 315]

BRIDGEMAN, HENRY (1615-1682), bishop of Sodor and Man; son of John Bridgeman [q. v.]; B.A. Oriel College, Oxford, 1632; fellow of Brasenose College, 1633-9; M.A., 1635; rector of Barrow, Cheshire, 1639 (sequestered, 1643), and of Bangor-is-coed, Flintshire, 1640 (sequestered, 1646); regained rectories on Restoration; dean of Chester, D.D., and prebendary of York, 1660; bishop of Sodor and Man, 1671. [vi. 316]

BRIDGEMAN, JOHN (1577-1652), bishop of Chester; B.D. Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1598; foundation fellow of Magdalene College, 1599; M.A., and incorporated M.A. Oxford, 1600; D.D., 1612; canon residentiary of Exeter; prebendary of Peterborough; chaplain to James I.; bishop of Chester, 1619; opposed nonconformity; lived in retirement after temporary overthrow of episcopacy. [vi. 317]

BRIDGEMAN, SIR ORLANDO (1606?-1674), lord keeper; son of John Bridgeman [q. v.]; B.A. Queens' College, Cambridge, and fellow of Magdalene College, 1624; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1632; benchet, c. 1660; chief-justice of Chester, 1638; attorney of court of wards, and solicitor-general to Prince of Wales, 1640; M.P. for Wigan in Long parliament and knighted, 1640; sat in Oxford parliament, 1644; serjeant-at-arms, chief-baron of exchequer, and baronet, 1660; presided at trial of regicides; lord chief-justice of common pleas, 1660-8; lord keeper of great seal, 1667-72. [vi. 318]

BRIDGES. [See also BRIDGES.]

BRIDGES, CHARLES (1794-1869), evangelical divine; M.A. Queens' College, Cambridge, 1831; vicar of Weymouth, 1849; published religious writings. [vi. 320]

BRIDGES, JOHN (d. 1618), bishop of Oxford, 1604; M.A. Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1560; fellow, 1566; D.D. Canterbury, 1575; dean of Salisbury, 1577; took part in Hampton Court conference, 1603; published religious works, of which the most important, being the immediate cause of the Martin Marprelate tracts, is 'A Defence of the Government established in the Church of England for Ecclesiastical Matters,' 1587, replying to Cartwright's 'Discourse on Ecclesiastical Government' (1574), and Theodore Beza's 'Judgment.' [vi. 320]

BRIDGES, JOHN (1666-1724), topographer; benchet of Lincoln's Inn; solicitor to customs, 1695; governor of Bridewell and Bethlehem hospitals; F.S.A., 1718. Left manuscript collections for history of Northamptonshire (published 1782-91). [vi. 321]

BRIDGES, NOAH (fl. 1661), stenographer and mathematician; educated at Balliol College, Oxford; B.O.L., 1646; clerk of parliaments at Oxford, 1645 and 1644; kept a school at Putney; published works on arithmetic, stenography, and cryptography. [vi. 322]

BRIDGES, THOMAS (d. 1759-1775), dramatist and parodist; published comic operas (produced at Haymarket, 1771 and 1775) and parodies of Homer and other poets. [vi. 323]

BRIDGET, SAINT (453-523). [See BRIGHT.]

BRIDGETOWER, GEORGE AUGUSTUS POLGREEN (1779-1840?), violinist; studied under Barthelmon; first appeared at Drury Lane at an oratorio concert, 1790; became member of the Prince of Wales's private band at Brighton; at Vienna met Beethoven, who composed for him his Kreutzer Sonata; Mus.Bac. Cambridge, 1811. [vi. 323]

BRIDGETT, THOMAS EDWARD (1829-1899), Roman catholic priest; pensioner of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1847; entered Roman catholic church, 1850; joined Redemptorist order; priest, 1856; founded Confraternity of Holy Family, Limerick, 1868; wrote mainly on history of Reformation. [Suppl. i. 267]

BRIDGEWATER, third DUKE OF (1736-1803). [See EGERTON, FRANCIS.]

BRIDGEWATER, EARLS OF. [See EGERTON, JOHN, first EARL, 1579-1649; EGERTON, JOHN, second EARL, 1622-1686; EGERTON, JOHN, third EARL, 1646-1701; EGERTON, FRANCIS, sixth EARL, 1736-1803; EGERTON, FRANCIS HENRY, eighth EARL, 1756-1829.]

BRIDGEWATER, JOHN (1532?-1596?), latinised form AQUEPONTANUS, catholic divine; M.A. Hart Hall, Oxford, 1558; rector of Lincoln College, Oxford, 1563-74; canon residentiary of Wells; domestic chaplain to Robert Dudley, earl of Leicester; master of Hospital of St. Katharine, near Bedminster, 1570; prebendary of Wells, 1572; visited English college at Douay, 1574; published theological and historical works in Latin. [vi. 324]

BRIDGMAN or BRIDGEMAN, CHARLES (d. 1738), gardener to George I and George II; king's gardener before 1739; laid out Serpentine and gardens between it and Kensington Palace, 1730-3; probably designed royal gardens at Richmond. He did much towards abolishing formal methods of landscape gardening. [Suppl. i. 268]

BRIDGMAN, RICHARD WHALLEY (1761?-1820), legal writer; attorney and one of clerks to Grocers' Company; published legal works. [vi. 326]

BRIDLINGTON, JOHN OF, SAINT (d. 1379). [See JOHN.]

BRIDPORT, VISCOUNT (1727-1814). [See HOOD, ALEXANDER.]

BRIDPORT or BRIDLESFORD, GILES OF (d. 1262), bishop of Salisbury; dean of Wells, 1253; went on embassy from Henry III to Alexander IV, 1256; bishop of Salisbury, 1257; nominated by Henry III one of arbitrators between king and barons, 1261; founded College of Vaux, Salisbury, 1260. [vi. 325]

BRIERCLIFFE or BREARCLIFFE, JOHN (1609?-1682), antiquary; made collections for history of Halifax. [vi. 325]

BRIERLEY, BENJAMIN (1825-1896), Lancashire dialect writer; son of a hand-loom weaver; worked as hand-loom weaver and, later, as silk-warper; became (1863) sub-editor of 'Oldham Times'; assisted in founding Manchester Literary Club, 1864; edited 'Ben Brierley's Journal,' 1869-91. He published works written largely in dialect of South Lancashire. A collected edition appeared, 1882-6. [Suppl. i. 269]

BRIERLEY, ROGER (1586-1637). [See BREERLEY.]

BRIELEY, SIR OSWALD WALTERS (1817-1894), marine painter; studied at academy of Henry Sass [q. v.] at Bloomsbury; first exhibited at Royal Academy, 1839; settled in Auckland, 1841-51; F.R.G.S., 1853; accompanied Hon. Henry Keppel during operations in Baltic, 1854, and in Black Sea and Sea of Azov, 1855, publishing drawings of incidents in war; with Duke of Edinburgh in voyage round world, 1867-8, and with Prince and Princess of Wales in tour to Nile and Crimea, 1868; associate, 1879, and member, 1880, of Royal Water-colour Society, to whose exhibitions he contributed scenes from naval history; marine painter to Queen Victoria, 1874; knighted, 1886. [Suppl. i. 270]

BRIGGS, HENRY (1561-1630), mathematician; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1585; fellow, 1588; first professor of geometry, Gresham College, London, 1598-1620; Savilian professor of astronomy, fellow-commoner of Merton College, and incorporated M.A., Oxford, 1619; published and left in manuscript works on mathematics and navigation. [vi. 326]

BRIGGS, HENRY PERRONET (1791?-1844), subject and portrait painter; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1814; R.A., 1832. [vi. 327]

BRIGGS, JOHN (1788-1861), catholic divine; educated at St. Outhbert's College, Ushaw; received tonsure and four minor orders, 1804; professor at St. Outhbert's, and, in 1832, president; bishop of Trachis in Thessalia, 1833; vicar-apostolic of northern district, 1836; bishop of Beverley, 1850-60. [vi. 327]

BRIGGS, JOHN (1785-1875), Indian officer; served in Mahratta wars, and became resident at Sattara; senior commissioner for government of Mysore, 1831; resident of Nagpur, 1832; left India, 1835; major-general, 1838; member of court of proprietors of East India Company; F.R.S.; translated Persian works into English. [vi. 328]

BRIGGS, JOHN JOSEPH (1819-1876), naturalist and topographer; contributed writings on natural history and archaeology to the 'Field' and other newspapers; fellow, Royal Society of Literature; member of British Archaeological Association. His works include a 'History of Melbourne, Derbyshire.' [vi. 328]

BRIGGS, SIR JOHN THOMAS (1781-1865), accountant-general of the navy; secretary to commission on civil affairs of navy, 1806-9; commissioner and accountant-general of victualling board; accountant-general of navy, 1832; knighted, 1851. [vi. 329]

BRIGGS, WILLIAM (1642-1704), physician and oculist; fellow, Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1668; M.A., 1670; studied under Viussens at Montpellier; M.D. Cambridge, 1677; F.O.P., 1682; censor, 1685, 1686, and 1692; physician in ordinary to William III from 1696; published 'Theory of Vision,' 1682-3. [vi. 329]

BRIGHAM, NICHOLAS (d. 1558), antiquary; appointed by Mary general receiver of subsidies, fifteenths, and benevolences, 1558; wrote epitaph on Chaucer, for whose bones he built tomb in Westminster Abbey, 1555. [vi. 330]

BRIGHT, SIR CHARLES TILSTON (1832-1888), telegraph engineer; educated at Merchant Taylors' school; entered employ of Electric Telegraph Company, 1847; consulting engineer of Magnetic Company, 1860-70; patented the acoustic telegraph known as 'Bright's Bells,' 1855; engineer to Atlantic Cable Company, 1856; on board the Niagara, which, with the Agamemnon, under Professor W. Thomson (Lord Kelvin), laid the first cable from Valentia to Newfoundland, 1858; knighted, 1858; engaged in cable-laying work in Mediterranean, Persian Gulf, and West Indian Islands; liberal M.P. for Greenwich, 1865; M.I.O.E., 1862; president of Institute of Electrical Engineers, 1886-7. [Suppl. i. 271]

BRIGHT, HENRY (1814-1873), water-colour painter; dispenser at Norwich Hospital; studied art and exhibited at Royal Academy, 1845-50; member of Institute of Painters in Water-colours. [vi. 331]

BRIGHT, HENRY ARTHUR (1830-1884), merchant and author; educated at Rugby; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1857; M.A., 1860; partner in shipping firm of Gibbs, Bright & Co. on commission of peace for London, 1865, and for Middlesex, 1870; member of Roxburghe Club and Philobiblon Society, for each of which he edited a publication. [vi. 331]

BRIGHT, JACOB (1821-1899), radical politician, brother of John Bright (1811-1889) [q. v.]; M.P. for Manchester, 1867-74 and 1878-85, and southern division, Manchester, 1886-95; privy councillor, 1896. [Suppl. i. 291]

BRIGHT, SIR JOHN (1619-1688), parliamentarian; raised companies for parliament; captain, 1643; governor of Sheffield, 1644; served under Cromwell in Scotland; high sheriff of Yorkshire, and governor of Hull and York, 1654 and 1655; probably joined royalist party before Restoration; created baronet, 1660. [vi. 333]

BRIGHT, JOHN (1788-1870), physician; M.D. Wadham College, Oxford, 1808; physician to General Hospital, Birmingham, 1810; F.O.P., 1809; Harveian orator, 1830; lord chancellor's adviser in lunacy, 1836. [vi. 333]

BRIGHT, JOHN (1811-1889), orator and statesman; son of a Rochdale miller; worked in his father's mill; made first public speech, 1830, in defence of temperance movement; gained reputation as orator by his opposition of principle of church rates, 1834-41; advocated abolition of capital punishment; formed friendship with Cobden, c. 1835; treasurer of Rochdale branch of Anti-Cornlaw League, 1840; began agitation in London against corn laws, 1842, and subsequently carried on campaign in midlands and Scotland; M.P. for Durham, 1843; opposed Maynooth grant, 1846; spoke against Lord Ashley's ten hours factories bill, 1846; M.P. for Manchester, 1847 and 1862; introduced bill for repeal of game laws, 1848; advocated facilitation of sale of encumbered estates in Ireland, provision of occupation for peasantry by increased partition of landed property, and disestablishment; chairman, 1848, of select committee (for which he had moved, 1847) to inquire into obstacles to cultivation of cotton in India; subsequently assisted in raising funds for private commission of inquiry in India; joined Cobden in forming 'The Commons' League,' for financial and parliamentary reform, 1849; opposed Russell's resolution excluding Sir David Salomons [q. v.] from House of Commons as a Jew, 1851; recommended that government of India should be made a department of the British government, 1853; opposed war with Russia, 1853-4; opposed Russell's Oxford University reform bill, and grant to dissenting ministers in Ireland, 1854; defeated in election at Manchester and elected for Birmingham, 1857, 1858, 1865, 1868, 1873, 1874, 1880-5; advocated decentralisation in India, 1858 and 1879; opposed government reform bill, in speech in which he insisted on need for redistribution, 1859; negotiated preliminary treaty of commerce with France, 1860; member of committee to inquire into precedents for power of Lords to deal with tax bills, 1860; supported northern cause in American war, 1861; member of Jamaica committee for trial of Governor Eyre for execution of Gordon, 1865; supported, 1866, Gladstone's government reform bill, which was defeated; advocated Irish disestablishment, 1868; president of board of trade in Gladstone's first ministry, 1868-1870; member of cabinet and of privy council, 1868; temporarily withdrew from politics owing to ill-health, 1870-2; chancellor of duchy of Lancaster, 1873; opposed Beaconsfield's Turkish policy, 1876, and advocated neutrality; chancellor of duchy of Lancaster with seat in cabinet in Gladstone's ministry, 1880; supported Bradlaugh's request for permission to affirm, 1880; lord rector of Glasgow University, 1880; approved of re-establishment of autonomy of Transvaal, 1881; resigned chancellorship of the duchy of Lancaster on British intervention in Egyptian affairs, 1882; M.P. for central division of Birmingham, 1886; made in 1887 last public speech (an attack on Gladstone's home rule bill of 1886); honorary D.O.L. Oxford, 1886. Bright and Cobden were the two leading representatives of the emergence of the manufacturing class as a force in English politics after the Reform Act of 1832. Volumes of his speeches and addresses were published, 1868 and 1879. Bright's portrait, by Mr. W. W. Ouless, R.A., is in the National Portrait Gallery. [Suppl. i. 273]

BRIGHT, MYNORS (1818-1883), decipherer of Pepsys; son of John Bright (1788-1870) [q. v.]; M.A. Magdalene College, Cambridge, 1843; fellow and president of the college; afterwards proctor, 1853; deciphered and published Pepsys's 'Diary,' 1876-8. [vi. 333]

BRIGHT, RICHARD (1789-1858), physician; studied at Edinburgh and Guy's Hospital, London; M.D. Edinburgh, 1812; studied at Peterhouse, Cambridge; travelled on continent, 1818-20; physician, Guy's Hospital, 1824-43; consulting physician, 1843; assisted Addison in 'Elements of Practice of Medicine' (1839); published first volume of 'Reports of Medical Cases,' 1837, containing his discovery of 'Bright's Disease,' and second volume, 1831; contributed to 'Guy's Hospital Reports,' first published, 1836; F.O.P., 1832, Guelstonian lecturer, 1833, censor, 1836 and 1839, Lamsian lecturer, 1837, and member of council, 1838 and 1843; F.R.S., 1831; physician extraordinary to Queen Victoria, 1837; published accounts of travels, medical treatises, and other writings. [vi. 334]

BRIGHT, TIMOTHY (1651?-1615), inventor of modern shorthand; M.D. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1579; studied medicine in Paris; physician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1586-90; abandoned medical profession; rector of Methley, 1591, and of Berwick-in-Elmet, Yorkshire, 1594; published 'A Treatise of Melancholie,' 1586 (said to have suggested to Burton his 'Anatomy of Melancholy'), and 'Characterie,' 1588, a work on the lost art of shorthand, which Bright re-invented. [vi. 337]

BRIGHTMAN, THOMAS (1562-1607), puritan divine; M.A. and fellow, Queens' College, Cambridge, 1584; B.D., 1591; rector of Hawnes, Bedfordshire, 1592; wrote biblical commentaries (including a treatise on the Apocalypse, which he believed himself to have written under divine inspiration), published posthumously. [vi. 339]

BRIGHTWELL, OEOILIA LUOY (1811-1876), etcher and authoress; drew and lithographed figures for her father Thomas Brightwell's work on 'Fauna of East Norfolk,' 1844; produced some original etchings and others after old and modern artists; published works for the young, mainly biographical. [vi. 340]

BRIGIT, SAINT, of Kildare (453-523), Irish saint; born at Faugher, near Dundalk; daughter of Dubhthach (grandson of Tuathal Teachtmhar, monarch of Erin), by his bondmaid and concubine Broteche; lived, when grown up, with her father, who, disliking her generous bestowal of his property on the poor, gave her her freedom; took the veil and was probably invested with rank corresponding with that of bishop; founded the church of Kildare. Her day is 1 Feb. [vi. 340]

BRIGSTOCKE, THOMAS (1809-1881), portrait-painter; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1843-65. [vi. 342]

BRIHTNOTH (d. 991), earldorman of East-Saxons; died of wounds received in battle against Norwegian feet near Maldon. [vi. 342]

BRIHTRIC (d. 802). [See BEORHTRIC.]

BRIHTWALD (650?-731), archbishop of Canterbury; abbot of Reculver, c. 670; elected archbishop of Canterbury, 692, and consecrated by archbishop of Lyons, 693; presided at council of Estrefeld (near Ripon?), in which Wilfrith, archbishop of York, was excommunicated, 702; an energetic and tactful ecclesiastic. [vi. 343]

BRIHTWOLD (d. 1045), monk of Glastonbury; eighth bishop of Ramsbury, 1005-45. [vi. 344]

BRIMLEY, GEORGE (1819-1857), essayist; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge; college librarian, 1846; contributed to 'Spectator' and 'Fraser's Magazine,' essays, of which a selection was published, 1858. [vi. 344]

BRIND, SIR JAMES (1808-1888), general; educated at East India Company's College, Addiscombe; second lieutenant, Bengal artillery, 1827; captain, 1845; major, 1856; colonel, 1861; major-general, 1867; general, and colonel-commandant, royal artillery, 1877; distinguished himself at siege of Delhi, 1857; O.B., 1868; commanded Sirhind division, Bengal army, 1873-8; G.C.B., 1884. [Suppl. i. 291]

BRIND, RICHARD (d. 1718), chorister and, 1707-18, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral. [vi. 344]

BRINDLEY, JAMES (1716-1772), engineer; began business, 1742, as repairer of old machinery at Leek, and introduced many important improvements in machinery; designed canal from Worsley coal mines to Manchester, 1759, and subsequently constructed over 365 miles of canals, including Bridgewater (Manchester and Liverpool) and Grand Trunk (Trent and Mersey). [vi. 345]

BRINE, JOHN (1703-1765), baptist minister; born of poor parents; joined baptists when young; pastor of congregation at Curriers' Hall, Cripplegate, London, 1730; published religious works. [vi. 345]

BRINKELOW, HENRY (d. 1546), satirist; left order of St. Francis and became citizen and mercer of London; adopted opinions of reforming party and, under pseudonym of Roderigo Mors, published satires on social and religious subjects; perhaps banished from England. [vi. 346]

BRINKLEY, JOHN (1763-1835), bishop and astronomer; senior wrangler, and first Smith's prizeman, Caius College, Cambridge, 1788; M.A., 1791; D.D., 1806;

Andrews professor of astronomy, Dublin University, and first astronomer royal for Ireland, 1792; F.R.S., 1803; claimed to have discovered an annual (double) parallax for a Lyre of 2" 52, 1810, and, though he was mistaken, Greenwich observations failed to disprove his statements; Copley medallist, 1824; president, Royal Irish Academy, 1822-35; president Royal Astronomical Society, 1831-3; prebendary of Kilgoblin and rector of Derrybrush, 1806; bishop of Cloyne, 1826; published 'Elements of Astronomy' (1808). [vi. 347]

BRINKNELL or BRYKNELL, THOMAS (d. 1539?), divine: D.D. University College, Oxford, 1508; prebendary of Lincoln, and master of St. John's Hospital, Banbury, 1511; professor of divinity, Oxford, 1521. [vi. 348]

BRINSLEY, JOHN, the elder (A. 1663), puritan divine; M.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1688; took orders; master of school at Ashby-de-la-Zouch; ejected from mastership, c. 1690, for his religious opinions; published translations and educational works. [vi. 348]

BRINSLEY, JOHN, the younger (1600-1665), puritan divine; son of John Brinsley (A. 1663) [q. v.]; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1623; appointed minister to corporation of Great Yarmouth, 1625, but dismissed by court of high commission, 1627; again town preacher of Yarmouth, 1644; ejected, 1660; published religious treatises. [vi. 349]

BRINTON or BRUNTON, THOMAS (d. 1389), bishop of Rochester; Benedictine monk at Norwich; 'doctor decretorum,' Oxford; penitentiary of holy see; bishop of Rochester, 1373; confessor to the king. [vi. 350]

BRINTON, WILLIAM (1823-1867), physician; studied at King's College, London; M.D. London, 1848; F.O.P., 1854; lecturer on forensic medicine, St. Thomas's Hospital, and subsequently physician and lecturer on physiology; published treatises relating chiefly to diseases of the stomach. [vi. 350]

BRIOT, NICHOLAS (1579-1646), medallist and coin-engraver; engraver-general of coins of France, 1605-25; endeavoured, but without success, to introduce improved methods of coining in France; chief engraver to English mint, 1633; master of Scottish mint, 1635. [vi. 351]

BRISBANE, SIR CHARLES (1709?-1829), rear-admiral; entered navy, 1779; lieutenant, 1790; in Mediterranean under Captain Nelson and Lord Hood, 1793-4; commander, 1794; promoted captain for his capture of Dutch ships in Saldana Bay, 1796; knighted for success against Dutch off Curaçao, 1807; governor of St. Vincent, 1808-29; K.C.B., 1815; rear-admiral, 1819. [iv. 352]

BRISBANE, SIR JAMES (1774-1826), commodore; brother of Sir Charles Brisbane [q. v.]; lieutenant in navy, 1794; commander, 1797; commanded squadron blockading Corfu, 1808; engaged in reduction of Ionian Islands; in Channel, 1812, and Mediterranean, 1815; O.B., 1816; knighted, 1816; commander-in-chief in East Indies, 1825; died at Penang. [vi. 353]

BRISBANE, JOHN (d. 1776?), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1760; L.O.P., 1766; physician to Middlesex Hospital, 1768-73; published 'Anatomy of Painting,' 1769. [vi. 353]

BRISBANE, SIR THOMAS MAKDOUGALL- (1773-1860), soldier and astronomer; educated at Edinburgh University; ensign, 1789; major, 1795; with Sir Ralph Abercromby in West Indies, 1795-8; lieutenant-colonel, 1800; in Jamaica, 1800-3; devoted himself to astronomy at his observatory at Brisbane, Scotland; colonel and assistant adjutant-general, 1810; brigadier-general under Wellington in Peninsula, 1812; major-general, 1813; in Canada, 1813; K.C.B., 1814; governor of New South Wales, 1821-5; encouraged emigration but lacked energy as governor; erected observatory at Paramatta, near Sydney, 1822; returned to England, 1825; colonel of 34th regiment, 1826; M.R.S. Edinburgh, 1811, and president, 1833-60; gold medallist, Royal Astronomical Society, 1828; built and equipped observatory, and, 1841, magnetic observatory, Makerstown, Scotland; Keith medallist, 1818; M.R.S., 1810; created baronet, 1836; G.O.B., 1837; general, 1841. [vi. 353]

BRISTOL, EARL OF. [See DIGBY, JOHN, first EARL, 1580-1654; DIGBY, GEORGE, second EARL, 1612-1677; HERVEY, JOHN, first EARL of the second creation,

1655-1751; HERVEY, AUGUSTUS JOHN, third EARL, 1724-1779; HERVEY, FREDERICK AUGUSTUS, fourth EARL, 1730-1803.]

BRISTOL, RALPH DE (d. 1232), bishop of Cashel; first treasurer of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, 1219; bishop of Cashel, 1223. [vi. 356]

BRISTOW, EDMUND (1787-1876), painter; exhibited at Royal Academy and other exhibitions, 1809-1888. [vi. 357]

BRISTOW, HENRY WILLIAM (1817-1889), geologist; educated at King's College, London; director of Geographical Survey for England and Wales, 1872-88; F.G.S., 1843; F.R.S., 1862; published geological works. [Suppl. i. 292]

BRISTOW, RICHARD (1538-1681), Roman catholic divine; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1562; fellow of Exeter, 1567; appointed by Dr. Allen first moderator of studies at Douay; priest, 1573; D.D. Douay, 1575; had care of the seminary on removal to Rheims, 1578; returned to England for his health, 1581; published theological works, and assisted Allen in revising 'Douay Bible.' [vi. 357]

BRISTOWE, JOHN SYER (1827-1895), physician; educated at King's College school; studied at St. Thomas's Hospital; M.R.O.S. and L.S.A., 1849; M.D. London, 1852; physician, St. Thomas's Hospital, 1860; lecturer on medicine, 1876-92; F.R.O.P., 1858; Croonian lecturer, 1872, and Lumleian lecturer, 1879; F.R.S., 1881; honorary LL.D. Edinburgh, 1884; president of Medical Society of London, 1893; published 'Theory and Practice of Medicine,' 1876, and other medical writings. [Suppl. i. 293]

BRIT, BRYTE, or BRITHUS, WALTER (A. 1390), mathematician; fellow of Merton College, Oxford, and reputed author of a treatise on surgery and astronomical and mathematical works. [vi. 358]

BRITHWALD (650?-731). [See BRITHWOLD.]

BRITHWOLD (d. 1045). [See BRITHWOLD.]

BRITO or LE BRETON, RANULPH (d. 1246), canon of St. Paul's; king's treasurer; displaced and fined on charge of misapplying revenues, 1232; canon of St. Paul's; imprisoned on false charge of treason, 1239, but released at instance of relatives. [vi. 358]

BRITON or BRETON, WILLIAM (d. 1356), theologian; Franciscan or Cistercian; wrote 'Vocabularium Biblicæ,' a treatise explaining obscure biblical words. [vi. 359]

BRITAIN, THOMAS (1806-1884), naturalist; professional accountant; one of promoters of Manchester Microscopical Society, 1858; wrote on various subjects, including natural history. [vi. 359]

BRITTON, JOHN (d. 1276). [See BRETON.]

BRITTON, JOHN (1771-1857), antiquary and topographer; cellarman in Smithfield and subsequently attorney's clerk; published 'Adventures of Pizarro,' 1799, and received commission to prepare 'Beauties of Wiltshire,' 1801; first edited with E. W. Brayley [q. v.], and subsequently contributed to 'Beauties of England and Wales,' 1801-14; published 'Architectural Beauties of Great Britain,' 1805-14, with supplement, 1818-26, and other writings, including an 'Autobiography,' 1850. [vi. 360]

BRITTON, THOMAS (1654?-1714), the 'musical small-coal man'; vendor of small-coal in Clerkenwell; established over his shop a musical club, where concerts of vocal and instrumental music were given every Thursday, 1678, the greatest performers of the day taking part. He also interested himself in chemistry and the occult sciences, of works relating to which he formed a large collection. His portrait by Woolaston is in National Portrait Gallery. [vi. 361]

BRIWER, WILLIAM (d. 1226). [See BREWER.]

BRIXIUS (d. 1222). [See BRICIE.]

BROADBENT, THOMAS BIGGIN (1793-1817), tutor; son of William Broadbent [q. v.]; graduated at Glasgow, 1813; classical tutor in unitarian academy, Hackney, 1813-16. [vi. 363]

BROADBENT, WILLIAM (1755-1827), unitarian divine; educated at Daventry academy, where he became tutor in classics, 1782, and in mathematics, natural philosophy, and logic, 1784; minister at Warrington, 1792-1822; joined unitarians of Belsham school. [vi. 363]

BROADFOOT, GEORGE (1807-1845), major; ensign 34th regiment Madras native infantry, 1826; commanded sappers in Sir Robert Sale's march from Cabul to Jellálábád, 1841; distinguished himself in Pollock's Cabul campaign; C.B. and commissioner of Moulinein, and later governor-general of Sikh frontier; died of wounds received at Ferozshah. [vi. 384]

BROADHEAD, WILLIAM (1815-1879), instigator of trades-union outrages; worked as saw-grinder successively at Sheffield and Loxley Valley; became secretary of saw-grinders' union, c. 1848, and instigated numerous outrages against employers and anti-union workmen; coming under suspicion (1866) made as witness an avowal of his practices in a government examination of the union's organisation; emigrated to America, 1869; subsequently grocer in Sheffield. He figures as Grotait in Charles Reade's novel, 'Put Yourself in his Place.' [Suppl. i. 294]

BROADWOOD, JOHN (1732-1812), pianoforte manufacturer; entered partnership with Burkhart Tschudi, a Swiss harpsichord maker, who retired in favour of Broadwood, 1769; his first patent for a 'new constructed pianoforte,' was dated 1783, and the firm rapidly acquired a European reputation. [vi. 364]

BROCAS, SIR BERNARD (1330?-1395), warrior; fought at Poitiers, and probably at Crécy and Najara; constable of Aquitaine; captain of Calais after Edward III's death; M.P. for Hampshire in ten parliaments, 1367-95; chamberlain to Richard II's queen, Anne of Bohemia. [vi. 365]

BROCKMAEL, YSGYTHRAWG (A. 584), king of Powis; probably lord of Uriconion and Severn Valley, and leader of Britons against West-Saxons at Fethan-leag; mentioned in Llywarch Hen's elegy. [vi. 366]

BROCK, DANIEL DE LISLE (1762-1842), bailiff of Guernsey; jurat of royal court of Guernsey, 1798; several times represented Guernsey in London in respect of measures relating to the island; bailiff of Guernsey, 1821-1842. [vi. 366]

BROOK, SIR ISAAO (1769-1812), major-general; brother of Daniel de Lisle Brock [q. v.]; ensign in 8th (king's) regiment, 1785; raised men for an independent company, and was gazetted captain; served in West Indies, 1791-3; major, 1795; served in North Holland, 1799, and in Baltic operations, 1801, in Canada, 1802-5, and from 1806; commanded at Quebec, and (1810) in Upper Canada; major-general, 1811; received surrender of General Hull's forces at Detroit, and was made extra knight of Bath, 1812; killed in engagement with General Van Rensselaer at Queenstown, where a monument to him now stands. [vi. 367]

BROOK, WILLIAM (1807-1875), dissenting divine; studied at Stepney College; advocated abolition of West Indian slavery, 1834; pastor of Bloomsbury Chapel, London, 1848-72; toured in United States, 1866; first president of London Association of Baptist Churches; president of Baptist Union of Great Britain and Ireland, 1869; published controversial works. [vi. 368]

BROOK, WILLIAM JOHN (1817?-1863), divine; B.A.; incumbent of living of Hayfield, 1853-63; published poems and sermons. [vi. 369]

BROCKEDON, WILLIAM (1787-1854), painter, author, and inventor; student at Royal Academy, 1809; contributed regularly to exhibitions of Royal Academy and British Institution, 1812-37, several of his pictures (on biblical subjects) becoming famous; member of academies of Rome and Florence; made many journeys in the Alps, and published 'Illustrations of Passes of the Alps' (1827-9), and 'Journals of Excursions in the Alps' (1833); published 'Italy, Classical, Historical, and Picturesque, 1842-4, with illustrations by himself and other artists; took out patents for inventions, including a substitute for corks, made with vulcanised india-rubber, and an artificial plumbago for lead-pencils; assisted in founding Royal Geographical Society, 1830, and was member of its first council; F.R.S., 1834. [vi. 369]

BROCKETT, JOHN TROTTER (1788-1842), antiquary; attorney at Newcastle; made collections of books, coins, and medals; originated Newcastle Typographical Society, and contributed to its series of private publications. His own publications include a 'Glossary of North Country Words in Use,' 1825. [vi. 372]

BROCKIE, MARIANUS (1687-1756), Benedictine monk; born in Edinburgh; joined Scottish Benedictines at Ratisbon, 1708; professor of philosophy and divinity at Scottish monastery, Erfurt; on catholic mission in Scotland, 1727-39; prior of St. James's, Ratisbon; wrote 'Monasticon Scoticon'; D.D. [vi. 373]

BROCKLESBY, RICHARD (1636-1714), non-abjuring divine; M.A. Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, 1660; rector of Folkingham, Lincolnshire; declined to abjure and retired to Stamford; published 'Explication of Gospel Theism,' 1706. [vi. 373]

BROCKLESBY, RICHARD (1722-1797), physician; educated with Burke at school at Ballitore, co. Kildare; studied at Edinburgh; M.D. Leyden, 1745; L.C.P., 1751; incorporated M.D. Cambridge, 1754; F.C.P., 1766; appointed physician to army, 1758, and served in Germany; enjoyed friendship of Burke and Johnson, attending the latter in his last illness; Harveian orator. College of Physicians, 1760; F.R.S.; published 'Economical and Medical Observations,' 1764, and other medical works, including an essay on therapeutic application of music. [vi. 374]

BROCKY, CHARLES (1807-1855), portrait and subject painter; born at Temeswar, Hungary; studied in Vienna and Paris; settled in London, c. 1838; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1839-54. [vi. 376]

BRODERIC, ALAN, LORD MIDDLETON (1660?-1728). [See BRODRICK.]

BRODERIP, FRANCES FREELING (1830-1878), authoress; née Hood; married Rev. John Somerville Broderip, 1849; published works, mainly for the young, in some of which Thomas Hood the younger assisted. [vi. 376]

BRODERIP, JOHN (d. 1771?), organist; organist of Wells Cathedral, 1741; sub-treasurer, 1769; published religious musical compositions. [vi. 376]

BRODERIP, ROBERT (d. 1808), organist and composer; composed a volume of musical instruction and several collections of psalms, glees, &c. [vi. 376]

BRODERIP, WILLIAM (1683-1726), organist; sub-treasurer of Wells Cathedral, 1706; received cathedral stall, 1708; organist, 1712-26; composed an anthem (in Tudway collection). [vi. 376]

BRODERIP, WILLIAM JOHN (1789-1859), lawyer and naturalist; B.A. Oriel College, Oxford, 1812; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1817; magistrate at Thames police-court, 1822-48, and at Westminster, 1846-56; bencher of Gray's Inn, 1850; treasurer, 1851; F.L.S., 1824; F.R.S., 1828; a founder and original fellow of Zoological Society, 1826; published zoological writings. [vi. 377]

BRODIE, ALEXANDER (1617-1680), Scottish lawyer; educated at King's College, Aberdeen; M.P. for co. Elgin, 1643; representative to general assembly of Scottish church; lord of session and commissioner to meet Charles II at Hague, 1649; retired till 1658; superseded at Restoration. [vi. 377]

BRODIE, ALEXANDER (1830-1867), sculptor; brother of William Brodie (1815-1881) [q. v.]; studied at Royal Scottish Academy; committed suicide. [vi. 378]

BRODIE, SIR BENJAMIN COLLINS, the elder (1783-1862), surgeon; studied anatomy in London under Abernethy and Wilson; entered St. George's Hospital, 1803, as pupil of Sir Everard Home, and was surgeon, 1822; F.R.S., 1810; Copley medalist, 1811, for papers on 'Influence of Brain on Action of the Heart' and 'Effects produced by certain Vegetable Poisons'; published 'Diseases of the Joints,' 1818; professor of comparative anatomy and physiology, Royal College of Surgeons, 1816; attended George IV; sergeant-surgeon to William IV, 1832, and subsequently to Queen Victoria; created baronet, 1834; president of Royal Society, 1858-61, of Royal College of Surgeons, 1844; D.O.L. Oxford; contributed to scientific publications. [vi. 378]

BRODIE, SIR BENJAMIN COLLINS, the younger (1817-1880), chemist; son of Sir Benjamin Collins Brodie (1788-1862) [q. v.]; educated at Harrow and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A., 1838; professor of chemistry at Oxford, 1855; president of Chemical Society, 1859 and 1860; F.R.S.; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, 1872. His most important discovery was that of graphitic acid. [vi. 380]

BRODIE, DAVID (1709?-1787), captain royal navy; lieutenant in navy, 1736; captain, 1748; served at capture of Port Louis, in unsuccessful attempt on Santiago, and in battle off Havana, 1748; pensioned, 1753. [vi. 380]

BRODIE, GEORGE (1786?-1867), historian; educated at Edinburgh University; member of Faculty of Advocates, 1811; attacked Stuarts in 'History of British Empire from Accession of Charles I to Restoration'; historiographer of Scotland, 1836. [vi. 381]

BRODIE, PETER BELLINGER (1778-1854), conveyancer; pupil of Charles Butler; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1816; member of real property commission, 1838, assisting largely in drawing up its reports; published 'Treatise on a Tax on Successions to Real and Personal Property,' 1850. [vi. 381]

BRODIE, WILLIAM (d. 1788), burglar; cabinet-maker in Edinburgh, and one of ordinary deacon councillors of the city; assumed leadership of a gang of burglars, who (1788) broke into the excise office, Canongate; hanged, one of his confederates turning king's evidence. [vi. 382]

BRODIE, WILLIAM (1815-1881), sculptor; showed talent for modelling, and was enabled by friends to study at Trustees' School of Design, Edinburgh; member of Royal Scottish Academy, 1859, and secretary, 1876; executed portrait busts of contemporary celebrities. [vi. 383]

BRODRICK, ALAN, VISCOUNT MIDLETON (1660?-1728), Irish statesman; attainted by Irish parliament of James II as a supporter of William of Orange; king's serjeant, 1691; solicitor-general for Ireland, 1695-1703; member for city of Cork in Irish parliament, 1692; speaker, 1703; attorney-general for Ireland, 1707; chief-justice of queen's bench, 1710; dismissed for revolutionary principles, 1711; again member for city of Cork and speaker, 1713; lord chancellor of Ireland, 1714-25; made Baron Brodrick of Middleton, 1715, and Viscount Middleton, 1717. [vi. 383]

BRODRICK, THOMAS (d. 1769), vice-admiral; entered navy, c. 1723; lieutenant, 1739; served at Porto Bello, 1739, and as commander, at Cartagena, 1741; in Leeward Islands, 1744-8; rear-admiral in Mediterranean, 1766; vice-admiral (1769) at blockades of Toulon and Cadix. [vi. 384]

BROGHILL, BARON (1621-1679). [See BOYLE, ROGER.]

BROGRAVE, SIR JOHN (d. 1613), lawyer; autumn reader at Gray's Inn, 1576; treasurer, 1580 and 1584; attorney for duchy of Lancaster, 1580; counsel to Cambridge University, 1581; knighted by James I; left legal writings. [vi. 385]

BROKE. [See also BROOK and BROOKE.]

BROKE or BROOKE, ARTHUR (d. 1563), translator; author of 'The Tragicall Historie of Romeus and Juliet,' 1562, a free translation from the French version of Bandoello's Italian story, in the 'Histoires Tragiques' (Paris, 1559) of Pierre Boaistuau de Launay and Belle-Forêt. The volume is the source whence Shakespeare drew the plot of 'Romeo and Juliet.' [vi. 385]

BROKE, SIR PHILIP BOWES VERE (1776-1841), rear-admiral; educated at Royal Naval Academy, Portsmouth dockyard; entered navy, 1792; served in Mediterranean; captain, 1801; commanded Shannon on coast of Spitzbergen, 1807, and at reduction of Madra; engaged in cruising on outbreak of American war, 1812, bringing his crew to high state of proficiency; captured American frigate Chesapeake; received severe wound and returned to England, 1813; created baronet, 1813; K.C.B., 1815; rear-admiral, 1830. [vi. 386]

BROKE or BROOKE, SIR RICHARD (d. 1599), chief baron of exchequer; double reader at Middle Temple, and serjeant-at-law, 1510; under sheriff and (1511-20) recorder of London, representing city in several parliaments;

judge of common pleas and knight, 1520; chief baron of exchequer, 1526. [vi. 388]

BROKE or BROOKE, SIR ROBERT (d. 1558), speaker; B.A. Oxford, 1521; autumn reader at Middle Temple, 1542; double reader, 1551; common serjeant and (1545) recorder of London, representing city in several parliaments; serjeant-at-law, 1552; speaker of House of Commons, 1554; chief-justice of common pleas, 1554; knighted, 1555; left legal works (including 'Abridgement' of year books down to his time) published posthumously. [vi. 389]

BROKE or BROOK, THOMAS (fl. 1550), translator; alderman, chief clerk of exchequer and customer of Calais; adopted 'reformed' opinions and endured much persecution; imprisoned in the Fleet, 1539 and 1540-2; M.P., 1539; paymaster of Dover, 1549; published translations of religious works, including the preface to John Calvin's Geneva Book of Common Prayer. [vi. 390]

BROKESBY or BROOKESBUY, FRANCIS (1637-1714), nonjuring divine; fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge; B.D., 1666; rector of Rowley, Yorkshire, 1670; deprived for refusing oath to William and Mary, 1690; chaplain to nonjurors of St. John's College, Oxford, 1706; refused oath of abjuration on death of James II; published religious, antiquarian, and other works. [vi. 391]

BROME, ADAM DE (d. 1332), founder (1324) and first provost (1325) of Oriel College, Oxford; chancellor of Durham, 1316. [vi. 392]

BROME, ALEXANDER (1620-1666), poet; attorney; royalist in civil war; published dramatic and poetical works, and edited plays by Richard Brome [q. v.], and variorum translation of Horace, 1666. [vi. 392]

BROME, JAMES (d. 1719), writer of travels; vicar of Newington, 1677; chaplain to Cinque ports; published books of English and continental travel. [vi. 393]

BROME, RICHARD (d. 1652?), dramatist; servant to Ben Jonson, whose friendship he afterwards enjoyed; wrote in conjunction with Jonson's eldest son, Benjamin, 'A Fault in Friendship,' a comedy, 1623; subsequently wrote plays for the Globe and Blackfriars (King's players), and the Cockpit in Drury Lane and Salisbury Court in Fleet Street (Queen's players), and other theatres; associated with Thomas Heywood in authorship of 'Late Lancashire Witches,' printed 1634. His works (twenty-four in number) include: 'A Jovial Crew,' acted 1641, printed 1652; 'The Northern Lass,' printed 1632; 'Queen and Concubine,' printed 1659, and 'Queen's Exchange,' printed 1657, hints for which were probably taken from Shakespeare's 'Winter's Tale,' 'Henry VIII,' 'King Lear,' and 'Macbeth.' Some of his plays may be described as comedies of actual life after the model of Jonson, others as romantic comedies. The two species, however, are not strictly kept asunder. Ten plays were published under the care of Alexander Brome (no relation) [q. v.] [vi. 393]

BROME, THOMAS (d. 1380), Carmelite divine; D.D. Oxford; prior of Carmelite monastery in London; provincial in England, 1362-79; wrote religious works. [vi. 397]

BROMFIELD, EDMUND DE (d. 1393), bishop of Llandaff; monk of Benedictine monastery, Bury St. Edmunds; sent to Rome as public procurator for Benedictine order; appointed by pope, abbot of Bury St. Edmunds, and, on arrival in England, imprisoned ten years under statute of Provisors; bishop of Llandaff, 1389. [vi. 397]

BROMFIELD, WILLIAM (1712-1799), surgeon; surgeon to Lock Hospital (the plan of which he formed with Martin Madan), to St. George's Hospital, and to George III's queen; published surgical works. [vi. 398]

BROMFIELD, WILLIAM ARNOLD (1801-1851), botanist; M.B. Glasgow, 1823; travelled in many parts of the world, and died at Damascus; made collections for flora of Isle of Wight, published 1856. [vi. 398]

BROMHALL, ANDREW (fl. 1659), divine; rector of Maiden Newton, Dorsetshire; one of 'triers' for Dorsetshire, commissioned to eject immoral and inefficient ministers, 1653-4. [vi. 399]

BROMLEY, HENRY (pseudonym) (fl. 1793). [See WILSON, ANTHONY.]

BROMLEY, JAMES (1800-1838), mezzotint-engraver; son of William Bromley (1769-1842) [q. v.]; exhibited at Suffolk Street Gallery, 1829-33. [vi. 399]

BROMLEY, JOHN (d. 1717), translator; probably M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1688; curate of St. Giles's-in-the-Fields; joined Roman catholic church; corrector of press in king's printing house; probably translator of 'Canons and Decrees of the Council of Trent,' 1687. [vi. 399]

BROMLEY, SIR RICHARD MADOX (1813-1865), civil servant; entered admiralty department of civil service, 1829; secretary to commission for auditing public accounts, 1848; civil C.B., 1854; accountant-general of navy during Russian war; K.C.B., 1858; commissioner of Greenwich Hospital, 1863. [vi. 399]

BROMLEY, SIR THOMAS (d. 1555 ?), judge; reader at Inner Temple, 1532 and 1539; king's serjeant, 1540; judge of king's bench, 1544; on Edward VI's council of regency; implicated in Northumberland's plot, but escaped punishment; chief-justice of common pleas, 1553-5. [vi. 400]

BROMLEY, SIR THOMAS (1530-1587), lord chancellor; B.O.L. Oxford, 1560; autumn reader at Middle Temple, 1566; recorder of London, 1566-9; solicitor-general, 1569; treasurer of Inner Temple, 1574; lord chancellor, 1579; took his seat in House of Lords, 1582; presided over trial of Mary Queen of Scots, 1586. [vi. 400]

BROMLEY, VALENTINE WALTER (1848-1977), painter; associate of Institute of Painters in Water-Colours; contributed to 'Illustrated London News.' [vi. 403]

BROMLEY, WILLIAM (1664-1732), secretary of state; B.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1681; travelled on continent and published, 1692 and 1702, accounts of his tours; knight for Warwickshire, 1689; refused allegiance to William III; M.P. for Oxford University, 1702-32; D.C.L., 1702; speaker of House of Commons, 1710; secretary of state, 1713-4. [vi. 403]

BROMLEY, WILLIAM (1699?-1737), politician; son of William Bromley (1664-1732) [q. v.]; D.O.L. Oriel College, Oxford, 1732; M.P. for borough of Warwick, 1727, and for Oxford University, 1737. [vi. 404]

BROMLEY, WILLIAM (1769-1842), line-engraver; associate engraver, 1819, of Royal Academy, where he exhibited between 1786 and 1842; engraved G. J. Corbould's drawings of Elgin marbles. [vi. 404]

BROMPTON, JOHN (fl. 1436), supposed chronicler; abbot of Jorvaux, 1436; possibly author of chronicle from coming of St. Augustine to death of Richard I. [vi. 405]

BROMPTON, RICHARD (d. 1782), portrait-painter; studied under Benjamin Wilson and Raphael Mengs; portrait-painter to Empress of Russia. William Pitt, first earl of Chatham, sat to him. [vi. 405]

BROMSGROVE, RICHARD (d. 1435), successively monk, infirmarer, and, 1418, abbot of Benedictine abbey of Evesham. [vi. 405]

BROMYARDE, JOHN DE (fl. 1390), Dominican friar; studied at Oxford; lectured on theology at Cambridge; opposed Wycliffe's doctrines; wrote 'Summa Predicantium' (Nuremberg, 1485). [vi. 405]

BRONTË, ANNE (1820-1849), anchoress; sister of Charlotte Brontë [q. v.]; governess, 1839, and after; wrote verse, and, under the pseudonym of Acton Bell, assisted her sisters in 'Poems by Currer, Ellis, and Acton Bell,' 1846; published 'Tenant of Wildfell Hall' and 'Agnes Grey,' 1848. [vi. 406]

BRONTË, CHARLOTTE, afterwards NICHOLLS (1816-1855), novelist; daughter of Patrick Brontë [q. v.], sister of Emily Jane Brontë [q. v.], and Anne Brontë [q. v.]; educated at a school for clergyman's daughters at Cowan's Bridge, and, 1831-2, at Roehead, where she taught, 1835-8; governess, 1839 and 1841; went, in 1842, with Emily Brontë to study languages at a school at Brussels, where, during 1843, she was retained as teacher; much distressed by the vicious habits of her brother; wrote, her sisters co-operating, a volume of verse entitled 'Poems by Currer, Ellis, and Acton Bell,' 1846; her 'Professor' refused by Messrs. Smith & Elder, while Emily's 'Wuthering Heights' and

Anne's 'Agnes Grey' were accepted in 1847 by J. Cautley Newby, and published in 1848; her 'Jane Eyre,' accepted with enthusiasm by Smith & Elder, 1847, achieved immediate success. Miss Brontë then produced 'Shirley,' 1849, and 'Villette,' 1853, both under the pseudonym of Currer Bell. The secret of authorship, which by 1848 had become transparent, was in that year openly abandoned. She married, in 1854, her father's curate, the Rev. A. B. Nicholls. Her 'Professor' appeared posthumously in 1867, and 'Emma,' a fragment, in the 'Cornhill Magazine,' 1860. [vi. 406]

BRONTË, EMILY JANE (1818-1848), authoress; sister of Charlotte Brontë [q. v.]; assisted her sisters in 'Poems by Currer, Ellis, and Acton Bell,' 1846, using pseudonym of Ellis Bell; regarded by some as the ablest of the sisters; published 'Wuthering Heights,' 1848. [vi. 406]

BRONTË, PATRICK (1777-1861), author and perpetual curate of Haworth, Yorkshire, from 1820 till death; born in co. Down of parents named Prunty; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1806; was father of Anne, Charlotte, Emily Jane Brontë, and four other children, all of whom he survived. [vi. 406]

BRONTË, PATRICK BRANWELL (1817-1848), brother of Charlotte Brontë [q. v.]; clerk on the Leeds and Manchester railroad; dismissed for culpable negligence, 1842; private tutor, 1843-5; took to opium and died of consumption. [vi. 406]

BROOK. [See also BROKE and BROOKE.]

BROOK, ABRAHAM (fl. 1789), bookseller of Norwich; published work on physics, 1789. [vi. 413]

BROOK, SIR BASIL (1576-1646 ?), royalist; knighted, 1604; committed to Tower by House of Commons, 1644; imprisoned in King's Bench, 1645; translated from French 'Entertainments for Lent.' [vi. 413]

BROOK, BENJAMIN (1776-1848), nonconformist divine; studied at Rotherham College; congregationalist minister at Tisbury, Staffordshire, 1801-30; member of educational board of Springhill College, opened 1838; wrote on history of religious liberty. [vi. 414]

BROOK, CHARLES (1814-1872), philanthropist; partner in banking and cotton-spinning firm of Jonas Brook Brothers, at Melton; spent large sums of money in promoting welfare of his workpeople. [vi. 414]

BROOK, DAVID (d. 1558), judge; reader at Inner Temple, 1534 and 1540; treasurer, 1540; serjeant-at-law, c. 1547; received coif, 1547; king's serjeant, 1551; lord chief baron of exchequer, 1558. [vi. 414]

BROOKBANK, BROOKSBANK, or BROOKES-BANKE, JOSEPH (b. 1612), minister and schoolmaster; B.A. Brasenose College, Oxford; minister at West Wycombe, Buckinghamshire, c. 1648; minister and schoolmaster in Jerusalem Court, Fleet Street, 1654; published educational and religious works. [vi. 415]

BROOKE. [See also BROKE and BROOK.]

BROOKE, BARONS. [See GREVILLE, SIR FULKE, first BARON, 1554-1628; GREVILLE, ROBERT, second BARON, 1608-1643.]

BROOKE, SIR ARTHUR (1772-1843), lieutenant-general; ensign, 44th regiment, 1792; in West Indies, 1795-8; in Egypt, 1801; lieutenant-colonel, 1804; commanded 44th in garrison at Malta, 1804-12; colonel, 1813; in Spain, 1813; O.B.; served in United States; governor of Yarmouth; colonel of 86th regiment and K.O.B., 1833; lieutenant-general, 1837. [vi. 416]

BROOKE, SIR ARTHUR DE CAPELL (1791-1858), baronet; M.A. Magdalen College, Oxford, 1816; entered army and (1846) became major; spent many years in foreign travel; originated and was president of Raleigh Club, which became merged in Royal Geographical Society; M.R.S.; published works of travel. [vi. 417]

BROOKE, CHARLES (1777-1852), jesuit from 1818; provincial, 1826-32; superior of Stonyhurst College; collected materials for history of English province. [vi. 417]

BROOKE, CHARLES (1804-1879), surgeon and inventor; educated at Rugby and St. John's College, Cambridge; B.M., 1828; M.A., 1833; studied medicine at St. Bartholomew's Hospital; M.C.S., 1834; F.R.S., 1844; [vi. 417]

on surgical staff of Metropolitan Free Hospital and Westminster Hospital; F.R.S., 1847; invented self-recording meteorological instruments, and published religious and scientific works. [vi. 417]

BROOKE, CHARLOTTE (d. 1798), authoress; daughter of Henry Brooke (1703?-1783) [q. v.]; published 'Reliques of Irish Poetry' (consisting of Irish poems in original character with translations in English verse), 1789, and other works. [vi. 418]

BROOKE, CHRISTOPHER (d. 1628), poet; studied law at Lincoln's Inn; bench and summer reader, 1614; became acquainted with Selden, Jonson, Drayton, and John Davies of Hereford. His works include 'The Ghost of Richard the Third,' 1614, and an eclogue addressed to William Browne's 'Shepherd's Pipe,' 1614. [vi. 419]

BROOKE, ELIZABETH, LADY (1601-1683), religious writer; née Colepeper; married Sir Robert Brooke, 1620. Selections from her religious writings appeared posthumously. [vi. 420]

BROOKE, MRS. FRANÇOIS (1724-1789), authoress; née Moore; conducted weekly periodical called 'The Old Maid,' 1758; married, c. 1756, Rev. John Brooke, D.D., rector of Colney, Norfolk, and chaplain to garrison of Quebec, whither the pair went soon after marriage; published 'Virginia,' a tragedy, 1756; produced several novels, and a tragedy 'The Siege of Sinope' (played at Covent Garden, 1781), and in 1783 'Rosina,' a highly successful musical entertainment. [vi. 420]

BROOKE, GEORGE (1568-1603), conspirator; M.A. King's College, Cambridge, 1586; prebendary of York; disappointed of mastership of hospital of St. Cross, near Winchester, promised him by Elizabeth, in consequence of which he formed, 1603, with Sir Griffin Markham, scheme to obtain possession of James I's person, from which sprang the 'Bye' plot; sent to Tower and subsequently executed at Winchester. [vi. 421]

BROOKE, GUSTAVUS VAUGHAN (1818-1866), actor; first appeared at Dublin, 1833; with Macready at Drury Lane, 1840; played Othello with success at Olympic, 1848, and having appeared as Richard III, Shylock, Virginius, Hamlet, and Brutus, successfully in United States and Australia, experienced misfortune as manager of Astor Place Opera House, New York, 1852, and, later, in Melbourne; drowned at sea. [vi. 422]

BROOKE, HENRY, eighth BARON COBHAM (d. 1619), conspirator; brother of George Brooke, [q. v.]; friend and political ally of Sir Robert Cecil, who married his sister Elizabeth; warden of Cinque ports, 1597; K.G., 1599; arrested (1603) for complicity in 'Main' plot to place Arabella Stuart on throne; declared that he had been instigated to communicate with the ambassador of the Spanish archduke by Sir Walter Raleigh, who was accordingly also arrested; condemned to death, but confined in Tower till 1619. [vi. 423]

BROOKE, HENRY (1694-1757), divine; M.A. Oriel College, Oxford, 1720; D.C.L., 1727; fellow; head-master of Manchester grammar school (where he was educated), 1727-49; fellow of collegiate church, 1728; held living of Tortworth, Gloucestershire, 1730-57; published 'Essay concerning Christian Peaceableness' (1741) and other writings. [vi. 424]

BROOKE, HENRY (1703?-1783), author; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; studied at Temple, London; published, 1735, a poem called 'Universal Beauty,' said to have furnished foundation for Darwin's 'Botanic Garden'; published tragedy entitled 'Gustavus Vasa,' which was prohibited by lord chamberlain, but was subsequently acted in Dublin, where other dramatic pieces by him were produced; settled in Dublin, c. 1740; contributed to Edward Moore's 'Fables for Female Sex,' published 1744; barrack-master at Dublin, c. 1745; employed by Irish Roman Catholics to advocate publicly their claims for relaxation of penal laws, and published 'Treaty of Cause of Roman Catholics,' 1761; published 'Juliet Grenville,' a novel, 1774. An edition of his works was issued by his daughter, Charlotte Brooke [q. v.], 1792. [vi. 424]

BROOKE, HENRY (1738-1806), painter; historical painter in London, 1761-7; subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassments. [vi. 427]

BROOKE, HENRY JAMES (1771-1857), crystallographer; studied for bar, but subsequently engaged in various businesses; collected minerals; F.G.S., 1816; F.L.S., 1818; F.R.S., 1819; published 'Introduction to Crystallography,' 1823. [vi. 427]

BROOKE, HUMPHREY (1617-1698), physician; M.D. St. John's College, Oxford, 1659; F.O.P., 1674; censor; published medical and other writings. [vi. 427]

BROOKE, SIR JAMES (1803-1868), rājā of Sarawak; born at Benares; educated at Norwich; ran away from school and was made cadet of infantry in Bengal, c. 1819; served in Burma war, wounded and invalided home; resigned East India Company's service, 1830; made voyage in private schooner to Borneo, 1838, and, proceeding to Sarawak, was received courteously by Muda Hassim, uncle of the Malay sultan of Brunei, the nominal ruler of the whole island; revisited Sarawak, 1840, took part in suppressing rebellion then in progress, and at invitation of Muda Hassim assumed government of the country, 1841; substituted simple scheme of taxation for unpopular system of forced trade; put down piracy among Malays, Dayaks, and other tribes in Bornean seas; charges of cruelty and illegal conduct brought against him, but found by a government commission of inquiry at Singapore impossible to establish; revisited England, 1847; hon. D.C.L. Oxford; K.C.B.; British commissioner and consul-general of Borneo, and governor of Labuan; finally left Sarawak, 1863. [vi. 428]

BROOKE, JOHN (d. 1582), translator; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1554; translated religious works from the French. [vi. 430]

BROOKE, JOHN CHARLES (1748-1794), Somerset herald; Rouge Croix pursuivant, 1773; Somerset herald, 1777; F.S.A., 1775; killed in accident at Haymarket Theatre; left manuscript collections, chiefly relating to Yorkshire. [vi. 430]

BROOKE, RALPH (1553-1625), herald; educated at Merchant Taylors' School; Rouge Croix pursuivant in College of Arms, 1580; York herald, 1593; published, 1597, 'A Discoverie of certaine Errors in Camden's 'Britannia' (1594), which occasioned a bitter controversy with Camden and Vincent. Brooke's 'Catalogue of English kings, princes, and peers,' appeared in 1610. [vi. 431]

BROOKE, RICHARD (1791-1861), antiquary; solicitor at Liverpool; member of Society of Antiquaries and of council of Liverpool Literary and Philosophical Society; published antiquarian writings chiefly relating to English battlefields of the fifteenth century. [vi. 432]

BROOKE, ROBERT (d. 1802?), governor of St. Helena; ensign on Bengal establishment of East India Company, 1764; substantive captain, 1767; served against Oossim Ali, Soojah Dowlah, and Hyder Ali (1768-1769); collector of Corah; served in Rohilla war; erected industrial village of Prosperous, co. Kildare, with object of developing cotton manufacture, the undertaking, however, failing commercially, 1787; governor of St. Helena, c. 1787. [vi. 432]

BROOKE, SAMUEL (d. 1631), master of Trinity College, Cambridge; brother of Christopher Brooke [q. v.]; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1604; D.D., 1616; chaplain to Henry, prince of Wales, and subsequently to James I and Charles I; professor of divinity, Gresham College, 1612-29; rector of St. Margaret's, Lothbury, London, 1618; incorporated D.D. Oxford, 1621; master of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1629; wrote Latin plays and religious treatises. [vi. 433]

BROOKE, WILLIAM HENRY (d. 1860), satirical draughtsman; portrait-painter in London; contributed drawings to 'Satirist,' a monthly periodical, 1812-14; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1810-26. [vi. 434]

BROOKE, ZACHARY (1716-1788), divine; fellow, St. John's College, Cambridge; M.A., 1741; D.D., 1763; Margaret professor of divinity, Cambridge, 1768; chaplain to the king; published controversial writings. [vi. 434]

BROOKES, JOSHUA (1754-1821), eccentric divine; of humble origin; educated with friends' assistance at Brasenose College, Oxford; M.A., 1781; chaplain of collegiate church, Manchester, 1790-1821; assistant-master at Manchester grammar school, where his eccentric manners and deficiency as teacher, though not as scholar, made him unpopular. [vi. 434]

BROOKES, JOSHUA (1761-1833), anatomist; studied in London and Paris; successfully taught anatomy in London, and formed large private museum; F.R.S.; published writings, mainly anatomical. [vi. 435]

BROOKES, RICHARD (fl. 1750), physician; published compilations and translations on medicine and other subjects, including a 'General Gazetteer,' 1782. [vi. 436]

BROOKFIELD, WILLIAM HENRY (1809-1874), divine; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1836; curate of St. Luke's, Berwick Street, 1841; inspector of schools, 1848; chaplain in ordinary to Queen Victoria. [vi. 436]

BROOKING, CHARLES (1723-1759), marine painter; originally ship painter at Deptford; became noted as painter of sea-pieces. [vi. 436]

BROOKS, CHARLES WILLIAM SHIRLEY (1816-1874), editor of 'Punch'; articulated as solicitor; passed Incorporated Law Society's examination, 1838; parliamentary reporter to 'Morning Chronicle,' which journal sent him (1853), as special commissioner to inquire into subject of labour and the poor in Russia, Syria, and Egypt; leader-writer on 'Illustrated London News'; conducted 'Literary Gazette,' 1858-9; joined staff of 'Punch,' 1851, contributing under signature 'Epicurus Rotundus'; editor, 1870; F.S.A., 1872; published several novels, dramatic pieces, and volumes of humorous verse. [vi. 437]

BROOKS, FERDINAND (1684?-1642). [See GREEN, HUGH.]

BROOKS, GABRIEL (1704-1741), calligrapher; contributed plates to 'Universal Penman' (1741). [vi. 438]

BROOKS, JAMES (1512-1560), bishop of Gloucester; fellow, Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1532; B.A., 1532; D.D., 1546; master of Balliol College, 1547; chaplain and almoner to Bishop Gardiner; bishop of Gloucester, 1554; delegated by the pope to examine Crammer, Ridley, and Latimer, 1555; commissioned by Cardinal Pole to visit Oxford University, 1558; refused oath of supremacy to Elizabeth, and died in prison. [vi. 438]

BROOKS, JOHN (fl. 1755), engraver; enameller of china in Dublin and London. [vi. 439]

BROOKS, THOMAS (1608-1680), puritan divine; educated at Emmanuel College, Cambridge; chaplain to Rainsborough, admiral of Parliamentary fleet; minister at St. Margaret's, Fish Street Hill, 1653; ejected, 1662; continued ministry in a building in Moorfields; published religious works. [vi. 439]

BROOKSHAW, RICHARD (fl. 1804), mezzotint-engraver; worked in England and subsequently in Paris, where his plates gained him a high reputation. [vi. 440]

BROOM, HERBERT (1815-1882), legal writer; graduated at Trinity College, Cambridge, 1837; LL.D., 1864; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1840; published legal works and two novels. [vi. 440]

BROOME, SIR FREDERICK NAPIER (1842-1896), colonial governor; engaged in sheep-farming in New Zealand, 1867-69; contributor to 'Times'; colonial secretary of Natal, 1876, and of Mauritius, 1877; lieutenant-governor of Mauritius, 1880; governor of Western Australia, 1882-90, Barbados, 1890, and later of Trinidad. [Suppl. i. 295]

BROOME, WILLIAM (1689-1745), translator of Homer; educated at Eton and St. John's College, Cambridge; assisted Ozell and Oldisworth in prose translation of 'Iliad' (published, 1712); employed by Pope in condensing Eustathius's notes on Homer; collaborated with Pope and Fenton in translation of 'Odyssey,' 1722-6; LL.D., 1728; rector of Oakley Magna and vicar of Eye, Suffolk; chaplain to Lord Cornwallis; published sermons and poems and contributed translations of the pseudo-Anacreon to 'Gentleman's Magazine.' [vi. 441]

BROOMFIELD, MATTHEW (fl. 1550), Welsh poet; left works in manuscript. [vi. 442]

BROTHERS, RICHARD (1757-1824), enthusiast; born at Placentia, Newfoundland; studied at Woolwich; midshipman, c. 1771; served as master's mate at Ushant; in West Indies, 1781; travelled in France, Spain, and Italy; came to London, 1787, and, c. 1792, gave himself out to be a descendant of David, declaring that he was to be 'revealed' as prince of the Hebrews and ruler of the world, and that King George must deliver up his crown to him; arrested on charge of treasonable practices, 1795, and confined as criminal lunatic, but subsequently removed to private asylum at Islington; released (1806), warrant for high treason being withdrawn; published 'A Revealed Knowledge of the Prophecies and Times,' wrote under the direction of the Lord God, 2 vols. 1794, and other works of similar tendency. [vi. 442]

BROTHERTON, EDWARD (1814-1866), Swedenborgian; engaged in silk trade at Manchester, and on retiring interested himself in popular education, his letters to Manchester newspapers leading to formation of Education Aid Society; published writings on Mormonism, spiritualism, and popular education. [vi. 445]

BROTHERTON, JOSEPH (1783-1857), parliamentary reformer; engaged in cotton manufacture at Manchester till 1819; joined Bible Christian Church, 1805, becoming pastor, 1818; M.P. for Salford, 1832-57; chairman of private bills committee, free-trader and reformer; contributed essays to 'Letters on Religious Subjects' (c. 1819). [vi. 446]

BROTHERTON, THOMAS OF (1300-1338). [See THOMAS.]

BROTHERTON, SIR THOMAS WILLIAM (1785-1868), general; ensign, 1800; captain, 1801; in Egypt, 1801, Hanover, 1805, and Peninsula, 1808-14; major, 1812; C.B., 1814; lieutenant-colonel, 1817; colonel and aide-de-camp to king, 1830; general, 1860; G.O.C.B., 1861. [vi. 446]

BROUGH, ROBERT BARNABAS (1828-1860), writer; said to have practised as portrait-painter in Manchester; set on foot 'Liverpool Lion,' weekly satirical journal; wrote alone, or in conjunction with his brother, William Brough (1828-1870) [q. v.], series of burlesques, played with some success at London theatres. [vi. 447]

BROUGH, WILLIAM (d. 1671), dean of Gloucester; B.D. Christ's College, Cambridge, 1627; D.D., 1636; chaplain to the king; canon of Windsor, 1638; ejected by parliamentary commissioners; dean of Gloucester, 1644; D.D. Oxford, 1645; published religious works. [vi. 448]

BROUGH, WILLIAM (1826-1870), journalist and author; brother of Robert Barnabas Brough [q. v.], with whom he was associated in dramatic pieces. [vi. 448]

BROUGHAM, HENRY (1665-1696), divine; M.A. Queen's College, Oxford, 1689; prebendary of Lincoln, 1691; published, 1694, work proving spuriousness of 'Genuine Remains' of Dr. Barlow, late bishop of Lincoln, published by Sir Peter Pett, 1692, Barlow having left his remains to Brougham and William Offley, on condition of their not making them public. [vi. 448]

BROUGHAM, HENRY PETER, BARON BROUGHAM AND VAUX (1778-1868), lord chancellor; educated at high school and university, Edinburgh; passed advocate, 1800; went on southern circuit; joined, 1802, founders of 'Edinburgh Review,' contributing three articles to the first number; admitted member of Lincoln's Inn, 1803; supported himself in London mainly by writing for 'Edinburgh Review'; secretary to Lords Rosslyn and St. Vincent on mission to Lisbon, 1806; secured good opinion of Wilberforce by his sympathy with anti-slavery movement; called to bar, 1808; M.P. for Camelford, 1810, for Winchester, 1815; advocated retrenchment and a sound commercial policy, drew attention to importance of popular education, and instituted inquiry into charity abuses, which he extended to Eton, Winchester, and the universities; was constantly consulted by the Princess of Wales, who, on becoming queen, appointed him her attorney-general; called within the bar, 1820; defended Queen Caroline during her trial, 1820; urged government to resist the dictation of the Holy Alliance in Europe, 1824; proposed vote of censure on government of Demerara, 1824; lord rector of Glasgow University, 1835; brought forward, 1838, scheme of law reform, which was occasion of vast improvement in system of common law procedure; M.P. for Knaresborough, and later for Yorkshire, 1830; received great seal, and was elevated to peerage as Baron Brougham and Vaux, 1830; effected considerable improvements in court of chancery, the abolition of court of delegates, the substitution for it of judicial committee of privy council, and institution of the central criminal court; brought in a bankruptcy bill which eventually became basis of a statute; published 'Observations on Education of the People,' 1825; formed Society for Diffusion of Useful Knowledge, 1825; founded London University, 1828; made celebrated speech on second reading of Reform Bill, 1831; lost office on dismissal of Lord Melbourne's government, 1834; advocated immediate abolition of slavery, 1838; sat constantly in supreme court of appeal and in judicial committee of privy council; strenuously opposed repeal of navigation acts, 1849; president of Social Science Association, 1857 and 1860-5; chancellor of Edinburgh University, 1860; received second patent of peerage, with remainder to his brother William and his heirs male, 1860, in recognition of services in cause of education and suppression of slavery; hon. D.C.L. Oxford; F.R.S. His critical, historical, and miscellaneous writings were published under his own direction in a collected edition, 11 vols., 1855-61. His works include 'An Enquiry into the Colonial Policy of European Powers,' 2 vols. 1803, 'Historical Sketches of Statesmen in time of George III,' 1839-43, 'Demosthenes upon the Crown, translated, 1840, and 'Life and Times of Lord Brougham,' written by himself, published posthumously, 3 vols., 1871. [vi. 448]

BROUGHAM, JOHN (1814-1880), actor and dramatist; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; studied surgery at Peter Street Hospital; appeared at Tottenham Street Theatre, 1830, and at the Olympic, 1831; manager of Lyceum, 1840; went to New York and managed successively Park Theatre, Niblo's Garden, Brougham's Lyceum, and Bowery Theatre; in England, 1840-5; returned to America; acted at Winter Garden Theatre, 1865; manager of Brougham's, 1869; subsequently connected with several stock companies; died at New York; wrote many dramatic pieces. [vi. 458]

BROUGHAM, WILLIAM, second BARON BROUGHAM AND VAUX (1796-1836), brother of Henry Peter, first baron [q.v.]; B.A. Jesus College, Cambridge, 1819; M.P. for Southwark, 1831-5; master in chancery, 1835-40. [vi. 457]

BROUGHAM, BARON (1786-1869). [See HOBHOUSE, JOHN OAM.]

BROUGHAM, ARTHUR (d. 1796), botanist; M.D. Edinburgh, 1779; settled in Jamaica, where he died; published medical and botanical works. [vi. 459]

BROUGHAM, HUGH (1549-1612), divine and rabbinical scholar; B.A. Magdalene College, Cambridge, 1670; successively fellow of St. John's and Christ's colleges; prebendary and reader in divinity at Durham; published 'A Concent of Scripture,' 1588, in which he attempted to settle the scripture chronology; in Germany, c. 1590-1 and 1592-1603; published at Middleburg 'An Epistle to the learned Nobility of England, touching translating the Bible from the Original,' 1597; published, 1599, 'Explication' of article respecting Christ's descent into hell, maintaining that hades was place not of torment but of departed souls; in England, 1603; preacher to English congregation, Middleburg, 1604-11; satirised by Ben Jonson. His works, which include versions of the prophets, were collected by Dr. John Lightfoot and published, 1662. [vi. 459]

BROUGHAM, JOHN (1705-1789), pugilist; attached himself as 'public bruiser' to George Taylor's booth in Tottenham Court Road; joined yeoman of guard; established theatre for boxing in Hanway Street, 1742; beaten by Slack, 1760. [vi. 462]

BROUGHAM, RICHARD (d. 1634), Roman catholic historian; studied at Oxford and at English college, Rheims; priest, 1593; joined catholic mission in England; vicar-general to Dr. Smith, bishop of Calcedon. His works include 'The Ecclesiastical Historie of Great Brittain' (Douay, 1633). [vi. 462]

BROUGHAM, SAMUEL DANIEL (1787-1887), army surgeon; studied at St. George's Hospital; assistant-surgeon, 2nd life guards, 1812; served as additional surgeon, with temporary rank, in Peninsula, and South of France, and at Waterloo; surgeon, 1821; F.R.S.; F.G.S.; published letters relating to campaigning experiences. [vi. 463]

BROUGHTON, THOMAS (1704-1774), divine; educated at Eton and Gonville and Ousins College, Cambridge; M.A.; vicar of Bedminster, near Bristol, 1744; prebendary of Salisbury; published biographical and miscellaneous works, including 'Dictionary of Religions,' 1742, and a translation of 'Don Quixote,' with the name of Jarvis, who had been unable to bring the work to a successful issue, prefixed. [vi. 464]

BROUGHTON, THOMAS (1712-1777), divine; fellow, Exeter College, Oxford, 1734; B.A., 1737; joined methodists; curate at Tower of London, 1736; lecturer at St. Helen's, Bishopsgate Within, and (1741) at Allhallows, Lombard Street; secretary of Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, 1743-77; held living of Wotton, Surrey, 1752-77; published sermons. [vi. 464]

BROUGHTON, THOMAS DUER (1778-1835), writer on India; cadet on Bengal establishment, 1795; lieutenant on Madras establishment, 1797; colonel, 1829; published writings on India and selections from Hindoo poetry. [vi. 465]

BROUGHTON, WILLIAM GRANT (1788-1853), divine; clerk in East India House, 1807-12; entered Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1814; M.A., 1823; D.D., 1836; chaplain to Tower of London, 1828, and, later, archdeacon of New South Wales; bishop of Australia, 1836; bishop of Sydney and metropolitan of Australasia, on subdivision of diocese of Australia, 1847; published writings relating to authorship of 'Εἰκὼν Βασιλέως,' and other works. [vi. 465]

BROUGHTON, WILLIAM ROBERT (1762-1821), navy captain; employed on survey of Columbia river, c. 1790; on north-west coast of America, c. 1794; made survey of coast of Asia, 1794-8; captain, 1797; held command in Lord Gambier's expedition, 1809; at reduction of Mauritius, 1810; took charge of expedition to Java, 1811; O.B.; died at Florence; published accounts of his voyages and surveys. [vi. 466]

BROWN. [See BROWN and BROWNE.]

BROWN, JOHN ALLAN (1817-1879), magnetician and meteorologist; educated at Edinburgh University; director of magnetic observatory at Makerstoun, 1842-9, the results of his observations forming vols. xvii-xix. of 'Transactions of Royal Society of Edinburgh' (1845-1850); director of Trevandrum Magnetic Observatory, 1852; built observatory on Agustia Malley, the highest peak of Travancore Ghats; left India, 1865; lived successively at Lausanne and Stuttgart, and came to London, 1873; aided by grant from Royal Society, undertook to complete reduction of magnetic observations made at colonial stations; M.R.S., 1853. Published reports on Makerstoun and Trevandrum observatories. He discovered that the earth loses or gains magnetic intensity not locally, but as a whole, and that great magnetic disturbances proceed from particular solar meridians. [vi. 467]

BROWN, SIR RICHARD (1801-1858), miscellaneous writer; succeeded to the baronetcy, 1844; wrote pamphlets, articles, and letters regarding many schemes, of which 'The London Necropolis and National Mausoleum at Woking,' 1849, is the most notable. [vi. 469]

BROUNCKER, HENRY, third VISCOUNT BROUNCKER (d. 1688), courtier; brother of William Brouncker, second viscount Brouncker [q.v.]; M.D. Oxford, 1646; commissioner of trade and plantations, 1671. [vi. 470]

BROUNCKER or BROUNKER, WILLIAM, second VISCOUNT BROUNCKER of Castle Lyons in Irish peerage (1620?-1684), first president of the Royal Society; M.D. Oxford, 1647; first to introduce continued fractions and to give a series for quadrature of a portion of the equilateral hyperbola; original member of Royal Society, 1662, and first president, 1662-77; president of Gresham College, 1664-7; chancellor of Queen Catherine, 1662; commissioner for executing office of lord high admiral, 1664; master of St. Catherine's Hospital, 1681. [vi. 469]

BROWELL, WILLIAM (1759-1831), navy captain; lieutenant, 1778; served at Toulon, 1794; captain, 1794; flag-captain under Lord Hugh Seymour at battle of Lorient, 1796; one of captains of Greenwich Hospital, 1806, and lieutenant-governor, 1809-31. [vi. 471]

BROWN, CHARLES (d. 1753), naval officer; entered the navy about 1693; received his first command, 1709; served in the Baltic and the Mediterranean; distinguished himself at Portobello, 1739; commissioner of the navy at Oatham, 1741. [vii. 1]

BROWN, CHARLES ARMITAGE (1786-1842), friend of Keats; in business at St. Petersburg till 1810; inherited a competency, and devoted himself to literature; met Keats before September, 1817; travelled with him in Scotland, 1818, and made him an inmate of his house at Hampstead till 1820; in Italy, 1822-35; lectured on Keats and Shakespeare; went to New Zealand, 1841. From him Keats learned Aristotle. His papers about Keats were of service to Lord Houghton in his life of the poet. He published a work on the personal interpretation of Shakespeare's sonnets, 1838. [vii. 1]

BROWN, CHARLES PHILIP (1798-1884), Telugu scholar; son of David Brown (1763-1812) [q. v.]; entered Madras civil service, 1817; postmaster-general and Telugu translator to the Madras government, 1846-56; professor of Telugu in University College, London; published Telugu grammar, dictionary, and reader, and other linguistic works. [vii. 2]

BROWN, DAVID (A. 1795), landscape-painter: painted copies of George Morland's works; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1792-7; taught drawing in the country. [vii. 3]

BROWN, DAVID (1763-1812), Bengal chaplain; educated at Cambridge; went to Calcutta, 1786; zealous in the cause of missions. [vii. 3]

BROWN, FORD MADOX (1821-1893), painter; born at Calais; studied art at Bruges, Ghent, and Antwerp; exhibited 'The Giaour's Confession' at English Royal Academy, 1841; studied in Paris, 1843-4; exhibited cartoon, 'Bringing Body of Harold to the Conqueror,' at Westminster Hall, 1844; studied in Rome, 1845; accepted Dante Gabriel Rossetti as pupil, 1848, and thus came into contact with pre-Raphaelites, by whom his work was gradually influenced; executed panels for town-hall, Manchester, illustrating history of that city, 1878; one of the founders of Hogarth Club; a leading member, 1861-74, of firm of Morris, Marshall, Faulkner & Co., manufacturers of artistic furniture, founded by William Morris [q. v.]. [Suppl. i. 296]

BROWN, GEORGE, or GREGORY in religion (d. 1628), an English Benedictine; died in France. [vii. 4]

BROWN, GEORGE (1650-1730), arithmetician; minister of Stranraer, and, 1680, of Kilmours, Ayrshire; invented a method of teaching the simple rules of arithmetic, which he explained in his 'Rotula Arithmetica,' 1700; wrote other arithmetical works. [vii. 4]

BROWN, SIR GEORGE (1790-1865), general; ensign, 1806; served with distinction in the Peninsula; lieutenant-colonel, 1814; after many staff appointments, became lieutenant-general, 1851; K.C.B., 1852; commanded the light division in the Crimea, and the English contingent against Kertch, 1855; commander-in-chief in Ireland, 1860-5. [vii. 4]

BROWN, GEORGE (1818-1880), Canadian politician; son of Peter Brown [q. v.]; publisher and business manager of 'British Chronicle' in New York; founded 'Globe,' political journal at Toronto, in support of reform party; abandoned reform party and became extreme radical member for county of Kent in Canadian legislative assembly, 1851; member for Lambton county, 1854, Toronto, 1857-61, and South Oxford, 1863-7; formed (1858) ministry, which lasted for four days; president of council, 1864; member of senate, 1873, refused the honour of K.C.M.G., 1879; died from effects of shot fired by discharged employes at 'Globe' office. [Suppl. i. 290]

BROWN, GEORGE HILARY (1786-1856), Roman catholic prelate; professor of theology at Ushaw; missionary at Lancaster; vicar-apostolic of the Lancashire district, titular bishop of Tlon, 1840; Roman catholic bishop of Liverpool, 1850; D.D. [vii. 6]

BROWN, GILBERT (d. 1612), Scottish catholic divine; a Cistercian; abbot of New Abbey, Kirkcudbright; an influential opponent of the Reformation in the south-west of Scotland, 1578-84; imprisoned, 1606; died in exile at Paris; published controversial tracts. [vii. 6]

BROWN, HUGH STOWELL (1823-1886), baptist minister; son of Robert Brown (d. 1846) [q. v.]; employed in ordnance surveys in Cheshire, Shrewsbury, and York; entered London and Birmingham Railway Company's works, 1840; baptist minister at Stony Stratford, 1847-86; president of Baptist Union, 1878; published lectures. [Suppl. i. 300.]

BROWN, IGNATIUS (1630-1679), Roman catholic writer; of Irish parentage; educated in Spain; rector of jesuit college at Poitiers, 1676; confessor to queen of Spain; died at Valladolid; published controversial tracts. [vii. 8]

BROWN, JAMES (1709-1788), orientalist; educated at Westminster School; resident in the Levant, 1722-5, acquiring Turkish and modern Greek; projected a trade directory for London, 1732, afterwards carried out by Henry Kent; in 1741 travelled through Russia to Reshd in Persia, where he established a factory; returned to London, 1746; compiled a Persian dictionary and grammar, never published. [vii. 6]

BROWN, JAMES (1812-1881), Roman catholic prelate; professor at Oscott; president of Sedgely Park academy; bishop of Shrewsbury, 1851; showed great energy in his diocese; D.D. [vii. 7]

BROWN, JAMES BALDWIN, the elder (1785-1843), miscellaneous writer; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1816; judge of requests at Oldham, 1840; wrote memoir of Howard the philanthropist, and works on the penal laws. [vii. 7]

BROWN, JAMES BALDWIN, the younger (1820-1884), congregational divine; eldest son of James Baldwin Brown the elder [q. v.]; one of the first graduates of London University; congregational minister at Derby, 1843, and in London, 1846; famous for his liberal theological views both in the pulpit and in the press; published theological treatises. [vii. 7]

BROWN, JOHN (d. 1532), sergeant painter to Henry VIII; employed chiefly as an heraldic painter; alderman of London, 1522-5; gave his house to be a hall for the company of Painter Stainers. [vii. 8]

BROWN, JOHN (1610?-1679), of Wamphray, Scottish ecclesiastic; educated at Edinburgh; minister of Wamphray, Dumfries, 1655; ejected, 1662, and banished; minister of the Scottish church at Rotterdam; published doctrinal and historical treatises. [vii. 9]

BROWN, JOHN (1637?-1685), the 'Christian carrier'; one of the most famous of the covenanter martyrs; a small farmer and carrier at Priestfield, Ayrshire; shot by order of Claverhouse at his own door and in his wife's presence. [vii. 9]

BROWN, JOHN (d. 1736), chemist; F.R.S., 1722; published discoveries in chemistry. [vii. 10]

BROWN, JOHN (1715-1766), author of the 'Estimate'; educated at Wigton and St. John's College, Cambridge; B.A., 1735; minor canon of Carlisle and a whig preacher; rector of Great Horkeley, Essex, 1766, and of St. Nicholas, Newcastle, 1761; gained the friendship of Warburton by an 'Essay upon Satire,' published in Dodsley's miscellanies; wrote an essay (1751) on Shaftesbury's 'Characteristicks,' which is memorable for its clear statement of utilitarianism; brought into repute by his 'Estimate of the Manners and Principles of the Times,' 1757; committed suicide on being forbidden by the doctors to go to St. Petersburg, where he hoped for a high educational post; published numerous tragedies, epics, odes, sermons, essays. [vii. 10]

BROWN, JOHN (1722-1787), of Haddington, biblical commentator; as a herd-boy taught himself Latin, Greek, and Hebrew; at one time a pedlar; served as a soldier in the Edinburgh garrison, 1745; taught school in Kinross-shire and Midlothian; joined the Burgher church, 1747; minister to the Burgher congregation at Haddington, 1750-87; acted as professor of divinity to Burgher students after 1768; published an explanation of the Westminster Confession of Faith, 1758. His 'Self-interpreting Bible,' 1778, a plain commentary for the people, became immensely popular. [vii. 12]

BROWN, JOHN (1735-1788), medical reformer; son of a Berwickshire labourer; educated at Dunse school; became a private tutor at Edinburgh; enabled to complete his medical course by the liberality of the Edinburgh medical professors, Monro and Oullen; vigorously attacked their system in his tutorial lectures, alleging that most diseases were due to weakness, and that their practice of blood-letting was erroneous; incurred the hostility of the faculty in Edinburgh; compelled to take his M.D. degree from St. Andrews, 1779; in consequence of debt and other troubles left Edinburgh for London in 1786. His 'Elementa Medicinæ,' 1780, setting forth his views, had made him famous, and he was gaining a good practice in London, when he was cut off by apoplexy. His ideas have since been generally adopted. [vii. 14]

BROWN, JOHN (d. 1829), miscellaneous writer; published a 'History of Bolton,' 1825; went to London to advocate the claims of his friend, Samuel Crompton, the inventor; committed suicide in despair at his want of success in life. [vii. 17]

BROWN, JOHN (1754-1832), of Whitburn, Scottish divine; eldest son of John Brown (1722-1787) [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; minister of the Burgher church at Whitburn, Linlithgowshire, 1776-1832; wrote memoirs of James Hervey, 1806, and many religious treatises. [vii. 17]

BROWN, JOHN (1778-1848), of Langton, theologian; minister of Langton, Berwickshire, 1810; D.D. Glasgow, 1816; joined the Free church in 1843; wrote in defence of presbyterian orders and church government. [vii. 18]

BROWN, JOHN (1784-1858), of Edinburgh, divine; eldest son of John Brown (1754-1832) [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; taught school in Fife; minister of the Burgher church at Biggar, 1806, and of the Relief church at Edinburgh, 1822; D.D., 1830; professor of exegesis in the Relief college, 1834, and in the United Presbyterian College, 1847; wrote expositions of several epistles, and many religious treatises. [vii. 18]

BROWN, JOHN (1780-1859), geologist; apprenticed as stonemason; abandoned his trade (1830) for geological study; contributed to scientific journals. [Suppl. i. 301]

BROWN, JOHN (1797-1861), geographer; midshipman in the East India Company's service till 1819; afterwards a wealthy diamond merchant; advocated Arctic exploration and the search for Sir John Franklin. [vii. 20]

BROWN, JOHN (1810-1882), essayist; son of John Brown (1784-1858) [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh High School and University; M.D., 1835; practised in Edinburgh with success till his death; published 'Horæ Subseculivæ,' three volumes of essays, 1858-62, and 'Rab and his Friends,' 1859. [vii. 20]

BROWN, SIR JOHN (1816-1896), pioneer of armour-plate manufacture; apprenticed to factor at Fargate; manager of business, 1831; invented conical steel spring buffer for railway wagons, 1848; opened Atlas Steel Works, Sheffield, 1866; originated use of rolled steel armour plating for war vessels, 1860, and his method was approved by royal commission, 1863; knighted, 1867. [Suppl. i. 301]

BROWN, JOHN ORA W FORD (1805-1867), landscape-painter; travelled in Holland and Spain. [vii. 21]

BROWN, JOHN WRIGHT (1836-1863), botanist; of Edinburgh; student of Scottish flora. [vii. 21]

BROWN, JOSEPH (1784-1868), physician; army surgeon in Wellington's campaigns; M.D. Edinburgh, 1819; practised in Sunderland; wrote on medical subjects. [vii. 21]

BROWN, LANCELOT (1715-1783), reviver of the natural style of landscape-gardening; laid out gardens at Kew and Blenheim; architect of many country houses; high sheriff of Huntingdon, 1770; known as 'Capability Brown.' [vii. 22]

BROWN, LEVINIUS (1671-1764), jesuit; educated at St. Omer and Rome; resided at Ladyholt, Sussex, 1700, where he was a friend of Alexander Pope; rector of the English college at Rome, 1728-31; provincial, 1738; rector of Liège College, 1737; spent his last years at St. Omer. [vii. 22]

BROWN, OLIVER MADOX (1855-1874), novelist and painter in water-colours; son of Ford Madox Brown [q. v.]; first exhibited, 1869; published 'Gabriel Denver,' his first novel, 1873. Other novels are contained in his 'Literary Remains,' 1876. [vii. 22]

BROWN, PETER (1784-1863), Canadian journalist; went to New York, 1838, and founded 'British Chronicle' newspaper; removed to Toronto, 1843, and renamed paper 'The Banner,' which became organ of Free church of Scotland in Canada. [Suppl. i. 299]

BROWN, PHILIP (d. 1779), botanist; medical practitioner in Manchester; collected foreign plants. [vii. 23]

BROWN, RAWDON LUBBOOK (1803-1883), historical student; resided in Venice, 1833-83, making careful researches among the Venetian archives, especially among the reports sent home by the Venetian ambassadors in London. His 'Calendar of State Papers . . . in the Archives of Venice' is indispensable for the study of English history from 1202 to 1558. In addition he wrote historical works in English and Italian. [vii. 24]

BROWN, SIR RICHARD (d. 1669). [See BROWNE.]

BROWN, ROBERT (d. 1753), painter; assisted Sir James Thornhill in painting the cupola of St. Paul's; painted altar-pieces in several London churches. Some of his pictures have been engraved. [vii. 24]

BROWN, SIR ROBERT (d. 1760), diplomatist; merchant in Venice and British resident till 1734; created baronet, 1732; M.P. for Ilchester, 1734; a noted miser. [vii. 25]

BROWN, ROBERT (1757-1831), writer on agriculture; a Haddington farmer; published 'Treatise on Rural Affairs,' 1811, and other works. [vii. 25]

BROWN, ROBERT (d. 1846), divine; chaplain of St. Matthew's chapel, Douglas, 1817; vicar of Kirk Braddan, 1836-46. [Suppl. i. 300]

BROWN, ROBERT (1773-1858), botanist; educated at Aberdeen and Edinburgh; studied flora of Scotland, 1791; army official in Ireland, 1796, and London, 1798; naturalist to Captain Flinders's Australasian expedition, 1801-5; librarian to the Linnean Society, and to Sir Joseph Banks; published 'Prodromus Floræ Novæ Hollandiæ et insulæ Van-Diemen,' 1810; D.O.L. Oxford, 1832; eminent for his investigations into the impregnation of plants. [vii. 25]

BROWN, ROBERT (1842-1895), geographical compiler; B.A. Edinburgh, 1860; studied at Leyden, Copenhagen, and Rostock; Ph.D. Rostock; botanist to British Columbia expedition, and commander of Vancouver expedition, 1864; travelled widely, 1861-9; lecturer in natural history in high school and Heriot-Watt College, Edinburgh, 1869-76; removed to London, 1876; compiled several popular geographical works and published scientific and other volumes. He was F.L.S., and on council of Royal Geographical Society. [Suppl. i. 302]

BROWN, SAMUEL (s. 1700), surgeon at Madras; collector of Indian plants. [vii. 27]

BROWN, SIR SAMUEL (1776-1852), engineer; naval officer, 1795; commander, 1811; captain, 1842; knighted, 1838; devised an improved method of chain-links for ship-cables and suspension bridges. [vii. 27]

BROWN, SAMUEL (1817-1856), chemist; M.D. Edinburgh, 1839; devoted himself to chemical research; wrote on the atomic theory. [vii. 28]

BROWN, SAMUEL (1810-1875), statistician; an actuary by profession; advocated uniformity of coinage and weights and measures; joint-editor of the 'Journal of the Institute of Actuaries.' [vii. 28]

BROWN, STEPHEN (s. 1340?), theologian; supposed to have been born at Aberdeen; a Carmelite monk, and reputed author of several theological pieces. His identity is doubtful. Stephen Brown, bishop of Ross in Ireland, 1398, was a different person. [vii. 28]

BROWN, THOMAS (s. 1170). [See THOMAS.]

BROWN or BROUNS, THOMAS (d. 1446), ecclesiastic; LL.D.; sub-dean of Lincoln, 1414; dean of Salisbury, 1431; bishop of Rochester, 1435, and of Norwich, 1436; ambassador to France, 1439. [vii. 29]

BROWN, THOMAS (s. 1570), translator; of Lincoln's Inn; translated the 'Nobilitas Literata' of Sturm. [vii. 29]

BROWN, THOMAS (1663-1704), satirist; entered Christ Church, Oxford, 1678, where he wrote the famous 'I do not love thee, Dr. Fell,' and other verses, Latin and English; taught school at Kingston-on-Thames; afterwards settled in London as a hack writer and translator; fertile in satirical verses; wrote against Dryden, Duffie, Titus Oates, Sir Richard Blackmore. His collected works appeared in 1707. [vii. 29]

BROWN, THOMAS (1778-1820), the last of the Scottish school of metaphysicians; educated in London and at Edinburgh University; a disciple of Dugald Stewart; criticised Erasmus Darwin's 'Zoonomia,' 1798; studied medicine at Edinburgh, 1798-1803, and practised there, 1806; wrote philosophical tracts, and tried to obtain a chair in the university; elected professor of moral philosophy, 1810; became an extremely popular lecturer; published poetry and essays. His 'Lectures' were once highly esteemed, but were severely criticised by Sir William Hamilton. [vii. 31]

BROWN, THOMAS EDWARD (1830-1897), Manx poet; son of Robert Brown (d. 1846) [q. v.]; educated at King William's College, Isle of Man, and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1853; fellow of Oriel, 1854-8; M.A., 1856; master of King William's College and vice-principal, 1858-61; head-master of Crypt School, Gloucester, 1861-4; second master at Clifton, 1864-93; curate of St. Barnabas, Bristol, 1884-93. He published 'Fo'c'sle Yarns,' 1881, and other tales in verse in Manx dialect appeared in subsequent years. A collected edition of his poems was issued, 1900. [Suppl. i. 303]

BROWN, THOMAS JOSEPH (1798-1880), Roman catholic prelate; Benedictine monk, 1813; professor of theology at Downside, 1823-41; took prominent part in controversies both in the press and on the platform, 1830; D.D., 1834; titular bishop of Apollonia, 1840, and in charge of the Welsh district; bishop of Newport and Menavia, 1850. [vii. 33]

BROWN or BROWNE, ULYSSES MAXIMILIAN von (1708-1757), count, baron de Camus and Mountany; Austrian general; of Irish extraction; entered the Austrian service early and rose rapidly; colonel of infantry, 1734; distinguished himself at the battle of Placenza and the operations round Genoa, and advanced as far as Toulon, 1743-8; field-marshal, 1753; accepted second command in Bohemia, and died of wounds received before Prague. [vii. 35]

BROWN, WILLIAM (d. 1814), rear-admiral; lieutenant R.N., 1788; commander, 1792; captain, 1793; commanded the Ajax in the action off Cape Finisterre, 22 July 1805, and was partly to blame for its indecisive character; commissioner of dockyards; rear-admiral, 1812; appointed to the Jamaica station, 1813. [vii. 35]

BROWN, WILLIAM (1766-1835), historical writer; D.D. Aberdeen, 1816; minister of Eskdalemuir, Dumfries, 1792-1835; wrote 'Antiquities of the Jews,' 1826. [vii. 36]

BROWN, WILLIAM (1777-1857), admiral in the Argentina service; born in Ireland; taken to America as a boy; went to sea, and was pressed into the English navy, 1796; captain of a merchantman; settled at Buenos Ayres, 1812; accepted naval command, 1814, and defeated two Spanish squadrons; privateer against the Spaniards; defeated a Brazilian fleet in the La Plata, 1828 and 1827, but was then overpowered by superior force; blockaded Monte Video, 1842-5. [vii. 36]

BROWN, SIR WILLIAM (1784-1864), benefactor to Liverpool; engaged in the linen-trade at Baltimore, and opened a branch office in Liverpool, 1809; afterwards an Anglo-American banker; alderman of Liverpool, 1831; advocate of free trade and the volunteer movement; M.P. for South Lancashire, 1846-59; erected free public library and Derby museum at Liverpool, 1860; created baronet, 1863. [vii. 37]

BROWN, WILLIAM LAURENCE (1755-1830), theological writer; educated at St. Andrews and Utrecht; minister of the English church, Utrecht, 1778, and professor of philosophy and church history there, 1788; D.D. St. Andrews, 1784; professor of divinity, Aberdeen; principal of Aberdeen University, 1798; wrote theological treatises. [vii. 37]

BROWNELL, THOMAS ROBSON (1822?-1864). [See ROBSON.]

BROWNE. [See also BROWN and BROWN.]

BROWNE, ALEXANDER (fl. 1660), miniature-painter, engraver, and printseller; published 'Ars Pictoria,' 1675. [vii. 38]

BROWNE, SIR ANTHONY (d. 1548), politician; knighted, 1523; esquire of the body to Henry VIII, 1524; ambassador to France, 1528 and 1533; master of the horse, 1539; K.G., 1540; justice in eyre, 1545; named guardian to Prince Edward and Princess Elizabeth. He received Battle Abbey, 1538, and other large grants of church lands and manors, and was a great builder. Cowdray, Sussex, and other large estates, he inherited from his half-brother, the Earl of Southampton, 1543. [vii. 38]

BROWNE, ANTHONY (1510?-1567), judge; reader of the Middle Temple, 1553; active in prosecution of puritans in Essex, 1554; serjeant-at-law, 1555; chief justice of the common pleas, 1558; reduced to the place of puisne justice, 1559, for refusing to cede his official patronage to Queen Elizabeth; knighted, 1566. [vii. 39]

BROWNE, ANTHONY, first Viscount Montague (1526-1592), eldest son of Sir Anthony Browne (d. 1548) [q. v.]; a staunch Roman catholic, but of unquestioned loyalty both to Edward VI and to Elizabeth, though stoutly opposing in parliament the acts of supremacy and allegiance, 1559 and 1562; knighted, 1547; imprisoned for recusancy, 1551; entertained Edward VI at Cowdray, Sussex, 1552; created Viscount Montague, 1554, made master of the horse, and sent on an embassy to the pope; lieutenant-general at St. Quentin, 1557; ambassador to Spain, 1561; on the commission which tried Mary Queen of Scots, 1587; entertained Elizabeth at Cowdray, 1591. [vii. 40]

BROWNE, ARTHUR (1756?-1805), Irish lawyer; born in New England; of Irish parentage; educated at Harvard and Trinity College, Dublin, where he was elected junior fellow, 1777; LL.D., 1784; senior fellow, 1795-1805; became regius professor of law in Dublin, 1785; several times professor of Greek; practised at the Irish bar; last 'prime serjeant,' 1802; M.P. for Dublin University in the Irish parliament, 1783-1800; advocated the union; wrote on legal and miscellaneous subjects. [vii. 41]

BROWNE, DAVID (fl. 1638), writer on penmanship; published at St. Andrews 'The New Invention, intitled Calligraphia,' 1622. [vii. 41]

BROWNE, EDWARD (1844-1708), physician and traveller; eldest son of Sir Thomas Browne (1605-1682) [q. v.]; educated at Norwich grammar school and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.B., 1663; attended lectures in London; travelled in Italy, Holland, Austria, Hungary, North Greece, and the Low Countries, 1668-73; settled as a practitioner in London, 1675; president, Royal College of Physicians, 1704. His collected travels appeared in 1685. [vii. 42]

BROWNE, EDWARD (d. 1730), quaker; native of Cork, and subsequently a wealthy merchant in Sunderland. [vii. 43]

BROWNE, EDWARD HAROLD (1811-1891), bishop of Ely and of Winchester; educated at Eton and Emmanuel College, Cambridge; M.A., 1836; D.D., 1864; fellow, 1837-40; accepted charge of Holy Trinity, Stroud, 1840; vice-principal of St. David's College, Lampeter, 1843-9; prebendary of Exeter, 1849; vicar of Hewitree, Exeter, and canon of Exeter, 1857; bishop of Ely, 1864-73, and of Winchester, 1873-90; published religious writings. [Suppl. i. 304]

BROWNE, FELICIA DOROTHEA (1793-1835). [See HEMANS.]

BROWNE, GEORGE (d. 1556), archbishop of Dublin; the chief instrument of Henry VIII in the Irish reformation; provincial of the Austin Friars, 1534; archbishop of Dublin, 1536; spoke in the Irish parliament in favour of Henry VIII's ecclesiastical supremacy, and obtained for the king a grant of the first-fruits of the Irish abbeys; travelled widely, publishing the royal injunctions and collecting first-fruits; hated by the clergy and by most of the Irish council; in disfavour; took a leading part in introducing the first English prayer-book in Ireland, 1550; made by patent primate of Ireland; at Mary's accession deprived of the primacy and deposed from his archbishopric as being a married man; D.D. [vii. 43]

BROWNE, GEORGE, COMTE DE (1698-1792), soldier of fortune; educated at Limerick; took service with the elector palatine; transferred himself to the Russian service, 1730; taken prisoner and enslaved by the Turks; served in Finland and against the Swedes; contributed materially to the victories of Kollin, 1757, and Zorndorf, 1758; field-marshal; governor of Livonia. [vii. 45]

BROWNE, HABLÖT KNIGHT (1815-1882), water-colour painter and book-illustrator; known as PHIZ; apprenticed to an engraver, and subsequently opened a studio; illustrated Charles Dickens's 'Sunday as it is by Timothy Sparks,' 1836, and the 'Pickwick Papers,' taking the pseudonym PHIZ to match the author's pseudonym Boz; fond of horses, hunting, and water-colour painting; a prolific illustrator, especially of novels by Dickens, Lever, and Ainsworth. [vii. 45]

BROWNE, HENRY (1804-1875), classical and biblical scholar; M.A. Cambridge, 1830; principal of Chichester Theological College, 1842-7; rector of Pevensey, Sussex, 1854-75; published classical text-books and treatises on biblical chronology. [vii. 47]

BROWNE, ISAAO HAWKINS, the elder (1705-1760), wit and poet; educated at Westminster School and Trinity College, Cambridge; barrister of Lincoln's Inn; M.P. for Wenlock, 1744-54; his conversational powers praised by Samuel Johnson; wrote poems, some of which are distinguished by their sprightly humour. [vii. 47]

BROWNE, ISAAO HAWKINS, the younger (1745-1818), essayist; son of Isaac Hawkins Browne the elder [q. v.]; educated at Westminster and Hertford College, Oxford; D.C.L., 1773; M.P. for Bridgton, 1784-1812; published essays on moral and religious subjects. [vii. 48]

BROWNE or BROWN, JAMES (1616-1685), theologian; B.A. Oriel College, Oxford, 1638; chaplain in the army of the parliament; his 'Antichrist in Spirit' answered by George Fox. [vii. 49]

BROWNE, JAMES (1793-1841), journalist and historian; educated at St. Andrews University; minister of the church of Scotland; Scottish advocate; finally settled in Edinburgh as a journalist; LL.D. St. Andrews. His works include a 'History of the Highlands,' 1835. [vii. 49]

BROWNE, JOHN (1642-1700?), surgeon; served as naval surgeon; surgeon to St. Thomas's Hospital, 1683-91, and to Charles II and William III; author of anatomical and surgical treatises. [vii. 49]

BROWNE, JOHN (1741-1801), engraver of landscapes; pupil of John Tinney and William Woollett. [vii. 50]

BROWNE, JOHN (1823-1886), nonconformist historian; B.A. London, 1843; minister at Lowestoft, 1844-6, and Wrentham, Suffolk, 1848-86; published 'History of Congregationalism,' 1877, and other works. [Suppl. i. 304]

BROWNE, JOSEPH (fl. 1706), physician; libelled Queen Anne's administration, 1706; wrote and lectured against Harvey's theory of the circulation of the blood. [vii. 51]

BROWNE, JOSEPH (1700-1767), provost of Queen's College, Oxford, 1756; rector of Bramshot, Hampshire, and professor of natural philosophy at Oxford, 1746-87. [vii. 51]

BROWNE, LANCELOT (d. 1605), physician; educated at Cambridge; M.D., 1576; F.R.O.P., 1584; physician to Queen Elizabeth and James I. [vii. 51]

BROWNE, LYDE, the elder (d. 1787), virtuoso; director of the Bank of England; possessed a famous cabinet of Greek and Roman art treasures at Wimbledon. [vii. 52]

BROWNE, LYDE, the younger (d. 1803), lieutenant-colonel; entered the army, 1777; lieutenant-colonel, 1800; shot by Emmet's mob in Dublin. [vii. 52]

BROWNE, MOSES (1704-1787), chief poetical contributor to the 'Gentleman's Magazine'; pen-cutter; and subsequently vicar of Olney, 1753; wrote poems, including 'Piscatory Eclogues,' 1729, and sermons. [vii. 52]

BROWNE, PATRIOK (1720?-1790), naturalist; visited Antigua, 1737; studied science in Paris, and at Leyden; M.D., 1743; settled in Jamaica; published 'Civil and Natural History of Jamaica,' 1756, and other zoological works. [vii. 53]

BROWNE, PETER (d. 1735), divine; fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, 1692; provost, 1699; bishop of Cork and Ross, 1710; published theological tractates. [vii. 53]

BROWNE, SIR RICHARD (d. 1669), parliamentary general and a leader of the presbyterian party; officer of the London trained bands; sent to disarm the Kentish royalists, 1642; present at the siege of Winchester; suppressed Kentish rising, 1643; fought at Alresford, 1644; major-general with task of reducing the Oxford district, 1644; present at the surrender of Oxford, 1646; a commissioner to receive Charles from the Scots, 1647; present at the seizure of Charles at Holmby, and afterwards favourable to the king; M.P. for Wycombe, but expelled by the influence of the army, 1648, and imprisoned for five years; excluded from parliament for refusing the 'engagement,' 1656; M.P. for London in Richard Cromwell's parliament; privy to Sir George Booth's rising, 1659; intrigued for the recall of Charles II; knighted; lord mayor of London, 1660, and made a baronet for suppressing Venner's rising. [vii. 54]

BROWNE, SIR RICHARD (1605-1683), diplomatist; educated at Merton College, Oxford; travelled in France; clerk of the council, 1641-72; resident at the French court for Charles I and Charles II, 1641-60; provided in Paris a chapel for Anglican services, a home for Anglican divines, and a cemetery for protestants; created baronet, 1649; returned to England, 1660. [vii. 55]

BROWNE or BROWN, RICHARD (fl. 1674-1694), physician; educated at Queen's College, Oxford; M.D. Leyden, 1675; published medical treatises. [vii. 55]

BROWNE, ROBERT (1550?-1633?), separatist; regarded as the founder of congregationalism; was connected with several families of influence, particularly with Cecil, lord Burghley; B.A. Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1572, that college being then notoriously puritan in sympathies; probably ordained about 1573; taught school in London, and preached at Islington without episcopal licence; preached constantly in villages near Cambridge, and in Cambridge itself, c. 1578, denouncing the parochial system and ordination, whether by bishops or by presbytery; destroyed a licence to preach which his brother had obtained for him from the bishop of Ely, and was then inhibited; went to Norwich c. 1580, and, with Robert Harrison, collected a congregation, which they called 'the church,' but which was popularly known as 'the Brownists'; imprisoned by the bishop of Norwich for seditious preaching at Bury St. Edmunds, 1581, but set free by Burghley, who also delivered him from the prime; emigrated to Middleburg with his followers, 1581, whence he issued books, the circulation of which in England was punished by death; quarrelled with Harrison, 1583, and was followed by four families to Scotland, where he was again imprisoned; imprisoned on his return to England, 1584; began preaching at Northampton, 1586; excommunicated by the bishop of Peterborough for ignoring a citation; submitted to the bishop, and became master of Stamford grammar school, 1586; rector of Achurch, Northamptonshire, 1591-1631; died in Northampton gaol, to which he had been sent for an assault committed in a characteristic outbreak of temper. [vii. 57]

BROWNE, SAMUEL (1575?-1632), divine; M.A. All Souls, Oxford, 1606; minister of St. Mary's, Shrewsbury; published tracts. [vii. 51]

BROWNE, SAMUEL (d. 1668), judge; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1623; M.P. for Clifton, Devonshire, 1640; an active member of the Commons committee for the impeachment of Laud, 1644; one of the commissioners to treat with Charles in the Isle of Wight, 1648; serjeant-at-law, 1648; justice of the common pleas and knighted, 1660. [vii. 61]

BROWNE, SIMON (1680-1732), congregationalist; pastor at Portsmouth, and (1716-23) in the Old Jewry, London; published hymns and sermons. [vii. 62]

BROWNE, THEOPHILUS (1763-1835), unitarian; fellow of Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1785; vicar of Cherry-Hinton, Cambridgeshire, 1793, but resigned on adopting unitarianism; unitarian minister at Warminster, 1800, Norwich, 1809, Congleton, 1812, and Gloucester, 1816-28; published theological treatises. [vii. 62]

BROWNE, THOMAS (d. 1595), head-master of Westminster School, 1564-70; educated at Eton and King's, Cambridge; B.D., 1559; rector of Duntun-Waylett, Essex, 1564, of St. Leonard's, Foster Lane, London, 1567, and of Chelsea, 1574; author of occasional poems. [vii. 63]

BROWNE or BROWN, THOMAS (1604?-1673), divine; student of Christ Church, Oxford, 1620; B.D.; domestic chaplain to Archbishop Laud, 1637; canon of Windsor, 1639; rector of St. Mary Aldemary, London, and of Oddington, Oxfordshire; took refuge in Holland; recovered his benefices, 1660; published sermons. [vii. 64]

BROWNE, SIR THOMAS (1605-1682), physician and author; educated at Winchester and Broadgates Hall, Oxford; M.A., 1629; practised medicine in Oxfordshire; studied medicine at Montpellier and Padua; M.D. Leyden, 1633; incorporated M.D. at Oxford, 1637; settled in Norwich, 1637, and practised physic; expressed his belief in witchcraft at a trial of witches at Bury St. Edmunds, 1664; knighted in 1671, on occasion of a royal visit to Norwich. His 'Religio Medici' appeared without his sanction in 1642, but was reissued with his approval in 1643, and was afterwards published on the continent in Latin, Dutch, French, and German translations. 'Pseudodoxia Epidemica: Enquiries into Vulgar Errors,' appeared in 1646, and 'Hydriotaphia: Urn Burial,' and a mystical treatise entitled 'The Garden of Cyrus,' in 1658. Communications from him are to be found in the works of John Evelyn, William Dugdale, Christopher Merrett, John Ilay, and Anthony a Wood. The best edition of his collected works is by Simon Wilkin, 1835. [vii. 64]

BROWNE, THOMAS (1672-1710), physician; son of Edward Browne (1644-1708) [q. v.]; of Trinity College, Cambridge; M.D. 1700; fellow of the College of Physicians, 1707. [vii. 72]

BROWNE, THOMAS (1708?-1780), herald and land-surveyor; called 'Sense Browne,' to distinguish him from Lancelot Brown [q. v.]; Garter king-of-arms, 1774. [vii. 72]

BROWNE, SIR THOMAS GORE (1807-1887), colonel and colonial governor; ensign 28th foot, 1824; captain, 1829; major, 1834; served in first Afghan war; U.B., 1843; lieutenant-colonel, 1845; governor of St. Helena, 1851, New Zealand, 1855, and Tasmania, 1862-8; K.C.M.G., 1869; temporarily governor of Bermuda, 1870-1. [Suppl. i. 305]

BROWNE, WILLIAM (1591-1643?), poet; educated at Tavistock and Exeter College, Oxford; entered the Inner Temple, 1611; published 'Britannia's Pastorals,' book i., 1613, book ii., 1616, but book iii. remained in manuscript till 1852; contributed eclogues to 'The Shepheards Pipe,' 1614; superintended the Inner Temple masque on the story of Ulysses and Circe, 1615; returned to Oxford as tutor to the Hon. Robert Dormer, 1624, and then graduated M.A.; in the retinue of the Earl of Pembroke at Wilton. His poetry, which closely resembles Spenser, greatly influenced Milton, Keats, and Mrs. Browning. Works collected by W. Carew Hazlitt, 1868. [vii. 72]

BROWNE, WILLIAM (1628-1678), botanist; fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford; B.D., 1665. [vii. 75]

BROWNE, SIR WILLIAM (1692-1774), physician; M.A. Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1714; M.D., 1721; practised medicine at Lynn, 1716-49; knighted, 1748; removed to London, 1749; president of the College of Physicians, 1765; founded the Browne medals at Cambridge; published verses and orations. [vii. 75]

BROWNE, WILLIAM (1748-1825), gem and seal engraver; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1770-1823; chiefly employed by the courts of Russia and France. [vii. 76]

BROWNE, WILLIAM GEORGE (1768-1818), oriental traveller; B.A. Oxford, 1789; went to Egypt in 1792, and to Darfur, 1793-6; returned to England, 1798, by way of Syria and Constantinople; published narrative of his travels, 1800; travelled in Turkey and the Levant, 1800-2; set out for Tartary, 1812, travelling through Asia Minor and Armenia, but was murdered near Tabriz in Persia, 1813. [vii. 76]

BROWNING, ELIZABETH BARRETT (1806-1861), poetess; the name of Barrett adopted by her father, originally named Moulton on succeeding to an estate;

read Homer in Greek and wrote verses at the age of eight; her spine injured by a fall at the age of fifteen, in consequence of which for many years she was compelled to lie on her back; published her 'Essay on Mind,' 1826, and in 1833, 'Prometheus Bound,' her first volume of poems; constantly wrote prose and verse from this time onwards; met Robert Browning, 1845; married him, 1846, and went with him through France to Florence, where they mainly resided till her death. She took a keen interest in Italy and the Italian struggle for freedom. [vii. 78]

BROWNING, JOHN (fl. 1584), divine; fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge; B.D., 1577; censured for heretical preaching, 1572; D.D. Oxford, 1580, and incorporated D.D. at Cambridge, 1581; as vice-master of Trinity, tried to eject the master for marrying, 1584, but was by him expelled from his fellowship. [vii. 82]

BROWNING, JOHN (fl. 1634), divine and author. [vii. 82]

BROWNING, ROBERT (1812-1889), poet; son of Robert Browning, a clerk in the Bank of England; educated at a school at Peckham, and by a private tutor; studied Greek at University College, London, 1829-30; displayed in early years some power of musical composition and wrote settings for a number of songs; published 'Pauline,' 1832; first visited Italy, 1834; produced (1835) 'Paracelsus,' which attracted the friendly notice of Carlyle, Leigh Hunt, Wordsworth, Dickens, and other men of letters; published a tragedy, 'Strafford,' which was played at Covent Garden by Macready and Helen Faucit, 1837; published 'Sordello,' 1840; 'Bells and Pomegranates' (comprising 'Pippa Passes,' 1841, 'A Blot in the Scutcheon,' performed at Drury Lane, 1843, by Phelps and Helen Faucit, 'Luria,' and 'A Soul's Tragedy,' 1846, and other pieces, eight in all), 1841-6; made acquaintance, 1845, of Elizabeth Barrett Moulton Barrett [see Browning, Elizabeth Barrett], whom he married, 1846; lived at Pisa, 1846-7; and at Florence, 1847-61, and returned to England, 1861; in Paris, 1861-2; lived in Italy, staying chiefly at Florence, from 1862 till 1865; returned (1866) to Italy, living for the most part at Rome and Florence, where Mrs. Browning died, 1861; in 1861 Browning settled in London, but frequently revisited Italy in later life; published 'Dramatis Personae,' 1864; honorary M.A. Oxford, 1868; made acquaintance, 1868, of George Smith, who became his publisher and intimate friend; published, in four successive instalments, 1868-9, 'The Ring and the Book,' the rewriting of which had occupied him since 1862; published 'Balaustina's Adventure,' and 'Prince Hohenstiel-Schwangau,' 1871. Fifine at the Fair, 1872, 'Red Cotton Nightcap Country,' 1873, 'The Inn Album,' 1875, 'Pacchiarotto,' 1876; translation of 'Agamemnon,' 1877, 'La Salsizza,' and 'Two Poets of Crotis' (one volume), 1878, and 'Dramatic Idylls,' first series, 1879, and second series, 1880; honorary LL.D. Edinburgh, 1884; foreign correspondent to Royal Academy, 1866; died at Venice, 16 Dec. 1889; buried in Westminster Abbey; his last volume of poems, 'Asolando,' appeared on the day of his death. Portraits of him by Field, Talfourd, Mr. G. F. Watts, R.A., and Mr. Rudolf Lehmann, are in the National Portrait Gallery. His poems were collected in two volumes, 1896; several volumes of his correspondence with Mrs. Browning have been published. Browning was at his best in psychological monologue; his poems everywhere attest unflinching optimism. [Suppl. i. 306]

BROWNLOW, RICHARD (1553-1638), chief prothonotary of court of common pleas, 1591-1638; entered the Inner Temple, 1583; left in manuscript law reports. [vii. 82]

BROWNRIG, RALPH (1592-1659), bishop of Exeter; educated at Ipswich and Pembroke Hall, Cambridge; M.A., 1617; D.D., 1626; rector of Barley, Hertfordshire, 1621; master of St. Catharine's Hall, Cambridge; deprived of the mastership, 1645; canon of Durham, 1641; bishop of Exeter, 1641; lived in retirement during the Commonwealth, ordaining privately; chaplain of the Inner and Middle Temples, 1658; a strict Calvinist; left sermons in manuscript. [vii. 83]

BROWNRIGG, ELIZABETH (d. 1767), murderess; wife of a London house-painter; practised as midwife; barbarously murdered her apprentice; hanged at Tyburn. [vii. 84]

BROWNRIGG, SIR ROBERT (1759-1833), general; ensign, 1775; captain, 1784; served in the Netherlands, 1793; colonel, 1796; quartermaster-general, 1803; lieutenant-general, 1808; governor of Ceylon, 1811; took Kandy and annexed the kingdom, 1815; created baronet, 1816; general, 1819; returned to England, 1820.

[vii. 85]

BROWNRIGG, WILLIAM (1711-1800), chemist; studied medicine at London and at Leyden; M.D., 1737; practised at Whitehaven for many years; made valuable researches into the phenomena of fire-damp, mineral waters, and platina.

[vii. 85]

BROWN-SÉQUARD, CHARLES EDWARD (1817-1894), physiologist; born in Mauritius; studied medicine at Paris; M.D., 1846; secretary of Société de Biologie, 1848; subdued epidemic of cholera in Mauritius, 1854-5; professor at Virginia Medical College, Richmond, Virginia, 1855; engaged in scientific teaching in Paris, 1855-1857; established, 1858, and published till 1864, 'Journal de Physiologie'; lectured in England on physiology and pathology; fellow of Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons at Glasgow, 1859; F.R.S. and F.R.C.P., 1860; professor of physiology and pathology of nervous system at Harvard, U.S.A., 1863-8; founded, with Vulpian and Charcot, 'Archives de Physiologie,' Paris; sole editor, 1889; professor of pathology at Paris, 1869-72, of physiology at Geneva, 1877, and of experimental medicine at College of France, 1878-94; honorary LL.D. of Cambridge, 1881; contributed to scientific publications. [Suppl. i. 319]

BROWNSWEED, JOHN (1540?-1589), master of Macclesfield grammar school; published Latin poems.

[vii. 86]

BROXHOPE, NOEL (1689?-1748), physician; educated at Westminster; student of Christ Church, Oxford, 1705; M.A., 1711; Radcliffe travelling fellow, 1715; M.D., 1723; F.R.C.P., 1726; practised in London.

[vii. 87]

BRUCE, ALEXANDER, second EARL OF KINCARDINE (d. 1681), resided in North Germany and Holland, 1657-60; succeeded his brother in title and estates at Culross, Fifeshire, 1663, where he managed his coal, salt, stone, and marble works; privy councillor in Scotland; extraordinary lord of session, 1667; continued to support Lauderdale till 1674; dismissed from the privy council for trying to protect the covenanters, 1676.

[vii. 87]

BRUCE, ALEXANDER BALMAIN (1831-1899), Scottish divine; educated at Edinburgh University; minister at Cardross, 1859, and Broughty Ferry, 1868; Cunningham lecturer, 1874; professor of apologetics and New Testament exegesis at Free Church Hall, Glasgow, 1875-99; Gifford lecturer, Glasgow University, 1896-7; published sermons and other religious works, and assisted in compilation of hymn-books.

[Suppl. i. 321]

BRUCE, ARCHIBALD (1746-1816), Scottish divine; educated at Glasgow; minister of the Anti-burgher congregation at Whitburn, Linlithgow, 1768; divinity professor to the Anti-burgher ('Associate') church, 1786-1806; with three other clergymen formed a secession church; author of poems, chiefly satirical.

[vii. 89]

BRUCE, DAVID (1324-1371), DAVID II, king of Scotland; only son of Robert de Bruce VIII [q. v.], by his second wife; born at Dunfermline, 5 March 1324; succeeded, 9 June 1329; was crowned, 24 Nov. 1331; his supporters, led by the regent Archibald Douglas, defeated at Halidon Hill, 1333, by Edward Baliol, who was actively assisted in his claim to the Scottish crown by Edward III; retired to Dumbarton, and thence to France, 1334; for seven years he was royally entertained by the French king; returned to Scotland in May 1341, and took the administration of affairs into his own hands, 1342; invaded England at the request of Philip of France, and was taken prisoner at Neville's Cross, 17 Oct. 1346; remained in captivity for eleven years; set free by the treaty of Berwick, 1357, on the severe terms of paying a ransom of 100,000 merks in ten years; began to intrigue for the remission of the ransom on condition of bequeathing his crown to a son of Edward III, proposals to this effect being brought before the estates in 1363.

David was married to Joanna, sister of Edward III, 12 July 1328; she accompanied him in his exiles, and died near London, 14 Aug. 1362. Next year he married Margaret Drummond, widow of Sir John Logie, and divorced her in 1369. He had no child.

[vii. 89]

BRUCE, DAVID (fl. 1660), physician; M.A. St. Andrews; studied physic in France; M.D. Valencia, 1687; incorporated M.D. at Oxford, 1680; physician to the Duke of York; subsequently practised at Edinburgh.

[vii. 94]

BRUCE, EDWARD (d. 1318), king of Ireland; younger brother of Robert de Bruce VIII [q. v.], king of Scotland; took part in the Ayrshire campaign, 1307; subdued Galloway, 1308; reduced Dundee, 1313; besieged Stirling Castle, and granted the governor a year's truce, June 1313; commanded the right wing at Bannockburn, 1314; recognised as heir presumptive, May 1315; accepted an invitation from the Ulster chieftains, took Carrickfergus, and was crowned king of Ireland, 1315; opposed by the clergy; being joined by his brother, pushed on to Limerick, but when left alone, fell back on Carrickfergus, 1317; killed in battle at Dundalk.

[vii. 94]

BRUCE, EDWARD, first BARON BRUCE OF KINLOSS (1449?-1611), judge; judge of the commissary court, Edinburgh, before 1583; granted Kinloss Abbey, Ayrshire, in commendam, 1583; envoy to Queen Elizabeth, 1594; lord of session, 1597; envoy to Queen Elizabeth, 1598 and 1601; created Baron Bruce of Kinloss, 1603; accompanied James I to England, 1603, and was appointed master of the rolls.

[vii. 96]

BRUCE, SIR FREDERICK WILLIAM ADOLPHUS (1814-1867), diplomatist; youngest son of Thomas Bruce, seventh earl of Elgin [q. v.]; attached to Lord Ashburn's mission to Washington, 1842; colonial secretary at Hongkong, 1844; lieutenant-governor of Newfoundland, 1846; chargé d'affaires to Bolivia, 1848, and to Uruguay, 1851; consul-general in Egypt, 1853; secretary to the embassy to China, 1857; envoy to China, 1858; K.O.B., 1862; envoy to Washington, 1865; died at Boston.

[vii. 97]

BRUCE, GEORGE WYNNDHAM HAMILTON KNIGHT (1852-1896), first bishop of Mashonaland; educated at Eton and Merton College, Oxford; M.A., 1881; D.D., 1886; curate of St. Andrew, Bethnal Green, 1884-6; bishop of Bloemfontein, 1886, and of Mashonaland, 1891-1894; vicar of Bovey Tracey, 1895-6; published personal memoirs.

[Suppl. i. 322]

BRUCE, HENRY AUSTIN, first BARON ABERDARE (1816-1895), statesman; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1837; stipendiary magistrate for Merthyr Tydvil and Aberdare, 1847-52; liberal M.P. for Merthyr Tydvil, 1852-68; under-secretary of state for home department, 1862-4; privy councillor and vice-president of committee of council on education, 1864; M.P. for Renfrewshire, 1869; home secretary, 1869-73; conducted reform in licensing laws; lord president of council, 1873-4; created Baron Aberdare, 1873; F.R.S., 1876; president of Royal Geographical Society, 1881, and of Royal Historical Society, 1879-92; chairman of National African (afterwards Royal Niger) Company, 1882-95; first president of University College, Cardiff, 1883; first chancellor of university of Wales, 1894; G.O.B., 1885.

[Suppl. i. 322]

BRUCE, JAMES (1660?-1730), Irish presbyterian; eldest son of Michael Bruce (1635-1693) [q. v.]; minister of Killeleagh, co. Down, 1684; fled to Scotland, 1689; returned to Killeleagh, 1692; founded a presbyterian college there, 1697; joined the 'subscribers' to the Westminster Confession, 1721, but was tolerant to the 'non-subscribers.'

[vii. 97]

BRUCE, JAMES (1730-1794), African traveller; educated at Harrow; engaged in the Portuguese wine trade, 1753; visited Spain and Portugal, 1754; studied Arabic and Ethiopic; studied antiquities in Italy, especially at Paestum; consul at Algiers, 1763, with a mission to study antiquities; made an archaeological tour in Barbary, 1765; shipwrecked near Crete; visited Palmyra and Baalbec; reached Egypt, 1768; sailed up the Nile to Assouan; crossed the desert to the Red Sea; landed at Masaua, the port of Abyssinia, September 1769; reached Gondar, the capital, February 1770; explored the sources of the Blue Nile; left Gondar, 1771; travelled to Senaar in Nubia; reached Assouan, November 1772, and England, 1774; published his travels, 1790; died of a fall.

[vii. 98]

BRUCE, JAMES (1765?-1806), essayist; educated at St. Andrews and Cambridge; episcopalian clergyman in Scotland; Tory journalist in London, 1808.

[vii. 102]

BRUCE, JAMES (1808-1861), author; journalist at Aberdeen, at Oupar-Fife, 1846, and at Belfast, 1860 (?) till death; published 'Letters on the . . . Condition of the Highlands,' 1847, biographies and travels. [vii. 103]

BRUCE, JAMES, eighth EARL OF ELGIN and twelfth EARL OF KINCARDINE (1811-1863), diplomatist; second son of Thomas Bruce, seventh earl of Elgin [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Oxford; fellow of Merton, 1832; M.P. Southampton, 1841; succeeded to the peerage, 1841; governor of Jamaica, 1842; governor-general of Canada, 1847-54, during a period of distress and unrest; envoy to China, 1857; negotiated the treaty of Tientsin, 1858; visited Japan and concluded a treaty, 1858; postmaster-general, 1859; envoy to China, 1860-1, punishing the emperor's treachery by destroying the summer palace at Peking; viceroy of India, 1862. [vii. 104]

BRUCE, SIR JAMES LEWIS KNIGHT (1791-1866), judge; known as J. L. Knight till September 1837; educated at Sherborne school; solicitor; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1817; practised in the equity courts; M.P. for Bishop's Castle, 1831; vice-chancellor and knighted, 1841; chief judge in bankruptcy, 1842; lord justice of appeal, 1851. [vii. 106]

BRUCE, JOHN (1745-1826), historian; educated at Edinburgh, where he was professor of logic; keeper of the state paper office; historiographer to the East India Company; M.P. for Michael, Cornwall, 1809-14; joint king's printer for Scotland; published philosophical and historical works. [vii. 107]

BRUCE, JOHN (1802-1869), antiquary; educated partly at Aberdeen; lawyer; devoted himself to historical research from 1840; edited the Calendars of Domestic State Papers for 1625-39; published numerous historical tracts. [vii. 108]

BRUCE, JOHN COLLINGWOOD (1805-1892), antiquary; M.A. Glasgow, 1826; LL.D., 1853; proprietor of Percy Street academy, Newcastle, 1834-63; F.S.A., 1852; secretary and vice-president of Society of Antiquaries of Newcastle, 1846; published antiquarian works. [Suppl. i. 325]

BRUCE, SIR JOHN HOPE (1684?-1766), baronet of Kinross; reputed author of the ballad 'Hardyknute'; governor of Bermuda, 1721; lieutenant-general, 1758; M.P. for Kinross-shire. [vii. 109]

BRUCE, MICHAEL (1635-1693), Irish presbyterian; M.A. Edinburgh, 1654; minister of Killinchy, co. Down, 1657; continued to preach, in defiance of the bishop, 1660; outlawed, 1664; returned to Scotland, 1666; sentenced to transportation for field-preaching, July 1668; imprisoned in London; allowed to return to Killinchy, 1670; driven out by the rebellion, 1688; minister of Anwoth, Wigtownshire, 1689 till death. [vii. 109]

BRUCE, MICHAEL (1686-1735), Irish presbyterian; eldest son of James Bruce (1660?-1730) [q. v.]; minister of Holywood, co. Down, 1711; held liberal opinions in theology; a leader of the 'non-subscribers' (to the Westminster Confession), 1720. [vii. 111]

BRUCE, MICHAEL (1748-1767), poet; son of a poor weaver in Kinross-shire; at one time a herd-boy; educated at Edinburgh University, 1762-6; taught school in Kinross-shire and Clackmannanshire, 1765-6; died of consumption; his poems published posthumously, 1770. The 'Ode to the Cuckoo' is variously attributed to him and to John Logan. [vii. 111]

BRUCE, PETER HENRY (1692-1757), military engineer; born in Westphalia; of Scottish descent; educated in Scotland, 1698; studied fortification in Germany, 1704; entered the Prussian service, 1708; entered the Russian service and visited Constantinople, 1711; attended Peter the Great at court and in the field, 1711-24; settled in Scotland, 1724; superintended fortifications at the Bahamas, 1740-4, and in Scotland, 1745; published 'Memoirs.' [vii. 113]

BRUCE, ROBERT DE I (d. 1094?), founder of the family in England and Scotland. He came from Bruis, a castle near Cherbourg, with William the Conqueror, 1066, and received large grants of land in Cleveland, Yorkshire. [vii. 114]

BRUCE, ROBERT DE II (1078?-1141), son of Robert de Bruce I [q. v.]; a companion of David I of Scotland at the court of Henry I; received the lordship of Annandale, in Dumfriesshire, 1124; benefactor to the church in Yorkshire; forfeited Annandale by fighting on the English side, 1138. [vii. 114]

BRUCE, ROBERT DE III (fl. 1138-1189?), second son of Robert de Bruce II [q. v.]; received the lordship of Annandale, possibly in 1138; confirmed in it, 1166. [vii. 114]

BRUCE, ROBERT DE IV, son of Robert de Bruce III [q. v.]; died before 1191, possibly during his father's lifetime. [vii. 115]

BRUCE, ROBERT DE V (d. 1245), son of William de Bruce (d. 1215), son and heir of Robert de Bruce III [q. v.]. His marriage with Isabel, second daughter of David, earl of Huntingdon, younger brother of William the Lion, founded the claim of his descendants to the crown. [vii. 115]

BRUCE, ROBERT DE VI (1210-1295), called the COMPETITOR, from his claim to the crown; son of Robert de Bruce V [q. v.]; recognised as heir-presumptive, 1238-41; married Isabel, daughter of Gilbert de Clare, earl of Gloucester, 1244; succeeded his father as Lord of Annandale, 1245; a justiciary in England, 1260; succeeded to his mother's English estates, 1261; one of the regents in Scotland, 1265; frequently a justiciary in England from 1267; sheriff of Cumberland and warden of Carlisle Castle; fought for Henry III in the barons' wars; chief-justice of the king's bench, 1268; returned to Scotland, 1272; recognised the right of Princess Margaret to the crown, 1284; entered a league to assert his own claim, 1286; assented to the marriage of Princess Margaret with Edward, prince of Wales, and the union of Scotland and England, 1290; accepted arbitration of Edward I on his claim to the crown, 1291; prepared to resist an unfavourable decision, June 1292; prevented by his great age from further action, when Edward I decided in favour of John de Baliol [q. v.], November 1292. [vii. 115]

BRUCE, ROBERT DE VII (1253-1304), son of the Competitor, Robert de Bruce VI [q. v.]; styled EARL OF CARRICK (jure uxoris), 1274?-92; afterwards styled LORD OF ANNANDALE; accompanied Edward, prince of Wales, on the crusade, 1269; married Marjory, countess of Carrick, c. 1274; envoy of Alexander III, 1278; privy to his father's designs on the crown, 1286-92; absent in Norway, 1293; paid homage to Edward I for his English fiefs, became warden of Carlisle Castle, and joined Edward I in his war with John de Baliol [q. v.], 1295; paid homage to Edward I, as king of Scotland, 24 Aug. 1296, and thenceforward lived in England. [vii. 116]

BRUCE, ROBERT DE VIII (1274-1329), king and liberator of Scotland; son of Robert de Bruce VII [q. v.]; Earl of Carrick on his mother's death, 1292; paid homage to Edward I, as king of Scotland, 24 Aug. 1296; refused, with other Scottish nobles, to accompany Edward I to Flanders, 1297, and ravaged the lands of Edward's adherents; was still in arms against Edward in 1298; co-regent of Scotland, 1299; during Edward's invasion of Scotland, 1302-4, apparently favoured Edward, but was really in treaty with the patriotic party; murdered John Comyn, at Dumfries, 10 Feb. 1306; crowned king at Scone, 27 March; defeated at Methven, 19 June; wandered in the central and western highlands, and sought shelter on the island of Rachrin, on north coast of Antrim; excommunicated and outlawed; returned to Arran, and thence to Carrick; won the battle of Loudon Hill, 10 May 1307, but had to fall back for a time; harried the lands of his chief opponents, Buchan and Lorne, 1308; recognised as king by the Scottish clergy, 1310; the Hebrides ceded to him by the king of Norway, 1312; raided the north of England, 1312, 1313; defeated Edward II at Bannockburn, 24 June 1314; subdued the Hebrides, 1316; joined his brother, Edward Bruce (d. 1318) [q. v.], in a campaign in Ireland, 1317; took Berwick, 1318; initiated legislation for the defence and administration of the kingdom; conspiracy of Sir William Soules against him detected, 1320; baffled an invasion by Edward II, and ravaged Yorkshire, 1322; recognised by the pope as king of Scotland, 1323; settled the succession, 1326; concluded peace with Edward III, April 1328; died of leprosy; his body buried at Dunfermline, his heart (which had been destined for Jerusalem) at Melrose. He married, first, Isabella, daughter of Donald, earl of Mar, and had by her a daughter, Marjory, through whom the crown descended to the Stuarts; secondly, Elizabeth de Burgh, daughter of the Earl of Ulster, by whom he had a son, David Bruce [q. v.], his successor.

[vii. 117]

BRUCE, ROBERT (d. 1602), political agent and spy; in service of James Beaton, archbishop of Glasgow, and of Mary Stuart; studied at Scottish College, Pont-à-Mousson, 1581-5; sent by Duke of Guise and Prince of Parma as envoy to James VI of Scotland, 1587, and tried, unsuccessfully, to win him to Roman catholic cause; imprisoned at Brussels on charge of misappropriating funds and betraying plans, 1599-1600; in Scotland, 1601; died in Paris; left unfinished a work against the jesuits.

[Suppl. i. 326]

BRUCE, ROBERT (1564-1631), Scottish presbyterian; studied law at Paris and theology at St. Andrews; presbyterian minister in Edinburgh, 1587; moderator of the general assembly, 1588 and 1592; anointed Anne of Denmark at her coronation, 1590; resisted the attempt to introduce episcopacy into Scotland, 1596; ordered to leave Edinburgh, 1600; confined to Inverness, 1605-9, and again 1620-4; resided chiefly on his estate of Kinnaird, Stirlingshire, 1624 till death; published sermons in the Scottish dialect.

[vii. 128]

BRUCE, ROBERT (d. 1685), succeeded as second EARL OF ELGIN, 1663, and created EARL OF AILESBUROUGH, 1664; joint lord-lieutenant of Bedfordshire, 1660, and lord-lieutenant, 1667; privy councillor, 1678; lord chamberlain, 1685.

[vii. 129]

BRUCE, THOMAS, third EARL OF ELGIN and second EARL OF AILESBUROUGH (1655?-1741), eldest surviving son of Robert Bruce (d. 1685), second earl [q. v.]; succeeded to the earldom, 1685; courtier of James II, 1685; imprisoned as a Jacobite, 1690, 1696; resided in Brussels, 1698-1741.

[vii. 130]

BRUCE, THOMAS, seventh EARL OF ELGIN and eleventh EARL OF KINCARDINE (1766-1841), succeeded in 1771; educated at Harrow and in Paris; entered the army, 1785; envoy to the emperor, 1790; to Brussels, 1792; to Berlin, 1795; and to the Porte, 1799-1803; detained in France, 1803-6; major-general, 1837. He employed artists to make drawings of sculptures, &c., at Athens, 1800-3, and arranged for the conveyance of the Parthenon frieze, &c., to England, 1803-12. He sold these 'Elgin marbles' to the nation, 1816.

[vii. 130]

BRUCE, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1710), architect, of Kinross; designed Holyrood House, 1671-9, and several mansions in Scotland; intrigued for the Restoration; clerk to the bills, 1660; created baronet, 1668; king's surveyor in Scotland, 1671; M.P. for Kinross-shire, 1681.

[vii. 131]

BRUCE, WILLIAM (1702-1765), a publisher in Dublin; published pamphlets.

[vii. 132]

BRUCE, WILLIAM (1757-1841), theologian; educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and Warrington academy; presbyterian minister at Lisburn, 1778, in Dublin, 1782, and in Belfast, 1789-1831?; principal of Belfast academy, 1790-1822; D.D. Glasgow, 1786; a founder of the Unitarian Society, 1831; resident in Dublin, 1836; published exegetical works.

[vii. 133]

BRUCE, WILLIAM (1790-1868), Irish presbyterian; second son of William Bruce (1757-1841) [q. v.]; B.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1809; presbyterian minister in Belfast, 1812-67; professor of classics and Hebrew, 1821-25, and of Hebrew, 1825-49, in Belfast academy; inclined to unitarianism; a leader of the 'non-subscribers', 1862; published controversial works.

[vii. 135]

BRUCKNER, JOHN (1726-1804), Lutheran divine; born in Zealand; educated at Franeker; Lutheran pastor at Leyden; pastor of the Walloon church at Norwich, 1763-1804, and of the Dutch church there, 1768-1804; taught French; committed suicide.

[vii. 135]

BRUDENELL, JAMES THOMAS, seventh EARL OF CARDIGAN (1797-1868), lieutenant-general; involved by his domineering temper in constant wrangles with his brother officers; M.P. for Marlborough, 1818-29; cornet, 1824; lieutenant-colonel by purchase, 1830; M.P. for North Northamptonshire, 1832; commanded the 16th hussars, 1832-3, and the 11th hussars, 1836-47; succeeded to the earldom, 1837; major-general, 1847; commanded the light cavalry brigade in the Crimea, and destroyed it in the famous 'charge,' 1854; colonel of the 5th dragoon guards, 1859, and of the 11th hussars, 1860; lieutenant-general, 1861.

[vii. 136]

BRUDENELL, ROBERT (1461-1531), judge; educated at Cambridge; barrister before 1490; M.P., 1503; serjeant-at-law, 1504; justice of the king's bench, 1507; justice of the common pleas, 1509, and chief-justice, 1521-1531.

[vii. 138]

BRUEN, JOHN (1580-1625), a typical puritan layman; sent to St. Alban Hall, Oxford, 1577; married and became a hunting squire, 1580; began to practise great strictness in religious observances, 1587; his house frequented by puritans; lived latterly in Chester.

[vii. 139]

BRUERNE, RICHARD (1519?-1565), ecclesiastic; obnoxious to the reformers; fellow of Lincoln College, Oxford, 1538, and of Eton, 1545; B.D., 1547; professor of Hebrew, Oxford, 1548-59; canon of Christ Church, 1553, and of Windsor, 1557; elected provost of Eton, 1561, but his election annulled.

[vii. 140]

BRUGIS, THOMAS (fl. 1640?), army surgeon during the civil war, afterwards in practice at Rickmansworth, Hertfordshire; published medical handbooks.

[vii. 140]

BRÜHL, JOHN MAURICE, COUNT OF (1736-1809), diplomatist and astronomer; born in Saxony; studied at Leipzig; employed in the Saxon diplomatic service at Paris, 1755, and Warsaw, 1759; ambassador to London, 1764-1809; published astronomical works.

[vii. 141]

BRUMMELL, GEORGE BRYAN (1778-1840), generally called BEAU BRUMMELL; educated at Eton; cornet in the 10th hussars, 1794; captain, 1796; retired, 1798; friend of the prince regent, and leader of fashion in London; retired to Calais in debt, 1816; removed to Caen, 1830; died in the asylum there.

[vii. 141]

BRUNÆUS, THOMAS (d. 1380). [See BROME, THOMAS.]

BRUNDISH, JOHN JELLIAND (d. 1786), poetical writer; fellow of Caius College, Cambridge; author of 'An Elegy on a Family Tomb,' 1783.

[vii. 142]

BRUNEL, ISAMBARD KINGDOM (1806-1859), civil engineer; only son of Sir Marc I. Brunel [q. v.]; educated privately and in Paris; clerk to his father, 1823; resident engineer of the Thames tunnel, 1826; designed Clifton suspension bridge, 1831; engineer to the Great Western railway, 1833; applied the screw propeller to steamships, 1845; designed the Great Eastern steamship, 1852-8; designed numerous docks and bridges, both iron and masonry; an advocate of broad-gauge railways and of very large steamers; invented improvements in artillery.

[vii. 143]

BRUNEL, SIR MARC ISAMBARD (1769-1849), civil engineer; born in Normandy; educated for the church at Gisors and Rouen; served for six years in French navy; emigrated to America, 1798; practised as surveyor, architect, and civil engineer; planned the defences of New York; came to England, 1798, to patent his machinery for making ships' blocks; erected saw-mills with improved machinery, 1805-12; improved dockyard machinery at Chatham, 1812; experimented in steam navigation, 1812; imprisoned for debt, 1821; improved docks at Liverpool, 1823-6; engineer of Thames tunnel, 1825-1843; knighted, 1841.

[vii. 144]

BRUNING, ANTHONY (1716-1776), jesuit, 1733; served in the English mission; professor at Liège; left in manuscript theological treatises.

[vii. 147]

BRUNING, GEORGE (1738-1802), jesuit, 1756; served in the English mission; lived at East Hendred, Berkshire, and at Isleworth; published theological tracts.

[vii. 147]

BRUNKEES, SIR JAMES (1816-1899), civil engineer; engaged in gardening and farm work; studied at Edinburgh University; assistant to (Sir) John Hawkshaw [q. v.] on Lancashire and Yorkshire railway; prepared plans for several railways in Brazil from 1856, and assisted in Mersey railway; knighted, 1886; constructed Avonmouth dock, Bristol, 1868-77; M.I.C.E., 1862, and president, 1882-3; wrote on engineering subjects.

[Suppl. i. 328]

BRUNNE, ROBERT DE, or MANNYNG (fl. 1288-1338). [See MANNYNG.]

BRUNNING, BENJAMIN (d. 1664), nonconformist; fellow of Jesus College, Cambridge, 1646; ejected, 1662; subsequently nonconformist minister at Ipswich; author of sermons. [vii. 147]

BRUNTON, ALEXANDER (1772-1854), minister and professor of oriental languages in Edinburgh. His works include a biography of his wife, Mary Brunton [q. v.], 1819, and a 'Persian Grammar,' 1822. [vii. 148]

BRUNTON, ELIZABETH (1790-1860). [See YATES.]

BRUNTON, GEORGE (1799-1836), Scottish lawyer and journalist; educated in Edinburgh; solicitor, 1831; wrote a collection of short biographies entitled 'An Historical Account of the Senators of the College of Justice from MDXXXII.' [vii. 147]

BRUNTON, LOUISA (1785?-1860). [See CRAVEN.]

BRUNTON, MARY (1778-1818), novelist; born in Orkney; married Alexander Brunton [q. v.]; settled in Edinburgh, 1803; wrote novels. [vii. 148]

BRUNTON, WILLIAM (1777-1851), engineer and inventor; working engineer, 1790; employed in Boulton and Watt's works, Soho, 1796-1818; had works of his own in Birmingham, 1815-25; a civil engineer in London, 1825-36; ruined by mining and brewery speculations in Wales; maker of the first marine steam engines. [vii. 148]

BRUNYARD, WILLIAM (d. 1850), reputed author of theological treatises; probably identical with John de Bromyard [q. v.] [vii. 149]

BRUODINE, ANTHONY (d. 1672), Irish Franciscan; lecturer in a convent at Prague; wrote theological and historical treatises. [vii. 149]

BRUTTON, NICHOLAS (1780-1843), lieutenant-colonel; ensign of foot, 1795; served in India, 1799-1805; exchanged into the hussars, and served in India, 1809-17; major, 1821; in command of the 11th hussars in England, 1830-7; retired to Bordeaux. [vii. 149]

BRWYNLLYS, BEDO (d. 1450-1480), Welsh poet. [vii. 150]

BRYAN, AUGUSTINE (d. 1726), classical scholar; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1711; rector of Piddilinton, Dorset, 1722; edited Pintarch's 'Lives' (1723-9), completed after his death by Moses du Soul. [vii. 150]

BRYAN, SIR FRANÇOIS (d. 1650), courtier and diplomatist; captain of a ship-of-war, 1613; in high favour at Henry VIII's court, 1516; knighted for service in the field, 1522; employed in several missions to France, 1523-1526; sent to Rome to obtain the pope's sanction for Queen Catherine's divorce, 1528, and displayed great energy in forwarding the cause of his cousin, Anne Boleyn; cited Catherine to appear before Cranmer, 1533; turned against Anne Boleyn, 1536; married the widow of the Earl of Ormonde, and went to Ireland as lord marshal, 1548; appointed lord justice, 1549; published verses and translations. [vii. 150]

BRYAN, JOHN (d. 1545), logician; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; rector of Shellow-Bowells, Essex, 1523. [vii. 152]

BRYAN, JOHN (d. 1676), nonconformist; educated at Emmanuel College, Cambridge; vicar of Holy Trinity, Coventry, 1644; ejected, 1662; continued to preach and to educate nonconformists; D.D.; founded presbyterian congregation in Coventry, 1672; published sermons and poems. [vii. 153]

BRYAN, MARGARET (d. 1815), proprietress of a girls' school at Blackheath; published treatises on astronomy and physics. [vii. 154]

BRYAN, MATTHEW (d. 1699), Jacobite preacher; educated at Oxford; D.C.L. Oxford, 1686; incumbent of St. Mary's, Newington, and lecturer of St. Michael's, Crooked Lane; nonjuror and minister of a Jacobite congregation in Fleet Street; published sermons. [vii. 154]

BRYAN, MICHAEL (1757-1821), connoisseur; resided in Flanders, 1782-90; agent for the purchase of important pictures, 1798-1804; published 'Biographical . . . Dictionary of Painters and Engravers,' 1818-16. [vii. 155]

BRYANT, HENRY (1721-1799), botanist; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1749; rector of Colby. [vii. 155]

BRYANT, JACOB (1715-1804), classical scholar; educated at Eton, 1730-6; fellow of King's College, Cambridge; tutor to the Marquis of Blandford; secretary to the Duke of Marlborough, 1766; held lucrative office in the ordnance; resided for several years at Blenheim, and published description of the Marlborough collection of antique gems, 1783; resided latterly at Farnham Royal, Buckinghamshire; published treatises on ancient mythology and Homeric questions, in one of which he denied that such a city as Troy ever existed, and wrote on theological subjects. [vii. 155]

BRYCE, SIR ALEXANDER (d. 1832), military engineer; educated at Woolwich, 1782; commissioned in the artillery, 1787; transferred to the engineers, 1789; captain, 1794; served in America, Egypt (under Sir Ralph Abercromby), and Italy; major-general, 1825; inspector-general of fortifications, 1829. [vii. 157]

BRYCE, DAVID (1803-1876), architect in Edinburgh; apprentice and partner to William Burn [q. v.]; in business as an architect, 1844-76; revived the 'Scottish Baronial' style; architect of Pettes College. [vii. 158]

BRYCE, JAMES, the elder (1767-1857), divine; educated at Glasgow; minister of the Anti-burgher church, 1795; removed to Ireland; minister of the Anti-burgher church at Killaig, Londonderry, 1805-57; founder of the Associate Presbytery of Ireland. [vii. 158]

BRYCE, JAMES, the younger (1806-1877), geologist; third son of James Bryce the elder [q. v.]; educated at Glasgow; schoolmaster at Belfast, 1828, at Glasgow, 1846-74; published various mathematical treatises and papers on the geology of the north of Ireland and of Scotland. [vii. 159]

BRYDALL, JOHN (b. 1635?), law-writer; of Queen's College, Oxford, and Lincoln's Inn; secretary to the master of the rolls. [vii. 159]

BRYDGES, EDMUND, second BARON CHANDOS (d. 1673), eldest surviving son of Sir John Brydges [q. v.], served in France; succeeded to the barony, 1656. [vii. 163]

BRYDGES, GEORGE, sixth BARON CHANDOS (d. 1655), succeeded to the barony, 1621; fought in the civil war. [vii. 161]

BRYDGES, GILES, third BARON CHANDOS (1547-1594), son of Edmund Brydges, baron Chandos [q. v.], M.P. Gloucestershire, 1572; succeeded to the barony, 1573. [vii. 163]

BRYDGES, GREY, fifth BARON CHANDOS (1579?-1621), imprisoned in connection with the insurrection of the Earl of Essex, 1601; succeeded to the barony, 1602; a favourite courtier of James I, 1605; on service in the Low Countries, 1610; kept great state at Sudeley Castle; reputed author of 'Horæ Subsecivæ,' 1620. [vii. 160]

BRYDGES, SIR HARFORD JONES (1764-1847), diplomatist; originally in the East India Company's service; as Harford Jones, created baronet in 1807; envoy to Persia, 1807-11; took the name of Brydges, 1826; published travels and pamphlets. [vii. 161]

BRYDGES, JAMES, first DUKE OF CHANDOS (1673-1744), M.P. for Hereford city, 1698-1714; paymaster of the forces abroad, 1707-12; succeeded as ninth Baron Chandos, and was created Earl of Carnarvon, 1714; created Duke of Chandos, 1719; lord lieutenant of Hereford and Radnor shires, 1721; chancellor of St. Andrews University; built the great house at Canons, near Edgware; patron of Handel; satirised by Pope. [vii. 162]

BRYDGES, SIR JOHN, first BARON CHANDOS (1490?-1556); Roman catholic; knighted, 1513; servant and companion of Henry VIII, 1532; constable of Sudeley Castle, 1538; served in France, 1549; lieutenant of the Tower, 1553 to June 1554; suppressed Wyatt's rebellion, and was created Baron Chandos of Sudeley, 1554; ordered to superintend the execution of Bishop Hooper at Gloucester, 1555. [vii. 163]

BRYDGES, SIR RICHARD (d. 1558), son of Sir John Brydges [q. v.], knighted, 1553. [vii. 164]

BRYDGES, SIR SAMUEL EGERTON (1762-1837), bibliographer and genealogist; educated at Queens' College, Cambridge, 1780; barrister of the Middle Temple, 1790. [vii. 164]

1787; urged his elder brother to claim the barony of Chandos, 1790-1803; issued bibliographical and genealogical works; resided at Lee Priory, near Canterbury, 1810-18, issuing from his private press reprints of rare English pieces; M.P. for Maidstone, 1812-18; created baronet, 1814; lived chiefly at Geneva after 1818. His bibliographical books are numerous and valuable; his poems and novels mediocre. [vii. 164]

BRYDGES, SIR THOMAS (d. 1559), son of Sir John Brydges [q. v.], lieutenant of Tower, 1554. [vii. 164]

BRYDON, WILLIAM (1811-1873), army surgeon; went to India, 1835; sole survivor of the retreat from Cabul, 1842; in the sieges of Jellalabad, 1842, and of Lucknow, 1857; settled in Scotland, 1859. [vii. 166]

BRYDONE, PATRICK (1736-1818), traveller: travelled partly as a tutor, in Switzerland, Italy, Sicily, and Malta, 1765-71; lived latterly in Berwickshire; published travels and papers on electricity. [vii. 166]

BRYDSON, THOMAS (1806-1855), poet; educated at Glasgow and Edinburgh; minister of Kilmalcolm, Renfrewshire, 1842-55. [vii. 167]

BRYER, HENRY (d. 1799), engraver and print-seller in London. [vii. 167]

BRYERWOOD, EDWARD (1565?-1613). [See BREWERWOOD.]

BRYGTWELL or BRYTHWELL, THOMAS (d. 1390), fellow of Merton College, Oxford; a Wycliffite; submitted to the church, 1382; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1386, and of Lincoln; chancellor of Oxford University, 1388; D.D. [vii. 167]

BRYNE, ALBERTUS (1621?-1677?), composer; organist of St. Paul's, c. 1638, of Westminster Abbey, and of Dulwich College, 1671-7. [vii. 168]

BRYNKELL, THOMAS (d. 1539?). [See BRINKNELL.]

BRYSKETT, LODOWICK or LEWIS (A. 1571-1611), translator; of Italian origin; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, 1569; official in Ireland, 1571; accompanied Philip Sidney on his continental tour, 1572-5; held offices under government in Ireland, 1577-1600; friend of Edmund Spenser, 1582; Irish landowner, 1606; published translations and poems, contributing two elegies to Spenser's 'Astrophel', 1606. [vii. 168]

BRYSON, ALEXANDER (1802-1869), medical writer; educated at Edinburgh and Glasgow; naval surgeon, 1827; director-general of the naval medical department, 1864. [vii. 169]

BRYSON, JAMES (1730?-1796), Irish presbyterian; minister at Lisburn, 1764, and at Belfast, 1773; an originator of the Orange Society, 1795; published sermons. [vii. 169]

BRYSON, WILLIAM (1730-1815), Irish presbyterian; minister of the 'non-subscribers' at Antrim, 1764-1810; published sermons. [vii. 170]

BUC or BUCK, SIR GEORGE (d. 1623), poet; went on the expedition to Cadiz, 1596; knighted, 1603; master of the revels and licenser of plays, 1608-22; author of poems and works on English history. [vii. 170]

BUCOLEUGH, DUKES OF. [See SCOTT, HENRY, third DUKE, 1746-1812; SCOTT, WALTER FRANCIS, fifth DUKE, 1806-1884.]

BUCER or BUTZER, MARTIN (1491-1551), protestant divine; entered Dominican monastery at Schlettstadt, his native town, 1508; studied at Heidelberg, where he heard Luther dispute, April 1518; corresponded with Luther, and became a Protestant; obtained papal dispensation from his monastic vow, 1521; became pastor at Landstuhl, in the Palatinate, 1522; travelled in order to propagate reformed doctrines; preached at Weissenburg, in Lower Alsace, 1522 or 1523, and was excommunicated; took refuge in Strassburg, 1523, where he became representative reformer; lived mainly at Strassburg till 1549; favoured the tenets of Zwingli in the great eucharistic controversy, 1525-30, and was consequently involved in controversy both with Luther and his followers and with Erasmus; consulted by Henry VIII about his divorce from Catherine of Aragon; laboured after Zwingli's death to find a common statement of belief which would unite the Lutherans, the reformed churches of South Germany, and the Swiss church, 1531-8; censured Servetus, 1531; approved of Calvin's views on church discipline, 1538; consulted by the promoters of the attempt to reconcile protestants and catholics, 1540-6, and by the archbishop of Cologne in the effort to protestantise his diocese, 1541-3; caused Strassburg to resist to the last the interim imposed by Charles V. 1548; but was forced to withdraw to England, April 1549; kindly received in London by Cranmer, Edward VI, and the Protector Somerset; was appointed regius professor of divinity at Cambridge, 1549, where his views excited much controversy; consulted as to the Book of Common Prayer, 1550; buried in the university church, 1551; his body exhumed by Queen Mary's commissioners, 1557; produced ninety-six separate treatises. [vii. 172]

BUCHAN, EARLS OF. [See COMYN, ALEXANDER, second EARL, d. 1289; COMYN, JOHN, third EARL, d. 1313?; STEWART, ALEXANDER, first EARL of the second creation, 1343?-1405?; STEWART, JOHN, first EARL of the third creation, 1381?-1424; ERSKINE, JAMES, sixth EARL of the fourth creation, d. 1640; ERSKINE, DAVID STEWART, eleventh EARL, 1742-1829.]

BUCHAN, ALEXANDER PETER (1764-1824), physician; son of William Buchan [q. v.]; studied in London, Edinburgh, and Leyden (M.D., 1793); practised in London; published medical tracts. [vii. 178]

BUCHAN, ANDREW OF (d. 1309?), bishop of Caithness, 1296; Cistercian; abbot of Cupar Angus, 1272. [vii. 178]

BUCHAN or SIMPSON, ELSFETH (1738-1791), foundress of the 'Buchanite' sect (extinct 1848); wife of a potter; separated from him, 1781; persuaded Hugh White, Relief minister of Irvine, that she was inspired, 1783; on being expelled from Irvine, settled in Closeburn, Dumfries, 1784. [vii. 178]

BUCHAN, PETER (1790-1854), collector of Scottish ballads; by the help of his kinsman, the Earl of Buchan, set up a press in Peterhead, 1816, where he printed his own works and collections; published poems and historical tracts. [vii. 179]

BUCHAN, THOMAS (d. 1720), Jacobite general; a highlander by birth; served abroad; commanded a foot-regiment in Scotland, 1682; employed against the covenanters, 1684; colonel, 1686; appointed major-general by James II in Ireland, 1689, and sent to command his forces in Scotland; surprised at Cromdale, 1690; retired to Lochaber; retired to France, 1692; Jacobite agent in Scotland, 1707. [vii. 180]

BUCHAN, WILLIAM (1729-1805), author of the popular 'Domestic Medicine,' 1769; studied medicine at Edinburgh; practised in Yorkshire; settled in Edinburgh, 1766; removed to London, 1778; published medical tracts. [vii. 180]

BUCHANAN, ANDREW (1690-1759), Virginia merchant in Glasgow; bought Drumpellier, Lanarkshire, 1735; lord provost of Glasgow, 1740; strenuously opposed the insurgents, 1745. [vii. 181]

BUCHANAN, SIR ANDREW (1807-1882), diplomatist; entered the diplomatic service, 1825; was resident at nearly every court, first as attaché, afterwards as minister; retired, 1878; created baronet, 1878. [vii. 181]

BUCHANAN, CLAUDIUS (1766-1815), Indian traveller; educated at Glasgow University, 1782; clerk in London, 1787; of Queens' College, Cambridge, 1791; chaplain in Bengal, 1797; vice-provost of college at Fort William, 1799-1807; D.D. Glasgow and Cambridge; made two tours in south and west of India, 1806-7; returned to England, 1808; advocate of missions; issued translations of the scriptures into various oriental languages. [vii. 182]

BUCHANAN, DAVID (1595?-1652?), Scottish historian; resided in Paris, 1636; back in Scotland before 1644; published and left in manuscript treatises on Scottish history, biography, and topography. [vii. 184]

BUCHANAN, DAVID, the elder (1745-1812), printer and publisher at Montrose; published miniature editions of English classics. [vii. 185]

BUCHANAN, DAVID, the younger (1779-1848), journalist in Edinburgh; son of David Buchanan the elder [q. v.]; editor of the 'Caledonian Mercury,' 1810-27, and of the 'Edinburgh Courant,' 1827-48; wrote on political economy and statistics. [vii. 185]

BUCHANAN, DUGALD (1716-1768), Gaelic poet, 'the Cowerer of the highlands'; native of Balquhitter; catechist at Kinloch Rannoch, 1756. [vii. 185]

BUCHANAN, FRANÇOIS HAMILTON (1762-1829), writer on Indian subjects; M.D. Edinburgh, 1788; naval surgeon; Bengal surgeon, 1794; travelled in Burma, 1795, in Mysore and Malabar, 1800, and in Nepal, 1802; compiled a statistical survey of Bengal, 1807-15; settled in Scotland, 1816; published travels. [vii. 186]

BUCHANAN, GEORGE (1506-1582), historian and scholar; studied at Paris, 1520-2; served at the siege of Werk, 1523; studied at St. Andrews under John Major, 1524; B.A., 1526; went to Paris, 1526; graduated M.A. in the Scots college, Paris, March 1528; taught grammar in the college of St. Barbe; tutor to Gilbert, earl of Cassilis, at Paris, 1529-34; returned to Scotland, 1536; tutor to a natural son of James V, 1536-8; urged by the king to satirise the morals of the clergy, and so provoked Cardinal Beaton; escaped from prison at St. Andrews, and fled to London, 1539; taught Latin at Bordeaux, 1540-3; taught in the college of Cardinal le Moine at Paris, 1544-7; invited to teach in the college at Coimbra, 1547, and imprisoned there by the inquisition, 1549-51; came to England, 1552; returned to Paris, and taught in the college of Boncourt, 1553; tutor to Timoléon de Coëse, comte de Brissac (killed in action, 1569), 1554-9, in France and Italy; returned to Scotland and professed himself a protestant before 1563; lay member of the general assembly, 1563-8, and moderator, 1567; principal of St. Leonard's College, St. Andrews, 1566-70; assigned a pension out of the revenues of Crossraguel Abbey; lived in England, October 1568, to January 1569, as secretary of Regent Moray's commissioners, and vouched that the casket letters were in Queen Mary's handwriting; published, in Scottish dialect (1570), pamphlets attacking the Hamiltons on account of Moray's assassination, and ridiculing Maitland of Lethington, the queen's advocate, resided at Stirling as tutor to James VI, 1570-8; keeper of the privy seal, 1570-8; published 'Detectio Mariæ Reginæ,' a venomous attack on Queen Mary, 1571, in Latin and, 1572, in French and Scottish; wrote Latin poems. His 'De Jure Regni apud Scotos,' 1579, was long a textbook of the opponents of absolutism. His 'Rerum Scotticarum historia,' 1582, was the chief source from which foreigners derived their knowledge of Scotland. [vii. 186]

BUCHANAN, GEORGE (1790?-1852), civil engineer; third son of David Buchanan the elder [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; constructed harbours and bridges; an authority on salmon-fishery disputes; published scientific treatises. [vii. 193]

BUCHANAN, SIR GEORGE (1831-1895), physician; B.A. London, 1851; studied medicine at University College; M.D. London, 1855; physician at London Fever Hospital, 1861-8, and, later, consulting physician; F.R.C.P., 1866, censor, 1892-4, and Lettsomian lecturer, 1867; F.R.S., 1882; permanent inspector in medical department of privy council, 1869; principal medical officer, 1879-92, of local government board; knighted, 1892; honorary LL.D. Edinburgh, 1893; fellow of University College, 1864; chairman of royal commission on tuberculosis. His reports have become classical works in sanitary literature. [Suppl. i. 328]

BUCHANAN, JAMES (1804-1870), Free church leader; educated at Glasgow; minister of North Leith, 1828, and of St. Giles, Edinburgh, 1840; joined the Free church, 1843; minister of Free St. Stephen's, Edinburgh; D.D. Princeton; LL.D. Glasgow; professor in the Free church college, 1845-68; published theological works. [vii. 194]

BUCHANAN, JOHN LANNE (fl. 1780-1816), author; educated at Glasgow; assistant minister at Comrie; missionary in the Hebrides, 1780; subsequently resided in London; published works on the Hebrides and highlands. [vii. 195]

BUCHANAN, ROBERT (1813-1866), socialist; taught school; lecturer in Manchester before 1839; journalist in Glasgow; published controversial writings. [vii. 195]

BUCHANAN, ROBERT (1785-1873), benefactor of Glasgow University; educated at Glasgow; minister of Peebles, 1813-24; assistant professor of logic in Glasgow, 1824, and professor, 1827-64; author of tragedies and poems. [vii. 195]

BUCHANAN, ROBERT (1802-1875), Free church leader; educated at Glasgow; minister of Gargunnoch, 1826, of Salton, Haddingtonshire, 1829, and of the Tron church, Glasgow, 1833-43; took leading part in anti-patronage agitation, 1838, and joined the Free church, 1843; D.D. Glasgow, 1840; died at Rome; wrote on church history, also a narrative of travels in Palestine. [vii. 196]

BUCHANAN, ROBERTSON (1770-1816), civil engineer of Glasgow; published treatises on machinery. [vii. 197]

BUCHANAN, WILLIAM (1781-1863), Scottish advocate; son of David Buchanan the elder [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh; advocate, 1806; solicitor of tithes, 1856; author of law reports, &c. [vii. 197]

BUCK, ADAM (1759-1833), portrait-painter; exhibited at Royal Academy from 1795; published 'Paintings on Greek Vases,' 1811. [Suppl. i. 330]

BUCK, CHARLES (1771-1815), author of 'A Theological Dictionary,' 1802, and other pieces; congregational minister at Sheerness and in London. [vii. 198]

BUCK, SIR GEORGE (d. 1623). [See BUC, SIR GEORGE.]

BUCK, JOHN WILLIAM (d. 1821), of Lincoln's Inn, 1813; barrister; published law reports. [vii. 198]

BUCK, SAMUEL (1696-1779), draughtsman and engraver; issued series of views of towns, ruined abbeys and castles, &c., in England and Wales; worked in conjunction with his brother Nathaniel, 1727-53. [vii. 198]

BUCK, ZACHARIAH (1798-1879), composer; chorister at Norwich; organist of St. Peter Mancroft, 1818-1821, and of Norwich Cathedral, 1819-77; Mus.Doc. Lambeth, 1847. [vii. 199]

BUCKE, CHARLES (1781-1846), dramatist and miscellaneous writer. [vii. 199]

BUCKENHAM, ROBERT (fl. 1530), prior of the Black Friars, Cambridge; B.D., 1524; D.D., 1531; preached against Latimer at Cambridge, 1529; withdrew to Edinburgh, 1534; went to Louvain to take part in the proceedings against William Tyndale, 1535. [vii. 199]

BUCKERIDGE or BUCKRIDGE, JOHN (1562?-1631), bishop of Rochester and Ely; educated at Merchant Taylors' School; fellow of St. John's College, Oxford, 1578; B.A., 1583; D.D., 1597; tutor to William Laud; prebendary of Rochester, 1587; chaplain to Archbishop Whitgift, 1598; rector of North Fambridge, Essex, 1598-9, and of North Kilworth, Leicestershire, 1599-1608; vicar of St. Giles, Cripplegate, 1604; president of St. John's, Oxford, 1605-11; preached at Hampton Court, 1606; canon of Windsor, 1606; bishop of Rochester, 1611; voted in favour of the Earl of Essex's divorce, 1613; defended Dr. Richard Montague, 1626; bishop of Ely, 1628; edited Bishop Andrewes's sermons, 1629; published sermons. [vii. 200]

BUCKHURST, first BARON (1536-1608). [See SACKVILLE, THOMAS.]

BUCKINGHAM, DUKES OF. [See STAFFORD, HUMPHREY, first DUKE, 1402-1460; STAFFORD, HENRY, second DUKE, 1454?-1463; STAFFORD, EDWARD, third DUKE, 1478-1521; VILLIERS, GEORGE, first DUKE of the second creation, 1592-1629; VILLIERS, GEORGE, second DUKE, 1628-1687.]

BUCKINGHAM, first MARQUIS OF (1753-1813). [See GRENVILLE, GEORGE NUGENT-TEMPLE.]

BUCKINGHAM, EARL OF. [See THOMAS OF WOODSTOCK, 1365-1397.]

BUCKINGHAM AND CHANDOS, DUKES OF. [See GRENVILLE, RICHARD TEMPLE NUGENT BRYDGES CHANDOS, first DUKE, 1778-1839; GRENVILLE, RICHARD PLANTAGENET TEMPLE NUGENT BRYDGES CHANDOS, second DUKE, 1797-1861; GRENVILLE, RICHARD PLANTAGENET CAMPBELL TEMPLE NUGENT BRYDGES CHANDOS, third DUKE, 1823-1889.]

BUCKINGHAM, JAMES SILK (1786-1865), author and traveller; at sea for several years from 1796; journalist at Calcutta, 1818; expelled from India for attacks on the government, 1823; travelled in Syria and Palestine, 1823; journalist in London, 1824-30; M.P. for Sheffield, 1832-7; travelled in America, 1837-40, and on the continent, 1847; received a pension, 1851; travelled as a lecturer; author of an autobiography, travels, and temperance pamphlets. [vii. 202]

BUCKINGHAM, LEICESTER SILK (1825-1867), dramatist; youngest son of James Silk Buckingham [q. v.]; travelled with his father; a popular lecturer, 1854; his first pieces put on the stage, 1856; produced historical treatises, comedies, and farces. [vii. 203]

BUCKINGHAM, OSBERN (1393-1447?). [See BOKENHAM.]

BUCKINGHAMSHIRE, first DUKE OF (1648-1721). [See SHEFFIELD, JOHN.]

BUCKINGHAMSHIRE, EARLS OF. [See HOBART, JOHN, first EARL, 1694?-1756; HOBART, JOHN, second EARL, 1723-1793; HOBART, GEORGE, third EARL, 1732-1804; HOBART, ROBERT, fourth EARL, 1780-1815.]

BUCKLAND, FRANÇOIS TRÉVELYAN (1826-1880), naturalist; son of William Buckland [q. v.]; educated at Winchester, 1839-44; B.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1848; studied surgery at St. George's Hospital, London, 1848-51; army surgeon in London, 1854; contributor to the 'Field,' 1856-65; started 'Land and Water' in 1866; inspector of salmon fisheries, 1867-80; published 'Curiosities of Natural History,' and kindred works. [vii. 204]

BUCKLAND, RALPH (1564-1611), Roman catholic divine; educated at Merchant Taylors' School, 1571, and Magdalen College, Oxford, 1579; law-student in London; studied at Rheims and Rome, 1586; ordained priest, 1588; sent on the English mission; banished, 1606; author of theological works. [vii. 205]

BUCKLAND, WILLIAM (1784-1856), geologist; educated at Winchester, 1798, and Corpus Christi, Oxford, 1801, fellow, 1808-25; made geological tour in the south-west of England, 1808-12; professor of mineralogy at Oxford, 1813, and reader in geology, 1819; canon of Christ Church, Oxford, 1825; dean of Westminster, 1845-56; president of the Geological Society, 1824 and 1840; upheld the Mosaic account of the flood; wrote geological papers. [vii. 206]

BUCKLE, SIR CLAUDE HENRY MASON (1803-1894); admiral; entered Royal Naval College, Portsmouth, 1817; lieutenant, 1827; captain, 1845; flag-captain to Commodore Arthur Fanshawe on west coast of Africa, 1849-50; in Black Sea, 1854; O.B., 1855; superintendent Deptford dockyard, 1857-63; commander-in-chief at Queenstown, 1867-70; K.O.B., 1875; admiral, 1877. [Suppl. i. 330]

BUCKLE, HENRY THOMAS (1821-1862), historian of civilisation; son of a wealthy London shipowner; received no school or college training; being left independent at his father's death, devoted himself to travelling on the continent, where he acquired the principal languages, 1840 and 1843; settled in London, 1842; bought and read thousands of books, making careful notes; had settled the plan of his 'History of Civilisation in England' by 1853; published the first volume, 1857, the second, 1861; died at Damascus on an Eastern tour; inclined to freethought in religion. Miscellaneous works by him appeared posthumously. [vii. 208]

BUCKLER, BENJAMIN (1718-1780), antiquary; of Oriel College, Oxford, 1732; fellow of All Souls', 1739; D.D., 1769; vicar of Osmun, 1755; keeper of archives, Oxford, 1777-80; published 'Stemmata Chicheleana,' 1765. [vii. 211]

BUCKLER, JOHN (1770-1851), topographical artist; practised as architect in London till 1826; issued aquatint engravings of colleges, cathedrals, &c., 1797-1815; exhibited in water-colours at the Royal Academy, 1796-1849; F.S.A., 1810. [vii. 212]

BUCKLER, WILLIAM (1814-1884), entomologist; exhibited water-colours at the Academy, 1838-56; a student of larvae. [vii. 213]

BUCKLEY, OEOIL WILLIAM (1828-1879), naval officer, 1845-72; received the Victoria cross for services in the Black Sea, 1855; captain R.N., 1862. [vii. 213]

BUCKLEY, JOHN (d. 1598). [See JONES, JOHN.]

BUCKLEY, MRS. OLIVIA (1799-1847), organist; daughter of Sophia Dussek [q. v.]; married a Mr. Buckley; wrote pianoforte music and songs, and published (1843) 'Musical Truths.' [xvi. 268]

BUCKLEY, ROBERT or SIGEBERT (1517-1610), English Benedictine; professed at Westminster during the Marian revival, c. 1557; imprisoned as a recusant, 1580-1603, latterly at Framlingham; imprisoned in London, 1605-10. He was the last of the old English Benedictine congregation, and surrendered his authority for perpetuating the succession to Thomas Preston, 1608. [vii. 213]

BUCKLEY, THEODORE WILLIAM ALOIS (1825-1856), translator from the classics; servitor of Christ Church, Oxford, 1845; chaplain; M.A., 1853; became a literary hack; author of classical translations and miscellaneous works. [vii. 214]

BUCKLEY, WILLIAM (d. 1570?), mathematician; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; M.A., 1545; tutor to the royal henchmen, 1550; taught mathematics at King's, Cambridge, c. 1552; published an arithmetical tract. [vii. 215]

BUCKLEY, WILLIAM (1780-1856), colonist; enlisted, 1799; transported for a plot to shoot the Duke of Kent, 1802; escaped from Port Phillip, December 1803; lived with native tribes till July 1835; pardoned, and employed as interpreter; settled in Tasmania, 1837. [vii. 215]

BUCKMAN, JAMES (1816-1884), geologist; studied natural science in London; professor at Cirencester Agricultural College, 1848-63; farmed land in Dorset, 1863-84; wrote botanical, geological, and agricultural papers. [vii. 216]

BUCKMASTER, THOMAS (fl. 1566), almanack-maker. [vii. 216]

BUCKMASTER, WILLIAM (d. 1545), divine; fellow of Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1517; D.D., 1528; carried to court as vice-chancellor the university's reply to Henry VIII's questions concerning his divorce, 1530; signed the articles of religion, 1536; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1539. [vii. 216]

BUCKNILL, SIR JOHN CHARLES (1817-1897), physician; educated at Rugby and University College, London; L.S.A., M.R.C.S., and M.B. London, 1840; M.D., 1852; first medical superintendent, Devon County Asylum, 1844-62; chancellor's medical visitor of lunatics, 1862-76; F.R.O.P., 1869; censor, 1879-80; Lumleian lecturer, 1878; F.R.S., 1886; knighted, 1894; published 'Manual of Psychological Medicine,' 1858, and other works. [Suppl. i. 331]

BUCKSHORN, JOSEPH (fl. 1670), Dutch painter; employed by Sir Peter Lely to fill in his canvases, 1670; painted portraits in Lely's manner. [vii. 217]

BUCKSTONE, JOHN BALDWIN (1802-1879), comedian; solicitor's clerk; went on the provincial stage, c. 1820; performed at the Surrey Theatre, 1823; his first piece played, 1826; manager of the Haymarket, 1853-76; composed numerous farces. [vii. 217]

BUDD, GEORGE (fl. 1756), painter; London hosier; painted portraits and landscapes. [vii. 218]

BUDD, GEORGE (1808-1882), professor of medicine in King's College, London, 1846-63; fellow of Caius College, Cambridge, 1831; M.D., 1840; studied also in London and Paris; physician to the hospital ship at Greenwich, 1837; practised in London, 1840-67; retired to Barnstable; wrote medical tracts. [vii. 219]

BUDD, HENRY (1774-1853), theologian; son of Richard Budd [q. v.]; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1801; chaplain of Bridewell Hospital, London, 1801-31; rector of White Roothing, Essex, 1808-53; published tracts. [vii. 219]

BUDD, RICHARD (1746-1821), physician; M.D. Jesus College, Cambridge, 1775; practised at Newbury, Berkshire; physician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, 1790-1801, and an active official of the Royal College of Physicians. [vii. 220]

BUDD, WILLIAM (1811-1880), physician; studied medicine at London, Edinburgh, Paris; M.D. Edinburgh, 1838; practised at North Tawton, Devonshire, 1839, and in Bristol, 1842-73; made important researches into the conditions of zymotic diseases; published numerous medical papers. [vit. 220]

BUDDEN, JOHN (1566-1620), professor of civil law at Oxford, 1611-20; scholar of Trinity College, Oxford, 1583; M.A. Gloucester Hall, 1589; philosophy reader of Magdalen College, and D.C.L., 1602; principal of New Inn Hall, 1609-18, and of Broadgates Hall, 1618-20; wrote two Latin biographies, 1602 and 1607. [vit. 221]

BUDDLE, ADAM (d. 1715), botanist; M.A. Cambridge, 1685; nonjuror, 1689; possessed a fine collection of mosses and grasses; rector of North Fambridge, Essex, 1708; left an English flora in manuscript. [vit. 222]

BUDDLE, JOHN (1773-1843), mining engineer; taught by his father, a practical miner; manager of Wallsend colliery, 1806; made experiments on ventilation in mines and introduced an improved method of coal-working. [vit. 222]

BUDGE, EDWARD (1800-1865), theological writer; B.A. Cambridge, 1824; vicar of Manacann, Cornwall, 1839; rector of Bratton Clovelly, Devon, 1846-65; published sermons. [vit. 223]

BUDGE, EUSTACE (1686-1737), miscellaneous writer; cousin of Addison; educated at Trinity College, Oxford, 1705; barrister of the Inner Temple; contributed to the 'Spectator'; held official posts in Ireland, 1714-18; travelled; ruined by the South Sea scheme, 1721; lost his reason; wrote against Walpole, 1728; journalist, 1733-6; accused of embezzlement; drowned himself. [vit. 224]

BUDGETT, SAMUEL (1794-1851), a successful Bristol merchant. [vit. 226]

BUDWORTH, JOSEPH, afterwards PALMER (d. 1815). [See PALMER.]

BUDWORTH, WILLIAM (d. 1745), schoolmaster; M.A. Cambridge, 1728; vicar of Brewood, Staffordshire, and master of the school there; declined the services of Samuel Johnson as usher, 1736. [vit. 226]

BUFTON, ELEANOR, afterwards Mrs. ARTHUR SWANBOROUGH (1810?-1893), actress; appeared at St. James's, 1854; with Charles Kean at the Princess's, 1856-7; last appeared (1872) at Drury Lane. Her parts include Regan ('Lear'), Hernia ('Midsummer Night's Dream'), Ferdinand ('Tempest'), and Hero ('Much Ado'). [Suppl. i. 332]

BUGG, FRANCIS (1640-1724?), writer against quakerism; wool-comber at Mildenhall, Suffolk, and, from boyhood, a quaker; suspected of informing against a quaker meeting, 1675; left the society after a long quarrel, 1680; issued virulent pamphlets against the quakers, 1682-1724. [vit. 226]

BUGGA or BUGGE, SAINT (d. 751). [See EADBURGA.]

BUISSIÈRE or BUSSIÈRE, PAUL (d. 1739), anatomical writer; surgeon of Orange, France; Huguenot exile; settled in Copenhagen; naturalised in England, 1688; practised as surgeon in London. [vit. 228]

BUIST, GEORGE (1805-1860), journalist and man of science; studied at St. Andrews and Edinburgh; licentiate of the church of Scotland, 1826; newspaper editor in Dundee, Perth, and Cupar-Pife, 1832-8; L.L.D.; edited the 'Bombay Times,' 1839-59; inspector of the Bombay observatories, 1842-59; published scientific and other papers. [vit. 228]

BUIE, SAINT (d. 521), born near Mellifont, Louth; visited Wales and Italy; returned through Germany and Scotland to Antrim, and thence to Louth, where he built Monasterboice, i.e. the Monastery of Buite. [vit. 229]

BULKELEY or BOKELEY, ARTHUR (d. 1553), bishop of Bangor; doctor of canon law, Oxford, 1525; rector of Llanddeusant, Anglesey, and canon of St. Asaph, 1525; rector of St. James, Garlick Hythe, London, 1531; prebendary of Clynmoch Vechan, 1537; bishop of Bangor, 1541; resident in his diocese; involved in lawsuits. [vit. 231]

BULKELEY, LAUNCELOT (1568?-1650), archbishop of Dublin; M.A. Oxford, 1593; beneficed in Wales, 1593-1620; archdeacon of Dublin, 1618-19; archbishop of

Dublin, 1619; claimed the primacy unsuccessfully; imprisoned, 1647; his see sequestered by the Commonwealth, 1649. [vit. 231]

BULKELEY, SIR RICHARD (1533-1621), knight; constable of Beaumaris, 1561; M.P. for Anglesey, 1570-1614; knighted, 1576; a favourite courtier of Queen Elizabeth. [vit. 231]

BULKELEY, RICHARD (d. 1650), royalist general; lost Anglesey, 1648. [vit. 232]

BULKELEY, SIR RICHARD (1644-1710), enthusiast; M.A., and fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, 1681; succeeded to baronetcy of Dunlavan, 1685; took up with the so-called 'prophets of the Cevennes,' c. 1708; published pamphlets. [vit. 233]

BULKELEY, LADY or MRS. SOPHIA (fl. 1688), a court beauty, 1668; married Henry Bulkeley, master of the household; lady of the bedchamber to James II's queen, and present at the birth of the Prince of Wales, 1688. [vit. 233]

BULKLEY, CHARLES (1719-1797), baptist minister; educated at Northampton academy, 1736; presbyterian minister at Welford, Northamptonshire, and Colchester; joined the general baptists; minister of that denomination in London, 1743-97; published philosophical tracts and sermons. [vit. 234]

BULKLEY, PETER (1583-1659), puritan divine; fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge; M.A., 1608; rector of Odell, Bedfordshire, 1620; ejected for contempt of church ceremonies, 1634?; emigrated to New England, 1635; founded Concord, 1636; pastor of Concord till death; published sermons. [vit. 235]

BULL, DANIEL (fl. 1657-1681), nonconformist divine; intruded minister of Stoke Newington, 1657-60; ejected, 1662; afterwards presbyterian minister in London; published sermons. [vit. 236]

BULL, GEORGE (1634-1710), Anglican theologian; bishop of St. David's; left Exeter College, Oxford, 1649, to avoid taking 'the Engagement'; educated privately; ordained secretly by Bishop Skinner, 1655; minister of St. George's, near Bristol; rector of Suddington St. Mary's, 1658-85; vicar of Suddington St. Peter's, Gloucestershire, 1662-85; published 'Harmonia Apostolica,' 1670; prebendary of Gloucester, 1678; published 'Defensio Fidei Nicænae,' 1685; rector of Avening, Gloucestershire, 1685; D.D. Oxford, 1686; published 'Judicium Ecclesiae Catholicae,' 1694; bishop of St. David's, 1705; published theological works and sermons. [vit. 236]

BULL, HENRY (d. 1675?), theologian; fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford; B.A., 1539; ejected from his fellowship by Queen Mary's commissioners, 1553; published theological works and (1577) translated Luther's 'Psalmi Graduum.' [vit. 239]

BULL, JOHN (1563?-1628), composer; Mus.Bac. Oxford, 1586; Mus.Doc., 1592; chorister of the Chapel Royal, c. 1572; organist of Hereford Cathedral, 1582; singing-man of the Chapel Royal, 1585, and organist, 1591-1613; professor of music at Gresham College, 1597-1607; travelled in France and Germany, 1601; conductor at the entertainment of James I and Prince Henry by the Merchant Taylors' Company, 1607; musician to Prince Henry, 1611; left England, 1613; an organist of the Chapel Royal, Brussels, c. 1614; organist of Antwerp Cathedral, 1617-28. [vit. 239]

BULL, JOHN (d. 1642), a London weaver; imprisoned for pretending to inspiration, 1636. [vit. 242]

BULL, WILLIAM (1738-1814), congregationalist minister; studied at Daventry academy, 1759; pastor at Newport Pagnel, 1764, and conducted school on a large scale from 1768 onwards; friend of Rev. John Newton of Olney, and of the poet Cowper. [vit. 243]

BULLAKER. [See also BULLOKAR.]

BULLAKER, THOMAS, in religion JOHN BAPTIST (1604?-1642), catholic martyr; educated at St. Omer and Valladolid, where he became a Franciscan; studied theology at Segovia; worked in the English mission; executed for celebrating mass. [vit. 244]

BULLEIN, RICHARD (d. 1663), physician. [vit. 246]

BULLEIN, WILLIAM (d. 1576), physician; rector of Blaxhall, Suffolk, 1560-3; studied medicine abroad; resided in London from 1561. His 'Booke of Simples' (part of his 'Bulwarke against Sicknes', 1562) is one of the earliest English herbals. 'A Dialogue against the Fever Pestilence' appeared 1564. [vii. 244]

BULLEN, SIR CHARLES (1769-1853), naval officer; served in Mediterranean and, after 1801, on west coast of Africa; commanded the Britannia at Trafalgar, 1806; rear-admiral, 1837; K.C.B., 1839; admiral, 1852. [vii. 246]

BULLEN, GEORGE (1816-1894), keeper of printed books at British Museum; supernumerary assistant in department of printed books in British Museum, 1838; senior assistant, 1850; superintendent of reading room, 1866; keeper of printed books, 1875-90; assisted in compiling printed catalogue; F.S.A., 1877; hon. LL.D. Glasgow, 1889; C.B., 1890. [Suppl. i. 332]

BULLER, CHARLES (1806-1848), liberal politician; taught by Thomas Carlyle, 1822-5; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1828; M.P. for West Looe, Cornwall, 1830-1; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1831; M.P. for Liskeard, 1832-48; secretary to the governor-general of Canada, 1838; judge-advocate-general, 1846; chief poor law commissioner, 1847; published pamphlets. [vii. 246]

BULLER, SIR FRANÇOIS (1746-1800), judge; special pleader, 1768; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1772; judge of the county palatine of Chester, 1777; justice of the king's bench, 1778; created baronet, 1790; justice of the common pleas, 1794-1800. [vii. 248]

BULLER, SIR GEORGE (1802-1884), general; entered the army, 1820; colonel, 1841; commanded brigade, and afterwards division, in the Kafir and Boer wars, 1847-8 and 1852-3; commanded brigade in the Crimea, 1854; wounded at Inkerman; K.C.B., 1855; lieutenant-general, 1862; general, 1871. [vii. 249]

BULLINGHAM, JOHN (d. 1598), bishop of Gloucester; fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1550; a catholic; withdrew to Rouen; was restored to his fellowship, and graduated M.A., 1554; chaplain to Bishop Gardiner; rector of Boxwell, Gloucestershire, 1554; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1565; rector of St. Mary Magdalene, Milk Street, 1566; D.D., 1568; prebendary of Lincoln, 1568; canon of Worcester, 1570; rector of Withington, Gloucestershire, of Burton-by-Lincoln, and of Brington, Huntingdon, 1571; bishop of Gloucester, 1581-98, holding also the see of Bristol in commendam, 1581-9; scurrilously attacked by Martin Marprelate. [vii. 250]

BULLINGHAM, NICHOLAS (1512?-1578), bishop of Lincoln and Worcester; fellow of All Souls' College, Oxford, 1536; B.O.L., 1541; studied canon law; chaplain to Archbishop Crammer; prebendary of Lincoln, 1547; rector of Thimbleby, Lincolnshire, 1552; deprived of his preferments, as being married, 1553; withdrew to Emden; restored to his preferments, 1558; chaplain to Archbishop Parker; LL.D. Cambridge, 1559; bishop of Lincoln, 1560; purged King's College, Cambridge, of Romanism, 1566; translated to Worcester, 1571. [vii. 251]

BULLINGHAM, RICHARD (fl. 1350). [See BILLINGHAM.]

BULLOCK, JOHN (1805-1882), author of 'Studies of the Text of Shakespeare', 1878; worked at Aberdeen as mechanic. [vii. 253]

BULLOCK, CHRISTOPHER (1690?-1724), comedian; son of William Bullock (1657?-1740?) [q. v.]; first appeared in 1708 at Drury Lane; attached to the Lincoln's Inn Fields Theatre, 1715-24; produced seven plays, some possibly written by other hands. [vii. 253]

BULLOCK, GEORGE (1521?-1580?), Roman catholic divine; fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge; B.A., 1539; witness at Bishop Gardiner's trial, 1551; withdrew to Nevers in France; canon of Durham, 1554; B.D., 1554; master of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1554, and Lady Margaret professor of divinity, 1556; vicar of St. Sepulchre, London, 1556-6; rector of Much Munden, Hertfordshire, 1566; deprived of his preferments for recusancy, 1569; divinity lecturer at Antwerp, 1567; died at Antwerp; author of 'Economia Concordantiarum Scripturæ sacræ', 1567. [vii. 254]

BULLOCK, HENRY, latinised BOVILLUS (d. 1526), divine; B.A. Cambridge, 1504, and fellow of Queens' College, 1506; D.D., 1520; studied Greek and lectured on St. Matthew; friend of Erasmus; rector of St. Martin's, Ludgate, 1522-8; published Latin orations and epistles. [vii. 254]

BULLOCK, WILLIAM (1657?-1740?), comedian; first mentioned in 1696; attached to Lincoln's Inn Fields Theatre, 1716 till death. [vii. 255]

BULLOCK, WILLIAM (fl. 1827), antiquary and naturalist; Liverpool goldsmith; exhibited a museum of curiosities, 1808; exhibited his collections in London, 1812-19; sold them, 1819; travelled in Mexico, 1822, and on his return exhibited his Mexican collections; travelled in the States and Mexico, 1826-7; perhaps settled in Cincinnati; published narrative of his travels. [vii. 256]

BULLOCK, WILLIAM THOMAS (1818-1879), theological writer; B.A. Oxford, 1847; assistant secretary, 1850, and secretary, 1865-79, of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel; published biblical papers and sermons. [vii. 256]

BULLOKAR, JOHN (fl. 1622), lexicographer; physician at Chichester; published 'An English Expositor', 1616 (3rd edit. 1641), and a metrical life of Christ, 1618. [vii. 257]

BULLOKAR, WILLIAM (fl. 1586), phonetist; engaged in tuition, 1550; served in the army, 1557; again employed in teaching, 1573; advocated spelling reform in a pamphlet, 1575, and in a book, 1580; translated 'Æsop's Fables', 1585; issued an English grammar, 1586. [vii. 257]

BULMER, AGNES (1776-1836), poetess; wrote 'Messiah's Kingdom', 1833. [vii. 258]

BULMER, WILLIAM (1757-1830), printer; apprenticed at Newcastle-on-Tyne; friend of Thomas Bewick; printed under his own name in London, 1791-1819. [vii. 258]

BULSTRODE, EDWARD (1588-1659), lawyer; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1613; a justice of North Wales, 1649, and in Warwickshire, 1653; published law reports. [vii. 259]

BULSTRODE, SIR RICHARD (1610-1711), diplomatist; second son of Edward Bulstrode [q. v.]; educated at Pembroke College, Cambridge; entered the Inner Temple, 1633; served in the king's army, 1642, ultimately becoming quartermaster-general; agent at Brussels, 1673; knighted, 1675; envoy at Brussels, 1678-88; followed James II to St. Germain; author of 'Life of James II.' [vii. 259]

BULSTRODE, WHITELOCKE (1650-1724), essayist; second son of Sir Richard Bulstrode [q. v.]; entered the Inner Temple, 1664; commissioner of excise; bought Hounslow manor, Middlesex, 1705; published controversial tracts and essays. [vii. 260]

BULTEEL, HENRY BELLENDEN (1800-1866), theologian; fellow of Exeter College, Oxford, 1823-9; M.A., 1824; curate in Oxford, 1826; preached in dissenting chapels; left the Anglican church and built a chapel in Oxford, 1831; adopted some of Edward Irving's ideas, 1832; published controversial tracts. [vii. 261]

BULTEEL, JOHN (fl. 1683), miscellaneous writer; issued pamphlets, romances, and translations between 1656 and 1683. [vii. 261]

BULWER, EDWARD GEORGE EARLE LYTTON, BARON LYTTON (1803-1873). [See LYTTON.]

BULWER, JOHN (fl. 1654), physician; published 'Philoprophus, or the Deafe and Dumb Man's Friend', 1648, advocating the instruction of deaf-mutes, partly by gestures, partly by reading the lips (an idea borrowed from the Spanish); published medical and rhetorical treatises. [vii. 262]

BULWER, ROSINA BOYLE, LADY LYTTON (1804-1882). [See LYTTON.]

BULWER, WILLIAM HENRY LYTTON EARLE, BARON DALLING AND BULWER (1801-1872), diplomatist, better known as SIR HENRY BULWER; educated at Harrow and at Trinity and Downing colleges, Cambridge; published poems, 1822; in Greece, acting for the revolutionary committee, 1824; army officer, 1825-9; attaché at Berlin, 1827, Vienna, 1829, and the Hague, 1830; in

Belgium during the revolution, 1830; M.P. for Wilton, 1830, for Coventry, 1831, and for Marylebone, 1835; chargé d'affaires at Brussels, 1835; secretary of embassy at Constantinople, 1837; chargé d'affaires at Paris, 1839; ambassador at Madrid, 1843-8; K.O.B., 1848; ambassador at Washington, 1849; concluded the Bulwer-Clayton treaty; minister at Florence, 1852; commissioner in the Danubian principalities, 1856; ambassador at Constantinople, 1858-65; M.P. for Tamworth, 1868; created Baron Dalling and Bulwer, 1871; published historical works. [vii. 263]

BUNBURY, SIR HENRY EDWARD (1778-1860), seventh baronet (succeeded, 1820), of Mildenhall, Suffolk, soldier and historian; son of Henry William Bunbury [q. v.]; educated at Westminster; served in the army, 1795-1809; distinguished himself at the battle of Malda, 1806; under-secretary of state for war, 1809-18; major-general and K.O.B., 1815; conveyed to Napoleon sentence of deportation to St. Helena, 1815; M.P. for Suffolk, 1830; a pioneer of the volunteer movement, 1859; author of military narratives. [vii. 265]

BUNBURY, HENRY WILLIAM (1750-1811), artist and caricaturist; educated at Westminster and St. Catharine's Hall, Cambridge; travelled in France and Italy before 1771; chiefly drew in pencil and chalk, and had his designs reproduced by engravers; executed numerous drawings, especially burlesque. [vii. 267]

BUNDY, RICHARD (d. 1739), divine; B.A. Oxford, 1713; chaplain in ordinary to George II.; D.D. Lambeth, vicar of St. Bride's, Fleet Street, and prebendary of Westminster, 1732-3; published sermons and translations. [vii. 268]

BUNGAY, THOMAS (A. 1290), Franciscan; studied at Paris; divinity lecturer of his order in Oxford and Cambridge; provincial minister in England; vulgarly accounted a magician. [vii. 268]

BUNN, ALFRED (1796?-1860), theatrical manager; nicknamed 'Poet Bunn'; stage-manager of Drury Lane, 1823; manager of Birmingham Theatre, 1826; manager of Drury Lane and Covent Garden theatres, 1833-46; brought out English operas; published verses. [vii. 269]

BUNN, MARGARET AGNES (1799-1883), actress; née Somerville; first appeared at Drury Lane, 1816, at Covent Garden, 1818; married Alfred Bunn [q. v.], 1819; acted at Drury Lane, 1823; retired while still young. [vii. 269]

BUNNING, JAMES BUNSTONE (1802-1863), architect; entered his father's office, 1815; surveyor to several public bodies and companies, 1825 onwards; architect to the city of London, 1843-1863. [vii. 270]

BUNNY, EDMUND (1540-1618), theological writer; B.A. and fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1560; entered Gray's Inn, 1561; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1564; fellow of Merton, 1565; B.D., 1570; chaplain to Archbishop Grindal, 1570; sub-dean of York, 1570-9; prebendary of York, 1575; rector of Bolton Percy, Yorkshire, 1575-1600; prebendary of Carlisle, 1585; travelled over England, preaching; wrote doctrinal and devotional tracts. [vii. 271]

BUNNY, FRANCIS (1548-1617), theological writer; fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1561-72; M.A., 1567; prebendary of Durham, 1572; archdeacon of Northumberland, 1578-8; rector of Ryton, Durham, 1578 till death; author of devotional tracts. [vii. 272]

BUNSEN, FRANCOIS (1791-1876), née Waddington; Welsh heiress; married at Rome, 1817, Baron Christian Bunsen (German ambassador, 1841-54); at Carlsruhe, 1855-76; published 'Memoir of Baron Bunsen', 1868. [vii. 272]

BUNTING, EDWARD (1773-1843), musician; organist and music-teacher in Belfast, 1784; travelled in Ireland, collecting old Irish airs, 1792; published two series of these, 1796 and 1809; settled in Dublin, 1819; published a third collection, 1840. [vii. 273]

BUNTING, JABEZ (1779-1858), Wesleyan Methodist; studied medicine, c. 1793; admitted a Wesleyan minister, 1799; served at many centres; stationed at head quarters in London, 1833; president of the theological institute, 1835; organised the connexion, and completed its severance from the Anglican church; published sermons. [vii. 273]

BUNTING, WILLIAM MACLARDIE (1808-1866), Wesleyan; eldest son of Jabez Bunting [q. v.]; minister at various centres, 1828-49; published sermons and hymns. [vii. 275]

BUNYAN, JOHN (1628-1688), author of 'Pilgrim's Progress'; son of Thomas Bunyan (d. 1676), tinsmith, of Elstow, near Bedford; learned reading and writing; was early set to his father's trade; lost his mother, June 1644; enlisted that year, in anger at his father's re-marriage, possibly in the parliamentary forces (stationed at Newport Pagnel, 1644-6); deeply moved by the death of a comrade, shot while serving in his place; profited by two devotional books belonging to his wife; gave up amusements and a bad habit of swearing; read the bible narratives; attended church services; overheard a religious conversation of certain poor women in Bedford, and in 1653 joined their society, which then met in St. John's Church, under 'Mr. Gifford' (d. c. 1656), an ex-royalist officer; removed from Elstow to Bedford, 1655; chosen deacon in his church; began to preach; lost his wife, c. 1656, and was left with four young children, one of them blind; his first publications 'Some Gospel Truths opened,' 1656, and 'A Vindication' of it, 1657, both directed against the quakers; being set apart as a preacher, 1657, preached throughout the district, still working at his craft; indicted at the assizes in consequence of the opposition of the settled Presbyterian clergy, 1658; married, c. 1659, his second wife, Elizabeth (d. 1691); arrested for preaching, 12 Nov. 1660, and imprisoned, the laws against unlicensed preaching being rigorously enforced; allowed out of prison, pending trial, to preach at his meeting-house; sentenced to a short term of imprisonment at the Bedford assizes, January 1661, but, refusing to discontinue public preaching, was kept in prison (with an interval of a few weeks in 1666) till the spring of 1672, when he was released by Charles II.'s Declaration of Indulgence; allowed much freedom in prison, making tagged laces for a living, preaching to the prisoners, and writing numerous pieces, prose and verse. He is supposed to have undergone a short imprisonment in 1675, and to have then written his 'Pilgrim's Progress,' published in 1678. Otherwise he was unmolested, and from 1672 till death preached in many places, especially in London, and wrote largely. He was buried in Bunhill Fields, London. His collected works were published in 1736. [vii. 276]

BURBAGE, JAMES (d. 1597), actor; a joiner by trade; one of the Earl of Leicester's players, 1574; leased land in Finsbury Fields (1576), on which he erected, of wood, the first building in England specially intended for plays; acquired a house in Blackfriars, and converted it into 'Blackfriars Theatre,' 1596; lived in Holywell Street, Shoreditch, 1576-97. The first English playhouse is mentioned in an order of council, August 1577, and was known as 'The Theatre'; the fabric was removed, c. December 1598, to the Bankside and set up as the Globe Theatre. [vii. 284]

BURBAGE, RICHARD (1567?-1619), actor; son of James Burbage [q. v.], from whom he inherited a share in Blackfriars Theatre, and an interest in the Globe Theatre (burnt down 1613); acted as a boy at the theatre in Shoreditch; was an actor of repute by 1588; an actor of chief parts, 1595-1618, in plays by Shakespeare, Ben Jonson, and Beaumont and Fletcher; excelled in tragedy; lived in Holywell Street, Shoreditch, 1603-19; known also as a painter in oil-colours. [vii. 285]

BURCH, EDWARD (A. 1771), artist; art-student, 1769; R.A., 1771; exhibited at the Academy, 1771-1808; miniature-painter; librarian of the Royal Academy, 1780. [vii. 286]

BURCHARD, SAINT (d. 754), first bishop of Würzburg; reputed of English origin; evangelised the district of the Main; consecrated Bishop of Würzburg, 741; resigned, 751; retired to a monastery at Homburg; canonised, 984; some manuscript sermons ascribed to him. [vii. 289]

BURCHELL, WILLIAM JOHN (1782?-1863), explorer and naturalist; botanist at St. Helena, 1808-10; studied Cape-Dutch at Cape Town, 1810; travelled extensively in South Africa, 1811-15, making scientific observations, and collecting natural history specimens; published account of his travels, 1822; at Lisbon, 1825; at Rio Janeiro, 1826-8; travelled in the Brazilian forests, 1826-9, collecting plants and insects; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, 1834. Botanical manuscripts by him are at Kew. [vii. 290]

BURCHETT, JOSIAH (1666?-1746), secretary of the admiralty; clerk to Samuel Pepys, 1680-7; secretary to Admiral Edward Russell, 1694, and perhaps earlier; joint-secretary, 1695, and sole secretary, 1698-1742, of the admiralty; M.P. for Sandwich, 1703-13, 1721-41; published a naval history, 1720. [vii. 291]

BURCHETT, RICHARD (1816-1875), historical painter; student at the School of Design at Somerset House, 1841; headed agitation against the management; assistant-master, and, 1851, head-master of the art school, South Kensington; exhibited at the Academy, 1847-73; published treatises on drawing. [vii. 292]

BURCKHARDT, JOHN LEWIS (1784-1817), traveller in the East; educated at Leipzig, 1800, and Göttingen, 1804; came to England, 1806; studied Arabic at Cambridge and Malta, 1809; travelled, disguised as a Mohammedan trader of Hindustan, from the coast to Aleppo; resided at Aleppo two years, studying Arabic and Mohammedan law; made a tour to Palmyra, Damascus, Baalbek, 1810; journeyed through Palestine and Arabia to Egypt, 1812; travelled along the Nile above Assuan, 1813; journeyed through Abyssinia to Suakim, 1814; crossed to Jeddah; went, in the train of the viceroy of Egypt, to Mekka and Medina, 1815; journeyed to Suez and Sinai, 1816; died at Cairo; published travels. [vii. 292]

BURDER, GEORGE (1752-1832), congregationalist theologian; engraver, 1773; took to preaching, 1776; pastor at Lancaster, 1778; travelling preacher in England and Wales; pastor at Coventry, 1784; pastor of the Fetter Lane, London, congregation, 1803-32; secretary of the London Missionary Society, 1803-27; a founder of the London Missionary Society, 1795, of the Religious Tract Society, 1799, and of the British and Foreign Bible Society, 1804; edited devotional books. [vii. 294]

BURDER, HENRY FORSTER (1783-1864), congregationalist; eldest son of George Burder [q. v.]; a merchant's clerk; studied at Hoxton Academy and Glasgow University; M.A. Glasgow, 1807; professor of philosophy and mathematics, Hoxton College, 1810-30; pastor in Hackney, 1814-52; published sermons and devotional books; D.D. Glasgow. [vii. 295]

BURDER, SAMUEL (1773-1837), divine; congregational minister at St. Albans; ordained in the Anglican church, c. 1809; preacher in various London churches; published theological works. [vii. 296]

BURDER, THOMAS HARRISON (1789-1843), physician; son of George Burder [q. v.]; M.D. Edinburgh, 1815; practitioner in London, 1815-34; retired to Tunbridge Wells. [vii. 296]

BURDETT, Sir FRANÇOIS (1770-1844), politician; educated at Westminster and Oxford; travelled on the continent; was in Paris during the early part of the French revolution; returned to England and married Sophia Coutts, 1798; M.P. for Boroughbridge, 1796; advocated parliamentary reform, and denounced the war with France; suffered heavy expenses over the disputed election for Middlesex, 1809-6; M.P. for Westminster, 1807-37; denounced flogging in the army and corruption in parliament; imprisoned on political charges, 1810, and again, 1820; after Reform Bill inclined to the conservatives; conservative M.P. for North Wilts, 1837-44. [vii. 296]

BURDON, WILLIAM (1764-1818), miscellaneous writer; wealthy coal-owner; educated at Newcastle-on-Tyne; fellow of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1788-96; M.A., 1788; lived near Morpeth; published political pamphlets. [vii. 299]

BURDY, SAMUEL (1760?-1820), historian; B.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1781; curate of Ardglass, 1788, and incumbent of Kilclief, co. Down, c. 1800-30; published 'History of Ireland', memoirs, and poems. [vii. 299]

BURELL, JOHN (A. 1590). [See BURRELL.]

BURFORD, first EARL OF (1670-1726). [See BEAUFORT, CHARLES.]

BURFORD, ROBERT (1791-1861), artist; exhibited panoramas in Leicester Square, praised by Ruskin; exhibited at the Academy from 1812. [vii. 300]

BURFORD, THOMAS (A. 1740-1765), mezzotint engraver, chiefly of portraits. [vii. 301]

BURGES or BURGESS, CORNELIUS (1689?-1665), puritan divine; B.A. Wadham College, Oxford, 1616; M.A. Lincoln College, 1618; D.D., 1627; rector of St. Magnus, London Bridge, 1628-41; chaplain in ordinary to Charles I., c. 1626; brought before the court of high commission, 1635, for charging the bishops with favouring Arminianism and Romanism; conveyed to Charles I. at York the petition of the London clergy against 'the etcetera oath,' 1640; of great influence with the House of Commons; put forward as spokesman of the proposal to suppress cathedrals, 1641; chaplain to Essex's regiment of horse, 1642; a vice-president of the Westminster assembly, 1643; opposed imposition of 'covenant,' 1643; lecturer at St. Paul's and resident in the deanery, 1644; agitated against the execution of Charles I., 1649; preacher at Wells Cathedral, 1650-60; bought the deanery and part of the cathedral estates; ruined by their forfeiture, 1660; sold his library; published sermons and controversial tracts. [vii. 301]

BURGES, GEORGE (1786?-1864), classical scholar; educated at Charterhouse and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1810; long a private tutor in Cambridge; attacked Blomfield in Valpy's 'Classical Journal'; published classical texts and translations, including 'Greek Anthology' for Bohn's classical library. [vii. 304]

BURGES, Sir JAMES BLAND (1752-1824), politician; known as Sir James Lamb after 1821, by royal license; educated at Westminster and University College, Oxford; travelled on the continent, 1773; barrister of Lincoln's Inn, 1777; commissioner in bankruptcy, 1777; M.P. for Helston, Cornwall, 1787-90; supported Warren Hastings when impeached; advocated abolition of slavery and amelioration of conditions of imprisonment for debt; under-secretary for foreign affairs, 1789-95; created baronet, 1795; wrote poems, plays, and epigrams. [vii. 305]

BURGES, JOHN (1745-1807), physician; educated at Westminster; M.D. Christ Church, Oxford, 1774; physician to St. George's Hospital, London, 1774-87; made collections for 'Materia Medica.' [vii. 306]

BURGES, MARY ANNE (1768-1813), authoress, linguist, and naturalist. [vii. 307]

BURGES, WILLIAM (1827-1881), architect; trained by Edward Blore [q. v.], 1844, and Digby Wyatt, 1849; studied mediæval architecture on the continent; employed, 1856 onwards, in important buildings and restorations; designed Brisbane Cathedral, 1859, and Cork Cathedral, 1862; restored Cardiff Castle, 1865; wrote architectural papers. [vii. 307]

BURGESS, ANTHONY (A. 1652), nonconformist; entered St. John's College, Cambridge, 1623; fellow of Emmanuel College; chaplain to the parliamentary garrison, Coventry; member of the Westminster Assembly; rector of Sutton Coldfield, Warwickshire; ejected, 1662; author of sermons and doctrinal treatises. [vii. 308]

BURGESS, DANIEL (1645-1713), nonconformist; educated at Westminster; entered Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1660; acted as domestic chaplain to nonconformist gentry; master of Charleville school, co. Cork; ordained by the presbytery of Dublin; imprisoned at Marlborough for preaching, 1674; pastor to a congregation in London, 1685-1713; his meeting-house sacked by the Sacheverell mob, 1710; published sermons and devotional pieces. [vii. 308]

BURGESS, DANIEL (d. 1747), secretary to Princess Sophia, 1714, at Hanover, and afterwards to the Princess of Wales; son of Daniel Burgess (1645-1713) [q. v.]; in the government service, 1702; obtained the government grant (regium donum) for English dissenting ministers, 1723. [vii. 309]

BURGESS, HENRY (1808-1886), divine; educated at Stepney dissenting college; nonconformist minister; ordained in the Anglican church, 1850; LL.D. Glasgow, 1861; Ph.D. Göttingen, 1862; incumbent of Clifton Reynes, Buckinghamshire, 1854-61; vicar of Whittelee, Cambridgeshire, 1861-86; published essays and translations from the Syriac. [vii. 309]

BURGESS, JOHN (1563-1635), puritan; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1586; rector of St. Peter Hungate, Norwich, 1590; resigned, in consequence of the surplice question, c. 1591; benefited in Lincoln diocese, c. 1595; imprisoned for sermon preached at Greenwich before James I, 1604; led the opposition to the 1603 canons; ejected from his benefice; retired to Leyden, where he studied medicine and graduated M.D.; incorporated M.D. at Cambridge; returned to England, c. 1612; forbidden to practise in London; practised medicine at Isleworth, Middlesex; preacher at Bishopsgate; rector of Sutton Coldfield, Warwick, 1617-35; chaplain to Sir Horatio Vere abroad, 1620; prebendary of Lichfield, 1625; published controversial tracts. [vii. 310]

BURGESS, JOHN (d. 1871), nonconformist; intruded rector of Ashpington, Devonshire; ejected, 1862; retired to Dartmouth; afterwards pastor at Hackney; kept a boarding-school at Islington. [vii. 312]

BURGESS, JOHN BAGNOLD (1829-1897), painter; grandson of William Burgess (1749?-1812) [q. v.]; studied at Royal Academy; exhibited at Academy first in 1850, and regularly, 1852-97; visited Spain, 1858, and after, the majority of his pictures being studies of Spanish life and character; R.A., 1889. [Suppl. i. 333]

BURGESS, JOHN OART (1798-1863), painter of flowers in water-colours; teacher of painting; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1812; published treatises on painting and perspective. [vii. 312]

BURGESS, JOSEPH TOM (1828-1886), antiquary; wood engraver at Northampton, c. 1844; went with Dr. David Alfred Boudney [q. v.] to Ireland, and became editor of 'Clare Journal'; edited various local newspapers in England and published miscellaneous works, including 'Historic Warwickshire,' 1876. [Suppl. i. 335]

BURGESS, RICHARD (1796-1881), divine; of St. John's College, Cambridge; priest, 1823; Anglican chaplain at Geneva, 1828, and Rome, 1831; rector of Upper Chelsea, 1836-61; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1850; rector of Horningsheath, Suffolk, 1869. [vii. 312]

BURGESS, THOMAS (d. 1786), historical painter; exhibited in London, 1766; exhibited at the Academy, 1778-86; taught drawing in London. [vii. 313]

BURGESS, THOMAS (1784?-1807), painter; son of William Burgess (1749?-1812) [q. v.]; exhibited at the Academy, 1802-6. [vii. 313]

BURGESS, THOMAS (1756-1837), bishop of St. David's and Salisbury; educated at Winchester and Corpus Christi College, Oxford; B.A., 1778; fellow, 1783; resided in Oxford till 1791; prebendary of Durham, 1794; rector of Winston, Durham, 1795; bishop of St. David's, 1803; worked hard for his diocese; founded St. David's College, Lampeter, for education of Welsh clergy, 1822; translated to Salisbury, 1825; author of charges, sermons, and pamphlets; D.D. [vii. 313]

BURGESS, THOMAS (1791-1854), catholic prelate; educated at Ampleforth; Benedictine monk, 1807; secular priest, 1830; priest of Portland Chapel, Bath, 1832; bishop of Olifton, 1851; D.D. [vii. 314]

BURGESS, WILLIAM (1749?-1812), painter; son of Thomas Burgess (d. 1786) [q. v.]; exhibited in London, 1769; exhibited at the Academy, 1774-99; teacher of drawing. [vii. 314]

BURGESS, WILLIAM (1755?-1813), engraver; issued prints of Lincolnshire churches; baptist minister at Fleet, Lincolnshire. [vii. 315]

BURGESS, WILLIAM OAKLEY (1818-1844), mezzotint engraver; pupil of Thomas Goff Lupton; engraved pictures by Sir Thomas Lawrence. [vii. 315]

BURGH, BENEDIOT (d. 1472), translator of Cato's precepts, printed by Caxton, 1483; rector of Sandon, Essex, 1440; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1472. [vii. 316]

BURGH, HUBERT DE (d. 1343), chief justiciar; of Norman-Irish birth; employed by Richard I.; envoy from King John to Portugal, 1300; chamberlain to King John, 1301; perhaps gaoler of John's nephew, Arthur, at Falaise, 1302; envoy to Philip of France, 1303; defended Chinon, 1304; seneschal of Niort and Poitou, 1314; named a conservator of Magna Charta, and appointed justiciar, 1315; defended Dover Castle against French, 1316; continued in the justiciarship after John's death; destroyed the French fleet off North Foreland, August, 1217; head of the national party against the foreigners and the bishop of Winchester, 1319; married (his fourth wife) Margaret, sister of Alexander II of Scotland, 1321; demanded the surrender of the royal castles held by nobles, 1291; defeated the nobles' plot to seize the king, 1293; advised Henry III to declare himself of full age and banish the bishop of Winchester, 1297; created Earl of Kent, 1297; violently attacked by Henry III in consequence of the lack of money in the treasury, 1299; deprived of power by combination of the church, the nobles, and the Londoners, 1311; granted justiciarship of Ireland, June 1292; dismissed from office, July 1292, and accused of many crimes; imprisoned in the tower, 1292, and in Devizes Castle, February 1293; escaped to Chepstow, November 1293, to Richard, earl of Pembroke; his outlawry reversed and earldom restored, 1294; reconciled to the bishop of Winchester, 1297; acquitted after a renewal of the old charges, 1299. [vii. 316]

BURGH, JAMES (1714-1776), political writer; educated at St. Andrews; press corrector, afterwards usher, in London; kept private school at Stoke Newington, 1747-71; author of 'Political Disquisitions,' 1774-5, and pamphlets. [vii. 322]

BURGH, SIR JOHN (1562-1594), military and naval commander; took troops from Lincolnshire to serve in Netherlands, 1585; knighted; governor of Doesburg; governor of the Briel, 1588; commanded one of the English regiments which helped Henry IV of France, 1589-90; knighted on the field at Ivry, 1590; commanded the squadron which captured the great Spanish treasure-ship off the Azores, 1592; killed in a duel respecting the plunder. [vii. 322]

BURGH, RICHARD DE (d. 1243), Irish settler; dispossessed by King John of his lands in Connaught; pilgrim to Compostella, 1222; restored by Henry III, 1222; fought against Aedh O'Connor of Connaught, 1230; invaded the Irish estates of Richard, the earl marshal, and contributed to his death, 1234; sailed to join Henry III in France; died in France. [vii. 323]

BURGH, RICHARD DE, second EARL OF ULSTER and fourth EARL OF CONNAUGHT (1259?-1336), eldest son of Walter de Burgh, earl of Ulster [q. v.]; succeeded to earldom, 1271; made war on his late guardian, 1282; ravaged Connaught, 1286; deposed Brian O'Neill and made Niall Culaeach O'Neill, king of Ireland, 1286; ceded Isle of Man to Edward I, 1290; conquered Magnus O'Connor of Connaught, 1292; summoned by Edward to serve in France, 1294; imprisoned by Fitzgerald, his feudal enemy, 1294-5; made Aedh O'Connor chief in Connaught, 1296; joined Edward I in Scotland, 1296; summoned to serve in France, 1297; served in Scotland, 1304; built Silgo Castle, 1310; at war with other Irish nobles, 1311; made Felim O'Connor chief in Connaught, 1315; fought against Edward Bruce, 1316; imprisoned at Dublin, 1317, in order that he might not join his son-in-law, Robert Bruce; frequently summoned to serve with Edward II in Scotland till 1322. [vii. 324]

BURGH, ULIOK DE, fifth EARL and MARQUIS OF CLANRICARDE (1604-1657), succeeded to earldom, 1635; served with Charles I against Scots, 1639; of suspected loyalty, 1641; Charles I's commissioner to meet the Irish confederates, 1643; commander of the forces in Connaught, 1644; created marquis, 1645; tried to reconcile the Irish to Charles I, 1646; reduced Galway, 1648; deputy in Ireland for Ormonde, December 1650; distrusted by the Irish; capitulated to the parliament, 1652. [vii. 325]

BURGH, SIR ULYSSES BAGENAL, second BARON DOWNES (1788-1863), general; ensign, 1804; captain, 1806; aide-de-camp to Wellington in Peninsula, 1809-14; lieutenant-colonel, 1812; K.O.B., 1814; colonel, 1835; succeeded to barony, 1828; clerk of the ordinance, 1828-1830; general, 1854. [vii. 327]

BURGH, WALTER DE, called EARL OF ULSTER (d. 1271), second son of Richard de Burgh (d. 1243) [q. v.]; succeeded his brother in the estates, 1248; granted possession, 1250; came of age, 1253; at war with the Irish of Connaught, 1256-70; at war with Fitzgerald, 1264-5. [vii. 328]

BURGH, WALTER HUSSEY (1742-1788), Irish lawyer; known as Walter Hussey till 1762; B.A. Dublin, 1762; married, 1767; Irish barrister, 1769; M.P. in the Irish parliament for Athy, 1769, and for Dublin University, 1774; prime serjeant, 1777; advocated free trade; opposed the union; chief baron of the Irish exchequer, 1783; celebrated orator. [vii. 329]

BURGH, WILLIAM DE (d. 1304), Anglo-Norman baron of Ireland; from 1200 harried the Connaught Irish, supporting the attempts of the pretender, Cathal Carrach, to dispossess Cathal Crobhderg of the throne of Connaught. [xix. 105]

BURGH, WILLIAM DE, sixth LORD OF CONNAUGHT and third EARL OF ULSTER (1313-1332), succeeded as a minor, 1326; knighted, and obtained possession of his estates, 1338; at war with the O'Brians, 1328-30; attended parliament in Dublin, 1329; at war with Fitzgerald, 1330; imprisoned; in England, 1331; at war with Sir Walter de Burgh, 1332. [vii. 331]

BURGH, WILLIAM (1741-1808), controversialist; an Irish landowner; with Walter Hussey Burgh [q. v.] M.P. for Athy, 1769-76; advocated abolition of slavery; opposed the union; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, 1788; wrote against unitarianism. [vii. 331]

BURGHALL, EDWARD (d. 1665), puritan; schoolmaster at Bunbury, Cheshire, 1632; plundered by royalist troops, 1643; intruded vicar of Acton, Cheshire, 1646-62; taught school, 1663; left diary in manuscript. [vii. 332]

BURGHES, MICHAEL (1653?-1727), engraver; born in Amsterdam; settled in Oxford, 1673; engraved for the university press, 1678-1790; engraver to the university, 1692; principally engraved portraits. [vii. 333]

BURGHES, BARON. [See FANE.]

BURGHES, BARTHOLOMEW, BARON BURGHES, the elder (d. 1356), succeeded to barony, 1310; served in Scotland, 1317; imprisoned in the Tower, 1321; constable of Dover Castle frequently from 1327; chamberlain of Edward III and his attendant in France and Scotland; envoy to Philip of France, 1329; admiral of Channel fleet, 1337; served in Gascony, 1349. [vii. 333]

BURGHES, BARTHOLOMEW, BARON BURGHES, the younger (d. 1369), son of Bartholomew, baron Burghesh, the elder [q. v.]; served in Flanders, 1339, in Brittany, 1342-3, at Orecy, 1346, at Calais, 1347, in Gascony, 1349; K.G., 1350; pilgrim to Palestine, 1354; succeeded his father, 1355; served in France, 1355-6, and 1359-60; commissioner on the state of Ireland, 1362, and to Pope Urban V, 1366. [vii. 334]

BURGHES, HENRY (1292-1340), bishop of Lincoln; studied abroad; proposed for the see of Winchester by his family, 1319; intruded into the see of Lincoln, 1320; his temporalities seized by Edward II, 1322, but restored, 1324?; supported Queen Isabella, 1326; commissioner to obtain Edward II's abdication, 1327; lord treasurer, 1327; lord chancellor, 1328-30; candidate for see of Canterbury, 1328; accompanied Edward III to France, 1329; baptised the Prince of Wales, 1330; imprisoned in Tower, 1330; lord treasurer, 1334-7; employed by Edward III in Flanders, 1338, in the southern counties, 1340, and again in Flanders, 1340, where he died. [vii. 335]

BURGHLEY, BARONS. [See CECIL, WILLIAM, first BARON, 1520-1598; CECIL, THOMAS, second BARON, 1642-1623.]

BURGIS, EDWARD (1673?-1747), in religion AM-BROSSE; Dominican friar; wrote on ecclesiastical history. [vii. 338]

BURGO, DR. (1710?-1776). [See BURKE, THOMAS.]

BURGON, JOHN WILLIAM (1813-1888), dean of Chichester; son of Thomas Burgon [q. v.]; studied at University College, London; published 'Life of Sir Thomas Gresham, 1839; entered Worcester College, Oxford, 1841; fellow of Oriel, 1846; M.A., 1848; vicar of St. Mary's, Oxford, 1844; Gresham professor of divinity, 1867; dean of Chichester, 1876; published 'Lives of Twelve Good Men,' 1888, sermons, and works of religious controversy; 'a high churchman of the old school.' [Suppl. i. 335]

BURGON, THOMAS (1787-1858), Turkey merchant and member of court of assistants of Levant Company; employed in coin department of British Museum, 1841. [Suppl. i. 335]

BURGOYNE, HUGH TALBOT (1833-1870), captain royal navy, only son of Sir John Fox Burgoyne [q. v.]; entered navy, 1847; gained Victoria cross for service in Black Sea, 1855; drowned in the turret-ship Captain off Cape Finisterre. [vii. 338]

BURGOYNE, SIR JOHN (1739-1785), general; seventh baronet of Sutton, Bedfordshire; entered the army when young; rapidly promoted; raised a regiment of light dragoons for India, 1781; served in India, 1782-1785; major-general, 1783. [vii. 339]

BURGOYNE, JOHN (1722-1792), dramatist and general; educated at Westminster; lieutenant, 1741; eloped with Lady Charlotte Stanley, daughter of the Earl of Derby, 1743; captain, c. 1743; resided in France to escape his creditors, 1749-55; lieutenant-colonel, 1758; raised dragoon regiment, 1769; M.P. for Midhurst, 1761; brigadier-general in Portugal, 1762; governor of Fort William, 1768-78; M.P. for Preston, 1768; major-general, 1772; attacked Olive in parliament, 1773; wrote plays, 1774-86; served in New England, 1775, and censured his brother-officers; second in command in Canada, 1776, and censured his superior officer; lieutenant-general, 1777; given supreme command in Canada, but capitulated at Saratoga, October 1777; made commander-in-chief in Ireland by the whigs, 1782; manager of the impeachment of Warren Hastings; wrote plays, including the 'Helress,' 1786. [vii. 340]

BURGOYNE, SIR JOHN FOX (1782-1871), engineer officer; illegitimate son of John Burgoyne (1722-1792) [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Woolwich; entered royal engineers, 1798; served in Malta, Sicily, Egypt, 1800-7; engineer in Sir John Moore's expedition, 1808-9; engineer with Wellington throughout the Peninsular war; engineer in American campaign, 1814-15; commander of the engineers in France, 1815-18, and in Portugal, 1826; chairman of public works board, Ireland, 1831-45; major-general and K.O.B., 1838; inspector-general of fortifications, 1845-68; lieutenant-general, 1850; present in the Crimean campaign, 1853-5; general, 1855; created baronet, 1856; constable of the Tower of London, 1865; field-marshal, 1868. [vii. 342]

BURGOYNE, MONTAGU (1750-1836), politician; educated at Trinity Hall, Cambridge; held sinecure office in the exchequer; published pamphlets. [vii. 344]

BURGOYNE, SIR MONTAGUE ROGER (d. 1817), eighth baronet of Sutton, Bedfordshire; eldest son of Sir John Burgoyne [q. v.]; cornet Scots Greys, 1789; lieutenant-colonel 32nd light dragoons, 1795; major-general, 1810. [vii. 339]

BURGSTED, WALTER DE (fl. 1257). [See BKR-STREDE.]

BURGUNDY, DUCHESS OF (1446-1503). [See MARGARET.]

BURNELL or BURGHILL, ROBERT (1579-1641), divine; fellow of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1585; M.A., 1594; D.D., 1632; rector of Northwold, Norfolk, and of Snailwell, Cambridgeshire, and prebendary of Hereford, 1604; assisted Sir Walter Raleigh in his 'History of the World'; wrote works on controversial divinity. [vii. 344]

BURHRED or BURGRÆD (reigned 852-874), king of Mercia; succeeded Beorhtwulf [q. v.]; subdued the revolt of North Wales and Anglesey, by help of Æthelwulf of the West-Saxons, 853; married Æthelswyth, Æthelwulf's daughter, 854; solicited West-Saxon help against the Danes, 868; vainly besieged the Danes in Nottingham; accepted Danish supremacy; received the expelled Northumbrian king, 872; conquered by the Danes, 874; fled to Rome, and died there. [vii. 344]

BURKE, EDMUND (1729-1797), statesman; second son of Richard Burke, attorney, of Dublin; brought up as a protestant by his father; entered Trinity College, Dublin, 1743; B.A., 1748; entered the Middle Temple, London, 1750; troubled by weak health; travelled in the west of England and in France; punished for neglect of his legal studies by discontinuance of the allowance from his father, 1758; first published works, 'Vindication of Natural Society,' and 'On the Sublime and Beautiful,' 1768; married a catholic, who afterwards turned protestant, Jane Nugent, daughter of his physician, 1768, and was for some time dependent on his father-in-law; unsuccessfully applied for the consulship at Madrid, 1769; started the 'Annual Register,' 1759, and contributed to it till 1788; private secretary to William Gerard Hamilton, 1769-64, accompanying him to Ireland, 1761-2, and again 1768-4; resigned a pension which Hamilton had obtained for him, 1764; private secretary to the Marquis of Rockingham, July 1768, who from time to time helped him by advances of money and destroyed his bonds at his death; inherited a small Irish estate from a brother, 1766, which he sold in 1790; elected M.P. for Wendover, 1766-74, through the influence of Ralph, second earl Verney; first spoke in parliament, 27 Jan. 1766, on the American question; acknowledged as an orator of the highest class, but out of touch with the house; visited Ireland, 1766; vehemently attacked the administration of Chatham and Grafton, especially in regard to their dealing with East Indian, 1766, and American questions, 1767; participated in the stockjobbing operations of a brother, a kinsman, and Lord Verney; was partly involved in their ruin, 1769, and remained for the rest of his life in continuous financial difficulties; bought his estate at Beaconsfield, 1768, before the crash came; vigorously attacked the foreign and domestic policy of the tory government, 1769; issued 'Thoughts on the Present Discontents,' 23 April 1770, accusing the government of strangling public opinion; carried the day in favour of giving publicity to proceedings in parliament, 1771; agent for New York province, 1771; violently assailed by pamphleteers under the impression that he was author of the 'Letters of Junius,' 1772; voted for removal of disabilities of protestant dissenters and advocated taxing absentee Irish landlords, 1773; visited Paris, February-March 1773, and returned with a pronounced aversion to French democracy; joined by Charles James Fox in his violent attacks on North's conduct of affairs, 1774-5; M.P. for Bristol, 1774-80, on the invitation of the citizens, who afterwards took offence at his championship of Irish trade and catholic emancipation; strongly advocated peace with America, 1775-6; delivered his great speech against employing Indians in the American war, February 1778; helped Admiral Keppel in his successful defence before a court-martial, 1779; advocated economical reform in the public service and restrictions on the slave-trade, 1780; became M.P. for Malton, Yorkshire, 1781-94, through Lord Rockingham's influence; again advocated economical reform, and, by his attacks on the conduct of the American war, forced North to resign, 1781-2; kept out of the cabinet by the whigs on their coming into office, but made paymaster of the forces, March-July 1782; urged economical reform with partial success, and the conferring of self-government on Ireland, 1782; retired from the ministry with Fox, July 1782; acquiesced in the coalition government of Fox and North under the Duke of Portland, and accepted paymastership of the forces, 1783; active member of the committee which investigated the affairs of the East India Company, wrote the 'Ninth Report,' on the trade of Bengal and the system pursued by Warren Hastings, and the 'Eleventh Report,' on the system of presents, and drafted the government's East India bill, 1783; lord rector of Glasgow University, 1784 and 1785; personally unpopular in the House of Commons; continued his attack on Warren Hastings, 1785; travelled in Scotland, 1785; joined by Philip Francis in urging the impeachment of Hastings, 1786, which was accomplished, 10 May 1787; opened the case for the impeachment in Westminster Hall, February 1788; again passed over by Fox in forming a cabinet, 1788; joined Fox in upholding right of Prince of Wales to regency, 1788; supported Wilberforce in advocating abolition of the slave-trade, 1788-9; spoke in parliament against the French democracy, February 1790, and issued his 'Reflections on the French Revolution,' November 1790; estranged in consequence from Fox and Sheridan; prevailed on the new parliament to continue the impeachment of Hastings, 1790; L.L.D. Dublin, 1791; finally quarrelled with Fox and the whigs, 1791; voted against removal of disabilities from unitarians, and against parliamentary reform, advised his friends to support Pitt and the tories, pleaded for war with France, and openly joined the ministerial party, 1792; continued his quarrel with Fox and Sheridan, 1794; delivered his nine-days' speech for the impeachment of Hastings in reply to the defence, 1794; retired from parliament, July; pensioned by the ministry, 1794; encouraged the foundation of Maynooth College, 1795; present at the acquittal of Hastings, 1795; established a school for sons of French refugees at Penn, Buckinghamshire, and wrote 'Letters on a Regiole Peace,' 1796. His collected works were published, 1797-1827. [vii. 346]

BURKE, EDMUND PLUNKETT (1802-1886), judge; educated at Caen, Normandy, and Cambridge; called to bar at the Inner Temple; judge in St. Lucia, West Indies, 1832; wrote on civil law. [vii. 365]

BURKE, JOHN (1787-1848), genealogical and heraldic writer; issued 'Peerage and Baronetage,' 1826, 'Extinct Peerage,' 1831, 'Commoners,' 1838-8 (in later editions called 'Landed Gentry'), 'Extinct Baronetcies,' 1838, and 'Kilgiltage,' 1841, also works on the royal family and on heraldry. [vii. 366]

BURKE, SIR JOHN BERNARD (1814-1899), Ulster king-of-arms, son of John Burke (q. v.); educated at Caen College, Normandy; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1839; Ulster king-of-arms in Ireland, 1853; knighted, 1854; keeper of state papers in Ireland, 1855; honorary L.L.D. Dublin, 1862; C.B., 1868; appointed a governor of National Gallery of Ireland, 1874. He annually re-edited his father's works, including 'Peerage,' 1847-92, publishing also 'Vicissitudes of Families,' 1859-63, and other genealogical works. [Suppl. i. 338]

BURKE, PETER (1811-1881), legal writer; eldest son of John Burke (q. v.); educated at Caen, Normandy; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1839; serjeant-at-law, 1859; wrote on legal subjects and remarkable trials. [vii. 366]

BURKE, ROBERT O'HARA (1820-1861), Australian explorer; educated in Belgium; captain in the Austrian service; entered the Irish constabulary, 1848; inspector of police in Victoria, 1853; leader of expedition to cross Australia from south to north, 1860; reached estuary of Flinders river, 1861; starved to death at Cooper's Creek, June 1861; buried at Melbourne. [vii. 366]

BURKE, THOMAS (1710?-1776), latinised DE BURGO, church historian; native of Dublin; joined Dominicans at Rome, 1726; compiled 'Officia propria Sancturum Hieronymi,' 1751 (revised edition, 1769); began the history of the Dominicans in Ireland, 1753 (published, 1762, 'Hieronyma Dominicana,' and a supplement, 1772); bishop of Ossory, 1759; wrote theological works. [vii. 367]

BURKE, THOMAS (1740-1815), engraver, chiefly of works by Angelica Kauffmann. [vii. 368]

BURKE, THOMAS HENRY (1829-1882), under-secretary for Ireland, 1869-82; began official life at Dublin Castle, 1847; murdered in Phoenix Park. [vii. 368]

BURKE, THOMAS NICHOLAS (1830-1883), Dominican preacher and lecturer; at Rome, 1847; joined Dominicans at Perugia; studied theology at Rome; priest on the English mission, 1853; founded the convent at Tallaght, Dublin; prior of convent in Rome; lectured in the United States, 1872; published lectures and sermons. [vii. 368]

BURKE, ULICK RALPH (1845-1895), Spanish scholar; B.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1867; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1870; travelled in Spain, and subsequently studied Spanish literature and history; barrister at high court of North-West Provinces, India, 1873-8, and in Cyprus, 1885-9; registrar of quarter-sessions, 1889; published 'History of Spain,' 1895, and other works. [Suppl. i. 338]

BURKE, WILLIAM (d. 1798), supposed author of the 'Letters of Junius'; entered Westminster School, 1743, and Christ Church, Oxford, 1747; B.O.L., 1755; under-secretary of state, 1755-8; M.P. for Great Bedwin, 1766-74; stock-jobber; bankrupt, 1769; in India, 1777-1792; lived with his kinsman, Edmund Burke (q. v.), at Beaconsfield, 1793. [vii. 369]

BURKE, WILLIAM (1792-1829), murderer; navy in Scotland, 1818; lodged with William Hare in Edinburgh, 1827, and sold a dead body to the surgeons; smothered people for the purpose of selling their bodies, 1828; hanged at Edinburgh. [vii. 370]

BURKHEAD, HENRY (fl. 1645), author; published at Kilkenny, 1646, 'Cola's Fury, or Lirenda's Misery,' a tragedy on the Irish troubles. [vii. 371]

BURKITT, WILLIAM (1650-1703), divine and commentator; educated at Cambridge grammar school and at Pembroke Hall, Cambridge; M.A., 1672; rector of Milden, Suffolk; vicar of Dedham, Essex, 1692-1703; author of sermons and expository works. [vii. 371]

BURLEIGH, BARONS OF. [See BALFOUR, ROBERT, second baron, d. 1663; BALFOUR, JOHN, third baron, d. 1688; BALFOUR, ROBERT, fifth baron, d. 1767.]

BURLEY, JOHN (d. 1333), Carmelite of Stamford. [vii. 372]

BURLEY or BURLEIGH, JOHN (d. 1648), royalist officer; captain of a ship-of-war, 1642; served in Charles I's army, becoming a general of ordnance; executed for a quixotic attempt to release Charles at Newport, 1648. [vii. 372]

BURLEY, SIR SIMON (1336-1388), soldier and courtier; served at sea, 1350, and in France, 1355; attended the Black Prince in Aquitaine, 1364; envoy to Pedro of Castile, 1366-7; taken prisoner by the French, 1368; exchanged, 1370; made guardian to Prince Richard; accompanied Richard II to London, 1377; governor of Windsor Castle, 1377-88; tutor of Richard II, 1380; negotiated the king's marriage with Anne of Bohemia, and escorted her to London, 1381; K.G., 1381; constable of Dover Castle, 1384-7; served in Scotland, 1385; impeached by Richard's opponents and beheaded, 1388. [vii. 373]

BURLEY, WALTER (1275-1345 ?), Aristotelian commentator; probably a secular priest; reputed fellow of Merton College, Oxford; studied at Paris under Duns Scotus; almoner to Philippa, consort of Edward III, 1327; envoy to the pope, 1327 and 1330; possibly prebendary of Wells, 1332; reputed tutor to the Black Prince, c. 1342; possibly identical with a petitioner for the archdeaconry of Richmond, 1346. His 'De Vita et Moribus Philosophorum' was printed 1467. Several other treatises by him were issued in the fifteenth and early part of the sixteenth century, and many survive in manuscript. [vii. 374]

BURLEY, WILLIAM (fl. 1436), speaker of the House of Commons, 1436 and 1444; M.P. for Shropshire at intervals from 1417 to 1455; sheriff of Shropshire, 1426. [vii. 376]

BURLINGTON, EARLS OF. [See BOYLE, RICHARD, first EARL, 1612-1697; BOYLE, RICHARD, third EARL, 1695-1763.]

BURLOWE, HENRY (d. 1837). [See BEHNES.]

BURLY, JOHN (d. 1333). [See BURLEY.]

BURMAN, THOMAS (d. 1674), sculptor. [vii. 376]

BURN, EDWARD (1762-1837), writer against Dr. Joseph Priestley [q. v.]; educated at Trevecca College, Wales; entered St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, 1784; M.A., 1791; lecturer of St. Mary's Chapel, Birmingham, 1785-1837; rector of Smethcott, Shropshire; published sermons and tracts. [vii. 376]

BURN, JOHN (1744 ?-1802), lawyer; a Westmoreland squire; son of Richard Burn [q. v.]; issued revised editions of his father's manuals. [vii. 377]

BURN, JOHN SOUTHERDEN (1799 ?-1870), antiquary; solicitor, 1819; registrar of marriages at chapels prior to 1784, 1831; secretary to commission for inquiry into non-parochial registers, 1838-41; published 'History of . . . foreign Refugees settled in England', 1846, and other antiquarian works. [Suppl. i. 339]

BURN, RICHARD (1709-1785), legal writer; B.A. Queen's College, Oxford, 1734; vicar of Orton, Westmoreland, 1736-85; D.C.L., 1762; chancellor of Carlisle, 1765. His works include 'Justice of the Peace', 1755, 'Ecclesiastical Law', 1760, 'History of Westmoreland and Cumberland', 1771. [vii. 377]

BURN, WILLIAM (1789-1870), architect of numerous mansions in Great Britain and Ireland; in business in Edinburgh, c. 1814; removed to London, 1844. [vii. 378]

BURNABY, ANDREW (1734?-1812), traveller; at Westminster School, 1748; M.A. Queen's College, Cambridge, 1757; travelled in North America, 1769-80; chaplain at Leghorn, 1762-7, travelling in Italy and Corsica; vicar of Greenwich, 1769; archdeacon of Leicester, 1786; author of travels, sermons, and charges. [vii. 379]

BURNABY, CHARLES (?) (fl. 1700), reputed author of four comedies, printed 1700-2. It is possible that they were really written by William Burnaby of Merton College, Oxford, 1691, and the Middle Temple, 1693, translator of Petronius, 1694. [vii. 379]

BURNABY, FREDERICK GUSTAVUS (1842-1885), cavalry officer and traveller; educated at Harrow and in Germany; a facile linguist; cornet, 1859; lieutenant-colonel, 1880; commanded the 3rd household cavalry, 1881-5; travelled in Central and Southern America, c. 1862, in Spain and Morocco, 1868, in South Russia, 1870, in Spain, 1874, and in the Soudan, 1875; rode from Kazala to Khiva, 1878; rode from Soutari into Armenia, and thence to Batoum, 1876; attended Valentine Baker's operations in the Russo-Turkish war, 1877; contested Birmingham, 1880; attached himself to the Egyptian expedition, 1884; killed in action in the attempt to relieve Khartoum; student of military ballooning, and author of narratives of his travels. [vii. 380]

BURNARD, NEVILL NORTHEY (1818-1878), sculptor, chiefly of portrait-busts; native of Cornwall; carver of marble to London sculptors; exhibited at the Academy, 1855-67. [vii. 382]

BURNE or BOURN, NICOL (fl. 1581), controversialist; Calvinist; professor at St. Andrews; adopted catholicism; imprisoned at St. Andrews and Edinburgh, 1580; banished, 1581; published, at Paris, 1581, a virulent attack on Knox and Luther. [vii. 383]

BURNE, ROBERT (1756?-1825), general; ensign, 1773; served in India, 1784-98; lieutenant-colonel of the 36th foot, 1799; served in Hanover, 1805, and at Buenos Ayres, 1807; colonel, 1808; served at Vimero and Coruña, 1808; and at Flushing, 1809; major-general, 1811; invalided from Spain, 1811; held home commands, 1812-14; lieutenant-general, 1821. [vii. 383]

BURNE-JONES, SIR EDWARD COLEY (1833-1898), painter; educated at King Edward's School, Birmingham, and Exeter College, Oxford, where he made acquaintance with William Morris [q. v.] and others, who formed 'the Brotherhood'; became friend of Rossetti, and studied art; executed St. Frideswide's window in Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, 1859; came to London; associate of the 'Old Society', 1863; comparatively little known until, in 1877, he exhibited 'Chant d'Amour', 'Days of Creation', and 'Beguiling of Merlin' at the Grosvenor Gallery; exhibited also at the New Gallery; elected A.R.A., 1885; exhibited at Royal Academy 'The Depths of the Sea' (1886); exhibited frequently at Paris from 1878; honorary D.C.L. Oxford, 1881; honorary fellow, Exeter College, 1882; created baronet, 1894. He did much decorative work. Among the best-known of his pictures are the 'Pygmalion' series (1879), the 'Golden Stairs' (1880), 'King Cophetua' (1884), and the 'Garden of Pan' (1887). [Suppl. i. 340]

BURNELL, ARTHUR COKE (1840-1882), an authority on Sanscrit and the languages of Southern India; of King's College, London; entered the Indian Civil Service, 1857; served in Madras, 1860-8; tour through Arabia, Egypt, Nubia, 1868; magistrate at Mangalore and Tanjore, 1869-80; published treatises on Hindu law, translations from the Sanscrit, and linguistic and historical tracts; collector of Sanscrit manuscripts now at the India Office; hon. Ph.D. Strasburg. [vii. 384]

BURNELL, EDWARD (fl. 1642), professor of Greek at Rostock. [vii. 386]

BURNELL, HENRY (fl. 1641), published at Dublin, 1641, 'Landgartha,' a burlesque tragedy, performed there in 1639. [vii. 386]

BURNELL, ROBERT (d. 1292), bishop of Bath and Wells; accompanied Prince Edward to France, 1280, and in Wales, 1283; began to acquire estates in Shropshire 1263; employed on a mission in South Wales, 1265; licensed to impark his land, 1266, and to have a weekly market and two fairs at Acton Burnell, 1269; befriended by Prince Edward, who tried to obtain Canterbury for him, 1270; trusted minister of Edward I, and in constant attendance on him at home and abroad; co-regent during Edward's absence on crusade, 1272; lord chancellor, 1274 till death; bishop of Bath and Wells, 1275; one of Prince Llewelyn's judges, 1276; employed on a mission in France and Gascony, 1278; postulated for archbishop of Canterbury at the request of Edward I, 1278, and elected to see of Winchester, 1280, but set aside by the pope; settled the court of chancery in London, 1280, instead of following the court; employed on the Welsh border, 1282-3; framed the statute of Rhuddlan, 1282; parliament met in his hall at Acton, 1283; with Edward I in France, 1286-9; conducted an inquiry into the conduct of the judges during the king's absence, 1290; lived a covetous and ambitious life, owning estates in nineteen counties (eighty-two manors); built the episcopal hall at Wells; procured franchises and liberties for Wells Cathedral; denied the rights of the crown against Peckham, the Franciscan primate. [vii. 386]

BURNES, SIR ALEXANDER (1806-1841), Indian political officer; officer in the Bombay native infantry, 1821; studied native languages; assistant resident in Cutch, 1829; visited Sind and the Punjab, 1830; visited Afghanistan, Bokhara, the Turkoman country, Persia, 1832; in England, 1833-5; envoy to Dost Mahomed, 1836; advised alliance with him; knighted, 1839; political officer with the army at Cabul, 1839-41; slain in the massacre. [vii. 389]

BURNES, JAMES (1801-1862), physician in India; studied medicine in Edinburgh and London; in the medical service at Bombay, 1821; surgeon at Cutch; accompanied the Sind expedition, 1825; published his 'Narrative', 1830; in England, 1834-6; LL.D. Glasgow, 1834; garrison-surgeon, 1837, and afterwards physician-general at Bombay; returned to England, 1849. [vii. 391]

BURNESTON or BOBASTON, SIMON (fl. 1338), preacher and theological writer; reputed D.D. Cambridge; member of the Dominican convent, Oxford; provincial. [vii. 391]

BURNET, ALEXANDER (1614-1684), archbishop in Scotland; a relative of the Earls of Traquair and Teviot; chaplain to the Earl of Traquair; refugee in England, c. 1639; took Anglican orders; benefited in Kent; ejected 1660; crossed the Channel, and held correspondence for Charles II; chaplain to Dunkirk garrison, c. 1660; bishop of Aberdeen, 1663; archbishop of Glasgow, 1664; a strong high churchman, opposed to terms with the presbyterians, provoking the covenanters rising by his severity, 1666; strongly opposed to Lauderdale's conciliatory policy, 1669; compelled to resign his see, 1669, but restored, 1671; archbishop of St. Andrews, 1679-84. [vii. 392]

BURNET, ELIZABETH (1661-1709), authoress of 'A Method of Devotion', 1709; née Blake; married, 1678, Robert Berkeley (d. 1693) of Spetchley, Worcestershire; resided at the Hague, 1684-9; married (third wife) Gilbert Burnet (1643-1715) [q. v.], 1699. [vii. 393]

BURNET, GILBERT (1643-1715), bishop of Salisbury; of an Aberdeenshire family; son of a well-to-do Edinburgh lawyer, three times exiled for refusing the covenant; his mother a strict presbyterian; educated at Marischal College, Aberdeen; M.A.; studied law; afterwards studied divinity and history; probationer of the Scottish church, 1661; practised extemporary preaching; thought ill of the oppressive policy of the Scottish bishops, 1663; visited Cambridge, Oxford, and London, and refused the parish of Saltoun, Haddingtonshire, 1663; studied Hebrew at Amsterdam; visited Paris and the court at London, 1664; F.R.S., 1664; minister of Saltoun, 1665-9; wrote against the Scottish bishops and in favour of Lauderdale's milder policy, 1666; clerk of Haddington presbytery, 1667; sounded as to a proposal to divorce Charles II's queen for barrenness; in Lauderdale's confidence, 1667; employed by Archbishop Leighton to negotiate with the presbyterians, 1669; employed by the Duchess of Hamilton to obtain the king's sanction for placing presbyterian ministers in certain parishes; professor of divinity at Glasgow, 1669; advised the privy council to send a commission into the west to inquire into the growing discontent; employed by Leighton to urge the moderate presbyterians to accept the offers of the court, 1670, and by the Duchess of Hamilton to arrange her family papers (published 'Memoirs of the Dukes of Hamilton,' 1676); persuaded the Duke of Hamilton to accept the court measures, 1671; summoned to London to advise Lauderdale, and offered the bishopric of Edinburgh, 1671; married his first wife (see BURNET, MARGARET), 1671; joined the Duke of Hamilton in reproaching Lauderdale's new policy of violence, 1672; wrote in favour of obedience to episcopacy, and against popery, 1673; visited London; as king's chaplain remonstrated with Charles II on his profligacy, 1673; incurred the hatred of Lauderdale, 1673; went to London, June 1674; dismissed by the king from his chaplaincy; preached in London churches; chaplain of the Rolls Chapel and lecturer of St. Clement's, 1675-84; witness against Lauderdale before the House of Commons, 1675; offered the see of Chichester, 1678; deprecated persecution of Roman Catholics during the popish plot, 1678-80, incurring the dislike both of the court and of the extreme anti-popery party; published his 'History of the Reformation in England,' vol. I. 1679 (vol. II. 1681, vol. III. 1714); remonstrated with Charles II on his evil life, 1680; attended the deathbed of the Earl of Rochester, 1680; intimate with William, lord Russell, 1681; asked, but was refused, the mastership of the Temple; obtained places in England for dispossessed Scottish clergy, 1682; wrote against popery; attended Lord Russell on the scaffold; withdrew to Paris, 1683; returned to England; ejected from his chaplaincy at the Rolls and his lectureship by Charles II, 1684; visited Paris, Rome, Geneva, Strasbourg, Frankfurt, Heidelberg, and Utrecht, 1685-6 (publishing a narrative of his tour, 1687); visited the Hague on invitation of the Prince of Orange, 1686; outlived by James II, 1687; married his second wife, Mary Scott (d. 1698), 1687; obtained from Mary, consort of the Prince of Orange, a promise to place power in William's hands; advised Sophia of Hanover of the intended invasion of England; drafted William's 'declaration'; accompanied William to Torbay and London, 1688; bishop of Salisbury, 1689; advocated toleration in the House of Lords; preached the coronation sermon; carried the bill to attain Sir John Fenwick, 1697; appointed to attend Peter the Great, 1698; married his third wife (see BURNET, ELIZABETH); published 'Exposition of the xxxix Articles,' 1699 (censured by the lower house of convocation, 1701); had charge of the succession bill, 1701; attended William on his deathbed, 1702; opposed the occasional conformity bill, 1703; obtained first-fruits and tenths for church purposes ('Queen Anne's Bounty'), 1704; spoke against Sacheverell, 1710; remonstrated with Anne for countenancing the Pretender, James Edward; lived latterly in Clerkenwell; wrote a 'History of his own Times' (published, 1723-34), sermons, controversial treatises, and political pamphlets. [vii. 394]

BURNET, GILBERT (1690-1726), pamphleteer; son of Gilbert Burnet (1643-1715) [q. v.]; educated at Leyden and Merton College, Oxford; B.A., 1706; chaplain to George I, 1718; rector of East Barnet, 1719-26. [vii. 404]

BURNET, JAMES M. (1788-1816), landscape-painter; came to London, 1810; exhibited at the Academy, 1812-1814. [vii. 406]

BURNET, JOHN (1784-1868), painter and engraver; trained in Edinburgh; came to London, 1806; engraved pictures by David Wilkie; exhibited at the Academy, 1808-23, and at the British Institution; pensioned, 1860; wrote treatises on drawing and painting. [vii. 406]

BURNET, MARGARET (1630?-1686?), eldest daughter of John Kennedy, sixth earl of Cassilis; a determined presbyterian; long in the confidence of Lauderdale; married Bishop Gilbert Burnet (1643-1715) [q. v.], 1671. [vii. 407]

BURNET, SIR THOMAS (1632?-1715?), physician; studied medicine at Montpellier; M.D., 1659; practised in Edinburgh; published 'Thesaurus Medicinæ practice,' 1679; original fellow of the Edinburgh College of Physicians, 1681; knighted before 1691; published medical works. [vii. 408]

BURNET, THOMAS (1635?-1715), master of the Charterhouse, 1686-1715; educated at Northallerton school and Cambridge; fellow of Christ's College, 1657; M.A., 1658; withstood James II's attempt to appoint a Catholic pensioner of the Charterhouse, 1687; chaplain and clerk of the closet to William III, 1689-92; published works on theology and cosmogony, which excited much contemporary criticism. [vii. 408]

BURNET, THOMAS (d. 1750), divine; rector of West Kingston, Wiltshire, 1706-50; D.D. New College, Oxford, 1720; wrote works of doctrinal theology. [vii. 410]

BURNET, SIR THOMAS (1694-1755), judge; youngest son of Gilbert Burnet (1643-1715) [q. v.]; at Leyden, 1706-7; travelled in Germany, Switzerland, and Italy; entered the Middle Temple, 1709; barrister, 1715; consul at Lisbon, 1719; serjeant-at-law, 1736; justice of the common pleas, 1741; knighted, 1746; published pamphlets, chiefly political. [vii. 410]

BURNET, WILLIAM (d. 1729), colonial governor; son of Gilbert Burnet (1643-1715) [q. v.]; educated at Cambridge and Leyden; governor of New York and of Massachusetts, 1728. [vii. 404]

BURNETT, GEORGE (1776?-1811), compiler of 'Specimens of English Prose,' 1807; entered Balliol College, Oxford, and subsequently the dissenting college at

Manchester; pastor at Yarmouth; studied medicine at Edinburgh; surgeon in a militia regiment; tutor in Poland, of which country he printed a 'View,' 1807. [vii. 411]

BURNETT, GEORGE (1822-1890), historian and heraldic author; called to Scottish bar, 1846; Lyon depute, 1864; Lyon king-of-arms, 1866; LL.D. Edinburgh, 1884; chief work, an edition of 'Exchequer Rolls, 1264-1607' (1881-90). [Suppl. i. 344]

BURNETT, GILBERT THOMAS (1800-1835), professor of botany at King's College, London, 1831-5; practised medicine in London; published botanical textbooks. [vii. 412]

BURNETT, JAMES, LORD MONBODDO (1714-1799), Scottish judge; educated at Aberdeen, Edinburgh, and Gröningen; advocate, 1737; sheriff of Kincardine, 1764; lord of session, taking his title from his estate, 1767; visited at Monboddo by Samuel Johnson, 1773; published 'Origin . . . of Language,' 1773-92, 'Antient Metaphysics,' 1779-99, and law reports. [vii. 412]

BURNETT, JOHN (1729-1784), Aberdeen merchant; founder of the Burnett prize. [vii. 414]

BURNETT, JOHN (1764?-1810), advocate, 1785; sheriff of Haddington, 1803; judge-admiral of Scotland, 1810; wrote 'Criminal Law of Scotland.' [vii. 414]

BURNETT, SIR WILLIAM (1779-1861), apprentice to a Montrose surgeon; naval surgeon at St. Vincent, the Nile, Trafalgar; physician to the Mediterranean fleet, 1810-13, and at Chatham, 1814; practised at Olchester, 1816?-22; physician-general of the navy, 1824?-41; knighted, 1831; patented a disinfecting fluid; published medical tracts. [vii. 414]

BURNEY, CHARLES (1726-1814), musician and author; educated at Chester; taught music by his brother at Shrewsbury, 1741, and by Thomas Augustus Arne in London, 1744-7; published his first compositions, 1745-7; organist and conductor of concerts in London, 1749; organist at Lynn Regis, 1751-60; Mus. Doc. Oxford, 1769; travelled in France, Switzerland, Italy, 1770 (publishing an account of his tour, 1771); travelled in Belgium, Holland, Germany, Austria, 1772, and published a narrative of his tour, 1773; organist at Chelsea hospital, 1783-1814; pensioned, 1806; author of musical compositions, biographies of musicians, and a 'History of Music,' 1776-98. [vii. 415]

BURNEY, CHARLES (1757-1817), classical scholar; son of Charles Burney (1726-1814) [q. v.]; educated at Charterhouse, Caius College, Cambridge, and Aberdeen; M.A., 1781; D.D. Lambeth, 1812; kept private school at Hammersmith, 1786-93, and at Greenwich, 1793-1813; rector of Cliffe, Kent, and of St. Paul's, Deptford; prebendary of Lincoln, 1817; published tracts and papers, chiefly of Greek lexicography and tragic metres. His library was bought for the British Museum. [vii. 418]

BURNEY, FRANCES (1752-1840). [See ARBLAY, MADAME D'.]

BURNEY, JAMES (1750-1821), rear-admiral R.N.; son of Charles Burney (1726-1814) [q. v.]; entered the navy, 1764; sailed with Captain Cook on his second (1773-4) and third voyages (1778-80); captain, 1782; in the action off Cuddalore, 1783; retired; wrote 'Discoveries in the Pacific,' 1803-17; 'North-eastern Voyages of Discovery,' 1819, and some pamphlets. [vii. 419]

BURNEY, SARAH HARRIET (1770?-1844), novelist; published 'Clarentine,' 1796, and other novels later; youngest daughter of Charles Burney (1726-1814) [q. v.]; resided in Florence, 1816-39. [vii. 419]

BURNEYEAT, JOHN (1631-1690), quaker; a Cumberland farmer; joined the quakers, 1658; began to interrupt church services and was imprisoned, 1657; in Scotland, 1658; in Ireland, 1659; again imprisoned at Carlisle, 1660; went on circuit to Barbados, Virginia, New England, 1664-7, and travelled over the greater part of England, Wales, and Ireland, 1668-70; imprisoned in London, 1670; went to America, 1670; returned to England, 1673; went finally to Ireland, c. 1676; imprisoned at Dublin, 1683; afterwards lived unmolested; published pamphlets. [vii. 420]

BURNHAM, RICHARD (1711-1752), clergyman, possibly a congregationalist; compiler of 'Pious Memorials,' published 1753. [vii. 421]

BURNHAM, RICHARD (1749?-1810), baptist and hymn-writer; a Wesleyan at High Wycombe; baptist pastor at Staines; preacher in London, 1780 till death. [vii. 422]

BURNS, ALLAN (1781-1813), lecturer on surgery and anatomy at Glasgow; studied medicine in Glasgow, 1795; visited Russia, 1804; published anatomical treatises. [vii. 422]

BURNS, SIR GEORGE, first baronet (1795-1890), shipowner; brother of John Burns [q. v.]; entered partnership with his brother James as general merchant at Glasgow, c. 1818; founded, 1839, with Samuel Cunard [q. v.], Robert Napier (1791-1876) [q. v.], and others Cunard Company, which obtained admiralty contract for carrying North American mails; created baronet, 1889. [Suppl. i. 344]

BURNS, ISLAY (1817-1872), theologian; educated at Aberdeen and Glasgow; D.D. Aberdeen, 1863; minister of Free St. Peter's, Dundee, 1843-64; professor in the Free Church College, Glasgow, 1864-72; wrote memoirs and works on church history. [vii. 422]

BURNS, JABEZ (1805-1876), temperance lecturer; a methodist; in business in Yorkshire; came to London, 1826; joined the general baptists; published his first book, 1828; pastor in Edinburgh, 1829; at Perth, 1830-5; advocate of total abstinence; pastor in Marylebone, 1835; D.D. Middletown, 1846; baptist delegate to America, 1847; wrote sermons, devotional books, and travels. [vii. 423]

BURNS, JAMES (17th cent.), merchant; baillie of Glasgow. His 'Memoirs of the Civil War . . . 1614 to 1661' are preserved in the mutilated transcript of George Crawford. [vii. 424]

BURNS, JAMES (1789-1871), shipowner; employed steam-power, 1824; a founder of the Cunard Company, 1839. [vii. 424]

BURNS, JAMES DRUMMOND (1823-1864), divine; educated at Heriot's Hospital, the University, 1837, and the Free Church College, Edinburgh, 1843; Free church minister at Dumblane, 1846, at Funchal, Madeira, 1847-1853, and at Hampstead, 1855-64; author of hymns and sermons. [vii. 424]

BURNS, JOHN (1774-1850), author of 'Principles of Midwifery,' 1809; studied medicine at Glasgow; surgeon's clerk in Glasgow Infirmary, 1792; M.D.; lectured on anatomy, and afterwards on midwifery; professor of surgery in Glasgow University, 1816; drowned at sea; author of medical works. [vii. 425]

BURNS, ROBERT (1759-1796), poet; son of a cottar (d. 1784); born at Alloway; educated by his father; worked as a farm-labourer, 1772; read the 'Spectator,' Pope's 'Homer,' Allan Ramsay, and pedlar's slip-songs; composed his first verses, 1776; learnt surveying, 1777, and associated with tipling smugglers at Kirkoswald; wrote 'Death of Poor Maillie,' 'John Barleycorn,' and occasional poems; read Thomson, Shenstone, Sterne, and Ossian; member of convivial, debating, and masonic clubs at Tarbolton, 1780-1; courted Ellison Begbie ('Mary Morrison' of the song), who rejected him; worked in a flax-dresser's shop at Irvine, June-December 1781; began a common-place book, 1783; farmed 118 acres in partnership with his brother Gilbert at Mossbeg, 1784-8; wrote some of his best work—'Cottar's Saturday Night,' 'The Two Dogs,' 'Halloween,' 'The Jolly Beggars,' the addresses 'To a Mouse' and 'To a Mountain Daisy'—and some of his sharpest satires—'Death and Dr. Hornbook' (against a village grocer-druggist) and 'Holy Willie's Prayer' (against a Mauchline elder)—in 1785 and 1786; conceived the idea of sending to a magazine his 'Epistle to Davie' (Sillar), 1786; discovered that 'The Two Herds,' a satire against two Calvinists, had a lively circulation in manuscript; gave Jean Armour, daughter of a Mauchline mason, a written declaration of marriage, which her father destroyed, April 1786, preferring his daughter's loss of reputation to the proposed match; obtained the post of overseer on a Jamaica plantation, 1786, and, to provide passage-money, arranged with John Wilson, printer, Kilmarnock, for an edition of his poems; trusted with Mary Campbell, a sailor's daughter from Argyllshire, to go with him as his wife, 1786; composed after her death,

In memory of her, 'Will ye go to the Indies, my Mary?' 'To Mary in Heaven' (October 1789), and 'Highland Mary' (November 1792); his poems favourably mentioned in Edinburgh reviews and praised personally to Burns; gained access to the literary circles by his reputation as 'a heaven-taught ploughman,' and by his convivial powers to the masonic and drinking clubs of the capital; the second (1787) edition of his poems undertaken by William Creech, who about 1788 completed his payment of 500*l.*, Burns parting with the copyright; met James Johnson, projector of the 'Scots Musical Museum,' to the six volumes (1787-1803) of which he contributed songs; erected a memorial-stone to the poet Fergusson, February 1787; travelled through the border counties and Argyllshire, 1787; spent July at Mossielg, renewing his relations with Jean Armour; returned to Edinburgh in August 1787; travelled through the central highlands and the eastern counties in September, and Stirling, Clackmannan, and Kinross in October; began in Edinburgh a tender correspondence with Margaret Chalmers ('Peggy'), and also with Agnes McLehose ('Clarinda'), whose husband was abroad; decided to marry Jean Armour, an intention effected in August 1788; gave up his share in the farm at Mossielg, lending his brother Gilbert 180*l.* to carry it on, and engaged Ellisland, a farm six miles from Dumfries, March 1788; lived at Ellisland, June 1788 to December 1791, his wife Jean (to whom he addressed 'O' at the air's the wind can blow') living for the time at Mauchline; turned his holding into a dairy-farm, to be managed by his wife, while he took an excise-man's place, about August 1789, at a salary of 40*l.*; wrote 'Auld Lang Syne' and 'Tam o' Shanter,' c. 1789; gave up Ellisland and settled in Dumfries, December 1791, as excise-man on a salary of 70*l.*; suspected by the government on account of the Jacobite sentiment of his songs and his freeman's sympathy with the French democracy, coming within an ace of dismissal, December 1792; gladly accepted an invitation by George Thomson, then projecting a new collection of Scottish songs, to supply words for old melodies, 1792, 'Scots wha hae' (1793) being written for this purpose; his reputation prejudiced and health shattered by his association with the hard-drinking gentry of the district; fell asleep by the roadside after a carouse, a mischance followed by rheumatic fever; died at Dumfries. A subscription and a memorial edition of his works (1800), edited by James Currie, provided for the immediate wants of his family. His children shared their father's independent spirit, his wife resigning a pension of 50*l.* as soon as they were able to support her (1818). [vii. 426]

BURNS, ROBERT (1789-1869), theologian; educated at Edinburgh; minister at Paisley, 1811; joined the Free church, 1843; delegate to America, 1844; minister of Knox's church, Toronto, 1845-56; professor in Knox's (presbyterian) College, Toronto, 1856 till death: D.D.; wrote tracts on points of church history. [vii. 438]

BURNS, WILLIAM CHALMERS (1815-1868), missionary; educated at Aberdeen; licentiate of the church of Scotland, 1839; revivalist preacher in Scotland, north of England, and Canada; missionary in China, 1846 till death; translated the 'Pilgrim's Progress' into Chinese. [vii. 439]

BURNSIDE, ROBERT (1759-1826), baptist; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and Aberdeen University; preacher and pastor in London, 1780-1826; teacher of languages; wrote religious tracts. [vii. 439]

BURRANT, ROBERT (A. 1553), editor of Sir David Lindsay's 'Tragical Death of David Beaton'; translated 'Preceptes of Cato', 1553. [vii. 439]

BURRARD, SIR HARRY (1756-1813), general; entered the army, 1772; M.P. for Lymington, 1780; served in America, 1778-9, 1781-2, in Flanders, 1793-5, and at Copenhagen, 1807; lieutenant-general, 1805; created baronet, 1807; sent to take command in Portugal, 1808; allowed Arthur Wellesley, whom he had been selected to supersede, to command against the French at Vimiera (21 Aug.), but forbade pursuit after their rout; acquitted by court-martial; commanded the guards brigade in London, 1810. [vii. 440]

BURREL or BUREL, JOHN (A. 1590), poet; author of a description of James VI's queen's entry into Edinburgh, 1590; supposed to be the same with John Burrel, a goldsmith of Edinburgh, whose name occurs in a title-deed of 1638. [vii. 440]

BURRELL, LITELLUS (1753-1827), major-general; served in the Bengal army, 1770-1821, rising from the rank of volunteer-private to major-general; returned to England, 1821. [vii. 441]

BURRELL, SOPHIA, LADY (1750?-1802), dramatist; published poems and tragedies, 1773-1800; née Raymond; married (1) Sir William Burrell [q. v.], 1773; (2) the Rev. William Clay, 1797. [vii. 442]

BURRELL, SIR WILLIAM (1732-1796), antiquary; educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; LL.D., 1760; advocate at Doctors' Commons, 1760; practised in the admiralty court; chancellor of Worcester, 1764, and of Rochester; M.P. for Haslemere, 1768; married, 1773 [see BURRELL, SOPHIA, LADY]; baronet by reversion, 1789; collected materials for a history of Sussex; lived at Deepdene, Sussex, 1787-96; wrote law reports. [vii. 442]

BURROUGH, CHRISTOPHER. [See BOROUGH.]

BURROUGH, EDWARD (1634-1663), quaker; became a presbyterian; joined the quakers, 1652; travelling minister in Scotland and north of England; wrote tracts while in prison, 1653; preached in London and Bristol, 1654; expelled from Ireland, 1656; imprisoned for refusing oath of abjuration, 1656; vindicated the quakers against John Bunyan, 1657; pleaded for toleration with Oliver Cromwell, 1657, and Richard Cromwell, 1658; at Dunkirk, 1659; begged Charles II. to protect the persecuted quakers in New England, 1660; visited Bristol, 1662; diet in Newgate prison; published pamphlets. [vii. 443]

BURROUGH, SIR JAMES (1691-1764), amateur architect; educated at Bury St. Edmunds and Oslus College, Cambridge; B.A., 1711; fellow, 1738; master, 1754-61; esquire bedell, 1737; knighted, 1754; consulted or employed on most Cambridge buildings of his day; an advocate of the classical style in architecture. [vii. 444]

BURROUGH, SIR JAMES (1750-1839), judge; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1773; recorder of Portsmouth; knighted, 1816; justice of the common pleas, 1816-29. [vii. 445]

BURROUGH, STEPHEN (1525-1584). [See BOROUGH.]

BURROUGH, WILLIAM (1536-1599). [See BOROUGH.]

BURROUGHS or BURROUGHS, JEREMIAH (1599-1646), congregational divine; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1624; puritan rector of Tivetshall, Norfolk, 1631-6; minister at Rotterdam, 1637-41; preacher at Stepney and Cripplegate, 1641 till death; member of Westminster Assembly, 1643; presented the congregationalist case to parliament, 1644; wrote devotional and controversial treatises. [vii. 445]

BURROUGHS, SIR JOHN (A. 1643). [See BOROUGH.]

BURROUGHS, JOSEPH (1685-1761), baptist minister; educated at Leyden; preacher and pastor in London, 1714-61; published sermons. [vii. 447]

BURROW, EDWARD JOHN (1785-1861), miscellaneous writer; M.A. Magdalene College, Cambridge, 1808; D.D. Trinity College, Oxford, 1820; incumbent of Bampton, Yorkshire, 1810-16, and of Hampstead chapel-of-ease, 1816-23; civil chaplain at Gibraltar, 1835; archdeacon of Gibraltar, 1842; resided latterly in Devonshire; published treatises on shells, art (including the 'Elgin Marbles', 1817 and 1837), and theology. [vii. 447]

BURROW, SIR JAMES (1701-1782), editor of law reports, 1766-80; master of the crown office; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1725; knighted, 1773. [vii. 448]

BURROW, RUBEN (1747-1792), mathematician; a small farmer's son; clerk and, subsequently, usher in London; kept school at Portsmouth; assistant at Greenwich Observatory, 1770; opened a school in Greenwich; mathematical teacher at the Tower, 1775?; edited Carnan's 'Ladies' . . . Almanack', 1778-82; employed in teaching and survey work in Bengal, 1782-92; published 'A Restitution of . . . Apollonius Pergæus on Inclinations', 1779. [vii. 448]

BURROWES, JOHN FRECKLETON (1787-1852), composer; organist of St. James's, Piccadilly; published text-books on music. [vii. 449]

BURROWES, PETER (1763-1841), Irish politician; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; barrister of the Middle Temple, 1786; M.P. for Enniscorthy in the Irish parliament; opposed the union; counsel for Robert Emmet, 1803; judge of insolvent debtors' court, 1821. [vii. 450]

BURROWS, SIR GEORGE, first baronet (1801-1887), physician; studied at St. Bartholomew's Hospital; B.A. Caius College, Cambridge, 1826; M.D., 1831; D.O.L., 1873; junior fellow and mathematical lecturer, 1826-35; studied medicine on continent; lecturer on medical jurisprudence at St. Bartholomew's, 1834; lecturer on medicine, 1841; physician, 1841-63; F.R.C.P., 1832, and president, 1871-1875; F.R.S., 1846; LL.D. Cambridge, 1881; physician in ordinary to Queen Victoria, 1873; created baronet, 1874; honorary fellow of Caius College, 1880; published medical writings. [Suppl. i. 345]

BURROWS, GEORGE MAN (1771-1846), physician; studied medicine and practised in London; kept a private asylum after 1816; M.D. St. Andrews, 1824; agitated for improving medical education; wrote on insanity. [vii. 450]

BURROWS, SIR JOHN OORDY (1813-1876), surgeon; apprenticed in Suffolk; studied in London; practised in Brighton, 1837; knighted, 1873; promoted public improvements in Brighton. [vii. 461]

BURSCOUGH, ROBERT (1651-1709), divine; M.A. Queen's College, Oxford, 1682; prebendary of Exeter, 1701; archdeacon of Barnstaple, 1703; author of works of controversial divinity. [vii. 451]

BURT, ALBIN R. (d. 1842), engraver and portrait-painter; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1830. [vii. 452]

BURT, EDWARD (d. 1756), author of 'Letters from a Gentleman in the North of Scotland' (printed, 1754); employed by General Wade in Scotland, 1724-8. [vii. 452]

BURT, WILLIAM (1778-1826), miscellaneous writer; educated at Exeter; solicitor's apprentice at Bridgwater; solicitor and journalist at Plymouth; wrote on various topics, including banking and politics. [vii. 452]

BURTHOGGE, RICHARD (1638?-1694?), theologian; educated at Exeter grammar school; B.A. Oxford, 1658; M.D. Leyden, 1682; practised medicine at Bowden; published philosophical and theological treatises, in one of which he anticipated Hamilton's doctrine of the 'relativity of knowledge.' [vii. 453]

BURTON, first BARON (d. 1743). [See PAGET, HENRY.]

BURTON, CASSIBELAN (1609-1689), translator; only son of William Burton (1676-1645) [q. v.]; translated Martial (not published); gave his father's collections to Walter Chetwynd [q. v.] [viii. 1]

BURTON, CATHARINE (1668-1714), Carmelite nun at Antwerp, 1694. [viii. 1]

BURTON, CHARLES (1793-1866), theologian; educated at Glasgow and St. John's College, Cambridge; LL.B., 1822; D.O.L. Magdalen College, Oxford, 1829; originally Wesleyan minister; rector of All Saints', Manchester (built by himself), 1820; published hymns, poems, sermons, and controversial tracts. [viii. 1]

BURTON, CHARLES EDWARD (1846-1882), astronomer; B.A. Dublin; assistant in Lord Rosse's observatory, 1868; observed the eclipse in Sicily, 1870, the transit of Venus at Rodriguez, 1874, and the opposition of Mars, near Dublin, 1879; wrote astronomical papers. [viii. 2]

BURTON, DECIMUS (1800-1881), architect; designed Horner's Colosseum, 1823; laid out Hyde Park, 1825; architect of a building estate at Tunbridge Wells, 1828-1848; designed many country houses; travelled in Italy, Greece, and North America. [viii. 2]

BURTON, EDWARD (1584?-1624?). [See CATCHER, EDWARD.]

BURTON, EDWARD (1794-1836), theologian; educated at Westminster; student of Christ Church, Oxford, 1813; M.A., 1818; travelled; Bampton lecturer, 1828; regius professor of divinity, Oxford, 1828-36; D.D., 1829; wrote classical and theological works. [viii. 4]

BURTON, SIR FREDERIC WILLIAM (1816-1900), painter in water-colours, and director of National Portrait Gallery; member of Royal Hibernian Academy, 1839; practised with success as portrait-painter in Dublin; lived in Munich, 1861-8, and studied German masters; member of 'Old' (now Royal) Water-Colour Society, 1866; F.S.A., 1863; director of National Gallery, London, 1874-1894; LL.D. Trinity College, Dublin, 1896. A portrait by him of 'George Eliot' is in the National Portrait Gallery. Among his best pictures are 'Peasantry of Franconia waiting for Confession,' and 'The Meeting on the Turret Stairs.' [Suppl. i. 346]

BURTON, GEORGE (1717-1791), chronologer; published treatises on biblical chronology, 1768-87; M.A. Cambridge, 1740; rector of Elveden, 1740, and of Heringwell, Suffolk, 1761. [viii. 4]

BURTON, HENRY (1578-1648), independent; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1602; tutor to Sir Robert Carey's sons; clerk of the closet to Prince Henry, and to Prince Charles, 1612-25; offended Charles I by accusing Laud of popery, April 1625; rector of St. Matthew's, Friday Street, 1625; prosecuted for attacks on the bishops, 1627; imprisoned, 1629; tried in the Star-chamber for 'seditious' preaching, and sentenced to deprivation, degradation, fine, pillory, loss of ears, and perpetual imprisonment, 1636; his removal to Lancaster Castle witnessed by sympathetic crowds, 1636; removed to Castle Cornet, Guernsey, 1636; freed by parliament, November 1640; made a triumphal progress from Dartmouth to London; his sentence reversed, 1641; ministered to an independent congregation in St. Matthew's, Friday Street, 1642; Tuesday lecturer at St. Mary's, Aldermanbury, till 1645; wrote polemical tracts. [viii. 5]

BURTON, HEZEKIAH (d. 1681), divine; fellow of Magdalen College, Cambridge, 1661; B.D., 1661; D.D., 1669; prebendary of Norwich, 1667; rector of St. George's, Southwark, 1668, and of Barnes, Surrey, 1680; his sermons published posthumously. [viii. 7]

BURTON, ISABEL, LADY (1831-1896), wife of Sir Richard Francis Burton [q. v.], whom she married, 1861; daughter of Henry Raymond Arundell; shared, as far as possible, her husband's life in travel and literature, and after his death prepared his biography and a memorial edition of his works; published 'Inner Life of Syria' (1875) and 'Arabia, Egypt, and India', 1879. [Suppl. i. 348]

BURTON, JAMES (1768-1862). [See HALIBURTON, JAMES.]

BURTON, JAMES DANIEL (1784-1817), methodist; itinerant preacher, 1805, chiefly in Lancashire; published a devotional tract. [viii. 8]

BURTON, JOHN (1696-1771), classical scholar; scholar of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1713, tutor, 1717, fellow, 1721; M.A., 1721; D.D., 1752; fellow of Eton, 1733; vicar of Mapledurham, Oxfordshire, 1734-66; rector of Worplesdon, Surrey, 1766-71; wrote tracts, sermons, Latin verses, and Greek text-books. [viii. 8]

BURTON, JOHN (1710-1771), antiquary; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and St. John's College, Cambridge; M.B., 1733; studied medicine at Leyden; M.D. Rheims; practised medicine in York; wrote on midwifery and on the antiquities of Yorkshire. [viii. 10]

BURTON, JOHN HILL (1809-1881), Scottish historian; educated at Aberdeen; articled to a solicitor; read for the bar in Edinburgh; advocate, but had little practice; wrote much for Edinburgh booksellers, reviews, and newspapers; made his mark by a life of David Hume, 1846; secretary to the prison board, 1864-61; published 'History of Scotland', 1853, 'The Bookhunter', 1860, 'The Scot Abroad', 1864, and many other treatises and editions, chiefly historical. [viii. 10]

BURTON, SIR RICHARD FRANCOIS (1821-1890), explorer and scholar; taken abroad at an early age by his parents; matriculated at Trinity College, Oxford, 1840, but did not graduate; cadet in Indian army, 1842; ensign 18th regiment Bombay native infantry, 1842; captain; studied oriental languages; assistant in Sind survey; lived a wandering life among natives and gained intimate knowledge of Muhammadan manners and customs; returned to England, 1849; published three philological works relating to Asiatic languages, 1849, and other volumes on India, 1851-3; made pilgrimage to Mecca, adopting various disguises and assuming name of Al-Haj (the pilgrim) Abdullah, 1853, and published 'Personal Narrative', 1855; explored Somaliland, 1854; served in Crimea, 1855; went on expedition with Speke, as second in command, to discover sources of Nile, 1856-9; reached Lake Tanganyika, 1858 (Speke, on the return journey, left the party and alone discovered Victoria Nyanza); travelled in North America, 1860; married Isabel Arundell [see BURTON, ISABEL, LADY], 1861; British consul at Fernando Po, 1861-5, and at Santos, 1865-9, during both of which periods he made numerous journeys of discovery; consul at Damascus, 1869-71; consul at Trieste (1872), whence he made many tours into neighbouring unexplored territories; went to the Gold Coast for gold in company with Captain Verney Lovett Cameron [q. v.], 1881-2; nominated K.O.M.G., 1885; in his later years devoted himself to literature, publishing translations of Camoens, 1880 and 1884, 'Book of the Sword,' 1884, and complete translation of 'The Arabian Nights,' 1885-8. His translations of the 'Pentamerone' of Basile and of 'Catullus' appeared posthumously. [Suppl. I. 349]

BURTON, ROBERT (1577-1640), author of the 'Anatomy of Melancholy,' 1621; called 'Democritus Junior'; educated at Nuneaton and Sutton Coldfield schools; entered Brasenose College, Oxford, 1593; student of Christ Church, 1599; B.D., 1614; vicar of St. Thomas's, Oxford, 1616, and rector of Segrave, Leicestershire, 1630-40. [viii. 12]

BURTON, ROBERT or RICHAED (1632?-1725?), reputed to be a miscellaneous writer. [See CROUCH, NATHANIEL.]

BURTON, SIMON (1690?-1744), physician; educated at Rugby and New College, Oxford; M.D., 1720; began practice at Warwick; removed to Savile Row, London, 1732. [viii. 16]

BURTON, THOMAS (fl. 1656-1659), diarist; M.P. for Westmoreland, 1656; reputed author of a diary (printed, 1828), containing reports of proceedings in parliament, 3 Dec. 1656-22 April 1659. [viii. 17]

BURTON, WILLIAM (d. 1618), puritan; educated at Winchester; fellow of New College, Oxford, 1561-5; B.A., 1565; perhaps usher in Norwich school, 1576; minister in Norwich, 1584?-9; received into household of Thomas, baron Wentworth; preached in Bristol, 1590; vicar of St. Giles's, Reading, 1591; resided in London from about 1608; published catechism and sermons; translated seven dialogues of Erasmus, 1606. [viii. 17]

BURTON, WILLIAM (1575-1645), antiquary; B.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1594; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1603; retired to his estate at Falde, Staffordshire; published his 'Description of Leicestershire,' 1622; finished revision of it, 1638; gave John Leland's manuscripts to the Bodleian, 1631. [viii. 18]

BURTON, WILLIAM (1609-1657), author of 'A Commentary on Antoninus his Itinerary . . . (for) Britain,' 1658; educated at St. Paul's School, London; member of Queen's College, and Gloucester Hall, Oxford; B.O.L., 1630; usher in Thomas Farnaby's school; master of Kingston-on-Thames school; published Latin orations and translations from Latin. [viii. 19]

BURTON, WILLIAM EVANS (1802-1860), actor and dramatist; educated at St. Paul's School, London; went on the provincial stage, 1823; first acted in London, 1831; went to the United States, 1834; managed National and Burton's theatres, New York, 1841-58; afterwards head of a travelling company; wrote plays, humorous books, and magazine articles. [viii. 20]

BURTON, WILLIAM PATON (1828-1883), landscape painter in water-colours; educated at Edinburgh; exhibited in London, 1862-80. [viii. 21]

BURTT, JOSEPH (1818-1876), archaeologist; employed in calendaring records at Westminster chapter-house, 1832; assistant-keeper of the Record Office, 1859-1876; arranged monuments at Westminster Abbey and Lincoln Cathedral; wrote archaeological papers. [viii. 21]

BURY, VISCOUNT (1832-1894). [See KEFFEL, WILLIAM COUTTS, seventh EARL OF ALBEMARLE.]

BURY, ARTHUR (1624-1713), theologian; son of John Bury (1580-1667) [q. v.]; entered Exeter College, Oxford, 1639; fellow, 1643 (ejected, 1648; restored, 1662); canon of Exeter, 1661; rector of Exeter College, 1666-89, expelled by the visitor for disobedience; his expulsion confirmed by the House of Lords, 1694; D.D., 1666; part vicar of Bampton, Oxfordshire, 1671-1707; published 'The Naked Gospel,' 1690, an attempt to set aside later dogmatic accretions; his book burnt by Oxford University, 1690; published other theological treatises, and sermons. [viii. 21]

BURY, LADY CHARLOTTE SUSAN MARIA (1775-1841), novelist; youngest daughter of the fifth Duke of Argyll; married (1) in 1796, Colonel John Campbell (d. 1809); (2) in 1818, Rev. Edward John Bury (d. 1832); lady-in-waiting to Caroline, princess of Wales, 1809; published numerous novels, 1826-64, poems, and a 'Diary Illustrative of the Times of George IV,' 1838. [viii. 22]

BURY, EDWARD (1616-1700), nonconformist; a presbyterian minister; intruded rector of Great Bolas, Shropshire, before 1654; ejected, 1662; resided at Great Bolas till 1680; suffered for nonconformity, 1681, and for a time moved from place to place; became blind; published devotional tracts. [viii. 23]

BURY, EDWARD (1794-1858), engineer; at one time manufacturing engineer at Liverpool; constructed railway engines, 1830, and steamship engines, 1840; manager of rolling stock of London and Birmingham railway, 1838, and of Great Northern railway. [viii. 24]

BURY, MRS. ELIZABETH (1644-1720), nonconformist; née Lawrence; married (1) in 1667, Griffith Lloyd (d. 1682); (2) in 1697, Samuel Bury [q. v.]; wrote 'Diary,' beginning 1664. [viii. 24]

BURY, HENRY DE (fl. 1390). [See BREDERIC.]

BURY, JOHN OF (fl. 1460). [See JOHN.]

BURY, JOHN (fl. 1557), translator; M.A. Cambridge, 1555; published a translation from Isocrates, 1557. [viii. 25]

BURY or BERRY, JOHN (1580-1667), divine; scholar of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1597; Blandell fellow of Balliol College, 1603; M.A., 1605; vicar of Heavitree, Devonshire, 1626, and rector of Widdoworth; canon of Exeter, 1627; rector of St. Mary Major, Exeter, 1662-7; published sermons. [viii. 26]

BURY, RICHARD DE (1281-1345), bishop of Durham, patron of learning and collector of books; named from his birthplace, Bury St. Edmunds; son of Sir Richard Aungerville; studied at Oxford; entered Benedictine monastery at Durham; tutor to Edward III when Prince of Wales; treasurer of Guienne; of the household of Edward III; dean of Wells, 1333; bishop of Durham, 1333; lord chancellor, September 1334 to July 1335; lord high treasurer, 1337; employed by Edward III in Paris, Hainault, Germany, 1336, and in Scotland, 1337 and 1342; founded a library in Durham College, Oxford; wrote 'Philobiblon' (first printed, 1473). [viii. 26]

BURY, SAMUEL (1663-1730), presbyterian; son of Edward Bury (1616-1700) [q. v.]; studied at Doolittle's academy, Islington; presbyterian minister at Bury St. Edmunds from before 1689 to 1719; minister at Bristol, 1720-30; published sermons and hymns. [viii. 27]

BURY, THOMAS (1655-1722), judge; B.A. Lincoln College, Oxford, 1668; barrister of Gray's Inn, 1676; serjeant-at-law, 1700; baron of the exchequer, 1701, and chief baron, 1716-22. [viii. 28]

BURY, THOMAS TALBOT (1811-1877), architect; pupil of Augustus Pugin, 1824; started business, 1830; exhibited at the Academy, 1846-72; designed many churches and schools; wrote on architectural subjects. [viii. 29]

BUSBY, RICHARD (1606-1695), head-master of Westminster School; educated at Westminster; student of Christ Church, Oxford, 1624; M.A., 1631; D.D., 1660; head-master of Westminster, 1638-95; rector of Oudworth, Somerset, 1639 (ejected, c. 1648); prebendary of Westminster and canon of Wells, 1660; a famous schoolmaster and a zealous churchman; published classical school-books. [viii. 29]

BUSBY, THOMAS (1755-1838), composer; taught by various masters in London; sang at Vauxhall, 1769; articulated to Battishill, 1777; journalist and parliamentary reporter; organist at St. Mary's, Newington, 1785; taught music and French; joint-editor of a 'Musical

Dictionary, 1788; edited two collections of music; organist at St. Mary Woolnoth, 1798; produced his first oratorio, 'The Prophecy', 1799; Mus. Doc. Cambridge, 1801; composed music for stage; published treatises on musical subjects. [viii. 31]

BUSH, PAUL (1490-1558), first bishop of Bristol: B.A. Oxford, 1518; afterwards D.D.; a Bonhomme friar; provost of house of Bonhommes at Edington, Wiltshire; prebendary of Salisbury, 1539, and canon; chaplain to Henry VIII; bishop of Bristol, 1542; resigned 1554, to avoid deprivation for marriage; rector of Winterbourne, Gloucestershire, 1555-8; published devotional tracts and verses. [viii. 32]

BUSKE, CHARLES KENDAL (1767-1843), Irish judge; entered Trinity College, Dublin, 1782; Irish barrister, 1790, subsequently acquiring an extensive practice; M.P. for Callan in the Irish parliament, 1797; opposed the union; serjeant-at-law, 1805; solicitor-general for Ireland, 1805-22; chief-justice of king's bench, 1822-1841. [viii. 34]

BUSHELL, BROWN (d. 1651), sea-captain: in the parliamentary garrison at Scarborough; seized the castle there for the parliament, when the commander surrendered to the royalists, 1643; surrendered to royalists, 1644?; sent to London under suspicion, 1645; given command of ship-of-war; delivered his ship to the Prince of Wales, 1648; imprisoned in Windsor Castle, 1649-50; executed. [viii. 34]

BUSHELL, SETH (1621-1684), divine; educated at St. Mary Hall, Oxford, 1639-44; M.A., 1655; D.D., 1672; minister of Whitley, Yorkshire, and of Euxton, Lancashire, under the Commonwealth; vicar of Preston, 1664-82, and of Lancaster, 1682-4; published sermons. [viii. 35]

BUSHELL, THOMAS (1594-1674), speculator and mining engineer; page to Francis Bacon, who taught him what was then known of mineralogy; seal-bearer to Bacon; lay hid in the Isle of Wight for a few years from 1621; lived in hiding on the Calf of Man, 1626-9; his walks and fountains at Enstone, Oxford, visited by Charles I, and by the queen, 1636; farmed royal mines in Wales, 1636-7; master of the mint at Aberystwith, 1637, at Shrewsbury, 1642, and at Oxford, 1643; held Lundy for Charles I till 1647, and then lived in concealment; gave security for good behaviour, 1652; leased crown mines from Protector; wrote pamphlets respecting his schemes. [viii. 35]

BUSHER, LEONARD (A. 1814), pioneer of religious toleration; member of Brownist congregation of Thomas Helwys [q. v.]; published 'Religious Peace', 1814, probably the earliest publication in which liberty of conscience is openly advocated. [Suppl. I. 356]

BUSHNAN, JOHN STEVENSON (1808?-1884), writer on medical subjects; M.D. Heidelberg; qualified as practitioner at Edinburgh, 1830; editor, in London, of 'The Medical Times and Gazette,' 1849-52; lost his sight; pensioner of the Charterhouse. [viii. 37]

BUSHNELL, MRS. CATHERINE (1825-1861). [See HAYES, CATHERINE.]

BUSHNELL, JOHN (d. 1701), sculptor; pupil of Thomas Burman [q. v.]; in London; then studied in France, Rome, Venice; executed many statues for public buildings in London; died insane. [viii. 38]

BUSHNELL, WALTER (1609-1667), divine; M.A. Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1634; vicar of Box, Wiltshire, 1644; ejected, 1656; restored, 1660, and held the living till death; published narrative of the proceedings against him. [viii. 38]

BUSK, GEORGE (1807-1886), man of science; born at St. Petersburg; student at College of Surgeons and St. Thomas's and St. Bartholomew's hospitals; served as surgeon in navy; settled in London, 1855; F.R.C.S., 1843, and president, 1871; treasurer of Royal Institution; Hunterian professor and trustee of Hunterian Museum; F.R.S., 1850; F.L.S., 1846; F.Z.S., 1856; president of Anthropological Institute, 1873-4; published scientific treatises. [Suppl. I. 357]

BUSK, HANS, the elder (1772-1862), a Radnorshire squire; published poems, 1814-34. [viii. 39]

BUSK, HANS, the younger (1815-1882), a pioneer of the volunteer movement, son of Hans Busk the elder

[q. v.]; educated at King's College, London; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1844; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1841; high sheriff of Radnorshire, 1847; wrote on military and naval topics. [viii. 39]

BUSS, ROBERT WILLIAM (1804-1876), painter of theatrical portraits, and of historical and humorous subjects; exhibited at Royal Academy and other institutions, 1826-59; illustrated books; wrote on art topics. [viii. 40]

BUSSY, SIR JOHN (d. 1399), sheriff of Lincoln, 1379, 1381, 1391; M.P. for Lincolnshire, 1388-98; speaker of the House of Commons, 1394, 1397, 1398; subservient to Richard II; executed at Bristol by the Lancastrians. [viii. 40]

BUTCHELL, MARTIN VAN (1735-1812?), eccentric; pupil of John Hunter; practised as dentist, truss-maker, and fistula specialist; advertised largely; kept mummified body of his first wife in his parlour for years from 1776. [viii. 40]

BUTCHER, EDMUND (1757-1822), unitarian; apprenticed to a London linen-draper; wrote for periodicals; presbyterian student at Daventry academy, 1783; minister at Sowerby, Yorkshire; in London, 1789-97, and at Skidmouth, 1798-1820; withdrew to Bath, 1821; published hymns, sermons, and devotional books. [viii. 41]

BUTCHER, RICHARD (1583-1665?), compiler of 'The Survey and Antiquity of . . . Stamford,' 1646; town clerk of Stamford. [viii. 42]

BUTCHER, SAMUEL (1811-1876), bishop of Meath; entered Trinity College, Dublin, 1829; fellow, 1837-52, and lecturer; D.D., 1849; professor of ecclesiastical history, 1850, and of divinity, 1852-66; incumbent of Ballymoney, Cork, 1854-66; bishop of Meath, 1866; published sermons and charges. [viii. 42]

BUTE, third EARL OF (1713-1792). [See STUART, JOHN.]

BUTE, third MARQUIS OF (1847-1900). [See STUART, JOHN PATRICK ORCHERTON.]

BUTLER, ALBAN (1711-1773), hagiographer; compiler of 'The Lives of the . . . Principal Saints,' 1756-9; educated at Douay; professor of philosophy and divinity at Douay; ordained priest, 1735; sent into England, 1746; chaplain to the Duke of Norfolk, and tutor to his heir (d. 1767); president of the English College at St. Omer, 1768-73; published also travels, sermons, and biographies. [viii. 43]

BUTLER, CHARLES (d. 1647), author of 'The Feminine Monarchie, or a Treatise concerning Bees,' 1609; chorister of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1579-85; M.A., 1587; master of Basingstoke school, and rector of Nately Scures, Hampshire, 1593-1600; vicar of Wootton St. Lawrence, 1600-47; published also treatises on rhetoric, English grammar (advocating spelling-reform), music, and affinity as a bar to marriage. [viii. 44]

BUTLER, CHARLES (1750-1832), Roman catholic lawyer; educated at Douay, 1769-66; studied conveyancing in London, 1769; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1775; an eminent conveyancer, 1775-1828; secretary of committees for repeal of penal laws, 1782-91; first catholic barrister since James II, 1791; published several legal, historical, biographical, and theological works. [viii. 45]

BUTLER, EDMUND (d. 1551), archbishop of Cashel; studied at Oxford; prior of canons regular at Athassel, Tipperary; archbishop of Cashel, 1527; held synod at Limerick, 1529; surrendered Athassel Abbey to the crown, 1537; present in parliament at Dublin, 1541; one of the king's commissioners at Limerick, 1550. [viii. 47]

BUTLER, SIR EDWARD GERARD (1770-1856), soldier; cornet, 1792; served in Flanders, 1793; knighted for saving the emperor's life at Villiers-en-Couche, 1794; major, 1796; lieutenant-colonel, 1804; served in the West Indies, 1797-1806, and at the La Plata, 1806; major-general, 1814. [viii. 48]

BUTLER, ELEANOR, LADY (1745?-1829), recluse; sister of the seventeenth Earl of Ormonde; one of 'the ladies of the vale' of Llangollen, 1779-1829. [viii. 48]

BUTLER, GEORGE (1774-1853), head-master of Harrow; second son of Weeden Butler the elder [q. v.]; fellow of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge; senior wrangler, 1794; M.A., 1797; D.D., 1806; head-master of

Harrow, 1806-29; rector of Gayton, Northamptonshire, 1814; chancellor of Peterborough, 1836; dean of Peterborough, 1842; published sermons and Harrow notes. [viii. 49]

BUTLER, GEORGE (1819-1890), canon of Winchester; son of George Butler [q. v.]; educated at Harrow, Trinity College, Cambridge, and Exeter College, Oxford; Petrean fellow, 1842; M.A., 1846; tutor at Durham University, 1848; examiner at Oxford, 1850-2; curate, 1854; principal of Butler's Hall, Oxford, 1856-8; vice-principal of Cheltenham College, 1857-65; principal of Liverpool College, 1866-82; canon of Winchester, 1882; published sermons and other writings. [Suppl. i. 358]

BUTLER, GEORGE SLADE (1821-1882), writer on antiquities of Sussex; solicitor, 1843; town clerk of Rye, Sussex; F.S.A., 1862. [viii. 50]

BUTLER, JAMES, second EARL OF ORMONDE (1331-1382), styled 'the noble earl' in virtue of his being son of a granddaughter of Edward I; succeeded to earldom, 1338; a favourite with Edward III and Richard II; lord justice of Ireland, April 1359, and again, March 1360; held command under the Duke of Clarence in the war, 1361-2; lord deputy, 1364; lord justice, 1376-8. [viii. 50]

BUTLER, JAMES, fourth EARL OF ORMONDE (d. 1452), styled 'the white earl'; succeeded, 1406; lord deputy of Ireland, 1407; went with Thomas of Lancaster to France, 1412; served in Henry V's French wars; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1420; made war on the O'Mores, 1422; lord-lieutenant, 1424; lord justice, 1426; lord deputy, 1440; lord-lieutenant, 1443-6. [viii. 50]

BUTLER, JAMES, fifth EARL OF ORMONDE and EARL OF WILTSHIRE (1420-1461), eldest son of James Butler, fourth earl [q. v.]; attended Richard, duke of York, to France, 1439; a zealous Lancastrian; created Earl of Wiltshire in the English peerage, 1449; lord deputy of Ireland, 1450-1; succeeded to the Ormonde peerage, 1452; lord-lieutenant, 1453-5; made lord high treasurer of England, 1455; fought at St. Albans, 22 May 1455; again made lord high treasurer, 1458; K.G., 1459; fought at Wakefield, December 1460, Mortimer's Cross, February 1461, Towton, March 1461; beheaded at Newcastle-on-Tyne; attainted and his estates forfeited. [viii. 51]

BUTLER, JAMES (d. 1546), created VISCOUNT THURLES, 1535; restored as ninth EARL OF ORMONDE, 1641; poisoned in London, 1546. [viii. 73]

BUTLER, JAMES (d. 1631-1634), Irishman in the imperialist service; raised regiment in Poland, called 'the Irish regiment', from its officers; brought this regiment to Frankfort-on-Oder to reinforce Tiefenbach in spring of 1631; sent to Tilly to ask further help; present at the storming of Magdeburg, 20 May 1631; defeated the Saxons at Nimburg-on-Elbe, November 1631; fought in the Polish service against Russia, 1632-4. [viii. 51]

BUTLER, JAMES, twelfth EARL and first DUKE OF ORMONDE (1610-1688), son of Thomas, viscount Thurles (d. 1619); grandson of Walter Butler, eleventh earl of Ormonde [q. v.]; styled Viscount Thurles, 1619; succeeded to the earldom, 1633; created marquis, 1642; created Earl of Brecknock in the English peerage, 1660; created Duke of Ormonde in the Irish peerage, 1661, and in the English peerage, 1682; placed by his mother under a catholic tutor at Finchley, 1619; made king's ward and brought up in the protestant religion at Lambeth under Archbishop Abbot; entrusted to Richard Preston, earl of Desmond, 1624-8; lived with his grandfather at Drury Lane, 1626-7, and at Carrickfergus, 1630; came to England, 1651; returned to Ireland, 1658; opposed Wentworth in the Irish parliament, but urged granting supplies to Charles I, 1634; raised troop of outriders, 1638; supported Wentworth (now Earl of Strafford), 1640; assembled troops at Carrickfergus, July 1640; defended Strafford in the Irish parliament, 1641; commander against the Irish rebels, but kept inactive by the lords justices, 1641; defeated rebels, January-March 1642; quieted Connaught, 1642; again obstructed by the lords justices, 1642; commissioned by Charles I to ascertain the demands of the Irish rebels, 1643; defeated them at Ross, 18 March 1643; ordered in April to conclude truce; concluded truce for a year in September; sent five thousand troops into Cheshire, November 1643; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, January 1644; sent Irish troops into Scotland to help Montrose; opposed both by the catholic rebels and by the protestant parliamentarians, April 1644-April 1645; negotiated peace with the rebels; superseded in August 1645 by Glamorgan; arranged terms of peace between the king's forces and the catholic rebels, March 1646; asked parliament for help against the rebels, October-November 1646; induced by the rebels' rejection of his terms (February 1647) to approach parliament, with which he concluded peace, June 1647; conferred with Charles I at Hampton Court, August 1647; withdrew to Paris, 1648; royalist commander in Ireland, October 1618; concluded peace with rebels, January 1649; proclaimed Charles II; attacked Dublin; defeated at Rathmines, August 1649; his garrisons crushed by Cromwell, September-December 1649; left Ireland, December 1650; employed in personal attendance on Charles II or on embassies in his interest, 1651-9; royalist spy in England, January-March 1658; negotiated with Monck, 1659; received back his estates, and also his grandfather's county palatine of Tipperary; appointed lord steward of the household, 1660; lord high steward at the coronation, 1661; restored the protestant episcopate in Ireland; appointed lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 4 Nov. 1661; resided in Ireland, July 1662-June 1664; in London, July 1664-May 1665; again in Ireland, 1665-8; returned to London, 1668; dismissed from the lord-lieutenancy, March 1669; chancellor of Oxford University, 1669; his life attempted by Thomas Blood, 1669, at Buckingham's instigation; opposed attempts to repeal Act of Settlement, 1671-3; in Ireland on private affairs, July 1671-April 1675; recalled to London, 1675; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1677-82; at court in London, 1682; returned to Ireland, 1684; removed from the lord-lieutenancy, October 1684; proclaimed James II before he left Dublin, February 1685; lord high steward at James II's coronation; continued to be lord steward of the household; withdrew, as much as he could, from public life, 1685, broken by the deaths of his wife and children; resisted some of James II's arbitrary acts, 1687. [viii. 52]

BUTLER, JAMES (d. 1709), Irishman in the French service; killed at Malplaquet. [viii. 73]

BUTLER, JAMES, second DUKE OF ORMONDE (1665-1745), eldest surviving son of Thomas Butler, earl of Ossory [q. v.]; educated in France, 1676, and at Oxford, 1679; resided in Ireland, 1680-2; styled Earl of Ossory, 1680; married Lady Anne Hyde (d. 1684), 1682; at the siege of Luxembourg, April-June 1684; served against Mounmouth, 1685; married Lady Mary Somerset (d. 1733), 1688; succeeded to the dukedom, 1688; elected chancellor of Oxford University, 23 July 1688; K.G., 1688; signed petition for a free parliament, 17 Nov. 1688; joined Prince of Orange, 25 Nov. 1688; lord high constable at coronation of William and Mary, 1689; attainted, and his estates forfeited, by James II, May 1689; fought at the Boyne, secured Dublin, and took Kilkenny Castle, July 1690; went with William III to Holland, 1691; fought at Steinkirk, 1692; taken prisoner at Landen, 1693, but exchanged; present at William III's deathbed, March 1702; commanded troops sent against Cadix and Vigo, August-October 1702; in Ireland as lord-lieutenant, September 1703-June 1705, and again 1710-11; appointed commander-in-chief, and captain-general, 1712; sent to command in Flanders, April 1712, but directed to remain inactive; lord-warden of the Cinque ports, 1713-14; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1713; deprived of the captain-generalship, 1714; a recognised leader of the Jacobites in London; impeached, 21 June 1715; withdrew to France, 8 Aug.; attainted and his estates forfeited, 20 Aug. 1715; sailed to Plymouth to head an expected rising, 1715; accepted command of Spanish fleet intended to restore Stuarts, 1719; was living at Madrid, 1721; resided chiefly at Avignon; visited Madrid, 1740, to suggest an invasion of England; buried in Westminster Abbey. [viii. 60]

BUTLER, JAMES ARMAR (1827-1854), captain in the army; educated abroad and at Sandhurst; ensign, 1843; served in the Kafir war, 1846-7; captain, 1853; defended Silistria against the Russians, 1854. [viii. 65]

BUTLER, JOHN, sixth EARL OF ORMONDE (d. 1478), knighted before 1460; attainted, 1461, with his brother, James Butler, fifth earl [q. v.]; soon pardoned and recovered his estates; died in Palestine on a pilgrimage. [viii. 66]

BUTLER, JOHN (d. 1800), Roman catholic bishop of Cork, 1763-86; succeeded to barony of Dunboyne (under attainer), December 1788; was refused dispensation to resign his see and marry; embraced protestantism, 1787; reconciled to catholicism, 1800; bequeathed the Dunboyne estate to Maynooth College; D.D. [viii. 66]

BUTLER, JOHN (1717-1809), bishop of Hereford; born at Hambury; entered University College, Oxford, 1733; D.O.L., 1752; chaplain to the Princess-dowager of Wales, 1764; a popular London preacher; minister of Great Yarmouth, 1758; prebendary of Winchester, 1760; rector of Everley, Wiltshire; chaplain to George III; bishop of Oxford, 1777; translated to see of Hereford, 1788; published political tracts, sermons, and charges. [viii. 67]

BUTLER, JOSEPH (1692-1752), bishop of Durham; son of a retired draper at Wantage, a presbyterian; educated at Samuel Jones's dissenting school, Gloucestershire; sent Samuel Clarke criticisms on his Boyle lectures, 1713; conformed to the Anglican church; entered Oriel College, Oxford, 1715; B.A., 1718; B.O.L., 1721; D.O.L., 1733; ordained priest, 1718; preacher at the Rolls, 1719-1726; prebendary of Salisbury, 1721-38; rector of Houghton-le-Skerne, Durham, 1722-5; rector of Stanhope, 1728-1740; published 'Fifteen Sermons,' 1726, and the 'Analogy of Religion,' maintaining that the frame of nature shows a moral governor revealed through conscience, 1736; prebendary of Rochester, 1736-40; clerk of the closet to the queen, 1736; bishop of Bristol, 1738; asked John Wesley to cease preaching in his diocese, 1739; dean of St. Paul's, 1740; clerk of the closet to the king, 1746; said to have refused see of Canterbury, 1747; suggested plan for establishing bishops in American colonies, 1750; translated to Durham, 1750; suspected by some to have died a Roman catholic. His collected works were published in 1804. [viii. 67]

BUTLER, SIR PIERCE or PIERS, eighth EARL OF ORMONDE and first EARL OF OSSORY (d. 1539), succeeded to the Ormonde earldom, 1516; active in suppressing Irish rebellions; lord deputy, 1521-4; lord treasurer of Ireland, 1524; forced by Henry VIII to surrender the Ormonde title to Sir Thomas Boleyn, 1527; created, in compensation, Earl of Ossory, February 1528; lord justice, 1528; given large grants of land for helping to suppress Sir Thomas Fitzgerald's rising, 1534-5; suppressed the Earl of Desmond's rising. [viii. 72]

BUTLER, PIERCE, third VISCOUNT GALMOY (1652-1740), colonel in the French service; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1877; lord-lieutenant of Kilkenny; colonel of horse besieging Londonderry, 1689; fought at the Boyne, 1690, and Aughrim, 1691; outlawed, but given the benefit of the treaty of Limerick, 1691; withdrew to France; created Earl of Newcastle by James II; attainted, and his estates confiscated, 1697; served with distinction as colonel of Irish horse in the French service. [viii. 73]

BUTLER, RICHARD, first VISCOUNT MOUNTGARRET (d. 1871), created 1550. [viii. 73]

BUTLER, RICHARD, third VISCOUNT MOUNTGARRET (1678-1661), joined in the rebellion of his father-in-law, Hugh, earl of Tyrone, 1597-8; succeeded, and had his estates confirmed, 1605; sat in the Irish parliament, 1613, 1615, 1634; took castles in Kilkenny, Waterford, and Tipperary, and was chosen general of the Irish rebels, 1641; defeated at Kilmash, 1642; fought at Ross, 1643; excepted, though dead, from pardon in the act of 1652. [viii. 73]

BUTLER, RICHARD (d. 1791), officer in the American army; by birth an Irishman; emigrated before 1760; lieutenant-colonel, 1775; major-general, 1791; killed while fighting in St. Clair's expedition against the Indians. [viii. 74]

BUTLER, SAMUEL (1612-1680), satirist; son of a Worcestershire farmer; educated at Worcester free school; for some years page to Elizabeth, countess of Kent, at Wrest, Bedfordshire, c. 1628; clerk to various puritan justices of the peace, including Sir Samuel Luke of Bedfordshire, and Sir Henry Roswell of Devonshire, from whom he derived traits for 'Hudibras'; sojourned in France and Holland; published an anonymous pamphlet in favour of the Stuarts, 1659; secretary to the lord president of Wales, 1680; steward of Ludlow Castle; married a widow with a jointure, and came to London; published 'Hudibras,' part i. 1663, part ii. 1664, and part iii. 1688; was neglected by the court, and, according to the most authentic accounts, died in poverty. Some manuscript pieces were first printed in 1754. [viii. 74]

BUTLER, SAMUEL (1774-1839), bishop of Lichfield; educated at Rugby and St. John's College, Cambridge; B.A., 1796; fellow, 1797; D.D., 1811; head-master of Shrewsbury, 1798-1836; vicar of Kenilworth, 1802; prebendary of Lichfield, 1807; edited 'Æschylus' (four volumes), 1809-26; bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, 1836; published atlases and text-books of ancient and modern geography. [viii. 76]

BUTLER, SIMON (1757-1797), Irish politician; called to the Irish bar, 1778; presided at the first meeting of the Dublin United Irishmen, 1791; issued digest of the laws against catholics, 1792; political prisoner for six months in Newgate, 1793; subsequently withdrew to Edinburgh. [viii. 77]

BUTLER, THEOBALD (d. 1206-6), first 'butler' of Ireland, 'Pincerna Hiberniæ'; named WALTER, WALTER, and FITZWALTER from his father; BUTLER and LE BOTILLER from his office; elder brother of Hubert Walter (q. v.), the primate and justiciar; met with as owner of Amounderness, Lancashire, c. 1186; went with Prince John to Ireland, 1185; granted lands in Limerick, and fought with the Irish, 1185; granted Arklow, co. Wicklow, before 1189; in England, 1188; in France, 1189; in constant attendance on John, who (as Dominus Hiberniæ, 1177) made him 'butler'; first used the title, May 1192; governor of Lancaster Castle for Prince John, 1192; surrendered it to the justiciar, 1194; sheriff of Lancashire, 1194-1200; justice itinerant, 1198; deprived, by King John, of Amounderness and Limerick, 1201; made his peace and got back Amounderness, 1202; retired to Ireland, 1203; founded monasteries in Ireland. [viii. 77]

BUTLER, THOMAS (f. 1570), translator; published a catholic 'Treatise of . . . the Masse,' translated from the Italian, 1670; B.A. Cambridge, 1648; LL.D. of some foreign university. [viii. 79]

BUTLER, THOMAS, tenth EARL OF ORMONDE (1532-1614), called 'the black earl'; son of James Butler, ninth earl (q. v.); brought up at Henry VIII's court as a protestant; knighted, 1547; sent to Ireland to allay disaffection among his Irish tenantry, 1554; tried to reconcile the Irish and their English rulers; privy councillor and lord treasurer of Ireland, 1559; deprived of Clonmel and other manors by the Earl of Desmond, 1560; his lands ravaged by Desmond, 1561-7; persuaded Shan O'Neill, king of Ulster, to acknowledge Elizabeth's supremacy, 1561; made war on O'Neill to protect the MacDonnells, 1563; fought with Desmond at Affane, 1565; at Elizabeth's court, 1565-9; returned to Ireland, where his brother had revolted, July 1569; suppressed the Earl of Thomond's rebellion, 1570; repressed risings in Munster, 1571; visited London, 1572, and again 1579; crushed the Desmonds in Kerry, 1580-3; helped to capture and kill the Spanish refugees who had escaped the wreck of the Armada, 1588; helped to suppress the Earl of Tyrone's rebellion, 1598-9; lord treasurer, 1599; granted confiscated lands in Munster, 1602; vice-admiral of Ireland, 1612. [viii. 79]

BUTLER, THOMAS, EARL OF OSSORY (1634-1680), eldest son of James Butler, first duke of Ormonde (q. v.); lived in Kilkenny Castle from birth till 1647; taken to France, 1648; educated in a French protestant school at Caen, 1648-52; in London, 1652-5; imprisoned for some months in the Tower as a political suspect, 1655; went to Holland, 1656; married Emilia, a relative of the Prince of Orange, 1659; gambled; in favour with Charles II and the Duke of York, 1660; lieutenant-general of horse, 1661, and of the army in Ireland, 1665; M.P. for Bristol, 1661; called to the Irish House of Peers, 1662; lord deputy of Ireland, 1664-5; a volunteer in the sea-fight in the Downs, 1 and 2 June 1666; created Baron Butler of Moore Park in the English peerage, 1666; quarrelled with Buckingham, 1666; lord deputy in Ireland, 1668-9; attended the Prince of Orange on his visit, 1670-1; took part in the attack on the Dutch merchant fleet, 1672; commanded a ship at Southwold Bay, May 1673; K.G., 1672; envoy to Paris, November 1672; rear-admiral, 1673; in the sea fight, 11 Aug. 1673; sent to offer the Prince of Orange marriage with Princess Mary, November 1674; made a campaign in Flanders, 1677; commanded

British contingent at Mons, 1878; defended his father in the House of Lords against Shaftesbury, 1879; ordered to take command at Tangier, 1880. [viii. 81]

BUTLER, THOMAS HAMLY (1762?-1823), composer; chorister of the Chapel Royal; studied in Italy; wrote music to Cumberland's 'Widow of Delphi,' produced 1780; music-master in Edinburgh, 1780-1823. [viii. 85]

BUTLER, WALTER, of Kilcash, eleventh EARL OF ORMONDE (1669-1633), served under his uncle, Thomas Butler, tenth earl of Ormonde [q. v.], 1699-1600; succeeded to earldom, 1614; refused to accept James I's award of the estates to Sir Richard Preston, baron Dingwall, and was imprisoned in the Fleet, 1617-26; deprived of the county palatine of Tipperary; recovered part of his estates, 1626; lived in Drury Lane, 1626-7; retired to Ireland, 1627?; acknowledged heir to the estates of his uncle, Thomas, tenth earl of Ormonde, 1630. [viii. 86]

BUTLER, WALTER, COUNT (d. 1634), of Irish extraction; fought at the battle of Prague, 1620; lieutenant-colonel of, and in temporary command of, his kinsman's [see BUTLER, JAMES, fr. 1631-1634] Irish regiment at Frankfort-on-Oder, 1631; prisoner in the hands of the Swedes under Gustavus Adolphus, 1631; collected recruits in Poland; sent by Wallenstein to defend Sagan against Saxons, 1632; ordered by Wallenstein to bring his dragoons to Prague, February 1634; went with Wallenstein to Eger, but sent his chaplain, 23 Feb., to receive instructions from Piccolomini; arranged murder of Wallenstein and his officers, 26 Feb. 1634; rewarded by the grant of the estate of Friedberg; fought at Nördlingen, September 1634; reduced Aurach and Schorndorf in Würtemberg, 1634. [viii. 86]

BUTLER, WEEDEN, the elder (1742-1823), miscellaneous writer; solicitor's clerk; amanuensis to Dr. William Dodd, 1764-77; preacher at Pimlico chapel, 1776-1814; kept a private school at Chelsea; published biographies and dramatic pieces. [viii. 89]

BUTLER, WEEDEN, the younger (1773-1831), author; eldest son of Weeden Butler the elder [q. v.]; M.A. Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, 1797; preacher in London; rector of Great Woolston, Buckinghamshire, 1816; usher in, afterwards master of, his father's school in Chelsea; published pamphlets and verses. [viii. 89]

BUTLER or BOTELER, WILLIAM (d. 1410?), writer against Wycliffism; provincial of the Franciscans in England; member of Franciscan convent at Oxford; wrote against English translations of the bible, 1401; afterwards lived in the convent at Reading. [viii. 89]

BUTLER, WILLIAM (1636-1618), physician; M.A. Clare Hall, Cambridge, 1666; licensed to practise medicine, 1672; attended Prince Henry, 1612; an eccentric. [viii. 90]

BUTLER, WILLIAM AROHER (1814?-1848), professor of moral philosophy at Dublin, 1837-48; brought up as a Roman catholic; embraced protestantism; B.A. Trinity College, Dublin; prebendary of Rathoe, 1837; rector of Raymoghly, Donegal, 1842; visited Wordsworth, 1844; active in alleviating distress in the Irish famine, 1846-7; contributed to the 'Dublin University Review.' His professional 'Lectures' were published, 1856, and sermons, 1856-6. [viii. 91]

BUTLER, WILLIAM JOHN (1818-1894), dean of Lincoln; educated at Westminster and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1844; M.A. Oxford, 1847; honorary canon of Christ Church, 1872; vicar of Wantage, 1846; founder, 1860, and warden till death of sisterhood of St. Mary's, Wantage; elected proctor for clergy of Oxford, 1874; canon of Worcester, 1880; appointed dean of Lincoln, 1886. His 'Life and Letters' appeared, 1897. [Suppl. i. 369]

BUTT, SIR CHARLES PARKER (1830-1892), judge; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1854; bench, 1863; practised in consular courts at Constantiupole; Q.C., 1868; liberal M.P. for Southampton, 1880; appointed justice of high court, probate, divorce, and admiralty division, and knighted, 1883; president of the division, 1891. [Suppl. i. 360]

BUTT, GEORGE (1741-1796), divine; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1768; D.D., 1793; rector of Stanford and vicar of Clifton, Worcestershire, 1771; vicar of Newchurch, Isle of Wight, 1778-83; rector of Notgrove, Gloucestershire, 1783; chaplain to George III, 1783; vicar of Kidderminster, 1787; published sermons and verses. [viii. 92]

BUTT, ISAAC (1813-1879), founder of the Irish home rule party; scholar of Trinity College, Dublin; LL.D., 1840; edited the 'Dublin University Magazine,' 1834-8; professor of political economy, 1836-41; Irish barrister, 1838; opposed O'Connell; M.P. for Harwich, 1852; M.P. for Youghal, 1852-65; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1859; defended Fenian prisoners, 1865-9; M.P. for Limerick, 1871; published translation of Virgil's 'Georgics' and historical and political tracts. [viii. 93]

BUTTER, JOHN (1791-1877), ophthalmic surgeon; studied in Devonshire hospitals; M.D. Edinburgh, 1820; practised as an oculist in Plymouth; became blind, 1856; wrote medical treatises. [viii. 94]

BUTTER, NATHANIEL (d. 1664), printer and journalist; son of a London stationer; freeman of Stationers' Company, 1604; issued books in his own name, 1604-11; issued pamphlets describing murders and plays, 1608-39; issued weekly redactions of foreign newsletters, 1622-39; issued half-yearly volumes of foreign news, 1630-40. [viii. 94]

BUTTER, WILLIAM (1726-1806), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1761; practised successively in Derby and London; wrote on medical subjects. [viii. 96]

BUTTERFIELD, ROBERT (fr. 1629), Anglican controversialist; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1626; published 'Maschil,' 1629. [viii. 96]

BUTTERFIELD, SWITHUN (d. 1611), author of religious and legal tracts; possibly of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1608. [viii. 96]

BUTTERFIELD, WILLIAM (1814-1900), architect; articulated at Worcester; established himself in London; erected missionary college of St. Augustine's, Canterbury, 1846, chapel of Balliol College, Oxford, 1856-7, All Saints', Margaret Street, London, 1859, new buildings at Merton College, Oxford, 1864, school buildings at Rugby, 1876, and Kebble College, Oxford, 1876; executed designs for several colonial cathedrals; made a careful study of Gothic architecture. [Suppl. i. 360]

BUTTERWORTH, EDWIN (1812-1848), publisher of historical and biographical works on Lancashire, 1829-47; youngest son of James Butterworth [q. v.]; collected materials for history of Lancashire; registrar of births and deaths at Chalderton. Some of his collections are preserved at Oldham. [viii. 96]

BUTTERWORTH, HENRY (1786-1860), London law publisher; apprentice to his uncle, Joseph Butterworth [q. v.]; began business on his own account, 1818. [viii. 97]

BUTTERWORTH, JAMES (1771-1837), author of poems in the Lancashire dialect and of contributions to Lancashire county history, 1800-30; son of a Lancashire weaver; taught school; postmaster of Oldham. [viii. 97]

BUTTERWORTH, JOHN (1727-1803), baptist minister at Coventry, 1753-1803; published 'A New Concordance,' 1767. [viii. 98]

BUTTERWORTH, JOSEPH (1770-1826), law book-seller, Fleet Street, London; son of John Butterworth [q. v.]; M.P. for Dover; Wesleyan philanthropist; published a priced 'Catalogue of Law Books.' [viii. 98]

BUTTEVANT, VISCOUNT (1550-1617). [See BARRY, DAVID FITZJAMES DE.]

BUTTON, RALPH (d. 1680), puritan; B.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1630; fellow of Merton, 1633; M.A., 1640; withdrew to London, 1642; professor of geometry in Gresham College, 1648-8; a delegate to visit Oxford University, 1647; intruded canon of Christ Church, and public orator, 1648-60; left Oxford, 1680; kept a school at Brentford; and at Islington, 1672-80. [viii. 98]

BUTTON, SIR THOMAS (d. 1634), admiral; entered the navy, c. 1589; served in the West Indies; present at the siege of Kinshasa, 1601; explored Hudson's Bay, 1612-1613; admiral in charge of Irish coasts, 1614-34; knighted, 1616; served against Algiers, 1620; served on commission for inquiring into state of navy, 1625; quarrelled with the navy board, 1628. [viii. 99]

BUTTON or BITTON, WILLIAM I (d. 1264), bishop of Bath and Wells; named from Bitton, Gloucestershire; rector of Sow; sub-dean, and afterwards archdeacon, of Wells; bishop of Bath and Wells, 1247; went to Rome to protest against the primate's claims, 1261; present in parliament, 1263; ambassador to Castile; with Henry III in Gascony, 1264; quarrelled with the abbot of Glastonbury over certain possessions and rights which the abbey had lost to the bishopric; present at the dedication of Salisbury Cathedral, 1258. [viii. 100]

BUTTON or BITTON, WILLIAM II (d. 1274), bishop of Bath and Wells; nephew of William Button I [q. v.]; dean of Wells; bishop of Bath and Wells, 1267; revered locally as a saint. [viii. 101]

BUTTON, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1655), royalist, second baronet; plundered by the parliamentary troops, 1643-4; fined for 'delinquency,' 1646. [viii. 101]

BUTTS, JOHN (d. 1764), self-taught Irish landscape painter. [viii. 101]

BUTTS, ROBERT (1684-1748), bishop of Ely; educated at Bury St. Edmunds and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1711; D.D., 1728; preacher at Bury, 1703; political agent; rector of Ickworth, Suffolk, 1717-33; chaplain to George II, 1728; dean of Norwich, 1731; bishop of Norwich, 1733; translated to Ely, 1738; published sermons and charges. [viii. 102]

BUTTS, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1545), physician to Henry VIII and his court; owned lands in Norfolk; B.A. Gonville Hall, Cambridge, 1506; M.D., 1518. [viii. 103]

BUXHULL, SIR ALAN (1323-1381), constable of the Tower of London, 1365-81; inherited his father's lands in Sussex and Dorset, 1325; served with Edward III in France, 1355; chamberlain to Edward III, 1369; castellan in Normandy, 1370; K.G., 1372. [viii. 104]

BUXTON, BERTHA H. (1844-1881), novelist; née Leopold; published novels and books for children, 1874?-1881; travelled with her parents, who were German musicians; married a London club-manager. [viii. 105]

BUXTON, CHARLES (1823-1871), liberal politician; third son of Sir Thomas Fowell Buxton [q. v.]; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1845; partner in Truman, Hanbury, Buxton & Co.'s brewery, Spitalfields, 1845; bought an estate in Kerry, 1852; M.P. for Newport, 1857, for Maidstone, 1859, and for East Surrey, 1865-71; published biography of his father and political pamphlets, 1853-69. [viii. 105]

BUXTON, JEDIDIAH (1707-1772), calculating prodigy; farm-labourer at Elmdon, Derbyshire; exhibited in London, 1764. [viii. 106]

BUXTON, RICHARD (1786-1865), botanist; a Lancashire shoemaker and self-taught botanist; published 'Botanical Guide' to Manchester district, 1849. [viii. 106]

BUXTON, SIR THOMAS FOWELL (1786-1845), philanthropist; educated at private schools; entered Trinity College, Dublin, 1803; partner in Truman, Hanbury & Co.'s brewery, 1808; advocated prison reform, 1816-20; M.P. for Weymouth, 1818-37; advocated abolition of slavery in British dominions, 1822-33; advocated repression of African slave-trade and the Niger expedition, 1839-40; created baronet, 1840; accorded a monument in Westminster Abbey. [viii. 107]

BY, JOHN (1781-1836), lieutenant-colonel royal engineers; studied at Royal Military Academy, Woolwich; second lieutenant royal engineers, 1799; lieutenant, 1801; first captain, 1809; lieutenant-colonel, 1824; served in Canada, 1802-11, and Portugal, 1811; in charge of royal gunpowder mills at Faversham, Purfleet, and Waltham Abbey, 1812-21; constructed Rideau canal from the St. Lawrence to the Canadian lakes, 1826-32, Bytown (now Ottawa) being named after him. [Suppl. I. 363]

BYAM, EDWARD (1586-1639), divine; brother of Henry Byam [q. v.]; demy of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1601-10; M.A., 1607; vicar of Dulverton, Somerset, 1612-1625; precentor of Cloyne, 1637, and prebendary of Lisamore, 1639, holding also other Irish preferments. [viii. 110]

BYAM, HENRY (1580-1669), divine; brother of Edward Byam [q. v.]; student of Christ Church, Oxford,

1599; M.A., 1606; B.D., 1612; D.D., 1643; rector of Luccombe and of Selworthy, Somerset, 1614; sequestered, 1656; prebendary of Exeter, 1632; chaplain to the royalist garrison in Jersey, 1646-51; prebendary of Wells, 1660; published sermons. [viii. 109]

BYAM, JOHN (1583?-1653), divine; brother of Edward Byam [q. v.]; M.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1606; rector of Clotworthy, Somerset, 1609; vicar of Dulverton, 1625; sequestered and imprisoned for royalist correspondence. [viii. 109]

BYER, NICHOLAS (d. 1681), portrait-painter; of Norwegian birth; protégé of Sir William Temple. [viii. 110]

BYERLEY, KATHARINE (1797-1862). [See THOMSON.]

BYERLEY, THOMAS (d. 1826), London journalist; published under the pseudonyms of Stephen Collet and of Reuben Percy 'Relics of Literature,' 1823, 'The Percy Anecdotes,' 1821-3, and 'London . . . Memorials,' 1823. [viii. 110]

BYERS or BYRES, JAMES (1733-1817), virtuoso; resided in Rome, 1760-90, collecting antique art treasures; studied Etruscan architecture. [viii. 110]

BYFIELD, ADONIRAM (d. 1660), puritan, third son of Nicholas Byfield [q. v.]; educated at Emmanuel College, Cambridge; chaplain to a parliamentary regiment; a clerk of the Westminster Assembly, of which he took minutes (printed 1874); rector, till 1645, and vicar, till 1657, of Farnham; rector of Collingbourn Ducis, Wiltshire, before 1654; on Wiltshire committee for ejecting clergy, 1654. [viii. 111]

BYFIELD, JOHN (f. 1830), wood engraver. [viii. 111]

BYFIELD, NICHOLAS (1579-1622), puritan; studied at Exeter College, Oxford, 1597-1601; preacher at Chester before 1611; vicar of Isleworth, 1615-22; published theological works. [viii. 112]

BYFIELD, RICHARD (1598?-1664), puritan; entered Queen's College, Oxford, 1615; M.A., 1622; rector of Long Ditton, Surrey, before 1630; elected into the Westminster Assembly, 1645; on the Surrey committee for ejecting clergy, 1654; ejected from Long Ditton, 1662; published theological treatises. [viii. 113]

BYLES, SIR JOHN BARNARD (1801-1884), judge; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1831; recorder of Buckingham, 1840-55; serjeant-at-law, 1843; one of the last queen's serjeants, 1857; knighted, 1858; justice of the common pleas, 1858-73; published legal treatises. [viii. 113]

BYLOT or BILOT, ROBERT (f. 1610-1616), explorer of the north-west passage; sailed with Henry Hudson [q. v.], 1610-11, and Sir Thomas Button [q. v.], 1612-13, and Gibbons, 1614; commanded the attempt of 1615 with William Baffin [q. v.] as mate. [viii. 114]

BYNG, ANDREW (1574-1651), professor of Hebrew, Cambridge, 1608; educated at Peterhouse, Cambridge; one of the translators of the authorised version, 1605; D.D. [viii. 115]

BYNG, GEORGE, VISCOUNT TORRINGTON (1668-1733), admiral; served in the navy, 1678-81; officer of Tangier garrison, 1681-3; lieutenant in the army, 1684-1690; naval lieutenant, 1684; at Bombay, 1685-7; canvassed ship-commanders to join the Prince of Orange, 1688; served under Admiral Herbert, 1689; at Beachy Head, 1690; served in Mediterranean, 1693-5; served under Sir Cloudesley Shovell, 1702-3; rear-admiral, 1703; present at taking of Gibraltar and the battle off Malaga, 1704; knighted, 1704; vice-admiral, 1705; served in Mediterranean, 1706-7; repulsed James Edward the Pretender's fleet, 1708; commanded in Mediterranean, 1709; commissioner of the admiralty, 1709-13; prevented supplies reaching the Jacobite insurgents, 1715; created baronet, 1715; sent to the Baltic, 1717; admiral of the fleet, 1718; held command in Mediterranean, 1718-20, destroying Spanish fleet off Cape Passaro, 31 July 1718; treasurer of the navy, 1721-4; created Viscount Torrington, 1721; first lord of the admiralty, 1727-33. [viii. 115]

BYNG, JOHN (1704-1757), admiral; fourth son of George Byng, viscount Torrington [q. v.]; entered the navy, 1718; commanded a frigate in the Mediterranean, 1727-36, selecting the easy post of guardship at Port

Mahon, Minorca: rear-admiral, 1745; commanded in Mediterranean, 1747-8; sent to prevent the French taking Minorca, 1756; reached Port Mahon, 19 May, handled his ships unskillfully, and was defeated, 20 May; sailed back, in accordance with the resolutions of his council of war, 25 May; recalled; sentenced by court-martial to death for neglect of duty, 27 Jan. 1757; shot at Portsmouth. [viii. 118]

BYNG, SIR JOHN, EARL OF STRAFFORD (1772-1860), general; served in Flanders, 1793-5, in the Irish rebellion, 1798, and at Walcheren, 1809; colonel, 1810; commanded brigade in Peninsula and south of France, 1811-14; major-general, 1813; commanded brigade at Waterloo and in France, 1815; lieutenant-general, 1825; commander-in-chief in Ireland, 1828-31; M.P. for Poole, 1831; created Baron Stafford, 1835; general, 1841; created Earl of Stafford, 1847; field-marshal, 1856. [viii. 121]

BYNG, THOMAS (d. 1599), civilian; fellow of Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1558; M.A., 1559; LL.D., 1570; public orator, 1565; prebendary of York, 1567; master of Clare Hall, Cambridge, 1571; regius professor of civil law, 1574; dean of arches, 1595; wrote official letters, orations, and verses. [viii. 122]

BYNHAM, SIMON (A. 1335). [See BINHAM.]

BYNNEMAN, HENRY (d. 1583), London printer; apprenticed, 1560; liveryman of the Stationers' Company, 1578; imprinted books under his own name, 1568-83. [viii. 122]

BYRD, WILLIAM (1538?-1623), composer; pupil of Tallis; organist of Lincoln, 1563; joint-organist of the Chapel Royal, 1569; granted monopoly of issuing printed music and music-paper, 1575; published 'Cantiones . . . sacrae', 1575; lived obscurely, as a catholic recusant, at Harlington, Middlesex, 1578-88; composed the first English madrigals, 1588; published 'Psalmes, Sonets, and Songs', 1588; published 'Songs of Sundrie Natures', and 'Liber primus Sacrarum Cantionum', 1589; 'Liber secundus', 1591, 'Gradualia', 1607, and 'Psalmes, Songs, and Sonnets', 1611; composed numerous pieces, many still in manuscript. [viii. 123]

BYRHETERTH or BRIDFERTH, (A. 1000), mathematician; possibly at first monk of Thorney; monk of Ramsey after 970; pupil of Abbo of Fleury (d. 1004); travelled in France; wrote commentaries on treatises of Breda (printed 1612), and a mathematical treatise (Ashmole MS., 328). [viii. 126]

BYRNE, ANNE FRANÇOIS (1775-1837), flower and fruit painter; eldest daughter of William Byrne (q. v.); exhibited at the Royal Academy and elsewhere in London, 1796-1832. [viii. 127]

BYRNE, CHARLES (1761-1783), Irish giant; exhibited in various towns; measured eight feet two inches, 1782; his skeleton 92½ inches in length. [viii. 127]

BYRNE, JULIA OLARA (1819-1894), author; daughter of Hans Busk (1772-1862) (q. v.); married William Pitt Byrne, 1842. She published a number of books, some of which she illustrated herself, dealing with her own experiences, social questions, and the customs of various countries. [Suppl. i. 364]

BYRNE, LETITIA (1779-1849), engraver; third daughter of William Byrne (q. v.); book-illustrator; exhibited landscapes at the Royal Academy, 1799-1848. [viii. 127]

BYRNE, MILES (1780-1862), United Irishman; a leader of the 1798 insurrection; clerk in a Dublin timber-yard, 1799-1803; a leader in Robert Emmet's sedition, 1803; sent to solicit Napoleon's help, 1803; served in Napoleon's Irish legion, 1804-15; captain, 1810; chef-de-bataillon, 1830-5; lived latterly in Paris. [viii. 127]

BYRNE, OSCAR (1795?-1867), ballet-master; first appeared on stage, 1803; abroad or in Ireland for several years; employed in London, 1860-67. [viii. 128]

BYRNE, WILLIAM (1743-1806), landscape engraver; trained in Birmingham and Paris; exhibited in London, 1760-80. [viii. 128]

BYRNES, THOMAS JOSEPH (1860-1898), premier of Queensland; born in Queensland; B.A. and LL.B. Melbourne University; called to the bar in Victoria, 1884; practised at supreme court bar, Queensland; member of legislative council, and solicitor general, 1890; prime minister of Queensland, 1898. [Suppl. i. 365]

BYRNSTAN, BIRNSTAN, or BEORNSTAN (d.933), bishop of Winchester; attendant on King Edward the Elder as thegn, 900-2; priest, 902-10; perhaps monk at Winchester; bishop of Winchester, 931; afterwards reputed saint; translated to a new tomb, 1160. [viii. 129]

BYRON, JOHN (1692-1763), teacher of shorthand; entered Merchant Taylors' School, 1707; fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1714; M.A., 1715; studied medicine at Montpellier, 1716; taught shorthand in Manchester (where he chiefly lived), London, and Cambridge; succeeded to estates, 1740; copyrighted his system, 1742; a Jacobite; his shorthand system printed, 1767; his verses collected and published, 1773, and his diary printed, 1854-7. [viii. 129]

BYRON, GEORGE GORDON, sixth BARON (1788-1824), poet; son of a profligate, 'mad Jack' Byron (1756-1791), late of the guards, by his second wife (m. at Bath, 1785), Catherine Gordon (d. 1811), of Gight, Aberdeen, an hysterical Scotch heiress; born in London, after his father had dissipated his mother's fortune in France; hopelessly lame in both feet; removed to Aberdeen, where his mother took lodgings, having an income (under trust) of 1351, afterwards of 1902, a year; lost his father in August 1791, who, having fled from his creditors to France, died at Valenciennes; alternately petted and abused by his mother; taught the bible by his nurse, May Gray; educated at Aberdeen grammar school, 1794-8; unexpectedly became heir-presumptive to the barony in consequence of the fifth baron's grandson falling in action in Corsica, 1794; succeeded to title and encumbered estates, 1798; taken to the family seat of Newstead Abbey, Nottinghamshire, 1798; put under the guardianship of the fifth Earl of Carlisle, a distant relative; sent to private schools, Newstead Abbey being let, 1799; wrote lampoons, 1799, and love verses, 1800; at Harrow, 1801-5, where he proved himself a poor scholar, a considerable reader, and a good boxer and batsman; proposed to Mary Anne Chaworth, heiress of Annesley Hall, Nottinghamshire, who rejected him, 1803; at Trinity College, Cambridge, October 1805-May 1806, May 1807-May 1808; M.A. July 1808; at Cambridge read much history and fiction, and practised boxing and swimming, but kept low company and lived extravagantly; got deeply in debt, the income (500*l.*) allowed him by the court of chancery being inadequate for his position and expectations; his chief college friend, John Cam Hobhouse, printed privately at Newark, October 1806, a small volume of poems by Byron entitled 'Fugitive Pieces', which Byron reprinted with changes in January 1807, and published, with further changes, in the summer of 1807, as 'Hours of Idleness'; his book denounced by the 'Edinburgh Review', January 1808; settled at Newstead, July 1808, where he entertained company in theatrical imitation of Medmenham; took his seat in the House of Lords, March 1809; issued 'English Bards and Scotch Reviewers' (1809), which soon ran into its fifth edition; sailed with Hobhouse from Falmouth, July 1809; rode from Lisbon to Cadiz; sailed from Cadiz, visiting Gibraltar and Malta on the way, to North Greece; rode through Acarnania to Athens, 24 Dec.; addressed 'Maid of Athens' to Theresa Macri, his hostess's daughter; sailed, 5 March 1810, from Athens to Smyrna, Ephesus, the Troad, swimming the Hellespont (3 May), and Constantinople; parted company with Hobhouse; sailed, 14 July, for Athens; travelled in the Morea; wintered in Athens; reached Portsmouth, July 1811; took London lodgings, October 1811; spoke twice in the House of Lords, February and April 1812; published 'Childe Harold', cantos i. and ii., March 1812; made the acquaintance of Thomas Moore; proposed to Anne Isabella, daughter of Sir Robert Milbanke, but was rejected, 1812; tried to sell Newstead, September 1812; injured his constitution by devices to avoid corpulency; published a succession of poems, 1813-16; annoyed by the attentions of Lady Caroline Lamb, 1813; proposed again to Miss Milbanke, September 1814; married her 2 Jan. 1815; took the additional name of Noel, April; made his will, July; much importuned by his creditors; sold his library, November; frequented the theatre and theatrical suppers; accused, 8 Jan. 1816, of insanity by his wife, who left him, 15 Jan.; signed a deed of separation and withdrew to the continent, April; travelled through Belgium and the Rhine country to Geneva; travelled in

Switzerland with Shelley in June, and with Hobhouse in September; wrote 'Childe Harold,' canto iii.; travelled with Hobhouse to Italy, October; wintered in Venice; father of a child by Jane Clairmont, January 1817; visited Rome, April-May 1817; settled in a house on the Grand Canal, Venice, and abandoned himself to degrading excesses; wrote canto iv. of 'Childe Harold,' July 1817; received large sums for his copyrights; sold Newstead, November 1817; wrote the first five cantos of 'Don Juan,' 1818-20; met Teresa, countess Guiccioli (1803-1873), April 1819, whom he followed to Ravenna and Bologna, and took from her husband to live with him in Venice; visited by Thomas Moore, to whom he entrusted his autobiography (burnt, May 1824); followed to Ravenna the Countess Guiccioli, who had returned to her husband, 1819; wrote much while at Ravenna, the bulk of his work consisting of dramas (beginning with 'Marino Faliero,' April-July 1820); lived with Countess Guiccioli at Pisa, October 1821-July 1822, and wrote later cantos of 'Don Juan'; started a short-lived newspaper, 'The Liberal,' with Leigh Hunt as editor, in which he printed his 'Vision of Judgment,' a poem satirising Southey's apotheosis of George III.; present at the cremation of Shelley, 1822; lived at Genoa with Countess Guiccioli, August 1822-July 1823; offered to join the Greek insurgents, May 1823; sailed from Genoa, July; lingered in Cephalonia, August-December; landed at Missolonghi, January 1824; enlisted a regiment of Sulioters, which he disbanded, in consequence of their mutinous temper, in February; tried to raise another corps to garrison Missolonghi; died of marsh-fever, 19 April; buried in England, at Hucknall Torkard; his collected 'Life [by Tom Moore] and Works,' published, 1832-5. [viii. 132]

BYRON, HENRY JAMES (1834-1884), dramatist; medical student in London and Buxton; appeared on the stage; began to write for the stage, c. 1856; entered the Middle Temple, 1858; joint-manager of the Princess of Wales's Theatre, London, 1865-7; manager of theatres in Liverpool, 1867; acted, in his own pieces, in London, 1869-81; manager of Criterion Theatre, London, 1874; editor of 'Fun'; wrote 'Paid in Full,' a novel, 1865; produced a number of farces, comedies, and extravaganzas, between 1867 and 1882. [viii. 156]

BYRON, JOHN, first BARON BYRON (d. 1652), M.P. for Nottingham, 1624-5; K.B. at Charles I's coronation, 1625; M.P. for Nottinghamshire, 1628-9; served in the Low Countries; served against the Scots, 1640; lieutenant of the Tower, December 1641-February 1642; joined Charles I at York; sent from Coventry to Oxford; held Oxford, 28 Aug.-10 Sept. 1642; victorious at Powick

Bridge, 29 Sept.; fought at Edgehill, 23 Oct. 1642; served in Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire, December 1642-May 1643; fought at Roundway Down and Newbury, 1643; created Baron Byron of Rochdale, October 1643; given command in Lancashire; defeated at Nantwich, 1644; fought at Marston Moor, Ormskirk, and Montgomery, 1644; besieged in Chester, 1645-6; surrendered Carnarvon Castle, 1646; went to Paris; sent to seize Anglesey, 1648; sent by Ormonde to invite Charles II to Ireland, January 1649; proscribed by the parliament; tutor to the Duke of York. [viii. 157]

BYRON, JOHN (1723-1786), navigator; midshipman of the Wager, 1740; wrecked on the Ohili coast, 1741; sailed from Valparaiso, 1744, reaching England, February 1746; captain, 1746; cruised off the coast of Guinea, 1749, and of France, 1757-63; commanded the Dolphin in the voyage round the world, 2 July 1764 to 9 May 1766; published a 'Narrative' of his shipwreck, 1768; governor of Newfoundland, 1769-72; rear-admiral, 1775; commanded the West Indies fleet, 1778-9; worsted off Grenada, 1779. [viii. 161]

BYRON, SIR THOMAS (d. 1644), commander of the Prince of Wales's regiment; severely wounded at Hopton Heath, 1643; wounded in a scuffle at Oxford, 7 Dec. 1643, and died of the wound. [viii. 163]

BYRNE, THOMAS (1793-1849), divine; quaker; druggist's apprentice, 1809-14; taught school; entered Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1818; joined the Anglican church, 1819; curate in Devonshire, 1823-5; M.A., 1826; vicar of Latchford, Cheshire, 1827; rector of Wallasey, 1834-49; D.D., 1839; published sermons. [viii. 164]

BYSSHE, SIR EDWARD (1615?-1679), herald; entered Trinity College, Oxford, 1633; barrister of Lincoln's Inn; M.P. for Blitchingley, 1640; appointed Garter king-of-arms by parliament, 1646-60; M.P. for Reigate, 1654, and for Ganton, Surrey, 1659; Clarenceux king-of-arms, 1661; knighted, 1661; M.P. for Blitchingley, 1661; edited heraldic treatises and (1665) Palladius, 'de Gentibus Indiae et Bragmanibus'. [viii. 164]

BYSSHE, EDWARD (d. 1712), miscellaneous writer; published 'The Art of English Poetry,' 1702; translated Xenophon's 'Memorabilia,' 1712. [viii. 165]

BYTHNER, VICTORINUS (1605?-1670?), hebraist; native of Poland; taught Hebrew at Oxford, 1636-43; at Cambridge, 1643; in London; again in Oxford, 1651; practised medicine in Cornwall, 1664; published treatises on Hebrew grammar. [viii. 165]

C

CABANEL, RUDOLPH (1762-1839), architect; born at Aix-la-Chapelle; came to England early in life; constructed theatres in London; invented the 'Cabanel' roof. [viii. 166]

CABBELL, BENJAMIN BOND (1781-1874), patron of art; educated at Westminster and Oxford, 1800-3; barrister of the Middle Temple, 1818; F.R.S., 1837; M.P. for St. Albans, 1846, and for Boston, 1847-57; a free-mason. [viii. 166]

CABOT, SEBASTIAN (1474-1557), navigator and map-maker; born in Bristol; son of a Venetian, John Cabot, or Caboto, trading at Bristol; taken to Venice, 1476; brought back to England, 1493; named with his father and brothers in Henry VII's licence to make a voyage of discovery, March 1496; sailed with them, 1497, discovering Nova Scotia; not mentioned in the similar licence obtained by his father, February 1498; probably did not accompany his father in the American voyages of 1498 and 1499; made for Henry VIII a map of Gascony and Guienne, 1512; employed at Seville as map-maker to Ferdinand and the Catholic, 1512-16; returned to England, 1516; according to Eden, was designed to sail with Sir Thomas Perte (1517) on a voyage of discovery, which did not take place; returned to Spain, 1519; pilot-major to the emperor Charles V., 1519-36; investigated the variation of the compass needle; made proposals to the Venetians to send him to seek a north-east passage to

China, 1522; commanded unsuccessful expedition to the La Plata, 1528-30; imprisoned and banished to Oran in Africa, 1530; recalled to Seville, 1533; reinstated in his office of pilot-major, 1533-44; published an engraved map of the world, 1544; returned to Bristol, 1547; pensioned by Edward VI., 1548; his return in vain demanded by Charles V., 1550 and 1553; settled dispute between Hanseatic League and merchants of London, 1551; again approached the Venetians with the project of seeking north-east passage to China, 1551; suggested the formation of the Company of Merchant Adventurers of London to seek for the passage, 1551; supervised the north-east expeditions to Russia, 1553 and 1556; his pension confirmed by Queen Mary, 1555; deprived of half his pension, perhaps at the instance of Philip II., 1557. [viii. 166]

CADDICK, RICHARD (1740-1819), hebraist; B.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1776; M.A., 1799; resided near London, 1790-1819; published a Hebrew grammar, a Hebrew New Testament, and sermons. [viii. 171]

CADE, JOHN (d. 1450), rebel; said to have been a young Irishman of the household of Sir Thomas Dacre in Sussex; banished for murder, 1449; served in France; soon returned, under the name of Aylmer, a physician; leader of the Kentish rebellion, May 1460; given out to be a nobleman, Mortimer, cousin of the Duke of York; encamped on Blackheath; demanded the dismissal of certain ministers of Henry VI.; defeated the king's troops at Sevenoaks, 27 June; entered Southwark, 1 July; and London, 2 July; beheaded Baron Say and William Crompton, sheriff of Kent, 4 July; repulsed at London Bridge, 6 July; withdrew to Rochester; repulsed at Queenborough; mortally wounded at Heathfield, 12 July. [viii. 171]

CADE, JOHN (1734-1806), antiquary; educated at Darlington school; linen-draper in London and Dublin; retired and studied English antiquities. [viii. 174]

CADE or CADDY, LAURENCE (fl. 1583), Roman catholic seminarian; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge; became a catholic; entered Douay College, 1578; imprisoned in the Tower; publicly renounced catholicism, 1581; Carmelite friar at Paris, 1583. [viii. 174]

CADE, SALUSBURY (1660?-1720), physician; M.D. Trinity College, Oxford, 1691; physician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London, 1708-20. [viii. 175]

CADELL (d. 909), Welsh prince; son of Rhodri Mawr; began to reign over Ceredigion, 877; said to have conquered Powys; ravaged Dyfed and Brecheiniog; submitted to King Alfred, 885?; his territory ravaged by Anarawd, king of Gwynedd 894; harassed by the Irish Danes. [viii. 175]

CADELL (d. 943), Welsh prince; son of Arthvael; lord of Morganwg and part of Gwent; rebelled against the West-Saxons, 940; killed by the Saxons. [viii. 175]

CADELL (d. 1175), Welsh prince; son of Gruffudd, the son of Rhys; ruled over part of Ceredigion and the vale of Towy, 1137; captured the Norman castles on the Towy, including Carmarthen, 1145-7; wasted Kidwelly, 1152; won back Ceredigion from Owain Gwynedd; severely handled by the Flemings of Teuby in an ambuscade; made pilgrimage to Rome; became a monk at Strata Florida. [viii. 176]

CADELL, FRANCIS (1822-1879), Australian explorer; midshipman in the East India Company's service; served in the Chinese war, 1840-1; captain of a vessel, 1844; studied steamboat building; examined the mouth of the Murray river, 1848; explored the Murray and its tributaries in steamers, 1853-9; squatter on the Darling; murdered by his crew at sea. [viii. 176]

CADELL, JESSIE (1844-1884), Persian scholar; wife of an army officer; long resident at Peshawar; published 'Ida Craven,' a novel, 1876; wrote on Omar Khayyam, 1879; died at Florence. [viii. 177]

CADELL, ROBERT (1788-1849), Edinburgh publisher; entered the house of Archibald Constable & Co., 1807; partner, 1811; dissolved partnership, 1826; secured copyright of Sir Walter Scott's novels, 1827, of which he issued several editions. [viii. 178]

CADELL, THOMAS, the elder (1742-1802), London publisher; apprenticed to Andrew Millar in the Strand, 1768; partner, 1765; took over the business, 1767; retired, 1793; alderman of London, 1798, and sheriff, 1800-1. [viii. 179]

CADELL, THOMAS, the younger (1778-1836), publisher; son of Thomas Cadell the elder [q. v.]; took over his father's business, 1793, and carried it on till death. [viii. 179]

CADELL, WILLIAM ARCHIBALD (1775-1855), traveller; educated at Edinburgh; Scottish advocate, 1798; F.R.S., 1810; published narrative of his continental 'Journey, 1817-18,' 1820; author of mathematical papers. [viii. 179]

CADEMAN or CADYMAN, SIR THOMAS (1590?-1651), physician to Queen Henrietta Maria; M.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1609; M.D. Padua, 1620; catholic recusant, 1626; F.R.C.P., 1630; held patent for distilling strong waters and vinegar; wrote medical tracts. [viii. 180]

CADOG the WISS, in Welsh CATTWG DIOETH (d. 570?), Welsh saint; son of Gwynllwg Elwyr, lord of Gwynllwg in Glamorganshire; taught by Irish ascetics; visited Rome, Jerusalem, Ireland, and Scotland; founded abbey and school of Llanccarvan, Glamorganshire; suffered martyrdom at Beueventum; commemorated on 14 Jan.; reputed composer of proverbs, triads, and fables. [viii. 181]

CADOGAN. [See also CADWGAN.]

CADOGAN, CHARLES, second BARON CADOGAN (1691-1776), general; entered the army, 1706; served in Marlborough's later campaigns, and in Scotland, 1718; M.P. for Reading, and for Newport, Isle of Wight; succeeded to barony, 1726; general, 1761. [viii. 186]

CADOGAN, HENRY (1780-1813), colonel; educated at Eton; entered the army, 1797; gained rapid promotion by purchase; lieutenant-colonel, 1805; aide-de-camp to Wellesley in the Peninsula, 1808-10; commanded the 71st Highlanders, 1810-11; commanded brigade, 1811-13; killed at Vittoria; honoured with a monument in St. Paul's. [viii. 181]

CADOGAN, WILLIAM (1601-1661), parliamentarian; went to Ireland, 1633; captain of horse there before 1641; major of horse in Oromwell's Irish army, 1649; governor of Trim, 1649-51. [viii. 182]

CADOGAN, WILLIAM, first EARL CADOGAN (1675-1726), general; cornet at the Boyne, 1690; served in the dragoons under William III in Ireland and Flanders; quartermaster-general to Marlborough, 1701-11, and present in all his great battles; colonel of the dragoon regiment, called 'Cadogan's horse,' 1703-12; brigadier-general, 1704; M.P. for Woodstock from 1705; major-general, 1706; envoy to the Spanish Netherlands, 1707-10; lieutenant-general, 1709-12; lieutenant of the Tower, 1709-1715; took Bouchain, 1711; quartermaster-general to Ormonde, 1712; withdrew to Holland; ejected by the Jacobite party from his offices, 1712; returned to London, 1714; restored to his lieutenant-generalship, 1714; lieutenant of ordnance, 1714-18; colonel of Coldstream guards, 1714; M.P. for Woodstock, 1714; envoy at the Hague, 1714-18; second in command against Scotch insurgents, 1716-16; created Baron Cadogan, 1718; governor of the Isle of Wight, 1716; general, 1717; created Earl Cadogan, 1718; negotiated the quadruple alliance, 1720; commander-in-chief, 1722. [viii. 182]

CADOGAN, WILLIAM (1711-1797), physician; B.A. Oriel College, Oxford, 1731; M.D. Leyden, 1737; army physician; practised medicine in Bristol; physician to the London Foundling Hospital, 1754; M.D. Oxford, 1755; wrote on medical topics. [viii. 187]

CADROE, SAINT (d. 976?), abbot in Lorraine; born in Scotland of noble parents; brought up by a clerical kinsman, Beanus, at Iona; studied at Armagh; taught in Scotland; travelled from Abernethy, 940?, through Strathclyde to Winchester, 942?, thence to Peronne, 943; anchorite in 'Sylva Theorascensis'; monk at Fleury, 944; abbot of Wassor, near Dinant, 946, and of St. Felix and (948) of St. Symphorien, both near Metz. [viii. 187]

CADVAN (6th cent.), Welsh saint; fled from Brittany from the Franks early in the sixth century; built churches in Wales; abbot of a monastery on Bardsey Isle. [viii. 190]

CADVAN (d. 617? or 634?), semi-mythical king of Gwynedd (or North Wales); fought against the Angles of Northumbria. [viii. 190]

CADWALADER. [See CADWALLA.]

CADWALADR (d. 1172), Welsh prince; son of Gruffudd ap Cynan, king of Gwynedd; with his brother, Owain, conquered Meirionydd, 1121, and the north of Ceredigion, 1135-8; granted lordship of these when Owain succeeded to Gwynedd, 1137; expelled by Owain for slaying (1143) Anarawd, son of Gruffudd of South Wales; to avenge himself, brought over Danes from Ireland, who, suspecting treachery, blinded him; ransomed; driven from Meirionydd by his nephews, 1146-8, from Ceredigion by the brothers of Anarawd, and from Anglesey by Owain; fled to the English; restored by Henry II, 1157; invaded South Wales, 1158; resisted Henry II's third invasion, 1155; buried at Bangor. [viii. 190]

CADWALADR CABAIL (fl. 1590), Welsh poet. [viii. 191]

CADWALADE VENNIGAI, i.e. the BLESSED (d. 664?), semi-mythical king of the Britons; led the North and Strathclyde Welsh in their struggle against the Angles under Oswiu and Penda; died of the plague. [viii. 191]

CADWALLADOR, ROGER (1568-1610), Roman catholic martyr; educated at Rheims and Valladolid; catholic priest in Herefordshire, 1594; arrested and executed, 1610. [viii. 192]

CADWALLON. [See CÆDWALLA.]

CADWGAN (d. 1112), Welsh prince; son of Bledydd ap Cynvyn, king of part of Gwynedd; attacked Rhys ap Tewdwr, king of South Wales, 1087, but was defeated at Llechryd; ravaged Dyfed, 1093, but was driven out by the Normans; joined Gruffudd ap Cynan, king of Gwynedd, in recovering Ceredigion and Dyfed and ravaging the English border; ravaged Pembrokeshire; repulsed William Rufus's invasion, 1097; defeated in Anglesey by the Earl of Shrewsbury, 1099; accepted Ceredigion and part of Powys as a fief from the earl, 1100; joined him in making war on Henry I, 1102; restored to his territories by Iorwerth; driven, 1110, from Ceredigion by his nephews, who had been incited to attack his son Owain for carrying off Nest, wife of Gerald of Windsor; deposed by Henry I; granted Powys, 1111; murdered by his nephew. [viii. 192]

CADWGAN, also called MARTIN (d. 1241), bishop of Bangor; styled 'of Llandyval'; abbot of Whitland, Carmarthenshire; named bishop of Bangor by King John, 1215; resigned, 1236, and entered Dore Abbey, Herefordshire. [viii. 194]

CADYMAN, SIR THOMAS (1590?-1651). [See CADEMAN.]

CÆDMON (corruptly CEDMON), SAINT (f. 670), poet; entered the monastery of Streaneshalch (Whithby), when already an elderly man, between 658 and 680; said by Bede to have been an unlearned man, who received suddenly, in a vision, the power of putting into English verse passages translated to him from the scriptures; generally recognised as a saint; commemorated on 11 or 12 Feb. The name Cædmon cannot be explained in English, and has been conjectured to be Celtic (an adaptation of the British Catmanus). In 1655 François Dujon (Franciscus Junius) published at Amsterdam from the unique Bodleian manuscript long scriptural poems, which he took to be those of Cædmon. It is now generally admitted that these poems are of at least two dates, the first portion (containing versions of Genesis, Exodus, Daniel) being earlier than the second portion (1. the fall of man; 2. the descent into hell, ascension, and second advent; 3. the temptation), and all of them later than Cædmon. Three pieces are by some still claimed for Cædmon himself: 1. a Northumbrian version of Bede's Latin paraphrase of Cædmon's first song, found in a Cambridge manuscript of Bede, in a hand possibly of the eighth century; 2. 'The Dream of the Holy Rood,' of which a fragment is found in runes on the Ruthwell cross, Dumfriesshire, and the whole in a West-Saxon manuscript at Vercelli; 3. the fragment on the temptation and fall of man, interpolated in the version of Genesis in the Bodleian manuscript, published in 1655. [viii. 195]

CÆDWALLA (d. 834), also spelt CADWALLADER and CADWALLON, king of Gwynedd or North Wales; son of Cadvan (d. 617? or 634?) [q. v.]; invaded Northumbria, 629; defeated by the Anglian king, Eadwine, and driven to Ireland; in alliance with Peada of Mercia, defeated and slew Eadwine at Hatfield, near Doncaster, 633; mercilessly ravaged Northumbria; killed Osric and Eanfirth, Northumbrian princes, who tried to recover the kingdom, 634; defeated and slain near Hexham by Oswald, nephew of Eadwine. [viii. 201]

CÆDWALLA (659?-689), king of Wessex; expelled from Wessex by King Centwine; lived as an outlaw in the forest of Anderida; met Wilfrith, c. 681; ravaged Sussex, and killed King Æthelwealh, 685; acknowledged king of Wessex, 686; subdued Sussex, ravaged Kent, and conquered the Isle of Wight; resigned, 688; baptised at Rome by Pope Sergius I, 689; died at Rome. [viii. 201]

CÆRLÆON, LEWIS OF (15th cent.), mathematician, theologian, and medical writer of Oxford. [x. 128]

CÆRNARVON. [See CARNARVON.]

CÆSAR, ADELMARE (d. 1569), physician; originally known as CESARE ADELMARE; graduate of Padua; censor of the College of Physicians, London, 1555; medical adviser to Queen Mary in 1558, and subsequently to Queen Elizabeth. [viii. 204]

CÆSAR, SIR CHARLES (1590-1642), judge; third son of Sir Julius Cæsar [q. v.]; entered Magdalen College Oxford, 1602; fellow of All Souls, 1606-11, by king's mandate; M.A., 1608; entered the Inner Temple, 1611; D.O.L., 1612; knighted, 1613; M.P. for Bletchingley, Surrey, 1614; master of chancery, 1615-39; judge of court of audience and master of the faculties from before 1626 till death; paid James I 15,000*l.* for the mastership of the rolls, 1639; died of small-pox. [viii. 202]

CÆSAR, HENRY (1562?-1636), dean of Ely; educated at Oxford and Cambridge; withdrew to the continent as a Roman catholic; returned and recanted, 1583; vicar of Lostwithiel, Cornwall; prosecuted as a suspected papist, 1584, 1589; D.D. Oxford, 1595; rector of St. Christopher-le-Stocks, London, 1596-7, and of Somersham, Huntingdonshire, 1597; prebendary of Westminster, 1609-25; dean of Ely, 1614-36. [viii. 203]

CÆSAR, SIR JULIUS (1558-1636), judge; son of an Italian, Cesare Adelmare, physician to Queen Mary and Elizabeth [see CÆSAR, ADELMARE]; M.A. Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1578; entered the Inner Temple, 1580; LL.D. Paris, 1581; D.O.L. Oxford, 1584; judge of the admiralty, 1584; a master of chancery, 1588-91; M.P., Reigate, 1589, Bletchingley, 1593, Windsor, 1596 and 1601, Westminster, 1607-11, Middlesex, 1614, and Maldon, 1620-2; master of requests, 1591 (senior master, 1600); master of St. Katharine's Hospital, London, 1596; knighted, 1603; chancery of the exchequer, 1606; master of the rolls, 1614-36; wrote on legal topics. [viii. 204]

CÆSAR, JULIUS (1556?-1712?), physician, of Rochester; composed catches. [viii. 207]

CÆSAR, SIR THOMAS (1561-1610), judge; brother of Sir Julius Cæsar [q. v.]; left Merchant Taylors' School, 1578; entered the Inner Temple, 1580; cursor baron of the exchequer and knighted, 1610. [viii. 207]

CAFFIN, SIR JAMES CRAWFORD (1812-1883), admiral; entered the navy, 1824; commander, 1842; on the commission which adopted screw-propeller for navy, 1845; captain, 1847; served in the Baltic, 1854-5; director of stores, 1858-68; rear-admiral, 1865; K.C.B., 1868; admiral, 1877. [viii. 208]

CAFFEYN, MATTHEW (1628-1714), general (or Arminian) baptist; claimed to have been expelled from Oxford for nonconformity; farmer and baptist minister at and near Horsham, Sussex, his native place; several times imprisoned for unlicensed preaching; engaged in platform and pamphlet war with quakers, 1655-62; first accused of Arrianism, 1673; local churches and the baptist assembly greatly agitated by his doctrinal position, 1691-1701, the result being a schism in the connexion, 1701-4; wrote polemical tracts. [viii. 208]

CAHILL, DANIEL WILLIAM (1796-1864), Roman catholic lecturer; educated at Carlow College and Maynooth, 1816; ordained; teacher of mathematical sciences at Carlow College, 1825; created D.D. by the pope; kept school at Williamstown, 1835-41, and at Blackrock, Dublin, 1841-6; journalist in Dublin till 1859; lectured and preached in the United States on behalf of Roman catholic institutions, 1860-4; remains removed to Glasnevin, 1885. [viii. 210]

CAILLAUD, JOHN (d. 1810), Indian officer; arrived in India, 1763; in constant service till his retirement, 1778; brigadier-general, 1763; settled at Aston-Rowant, Oxfordshire; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1778. [viii. 210]

CAILLIN (f. 560), Irish saint; educated at Rome; recalled to stay feuds among his kindred, the Conmaicne, of Dunmor (Connaught); obtained for them lands in Roscommon, Mayo, and other counties; at Dunballe converted to Christianity Aedh dubh (afterwards called Aedh finn), son of Fergna, king of Breifne, received Dunballe (now Fenagh, in Leitrim) from Aedh dubh, and built a monastery there; commemorated on 13 Nov. [viii. 211]

CAIMIN or CAMIN, SAINT (d. 653), of the race of Cathair Mór of Leinster; son of Dima, a noble, and Cumman; an ascetic; lived on Kaltra island in Lough Derg; reputed author of glosses on the 119th Psalm. [viii. 212]

CAIN, RHYS (16th cent.), Welsh poet; named from his birth near the river Cain, Merionethshire; wrote complimentary poems, 1570-1600. [viii. 213]

CAINNECH or CANNICUS, SAINT (d. 598 ?), Irish saint, after whom Kilkenny (Oill-cainnech) and Ombuskenneth, in Scotland, were named; studied in Wales and Italy; lived at Clonard Abbey, Meath, c. 543, and subsequently at Glasnevin, Dublin; visited Columba at Iona; founded Aghaboe (Achadh-bo) Abbey, Queen's County, some time before 577. [viii. 218]

CAIRD, SIR JAMES (1816-1892), agriculturist and author; educated at high school and university, Edinburgh; managed a farm near Stranraner; occupied farm of Baldoin, near Wigtown, 1841-60; took part in free trade controversy; commissioned by Peel to report to government on agricultural state of Ireland, 1846; special commissioner of 'Times' to inquire into distressed state of agriculture since adoption of free trade, 1850; liberal conservative M.P. for Dartmouth, 1857-9; toured in Canada and United States, 1858-9, and published 'Prairie Farming in America,' 1859; M.P. for Stirling burghs, 1859-65; chairman of royal commission on condition of sea fisheries, 1863-6; advocated increased importation of cotton from India, 1863; enclosure commissioner, 1865-82; senior member of land commission, 1882; O.B., 1869; F.R.S., 1865; on commission to inquire into Indian famine, 1878-1879; president of Statistical Society, 1880 and 1881; K.C.B., 1882; honorary LL.D. Edinburgh, 1884; privy councillor, 1889; director of land department of board of agriculture, 1889-91. He published numerous writings on agricultural questions. [Suppl. i. 365]

CAIRD, JOHN (1820-1898), principal of Glasgow University; studied at Glasgow University; M.A., 1845; honorary D.D., 1860; minister of Lady Yester's, Edinburgh, 1847-9, Errol, Perthshire, 1849-57, and Park Church, Glasgow, 1857; professor of theology, Glasgow, 1862; principal, 1873; honorary LL.D. Edinburgh, 1884; Gifford lecturer at Glasgow, 1890-1 and 1896; published works, including 'Introduction to the Philosophy of Religion' (1890). [Suppl. i. 368]

CAIRNCROSS, ALEXANDER (d. 1701), archbishop of Glasgow; a dyer in Edinburgh; parson of Dumfries; bishop of Brechin, 1684; archbishop of Glasgow, 1684-7; bishop of Raphoe, 1693-1701. [viii. 215]

CAIRNCROSS, ROBERT (d. 1544), bishop of Ross; provost of Corstorphine; abbot of Holyrood; bishop of Ross, 1539, holding in commendam the abbacy of Fern; lord high treasurer of Scotland, 1528-9 and 1537-9. [viii. 215]

CAIRNECH, SAINT (d. 539 ?), son of 'Sarran, king of Britain'; harassed in his monastery by his brother, King Luirig; delivered by his cousin, Muircetach MacErc; attended a synod at Tours; bishop of Temhar (Tara) and the clan O'Neill, c. 504. [viii. 215]

CAIRNES, DAVID (1645-1722), defender of Londonderry; a lawyer; advised defence of town, December 1688; sent to William III to ask help; commanded regiment during the siege, April-August 1689; afterwards recorder and M.P. for Londonderry. [viii. 216]

CAIRNES, JOHN ELLIOT (1823-1875), economist; educated at private schools; employed in a brewery at Drogheda; M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1864; professor of political economy, 1856-61, and at Galway, 1859-65; Irish barrister, 1857; professor of political economy, University College, London, 1866; invalided, 1872; hon. LL.D. Dublin, 1874; published anti-slavery tracts, economic treatises, and pamphlets on university education in Ireland. [viii. 216]

CAIRNS, HUGH MCCOALMONT, first EARL CAIRNS, (1819-1885), lord chancellor; educated at Belfast academy and Trinity College, Dublin; B.A., 1838; barrister of the Middle Temple, 1844; migrated to Lincoln's Inn and soon acquired a large practice; M.P. for Belfast, 1852; Q.C., 1856; made his mark as a speaker in parliament, 1858; attorney-general and lord justice of appeal, 1866; created Baron Cairns, 1867; lord chancellor, 1868; leader of the conservative opposition in the lords, 1869-74; strongly opposed disestablishment of Irish church; lord chancellor, 1874-80; created Earl Cairns, 1878; a lucid lawyer; philanthropist. [viii. 217]

CAIRNS, JOHN (1818-1899), presbyterian divine; son of a shepherd; studied at Edinburgh University; M.A., 1841; honorary D.D., 1858; honorary LL.D., 1884; entered Presbyterian Secession Hall, 1840; studied at

Berlin, 1843-4; licensed preacher, 1845; minister of Golden Square Church, Berwick-on-Tweed, 1845-78; professor of apologetics in United Presbyterian Theological Hall, 1867, and joint professor of systematic theology and apologetics, 1876; principal, 1879; Cunningham lecturer at Free Church, 1877 and 1880; preached in America and in many Continental towns; published religious works and translations and contributed largely to periodicals; he wrote the article on Kant in the 'Encyclopædia Britannica,' 8th edition. [Suppl. i. 369]

CAIRNS, WILLIAM (d. 1848), philosophical writer; educated at Glasgow; divinity student at the Anti-burgher College, 1800; minister of the secession church, Johnshaven, Kincardineshire, 1808-15; professor of logic in Belfast Institution, 1815-48; published 'Treatise on Moral Freedom,' 1844. [viii. 220]

CAISTOR, RICHARD (d. 1420), theologian; vicar of St. Stephen's, Norwich, 1402; his tomb in Norwich subsequently a place of pilgrimage. [viii. 220]

CAITHNESS, EARLS OF. (See SINCLAIR, SIR WILLIAM, first EARL, 1404 ?-1480; SINCLAIR, GEORGE, fourth EARL, d. 1582; SINCLAIR, GEORGE, fifth EARL, 1566 ?-1643; SINCLAIR, JAMES, fourteenth EARL, 1821-1881.)

CAIUS or KAY, JOHN, called the elder (d. 1480), translator into English of a Latin poem on the defence of Rhodes (1480), printed in London, 1606. [viii. 221]

CAIUS, JOHN (1510-1573), scholar and physician, called John Caius, junior; educated at Norwich and Gonville Hall, Cambridge (fellow, 1533; M.A., 1535); studied Greek; went to Padua, 1539; lectured there on Aristotle, studied medicine under Giambattista Montano and anatomy under André Vesale; M.D. Padua, 1541; visited the great libraries of Italy, France, and Germany; lectured on anatomy in London, 1544-64; resided at Shrewsbury (where he observed the 'sweating sickness'), and Norwich; F.O.P., 1517; physician to Edward VI and Mary; refounded Gonville Hall, Cambridge, 1567, and was master, 1569-73; dismissed from attendance on Queen Elizabeth as a Roman catholic, 1568; published under the name 'Londinensis' a tract claiming for Cambridge priority over Oxford, 1568; edited and translated Galen, and wrote on medical subjects and Greek pronunciation. [viii. 221]

CAIUS or KEY, THOMAS (d. 1572), author; fellow of All Souls' College, Oxford, 1525; M.A., 1530; registrar of the university, 1535-52; prebendary of Salisbury, 1559; master of University College, Oxford, 1561-72; rector of Tredington, Worcestershire, 1563-72; defended the priority of Oxford against John Caius (1510-1573) [q. v.]; author of translations into English and Latin. [viii. 225]

CALAH, JOHN (1758-1798), composer of church music; organist of Newark-on-Trent, 1781-5, and of Peterborough Cathedral, 1785-98. [viii. 226]

CALAMY, BENJAMIN (1642-1686), divine; second son of Edmund Calamy the elder [q. v.]; educated at St. Paul's School; entered Catharine Hall, Cambridge, before 1660; M.A., 1668 and fellow; D.D., 1680; incumbent of St. Mary, Aldermanbury, 1677; vicar of St. Lawrence Jewry, 1683; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1685; tried to obtain pardon for Alderman Henry Cornish [q. v.], 1685; published sermons. [viii. 226]

CALAMY, EDMUND, the elder (1600-1666), puritan; B.A. Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1619; known as a Calvinist; B.D., 1632; vicar of St. Mary's, Swaffham, Cambridge; lecturer at Bury St. Edmunds, 1627 ?-36, retiring when the bishop insisted on observance of church ceremonies; lecturer at Rochford, Essex; incumbent of St. Mary's, Aldermanbury, 1639-62; one of the authors of 'Smectymnus,' written against Bishop Joseph Hall's claim of divine right for episcopacy; member of Westminster Assembly, 1643; presbyterian and intolerant of congregationalism; opposed Charles I's trial and execution; advocated the Restoration; compelled by his wife to refuse the see of Lichfield and Coventry; member of Savoy conference, 1661; ejected, 1662; imprisoned for unlicensed preaching, 1663; published sermons. [viii. 227]

CALAMY, EDMUND, the younger (1635 ?-1685), puritan; eldest son of Edmund Calamy the elder [q. v.]; educated at Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, 1652-6, and at Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1656; M.A., 1658; ordained presbyterian minister, 1663; intruded rector of Moreton, Essex, 1659-62; withdrew to London; preached in private houses; opened meeting-house, 1672.

[viii. 230]

CALAMY, EDMUND (1671-1732), nonconformist biographer; only son of Edmund Calamy the younger [q. v.]; educated in private schools kept by ejected puritan ministers; studied at Utrecht, 1688-91; resided in Oxford, 1691-2, reading in the Bodleian and preaching in meeting-houses in the district; assistant minister to presbyterian congregation at Blackfriars, 1692-5, and at Bishopsgate, 1695-1703; brought about a public presbyterian ordination, 1694; presbyterian minister at Westminster and lecturer at Salters' Hall, 1703-32; visited Scotland, 1709, and was made D.D. of Edinburgh, Aberdeen, and Glasgow; visited the west of England, 1713; published sermons and biographies, including an 'Account of the Ministers . . . ejected by the Act for Uniformity,' 1702, and 'A Continuation of the Account,' 1727; wrote an autobiography (printed, 1829).

[viii. 231]

CALAMY, EDMUND (1697?-1755), presbyterian; eldest son of Edmund Calamy (1671-1732) [q. v.]; educated at Westminster School, Edinburgh University (M.A., 1717), and Leyden; assistant presbyterian minister in London, 1728-49.

[viii. 235]

CALCOTT. [See also CALCOTT.]

CALCOTT, WELLINS (fl. 1756-1769), author of essays (published 1756), and a treatise on freemasonry, 1769.

[viii. 235]

CALCRAFT, SIR GRANBY THOMAS (1770-1820), cavalry officer; younger son of John Calcrafft the elder [q. v.]; cornet, 1788; served in Flanders, 1793-5; knighted for protecting the Emperor Leopold at Villers-en-Couche, 1794; aide-de-camp to General Lord Paget, 1799; in command of the 3rd dragoon guards, 1800-13; M.P. for Wareham, 1807-8; served through the Peninsular war, partly in command of cavalry brigades, 1809-13; major-general, 1813.

[viii. 235]

CALCRAFT, JOHN, the elder (1726-1779), politician; son of the Duke of Rutland's election agent at Grantham; placed by the Rutland influence in the pay office; made agent for several regiments by Henry Fox, lord Holland, paymaster-general, 1757; deputy commissary-general, 1757-63; made a fortune as army contractor; deserted Fox for Pitt, 1763; M.P. for Rochester, 1768; agitated for parliamentary reform; bought Rempston, Isle of Purbeck, 1767, and Wareham, Dorset, 1767.

[viii. 236]

CALCRAFT, JOHN, the younger (1768-1851), politician; eldest son of John Calcrafft the elder [q. v.]; M.P. for Wareham, 1786-90, 1800-6, and 1818-31, for Rochester, 1806-18, and for Dorset, 1831; clerk of ordinance, 1806-7; paymaster-general, 1828-30; a whig; joined tories, 1828; voted for the Reform bill, 1831; committed suicide.

[viii. 237]

CALCRAFT, WILLIAM (1800-1879), hangman; successively shoemaker, watchman, butler, and hawker; employed to flog boys at Newgate; first acted as hangman, 1828; appointed hangman, 1829; last public execution, 26 May, and first private, 3 Aug. 1868; pensioned, 1874.

[viii. 238]

CALDECOTT, JOHN (1800-1849), astronomer; commercial agent for the rajah of Travancore at Alleppey, 1832-6; director of the rajah's observatory at Trevandrum, 1837-49; author of meteorological and other papers.

[viii. 238]

CALDECOTT, RANDOLPH (1846-1886), artist; educated at Chester school; early showed drawing talent; bank official at Whitechurch and Manchester; settled in London, 1872; drew for periodicals; made his mark as a book-illustrator, 1875; designed in colour children's books, 1878-86; worked for the 'Graphic'; exhibited at various galleries.

[viii. 239]

CALDECOTT, THOMAS (1744-1833), bibliophile; educated at Winchester; fellow of New College, Oxford; B.C.L., 1770; barrister of the Middle Temple; collected a fine library of English sixteenth-century literature; printed privately Shakespearean commentaries.

[viii. 240]

CALDER, JAMES TAIT (1794?-1864), author; educated at Edinburgh; parish schoolmaster of Canlabay,

Caithness; published poems, 1842-6, and a meritorious 'Sketch of the . . . History of Caithness,' 1861. [viii. 241]

CALDER, JOHN (1738-1815), author; educated at Aberdeen; secretary to the Duke of Northumberland; librarian of Dr. Daniel Williams's Library, London; nonconformist minister in London; helped in Thomas Percy's edition of the 'Spectator.' [viii. 241]

CALDER, ROBERT (1650?-1723), Scottish episcopalian; educated at Aberdeen; minister of Neuthorn, Berwickshire, 1689, but ejected as a Jacobite; in prison at Edinburgh, 1693; conducted a private episcopalian chapel at Aberdeen till 1707; prevented from settling in Elgin; conducted chapel in Edinburgh; published treatises in defence of episcopalian positions; reputed compiler of the caustic 'Scottish Presbyterian Eloquence displayed,' 1693.

[viii. 241]

CALDER, SIR ROBERT (1745-1818), admiral; entered the navy, 1759; shared in the prize-money for the Spanish Hermione, the richest prize on record, 1762; commanded ships on the home station, 1780-3; fought at the battle of St. Vincent; knighted for bringing home the despatches, 1797; created baronet, 1798; rear-admiral, 1799; allowed a French squadron to outmanoeuvre him, 1801; came upon Villeneuve's fleet off Finisterre, 22 July 1805; neglected to engage it, 23 July; dispersed his ships, and had to fall back before Villeneuve, 9 Aug., leaving English coast exposed to attack; recalled, and censured for error of judgment, 1806; admiral, 1810.

[viii. 242]

CALDERBANK, JAMES (1769-1821), Benedictine monk; priest; stationed at Weston, Somerset; at Bath, 1809-17, and afterwards at Liverpool; published controversial letters.

[viii. 243]

CALDERBANK, LEONARD (1809-1864), Roman catholic priest and canon of Clifton; educated at Ampleforth, at Prior Park, Bath, 1829, and in Rome; priest, 1832; missionary in west of England from 1833; vice-president and professor at Prior Park, 1849-50.

[viii. 244]

CALDERON, PHILIP HERMOGENES (1833-1898), painter; born at Poitiers; articled to civil engineer in England; studied in Paris under Francois Edouard Picot; first exhibited Royal Academy, 1853; R.A., 1867; keeper of Royal Academy, 1887. He was regarded as the leader of the 'St. John's Wood school' of painters. Among his most important works are 'After the Battle,' 1862, 'Her Most High, Noble, and Puissant Grace,' 1866 (gold medal, Paris, 1867), and 'The Renunciation of St. Elizabeth of Hungary,' 1891.

[Suppl. i. 371]

CALDERWOOD, DAVID (1575-1650), presbyterian apologist; educated at Edinburgh; minister of Oralling, Roxburghshire, 1604; confined to his parish for opposing Bishop James Law, 1608; one of the protesters against James I's church measures, 1617; personally scolded by the king; banished; in Holland, 1619-25; published 'The Altar of Damascus,' 1621, a defence of presbyterianism; and an expanded Latin version of it, 1623; minister of Pencaitland, East Lothian, 1640; one of the compilers of the official 'Directory for Public Worship'; wrote 'History of the Kirk of Scotland' (first printed in an abridgment, 1678); published controversial tracts.

[viii. 244]

CALDERWOOD, HENRY (1830-1897), philosopher; educated at Edinburgh University and Theological Hall of United Presbyterian Church; licensed preacher, 1856; published, 1854, 'Philosophy of the Infinite,' a criticism of the agnostic tendencies of Sir William Hamilton's philosophy; ordained minister of Greyfriars Church, Glasgow, 1856-68; examiner in philosophy, Glasgow, 1861; LL.D. Glasgow, 1865; professor of moral philosophy, Edinburgh, 1868; F.R.S. Edinburgh, 1869; moderator of synod, 1880; edited 'United Presbyterian Magazine'; first chairman of Edinburgh school board, 1873-7; published philosophical works, including 'Evolution and Man's Place in Nature,' 1893.

[Suppl. i. 373]

CALDERWOOD, MARGARET (1715-1774), diarist; née Stewart; married, 1735; withdrew to Brussels, 1766; wrote from that date a diary and narrative of events in Scotland (printed 1842).

[viii. 246]

CALDERWOOD, SIR WILLIAM, LORD POLTON (1680?-1733), Scottish advocate, 1687; knighted before 1707; lord of session, 1711.

[viii. 246]

CALDICOTT, ALFRED JAMES (1842-1897), musician; chorister at Worcester Cathedral; article as organist; studied music at Leipzig; organist at St. Stephen's, Worcester, 1866-82; composed operettas for Thomas German Reed [q.v.]; conducted at Prince of Wales's Theatre, 1889-90; conductor to Miss Agnes Huntingdon's light opera company in America, 1890; professor at Royal College of Music and Guildhall School of Music, 1890-2; principal of London College of Music; conductor at Comedy Theatre, 1893. He composed many part-songs, operettas, and glees. [Suppl. i. 374]

CALDWALL, JAMES (b. 1739), portrait-engraver; exhibited, 1788-80. [viii. 246]

CALDWALL, RICHARD (1505?-1584), physician; B.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1533; student of Christ Church, 1547; M.D., 1555; practised in London. [viii. 246]

CALDWELL, SIR ALEXANDER (1763-1839), artillery officer; educated at Woolwich; served in Bengal, 1783-1808; at the storming of Seringapatam, 1799; major, 1807; served in Java, 1811; lieutenant-colonel, 1812; retired, 1821; major-general and K.C.B., 1837. [viii. 247]

CALDWELL, ANDREW, the elder (1733-1808), Irish barrister; studied law in London; Irish barrister, 1760; published pamphlets. [viii. 247]

CALDWELL, SIR BENJAMIN (1737?-1820), admiral; entered the navy, 1756; commanded frigate, 1765; commander of the Agamemnon in the Bay of Biscay, 1781, and in the West Indies, 1782-3; rear-admiral, 1793; commanded the Impregnable in the action of 1 June 1794; in command on Leeward Islands station, 1794-5; admiral, 1799; G.C.B., 1820. [viii. 248]

CALDWELL, HUME (1733-1762), Irishman; colonel in the Austrian service; served through the seven years' war; led the storming party at Schweidnitz, 1761; died of wounds. [viii. 248]

CALDWELL, SIR JAMES LILLYMAN (1770-1863), general; cadet in East India Company's service, 1788; ensign, Madras engineers, 1789; captain-lieutenant, 1796; captain, 1802; colonel, 1825; major-general, 1846; general, 1854; served in campaigns against Tipu, 1791-2 and 1799; engineer in charge of central division of Madras army, 1811; special surveyor of fortresses, 1813; C.B., 1815; acting chief engineer of Madras, 1816; lieutenant-colonel-commandant of his corps, 1824; retired and was made K.C.B., 1837; G.C.B., 1848. [Suppl. i. 375]

CALDWELL, JOHN (1628-1679). [See FENWICK.]

CALDWELL, ROBERT (1814-1891), coadjutor bishop of Madras; B.A. Glasgow, 1837; LL.D., 1867; sent by London Missionary Society to Madras; joined English church and associated himself with Society for Propagation of Gospel, 1841; established himself at Tinnevely, 1841; consecrated bishop of Tinnevely as coadjutor to bishop of Madras, 1877; assisted in Tamil versions of Prayer-book, 1842 and 1872, and bible, 1858-69; D.D. Durham, 1874; published 'Comparative Grammar of South Indian Family of Languages,' 1856, and works relating to history of Tinnevely mission, and other writings. [Suppl. i. 376]

CALENIUS, WALTER (d. 1151), archdeacon of Oxford; name used by John Bale for an undefined 'Walter,' who was archdeacon of Oxford from 1115 to 1138, and before and after these dates; king's justiciar, 1118? and 1125. This Walter, according to Geoffrey of Monmouth, brought from Brittany the Celtic original of the Chronicle which Geoffrey professed to translate. 'Calena,' a misreading for Calleva (i.e. Silchester), being, in the bastard-Latin of the sixteenth century, used for Oxford, Bale, by 'Calenius,' meant only 'Walter of Oxford.' White Kennett, following the later but equally erroneous identification of Calena, styles him 'Walter of Wallingford.' He is sometimes confused with later archdeacons of Oxford, Walter of Coutances, 1183, and Walter Map, 1196. [viii. 249]

CALETO or CAUX, JOHN DE (d. 1263), minister of Henry III.; so called probably from his birthplace, the Pays de Caux, Normandy; monk of St. Swithun's, Winchester, and (1247) chosen prior; abbot of Peterborough, by royal mandate, 1250-63; justice itinerant, 1254-8; treasurer of England, 1260. [viii. 250]

CALEY, JOHN (d. 1834), government official; employed in the Record Office; keeper of records in the Augmentation Office, 1787, and (concurrently) in the treasury at Westminster, 1818, and (jointly with both offices) special sub-commissioner of records; secretary to the first record commission, 1801-31; accused of incompetence, indolence, and dishonesty in his offices; F.S.A., 1786; wrote on archaeological subjects. [viii. 251]

CALFILL or CALFIELD, JAMES (1530?-1670), divine; at Eton, 1540; at King's College, Cambridge, 1545; student of Christ Church, Oxford, 1548; M.A., 1552; canon of Christ Church and B.D., 1561; rector of St. Andrew Wardrobe, London, and prebendary of St. Paul's, 1562; Lady Margaret professor of divinity, Oxford, 1564; rector and dean of Bocking, and archdeacon of Colchester, 1565-70; D.D., 1566; nominated bishop of Worcester, but died before consecration; Calvinist; wrote Latin verses and a polemical tract. [viii. 252]

CALGACUS (Æ. 84?). [See GALGACUS.]

CALHOUN, PATRICK (1727-1796), American settler; emigrated from Ireland, 1733; settled successively in Pennsylvania, Virginia, and South Carolina; fought against the Indians and against the British. [viii. 253]

CALKIN, JAMES (1786-1862), composer; music-master in London; organist of Regent Square Church, Gray's Inn Road, London. [viii. 253]

CALL, SIR JOHN (1732-1801), military engineer; went to Bengal with Benjamin Robins (d. 1751), chief engineer to the East India Company, 1750; employed in fortifying Fort St. David, Carnatic, 1751; served with Olive, 1762; chief engineer at Fort St. David, 1762-7; chief engineer of the Coromandel coast, 1768; at siege of Pondicherry, 1761, and Vellore, 1762; returned to England, 1769; high sheriff of Cornwall, 1771; served on commission on crown lands from 1782; M.P. for Callington, 1784-90; created baronet, 1791; became blind, 1795. [viii. 253]

CALLACHAN, KING OF IRELAND (d. 954). [See ORALLACHAN.]

CALLANAN, JEREMIAH JOHN (1795-1829), poet; native of Cork; Erse scholar; at Maynooth and Trinity College, Dublin; taught school; wandered in south-west Ireland, collecting legends and songs (never published); died at Lisbon; wrote verses, and translated largely from the Irish and Portuguese; his poems printed, 1830. [viii. 254]

CALLANDER, EARL OF (d. 1674). [See LIVINGSTONE, JAMES.]

CALLANDER, JAMES (1745-1832). [See CAMPBELL, SIR JAMES.]

CALLANDER, JOHN (d. 1789), Scottish advocate; wrote notes on Milton and the Greek poets; published redaction of Australian voyages, 1766-8, and other works. [viii. 255]

CALLAWAY, HENRY (1817-1890), missionary bishop of St. John's, Kaffraria; schoolmaster at Heavitree, 1833; studied surgery at St. Bartholomew's Hospital; L.R.C.S., 1842; L.A.S., 1844; M.D. Aberdeen, 1853; joined Society for Propagation of Gospel, 1854, and proceeded to Durban; in charge of mission church of Eukanyeni, near Pietermaritzburg, 1854; minister of St. Andrew's Church, 1855; settled at Spring Vale on the Insunguze, 1868, and studied native traditions; consecrated at Edinburgh missionary bishop of St. John's, Kaffraria, 1873; honorary D.D. Oxford, 1874; resigned bishopric, 1886; chief work, 'Religious System of the Amazulu,' 1883-70. [Suppl. i. 378]

CALCOTT, SIR AUGUSTUS WALL (1779-1844), painter; chorister of Westminster Abbey; art student of the Royal Academy; R.A., 1810; married, 1827 [see CALCOTT, MARIA, LADY]; knighted, 1837; exhibited at the Academy, 1799; exhibited in the main English landscapes, 1804-24, foreign landscapes, 1830-6, and figure-paintings, 1837-40. [viii. 256]

CALCOTT, JOHN WALL (1766-1821), composer; brother of preceding; learned the organ, 1778, clarinet, 1780, and oboe, 1781; sang in the chorus of operas; assistant-organist of St. George-the-Martyr, Bloomsbury, 1783-5; Mus. Bac. Oxford, 1784; organist of the Female Orphans Asylum, 1793-1802; Mus. Doc. Oxford, 1800; lecturer on music at the Royal Institution, 1806; latterly insane; published 'Musical Grammar,' 1806; his glees and catches published, 1824; some of his manuscripts preserved in British Museum. [viii. 256]

CALLCOTT, MARIA, LADY (1795-1849), author: née Dundas; married (1) in India, Thomas Graham (d. 1822), captain R.N., in 1809; and (2) Sir Augustus Wall Callcott [q. v.]; published descriptions of her surroundings in India, Brazil, Chili, Italy, also 'Little Arthur's History of England,' 1835. [viii. 258]

CALLCOTT, WILLIAM HUTCHINS (1807-1882), composer; son of John Wall Callcott [q. v.]; organist of Ely Place Chapel; composed songs, glees, and arrangements for the piano. [viii. 258]

CALLENDER, GEORGE WILLIAM (1830-1878), surgeon; student of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London, 1849, and surgeon, 1871; lectured there on anatomy, 1865, and surgery, 1873; published anatomical treatises. [viii. 259]

CALLENDER, JAMES THOMSON (d. 1803), journalist; prosecuted for a pamphlet, 1793; withdrew to America, 1794; journalist at Philadelphia, 1794-8, and Richmond; wrote bitterly against the first three presidents of the United States. [viii. 259]

CALLIS, ROBERT (f. 1634), serjeant-at-law; of Gray's Inn; serjeant-at-law, 1627; published law tracts. [viii. 260]

CALLOW, JOHN (1822-1878), painter of landscapes and sea-pieces in water-colours; studied in Paris, 1855-1854; an esteemed teacher of drawing and painting in London; taught drawing at the military academies of Addiscombe, 1851-60, and Woolwich. [viii. 260]

CALTHORPE, SIR HENRY (1586-1637), lawyer; of the Middle Temple; counsel in political cases, 1627 and 1630, recorder of London, 1636-8, by king's mandate; attorney of court of wards, 1636; knighted. [viii. 260]

CALTHORPE, SIR CHARLES (d. 1616), Irish lawyer; attorney-general for Ireland, 1583-1606, employed in safeguarding crown claims on forfeited estates; knighted, 1604; justice of common pleas in Ireland, 1606. [viii. 261]

CALVELEY, SIR HUGH (d. 1393), soldier; commander of free-lances in the war in Brittany, 1341-64; fought at Auray, 1364; served with Henry of Trastamare, 1366, but left him and joined the Black Prince, 1367; wasted the county of Armagnac; governor of the Channel Islands, 1376-88; deputy of Calais, and fighting the French, 1377-9; governor of Brest; a commander in Buckingham's futile invasion of France, 1380; founded college at Bunbury, Cheshire, 1385. [viii. 262]

CALVER, EDWARD (f. 1649), puritan; published metrical pieces, 1641-9. [viii. 263]

CALVERLEY, CHARLES STUART (1831-1884) poet and parodist; son of the Rev. Henry Blayds, who assumed the name Calverley, 1852; at Harrow, 1846-9; athlete and writer of Latin verse; scholar of Balliol College, Oxford, 1850-2; migrated to Christ's College, Cambridge, 1852, fellow, 1858, M.A., 1859; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1865; published 'Verses and Translations,' 1862; translated Theocritus, 1869. [viii. 264]

CALVERLEY, HENRY (1604-1661), royalist; heir of Walter Calverley [q. v.]; fined for delinquency. [viii. 265]

CALVERLEY, WALTER (d. 1606), murderer, whose tragic history was widely celebrated; squire of Calverley Hall, Yorkshire; studied at Cambridge, 1579; forced by his guardian to marry Philippa Brooke; by gambling and drink brought himself to bankruptcy; murdered two of his young sons, 1606; pressed to death at York; subject of 'Miseries of Enforced Marriage,' 1607, and 'Yorkshire Tragedy,' 1608. [viii. 265]

CALVERT, CAROLINE LOUISA WARING (1834-1872), author of descriptions of Australian scenery and Australian tales, published under her maiden name, LOUISA ATKINSON; daughter of a settler in New South Wales; lived on the rivers Hawkesbury and Kurrumbidgee; collected specimens for the government botanist; the genus Atkinsonia and the species (Euphorbia) Calvertiana named after her; married (1870) James Snowden Calvert [q. v.]. [viii. 265]

CALVERT, CHARLES, the elder (1754-1797), estate agent and amateur painter. [viii. 266]

CALVERT, CHARLES, the younger (1786-1862), landscape-painter; cotton merchant, then art-teacher, in Manchester. [viii. 266]

CALVERT, CHARLES ALEXANDER (1828-1879), actor; educated at King's College School, London; clerk in the city; appeared on the provincial stage, 1862; appeared in London, 1865; stage-manager at Manchester, 1869; staged Shakespearean plays, 1864-77. [viii. 266]

CALVERT, EDWARD (1799-1883), artist; midshipman in the navy; art student at Plymouth and London; friend of William Blake; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1825-36; engraver. [viii. 267]

CALVERT, FREDERICK, sixth BARON BALTIMORE (1731-1771), a rake; lived much abroad; the title extinct on his death; published journal of a 'Tour in the East ... 1763-4,' and Latin verses. [viii. 268]

CALVERT, FREDERICK BALTIMORE (1793-1877), actor and lecturer; son of Charles Calvert the elder [q. v.]; educated for Roman catholic priesthood; went on the stage; published 'A Defence of the Drama,' 1824; travelled as a lecturer on elocution in Great Britain and America, 1829-46; lecturer in Edinburgh and Glasgow, 1846-77; published treatises on elocution. [viii. 268]

CALVERT, FREDERICK ORACE (1819-1873), chemist; resided in France studying and practising chemistry, 1835-46, chiefly under Michel Eugène Chevreul; chemical teacher, specialist, and manufacturer in Manchester, 1846-73; died at the Vienna exhibition; published scientific papers. [viii. 269]

CALVERT, GEORGE, first BARON BALTIMORE (1580?-1632), statesman; entered Trinity College, Oxford, 1594; B.A., 1597; travelled; secretary to Sir Robert Cecil; clerk of council in Ireland, 1608; M.P. for Bosiney, 1609-11; temporary secretary of state, 1612-13; a commissioner to investigate Irish grievances, 1613; knighted, 1617; secretary of state, 1619-25; a pensioner of the king, 1620; M.P. for Yorkshire, 1621; received large grants of land in Longford county; planted a colony (Avalon) in Newfoundland, 1621-3; professed Roman catholic, 1625; created baron, 1625; wintered at Avalon, 1628-9; prevented by the Virginia Company from planting a colony south of the James river, 1629-31; obtained a grant of land for a colony (Maryland) north of the Potomac, 1632. [viii. 269]

CALVERT, GEORGE (1795-1825), surgeon. [viii. 272]

CALVERT, SIR HARRY (1763?-1826), general; entered the army, 1778; served in America, 1779-81; prisoner-of-war, 1781-3; captain, 1785; aide-de-camp to the Duke of York in Holland, 1793-4; adjutant-general of the forces, 1799-1818; major-general, 1803; G.O.B., 1815; created baronet, 1818; lieutenant-governor of Chelsea Hospital, 1820; general, 1821; his journals published, 1853. [viii. 272]

CALVERT, JAMES SNOWDEN (1825-1884), Australian explorer; emigrated, 1840; joined Ludwig Leichhardt's exploring party, 1844-5. [viii. 273]

CALVERT, LEONARD (d. 1647), governor of Maryland; second son of George Calvert, baron Baltimore [q. v.]; planted Maryland, 1634; fought with Captain Clayborne, a prior settler, 1635; sent out to Maryland with a new commission, 1644; finally defeated Clayborne, 1646-7. [viii. 273]

CALVERT, MICHAEL (1770-1862), author of a 'History of Knaresborough,' 1844; druggist. [viii. 274]

CALVERT, RAISLEY (d. 1794), sculptor. [viii. 266]

CALVERT, THOMAS (1606-1679), puritan; educated at Cambridge; preacher in York minster and incumbent of two churches in York; ejected, 1662; published sermons. [viii. 274]

CALVERT, THOMAS (1775-1840), divine; called Thomas Jackson till 1819, when he inherited property; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1797; fellow, 1798; tutor, 1814; D.D., 1823; Norrisian professor of divinity, 1814-24; vicar of Holme, Yorkshire, 1822; warden of Manchester, 1823; published sermons. [viii. 275]

CAMBELL or CAMPBELL, SIR JAMES (1570-1642), ironmonger, of London; alderman, 1620; lord mayor, 1629; knighted, 1630. [viii. 275]

CAMBRENSIS, GIRALDUS (1146?-1220?). [See GIRALDUS.]

CAMBRIDGE, DUKE OF (1774-1850). [See ADOLPHUS FREDERICK.]

CAMBRIDGE, EARLS OF. [See LANGLEY, EDWARD DE, 1341-1402; RICHARD, d. 1415; HAMILTON, JAMES, first EARL, 1589-1625; HAMILTON, JAMES, second EARL, 1606-1649; HAMILTON, WILLIAM, third EARL, 1616-1661.]

CAMBRIDGE, JOHN (d. 1335). [See CANTERBRIG, JOHN DE.]

CAMBRIDGE, RICHARD OWEN (1717-1802), author; educated at Eton and St. John's College, Oxford, 1734; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1737; published satirical verses, 1752-6, and a 'History of the War upon the Coast of Oromandel,' 1761. [viii. 276]

CAMDEN, MARQUIS OF (1759-1840). [See PRATT, JOHN JEFFREYS.]

CAMDEN, EARL OF (1713-1793). [See PRATT, CHARLES.]

CAMDEN, WILLIAM (1551-1623), antiquary and historian; educated at Christ's Hospital and (1564-6) at St. Paul's School; servitor (apparently to Thomas Cooper, schoolmaster) at Magdalen College, Oxford, 1566; migrated to Broadgates Hall, and afterwards to Christ Church (perhaps as servitor); asked grace for B.A., 1570; left Oxford, 1571, having been excluded from an All Souls' fellowship by the catholic fellows; began to travel up and down England, probably subsidised by Gabriel Goodman (d. 1601), dean of Westminster, collecting archaeological material; usher of Westminster School, 1575-93; appointed head-master, 1593; continued in vacations, 1578-1600, his personal tours of antiquarian investigation; published 'Britannia,' 1586; asked grace for M.A., June 1588; prebendary of Salisbury (though a layman), 1589-1623; published a Greek grammar, 1597; Clarenceux king-of-arms, 1597-1623; answered in his fifth edition of 'Britannia,' 1600, the criticisms (printed, 1599) of Ralph Brooke (or Brookesmouth) [q. v.]; printed the epitaphs in Westminster Abbey, 1600; published certain chronicles (being some of his early collections for the 'Britannia'), 'Anglica . . . a veteribus scripta,' Frankfurt, 1603, containing in the text of Asser [q. v.] the interpolation about King Alfred's foundations in Oxford, and 1606, 'Remains concerning Britain'; issued the sixth (greatly enlarged) edition of 'Britannia,' and printed the official account of the Gunpowder plot trials, 1607; named a foundation fellow of Matthew Sutcliffe's projected college at Chelsea, 1610; offered M.A. by Oxford University, 1613; communicated to Thuanus (Jacques Auguste de Thou) his manuscript history of Elizabeth's reign, c. 1607; published 'Annales . . . regnante Elizabetha . . . ad annum 1589, 1615 [the second part was printed posthumously, 1628]; wrote a skeleton life of James I (printed, 1631); founded a chair of history in Oxford University, 1622; memorial verses, 'Camdeni Insignia,' printed after his death by Oxford University, 1624; his correspondence printed by Thomas Smith, 1691. [viii. 277]

CAMELEAC (d. 927). [See CIMELIAUC.]

CAMELFORD, first BARON (1737-1793). [See PRITT, THOMAS.]

CAMERON, SIR ALAN (1753-1828), of Errach, general; volunteer officer in America, 1775-82; prisoner of war, 1782; returned to Scotland, 1784; raised the Cameron Highlanders (79th regiment), 1794; commanded it in Flanders, 1795, and the West Indies, 1796; lieutenant-colonel, 1796; recruited his regiment, 1798; commanded it in Holland, 1799, and Egypt, 1801; raised a second battalion, 1804; colonel, 1804; commanded the 79th in Denmark, 1807; brigadier-general, 1808; collected the stragglers of Sir John Moore's army, 1809; commanded brigade at Talavera, 1809, and Busaco, 1810; major-general and invalided home, 1810; K.C.B., 1815; lieutenant-general, 1819. [viii. 286]

CAMERON, ALEXANDER (1747-1828), Roman catholic prelate; educated at Rome; missionary at Strathaven, 1772; rector of the Scots college, Valladolid, 1780; titular bishop of Maximianopolis, 1798; coadjutor-bishop in Scotland, 1802, and vicar-apostolic of the Lowlands, 1806-28. [viii. 286]

CAMERON, SIR ALEXANDER (1781-1850), of Inverallort, general; ensign, 1797; lieutenant, 1800; served in Holland, 1799, Denmark, 1800, and Egypt, 1801; captain, 1805; served with distinction in Peninsula, 1808-13; brevet major, 1811; brevet lieutenant-colonel, 1812; served in Flanders, 1813, and at Quatre Bras and Waterloo, 1815; major-general and K.C.B., 1828. [viii. 286]

CAMERON, ARCHIBALD (1707-1753), Jacobite; a younger son of Lochiel; studied medicine at Edinburgh and Paris; practised in Lochaber; acted as physician to the insurgents, 1746; effected the escape of Prince Charles, 1746; became physician to a regiment in the French service; arrested, 1753, while collecting money in Scotland; executed at London. [viii. 287]

CAMERON, CHARLES DUNCAN (d. 1870), British consul; army officer, 1846-51; served in South Africa, 1846-7 and 1851-2; political agent in Zululand and magistrate in Natal; officer in the Turkish service at Kars, 1855; British vice-consul in Asia Minor, 1858; consul at Massowah, 1862; imprisoned by King Theodore at Gondar, 1864, an act which occasioned the Abyssinian war; released, 1868. [viii. 288]

CAMERON, CHARLES HAY (1795-1880), jurist; barrister, Lincoln's Inn, 1820; commissioner on law administration in Ceylon, 1831, and on the poor laws, 1833; law member of the Supreme Council of India, 1835; employed in codifying the Indian penal laws; returned to England, 1848; retired to Ceylon, 1875. [viii. 288]

CAMERON, DONALD (1695?-1748), the GENTLE LOCHIEL; succeeded to chieftaincy of the clan Cameron, 1719; reluctantly joined Prince Charles, 1745; accompanied him to Edinburgh and Derby; wounded at Falkirk, 1745, and Culloden, 1746; attainted; escaped with Prince Charles to France, 1746; commanded regiment in the French service. [viii. 289]

CAMERON, SIR DUNCAN ALEXANDER (1808-1888), general; ensign, 42nd royal highlanders, 1825; captain, 1833; lieutenant-colonel, 1843; served in Crimea, with local rank in Turkey of brigadier; C.B., 1855; major-general, 1859; commander of forces in New Zealand, 1861; K.C.B., 1864; resigned commission and returned to England, 1865; colonel, 1863; general, 1874; governor of Sandhurst, 1868-75; G.C.B., 1873. [Suppl. i. 379]

CAMERON, SIR EWEN or EVAN (1629-1719), of Lochiel; a hostage in the hands of the Marquis of Argyll, 1641-7; resided in Lochaber, 1647, hunting wolves and fighting the Macdonalds; raised his clan to fight the Commonwealth forces, 1652; submitted on honourable terms to Monck, 1658; accompanied Monck to London; received at Charles II's court, 1660, but his claims disregarded; at feud with the Macintoshes; knighted, 1681; raised his clan to join Viscount Dundee, 1690; retired to Lochaber after Killiecrankie; submitted to William III, 1692; sent his clan to join the Earl of Mar's rising, 1714. [viii. 290]

CAMERON, GEORGE POULETT (1806-1892), colonel; cadet in the Madras army, 1821; served against the Mahratas, 1824-5; served with Don Pedro in Portugal, 1832-3; in the Persian service, 1836-8; in the East India Company's service, 1842-58; published travels and memoirs. [viii. 293]

CAMERON, HUGH (1705-1817), millwright; introduced spinning-wheel into the highlands; designed the first barley-mill north of the Forth; built numerous lint-mills in the highlands. [viii. 293]

CAMERON, JOHN (d. 1446), bishop of Glasgow; probably of a Midlothian family; official of Lothian, 1422; rector of Cambuslang, Lanarkshire, 1424; secretary to James I of Scotland; provost of Lincluden, 1425; keeper of the privy seal; keeper of the great seal, 1426; chancellor of Scotland, 1428-39; bishop of Glasgow, 1428; supported the royal authority against the ecclesiastical courts; envoy to the council of Basle, 1433, to Italy, 1436, and to England, 1437. [viii. 293]

CAMERON, JOHN (1879?-1826), theologian; educated at Glasgow; taught Greek and Latin at Bordeaux, 1800, and Sedan, 1802; sent by the protestant church at Bordeaux to study divinity at Paris, Geneva, and Heidelberg, 1804-8; protestant minister at Bordeaux, 1808-17; professor of divinity at Saumur, 1818; withdrew to London, 1820; principal of Glasgow University, 1822; hated for his subservieny to James I; returned to Saumur, 1823; professor of divinity at Montauban, 1824; wrote theological treatises. [viii. 296]

CAMERON, JOHN (1724-1799), presbyterian; book-seller's apprentice at Edinburgh; graduated M.A. there; minister of the reformed presbyterian church; itinerant preacher in Ulster, 1760; presbyterian minister at Dunluce, 1768-99; published, mainly anonymously, treatises of a unitarian tendency. [viii. 296]

CAMERON, JOHN (1771-1815), of Fasseltern, colonel; educated at Aberdeen; ensign, 1793; lieutenant, 1794; served in Holland, 1799, and Egypt, 1801; major, 1801; lieutenant-colonel, 1808; commanded Gordon Highlanders (92nd regiment) in Holland, 1809, and throughout the Peninsular war, 1810-14; killed at Quatre Bras. [viii. 297]

CAMERON, SIR JOHN (1773-1844), of Calchenna, general; educated at Eton; ensign, 1787; served in West Indies, 1793; captain, 1794; prisoner of war, 1794-7; served in West Indies, 1797-1800; lieutenant-colonel, 1807; commanded battalion of 9th regiment in Portugal, 1808, Holland, 1809, and the Peninsula, 1810-13; colonel, 1814; held command in Canada, 1814, and France, 1815; K.C.B., 1815; major-general, 1821; lieutenant-general, 1837. [viii. 298]

CAMERON, JOHN ALEXANDER (d. 1886), war correspondent; bank clerk in Inverness; merchant's clerk in Bombay; war correspondent in Afghanistan, 1878-80, Natal, 1880-1, Egypt, 1882, Madagascar, Tonquin, and Egypt, 1884; killed in action. [viii. 299]

CAMERON, JULIA MARGARET (1815-1879), photographer of Charles Darwin, Alfred Tennyson, and Robert Browning; née Pattle; born at Calcutta; married, 1838, Charles Hay Cameron [q. v.]; came to England, 1848; took up photography, c. 1865; retired to Ceylon, 1876. [viii. 300]

CAMERON, LUCY LYTTLETON (1781-1858), writer of religious tales for children; daughter of George Butt [q. v.]; married, 1806, the Rev. Charles Richard Cameron. [viii. 300]

CAMERON, RICHARD (d. 1680), covenanter; school-master and preceptor at Falkland, Fife; tutor in the family of Scott of Harden; field preacher in Dumfries and Lanark shires; went to Holland, 1678; returned, 1680; joined in the act of deposing Charles II at Soughar; outlawed; killed in a skirmish at Aird's Moss, Ayrshire. The 'Reformed Presbyterians' are from him popularly termed 'Cameronians'. [viii. 301]

CAMERON, VERNY LOVETT (1844-1894), African explorer; entered navy, 1867; midshipman, 1860; lieutenant, 1865; in Abyssinian campaign, 1868; employed in suppression of slave trade in East Africa; leader of Royal Geographical Society's expedition to aid Livingstone, 1873; journeyed from Raheneko to Unyan-yembe, where he heard of Livingstone's death; proceeded to Lake Tanganyika, and the sources of the Zambesi and Bihé, and arrived at Katombela, 1876; commander and C.B., 1876; received R.G.S. gold medal; honorary D.O.L. Oxford; travelled in Asiatic Turkey, 1878; accompanied Sir Richard Francis Burton [q. v.] to west coast of Africa, 1882; retired from navy, 1883; published tales of adventure and accounts of his travels. [Suppl. i. 379]

CAMERON, WILLIAM (1751-1811), Scottish poet; educated at Aberdeen; minister of Kirknewton, Midlothian, 1786; joint-editor of the Scots 'Paraphrases'; wrote chiefly didactic verse. [viii. 302]

CAMIDGE, JOHN, the elder (1735-1803), organist; chorister of York Minster; partly taught by Handel; organist of York Minster, 1766-99. [viii. 302]

CAMIDGE, JOHN, the younger (1790-1869), organist; taught by his father, Matthew Camidge [q. v.]; Mrs. Bac., 1812, and Mus. Doc. Cambridge, 1819; assistant organist at York Minster, and organist, 1842-59; published church music. [viii. 303]

CAMIDGE, MATTHEW (1788-1844), organist; son of John Camidge the elder [q. v.]; chorister of the Chapel Royal; assistant organist at York Minster; organist, 1799-1842; published musical compositions. [viii. 303]

CAMM, ANNE (1627-1708), quakeress; née Newby; educated in puritan surroundings in London, 1640-7; married, at Kendal, 1660, John Audland (d. 1663); joined the quakers, 1652, and preached for the rest of her life, especially in Oxfordshire; imprisoned at Banbury, 1653; married Thomas Camm [q. v.], c. 1665. [viii. 303]

CAMM, JOHN (1804?-1858), quaker minister; joined the quakers, 1852; came to London to interview Oromwell, 1654; visited Bristol and London, 1856; published tracts. [viii. 304]

CAMM, THOMAS (1641-1707), quaker minister; son of John Camm [q. v.]; imprisoned for not paying tithes, 1674; fined for unlicensed preaching, 1678; imprisoned, probably for preaching, 1680-6; published tracts. [viii. 304]

CAMMIN, SAINT (d. 653). [See CAIMIN.]

CAMOCKE, GEORGE (1666?-1722?), naval officer; of an Essex family; born in Ireland; entered the navy, 1682; lieutenant, 1690; served in the Channel, the Mediterranean, and off Spain, 1690-7; served, chiefly on the Irish coast, 1699-1712; captain, 1702; served in Mediterranean, 1713-14; convoyed the Spanish army from Sicily to Spain on his own responsibility, 1714, and was cashiered in consequence, 1715; rear-admiral in the Spanish service; tried to bribe English naval officers to join the Jacobite party, 1718; defeated off Cape Passaro, 1718; banished by Spain to Ceuta, 1719. [viii. 305]

CAMOYS, THOMAS DE, fifth BARON (d. 1420), succeeded to the barony, 1372; served in France, c. 1377, Scotland, 1385, and Spain, 1386; removed, by Gloucester's influence, from the court of Richard II, 1388; served against the Welsh, 1401; envoy to Flanders, 1405, and France, 1406; commanded left wing at Agincourt, 1415; K.G., 1416. [viii. 306]

CAMPBELL, ALEXANDER (d. 1608), bishop of Brechin, 1566-1608; made bishop by the Earl of Argyll, solely that that nobleman might get hold of the estates of the see; never consecrated, though he sat in parliament; studied at Geneva, 1573; acted as minister at Brechin after his return in 1574, and was frequently prosecuted in the church courts for neglect of duty. [viii. 307]

CAMPBELL, ALEXANDER, second EARL OF MARCHMONT (1675-1740), younger son of Patrick Hume, first earl; took the name Campbell on his marriage with the heiress of Campbell of Cessnock, Ayrshire, 1697; studied law at Utrecht; Scottish advocate, 1696; lord of session with style of Lord Cessnock, 1704-14; M.P. for Berwickshire in the Scottish parliament, 1706; advocated the union; lord-lieutenant of Berwickshire, 1715; envoy to Denmark, 1716-21; lord clerk register of Scotland, 1716-33; envoy to the congress at Cambray, 1722; succeeded to the earldom, 1724; a representative Scottish peer; opposed Walpole's excise scheme, 1733. [viii. 308]

CAMPBELL, ALEXANDER (1764-1824), miscellaneous writer; organist and music-master in Edinburgh, Sir Walter Scott being one of his pupils; studied medicine; published tours in Scotland, collections of Scottish songs, musical compositions, and verses. [viii. 308]

CAMPBELL, ALEXANDER (1788-1866), founder of the 'Campbellites'; native of Antrim; studied at Glasgow, 1808; followed his father, a secession church minister, to the United States, 1809; ordained minister in his father's sect, 1811; prospered as a farmer; allied himself to the baptists, 1812; quarrelled with the baptists, 1826, and founded a new church, called 'the Church of the Disciples' (popularly 'the Campbellites'); founded for it Bethany College, West Virginia, 1841; wrote theological tracts. [viii. 310]

CAMPBELL, SIR ALEXANDER (1822-1892), Canadian politician; taken to Canada at early age; admitted attorney, and called to bar, 1842; Q.C. and bencher of Law Society, 1856; dean of faculty of law, Queen's University, Kingston; member for Cataragui of legislative council, 1858, and speaker, 1868; commissioner of crown lands, 1862-4; privy councillor of Canada, 1867; postmaster-general, 1867-73, 1879, 1880, and 1886-7; senator, 1867; leader of conservative opposition in senate, 1873-8; receiver-general, 1878; minister of militia, 1879; minister of justice, 1881; K.O.M.G., 1879; lieutenant-governor of Ontario, 1887-92. [Suppl. I. 381]

CAMPBELL, ANNA MACKENZIE, COUNTESS OF BALCARRES, and afterwards of ARGYLL (1821?-1708?), daughter of Colin Mackenzie, earl of Seaforth; married, 1640, Alexander Lindsay, afterwards earl of Balcarres (d. 1659), an ardent royalist; joined her husband in the highlands, 1651; sold her jewels to meet debts incurred by her husband in the king's cause, 1651; accompanied her husband to France, 1654; governess to the Prince of Orange at the Hague, 1657-9; returned to France, 1660; was living in England in distressed circumstances, 1661; returned to Scotland, 1662; received a pension from the crown, 1664; laboured to clear the Balcarres estates of debt; married, 1670, Archibald Campbell, marquis and eighth earl of Argyll [q.v.]; impoverished by his forfeiture, 1681; imprisoned at Stirling, 1685, but released after Argyll's execution. [viii. 311]

CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, second EARL OF ARGYLL (d. 1513), eldest son of Colin Campbell, first earl [q.v.]; succeeded to the earldom, 1493; lord high chancellor of Scotland, 1494; joint-administrator of the lordship of the Isles, 1499; suppressed revolt of islanders, 1504; governor of the Argyllshire islands, 1506; slain at Flodden. [viii. 312]

CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, fourth EARL OF ARGYLL (d. 1558), eldest son of Colin Campbell, third earl [q.v.]; succeeded to the earldom, 1530; suppressed rebellion in Argyllshire islands, 1530; imprisoned on charge of having provoked the rebellion by oppression; joined Huntly and other peers in taking the infant queen Mary from the custody of the Earl of Arran, then regent, 1543; resisted the Earl of Lennox's descent on the Clyde, 1544, and obtained a grant of his forfeited estates; commanded right wing at Pinkie, 1547; generally opposed the aggressions of Henry VIII; became a reformer; entertained John Knox at Castle Campbell, Clackmannanshire, 1556; signed the first protestant engagement, 1557. [viii. 313]

CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, fifth EARL OF ARGYLL (1530-1573), eldest son of Archibald Campbell, fourth earl [q.v.]; styled Lord of Lorne up to 1558; a hearer of John Knox, 1556; joined in inviting Knox to return from Geneva, 1557; signed the first protestant engagement, 1557; succeeded to the earldom, August 1558; supported the queen-regent in repressing the protestant mob at Perth, May 1559, but joined Lord James Stuart and 'the lords of the congregation' in signing the protestant engagement; present at the destruction of St. Andrews Cathedral, June 1559; marched with Lord James Stuart against the queen-regent at Cupar-Fife; captured Perth and Edinburgh; brought his highlanders to fight the French garrison of Leith; asked Elizabeth's intervention, 1560, in return for a promise to help her in subduing Ireland; a commissioner to destroy popish monuments in the west, 1560; received Queen Mary at Leith, 1561, and entertained her in Argyllshire, 1563; opposed her marriage with Darnley, 1565; forced by Queen Elizabeth's non-intervention to make his peace with Mary; privy to the plot to murder Darnley, 1567; assented to Mary's marriage with Bothwell, 1567; intrigued to deliver Mary from Lochleven Castle; sentenced by the general assembly to do penance for his domestic quarrels; Mary's defeat at Langside caused by his half-hearted support, 1568; submitted to the regent Moray, 1569; intrigued for Mary's return, 1570; again submitted to the young king James VI's party, 1571; lord high chancellor, 1572. [viii. 314]

CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, seventh EARL OF ARGYLL (1576?-1638), eldest son of Colin Campbell, sixth earl [q.v.]; succeeded to the earldom, 1584; defeated by Huntly at Glenlivet, 1594; imprisoned at Edinburgh, 1595; reconciled to Huntly, 1603; joined Huntly in exterminating the Macgregors, 1608; embraced catholicism; subdued the Olandonalds of Kintyre, 1615; fled from his creditors into Flanders, ceding his estates to his son, 1619; attainted on account of his being in the Spanish service, 1619; restored, 1621; returned to London. [viii. 318]

CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, MARQUIS OF ARGYLL and eighth EARL (1598-1661), nicknamed, from his quint, 'Gillespie Grumach' and 'the glaid-eyed marquis'; eldest son of Archibald Campbell, seventh earl [q.v.]; styled Lord of Lorne till November 1638; fought in Kintyre, 1615; took over the estates from his father, 1619; privy councillor, 1626; extraordinary lord of session, 1634; summoned to London to advise Charles I., after the renewal of the covenant, 1638; discovered that Charles I. had empowered the Earl of Antrim to invade Kintyre; succeeded to the earldom, November 1638; accepted the abolition of episcopacy by the general assembly, 1638; raised an army, took Brodick Castle, and encamped at Stirling; negotiated the peace of Berwick between the Scots and Charles I., June 1639; alienated by his continual opposition to the king from Montrose; persuaded the Scottish parliament to sit in defiance of the king's order, and to appoint an executive committee, 1640; ravaged the lands of royalist nobles in Perth, Aberdeen, and Forfar shires; imprisoned Montrose on a charge of slandering him to the king, June 1641; negotiated with the king at Edinburgh, September 1641; fled from Edinburgh, alleging that there was a plot to arrest him, October 1641; forced Charles I. to accept the terms of the Scottish parliament, November 1641; intrigued to prevent Charles from getting help from Scotland, 1642; accompanied the Scottish army into England, January 1644; sent to repress Huntly's northern rising, April, and the Irish invasion of the west, July, 1644; resigned his commission, having been out-generalled by Montrose; surprised at Inverary by Montrose, and the Campbell country ravaged, December 1644; routed by Montrose at Inverloch, February 1645, and at Kilsyth in August; recovered his influence after Montrose's defeat at Philiphaugh, September 1645; negotiated with Charles at Newcastle, May 1646, and at London with the parliament, June 1646; became head of the new executive committee and invited Cromwell to Edinburgh, October 1646; enraged at the execution of Charles I., joined in proclaiming Charles II., February 1650; consented to Montrose's execution, May 1650; joined Charles II., but did not obtain his confidence; set the crown on Charles II.'s head, January 1651; vainly opposed the invasion of England; was besieged at Inverary; submitted to the Commonwealth, August 1652; engaged in intrigues in London, 1656; M.P. for Aberdeen-shire in the Commonwealth parliament, 1658; came to London to welcome Charles II., 1660; charged with high treason; condemned at Edinburgh and executed, May 1661. [viii. 319]

CAMPBELL, ARCHIBALD, ninth EARL OF ARGYLL (d. 1685), eldest son of Archibald Campbell, marquis and eighth earl of Argyll [q.v.]; styled Lord of Lorne till 1663; travelled in France and Italy, 1648-9; a far more energetic royalist than his father; captain of Charles II.'s Scottish lifeguard, 1650; fought at Dunbar; tried to raise his clan for Charles II., September 1650; joined the highland royalists, 1653; quarrelled with them and withdrew his own men, January 1654; was excepted from Cromwell's act of pardon, May 1654, and remained in arms; directed by Charles II. to make his peace with Cromwell, March 1655; submitted accordingly, 1655; suspected of plotting a royalist rising, August 1656; imprisoned at Edinburgh, 1657-60; well received at Charles II.'s court, 1660; strong efforts made by Middleton to involve him in his father's fall, 1661; supported by Lauderdale; imprisoned, July 1661, and sentenced to death, August, but the date left in Charles II.'s hands; released, June 1663; sentence of death recalled; restored to earldom and heavily burdened estates, 1663; Scottish privy councillor, 1664; disarmed covenanted in Kintyre, 1665; hated by the extreme episcopalians, who accused him of favouring the insurgents, 1666; commissioner for quieting the highlands, 1667; raised a militia regiment, 1670; was constantly enjoined to repress conventicles after 1671, and constantly urged gentler measures; extraordinary lord of session, 1674-80; at war with the McCleans of Mull, 1674-8; ordered to disarm and secure highland papists, 1679; ordered to send his highlanders to be quartered in the whig districts; opposed the arbitrary measures resorted to by James, duke of York, then high commissioner for Scotland, 1680; strongly opposed the Scottish test act, 1681; imprisoned on a charge of treason, November, sentenced to death and his estates forfeited, December 1681; escaped to London and to Holland, 1683; in treaty with the Rye House conspirators, 1685; appointed commander of the descent on Scotland, April 1685; published declaration in favour of Monmouth at Campbeltown, May, but was not joined by his clan; H worsted by the king's ships at Inverary; taken prisoner, June 1685; executed, without trial, at Edinburgh, in virtue of the sentence passed in 1681. [viii. 329]

CAMPBELL, AROHIBALD, first DUKE OF ARGYLL (d. 1703), eldest son of Archibald Campbell, ninth earl [q. v.]; granted maintenance out of the forfeited estates, c. 1682; offered to resist his father's invasion, 1685; failed to obtain restoration of his title and estates by embracing catholicism; joined William of Orange at the Hague, and accompanied him to England; took his place in the Scottish convention as Earl of Argyll, March 1689; commissioner to offer the crown of Scotland to William and Mary; Scottish privy councillor, May; restored to the title and estates, June 1689; undertook to extirpate the Macdonalds of Glencoe, 1692; extraordinary lord of session, 1694; created Duke of Argyll, June 1701. [viii. 338]

CAMPBELL, AROHIBALD (d. 1744), bishop of Aberdeen; said to have taken part in Argyll's invasion, 1685; withdrew to Surinam; a rigid nonjuror on his return; frequently imprisoned; consecrated bishop by three ejected Scottish bishops, 1711; resided in London; negotiated for the union of the nonjurors with the Greek church, 1717; elected bishop of Aberdeen, 1721, but resided in London; resigned, 1724, and formed a separate nonjuring community; published theological tracts. [viii. 339]

CAMPBELL, AROHIBALD (1691-1756), theologian; educated at Edinburgh and Glasgow; minister of Larchbert, 1718; a philosophical treatise by himself published fraudulently under a friend's name, 1728; professor of church history at St. Andrews, 1730; published theological treatises. [viii. 340]

CAMPBELL, AROHIBALD, third DUKE OF ARGYLL (1682-1761), younger son of Archibald Campbell, first duke [q. v.]; styled Lord Archibald Campbell till 1705; educated at Eton and Glasgow; studied law at Utrecht; served under Marlborough; lord high treasurer of Scotland, 1705; promoted the union; created Earl of Islay, October 1705; a Scottish representative peer, 1707; extraordinary lord of session, 1708; justice-general, 1710; lord register of Scotland, 1714; raised Argyllshire for George I, 1715; fought at Sheriffmuir, 1715; overcame Scottish opposition to the malt tax, 1725, and became Walpole's chief adviser in Scotland; keeper of the privy seal, 1725, and of the great seal, 1734-61; chancellor of Aberdeen University; succeeded to the dukedom, 1743; advised the raising of highland regiments, 1746; rebuilt Inverary Castle. [viii. 341]

CAMPBELL, AROHIBALD (1726?-1780), satirist; son of Archibald Campbell (1691-1756) [q. v.]; pursuer of a man-of-war; befriended William Falconer, 1745; satirised Samuel Johnson in 'Lexiphanes' and other writers in 'Sale of Authors,' 1767; died at Kingston, Jamaica. [viii. 342]

CAMPBELL, SIR AROHIBALD (1739-1791), of Inverneil, general; captain, 1767; served in America, 1767-64, and in India till 1773, becoming lieutenant-colonel; M.P. for Stirling burghs, 1774 and 1789; prisoner of war in America, 1775; brigadier-general, 1776; captured Savannah; major-general, 1782; governor of Jamaica, and active in checking the French; K.O.B., 1785; governor of Madras, 1786-9. [viii. 342]

CAMPBELL, SIR AROHIBALD (1760-1843), general; ensign, 1787; served in India, 1788-99, distinguishing himself at Seringapatam; captain, 1799; major, 1804; served in Portugal and in Sir John Moore's campaign, 1808; lieutenant-colonel, 1809; commanded Portuguese regiment, 1810, and Portuguese brigade, 1811-14; colonel, 1814; K.O.B., 1815; Portuguese commander at Lisbon, 1816-20; commanded regiment in India, 1821; entrusted with conduct of Burmese war; took Rangoon, May 1824; defeated Bundoola, the chief Burmese general, 1825; took Prome; made major-general; marched on Ava, December 1825; dictated terms of peace, February 1826; governor of British Burmah, 1826-9; created baronet, 1831; lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick, 1831-7; lieutenant-general, 1838. [viii. 343]

CAMPBELL, COLIN, second LORD CAMPBELL and first EARL OF ARGYLL (d. 1493), succeeded his grandfather in the peerage, 1453; obtained by marriage and treaty the estates and lordship of Lorne; created Earl of

Argyll, 1457; lord justiciary, 1465; lord high chancellor, 1483; joined the conspiracy against James III, 1487; envoy to England, 1488. [viii. 345]

CAMPBELL, COLIN, third EARL OF ARGYLL (d. 1530), eldest son of Archibald Campbell, second earl [q. v.]; succeeded to the earldom, 1513; frustrated the plans of Donald, lord of the Isles, 1513-17; became the chief power in the west highlands; one of the council of regency, 1526; took James V's side against the regent Angus, 1528; made hereditary sheriff of Argyllshire and hereditary justiciary; lord justice-general, 1529. [viii. 346]

CAMPBELL, COLIN, sixth EARL OF ARGYLL (d. 1584), second son of Archibald Campbell, fourth earl [q. v.]; succeeded his half-brother, Archibald Campbell, fifth earl [q. v.], 1573; compelled by the regent Morton to surrender the crown jewels, 1575; plotted with Atholl to overthrow Morton, 1578; collected an army, but came to terms; lord high chancellor, 1579; a promoter of Morton's execution, 1581; implicated in the 'raid of Ruthven' to seize James VI, 1582, and in the plot to release him, June 1583. [viii. 347]

CAMPBELL, COLIN (1644-1726), theologian; educated at St. Andrews; minister of Ardochattan, Argyllshire, 1667-1726; corresponded with Isaac Newton; wrote theological treatises. [viii. 348]

CAMPBELL, COLIN (d. 1729), architect; designed the Rolls House, Chancery Lane, 1717, and Drumlanrig Castle; published 'Vitruvius Britannicus,' 1717-25. [viii. 348]

CAMPBELL, COLIN (d. 1782), of Kilberry, Argyllshire; major in the army; cashiered for the manslaughter of Captain John McKaarg at Martinico, 1762. [viii. 349]

CAMPBELL, COLIN (1754-1814), general; ensign, 1771; lieutenant, 1774; served in North America and West Indies, 1775-95; major, 1783; lieutenant-colonel, 1795; served in Ireland, 1796-1811; at Vinegar Hill, 1798; major-general, 1811; lieutenant-general, 1811; acting governor of Gibraltar, 1811-14. [viii. 349]

CAMPBELL, SIR COLIN (1776-1847), general; ran away to sea, 1792; midshipman on an East Indiaman, 1793; militia officer, 1795; served in West Indies, 1799-1801; lieutenant, 1801; served in India, 1802-6; distinguished himself at Ahmednuggur, 1803; brigade-major at Assaye, 1803; served in Denmark, 1807, and in Portugal, 1808; major, 1808; served in the Peninsula, 1809-14; brevet lieutenant-colonel, 1810; assistant quartermaster-general, 1812; K.O.B., 1814; at Waterloo, 1815; major-general, 1825; appointed governor of Nova Scotia, 1833, and of Ceylon, 1839; returned to England, 1847. [viii. 350]

CAMPBELL, SIR COLIN, BARON CLYDE (1792-1863), field marshal; son of Colin MacIver, a Glasgow carpenter; took the name Campbell through an error of the Duke of York, 1807; ensign, 1808; served in Portugal and under Sir John Moore, 1808; at Walcheren, 1809; lieutenant, 1809; served in the Peninsula, 1810-13, displaying conspicuous courage; at Barossa, 1811, San Sebastian, and the Bidassoa, 1813; captain, 1813; served in Nova Scotia, 1814, at Gibraltar, 1816, and in the West Indies, 1819-28; major, 1825; lieutenant-colonel, 1832; served in India, 1842-6; brigadier-general, 1844; served in India, 1846-53; K.O.B., 1849; major-general, 1854; commanded highland brigade at the Alma, 1854; commanded first division in Crimea, 1854-6; returned to England, having been badly treated by the authorities, 1855; lieutenant-general, 1856; D.O.L. Oxford, 1857; commander-in-chief in India, 1857-60; suppressed the Indian mutiny, 1857-8; created Baron Clyde, 1858; field-marshal, 1862; buried in Westminster Abbey. [viii. 351]

CAMPBELL, DANIEL (more correctly DONALD) (1665-1722), divine; educated at Aberdeen and Edinburgh; M.A. Aberdeen, 1686; minister of Glassary, Argyllshire, 1691-1722; published 'Sacramental Meditations,' 1698, and other devotional works. [viii. 354]

CAMPBELL, DANIEL or DONALD (1671?-1753), of Shawfield, member of parliament; a successful Glasgow merchant; M.P., Inverary, 1702; bought Shawfield, 1707; M.P., Glasgow burghs, 1710-34; Shawfield House burnt by the malt-tax mob, 1726; bought Islay, 1727. [viii. 355]

CAMPBELL, DONALD (d. 1662), ecclesiastic; youngest son of Archibald Campbell, second earl of Argyll [q.v.]; abbot of Cupar-Angus, 1526 till death; keeper of the privy seal; lord of session, 1641; privy councillor, 1643 and 1647; lord of the articles, 1646 and 1654; nominated to the see of Brechin, but refused admission by the pope, 1659. [viii. 356]

CAMPBELL, DONALD (1761-1804), of Barbreck, Indian traveller; published account of his 'Journey over land to India.' [viii. 356]

CAMPBELL, DUNOAN (1680?-1730), charlatan; born in Lapland; son of a Scottish seaman and a native; deaf and dumb; a fortune-teller in London, 1694; withdrew, in debt, to Rotterdam; returned to London; told fortunes and sold miraculous cures; married a rich widow. Pamphlets on his life and adventures were written by Daniel Defoe, 1720-6. [viii. 356]

CAMPBELL, LORD FREDERICK (1729-1816), lord clerk register of Scotland, 1768-1816; M.P., Glasgow burghs, 1761-80; M.P., Argyllshire, 1780-99. [viii. 357]

CAMPBELL, FREDERICK WILLIAM (1782-1846), genealogist; eldest son of Donald Campbell (1751-1804) [q.v.]; captain in the army; compiled genealogy of the Campbells of Barbreck. [viii. 357]

CAMPBELL, GEORGE (1719-1796), theologian; educated at Aberdeen and Edinburgh; minister of Banchory Ternan, Aberdeenshire, 1748; minister of Aberdeen, 1757; principal of Marischal College, Aberdeen, 1769-92, and professor of divinity there, 1771-92; D.D., 1764; minister of Grey Friars, Aberdeen, 1771-92. His works include a 'Dissertation on Miracles', 1762. [viii. 357]

CAMPBELL, GEORGE (1761-1817), poet; shoemaker at Kilmarnock; studied at Glasgow; minister of the secession church, Stockbridge, Berwickshire, 1794-1817; published 'Poems', 1787, and 'Sermons', 1816. [viii. 358]

CAMPBELL, SIR GEORGE (1824-1899), Indian administrator; educated at Edinburgh New Academy, Madras College, St. Andrews, St. Andrews University, and Haileybury; went to India, 1842; collector at Badaon, Rohilund, 1843; in England, 1851-4; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1854; magistrate and collector of Azimgurh, 1854; assistant to John Russell Colvin [q.v.] in general government of northern provinces, 1855; commissioner of Cis-Sutlej states, 1855; served in Indian mutiny; employed by Lord Canning, governor-general, to write official account of mutiny for the home authorities, 1857; second civil commissioner of Oude; judge of high court of Bengal, 1862; head of commission to inquire into causes of famine in Bengal, 1866; chief commissioner of central provinces, 1867; D.O.L. Oxford, 1870; lieutenant-governor of Bengal, 1871-4; K.C.S.I., 1873; liberal M.P. for Kirkcaldy, 1875-92. His works include 'Ethnology of India', 1865. [Suppl. i. 383]

CAMPBELL, GEORGE DOUGLAS, eighth DUKE OF ARGYLL (1823-1900); succeeded his brother, John Henry (b. 1821), as Marquis of Lorne, 1837; published writings relating to the struggle in church of Scotland, 1842-8; succeeded to dukedom, 1847; F.R.S., 1851; chancellor of St. Andrews University, 1851; lord rector of Glasgow University, 1854; president of Royal Society of Edinburgh, 1861; prominent in politics as a whig; privy seal, 1855-6, 1859-60, and 1860-6; postmaster-general, 1855-6 and 1860; secretary of state for India, 1868-74, and adopted foreign policy of friendship to neighbouring states, and financial policy of 'decentralisation'; opposed Tory government's policy in Eastern question, and in Afghanistan, 1877-80; privy seal, 1880-1; opposed home rule, 1886 and 1893; K.T., 1856; D.O.L. Oxford, 1870; K.G., 1883. A follower of the cataclysmal school in geology, and never in agreement with the younger evolutionary school, he yet exerted a useful influence on scientific progress. He published works on science, religion, and politics. [Suppl. i. 385]

CAMPBELL, SIR GUY (1786-1849), major-general; eldest son of Colin Campbell (1784-1814) [q.v.]; ensign, 1795; lieutenant, 1796; served in Ireland, 1798, and Canada, 1803; captain, 1804; served in Portugal and with Sir John Moore, 1808; major, 1813; served in the Peninsula, 1813; baronet, 1815; at Waterloo, 1815; in Ireland, 1828; major-general, 1841. [viii. 368]

CAMPBELL, HARRIETTE (1817-1841), novelist; published 'The Only Daughter', 1837, and two other novels. [viii. 369]

CAMPBELL, HUGH, third EARL OF LOUDOUN (d. 1731); succeeded to the earldom, 1684; Scottish privy councillor, 1697; extraordinary lord of session, 1699-1731; joint secretary of state for Scotland, 1704; strongly advocated the union; keeper of the great seal of Scotland, 1708-13; Scottish representative peer; English privy councillor, 1708; lord-lieutenant of Ayrshire, 1715; fought at Sheriffmuir, 1716; frequently lord high commissioner to the general assembly of the kirk of Scotland. [viii. 359]

CAMPBELL, SIR ILAY (1734-1823), of Succoth, Scottish judge; advocate, 1757; engaged on the Douglas peerage case, c. 1764-9; solicitor-general for Scotland, 1783; lord advocate, 1784; M.P. for Glasgow burghs, 1784; lord president of the court of session, 1799-1808, styled Lord Succoth; created baronet, 1808; published Scots law reports. [viii. 360]

CAMPBELL, SIR JAMES (1570-1642). [See CAMPBELL.]

CAMPBELL, SIR JAMES (1667-1745), of Lawers, general; lieutenant-colonel of the Scots Greys, 1708; at Malplaquet, 1709; colonel, 1717; M.P., Ayrshire, 1727; major-general, c. 1727; governor of Edinburgh Castle, 1738; lieutenant-general, 1742; knighted at Dettingen, 1743; killed at Fontenoy, 1745. [viii. 361]

CAMPBELL, SIR JAMES (1763-1819), of Inverneil, lieutenant-general; ensign, 1780; lieutenant, 1781; served in America; captain, 1787; in India, 1787-94; major, 1794; served in Ireland; lieutenant-colonel, 1804; served in Sicily, 1805-13; major-general, 1808; lieutenant-general, 1813; governor of the Ionian Islands, 1814-1816; G.O.H., 1817; created baronet, 1818. [viii. 362]

CAMPBELL, SIR JAMES (1745-1832), of Ardinglass; eldest son of John Callander (d. 1789) [q.v.]; took the name Campbell on succeeding to the estate; ensign, 1759; served with troops in Mediterranean till 1802; involved in a celebrated matrimonial suit; wrote his own 'Memoirs.' [viii. 362]

CAMPBELL, SIR JAMES (1773?-1835), general; captain, 1794; served at Minorca, 1798; major, 1803; lieutenant-colonel 1804; served with distinction in India, 1803-7, and the Peninsula, 1810-13; colonel, 1813; major-general, 1819; K.O.B., 1822. [viii. 363]

CAMPBELL, JAMES DYKES (1838-1896), biographer of Coleridge; entered house of Messrs. Cochrane & Co., manufacturers of 'Verreille pottery,' Glasgow, 1854; partner in Ireland, Fraser & Co.'s firm in Mauritius, 1873-1881. He spent many years in collecting materials for a biography of Coleridge, which was prefixed to an edition of Coleridge's poetical works, 1893, and appeared in a separate volume, 1894. [Suppl. i. 391]

CAMPBELL, SIR JOHN (1470-1563), of Lundy, Scottish judge; lord of session, 1532-63; captain general of foot, 1533; privy councillor, 1540; often employed as envoy by James V of Scotland. [viii. 364]

CAMPBELL, JOHN, first EARL OF LOUDOUN (1598-1663), travelled abroad; married, 1620, the heiress of the barony of Loudoun; in his wife's right, took his seat in the Scottish parliament, 1622; his patent for an earldom stopped by Charles I because of his strenuous opposition to episcopacy, 1633; took leading part in organising the covenant, 1637-8; a leader of the armed insurrection in Scotland, 1639; envoy from Scotland to Charles I, 1640; imprisoned in the Tower; joined the Scottish army of invasion, August 1640; again envoy to London; lord chancellor of Scotland, 1641-60; created Earl of Loudoun, 1641; frequently envoy to Charles I from the parliament, 1642-7; present at the coronation of Charles II, 1661, and fought at Dunbar; joined the highland rising, 1663; submitted to Monck; excepted from Cromwell's act of pardon, 1664; heavily fined by Charles II, 1662. [viii. 364]

CAMPBELL, JOHN, first EARL OF BREADALBANE (1635-1716), joined the royalist insurgents in the highlands, 1655; M.P. for Argyllshire, 1661; obtained from the bankrupt Earl of Caithness a cession of his title and estates, 1679; took possession of the estates, 1673; obtained a patent for the title, 1677; led his highlanders to be quartered on the west-country whigs, 1678; made war on the heir-male, who claimed the Caithness peerage, 1680; obtained the earldom of Breadalbane, when the privy council decided against his claim to the Caithness peerage and estates, 1681; privy councillor, 1688; submitted to William III, September 1689; employed to bribe the highland chiefs to submit to William III, 1690-1691; contrived the massacre of the Macdonalds of Glencoe, 1692; encouraged a French invasion, 1707; half-heartedly joined Mar's rising, 1716, but withdrew after Sheriffmuir. [viii. 366]

CAMPBELL, JOHN, second DUKE OF ARGYLL and DUKE OF GREENWICH (1678-1743), eldest son of Archibald Campbell, first duke [q.v.]; entered the army, 1694; served in Flanders, 1702; succeeded to dukedom of Argyll, 1703; a prime agent in bringing about the union, 1706; created Earl of Greenwich in the English peerage, 1706; served with much distinction in Flanders, 1706-1709; lieutenant-general, 1709; developed bitter hostility to Marlborough, 1709; ambassador and commander-in-chief in Spain, 1711; commander-in-chief in Scotland, 1712; violently opposed the proposed malt tax, 1713; took a leading part in proclaiming George I, 1714; sent to suppress Mar's insurrection, 1715; collected troops at Stirling, secured Edinburgh, and repulsed Mar at Sheriffmuir, 1715; crushed the revolt, January 1716; deprived of his offices, 1716; restored, 1719; created Duke of Greenwich, 1719; helped to remove Scottish opposition to the malt tax, 1725; field-marshal, 1736; defended Edinburgh city from the indignation of the court after the Porteous riot, 1737; began violently to oppose Walpole, 1738; deprived of his offices, 1740; restored, 1742, but speedily resigned. [viii. 369]

CAMPBELL, JOHN (1708-1775), miscellaneous writer; lawyer's clerk at Windsor; highly successful as a professional man of letters in London; LL.D. Glasgow, 1754; agent for Georgia, 1765-75; contributed much to historical and biographical series, and edited books of travel. His chief works are 'Military History of Prince Eugene,' 1736, 'Travels of a fictitious 'Edward Bevan,' 1739, 'Lives of the Admirals,' 1742-4, and 'Political Survey of Britain,' 1774. [viii. 373]

CAMPBELL, JOHN, third EARL OF BREADALBANE (1698-1782); educated at Christ Church, Oxford; styled Viscount Glenorchy, 1716-52; envoy to Denmark, 1718; K.B., 1725; M.P., Saltash, 1727 and 1734; ambassador to Russia, 1731; M.P., Oxford City, 1741; master of the jewel office, 1746; succeeded to the earldom, 1752; Scottish representative peer, 1752; D.O.L. Oxford, 1756; a chief-justice in eyre, 1761-5; vice-admiral of Scotland, 1776. [viii. 375]

CAMPBELL, JOHN, fourth EARL OF LOUDOUN (1706-1782), only son of Hugh Campbell, third earl [q.v.]; entered the army, 1727; succeeded to the earldom, 1731; Scottish representative peer, 1734-82; governor of Stirling Castle, 1741; supported George II in the highlands, 1746-6; commander-in-chief in America, 1756; superseded, 1758; second in command in Portugal, 1762; general, 1770; fond of forestry. [viii. 376]

CAMPBELL, JOHN (1753-1784), lieutenant-colonel; ensign, 1771; lieutenant, 1774; served in America, 1774-1780; major, 1777; lieutenant-colonel, 1781; in India, 1782; defended Mangalore against Tippos Sultan, May 1783-January 1784. [viii. 376]

CAMPBELL, JOHN (1720?-1790), vice-admiral; apprenticed to the master of a coaster; midshipman, 1740; sailed round the world with Anson; lieutenant, 1745; captain, 1747; in constant service, 1747-79; rear-admiral, 1778; vice-admiral, 1779; governor of Newfoundland, 1782-8. [viii. 377]

CAMPBELL, JOHN (1766-1840), philanthropist; a founder of the Scottish Religious Tract Society; advocated Sunday schools, lay-preaching, Magdalene societies, and abolition of slavery; minister of an independent congregation, Kingsland, London, 1802; inspected the London Missionary Society's stations in South Africa, 1812-14, and 1819-21; published accounts of his travels. [viii. 378]

CAMPBELL, SIR JOHN (1807-1855), general; only son of Sir Archibald Campbell (1769-1848) [q.v.]; ensign, 1821; lieutenant, 1824; aide-de-camp in Burmah,

1824-6; captain, 1826; civil servant in Burmah, 1826-9; aide-de-camp in New Brunswick, 1831-7; lieutenant-colonel, 1840; baronet, 1843; commanded brigade in the Crimea, 1854; major-general, 1864; killed before the Redan, 1855. [viii. 378]

CAMPBELL, JOHN, first BARON CAMPBELL (1779-1861), lord chancellor; son of the minister of Cupar-Fife; attended arts classes at St. Andrews, 1790, and divinity classes, 1794; private tutor in London, 1798; wrote for the press; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1800; parliamentary and law reporter; read law in chambers, 1804; barrister, 1806; quickly acquired a profitable practice; K.C., 1827; employed on commission on law of real property, 1828-1833; M.P. for Stafford, 1830 took a leading part in the Commons in matters of law reform; solicitor-general, 1832; attorney-general, 1834-41; liberal M.P., Edinburgh, 1834-41; his wife made Baroness Stratheden, 1836; lord chancellor of Ireland, June-September 1841; created Baron Campbell, June 1841; took a foremost place in the Lords in questions of law; chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, 1846; chief-justice of the queen's bench, 1850; lord chancellor, 1859; published 'Nisi Prius Reports,' 1809-16, 'Speeches,' 1842, 'Lives of the Lord Chancellors,' 1845-7, 'Lives of the Chief-Justices,' 1849, 1857, law pamphlets, and 'Lives of Lyndhurst and Brougham,' 1869. [viii. 379]

CAMPBELL, JOHN, second MARQUIS OF BREADALBANE (1796-1862); styled Viscount Glenorchy till 1831; M.P. for Okehampton, 1820-6; styled Earl of Ormelie, 1831-4; M.P., Perthshire, 1832; succeeded as marquis, 1834; entertained Queen Victoria at Taymouth, 1842; a strenuous free churchman in the disruption controversy. [viii. 386]

CAMPBELL, SIR JOHN (1780-1863), soldier; educated at Harrow; cornet, 1800; captain, 1806; served in South America, 1807, and Spain, 1808; commanded a Portuguese cavalry regiment, 1809-14; knighted, 1815; military adviser of the Portuguese government, 1816-19; Portuguese major-general, 1820; English lieutenant-colonel, 1820-4; fought for Dom Miguel in Portugal, 1828-34; resided in London. [viii. 386]

CAMPBELL, JOHN (1794-1867), miscellaneous writer; a blacksmith; studied at St. Andrews and Glasgow; a congregational minister in Ayrshire, and at Moorfields, London; started the 'Christian Witness,' 1844, and other newspapers; published much on missions, ritualism, &c. [viii. 387]

CAMPBELL, SIR JOHN (1802-1878), of Lochend, Indian official; ensign, 1819; an officer in the East India Company's forces, 1820-37; captain, 1830; magistrate over the Khonds of Orissa, 1837-42; served in China, 1842; lieutenant-colonel, 1842; held command in Madras, 1842-7; reappointed magistrate over the Khonds, 1847-9; colonel, 1853; major-general, 1859; published narrative of affairs in Orissa, 1864; K.C.S.I., 1866; general, 1872. [viii. 387]

CAMPBELL, JOHN FRANCOIS (1822-1885), of Islay; Gaelic scholar; educated at Eton and Edinburgh; a government official; published 'Popular Tales of the West Highlands,' 1860-2; published Gaelic texts, 1872; wrote also on natural science. [viii. 388]

CAMPBELL, JOHN McLEOD (1800-1872), theologian; educated at Glasgow, 1811-20, and Edinburgh, 1821; licentiate of the church of Scotland, 1821; minister of Row, Dumbartonshire, 1825; ejected for heresy, 1830; preached in the highlands, 1830-2; minister of a congregation in Glasgow, 1833-59; D.D. Glasgow, 1868; retired to Rosenearth, 1870; published 'Sermons,' 1832, and theological tracts. [viii. 388]

CAMPBELL, NEIL (d. 1827), Scottish bishop; parson of Kilmartin, Argyllshire, 1874; bishop of Argyll, 1606-8. [viii. 389]

CAMPBELL, SIR NEIL (1776-1827), general; ensign, 1797; lieutenant, 1799; major, 1806; stationed in the West Indies, 1798-1800; in home garrisons, 1800-6; in the West Indies, 1806-10; lieutenant-colonel, 1808; colonel of Portuguese infantry, 1811-13; military attaché with the Russian army invading France, 1813-14; colonel, 1814; escorted Napoleon to Elba; served at Waterloo; major-general, 1825; governor of Sierra Leone, 1826. [viii. 389]

CAMPBELL, SIR PATRICK (1773-1841), of Melfort, naval officer; lieutenant, 1794; captain, 1800; on active service, 1799-1815 and 1827-30; rear-admiral, 1830; naval commander at Cape Town, 1834-7; K.O.B., 1836; vice-admiral, 1838. [viii. 390]

CAMPBELL, ROBERT (d. 1722), presbyterian; native of Scotland; presbyterian minister at Ray, Donegal, 1671; imprisoned, 1681-2; minister at Roseneath, Dumbartonshire, 1689-91; and then again at Ray, 1691-1722; published sermons. [viii. 391]

CAMPBELL, ROBERT CALDER (1798-1857), miscellaneous writer; cadet in the East India Company's service, 1817; captain, 1826; served in Burmah, 1826-7; invalided home, 1831; settled in London; major, 1836; published verse and prose, 1831-57. [viii. 391]

CAMPBELL, THOMAS (1733-1795), miscellaneous writer; M.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1761; curate of Clogher, 1761-72; chancellor of St. Macartin's, Clogher, 1773; published works on Irish topography and history; wrote a diary of his visits to England, 1775-92. [viii. 392]

CAMPBELL, THOMAS (1777-1844), poet; son of a ruined Glasgow merchant; at Glasgow University, 1791-1796; tutor in Mull, 1795, and Argyllshire, 1796; settled in Edinburgh as law-clerk and tutor; published 'Pleasures of Hope', 1799; travelled in Germany and Denmark, June 1800-March 1801; well received in London, 1801; returned to Edinburgh; resided in or near London, as a man of letters, 1804-44; pensioned by the crown, 1805; issued 'Poems', 1805; visited Paris, 1814; published 'Specimens of the British Poets', 1819; edited the 'New Monthly Magazine', 1820-30; advocated a university for London, 1825; lord rector of Glasgow University, 1826-9; visited Algiers 1835; died at Boulogne; buried in Westminster Abbey. [viii. 392]

CAMPBELL, THOMAS (1790-1858), sculptor in bronze and marble; apprenticed to an Edinburgh marble-cutter; studied in London and (1818) at Rome; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1827-57. [viii. 396]

CAMPBELL, WILLIAM (d. 1805), presbyterian; a native of Newry, co. Down; entered Glasgow University, 1744; licensed by Armagh presbytery, 1750; tutor in France; returned to Ireland, 1758; minister at Antrim, 1759; minister of First Armagh, 1764-89; D.D. Glasgow, 1784; minister at Clonmel, 1789-1805; published pamphlets. [viii. 397]

CAMPBELL, WILLIELMA, VISCOUNTESS GLENORCHY (1741-1786), a daughter of William Maxwell of Preston, Kirkcudbrightshire; married, 1761, John Campbell, viscount Glenorchy (d. 1771); adopted peculiar religious views, c. 1764; founded chapels for her followers in Edinburgh, Carlisle, Matlock, Strathfillan. [viii. 397]

CAMPDEN, VISCOUNTS. [See HICKS, BAPTIST, first VISCOUNT, 1561-1629; NORL, EDWARD, second VISCOUNT, 1582-1648; NORL, BAPTIST, third VISCOUNT, 1611-1682.]

CAMPEGGIO, LORENZO (1472-1539), papal legate; born at Bologna; studied law at Pavia and Bologna; ordained after his wife's death; bishop of Feltri, 1512; cardinal, 1517; legate to Henry VIII to urge a crusade against the Turks, 1518; bishop of Salisbury, 1524-34; archbishop of Bologna; legate to England to hear Henry VIII's suit to divorce Queen Catherine, October 1528-July 1529. [viii. 398]

CAMPION, EDMUND (1540-1581), jesuit martyr; son of a London bookseller; educated at Christ's Hospital; delivered a speech at Queen Mary's state entry to London, 1553; fellow of St. John's College, Oxford, 1557; M.A., 1564; a speaker at Queen Elizabeth's state visit to Oxford, 1566; patronised by the Earl of Leicester; Anglican deacon, c. 1568; junior proctor, April 1568-April 1569; asked B.D. 1569, but did not obtain it; withdrew to Dublin, 1569, expecting promotion in the projected Romanist college; withdrew, as a suspected papist, to London, June 1571; went to Douay, and graduated B.D. there; went to Rome, 1572; joined the jesuits, 1573; passed his novitiate in Prague and Brünn; ordained priest, 1578; chosen, with Robert Parsons, to coerce temporising catholics in England; reached Dover, June 1580; preached privately in London; his 'Decem Rationes' distributed at Oxford, 1581; arrested at Lyford,

Berkshire, 1581; sent to the Tower; examined, under torture, 1581; sentenced to death; executed, 1 Dec. 1581; published controversial works. [viii. 398]

CAMPION, GEORGE B. (1796-1870), water-colour painter; exhibited in London, 1834 onwards; drawing-master at Woolwich; retired to Munich. [viii. 403]

CAMPION, MARIA (1777-1803). [See POPE.]

CAMPION, THOMAS (d. 1620), poet and musician; probably educated abroad; mentioned as 'doctor in phisicke', 1607, and 'physician', 1616; published Latin verses, 1595, and 'Observations on . . . English Poesie', 1602; prepared masques presented at court, 1607-17; published 'Books of Ayres', 1610, 1612, 'Songs' on the death of Prince Henry, and a musical treatise, 1613. [viii. 403]

CAMPION, alias WIGMORE, WILLIAM (1599-1665), jesuit; joined the jesuits, 1624; missionary in England, and in Wales, 1655; rector of a seminary in Ghent; wrote on transubstantiation. [viii. 404]

CAMVILLE, GERARD DE (d. 1215?), judge; adhered to Prince John; became, by marriage, sheriff of Lincolnshire, and keeper of Lincoln Castle, c. 1190; his removal vainly attempted by Richard I's vicegerents, 1191; removed and fined, on Richard's return, 1194; restored by King John, 1199; justice itinerant for Cambridgeshire, 1209. [viii. 404]

CAMVILLE, THOMAS DE (d. 1235), judge; deprived by John of estates in Kent and Essex, 1215; restored, 1217; acted as a justice, 1229. [viii. 404]

CANADA, VISCOUNT (1667?-1640). [See ALEXANDER, SIR WILLIAM.]

CANCELLAR, JAMES (fl. 1564), theologian; of the queen's chapel; published devotional treatises, 1553-64. [viii. 406]

CANDIDUS, HUGH (fl. 1107?-1155?). [See HUGH.]

CANDISH. [See CAVENDISH.]

CANDLER, ANN (1740-1814), versifier, 'the Suffolk cottager'; daughter of a Suffolk glover named More; married a militia-man, 1762; lived in the workhouse, 1780 and 1783; wrote verses, 1785-9; her collected verses published, 1803. [viii. 405]

CANDLISH, ROBERT SMITH (1806-1873), Free church leader; educated at Glasgow, assistant minister in Glasgow, at Bonhill, Dumbartonshire, and (1833) at St. George's, Edinburgh; minister of St. George's; from 1839 took a leading part against the authority of the civil courts in patronage cases; suggested as professor of biblical criticism in Edinburgh, but objected to by Lord Aberdeen; D.D. Princeton, 1841; went out at the disruption, 1843; minister of Free St. George's till death; leader of the Free church; principal of the Free church college, Edinburgh, 1862; D.D. Edinburgh, 1865; wrote theological treatises. [viii. 405]

CANE, ROBERT (1807-1858), writer on Irish history; a chemist's assistant; M.D. Trinity College, Dublin, 1836; practised medicine at Kilkenny. [viii. 408]

CANES, VINCENT (d. 1672), Franciscan friar, named in religion JOHN-BAPTIST; studied at Cambridge; travelled on the continent; joined the Franciscans at Douay; served on the English mission, 1648, in Lancashire and London; published controversial tracts under the initials J. V. C., 1656-72. [viii. 409]

CANFIELD, BENEDICT (1563-1611), Capuchin friar; really WILLIAM FITCH, of Little Canfield, Essex; of the Middle Temple; withdrew to Douay; joined the Capuchins at Paris; came to England, 1589; imprisoned for three years; master of the novices at Rouen; wrote devotional works. [viii. 409]

CANICUS or KENNY, SAINT (d. 598?). [See CANNKECH.]

CANN, ABRAHAM (1794-1864), champion wrestler of Devonshire; fought a drawn match with the Cornish champion, 1826; afterwards an innkeeper. [viii. 410]

CANNE, JOHN (d. 1667?), theologian; pastor of an independent congregation in London; pastor of the English independents in Amsterdam, 1630-47; visited England, 1640; published a reference bible, 1647; returned to England, 1648; garrison chaplain at Hull, 1650, and in fierce controversy with his colleague, John Shawe; expelled, 1657; came to London; returned to Amsterdam; published 'Bible with Marginal Notes', 1664; published other theological and controversial works. [viii. 411]

CANNERA or CAINNEER, SAINT (d. 530 ?), an Irish woman; anchoress; wished to join the monastery of St. Senan, on Inis-cathey, but was refused. [viii. 413]

CANNING, CHARLES JOHN, EARL CANNING (1812-1882), governor-general of India; third son of George Canning [q. v.]; educated at Eton, and, 1829-33, at Christ Church, Oxford; M.P., Warwick, 1836; succeeded as Viscount Canning in the Irish peerage, 1837; under-secretary for foreign affairs, 1841-6; attached himself to Sir Robert Peel; postmaster-general, 1853-5; assumed the governor-generalship of India, February 1856; confronted by three difficulties: (i.) war with Persia, to restore Herat to Afghanistan, with the question of subsidising the ameer, (ii.) the assimilation of the terms of service of the Bengal native army with those of the Bombay and Madras armies, especially as regards service overseas, (iii) the settlement of Oudh (annexed, 7 Feb. 1856); his second year marked by the outbreak of the mutiny, February 1857, the wide extent of which he, like other officials, was slow to apprehend; by a happy instinct, gave full freedom of action to Sir Henry Lawrence in Oudh, and John Lawrence in the Punjab, and showed unshaken confidence throughout; involved in a controversy with Lord Ellenborough about the terms of settlement in Oudh, 1858; created earl, 1859; engaged in reorganising the financial, legal, and administrative systems in India, 1859-62. [viii. 414]

CANNING, ELIZABETH (1734-1773), impostor; a sawyer's daughter; maid-servant in Aldermanbury; falsely asserted that she had been kidnapped and kept prisoner by a procuress, 1-29 Jan. 1753; examined before Henry Fielding; secured the conviction of the people she accused; tried for perjury and transported, 1754. Her case led to a war of pamphlets and London public opinion. [viii. 418]

CANNING, GEORGE (1770-1827), statesman; son of a barrister; brought up by an uncle, a whig banker in London; educated at Eton, and, 1788-91, at Christ Church, Oxford; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1791; in horror of the French revolution attached himself to William Pitt, 1793; M.P., Newport, 1794; M.P., Wendover, 1797; under-secretary for foreign affairs in Pitt's administration, 1798-9; member of the India board, 1799-1800; paymaster-general, 1800-1; opposed Henry Addington's administration, 1801-4; treasurer of the navy in Pitt's administration, May 1804-February 1806; refused office in Grenville's administration; foreign secretary in Portland's administration, March 1807; planned seizure of Danish fleet, September 1807; dissatisfied with Castlereagh's policy at the war office, 1808; fought duel with Castlereagh, and resigned office, September 1809; refused office under Spencer Perceval, November 1809; refused the foreign office under Lord Liverpool, May 1812; M.P., Liverpool, 1812-22; visited Portugal and the south of France, 1814-16; designated ambassador extraordinary to Portugal, 1814; joined Lord Liverpool's administration as president of the India board, June 1816; resigned, January 1821, as favouring Queen Caroline; wintered abroad, 1821-2; nominated governor-general of India, 27 March, but resigned, September 1822; M.P., Harwich, 1822; foreign secretary in Lord Liverpool's administration, September 1822; acknowledged independence of Spain's American colonies, 1823; shielded Greece from conquest by Turkey, 1825-7; supported the popular party in Portugal against absolutism, 1826-7; on Lord Liverpool's death, made premier by George IV, and chancellor of the exchequer, April 1827; endeavoured to reform the corn-laws; friend and correspondent of Sir Walter Scott. His 'Poems' were published, 1823, and his 'Speeches', 1828. [viii. 420]

CANNING, RICHARD (1708-1775), Suffolk antiquary; at Westminster School, 1723; M.A. St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, 1736; rector of Harkstead, Suffolk, 1738-69; rector of Freston, Suffolk, 1758-75; published sermons, pamphlets, a history of Suffolk, and Ipswich collections. [viii. 431]

CANNING, STRATFORD, first Viscount STRATFORD DE REDCLIFFE (1786-1880), diplomatist, styled 'the Great Elchi', i.e. ambassador par excellence; educated at Eton, 1794, and King's College, Cambridge, 1805; clerk in the foreign office, 1807; second secretary to the envoy to Denmark, 1807; secretary to the envoy to Constantinople, 1808; left in charge of the embassy at Constantinople, 1810, to counteract Napoleon's influence, to protect British interests in the Levant, and to prevent war between Russia and Turkey, so as to leave Russia free to fight Napoleon; negotiated the treaty of Bucharest between Russia and Turkey, May 1812; returned to London; pensioned; visited Paris, 1814; plenipotentiary to Switzerland, 1814-20, to settle federal government there; his arrangements sanctioned by the congress of Vienna, 1815; envoy to Washington, 1820-4, but failed to obtain settlement of disputed points; envoy to St. Petersburg to settle the Alaska boundary and discuss the Greek question, 1824; envoy to Constantinople to obtain recognition of Greek independence, 1825; his mediation on behalf of Greece followed by the joint intervention of Great Britain, France, and Russia 1827, but negotiations broken off by the battle of Navarino, October 1827; withdrew to Corfu, and to London, February 1828; negotiated the settlement of Greek affairs at Poros, with the French and Russian envoys, December 1828; M.P., Old Sarum, 1828; resigned his ambassadorship, 1829; G.O.B., December 1829; M.P., Stockbridge, by purchase, 1830; drew up the British case in the American boundary dispute, 1830; sent to Constantinople to obtain enlargement of the Greek frontier, November 1831; fruitlessly advised Palmerston to support the sultan against the viceroy of Egypt, 1832; failed to reconcile the rival parties in Portugal, 1832; named envoy to St. Petersburg, 1833, but the czar refused to receive him; declined governorship of Canada, 1835 and 1841; M.P., King's Lynn, 1835-41; ambassador at Constantinople, 1842; obtained abolition of execution for apostasy, 1844; obtained permission for Sir Henry Layard to explore Nineveh; home on leave, 1846-7; envoy to Switzerland, November 1847; returned to Constantinople, 1848; encouraged Turkey to protect the refugees from Hungary; visited England 1852; created Viscount Stratford de Redcliffe, May 1852; advised the sultan to refuse the czar's demands for a protectorate over the Greek church, 1853; visited the Crimea, 1855; resigned his ambassadorship, 1858; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1858; K.G., 1869; published verses and pamphlets. A statue of him was placed in Westminster Abbey. [viii. 431]

CANNON, RICHARD (1779-1865), historian; clerk at the Horse Guards, 1802-54; chief compiler of the incomplete official statement of the services of the several regiments, 'Historical Records of the British Army', 1836-53. [viii. 444]

CANNON, ROBERT (1663-1722), ecclesiastic; educated at Eton; fellow of King's College, Cambridge; B.A., 1685; D.D., 1707; married the bishop of Ely's daughter; a pluralist in rectories and prebends; dean of Lincoln, 1721; wrote controversial tracts. [viii. 445]

CANON or CANONICUS, JOHN (fl. 1329), schoolman; studied at Oxford; joined the Franciscans; studied at Paris; returned to Oxford and graduated D.D.; wrote commentaries on the 'Sentences' of Peter Lombard. His commentary on the 'Physics' of Aristotle, printed 1475, and often afterwards, was a favourite mediæval text-work. [viii. 445]

CANOT, PETER CHARLES (1710-1777), line-engraver; came from France to London, 1740; a member of the Society of Artists, 1766, and an associate of the Royal Academy, 1770. [viii. 446]

CANSFIELD, BENEDIOT (1563-1611). [See CANSFIELD.]

CANT, ANDREW (1590 ?-1663), covenanting leader; invited by the people to be minister of Edinburgh, but rejected by James I., c. 1623; minister of Pitligo, Aberdeenshire, 1633; fruitlessly endeavoured to persuade the university and clergy of Aberdeen to adopt the covenant, July 1638; member of the Glasgow general assembly which abolished episcopacy, 1638; minister of Newbattle, Midlothian; chaplain to the Scottish army, 1640; minister of Aberdeen, 1640; courageously advocated monarchy in the time of Cromwell. [viii. 446]

CANTEBRIG or CAMBRIDGE, JOHN DR (d. 1335), judge; a large landowner near Cambridge; M.P.,

Cambridgeshire from 1321; king's serjeant, 1380; knighted, October 1380; justice of common pleas, 1381.

[viii. 447]

CANTELUPE, CANTILUPE, CANTELO, or CANTELEO, FULK DE (f. 1209), adherent of King John; sent to expel the monks of Canterbury and to administer the archiepiscopal estates, 1207.

[viii. 447]

CANTELUPE, GEORGE DE (d. 1278), styled BARON OF BERGAVENNY; son of William, the third baron Cantelupe by tenure (d. 1264) [q. v.] and Eva, co-heiress of William de Braose; knighted, 1272; put in possession of his estates, April 1273.

[viii. 447]

CANTELUPE, NICHOLAS DE, third BARON CANTELUPE by writ (d. 1356), lord of Gresley, Nottinghamshire; with Edward I in Scotland, 1320; knighted, 1326; governor of Berwick-on-Tweed, 1336; summoned to parliament, 1337-54; served in Scotland and Flanders, 1339; envoy to France, 1343; attended Edward III at Ocrey, 1346; commissioner to defend Lincolnshire, 1362; founded a chantry in Lincoln Cathedral and a Carthusian house in Nottinghamshire.

[viii. 447]

CANTELUPE, ROGER DE (f. 1248), legist; adherent of Henry III; envoy to Rome, 1281; perhaps prebendary of St. Paul's, 1248.

[viii. 447]

CANTELUPE, SIMON, called LE NORMAN (d. 1249), chancellor; envoy to Rome, 1238; archdeacon of Norwich, 1238-40; chancellor, August 1238, but removed for opposing wool tax, 1239.

[viii. 447]

CANTELUPE, THOMAS DE (1218?-1282), saint; bishop of Hereford; son of William de Cantelupe, second baron [q. v.]; nephew of Walter de Cantelupe [q. v.], bishop of Worcester; studied possibly at Oxford, 1237, afterwards at Paris; attended council of Lyons, 1245, and obtained papal dispensation to hold benefices in plurality; studied civil law at Orleans and canon law at Paris; taught canon law at Oxford; chancellor of Oxford University, 1262-3; stated the case of the revolted barons before St. Louis at Amiens, 1263-4; lord chancellor of England, February-August 1265; pensioned by Henry III, March 1265, but took refuge at Paris in August; lectured in theology at Paris, and, 1272, at Oxford; possibly again chancellor of Oxford University; prebendary of Hereford, 1273, in a place claimed by Peter de Langton; held several canonicies and rich rectories, especially in Herefordshire, in plurality; attended council at Lyons, 1274; elected bishop of Hereford, June, and consecrated, September 1275; chief supporter of Edward I and opponent of Llewelyn of Wales; a bitter enemy of the Jews; active in reforming diocese of Hereford, and in maintaining claims of see against Earl Gilbert of Gloucester, 1278, Lord Corbet, and the bishops of St. Asaph and St. David's; led the opposition to Archbishop Peckham in the council at Reading, July 1279; involved in a bitter dispute with Peckham regarding jurisdiction; withdrew for safety to Normandy, and appealed against Peckham to Rome, c. 1281; vigorously sued at Rome for the prebend of Hereford by Peter de Langton, 1281; tried to bribe the curia; excommunicated by Peckham through a dispute as to jurisdiction; appealed to Rome; went in person to Italy to press his appeal, March 1282; died at Orvieto, August; buried in Hereford Cathedral; translated to a new tomb there, 1287; miracles worked at his tomb; popularly accepted as a saint; the pope urged to canonise him, 1290, 1298, 1806; canonised by Pope John XXII as St. Thomas of Hereford, 1320.

[viii. 448]

CANTELUPE, WALTER DE (d. 1266), bishop of Worcester; defender of English liberties against the encroachments of the crown and the papacy; second son of William, first baron Cantelupe [q. v.]; pluralist, while still in minor orders; at Rome, 1229; justice itinerant, 1331; elected bishop of Worcester, 1236; ordained deacon and priest, and consecrated bishop at Viterbo, May 1237; enthroned, October 1237; defended pluralities against the papal legate, Otho, at the council of St. Paul's, 1237; laboured earnestly to reform his diocese; mediated between Bishop Grosseteste and the chapter of Lincoln, 1239; escorted Otho as far as Burgundy, 1241; urged Henry III to accept William de Raleigh as bishop of Winchester; accompanied Archbishop Boniface to the papal court at Lyons, 1248; promised to join the crusaders, 1247; again at Lyons, 1260; a second time vowed to go on crusade, 1260; resisted Archbishop Boni-face's claim of the right of visitation, 1261, and the pope's demand of a tenth for Henry III, 1262; joined in excommunicating the infringers of Magna Charta, 1263; went with Henry III to Gascony, 1263, and was sent as envoy to Castile; resisted demand for an aid for the pope and Henry III, 1265; envoy to France, 1267; a representative of the barons on the committee of regency ('provisions of Oxford'), 1258; aided Prince Edward's escape from Bristol, 1264; encouraged the barons at Lewes, 1264, and Evesham, 1266; suspended by Ottoboni and summoned to Rome; died before starting, and was buried in Worcester Cathedral.

[viii. 452]

CANTELUPE, WILLIAM DE, first BARON CANTELUPE (d. 1239), a constant adherent of King John; steward of the household; sheriff of Warwick, Leicester, Worcester, and Hereford for John; justiciar, 1203; attached himself to Henry III, 1216; sheriff of Warwick and Leicester; justice itinerant in Bedfordshire, 1218; a witness to the confirmation of Magna Charta, 1226; founder of Studley Hospital.

[viii. 464]

CANTELUPE, WILLIAM DE, second BARON CANTELUPE (d. 1251), son of William de Cantelupe, first baron [q. v.]; an adherent of King John and of Henry III; steward of the household to Henry III; envoy to the papal court at Lyons, 1245.

[viii. 464]

CANTELUPE, WILLIAM DE, third BARON CANTELUPE (d. 1254), son of William de Cantelupe, second baron [q. v.]; obtained by marriage the honour of Bergavenny; accompanied Henry III to Gascony, 1263.

[viii. 465]

CANTERBURY, VISCOUNTS. [See MANNERS-SUTTON, CHARLES, first VISCOUNT, 1780-1845; MANNERS-SUTTON, JOHN HENRY THOMAS, third VISCOUNT, 1814-1877.]

CANTILLON, RICHARD (d. 1734), economist; of Irish extraction; merchant in London and Paris; said to have helped John Law to float his paper-money scheme in Paris, 1716; returned to London; murdered by his cook. His 'Essai sur la Nature du Commerce' (published, 1765), contains striking anticipations of later theories.

[viii. 465]

CANTON, JOHN (1718-1772), electrician; a weaver's apprentice; went to London, 1737, and taught school there; conducted valuable experiments in electricity and magnetism; F.R.S., 1749.

[viii. 466]

CANTRELL, HENRY (1685?-1773), controversialist; educated at Derby grammar school; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1710; incumbent of St. Alkmund's, Derby, 1712-73; wrote against lay-baptism.

[viii. 467]

CANTWELL, ANDREW (d. 1764), physician; of Irish birth; graduated in medicine at Montpellier, 1729; migrated to Paris, 1733; M.D. Paris, 1742, and professor of surgery, 1750, and of pharmacy, 1762; a bitter opponent of inoculation against small-pox; visited England; wrote on medical subjects.

[viii. 467]

CANUTE or CNUT (904?-1035), called 'the Great,' king of the English, Danes, and Norwegians; son of Sweyn, king of the Danes; a pagan in childhood; baptised, c. 1000; accompanied Sweyn in his invasion of England, 1013; acknowledged as king of England by the invaders on Sweyn's death, near Gainsborough, February 1014; outlawed, the witan having recalled Æthelred from Normandy; withdrew before the forces of Æthelred, 1014, to Sandwich in Kent, where he mutilated his English hostages, and thence to Denmark; soon supplanted his brother Harold, who had been (1014) acknowledged king of Denmark; made war on the Slavs on the south coast of the Baltic; openly resisted by Olaf Haroldsson, who was made king of Norway, 1014-15; ravaged Wessex, 1016, and Warwickshire, 1016; marched to York, and received the submission of Northumbria; fruitlessly besieged London, May 1016; suffered defeat in Kent, but routed Eadmund, Æthelred's successor, at Assandun (? Ashington, Essex); followed Eadmund into Gloucestershire, and, by the treaty of Olney Isle, arranged that Eadmund should have Wessex, and probably East Anglia, while he himself ruled the north; wintered at London; chosen by the witan at London, 1017, king of all England, after the murder of Eadmund (1016); married Emma of Ælfgifu, Æthelred's widow, arranging that if a son were born to her he should succeed to the crown, excluding Canut's sons, Harold and

Sweyn, by Ælfgifu [q. v.]; levied a large subsidy, 1018; paid and dismissed his Danish forces; held a gemot at Oxford, where he vowed to rule justly; visited Denmark, 1019, and fought against the Wends; returned to England, 1020, and courted English favour, by benefactions to many monasteries and honours to English saints; fought in Whitland, Esthonia, 1022; demanded the submission of Olaf of Norway; was defeated by the Norse and Swedes in the Helga river; crushed a rising in Denmark, 1026; visited Rome, 1027, and was present at the coronation of the Emperor Conrad, with whom he agreed to make the river Eider the boundary between Denmark and Germany; invaded Scotland, c. 1027; reconquered Norway, 1028; sent his son Sweyn to govern Norway, 1030, and his son Harthacnut to govern Denmark; benefactor to the church; died at Shaftesbury, and was buried at Winchester; bequeathed England and Denmark to Harthacnut, and Norway to Sweyn. [ix. 1]

CANUTE, ROBERT (fl. 1170). [See ROBERT OF CRICKLADE.]

CANYANE, PETER (1720-1786), introducer of castor oil into British pharmacy; born in America; studied medicine at Leyden and Rheims; L.O.P. London, 1744; practised at St. Kitts, West Indies, and afterwards at Bath; withdrew to Brussels. [ix. 8]

CANYNGES, WILLIAM (1399?-1474), merchant and five times mayor of Bristol (1441, 1449, 1457, 1461, 1466); brought up by his stepfather, a Bristol merchant, 1405; traded with Iceland and Finmark, 1450; M.P., Bristol, 1451 and 1455; supported the Yorkists and Edward IV.; rebuilt St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, and the college at Westbury; became a monk at Westbury, 1467, and dean of the college, 1469. [ix. 8]

CAPE, WILLIAM TIMOTHY (1806-1863), Australian colonist; educated at Merchant Taylors' School; taken to Tasmania by his father, 1821, and to Sydney, 1822; assistant to his father in Sydney public school; head-master, 1829; kept private school, 1830; head-master of Sydney College, 1835-42; kept private school, 1842-56; member of New South Wales legislature, 1859; magistrate; died in London while on a visit. [ix. 10]

CAPEL, ARTHUR, first BARON CAPEL OF HADHAM (1610?-1649), royalist leader; a Hertfordshire squire; M.P. for Hertfordshire in the Short parliament, 1640, and the Long parliament, 1640; attached himself to the court party; created Baron Capel of Hadham, 1641; attended Charles I to York, January 1642; his estates confiscated by parliament, 1643; the king's lieutenant-general in Shropshire, Cheshire, and North Wales, 1643; appointed to attend the Prince of Wales; commissioner for Charles I at Uxbridge, 1645; escorted the queen to Paris, 1646; withdrew to Jersey; obtained leave to reside in Hertfordshire; aided Charles I's escape from Hampton Court, November 1647; joined the insurgents of 1648; surrendered at Colchester, August 1648; escaped from the Tower; re-arrested; condemned by the parliament, 1649, and beheaded. [ix. 10]

CAPEL, ARTHUR, EARL OF ESSEX (1631-1683), eldest son of Arthur Capel, first baron Capel of Hadham [q. v.]; fought in the king's army, 1643; succeeded to barony, 1649; lord-lieutenant of Hertfordshire, 1660; created Earl of Essex, April 1661; opposed Charles II's endeavours to obtain arbitrary power and leanings towards catholicism; travelled in France, 1667; lord-lieutenant of Wiltshire, 1668; envoy to Denmark, 1670; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1672; hated by the king's favourites for opposing grants to them; recalled, April 1677; joined the opponents of Danby, 1678; accepted the 'Popish plot' story; first lord of the treasury, March to November 1679; joined Shaftesbury in advocating the Exclusion Bill, 1680; petitioned Charles II against holding the parliament at Oxford, 1681; spoke bitterly against the popish peers; associated himself with Monmouth's schemes, 1682; his share in them betrayed by Lord Howard of Esrick; sent to the Tower; found with his throat cut, July 1683, having probably committed suicide, though many thought him assassinated by order of the court. His extensive correspondence is preserved in the British Museum Library. [ix. 12]

CAPEL, SIR HENRY, BARON CAPEL OF TEWKESBURY (d. 1696), second son of Arthur Capel, first baron Capel of Hadham [q. v.]; K.B., 1661; a commissioner of the admiralty, 1679-80; supported the Exclusion Bill in the Commons, 1680; a commissioner of the treasury, 1689 and 1692; created Baron Capel of Tewkesbury, 1692; lord justice in Ireland, 1693; lord deputy, May 1696; induced the Irish parliament to annul James II's acts. [ix. 17]

CAPEL, RICHARD (1588-1656), puritan; demy of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1604; M.A., 1607; fellow, 1608-14; chaplain to Carr, earl of Somerset, 1613; rector of Eastington, Gloucestershire, 1613; resigned, declining to read in his church the 'Book of Sports,' 1633; licensed to practise physic; puritan preacher, 1641; published sermons and tracts. [ix. 17]

CAPEL, SIR THOMAS BLADEN (1776-1853), admiral; put on the navy books, 1782; in active service, 1792-1837; lieutenant, 1797; fought at the battle of the Nile, 1797; captain, 1798; at Trafalgar, 1805; rear-admiral, 1825; K.C.B., 1832; commander-in-chief in East Indies, 1834-7; admiral, 1847. [ix. 18]

CAPEL, WILLIAM, third EARL OF ESSEX (1697-1743), succeeded to earldom, 1709; gentleman of the bed-chamber to George, prince of Wales, 1718, and to George II, 1727; lord-lieutenant of Hertfordshire, 1727; envoy to Turin, 1731-6; K.G., 1738. [ix. 19]

CAPELL, EDWARD (1713-1781), Shakespearean commentator; educated at Cambridge; deputy-inspector of plays, 1737; published a text of Shakespeare, 10 vols. 1768; began to publish his commentary, 1774; bequeathed part of his library to Trinity College, Cambridge. His commentary appeared (3 vols.) in 1783. [ix. 19]

CAPELL-CONINGSBY, CATHERINE, COUNTESS OF ESSEX (1794-1882). [See STEPHENS, CATHERINE.]

CAPELLANUS, JOHN (fl. 1410?), real name JOHN WALTON; translated into English verse Boethius's 'De Consolatione Philosophiæ.' [ix. 20]

CAPER, EDWARD (1819-1894), 'the rural postman of Bideford'; employed in lace factory at Tiverton; rural letter carrier at Bideford, 1847; published by subscription, 1866, his 'Poems,' which attracted much favourable attention; subsequently published verses. [ix. 20]

CAPGRAVE, JOHN (1393-1464), theologian and historian; studied perhaps at Cambridge; an Augustinian friar; resided most of his life in the friary at Lynn; ordained priest, c. 1418; D.D., possibly of Oxford; visited Rome; a client of Humphrey, duke of Gloucester; provincial of the Augustinian friars, 1456; wrote in Latin sermons, theological tracts, and commentaries on many books of scripture. His chief Latin historical works are 'Nova Legenda Angliæ,' 'De illustribus Henricis,' and 'Vita Humfridi Ducis Gloucestræ.' In English he wrote lives of St. Gilbert of Sempringham and of St. Katharine, also a chronicle of English history extending to A.D. 1417. [ix. 20]

CAPON, JOHN, alias SALTOT (d. 1557), bishop of Salisbury; Benedictine monk; B.A. Cambridge, 1488; prior of St. John's Abbey, Colchester; D.D. Cambridge, 1515; preached at court, 1516-17; abbot of St. Benet's Hulme, Norfolk; client of Cardinal Wolsey; solicited Cambridge University for a decree in favour of Henry VIII's divorce, 1530; abbot of Hyde, near Winchester, 1530-9; nominated bishop of Bangor, 1533; consecrated, 1534, in defiance of the pope's veto; translated to Salisbury, 1539; surrendered Hyde Abbey to the king; reconciled to Rome, 1558. [ix. 22]

CAPON, WILLIAM (d. 1550), ecclesiastic; B.A. Cambridge, 1499; D.D., 1517; fellow of Catharine Hall, Cambridge; a pluralist in benefices and prebends; chaplain to Cardinal Wolsey; master of Jesus College, Cambridge, 1516-46; dean of Wolsey's short-lived college at Ipswich, 1528. [ix. 23]

CAPON, WILLIAM (1757-1827), architect and scene-painter; a portrait painter; scene-painter at Drury Lane, 1794-1809, and at Covent Garden, 1809; architectural draughtsman to Duke of York, 1804; exhibited views of buildings at the Royal Academy; made plans of the old palace of Westminster and the substructure of the abbey. [ix. 23]

CAPPE, NEWCOMBE (1733-1800), unitarian; educated by dissenting ministers; pastor of St. Saviourgate chapel, York, 1766-1800; published sermons and theological tracts. [ix. 24]

CAPPER, FRANÇOIS (1735-1818), divine; educated at Westminster School and Christ Church, Oxford; rector of Monk Soham and Earl Soham, Suffolk, 1759-1818. [ix. 25]

CAPPER, JAMES (1743-1825), meteorologist; educated at Harrow; colonel in the East India Company's service; afterwards resided in South Wales and Norfolk; wrote Asiatic itineraries and books on meteorological subjects and farming. [ix. 25]

CAPPER, JOSEPH (1727-1804), eccentric; grocer in London; lodged in the Horns inn, Kennington, 1779-1804. [ix. 25]

CAPPER, LOUISA (1776-1840), daughter of James Capper [q.v.]; published an abridgment of 'Locke on the Human Understanding,' 1811. [ix. 25]

CAFFOCH, THOMAS (1719-1746). [See COPPOCK.]

CARACIOLOI, CHARLES (fl. 1766), topographer; master of Arundel grammar school; published, 1776, 'The Antiquities of Arundel.' Other works of doubtful authenticity are attributed to him. [ix. 26]

CARACTACUS (fl. 50), king of the Britons; his name in English, Caradoc, in Welsh, Caradawg; a son of Cunobelin of Colchester; as chief of the Catuvellauni, took the lead in resisting the Roman invasion, A.D. 43; defeated on the Thames and in Essex; withdrew to South Wales, and continued to harass the Romans; defeated (perhaps near Shrewsbury), A.D. 50; sent captive to Rome; died in captivity. [ix. 26]

CARADOC, SIR JOHN FRANCIS, first Baron HOWDEN (1762-1839), general; only son of John Cradock [q.v.], archbishop of Dublin; changed his name to Caradoc in 1820; cornet, 1777; captain, 1781; major, 1785; M.P. in the Irish parliament, 1786-1800; lieutenant-colonel, 1789; served in West Indies, 1790 and 1793-5; stationed in Ireland, 1795; took active part in suppressing Irish rebellion, 1798; major-general, 1798; served in Egypt, 1801; K.B., 1803; commander-in-chief at Madras, 1804-7; lieutenant-general, 1805; partly responsible for mutiny at Vellore, 1806; took command in Portugal, 1808; removed to the governorship of Gibraltar, 1809; governor of the Cape, 1811-14; general, 1812; created Baron Howden in the Irish peerage, 1819, and in the English peerage, 1831. [ix. 27]

CARADOC, SIR JOHN HOBART, second Baron HOWDEN (1799-1873), diplomatist; only child of Sir John Francis Caradoc, first Baron Howden [q.v.]; ensign, 1815; aide-de-camp in France, 1815-18; captain, 1818; aide-de-camp at Lisbon and in Malta; on the embassy staff at Berlin, 1824, and Paris, 1825; major, 1825; envoy to Egypt, 1827; M.P., Dundalk, 1830; military attaché with the French army, 1832, and the Spanish army, 1834; succeeded to barony, 1839; colonel, 1841; minister to Brazil, 1847-50; broke up the British blockade of Buenos Ayres, 1847; minister at Madrid, 1860-8; lieutenant-general, 1869; G.C.B.; died at Bayonne. [ix. 29]

CARADOG (d. 1035), a South Welsh prince; a son of Rhydderch; fought against the sons of Edwin, 1032-5; slain by the English. [ix. 30]

CARADOG OF LLANCAUVAN (d. 1147?), Welsh chronicler; of the suite of Earl Robert of Gloucester; a friend of Geoffrey of Monmouth; wrote continuation of Geoffrey's chronicle, and other works, not now extant. [ix. 30]

CARADORI-ALLAN, MARIA CATERINA ROSALBINA (1800-1865), vocalist; born at Milan; daughter of Baron de Munck; took her mother's maiden name, Caradori, for her professional name; married E. T. Allan, secretary of the King's Theatre, London, 1824; sang in the Italian opera in London, 1822-7, in Venice, 1830, and again in London in 1834; quitted the stage, and sang in oratorios and concerts; retired, 1845. [ix. 30]

CARANTACUS, in Welsh CARANNOG, SAINT (fl. 450), said to have declined the princedom of Cardigan in order to become a hermit; joined St. Patrick, and laboured with him in the conversion of Ireland; changed his name to Cernach; perhaps to be identified with the St. Cairnech whose festival is 16 May; returned to Wales; died in Ireland. [ix. 31]

CARAVIUS (245?-293), Roman emperor in Britain; originally pilot on the Scheldt; served under the Emperor

Maximian against the revolted Gauls, 286; given command of the Boulogne fleet against the Saxon pirates; enriched himself by plunder; suspecting Maximian's hostility, crossed to Britain, proclaimed himself emperor, raised troops, and struck coins, 287; defeated Maximian's fleet; admitted to partnership in the empire, 290; his garrison at Boulogne subdued by Constantius, 292; assassinated by Allectus [q.v.] His coins, chiefly minted at London and Colchester, are exceptionally numerous. [ix. 32]

CARBERRY, EARLS OF. [See VAUGHAN, RICHARD, second EARL of, 1600?-1686; VAUGHAN, JOHN, third EARL of, 1640-1713.]

CARD, HENRY (1779-1844), miscellaneous writer; educated at Westminster School; B.A. Pembroke College, Oxford, 1800; D.D., 1823; vicar of Great Malvern, 1815, and of Dorington, Herefordshire, 1832; published verses and historical and theological tracts. [ix. 36]

CARDALE, JOHN BATE (1802-1877), founder of the Catholic Apostolic (popularly called the Irvingite) church; son of a wealthy London solicitor; educated at Rugby, 1815-18; practised as solicitor in London, 1824-34; went to Scotland, 1830, to investigate the reported 'speaking with tongues'; opened a prayer-meeting in London, to wait for the gift, October 1830; the gift of speaking 'in a tongue' obtained by his wife, 1831; became, 1831, 'apostle' of the new church; member, with his wife, of Edward Irving's [q.v.] congregation, in which (October 1831) speaking with tongues began; ordained Irving to be minister of the new church, 1833; settled at Albury, Surrey, 1835, where a cathedral was built; issued liturgy, 1842; published sermons and theological tracts. [ix. 36]

CARDALE, PAUL (1705-1776), Socinian; educated at a nonconformist seminary in Derbyshire, 1720; Presbyterian preacher at Kidderminster, 1726; minister at Evesham, 1733-75; published, anonymously, many Socinian sermons and tracts, 1740-74. [ix. 38]

CARDER, PETER (fl. 1577-1586), a Cornish seaman; appeared in England, November 1586, with a tale that he had sailed with Sir Francis Drake, November 1577, been wrecked in the Straits of Magellan, October 1578, lived with savages, and made his way to Pernambuco. [ix. 39]

CARDIGAN, seventh EARL OF (1797-1868). [See BRUDENELL, JAMES THOMAS.]

CARDMAKER, alias TAYLOR, JOHN (d. 1555), protestant martyr; an Observant friar; married after the suppression of his order by Henry VIII; vicar of St. Bridget's, Fleet Street, and lecturer at St. Paul's; prebendary of Wells; tried to escape over sea; arrested in London, November 1554; sentenced to death for heresy, May 1555; burnt in Smithfield. [ix. 39]

CARDON, ANTHONY (1772-1813), engraver; a native of Brussels; came to London, 1792; illustrated books; engraved in stipple, chiefly portraits and battle-pieces. [ix. 40]

CARDON, PHILIP (d. 1817?), engraver. [ix. 40]

CARDONNELL, ADAM [DE] (d. 1719), secretary to the Duke of Marlborough from 1692 throughout his campaigns; son of a Huguenot refugee; clerk in the war office; M.P. for Southampton, 1701; his name put forward by Marlborough for the secretaryship of war, January 1710, but rejected by the Tories; expelled the house on a charge of receiving gratuities from army contractors, 1712. [ix. 40]

CARDONNELL, afterwards CARDONNELL-LAWSON, ADAM [MANSFELDT] DE (d. 1820), antiquary; by profession a surgeon; studied antiquities and numismatics; F.S.A. Scotland, 1780; resided in Edinburgh; gave much assistance to Francis Grose; took the name Lawson and removed to Northumberland, on succession to an estate, c. 1790; often visited Bath; published treatises on Scottish coins and antiquities. [ix. 41]

CARDONNELL, PHILIP DE (d. 1667), author of verses on Charles II's marriage. [ix. 41]

CARDROSS, BARONS. [See ERSKINE, DANIEL, second BARON, 1616-1671; ERSKINE, HENRY, third BARON, 1650-1693.]

CARDWELL, EDWARD (1787-1861), church historian; B.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1809; D.D., 1831; fellow and tutor; Camden professor of ancient history, 1826-61; rector of Stoke Bruerne, Northamptonshire, 1828; principal of St. Alban Hall, Oxford, 1831-61; published sermons, editions of Aristotle's 'Ethics,' the Greek Testament, and Josephus, and collections for the history (1646-1717) of the church of England and of the prayer-book. [ix. 42]

CARDWELL, EDWARD, VISCOUNT CARDWELL (1813-1886), statesman; son of Liverpool merchant; educated at Winchester and Balliol College, Oxford; B.A., 1835; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1838; M.P. for Clitheroe, 1842; attached himself to Sir Robert Peel; secretary to the treasury, 1845-6; M.P. for Liverpool, 1847-52; M.P. for Oxford city, 1852; president of the board of trade in Lord Aberdeen's coalition cabinet, 1852-5; carried through the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854; served on the commission regarding the manning of the navy, 1858; secretary for Ireland under Lord Palmerston, 1859-61; secretary for the colonies under Lord Palmerston and Russell, 1864-6; withdrew British troops from colonial stations and abolished transportation; secretary for war under Mr. Gladstone, 1868-74; introduced short service and the army reserve; abolished commissions by purchase; created Viscount Cardwell, 1874. [ix. 43]

CARE, HENRY (1646-1688), journalist; edited a partisan anti-Romanist journal, called the 'Weekly Paquet of Advice from Rome,' 1678-9, suppressed in 1680, but afterwards continued till 1683; published several controversial pamphlets and some translations. [ix. 45]

CARELESS, WILLIAM (d. 1689). [See CARLOS.]

CARENCROSS, ALEXANDER (d. 1701). [See CAIRNCROSS.]

CAREW. [See also CAREY and CARY.]

CAREW, SIR ALEXANDER (1609-1644), second baronet, of Antony, Cornwall; M.P. for Cornwall, 1640; governor for the parliament of St. Nicholas Island in Plymouth harbour; arrested on suspicion of betraying his charge; found guilty, 1644; executed on Tower Hill. [ix. 46]

CAREW, BAMFYLD MOORE (1693-1770?), king of the gipsies; son of a Devonshire rector; ran away from Tiverton school, and joined the gipsies; became a clever sharper; went to Newfoundland; returned to Newcastle-on-Tyne; elected king of the English gipsies; transported to Maryland; escaped, and returned to England; followed Prince Charles Edward's army to Derby, 1746. [ix. 47]

CAREW, SIR BENJAMIN HALLOWELL (1760-1834), admiral; named Hallowell up to 1828, when he took the name Carew on succeeding to certain property; born in Canada; served in the navy, chiefly in Mediterranean, 1781-1814; commander, 1790; commanded a ship in the battle of the Nile, 1798; presented Nelson with a coffin made of the timbers of the L'Orient; rear-admiral, 1811; K.C.B., 1815; commanded on home stations, 1816-1824; admiral, 1830. [ix. 47]

CAREW, SIR EDMUND (1464-1513), soldier; adherent of Henry VII; knighted on Bosworth field, 1485; drove Perkin Warbeck from Exeter, 1497; killed at the siege of Thérouanne. [ix. 49]

CAREW, ELIZABETH, LADY (fl. 1590). [See CAREY, ELIZABETH, LADY.]

CAREW, GEORGE (d. 1583), ecclesiastic; third son of Sir Edmund Carew [q. v.]; B.A. Oxford, 1522; a pluralist in rectories and prebends; dean of Bristol, 1552-3 and 1559-71; dean of Christ Church, Oxford, 1559-61; dean of Windsor, 1560-77; dean of Exeter, 1571-1583. [ix. 61]

CAREW, SIR GEORGE (d. 1612), lawyer and diplomatist; probably at Oxford; travelled; barrister; secretary to lord chancellors Hatton and Egerton; M.P. for various Cornish boroughs, 1584-1601; envoy to Sweden and Poland, 1598; a master in chancery, 1599-1612; knighted, 1603; envoy to France, 1605-9; master of court of wards, 1612; drew up reports of causes in chancery. [ix. 60]

CAREW, GEORGE, BARON CAREW OF CLOPTON AND EARL OF TOTNES (1555-1629), statesman; son of George

Carew (d. 1583) [q. v.]; educated at Broadgates Hall, Oxford, 1564-73; attended Sir Peter Carew [q. v.] to Ireland, 1574; volunteer in Ireland, 1575; given charge of Leighlin Castle, 1576; repulsed Rory Oge O'More, 1577; captain in navy, 1578; commanded troops in Ireland, 1579-80; knighted, 1586; sent to report on Irish affairs to Queen Elizabeth, 1586; master of ordnance in Ireland, 1588-92; lieutenant-general of ordnance in England, 1592; went with the expeditions to Cadiz, 1596, and the Azores, 1597; envoy to France, 1598; treasurer at war in Ireland, 1599; lord justice, 1599; president of Munster, 1600-3; ruthlessly suppressed Irish rebellion; M.P. for Hastings, 1604; created Baron Carew of CLOPTON House, 1605; master-general of the ordnance, 1608-17; governor of Guernsey, 1610-21; visited Ireland, 1610; created Earl of Totnes, 1626. Portions of his large collections for Irish history are in the Lambeth and Bodleian libraries. [ix. 61]

CAREW, SIR JOHN (d. 1362), justiciar in Ireland; owned Mulesford Manor, Berkshire, 1327; went to Ireland, 1332; negotiated with the Irish rebels, 1346; justiciar, 1349; king's escheator in Ireland, 1349, 1352, 1355, and 1366; attended the council at Waterford, 1359; at Westminster, 1361; followed Prince Lionel to Ireland. [ix. 53]

CAREW, JOHN (d. 1660), regicide; of Antony, Cornwall; of republican opinions; co-opted by the Long parliament into the seat for Tregony; commissioner at Holdenby, 1646; sat as judge on Charles I. and signed the death-warrant; served in the Commonwealth parliaments of 1651 and 1654; imprisoned by Cromwell, 1655; retired to his estates; again imprisoned, 1658; fled for not attending in parliament, 1659; tried at London as a regicide, 1660; executed at Charing Cross. [ix. 54]

CAREW, JOHN EDWARD (1785?-1868), sculptor; assistant in London to Sir Richard Westmacott, 1809-1823; employed at Petworth by the third Earl of Egremont, 1828-37; lived latterly in London; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1830-48. [ix. 54]

CAREW, SIR MATTHEW (d. 1618), lawyer; educated at Westminster School; fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge; studied law abroad; travelled in Italy; practised in the court of arches; a master in chancery, 1583-1618; knighted, 1603. [ix. 55]

CAREW, SIR NICHOLAS (d. 1539), of Beddington, Surrey; courtier of Henry VIII; attended Henry VIII in France, 1513; knighted before 1517; keeper of Greenwich Park, 1517; sheriff of Surrey and Sussex, 1519 and 1529; removed by the privy council from attendance on the king, 1519; sent to Calais, as lieutenant of the castle; attended Henry VIII in France, 1520; returned to court, 1521; master of the horse, 1522; envoy to France, 1527; M.P., Surrey, 1529; envoy to the Emperor Charles V., 1529-30; entertained Henry VIII at Beddington, 1531; envoy to France, 1532; K.G., 1536; condemned for his share in the Marquis of Exeter's treason; beheaded. [ix. 56]

CAREW, SIR PETER (1514-1575), soldier; went to France as a page; became a muletier; servant to a French officer in Italy, 1525; in the service of Philibert, prince of Orange, 1525-30; recommended to Henry VIII, who made him a gentleman of the privy chamber; travelled in Italy and Turkey, 1540; served in the war with France, 1544; knighted, 1545; sheriff of Devonshire, 1546; active in repressing the Devonshire rising, 1549; opposed Queen Mary's marriage with Philip of Spain; fled overseas; arrested in Antwerp; imprisoned in the Tower, 1556; went to Ireland to claim estates in Munster, 1568; engaged in civil war with the Butlers; recalled; constable of the Tower, 1572; returned to Ireland, 1574. [ix. 59]

CAREW, RICHARD (1555-1620), antiquary; educated at Christ Church, Oxford; succeeded to the estates at Antony, Cornwall; justice of the peace, 1581; M.P. for Saltash, 1584; high sheriff of Cornwall, 1588; M.P. for Michell, 1597; published a translation of the first five cantos of Tasso's 'Godfrey of Bvliognoe' ('Jerusalem Delivered'), 1594, and a 'Survey of Cornwall,' 1602. [ix. 60]

CAREW, SIR RICHARD (d. 1643?), writer on education; eldest son of Richard Carew (1555-1620) [q. v.]; educated at Oxford and the Middle Temple; travelled in France; M.P. for Cornwall, 1614; M.P. for Michell, 1620; created baronet, 1642; wrote tract on teaching Latin. [ix. 62]

CAREW or CARY, ROBERT, also called CERVINUS (fl. 1325), schoolman; D.D. Oxford; wrote commentaries on Aristotle, Peter Lombard, and the scriptures. [ix. 63]

CAREW, SIR THOMAS (d. 1431), soldier in the service of Henry IV and Henry V. [ix. 63]

CAREW, THOMAS (1595?-1639?), poet; son of Sir Matthew Carew [q. v.]; entered Merton College, Oxford, 1608; B.A., 1611; entered at Middle Temple, 1612; secretary to Sir Dudley Carleton in Italy, 1613-1616; quarrelled with Carleton, 1616; accompanied Lord Herbert of Cherbury to France, 1619; employed in the court of Charles I, who gave him Sunninghill; a man of dissipated habits; wrote masques and songs. [ix. 63]

CAREW, THOMAS (1590-1672?), traveller and historian. [See CAREW.]

CAREY. [See also CAREW and CARY.]

CAREY, DAVID (1782-1824), journalist; whig journalist in London, c. 1804, in Inverness, 1807, in Boston, 1812, and again in London, 1813; published verses, novels, and notes of travel. [ix. 64]

CAREY or CAREW, ELIZABETH, LADY, the elder (fl. 1590), daughter of Sir John Spencer of Althorpe; kinswoman of Edmund Spenser, who dedicated his 'Muiopotmos' to her; married Sir George Carey, afterwards second baron Hunsdon [q. v.] [ix. 64]

CAREY or CAREW, ELIZABETH, the younger (d. 1635), daughter of Lady Elizabeth Carey the elder [q. v.]; patroness of Thomas Nash the satirist; married Sir Thomas Berkeley; possibly authoress of 'The Tragedie of Marian,' 1613. [ix. 64]

CAREY, EUSTACE (1791-1855), missionary; educated in baptist seminaries; baptist missionary at Calcutta, 1814-25; visited baptist churches in Great Britain, advocating missions, from 1826; published tracts on missions. [ix. 65]

CAREY, FELIX (1786-1822), author of a Burmese grammar and dictionary, and translations into Burmese; son of William Carey (1761-1834) [q. v.]; missionary; died at Serampur, Bengal. [ix. 65]

CAREY, GEORGE, second BARON HUNSDON (1547-1603), eldest son of Henry Carey, first baron Hunsdon [q. v.]; married Lady Elizabeth Carey (fl. 1590) [q. v.]; entered Trinity College, Cambridge, 1560; envoy to Scotland, 1569; served against the northern rebels, and the Scots, 1570; knighted, 1570; constable of Bamborough Castle, 1574; envoy to Scotland, 1582; captain-general of the Isle of Wight, 1582; fortified the Isle of Wight in expectation of the Armada, 1587; envoy to Scotland, 1589; succeeded to barony, 1596; lord chamberlain of the household, 1597. [ix. 65]

CAREY or CARY, SIR GEORGE (d. 1617), of Cockington; treasurer at war in Ireland, 1588; lord justice, 1603. [ix. 62]

CAREY, GEORGE JACKSON (1822-1872), major-general; educated at Elizabeth College, Guernsey; ensign, 1845; served in South Africa, 1846-57; captain, 1848; brevet-colonel, 1854; served in New Zealand, 1863-5; on home stations, 1867-72; major-general, 1868. [ix. 66]

CAREY, GEORGE SAVILLE (1743-1807), miscellaneous writer; posthumous son of Henry Carey (d. 1743) [q. v.]; brought up as a printer; took to the stage, 1763; failed as an actor; a successful vocalist and mimic in London and the provinces, 1770-1807; published songs, plays, burlettas, and operas, 1766-1801. [ix. 67]

CAREY, HENRY, first BARON HUNSDON (1524?-1596), son of Anne Boleyn's sister and first cousin to Queen Elizabeth; M.P., Buckingham, 1547-55; received lands in Buckinghamshire from Edward VI, 1549; knighted, 1558; created Baron Hunsdon, January 1559, and given lands in Hertfordshire and Kent by Queen Elizabeth; K.G., 1561; in attendance at court; envoy to France, 1564; governor of Berwick, 1568-67; active in repressing the northern rebellion, 1569-70; entertained Elizabeth at Hunsdon and received lands in Yorkshire, 1571; favoured Queen Elizabeth's projected marriage with the Duc d'Anjou, 1579; lord chamberlain of the household, 1583; commissioner on various treason trials, 1585-95; commissioner to try Mary Stuart, 1586; envoy to Scotland, 1587; in command of the forces at Tilbury, 1588; envoy to France, 1591. [ix. 68]

CAREY, HENRY, second EARL OF MONMOUTH (1596-1661), translator; eldest son of Robert Carey, first earl of Monmouth [q. v.]; spent his boyhood with his father on the borders and at the court of James I; B.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1613; travelled, 1613-16; K.B., 1616; succeeded to the earldom, 1639; lived in retirement; published translations from the Italian and French, 1637-58. [ix. 70]

CAREY, HENRY (d. 1743), author of 'Sally in our Alley'; published his first poems, 1713; wrote farces, burlesques, and songs for the London theatres, 1715-39. His 'Dramatic Works' appeared 1748. [ix. 71]

CAREY, JAMES (1845-1883), Fenian and informer; a bricklayer of Dublin; a successful Dublin builder; joined the Fenians, 1861; became a leader of the 'Invincibles,' 1881; directed the assassination of Lord Frederick Cavendish [q. v.], May 1882; arrested, January 1883; turned queen's evidence, February; murdered at sea. [ix. 72]

CAREY, JOHN, third BARON HUNSDON (d. 1617), second son of Henry Carey, first baron Hunsdon [q. v.]; deputy warden of the eastern marches and marshal of Berwick; proclaimed James I, king of England, at Berwick, 25 March 1603; succeeded to barony, September 1603. [ix. 73]

CAREY, JOHN (1756-1826), classical scholar; born in Ireland; educated in France; visited the United States, 1789; settled in London as a teacher of classics and French; edited Dryden's 'Virgil,' 1803 and 1819; edited many classical texts and school-books. [ix. 73]

CAREY, MATTHEW (1760-1839), bookseller; son of a Dublin baker; apprenticed to a bookseller; went to Paris, 1779, fearing prosecution for a pamphlet reflecting on the penal laws; conducted the Dublin 'Freeman's Journal' and (1783) 'The Volunteer's Journal'; emigrated to Philadelphia, 1784; journalist at Philadelphia, 1785-92; bookseller and publisher, 1792-1824; published 'Vindiciæ Hibernicæ,' 1819, to extenuate the rebellion of 1641; wrote a multitude of papers on political and social subjects. [ix. 74]

CAREY, PATRICK (fl. 1651). [See CARY.]

CAREY, ROBERT, first EARL OF MONMOUTH (1560?-1639), youngest son of Henry Carey, first baron Hunsdon [q. v.]; employed in the public service in the Netherlands, 1577-81, and in Scotland, 1583; M.P., Morpeth, 1586-93; fought in the Netherlands, 1587, against the Armada, 1588, and in Normandy, 1591; envoy to Scotland, 1588 and 1593; knighted, 1591; employed on the Scottish border, 1593-1603; M.P., Northumberland, 1598 and 1601; conveyed, by three days' riding, news of Elizabeth's death to James VI of Scotland, 1603; master of the robes to Prince Charles, 1611, and chamberlain, 1617-25; created Baron Leppington, 1622; followed Prince Charles to Spain, 1623; created Earl of Monmouth, 1626; wrote an autobiography (printed 1759). [ix. 75]

CAREY, VALENTINE (d. 1626). [See CARY.]

CAREY, WILLIAM (1761-1834), orientalist and missionary; son of a Northamptonshire schoolmaster; a shoemaker; joined the baptists, 1783; pastor at Moulton, Northamptonshire, 1786, and Leicester, 1789; devoted himself to study; founded Baptist Missionary Society; went to Calcutta, 1794; made a living as foreman at an indigo factory at Málidá; preached there in Bengali, 1795-9; removed to Serampur, 1799; professor of Sanskrit at Fort William College, 1801; opened mission chapel at Calcutta, 1805; issued translations of the scriptures; compiled grammars and dictionaries of several native languages and edited the 'Ramayana,' 1806-10. [ix. 77]

CAREY, WILLIAM (1769-1846), bishop of Exeter and St. Asaph; educated at Westminster School; entered Christ Church, Oxford, 1789; M.A., 1796; censor, 1798-1802; vicar of Cowley, Oxford; head-master of Westminster, 1803-14; D.D., 1807; prebendary of Westminster, 1809; vicar of Sutton-in-the-Forest, Yorkshire; bishop of Exeter, 1820; bishop of St. Asaph, 1830-46; bene factor of Christ Church, Oxford. [ix. 77]

CAREY, WILLIAM PAULET (1759-1839), art critic; engraver at Dublin; a dealer in pictures and prints in London; one of the first to recognise the genius of Chantrey, the sculptor; removed to Birmingham, 1834; published many works on artistic and literary questions, 1801-36. [ix. 78]

CARGILL, ANN (1748?-1784), actress and vocalist; acted under the name of Miss Brown at Covent Garden, 1770-80, and under that of Mrs. Cargill at the Haymarket, 1780; went on a professional tour to India, 1782; drowned off Scilly. [ix. 79]

CARGILL, DONALD, or, according to some, DANIEL (1619?-1681), covenantor; educated at Aberdeen and St. Andrews; minister of Barony parish, Glasgow, 1655; ejected by the privy council for rebuking Charles II's conduct, 1662; field preacher in the lowlands; present at battle of Bothwell Bridge, 1679; pronounced Charles II deposed and excommunicated, 1680; captured, 1680; executed at Edinburgh. [ix. 79]

CARGILL, JAMES (fl. 1605), botanist; medical practitioner in Aberdeen after studying botany at Basle. [ix. 80]

CARHAMPTON, EARLS OF. [See LUTTRELL, HENRY LAWES, second EARL, 1743-1821; LUTTRELL-OLMIUS, JOHN, third EARL, d. 1829.]

CARRIER, BENJAMIN (1666-1614), convert to Roman catholicism; B.A. Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1586, and fellow, 1589-1602; D.D., 1602; rector of Paddlesworth, Kent, 1598-9; vicar of Thurnham, Kent, 1600-13; rector of West Tarring, Sussex, 1602; rector of Old Romney, Kent, and chaplain to James I, 1603; prebendary of Canterbury, 1608; fellow of Sutorlife's college at Chelsea; withdrew to Spa; converted to Romanism at Cologne; died in Paris; published treatise in justification of his conversion, 1613. [ix. 80]

CARLILE, WILLIAM DE SAINT (d. 1096), bishop of Durham; secular priest at Bayeux; monk at St. Carlile (or Calais), Maine; abbot of St. Vincent; bishop of Durham, 1081; expelled the secular canons at Durham and put monks in their place, 1083; an adviser of William I; chief minister to William II, 1088; rebelled; took refuge in Normandy; pardoned, 1091; commenced the rebuilding of Durham Cathedral, 1093; helped William II in his proceedings against Anselm, 1095, though he had previously maintained that bishops were exempt from the royal jurisdiction. [ix. 81]

CARKEET, SAMUEL (d. 1746), presbyterian; minister at Totnes, 1710; removed to Bodmin, c. 1729; published sermons. [ix. 84]

CARKESSE, JAMES (fl. 1679), verse writer; educated at Westminster; student of Christ Church, Oxford, 1662; master of Magdalen College School, Oxford; joined the Roman catholic church before 1679; published 'Lucida Intervalla,' a volume of doggerel rhymes, 1679. [ix. 84]

CARKETT, ROBERT (d. 1780), naval officer; seaman in the navy, 1734; midshipman, c. 1738; lieutenant, 1745; distinguished himself in action, 1758; captain, 1758; failed to understand Rodney's instructions, 17 April 1780, thereby spoiling that commander's plans; his ship wrecked in a hurricane, all hands being lost, 1780. [ix. 84]

CARLEILL, CHRISTOPHER (1561?-1593), military and naval commander; educated at Cambridge; Sir Francis Walsingham's son-in-law; served at sea and on land with the Dutch, 1573-7; served under Condé at La Rochelle, escorted English merchant fleet to Russia, 1582; projected voyage of exploration to America, 1583; commander at Coleraine, 1584; commanded the land forces against the Spanish West Indies, 1585; governor of Ulster, 1588. [ix. 85]

CARLEILL, LODOWICK (fl. 1629-1664), dramatist; a court official under Charles I and Charles II; published nine plays (eight extant). [ix. 86]

CARLETON, BARON (d. 1725). [See BOYLE, HENRY.]

CARLETON, SIR DUDLEY, VISCOUNT DORCHESTER (1573-1632), diplomatist; educated at Westminster School; B.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1596; travelled, 1596-1600; ambassador's secretary at Paris, 1602-3; M.P., St. Mawes, 1604-11; secretary to Henry, earl of Northumberland; travelled with Francis, lord Norreys,

1605; suspected of complicity in the Gunpowder plot, 1606; knighted, 1610; ambassador to Venice, 1610-15; ambassador at the Hague, 1616-26; envoy to Paris, 1626; M.P., Hastings, 1626; created Baron Carleton of Imbercourt, May 1626; envoy to the Hague, 1626-8; created Viscount Dorchester, July 1628; secretary of state, 1628; left a mass of official correspondence. [ix. 87]

CARLETON, GEORGE (1559-1628), bishop of Chichester; entered St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, 1576; fellow of Merton College, 1580; M.A., 1585; vicar of Mayfield, Sussex, 1589-1605; D.D., 1613; bishop of Llandaff, 1618; represented the church of England at the synod at Dort, 1618-19; bishop of Chichester, 1619; published complimentary verses, theological tracts, and a life of Bernard Gilpin. [ix. 90]

CARLETON, GEORGE (fl. 1726), captain; published at London, 1728, an autobiography entitled 'Military Memoirs from 1672 to 1713' (long thought to be one of Defoe's fictions); volunteer in the English fleet, 1672; in the Prince of Orange's service in the Netherlands; stationed in Scotland, 1690?-1706; served in Spain under Peterborough, 1705. [ix. 91]

CARLETON, GUY (1598?-1685), bishop of Chichester; educated at Carlisle school; entered Queen's College, Oxford, 1626; fellow; M.A., 1629; followed Charles I's army, although a divine; imprisoned at Lambeth; escaped overseas; D.D., 1660; dean of Carlisle, 1660; bishop of Bristol, 1671; bishop of Chichester, 1678. [ix. 92]

CARLETON, GUY, first BARON DORCHESTER (1724-1808), governor of Quebec; ensign, 1742; lieutenant-colonel, 1757; served in America, 1758-62; colonel, 1762; acting governor of Quebec, 1766-70; returned to England, 1770; major-general, 1772; advocated the Quebec Act, 1774; governor of Quebec, 1775-7; defeated by an American force, 1775; successfully defended Quebec, December 1775 to May 1776; defeated the Americans on Lake Champlain, October 1776; K.B., 1776; returned to England, 1778; commander-in-chief in America, 1782-3; created Baron Dorchester, August 1786; resided in Quebec as governor, 1786-91 and 1793-8; general, 1793. [ix. 93]

CARLETON, HUGH, VISCOUNT CARLETON (1739-1826), Irish judge; educated at Trinity College, Dublin; solicitor-general, 1779; lord chief justice of the common pleas, 1787-1800; created Baron Carleton, 1789; created Viscount Carleton, 1797; lord chief justice, 1800. [ix. 95]

CARLETON, MARY (1642?-1673), 'the German princess'; criminal; born in Canterbury and named Mary Moders; came from Holland to England, 1661, pretending to be a noble German heiress; married bigamously John Carleton, 1663; went on the stage, 1664; transported for theft to Jamaica, 1671; returned to London; hanged for theft; subject of two broadsides and an 'Historicall Narrative.' [ix. 95]

CARLETON, RICHARD (1660?-1638?), composer; B.A. Clare College, Cambridge, 1677; Mus. Bac.; employed at Norwich Cathedral; rector of Bawsey, Norfolk, 1612; published madrigals. [ix. 96]

CARLETON, THOMAS (1593?-1666). [See COMPTON.]

CARLETON, WILLIAM (d. 1309?), judge; justice over the Jews, 1286-90; baron of the exchequer, 1291; senior baron, 1300. [ix. 97]

CARLETON, WILLIAM (1794-1869), Irish novelist; born in Tyrone; son of a poor cottar; taught by a hedge-priest; intended for the church; tutor in Dublin; published numerous realistic tales delineating Irish life, 1830-62; pensioned. [ix. 97]

CARLIELL, ROBERT (d. 1622?), poet; published, 1620, 'Britaines Glorie,' an allegorical poem praising the church. [ix. 98]

CARLILE. [See also CARLIELL, CARLISLE, and CARLYLE.]

CARLILE or CARLISLE, ANNE (d. 1680?), miniaturist; mentioned, 1658, as painting in oil. [ix. 99]

CARLILE, CHRISTOPHER (d. 1588?), divine; fellow of Clare Hall, Cambridge; M.A., 1541; B.D., 1552; D.D.; was residing at Monks' Horton, Kent, 1663; published two controversial treatises. [ix. 99]

CARLILE, CHRISTOPHER (1551?-1593). [See CARLEILL, CHRISTOPHER.]

CARLILE, JAMES (d. 1691), dramatist; an actor at Drury Lane, 1682-4; captain in the army; brought out 'Fortune Hunters,' a comedy, 1689; killed at Aghrim. [ix. 99]

CARLILE, JAMES (1784-1854), divine; born at Paisley; educated at Glasgow; D.D.; joint minister of a Scots church in Dublin, 1813-54; commissioner of education, 1830-9; inaugurated mission to Roman catholics at Parsonstown, 1839; published theological and controversial tracts. [ix. 100]

CARLILE, RICHARD (1790-1843), freethinker; a Devonshire shoemaker's son; chemist's shopboy in Exeter; journeyman tinsmith; mechanic in London, 1813; a disciple of Thomas Paine, 1816; vendor of prohibited papers, 1817; printer and author of freethought papers; issued Paine's works, 1818; imprisoned at Dorchester, 1819-25; issued 'The Republican,' a journal, 1819-28; his wife, sister, and shopmen imprisoned, in spite of which the journal still appeared; opened hall for free discussion, 1830; imprisoned for refusing to pay church rates, 1830-3 and 1834-5; wrote numerous controversial tracts and serials. [ix. 100]

CARLINGFORD, EARLS OF. [See TAAFE, THEOBALD, first EARL, d. 1677; TAAFE, FRANCIS, third EARL, 1639-1704.]

CARLINGFORD, VISCOUNTS OF. [See TAAFE, THEOBALD, second VISCOUNT, d. 1677; TAAFE, FRANCIS, fourth VISCOUNT, 1639-1704; TAAFE, NICHOLAS, sixth VISCOUNT, 1677-1769.]

CARLINGFORD, BARON, 1823-1898. [See FORTESCUE, OCHICESTER SAMUEL PARKINSON.]

CARLINI, AGOSTINO (d. 1790), sculptor and painter; born at Genoa; exhibited at Royal Academy, 1760-86; celebrated for his treatment of drapery. [ix. 103]

CARLISLE. [See also CARLEILL, CARLIELL, CARLILE, and CARLYLE.]

CARLISLE, EARLS OF. [See HARCLEY, ANDREW, d. 1323; HAY, JAMES, d. 1636; HOWARD, CHARLES, first EARL of the second creation, 1629-1685; HOWARD, CHARLES, third EARL, 1674-1738; HOWARD, HENRY, fourth EARL, 1694-1758; HOWARD, FREDERICK, fifth EARL, 1748-1825; HOWARD, GEORGE, sixth EARL, 1773-1848; HOWARD, GEORGE WILLIAM FREDERICK, seventh EARL, 1802-1864.]

CARLISLE, COUNTESS OF (1599-1660). [See HAY, LUCY.]

CARLISLE, SIR ANTHONY (1768-1840), surgeon; apprenticed to practitioners in York and Durham; studied in London; surgeon to the Westminster Hospital, 1793-1840; professor of anatomy at the Royal Academy, 1808-1824; knighted, 1820; introduced the thin-bladed, straight-edged amputating knife; wrote on medical, artistic, and scientific subjects. [ix. 103]

CARLISLE, NICHOLAS (1771-1847), antiquary; born at York; pursuer in the East India Company's service; secretary to Society of Antiquaries, 1807; assistant librarian, Royal Library, 1812; compiler of topographical dictionaries, family histories, and similar works. [ix. 104]

CARLOS, EDWARD JOHN (1798-1851), antiquary; an official of the lord mayor's court office; wrote descriptions of London churches and old buildings. [ix. 105]

CARLOS, CARLES, or CARELESS, WILLIAM (d. 1689), royalist; major or colonel in the civil wars; after Worcester fight, 3 Sept. 1651, hid himself in an oak tree near Boscombe House; shared his retreat with Charles II, 6 and 7 Sept.; escaped to France; was taken into Charles's service; granted one-third of the tax on hay and straw in London and Westminster, 1661; received a bounty from James II, 1687. [ix. 105]

CARLSE, JAMES (1798-1855), engraver; of London; engraved chiefly for annals and books. [ix. 106]

CARLYLE, ALEXANDER (1722-1805), Scottish divine; nicknamed 'Jupiter Carlyle,' from his fine presence; eye-witness of the Porteous riots, 1736, and the battle of Prestonpans, 1746; entered Edinburgh University, 1735; M.A., 1743; studied also at Glasgow, 1743-4, and Leyden, 1745; D.D.; minister of Inveresk, Midlothian, 1748-1805; leader of the Scottish 'Broad church' party; censured for attending the performance of John Home's 'Douglas,' 1757; published political pamphlets, 1758-64; sent to London to ask exemption of Scottish clergy from window-tax, 1769; moderator of the general assembly, 1770; dean of the Chapel Royal, 1789; his autobiography printed, 1860. [ix. 106]

CARLYLE, JANE BAILLIE WELSH (1801-1866), only child of John Welsh (d. 1819), physician, of Haddington; a self-willed girl; wrote verses, 1815; of feeble health and querulous disposition, but with much shrewd wit; wished to marry Edward Irving [q. v.], 1818-23; made the acquaintance of Thomas Carlyle (1795-1881) [q. v.], 1821; rejected him, 1823; accepted him, 1825; married him, 1826; resided first at Edinburgh and Orainputtock, and then in Cheyne Row, Chelsea, 1834-66; formed a coterie of lady friends, 1841; impaired her own and her husband's happiness by groundless jealousy, 1845-57; became a great invalid, 1853; died suddenly of the shock of a trivial accident; her letters were published, 1883. [ix. 114]

CARLYLE, JOHN AITKEN (1801-1879), physician; younger brother of Thomas Carlyle (1795-1881) [q. v.]; born at Ecclefechan; master in Annan academy; M.D. Edinburgh, 1825; studied also in Germany; failed to gain practice in London; physician to the Countess of Clare in Italy, 1831-7, and to the Duke of Buccleuch abroad, 1838-43; lodged in Chelsea; published a prose translation of Dante's 'Inferno,' 1849; removed to Edinburgh, c. 1855; latterly resided at Dumfries; studied Icelandic; benefactor to Edinburgh University. [ix. 108]

CARLYLE, JOSEPH DACRE (1769-1804), Arabic scholar; B.A. Queens' College, Cambridge, 1779; fellow; B.D., 1798; published translations from the Arabic, 1792-6; professor of Arabic, 1795; travelled in the Levant, 1799-1801; vicar of Newcastle-on-Tyne, 1801. His poems and Arabic bible appeared posthumously. [ix. 109]

CARLYLE, THOMAS (1803-1855), an apostle of the Catholic Apostolic church; schoolfellow of Edward Irving [q. v.] at Annan; studied at Edinburgh; advocate at the Scottish bar, 1824; published theological tracts, 1827-9; settled at Albury, Surrey, as ninth apostle, 1835; received North Germany as his province, 1838, and travelled widely there; died at Albury; published 'The Moral Phenomena of Germany,' 1845. [ix. 110]

CARLYLE, THOMAS (1795-1881), essayist and historian; son of a mason at Ecclefechan, Dumfriesshire; educated at the parish school, and (1806) at Annan academy; entered Edinburgh University, 1809; studied mathematics; intended for the church; mathematical teacher at Annan, 1814; schoolmaster at Kirkcaldy, 1816, where he became intimate with Edward Irving [q. v.]; read law in Edinburgh, 1819, where he developed extreme sensitiveness to physical discomforts; took pupils; read German; met his future wife [see JANE BAILLIE WELSH CARLYLE], 1821; tutor to Charles Buller [q. v.] at Edinburgh and Dunkeld, 1822-4; contributed a 'Life of Schiller' to the 'London Magazine,' 1824; translated Legendre's 'Geometry' and Goethe's 'Wilhelm Meister,' 1824; visited Paris, 1824; lodged in Islington, 1825; retired to Dumfriesshire, 1825; married and settled in Edinburgh, 1826; contributed to the 'Edinburgh Review,' 1827-9; unsuccessful candidate for the moral philosophy chair at St. Andrews; removed to Craigenputtock, Dumfriesshire, 1828, where he wrote on German literature for the magazines; in great monetary difficulties, 1831; in London, 1831, where he failed to get 'Sartor Resartus' published; returned to Craigenputtock, 1832; removed to Cheyne Row, Chelsea, 1834; the manuscript of the first volume of his 'French Revolution' accidentally burnt by John Stuart Mill, March 1835; met John Sterling [q. v.], 1835; published his 'French Revolution,' 1837, and made his reputation; gave four lecture-courses in London, 1837-40, the last on 'Hero-worship' (published 1841); urged formation of London Library, 1839; published 'Chartism,' 1839, 'Past and Present,' 1843, and 'Oliver Cromwell,' 1845; visited Ireland, 1846 and 1849; published 'Life of Sterling,' 1851; wrote 'Frederick the Great,' 1851-1855 (published 1858-66); travelled in Germany, 1853 and 1855; lord rector of Edinburgh University, 1855-6; lost his wife, 1866; wrote his 'Reminiscences' (published 1881); published pamphlet in favour of Germany in regard to Franco-German war, 1870; his right hand paralysed, 1872; received the Prussian order of merit, 1874; buried at Ecclefechan; benefactor of Edinburgh University. His 'Collected Works' first appeared 1867-8. His 'life' was written with great frankness by his friend and disciple, James Anthony Froude [q. v.] [ix. 111]

CARLYON, CLEMENT (1777-1864), physician; member of Pembroke College, Cambridge; travelled in Germany; studied medicine in Edinburgh and London; settled in Truro; friend of Coleridge; published an autobiography and miscellaneous tracts. [ix. 127]

CARMARTHEN, MARQUIS OF (1631-1712). [See OSBORNE, THOMAS.]

CARMELIANUS, PETER (d. 1527), court poet; born at Brescia; came to England, c. 1480?; wrote first in laudation, subsequently in vituperation, of Richard III; pensioned by Henry VII, 1486; Latin secretary and chaplain to Henry VII; lute-player to Henry VIII; prebendary of York, 1498-1527; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1517-26; beneficed in Yorkshire; prebendary of St. Stephen's, Westminster, 1524. [ix. 127]

CARMICHAEL, FREDERICK (1708-1751), divine; M.A. Glasgow, 1726; minister of Monimall, 1737, and of Inveresk, 1747-51; published sermons. [ix. 128]

CARMICHAEL, JAMES (A. 1587), a Scot, published a small Latin grammar at Cambridge. [ix. 129]

CARMICHAEL, SIR JAMES, first BARON CARMICHAEL (1578?-1672), Scottish judge; successively styled of Hyndford, of Westeraw, and, 1600, of Carmichael; courtier of James VI of Scotland; created baronet of Nova Scotia, 1627; sheriff of Lanark, 1632; lord justice clerk, 1634-6; treasurer-depute, 1636-49; a lord of session, 1636-49, with style of Lord Carmichael; created Baron Carmichael, 1651; fined by Cromwell, 1654. [ix. 128]

CARMICHAEL, JAMES WILSON (1800-1868), marine painter; went to sea; a shipbuilder's draughtsman; painted at Newcastle in water-colours and (1825) in oils; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1838-62; wrote on painting. [ix. 129]

CARMICHAEL, SIR JOHN (d. 1600), of Carmichael; tried to deliver Morton, 1581; involved in the raid of Ruthven, 1584; warden of the west marches, 1588-92; envoy to Denmark, 1589; envoy to England, 1590; again warden, 1598; murdered by the Armstrongs. [ix. 130]

CARMICHAEL, JOHN, second BARON CARMICHAEL and first EARL OF HYNDFORD (1638-1710), commissioner to the general assembly, 1690 and 1694-9; colonel of dragoons, 1693-7; secretary of state, 1696-1702; created Earl of Hyndford, 1701; supported the Act of Union. [ix. 130]

CARMICHAEL, JOHN, third EARL OF HYNDFORD (1701-1767), diplomatist; army captain, 1733; succeeded to earldom, 1737; Scottish representative peer; sheriff of Lanark, 1739; commissioner to the general assembly, 1739-40; envoy to Prussia, 1741-2, to Russia, 1744-9, and to Vienna, 1759-64. [ix. 130]

CARMICHAEL, RICHARD (1779-1849), surgeon; assistant-surgeon to the Wexford militia, 1795-1802; practised in Dublin, 1803; surgeon to St. George's Hospital, 1803, to the Lock Hospital, 1810, and to the Richmond Hospital, 1816-36; advocated the improvement of medical education in Ireland; founded and endowed the Carmichael School of Medicine, 1826; wrote on medical subjects; drowned. [ix. 131]

CARMYLYON, ALICE or ELLYS (A. 1527-1531), decorative painter to Henry VIII. [ix. 132]

CARNABY, WILLIAM (1772-1839), composer; chorister of the Chapel Royal; organist at Eye and at Huntingdon; Mus. Bac. Cambridge, 1805; Mus. Doc., 1808; organist to Hanover Chapel, Regent Street, London, 1823-39; composed songs, duets, and pianoforte pieces. [ix. 132]

CARNAC, SIR JAMES RIVETT (1786-1846), Indian official; entered the East India Company's service, 1801; political officer; resident at Baroda, 1817-19; major; returned to England, 1822; created baronet, 1836; chairman of the East India Company, 1836-7; M.P., Sandwich, 1837; governor of Bombay, 1838; returned to England, 1841. [ix. 133]

CARNAC, JOHN (1716-1800), colonel; captain in the East India Company's service, 1758; major, 1760; brigadier-general, 1764; returned to England, 1767; M.P., Leominster, 1767; served in Bengal, 1771; member of council at Bombay, 1776-9; died at Mangalore. [ix. 133]

CARNARVON, EARLS OF. [See DORMER, ROBERT, first EARL, d. 1643; HERBERT, HENRY JOHN GEORGE, third EARL of the third creation, 1800-1849; HERBERT, HENRY HOWARD MOLYNKUX, fourth EARL, 1831-1890.]

CARNE, SIR EDWARD (d. 1561), diplomatist; D.O.L. Oxford, 1524; a commissioner for suppressing the monasteries, 1539; bought Eweny Abbey, Glamorganshire; envoy to the pope, 1531; envoy to the Low Countries, 1538 and 1541; knighted by Charles V; M.P., Glamorganshire, 1554-5; ambassador to the pope, 1555-9; remained at Rome till death. [ix. 134]

CARNE, ELIZABETH CATHERINE THOMAS (1817-1873), author; fifth daughter of Joseph Carne [q. v.]; head of the Penzance bank, 1858-73; founded several schools in Cornwall; a geologist; published notes of travel. [ix. 135]

CARNE, JOHN (1789-1844), traveller and author; educated at Queens' College, Cambridge; published poems, 1820; travelled in the East, 1821; ordained deacon, 1826; resided in Penzance; published travels, biographies of eminent missionaries, and tales. [ix. 135]

CARNE, JOSEPH (1782-1858), geologist; manager of Hayle copper works, 1810; manager of Penzance bank, 1820; wrote papers on Cornish geology, 1816-51, and on mining. [ix. 136]

CARNE, ROBERT HARKNESS (1784-1844), theologian; son of a Cornish mercer; B.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1806; curate at Crediton; his licence to preach revoked for doctrinal reasons; withdrew from the Anglican church, 1820; pastor of a chapel at Exeter; withdrew to Jersey; published theological tracts, 1810-30. [ix. 137]

CARNEGIE, SIR DAVID of Kinnaird, BARON CARNEGIE and EARL OF SOUTHBESK (1675-1658), succeeded to the Kinnaird estate, 1698; travelled, 1601; knighted, 1603; supported James I's church policy in Scotland; created Baron Carnegie, 1616; a lord of session, 1616-1625; supported Charles I's church policy in Scotland; created Earl of Southesk, 1633; imprisoned in Edinburgh by the covenanters, 1640; fined by Cromwell, 1654. [ix. 137]

CARNEGIE, SIR ROBERT (d. 1666), of Kinnaird, Scottish judge; a lord of session, 1547, styled Lord Kinnaird; envoy to England, 1548, and to France, 1551; clerk to the treasurer, 1553; an adherent of Mary of Guise, queen regent, who gave him lands in Forfarshire. [ix. 138]

CARNEGIE, WILLIAM, seventh EARL OF NORTHBESK (1758-1831), admiral; served in the navy, 1771-1806; captain, 1782; styled, by courtesy, Lord Roselhill, from 1788; succeeded as seventh earl, 1792; imprisoned by the Nore mutineers, 1797; rear-admiral, 1804; fought at Trafalgar, 1805; admiral, 1814; commander-in-chief at Plymouth, 1827-30. [ix. 139]

CARNWATH, EARLS OF. [See DALYELL, ROBERT, second EARL, d. 1684; DALYELL, SIR ROBERT, sixth EARL, d. 1737.]

CAROLINE (1683-1737), queen of George II; daughter of John Frederick (d. 1687), margrave of Brandenburg-Ansbach; resided with her mother chiefly at Dresden, 1692-6; wished to marry Frederick II of Saxo-Gotha, c. 1695; resided at Berlin under the tutelage of Frederick, king of Prussia (in 1701) and his consort Sophia Charlotte (d. 1704), daughter of Electress Sophia of Hanover; became acquainted with Leibniz, and with the Electress Sophia; a proposal to marry her to Archduke Charles, afterwards Charles VI, discussed, 1698-1708, but abandoned in consequence of her protestantism; returned to Ansbach, 1704; married, September 1708, to George Augustus, prince of Hanover; resided at Hanover, intriguing for the English succession, 1706-14; her children born, 1707-24; learnt a little English, 1713; accompanied her husband to England as Princess of Wales, 1714; was included in George I's displeasure against her husband, 1717; lived at Richmond Lodge, 1718, which afterwards became her favourite residence; connived at her husband's amour with her bedchamber-woman (Mrs. Howard, afterwards Countess of Suffolk); found a capable and honest adviser as to English politics in John, lord Hervey; became queen, 1727, and thenceforward gave unwavering support to Sir Robert Walpole; maintained her influence over George II by flattering his vanity and conniving at his amours; had an intense hatred of her eldest son, Frederick, prince of Wales; favoured the low church party; regent in George II's absence, 1729, 1732, 1735, 1736-7; was more German than English to the last in her conceptions; died after an unsuccessful operation for rupture. [ix. 139]

CAROLINE MATILDA (1751-1775), queen of Denmark, posthumous child of Frederick, prince of Wales, eldest son of George III; married Christian VII, king of Denmark, at Frederiksberg Palace, near Copenhagen, 8 Nov. 1766; badly treated from the first by her husband, a profligate sinking into imbecility; birth of her son (afterwards king), January 1768; resided at Frederiksberg during her husband's foreign tour, 1768-9; her husband much influenced by his ambitious German physician, John Frederick Struensee; treated by Christian VII with more respect in consequence of the representations of Struensee (1769), who became all powerful in the palace, 1770, and chief minister, 1771; believed to be Struensee's paramour by the Danes, who detested him; a daughter born to her, July 1771; imprisoned at Kronborg, January 1772; Struensee being arrested (subsequently executed), the queen was said to have acknowledged her guilt, March 1772; divorced, April 1772; left Denmark, May 1772. Her brother, George III of England, accepted the case against her. She retired to Celle in Hanover, where she died suddenly, in the midst of Danish overtures for her recall. [ix. 145]

CAROLINE AMELIA ELIZABETH, of Brunswick-Wolfenbüttel (1768-1821), queen of George IV; second daughter of Duke Charles William Ferdinand of Brunswick-Wolfenbüttel, and of Princess Augusta of England, George III's sister; a kind-hearted but eccentric girl; forced by George III as a bride on the Prince of Wales; embarked at Ouxhaven, March 1795; married at St. James's, 8 April 1795; lived at Carlton House, persecuted by the prince's mistresses; birth of her child, Princess Charlotte Augusta [q. v.], 7 Jan. 1796; deserted by her husband, April 1796; lived at Shooter's Hill; removed to Blackheath, 1801; painful accusations brought against her in consequence of her unguarded speeches, 1806; gained no increased dignity from her husband's becoming regent, 1811; denied access to her child, 1812-13; allowed to travel abroad, August 1813; took into her service, in Italy, 1814, Bartolomeo Bergami and his relatives, and travelled in the Levant; her conduct much talked of; wintered at Mar-seilles, 1819; started for England on hearing of George III's death; her name omitted from the state prayers; on the way rejected an offer of settlement, on condition of her living abroad and not claiming the title of queen; entered London, June 1820, amid popular rejoicings; a bill promoted in the lords for divorcing her, July, but abandoned, November 1820, from fear of a revolution; denied a palace; voted an allowance by parliament; forcibly excluded from the coronation at Westminster Abbey, 29 July 1821; died in London broken-hearted; buried at Brunswick beside her father. [ix. 160]

CARON, REDMOND (1805?-1866), controversialist; Franciscan friar at Athlone and Drogheda; studied at Salzburg and Louvain; professor at Louvain; commissary-general of the recolects in Ireland; published controversial treatises, 1835-62. [ix. 153]

CARPENTER, ALEXANDER, latinised as FABRICIUS (f. c. 1429), called also 'Alexander Anglus'; author of 'Destructorium Vitorum,' an invective against church abuses, printed frequently before 1516. [ix. 153]

CARPENTER, ALFRED JOHN (1895-1899), physician; apprenticed to his father, a surgeon, at Rothwell, 1839; entered St. Thomas's Hospital, 1847; M.R.C.S. and L.S.A. 1861; practised at Croydon; M.B. London, 1855; M.D., 1869; M.R.C.P. 1863; liberal M.P. for Reigate, 1885, and North Bristol, 1886; president of council of

British Medical Association, 1878-81; published 'Principles and Practice of School of Hygiene,' 1887, and other works. [Suppl. i. 393]

CARPENTER, GEORGE, BARON CARPENTER (1657-1732), lieutenant-general; page at Paris embassy, 1671; cavalry officer, 1672-89; lieutenant-colonel, 1690; served in Ireland and Flanders; quartermaster-general to Peterborough in Spain, 1705; attached himself to the Hanoverian party; M.P., Whitechurch, 1714; suppressed the northern rebellion at Preston, 1715; commander-in-chief in Scotland; created Baron Carpenter in the Irish peerage, 1719; M.P., Westminster, 1722-9. [ix. 154]

CARPENTER, JAMES (1760-1845), admiral; served in navy, 1776-1812, chiefly in West Indies; lieutenant, 1782; rear-admiral, 1812; admiral, 1837. [ix. 154]

CARPENTER, JOHN (1370?-1441?), benefactor of London; clerk in the town clerk's office; town clerk of London, 1417-38; M.P., London, 1436, 1439; compiled 'Liber Albus,' an account of city privileges, &c. (printed 1859); let lands for education, out of which the City of London School was erected (1637). [ix. 155]

CARPENTER, JOHN (d. 1476), bishop of Worcester; D.D. Oriel College, Oxford; master of St. Antony's Hospital, London, 1420; provost of Oriel, 1427-35; rector of St. Mary Magdalen, Old Fish Street, London, 1436; chancellor of Oxford University, 1437; bishop of Worcester, 1444-76; benefactor of the college at Westbury and of Oriel College. [ix. 156]

CARPENTER, JOHN (d. 1621), divine; educated at Exeter College, Oxford, 1670-3; rector of Northleigh, Devonshire, 1587-1621; published devotional tracts, 1590-1606. [ix. 156]

CARPENTER, LANT (1780-1840), unitarian; educated in dissenting seminaries; at Glasgow University, 1798-1801; taught school; librarian of Liverpool Athenæum, 1802-5; unitarian minister and master of a boarding-school in Exeter, 1805-17; LL.D. Glasgow, 1806; unitarian minister, 1817-39, and master of a boarding-school, 1817-29, at Bristol; drowned off Leghorn; published sermons and controversial tracts. [ix. 157]

CARPENTER, MARGARET SARAH (1793-1878), portrait-painter; née Geddes; settled in London, 1814; married, 1817, William Hookham Carpenter [q. v.]; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1818-66; pensioned, 1866. [ix. 159]

CARPENTER, MARY (1807-1877), philanthropist; eldest child of Lant Carpenter [q. v.]; opened a girls' school at Bristol, 1829; superintended a Sunday school, 1831-56; agitated for institutions to rescue juvenile criminals; founded at Bristol a ragged school, 1846, a reformatory, 1852, a girls' reformatory, 1854, and an industrial school, 1859; visited India to improve female education and prison management, 1866, 1868, 1869, 1875; visited Germany, 1872, and America, 1873; published verses, memoirs, and treatises on education and criminal reform, 1845-68. [ix. 159]

CARPENTER, NATHANIEL (1589-1628?), author; son of John Carpenter (d. 1621) [q. v.]; educated at St. Edmund Hall, Oxford; fellow of Exeter College, by mandate from James I, 1607; B.A., 1610; D.D., 1626; schoolmaster of the king's wards in Dublin; wrote sermons and treatises on geography and philosophy, the latter directed against Aristotelianism. [ix. 161]

CARPENTER, PHILIP HERBERT (1852-1891), palæontologist and zoologist; son of William Benjamin Carpenter [q. v.]; educated at University College School, London, and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1878; Sc.D., 1884; biological master at Eton, 1877; F.L.S., 1886; F.R.S., 1885. He published extensive writings on various groups of fossils. [Suppl. i. 394]

CARPENTER, PHILIP PEARSALL (1819-1877), conchologist; youngest child of Lant Carpenter [q. v.]; B.A. London, 1841; presbyterian minister at Stand, 1841, and Warrington, 1846-61; settled at Montreal, 1865; bought, 1865, a mass of Californian shells; subsequently paid much attention to conchology. [ix. 162]

CARPENTER, RICHARD (f. c. 1560), alchemist. [ix. 164]

CARPENTER, RICHARD (1575-1627), divine; B.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1596; fellow, 1596-1606; D.D., 1617; rector of Sherwell and Loxhore, Devonshire, 1606-1627; published sermons. [ix. 163]

CARPENTER, RICHARD (d. 1670?), ecclesiastic; educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge, 1622; convert to Roman catholicism; travelled on the continent; Benedictine monk at Douay; sent on the English mission; returned to Anglicanism; vicar of Poling, Sussex, 1635-42; itinerant preacher; went back to Paris and Romanism; came to England and joined the Independents; preacher at Aylesbury; returned to Romanism; wrote a play, an autobiography, and various pamphlets. [ix. 164]

CARPENTER, RICHARD CROMWELL (1812-1865), architect; educated at Charterhouse; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1830-49; designed churches in Birmingham, Brighton, and London. [ix. 164]

CARPENTER, WILLIAM (1797-1874), miscellaneous writer; apprentice to a London bookseller; journalist, 1831-54; an advocate of political and legal reform; wrote on biblical subjects, 1825-68, and published political pamphlets. [ix. 165]

CARPENTER, WILLIAM BENJAMIN (1813-1886), naturalist; eldest son of Lant Carpenter [q. v.]; apprenticed to a physician; visited West Indies; studied medicine in London and (1835) in Edinburgh; lecturer at Bristol Medical School; published papers on physiology, 1837, and 'Principles of . . . Physiology', 1839; professor of physiology in London, 1844; professor of forensic medicine, University College, London; registrar of the University of London, 1866-79; an unwearied investigator in the sciences of zoology, botany, and mental physiology, 1843-71; contributed much to scientific journals and cyclopædias. [ix. 166]

CARPENTER, WILLIAM HOOKHAM (1792-1866), connoisseur in prints; a London bookseller and publisher; studied prints and drawings; married, 1817 [see CARPENTER, MARGARET SARAH]; keeper of prints in the British Museum, 1845-66; wrote memoir of Antony Vandyck and a catalogue of prints in the British Museum show-cases. [ix. 168]

CARPENTIERE or CHARPENTIERE, — (d. 1737), statuary; employed by the Duke of Chandos at Canons; afterwards settled in London. [ix. 169]

CARPENTIERES, CARPENTIERE, or CHARPENTIERE, ADRIEN (fl. 1760-1774), portrait-painter; native of France or Switzerland; came to England, c. 1760; exhibited in London, 1760-74. [ix. 169]

CARPUE, JOSEPH CONSTANTINE (1764-1846), surgeon and anatomist; of a catholic family of Spanish origin; educated at Douay; travelled on continent; studied surgery in London; surgeon to the Duke of York's Hospital, Chelsea; private lecturer on anatomy, 1800-32; advocate of vaccination; surgeon of the National Vaccine Institution. [ix. 169]

CARR, JOHN (1723-1807), architect; called Carr of York; workman in York; designed many buildings in the northern counties. [ix. 170]

CARR, JOHN (1732-1807), translator of Lucian; educated at St. Paul's School; head-master of Hertford grammar school; LL.D. Aberdeen; published his translation of Lucian, 1773-98; wrote verses and parodies. [ix. 170]

CARR, SIR JOHN (1772-1832), traveller; barrister of the Middle Temple; travelled, for health, over greater part of Europe; knighted, c. 1806; published accounts of his tours, 1803-11, and verses. [ix. 170]

CARR, JOHNSON (1744-1766), landscape-painter. [ix. 171]

CARR, NICHOLAS (1624-1668), Greek scholar; B.A. Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1641; fellow; M.A., 1644; fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1646; regius professor of Greek, 1647; consistently adhered to Roman catholicism; M.D. Cambridge, 1668; practised medicine in Cambridge; published Latin versions of Eusebius and Demosthenes. [ix. 171]

CARR, R. (fl. 1668), engraver. [ix. 172]

CARR, RICHARD (1651-1706), physician; M.A. Magdalene College, Cambridge, 1674; master of Saffron

Walden grammar school, 1676-83; studied medicine at Leyden, 1683-6; M.D. Cambridge, 1686; practised medicine in London; published medical essays. [ix. 172]

CARR or KER, ROBERT, EARL OF SOMERSET (d. 1645); a cadet of Ker of Ferniehurst, Roxburghshire; brought up in Scotland; accompanied James I to England as page, 1603; in France for a time; returned to James I's court; knighted, 1607; given Sir Walter Raleigh's manor of Sherborne, 1609; created Viscount Rochester, 1611; private secretary to the king, 1612; obtained the imprisonment in the Tower of his friend Sir Thomas Overbury, who opposed his projected marriage with the Countess of Essex, April 1613; K.G., 23 April; a decree of nullity of her marriage with the Earl of Essex obtained by the countess, 25 Sept. 1613, soon after Overbury had been poisoned, 15 Sept. 1613; created Earl of Somerset, 3 Nov. 1613; lord treasurer of Scotland, 23 Dec.; married the divorced Countess of Essex, 26 Dec. 1613; attached himself to his wife's great-uncle, Henry Howard, earl of Northampton, and the Spanish party; acting lord privy seal, on Northampton's death, June 1614; lord chamberlain, July; dislodged from the place of first favourite of James I by George Villiers (afterwards Duke of Buckingham), November 1614; quarrelled with the king, on Buckingham's account, 1615; accused of poisoning Overbury, September 1615, his countess pleading guilty, May 1616, and receiving a pardon, July 1616; prosecuted by the attorney-general, Francis Bacon, and found guilty, May 1616; kept prisoner in the Tower till January 1622; afterwards pardoned; prosecuted in the Star-chamber, 1630. [ix. 172]

CARR, ROBERT JAMES (1774-1841), bishop of Worcester; M.A. Worcester College, Oxford, 1806; D.D., 1820; vicar of Brighton, 1798; protégé of the prince regent; dean of Hereford, 1820; bishop of Olchester, 1824; bishop of Worcester, 1831-41. [ix. 176]

CARR, ROGER (d. 1612), divine; B.A. Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1570; rector of Rayne, Essex, 1673-1612; published devotional tracts. [ix. 177]

CARR, THOMAS, alias MILES PINKNEY (1599-1674). [See CARRE, THOMAS.]

CARR, WILLIAM HOLWELL (1758-1830), art connoisseur; called Holwell till 1798, when he took the name Carr on account of his wife's estate; fellow of Exeter College, Oxford, 1778-93; B.D., 1790; travelled and collected pictures, 1781; vicar of Menheniot, Cornwall, 1792; amateur exhibitor at the Royal Academy, 1797-1820; bequeathed pictures to the nation. [ix. 177]

CARRE, THOMAS (1599-1674), really MILES PINKNEY, Roman catholic divine; born in Durham; educated at Douay; priest, 1625; procurator of Douay College till 1634; founder and confessor of an Augustinian nunnery at Paris; protégé of Cardinal Richelieu; died at Paris; published English translations of devotional and controversial tracts. [ix. 177]

CARRE, WALTER RIDDELL (1807-1874), topographer; took the name Carre, c. 1853, on succeeding to an estate in Roxburghshire; merchant in London; resided latterly in Roxburghshire; wrote papers on topics connected with the borders. [ix. 178]

CARRICK, EARL OF (1253-1304). [See BRUCE, ROBERT DE VIL.]

CARRICK, JOHN DONALD (1787-1837), author; shopman in London, 1807; china-warehouseman in Glasgow, 1811-26; journalist in Glasgow, 1828, in Perth, 1833, and in Kilmarnock, 1834-5; wrote Scottish songs and biographies. [ix. 178]

CARRICK, THOMAS (1802-1875), miniature painter; chemist in Carlisle; a self-taught artist; became famous locally as a miniaturist; removed to Newcastle, 1836, and London, 1839; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1841-66. [ix. 179]

CARRIER, BENJAMIN (1566-1614). [See CARRIER, BENJAMIN.]

CARRINGTON, LORD (1617-1679). [See PRIMROSE, SIR ARCHIBALD.]

CARRINGTON, first BARON (1752-1838). [See SMITH, ROBERT.]

CARRINGTON, SIR CODRINGTON EDMUND (1769-1849), judge; educated at Winchester; barrister of the Middle Temple, 1792; practised at Calcutta, 1793-9; drew up a code for Ceylon, 1800; knighted; chief-justice of Ceylon, 1800-6; resided afterwards in Buckinghamshire and then in Jersey; M.P., St. Mawes, 1826-31; published legal pamphlets. [ix. 180]

CARRINGTON, FREDERICK GEORGE (1816-1864), journalist; son of Noel Thomas Carrington [q. v.]; on the staff of various West of England newspapers; wrote for many magazines and encyclopaedias. [ix. 180]

CARRINGTON, NOEL THOMAS (1777-1830), Devonshire poet; son of a Plymouth grocer; served in the fleet; taught school at Maidstone, 1804-9, and at Plymouth Rock, 1809-30; wrote verses describing Devonshire scenery and traditions. [ix. 180]

CARRINGTON, RICHARD CHRISTOPHER (1826-1875), astronomer; son of a wealthy brewer; educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, 1844-8; devoted himself to astronomy; observer to Durham University, 1849-52; witnessed the total solar eclipse in Sweden, 1851; built private observatory at Reigate, Surrey, 1863; engaged in mapping stars and sun-spots; visited German observatories, 1866; managed the Brentford brewery, 1868-65; died suddenly. [ix. 181]

CARRODUS, JOHN TIPLADY (1836-1895), violinist; studied under Molique in London and in Stuttgart; joined orchestra of Royal Italian Opera, 1855, and became leader, 1869; professor of violin at National Training School for Music, 1876; professor at Guildhall School of Music and Trinity College, London; published musical compositions and other writings. [Suppl. i. 395]

CARROLL, ANTHONY (1722-1794), jesuit; born in Ireland; joined the jesuits at St. Omer's, 1744; served on the English mission, 1754-73 and 1776-84; murdered in London. [ix. 188]

CARROLL, LEWIS (1832-1898), pseudonym. [See DODGSON, CHARLES LUTWIDGE.]

CARRUTHERS, ANDREW (1770-1852), Roman catholic prelate; native of Kirkcudbrightshire; educated at Douay; returned to Scotland, c. 1790; priest, 1795; titular bishop of Oeramis, 1832, with jurisdiction over the east of Scotland. [ix. 183]

CARRUTHERS, JAMES (1759-1832), Roman catholic historian; native of Kirkcudbrightshire; educated at Douay; catholic priest at Scottish stations; published a Romanist 'History of Scotland', 1826-31. [ix. 184]

CARRUTHERS, ROBERT (1799-1878), miscellaneous writer; bookseller's apprentice in Dumfries; national schoolmaster at Huntingdon; published a 'History of Huntingdon,' 1824; editor of the 'Inverness Courier,' 1828-78; wrote verses, and papers on the history of the highlands; edited Pope's works (4 vols.), 1853; LL.D. Edinburgh, 1871. [ix. 184]

CARSE, ALEXANDER (A. 1812-1820), painter, called 'Old Carse'; came to London, 1812; returned to Edinburgh, 1820. [ix. 185]

CARSE, WILLIAM (A. 1818-1845), painter; probably son of Alexander Carse [q. v.]; art-student in London, 1818; exhibited at the Royal Academy, London, 1820-9, and at Edinburgh, 1830-45. [ix. 185]

CARSEWELL, JOHN (A. 1560-1572), bishop of the Isles; rector of Kilmartin, Argyllshire; superintendent of Argyll, 1560; censured by the assembly for accepting the see, 1569. [ix. 186]

CARSON, AGLIONBY ROSS (1780-1850), classical scholar; studied at Edinburgh University, 1797; headmaster of Dumfries grammar school, 1801; classical master, 1806, and rector (1820-45) of Edinburgh High School; LL.D. St. Andrews, 1826; edited Tacitus and Phædrus. [ix. 185]

CARSON, ALEXANDER (1776-1844), baptist; educated at Glasgow; minister at Tobermore, Derry, to a presbyterian congregation, 1798-1804, and to an independent chapel, 1814-44; joined the baptists, 1831; wrote works of controversial divinity. [ix. 186]

CARSON, JAMES (1779-1848), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1799; practitioner in Liverpool; wrote medical pamphlets. [ix. 186]

CARSTARES, WILLIAM (1649-1715), Scottish statesman and divine; nick-named 'the cardinal' from his political influence under William III; son of the covenanting minister of Cathcart, Lanarkshire; at Edinburgh University, 1663-7; withdrew to Holland after his father's outlawry; studied at Utrecht, 1669-72; came to London, probably as an agent of William of Orange, 1672; political prisoner in Edinburgh Castle, 1674-9; resided in England; conducted intrigues in Scotland, Holland, and London, preparing for the Earl of Argyll's invasion, 1683; arrested, 1683; political prisoner at Edinburgh; his evidence, taken under torture, used to bring Baillie of Jerviswood to the block, 1684; released; minister of a Scottish congregation at Leyden, 1686; accompanied William of Orange to England as chaplain, 1688; chaplain to William III at court, and in his campaigns in Ireland and Flanders; William's chief adviser in Scottish affairs; principal of Edinburgh University, 1703-15; minister of Grey Friars, Edinburgh; leader of the church of Scotland; a chief promoter of the union; moderator of the general assembly, 1706, 1708, 1711, and 1715. [ix. 187]

CARSWELL, SIR ROBERT (1793-1857), physician; studied medicine at Glasgow, Paris, and Lyons; M.D. Aberdeen, 1826; made drawings illustrative of pathology at Paris, 1826-31; professor of pathological anatomy, University College, London, 1831-40; published his 'Forms of Disease,' 1837; went to Brussels as physician to the king of Belgium, 1840; knighted; wrote on medical subjects. [ix. 191]

CARTE, SAMUEL (1653-1740), antiquary; educated at Magdalen College School, Oxford; benefited successively in Warwick, Leicester, Lincoln shires. [ix. 191]

CARTE, THOMAS (1686-1754), historian; son of Samuel Carte [q. v.]; admitted at University College, Oxford, 1698; B.A. Brasenose College, 1702; M.A. King's College, Cambridge, 1706; ordained; reader at Bath Abbey, 1707-14; refused the oaths to George I, 1715; lived in retirement at Colehill, Warwickshire; secretary to Bishop Atterbury; fled to France on Atterbury's imprisonment, 1722; went by the name of Phillips; collected materials to illustrate de Thou's 'Historia sui temporis'; returned to England, 1728; published his 'Life of Ormonde,' 1736, and a 'Collection of . . . Papers,' 1744; energetic in enrolling subscribers to a projected 'History of England'; published his history, vols. i.-lii. 1747-52 (vol. iv. posthumous, 1755). His manuscript collections are now in the Bodleian. [ix. 191]

CARTER, EDMUND (A. 1753), topographer; schoolmaster; published, 1753, histories of Cambridgeshire and Cambridge University. [ix. 194]

CARTER, ELIZABETH (1717-1806), miscellaneous writer; daughter of a Kent clergyman; learned classical and modern languages; wrote for the 'Gentleman's Magazine' from 1734; published poems, 1738 and 1762; translated from the French and Italian; published a translation of Epictetus, 1758; friend of Dr. Samuel Johnson; lived at Deal, Kent; travelled on the continent. Her correspondence was published posthumously. [ix. 194]

CARTER, ELLEN (1762-1815), artist; née Vavasour; native of Yorkshire; educated in a convent at Rouen; married, 1787, the Rev. John Carter, vicar of St. Swithin's, Lincoln; book-illustrator. [ix. 196]

CARTER, FRANÇOIS (d. 1783), traveller; published, 1777, a narrative of his tour (1772) in Moorish Spain; collected Spanish books; left in manuscript a history of early Spanish literature. [ix. 197]

CARTER, GEORGE (1737-1794), painter; mercer in London; travelled; exhibited privately, 1786. [ix. 197]

CARTER, HARRY WILLIAM (1787-1863), physician; M.A. Oriel College, Oxford, 1810; M.B., 1811; travelled; M.D., 1819; practised at Canterbury, 1819-35; wrote on medical topics. [ix. 198]

CARTER, HENRY, otherwise FRANK LESLIE (1821-1880), engraver, son of an Ipswich glovemaking; apprenticed to a London draper; early showed talent for drawing and engraving; artist to the 'Illustrated London News'; emigrated to New York, 1848, and took the name of Frank Leslie; worked for illustrated papers; separated from his wife, 1860; commenced 'Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper,' 1855, the 'Chimney Corner,' 1865, and other journals; issued an illustrated history of the American civil war, 1862. [ix. 198]

CARTER, JAMES (1798-1855), of London; engraver of architectural and landscape plates for books. [ix. 199]

CARTER, JOHN, the elder (1554-1635), puritan divine; educated at Clare Hall, Cambridge; vicar of Bramford, Suffolk, 1583; rector of Belstead, Suffolk, 1617-35; published expository tracts. [ix. 199]

CARTER, JOHN, the younger (d. 1655), divine; son of John Carter the elder [q. v.]; M.A. Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1608; curate of St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, 1631, and vicar, 1638-52; rector of St. Lawrence, Norwich, c. 1654; published a memoir of his father. [ix. 200]

CARTER, JOHN (1784-1817), draughtsman and architect; a surveyor's clerk, 1764; draughtsman to the 'Builder's Magazine,' 1774-86, and to the Society of Antiquaries, 1780; published many books of views of buildings in England, 1780-1814. [ix. 200]

CARTER, JOHN (1815-1850), silkweaver; paralysed by an accident, 1836; copied pictures by means of a pen or brush held in the mouth. [ix. 202]

CARTER, LAWRENCE (1672-1745), judge; of Lincoln's Inn; recorder of Leicester, 1697-1729; M.P. for Leicester, 1698, 1701, and 1722, for Berrallston, 1710, 1714, and 1715; crown counsel against the rebels, 1715; knighted, 1724; puisne baron of the exchequer, 1726-45. [ix. 202]

CARTER, MATTHEW (n. 1680), loyalist; Kentish squire; joined the Kentish insurgents, 1648; prisoner at Colchester; published, 1650, a narrative of the rising; published 'Honor Redivivus,' a treatise on heraldry, 1655. [ix. 203]

CARTER, OLIVER (1540?-1605), divine; scholar of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1555; fellow, 1563; B.D., 1569; a preacher of Manchester Collegiate Church, after 1571, and fellow before 1576; fellow on the new foundation, 1578-1605; a bitter opponent of Dr. John Dee, warden in 1595; published, 1579, a controversial treatise against Richard Bristow. [ix. 203]

CARTER, OWEN BROWNE (1806-1859), architect; practised as an architect at Winchester; published papers on Winchester Cathedral and Hampshire churches; published, 1840, views taken at Cairo, 1830; exhibited architectural drawings at the Royal Academy, 1847-9. [ix. 205]

CARTER, PETER (1530?-1590), author of a logical treatise, 1563; fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1555; M.A., 1557; master of Preston School, Lancashire. [ix. 205]

CARTER, RICHARD (d. 1692), rear-admiral; served in the fleet, 1672-81; commander of a ship at Beachy Head, 1690; rear-admiral, 1691; killed in action at Barfleur. [ix. 205]

CARTER, THOMAS (d. 1795), sculptor of tombstones and memorial tablets. [ix. 206]

CARTER, THOMAS (1735?-1804), musical composer; chorister of Christ Church, Dublin; organist of St. Werburgh's, Dublin, 1781-89; studied music in Italy; musical director of Calcutta Theatre; settled in London, c. 1775, and composed for the theatres; published glee and songs, including 'O Nanny, wilt thou gang wi' me?' [ix. 206]

CARTER, THOMAS (d. 1867), clerk at the Horse Guards, 1839; wrote regimental histories. [ix. 207]

CARTER, WILLIAM (d. 1584), printer; apprentice to John Cawood [q. v.], 1563; secretary to Nicholas Harnpsfield; secretly printed Roman catholic books against Queen Elizabeth, 1579-83; executed for treason. [ix. 207]

CARTERET, SIR GEORGE (d. 1680), governor of Jersey; of an old Jersey family; lieutenant in the navy, 1632; captain, 1633; second in command against the Saltee pirates, 1637; controller of the navy, 1639; offered a command by parliament, 1642; from St. Malo, Brittany, sent supplies and arms to the royalists in the west and in the Channel Islands; sent by Charles I to Jersey, 1643; reduced the island; sent out privateers against English ships; gave a refuge to royalists, 1646; created baronet, 1646; granted estates in Jersey and America, 1649; surrendered to the Commonwealth forces, December 1651; vice-admiral in the French navy; imprisoned, August 1657; banished from France, December 1657; withdrew to Venice; treasurer of the navy, 1660-7; vice-chamberlain of the household, 1660-70; M.P., Portsmouth, 1661-9; a proprietor of Carolina, 1663; deputy-treasurer of Ireland, 1667-73; board of trade commissioner, 1668-72; naval commissioner, 1673-9. [ix. 208]

CARTERET, JOHN, EARL GRANVILLE (1690-1763), politician; succeeded his father as second Baron Carteret of Hawnes, 1695; educated at Westminster School; entered Christ Church, Oxford, 1706; became a good classical scholar; took his seat in the House of Lords, 1711; a champion of the protestant succession; lord-lieutenant of Devonshire, 1716-21; a parliamentary adherent of the Earl of Sunderland, 1717; envoy to Sweden, 1719; secured the opening of the Baltic to British commerce; negotiated peace between the Baltic powers, 1719-20; advocated punishment of South Sea Company's officials, 1721; secretary of state in Walpole's administration, 1721-4; became favourite of George I through speaking German and advocating interests of Hanover; accompanied George I to Hanover, 1723; intrigued to oust Walpole from office; factiously fostered sedition in Ireland; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1724-30; friendly to Jonathan Swift; virulently opposed Walpole's administration, 1730-1742; secretary of state, 1742-4; accompanied George II in the campaign of 1743; intensely unpopular through his partiality for Hanover to the prejudice of British interests; succeeded as Earl Granville, on his mother's death, 1744; advised George II to exclude William Pitt from office, 1746; failed to form a ministry, February 1746; K.G., 1750; lord president of the council, 1751-63; hon. D.C.L. Oxford, 1756. His correspondence is in the British Museum. [ix. 210]

CARTERET, SIR PHILIP DE (1584-1643), knight; lieutenant-governor of Jersey, 1626-43; seigneur of St. Ouen, Jersey; at Oxford University, 1594-1601; obtained from the privy council canons assimilating the Jersey churches to the Anglican church; showed kindness to William Fyenne during his imprisonment, 1639-41; allowed by parliament to return to Jersey, 1642; declared for the king; besieged by the parliamentary forces. [ix. 215]

CARTERET, PHILIP (d. 1796), rear-admiral; lieutenant of the Dolphin in John Byron's voyage, 1704-6; sailed round the world in the Swallow, 1767-9, making numerous discoveries in the Pacific; captain, 1771; served in the West Indies, 1777-81; retired as rear-admiral, 1794. [ix. 216]

CARTHACH, SAINT, the elder (d. 580?), of a royal house; visited Rome; disciple of St. Claran of Saighir, King's County; succeeded him at Saighir, c. 550; tutor of St. Carthach the younger [q. v.]; commemorated on March 5. [ix. 216]

CARTHACH, SAINT, the younger (d. 636), called also MOCHUDA; son of the king of Kerry's swineherd; forsook the court to join St. Carthach the elder [q. v.]; bishop in Kerry; founded the monastery of Rahen, King's County, c. 590; expelled from Rahen, c. 631; founded monastery at Lismore; commemorated on May 14. [ix. 217]

CARTHEW, GEORGE ALFRED (1807-1882), Norfolk antiquary; mainly self-taught; practised as a solicitor at Framlingham, Suffolk, 1830-9, and East Dereham, Norfolk; wrote much on Norfolk antiquities; chief work, 'History of Launditch Hundred,' 1877-9. [ix. 218]

CARTHEW, THOMAS (1657-1704), serjeant-at-law; barrister of the Middle Temple, 1686; serjeant-at-law, 1700; wrote law reports. [ix. 219]

CARTIER, SIR GEORGE ETIENNE (1814-1878), Canadian statesman; educated at Montreal; barrister of Lower Canada, 1835; member of the legislature, 1848; attorney-general, 1856; a leading member of the cabinet, 1857-8; premier, 1858-62; attorney-general, 1864; minister of militia, 1867-73; created baronet, 1868; died in London; wrote French-Canadian songs. [ix. 219]

CARTWRIGHT, CHRISTOPHER (1602-1658), divine; entered Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1617; M.A., 1624; fellow, 1626; a minister in York; student of rabbinical literature; published sermons and works of controversial divinity. [ix. 220]

CARTWRIGHT, EDMUND (1743-1823), reputed inventor of the power-loom; entered University College, Oxford, 1760; fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1764; M.A., 1766; married an heiress; incumbent of Brampton, Yorkshire; rector of Goodby Marwood, Leicestershire, 1779; visited cotton-spinning mills near Macclock, 1784, and conceived the idea of a weaving-mill; patented a power-loom, 1785-7; removed to Doncaster, where he built a weaving-mill, 1787; prebendary of Lincoln, 1786; patented a wool-combing machine, 1789-92; bankrupt; sold his Doncaster factory, 1793; removed to London; patented an alcohol engine, 1797; agricultural experimenter to the Dukes of Bedford at Woburn, Bedfordshire, 1800-7; D.D., 1806; rewarded by parliament, 1809; farmed in Kent. [ix. 221]

CARTWRIGHT, FRANCES DOROTHY (1780-1863), authoress; youngest child of Edmund Cartwright [q.v.]; published a biography of her uncle, John Cartwright (1740-1824) [q.v.], and devotional poems, and translations from the Spanish. [ix. 223]

CARTWRIGHT, GEORGE (A. 1661), author of 'The Heroick Lover', a tragedy, printed 1661. [ix. 224]

CARTWRIGHT, JOHN (A. 1763-1808), painter; studied in Rome; returned to England, 1779; exhibited, 1784-1808; a friend of Henry Fuseli. [ix. 224]

CARTWRIGHT, JOHN (1740-1824), political reformer; served in the navy, c. 1768-70, chiefly in Newfoundland; lieutenant, 1766; wrote against taxing the American colonies, 1775; major of militia, 1775-90; resided in Lincolnshire; removed to London, 1805; wrote in favour of strengthening the navy, reforming parliament, abolishing slavery, emancipating Greece, and crushing absolutism in Spain. [ix. 224]

CARTWRIGHT, JOSEPH (1789?-1829), marine painter; appointed paymaster of the forces at Corfu, c. 1811; published 'Views in the Ionian Islands'; exhibited in London. [ix. 226]

CARTWRIGHT, SAMUEL (1789-1864), dentist; an ivory turner; attended medical classes in London; practised as dentist, 1811-57. [ix. 226]

CARTWRIGHT, THOMAS (1535-1603), puritan; entered Clare Hall, Cambridge, 1547; scholar of St. John's, Cambridge, 1550; left Cambridge at Mary's accession, 1553; lawyer's clerk; returned to Cambridge, 1559; fellow of St. John's College, 1560; M.A., 1560; fellow of Trinity College, 1562; one of the disputants at Elizabeth's state visit, 1564; attacked the use of the surplice, 1565; accompanied Bishop Adam Loftus to Ireland as chaplain, 1566; returned to Cambridge, 1567; Lady Margaret professor of divinity, 1569; lectured and preached against the constitution of the church of England; deprived of his professorship, 1570, and of his fellowship at Trinity, 1571; retired to Geneva; returned to England, 1572; withdrew to the continent, 1573; tried to organise the Huguenots of the Channel Islands, 1576; employed by English puritan leaders to criticise the Rhemish version of the New Testament, 1582; pastor of the English congregation at Antwerp; declined divinity chair at St. Andrews, 1584; returned to England, 1585; master of the Earl of Leicester's hospital at Warwick, 1586; imprisoned as a puritan, 1590-2; accompanied Edward, baron Zouche, to Guernsey, 1595-8; published exegetical and controversial treatises. [ix. 226]

CARTWRIGHT, THOMAS (1634-1689), bishop of Chester; taberner of Queen's College, Oxford, c. 1650; M.A., 1655; chaplain; secretly ordained by Bishop Robert Skinner, c. 1655; vicar of Walthamstow, Essex, 1657; preacher at St. Mary Magdalen, Milk Street, London, 1659; prebendary of Wells, 1660; vicar of Barking, 1660-89; D.D., 1661; prebendary of St. Paul's and vicar of St. Thomas, London, 1665; chaplain in ordinary; dean of Ripon, 1675; a favourite of James, duke of York; rector of Wigan; bishop of Chester, 1686; a chief instrument in carrying out James II's unconstitutional acts; one of James II's ecclesiastical commissioners, 1687; chief visitor of Magdalen College, Oxford, to enforce submission to James II, 1687; withdrew to France, 1688; nominated bishop of Salisbury by King James, 1689, whom he followed to Ireland. [ix. 230]

CARTWRIGHT, SIR THOMAS (1795-1850), diplomatist; entered Christ Church, Oxford, 1812; envoy to Sweden; knighted, 1834; died at Stockholm. [ix. 232]

CARTWRIGHT, WILLIAM (1611-1643), dramatist; educated at Westminster School; student of Christ Church, Oxford, 1628; M.A., 1635; a florid preacher; his 'Royal Slave' acted before Charles I at Oxford, 1636; junior proctor, April 1643; died of pestilence, November. His plays and poems were published, 1651. [ix. 232]

CARTWRIGHT, WILLIAM (d. 1687), actor; acted at Whitefriars Theatre before the civil war; turned bookseller when the theatres were closed; joined the king's company of players, c. 1661, and the Duke of York's company, 1682; bequeathed books and portraits to Dulwich College. [ix. 233]

CARUS, THOMAS (d. 1572?), judge; barrister of the Middle Temple; serjeant-at-law, 1559; justice of the queen's bench, 1565 till death. [ix. 234]

CARVE, THOMAS (1590-1672?), traveller and historian; really CARUE, i.e. Carew; catholic priest in Leighlin diocese; army chaplain in the imperialist service in Germany, from before 1626 to 1643; visited Ireland, 1630 and 1633; vicar-choral of St. Stephen's Cathedral, Vienna, 1643; published abroad 'Itinerarium', being an account of his services, 1639-46, a treatise on Irish history, 1661, and other works. [ix. 234]

CARVELL, NICHOLAS (d. 1566), poet; educated at Eton; entered King's College, Cambridge, 1545; M.A., 1553; withdrew to Zurich, 1553-9; probably author of two poems in the 'Mirror for Magistrates'. [ix. 235]

CARVER, JOHN (1575?-1621), leader of the 'pilgrim fathers'; an English puritan; withdrew to Holland, 1608; deacon in the English congregationalist church in Leyden; sailed in the Mayflower, September 1620; chosen governor by the colonists at Massachusetts, December; made a treaty with the Indians, March 1621; died of sunstroke. [ix. 236]

CARVER, JONATHAN (1732-1780), American explorer; born in Connecticut; son of the English governor; served in the colonial forces, 1757-63; travelled along Lake Superior and in unexplored Minnesota, 1766-8; claimed to have received large grants of land from the Indians; came to England, 1769; further journeys and colonisation schemes prevented by the American rebellion; published account of his travels, 1778, and a tract on tobacco, 1779. [ix. 237]

CARVER, ROBERT (d. 1791), landscape and scene painter; son and pupil of an Irish artist; exhibited in Dublin; scene painter to Drury Lane Theatre and afterwards to Covent Garden Theatre; exhibited landscapes in London, 1765-90. [ix. 238]

CARVOSSO, BENJAMIN (1789-1854), Wesleyan minister; a Cornishman; Wesleyan minister, 1814; went to Tasmania, 1820; thence to New South Wales; started the 'Australian Magazine', 1820; returned to Tasmania, 1825; returned to England, 1830, and served at different centres; published tracts. [ix. 239]

CARWARDINE, PENELOPE, afterwards Mrs. BUTLER (1730?-1800?), miniaturist; exhibited, 1761-72; friend of Sir Joshua Reynolds. [ix. 239]

CARWELL, THOMAS (1600-1664), jesuit; real name THOROLD; of Lincolnshire; embraced Romanism, 1622; studied at St. Omer's; joined the jesuits at Rome, 1633; professor at Liège; sent on the English mission, 1647; served chiefly in London; wrote against Archbishop Laud, 1658. [ix. 239]

CARY. [See also CAREW and CAREY.]

CARY, EDWARD (d. 1711), Roman catholic divine; went abroad, 1646; priest, 1651; sent on the English mission; army chaplain to James II; Jacobite agent; published a tract. [ix. 240]

CARY, ELIZABETH, VISCOUNTESS FALKLAND (1685-1639), daughter of Sir Lawrence Tanfield, the judge; married, c. 1600, Sir Henry Cary, afterwards first viscount Falkland [q.v.]; a linguist; secretly embraced Roman catholicism, c. 1604; accompanied her husband to Ireland, 1622; separated from him on account of religion, 1625. [ix. 241]

CARY, FRANÇOIS STEPHEN (1808-1880), artist; a younger son of Henry Francis Cary [q.v.]; studied art in London, Paris (1829), Italy, and Munich; travelled, 1833-5; exhibited in London from 1836; art teacher in Bloomsbury, 1842-74. [ix. 240]

CARY, SIR HENRY, first Viscount Falkland (d. 1633), lord-deputy of Ireland; son of a Hertfordshire knight; said to have studied at Oxford; served abroad; gentleman of the bedchamber to James I; K.B., 1608; controller of the household, 1617-21; created Viscount Falkland in the Scottish peerage, 1620; lord-deputy of Ireland, 1622; failed in that office; recalled, 1629.

[ix. 240]

CARY, HENRY FRANÇOIS (1773-1844), translator; of Irish extraction; born at Gibraltar; educated at Birmingham; wrote verses, from 1787, chiefly for the 'Gentleman's Magazine'; entered Christ Church, Oxford, 1790; M.A., 1796; vicar of Abbot's Bromley, Staffordshire, 1796, and of Kingsbury, Warwickshire, 1800; published his translation of Dante's 'Inferno', 1805, and of the 'Purgatorio' and 'Paradiso', 1812; became a non-resident parson, 1807; resided in London, taking clerical work and writing for the magazines; translated the 'Birds' of Aristophanes, 1824; an official of the British Museum Library, 1828-37; translated Pindar, 1832; travelled, 1833-5; pensioned, 1841.

[ix. 242]

CARY, JOHN (d. 1395?), judge; warden of the Devonshire ports, 1373; refused to be serjeant-at-law, 1383; chief baron of the exchequer, 1386; impeached and banished to Waterford for favouring Richard II, 1388.

[ix. 244]

CARY, JOHN (d. 1720?), merchant and writer on trade; son of a vicar of Bristol; West India sugar merchant; compliant to James II, 1687; published, 1695, 'An Essay on . . . England in relation to its Trade'; advocated workhouses for paupers; consulted by the government on Irish manufactures, 1704; published pamphlets on trade and the currency.

[ix. 244]

CARY, LUCIUS, second Viscount Falkland (1610?-1643), son of Sir Henry Cary, afterwards first viscount Falkland [q. v.], and Elizabeth Cary [q. v.]; accompanied his parents to Dublin, 1622; studied at Trinity College, Dublin; deprived of command of a company by his father's opponents, 1629; imprisoned in the Fleet to prevent his fighting a duel, January 1630; succeeded to the Burford estate, c. 1630; vainly sought service in Holland; lived in retirement at Great Tew, Oxfordshire; succeeded to the viscounty and his father's encumbered estates, 1638; supposed to have sold his life interest in the Burford estate, 1634; resided with his mother, a Roman catholic, 1633-4; retired to Great Tew, 1634; served as volunteer against the Scots, 1639; M.P. for Newport in the Isle of Wight in the Short parliament, April 1640, and in the Long parliament, November 1640; spoke against Laud's ecclesiastical tyranny, February 1641; spoke in favour of Strafford's attainder, April 1641; opposed abolition of episcopacy, May 1641; accepted secretaryship of state, January 1642; accompanied Charles I to York; sent to negotiate with the parliament, September 1642; present at the siege of Gloucester, August 1643; despairing of peace threw away his life at Newbury fight, September 1643. Some of his verses and philosophical tractates were published posthumously.

[ix. 246]

CARY, PATRICK (f. 1651), poet; a younger son of Sir Henry Cary, first viscount Falkland [q. v.]; brought up as a Roman catholic in France and Italy; a protégé of Pope Urban VIII; an abbé in Italy, before 1644; Benedictine monk at Douay, c. 1650; came to England; wrote verses at Warnford, Hampshire, 1651 (first printed, 1771).

[ix. 261]

CARY, ROBERT (1615?-1688), chronologer; of the Carys of Cockington, Devonshire; entered Exeter College, Oxford, 1631; scholar of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1634; M.A., 1639; D.C.L., 1644; rector of Portlsmouth, Devonshire, 1668-88; archdeacon of Exeter, 1662-4; published 'Paleologia Chronica', 1677.

[ix. 262]

CARY, VALENTINE (d. 1626), bishop of Exeter; entered St. John's College, Cambridge; migrated to Christ's College, 1585; B.A., 1589; fellow of St. John's, 1591; fellow of Christ's, 1595; again fellow of St. John's, 1599; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1601; vicar of East Tilbury, 1603; rector of Great Parndon, 1606; vicar of Epping, 1607; prebendary of Lincoln, 1607-21; master of Christ's College, Cambridge, 1609-30; ejected the puritan fellows; rector of Orsett, Essex, and of Toft, Cambridgeshire, 1610; dean of St. Paul's, 1614-21; attended James I to Scotland, 1617; bishop of Exeter, 1621-6; chancellor of Exeter, 1622-4; vicar of Exminster, 1624.

[ix. 262]

CARY, WILLIAM (1759-1826), philosophical instrument maker in London, 1790-1826.

[ix. 268]

CARYL, JOSEPH (1602-1673), independent divine; M.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1627; preacher at Lincoln's Inn, 1632-47; a frequent preacher before the Long parliament; member of the Westminster Assembly, 1643; minister of St. Magnus, London, 1645-62; chaplain to Oliver Cromwell in Scotland; pastor of a London non-conformist congregation, 1662-73; published sermons and a commentary on Job, 1661-66.

[ix. 263]

CARYLL, JOHN, titular Baron Caryll (1626-1711), diplomatist; of a Roman catholic family in Sussex; wrote a tragedy, 1666, and a comedy, 1671; translated parts of Ovid and Virgil, 1680-83; envoy to Rome, 1686; secretary to Queen Mary of Modena, 1686; withdrew to France, 1689; secretary of state to the exiled dynasty; his estate forfeited, 1696; published a version of the Psalms, 1700; created by James Edward, the Old Pretender, Baron Caryll, 1701; died at Paris.

[ix. 264]

CARYLL, JOHN (1666?-1736), friend of Pope, with whom he corresponded, 1710-36; Roman catholic squire in Sussex.

[ix. 265]

CARYSFORT, EARL OF. [See PROBY, JOHN JOSHUA, first EARL, 1751-1828; PROBY, GRANVILLE LEVESON, third EARL, 1781-1868.]

CARYSFORT, first Baron (1720-1772). [See PROBY, JOHN.]

CASALI, ANDREA (1720?-1783?), painter; born at Civitá Vecchia, Tuscany; studied painting at Rome; came to England, 1748; styled 'cavaliere' after 1761; returned to Rome, 1769; exhibited at London till 1783.

[ix. 266]

CASANOVA, FRANÇOIS (1727-1805), battle painter; born in London, 1727, his parents being there on an acting tour; studied art at Venice, Paris (1751), and Dresden (1752-6); returned to Paris, 1767; exhibited in London, 1767; died at Vienna.

[ix. 266]

CASAUON, ISAAC (1559-1614), classical scholar; born at Geneva; son of Huguenot refugees; brought up at Orest in Dauphiné; learned Greek at Geneva from Francis Portus, a Cretan; succeeded Portus as professor of Greek, 1581; published notes on Diogenes Laertius, 1583; his second wife a daughter of the great printer, Henri Estienne; published commentaries on several Greek authors, 1587-95; met Sir Henry Wotton, 1593; corresponded with Joseph Scaliger; professor at Montpellier, 1596; began his diary ('Ephemerides', published 1850), 1597; published his Athenaeum at Lyons, 1600; removed to Paris, 1600; pensioned by Henry IV; keeper of the royal library, 1604; importuned to embrace Romanism; published Persius, 1605, and Polybius, 1609 (completed 1617); invited to England, July 1610; came to England, October 1610; prebendary of Canterbury, 1611; attached to the court and pensioned by James I; employed to confute Baronius ('Exercitationes xvi ad Baronii Annales', published 1614); buried in Westminster Abbey.

[ix. 267]

CASAUON, MERIC (1599-1671), classical scholar; a younger son of Isaac Casauon [q. v.]; born at Geneva; brought up at Sedan; brought to England, 1611; at Eton; student of Christ Church, Oxford, 1614-27; published vindications of his father against Roman catholic detractors, 1621 and 1624; M.A., 1622; rector of Bleadon, Somerset, 1628; B.D., 1628; prebendary of Canterbury, 1628; vicar of Minster and Monckton, Thanet, 1634; D.D., 1636; ejected by parliament from his benefices, 1644; invited by Oliver Cromwell to write a history of the civil war; invited to Sweden by Queen Christina; married a rich wife, 1651; recovered his benefices, 1660; rector of Ickham, Kent, 1662; published classical commentaries, including Marcus Aurelius, 1643, and Epictetus, 1659, translations and theological treatises, 1631-70.

[ix. 261]

CASE, JOHN (d. 1600), Aristotelian commentator; chorister at Oxford; scholar of St. John's College, Oxford, 1564; fellow; M.A., 1672; M.D., 1589; canon of Salisbury, 1589; practised medicine in Oxford; published philosophical text-books, 1584-99; wrote also 'Apologia Musicae', 1588.

[ix. 262]

CASE, JOHN (f. 1680-1700), astrologer; resided in Lambeth, 1682; friend of John Partridge the astrologer;

published two anatomical treatises, 1695, two astrological treatises, 1696-7, and a medical tract, 1698; styled M.D.; practised medicine and astrology in London. [ix. 263]

CASE, THOMAS (1598-1682), presbyterian divine; educated at Canterbury and Merchant Taylors' School; student of Christ Church, Oxford, 1616; M.A., 1623; curate at North Repps, Norfolk; incumbent of Erpingham, Norfolk; preacher at Manchester and Salford, 1635; prosecuted for contempt of church ceremonies in both dioceses (Norwich and Chester); married into an influential family, 1637; lecturer in several London churches, 1641-2; member of the Westminster assembly, 1643; intruded rector of Stockport, Cheshire, 1645-6; ejected by parliament from the rectory of St. Mary Magdalen, Milk Street, 1649; imprisoned as privy to the presbyterian plot to recall Charles II, 1651; rector of St. Giles-in-the-Fields, London, 1652?; deputed by presbyterians to congratulate Charles II at the Hague, 1660; chaplain to Charles II; member of the Savoy conference, 1661; ejected for nonconformity, 1662; published sermons. [ix. 264]

CASEY, JOHN (1820-1891), mathematician; engaged as national school teacher; scholar, Trinity College, Dublin, 1861; B.A., 1862; honorary LL.D., 1869; mathematical master in Kingston school, 1862-73; member of Royal Irish Academy, 1866, and councillor, 1880; professor of higher mathematics and mathematical physics. Catholic university, 1873-81; F.R.S., 1875; fellow of Royal University, 1881; honorary LL.D., 1886; lecturer in mathematics, University College, Stephen's Green, 1881-1891; published mathematical treatises. [Suppl. i. 395]

CASLON, WILLIAM, the elder (1692-1766), type-founder; born in Worcestershire; engraver on metal; set up shop in London, 1716; began type-founding, 1716, his type becoming famous. [ix. 267]

CASLON, WILLIAM, the younger (1720-1778), type-founder; eldest son of William Caslon the elder [q. v.]; partner in his father's business, 1742; carried it on successfully after his father's death. [ix. 267]

CASS, SIR JOHN (1666-1718), merchant and benefactor of city of London; alderman of Portsoken ward, London, 1710; M.P. for city, 1710 and 1713; sheriff, 1711; knighted, 1712; founded by legacy a school at Hackney. [Suppl. i. 396]

CASSAN, STEPHEN HYDE (1789-1841), ecclesiastical biographer; born at Oaloutta; B.A. Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1815; curate in Somerset and Wiltshire; vicar of Bruton, Somerset, 1831; published sermons and trite lives of the bishops of Salisbury, 1824, of Winchester, and (1830) of Bath and Wells. [ix. 268]

CASSEL or CASSELS, RICHARD (d. 1751). [See CASTLE, RICHARD.]

CASSELL, JOHN (1817-1865), publisher; son of a Manchester publican; bred a carpenter; self-taught; a teetotal lecturer; removed to London, 1836; opened a grocer's shop before 1847; commenced publishing magazines and books for popular instruction, 1850. [ix. 268]

CASSIE, JAMES (1819-1879), painter; exhibited in Edinburgh and London. [ix. 269]

CASSILLIS, EARLS OF. [See KENNEDY, GILBERT, second EARL, d. 1527; KENNEDY, GILBERT, third EARL, 1517?-1568; KENNEDY, GILBERT, fourth EARL, 1541?-1576; KENNEDY, JOHN, fifth EARL, 1567?-1615; KENNEDY, JOHN, sixth EARL, 1608?-1668; KENNEDY, JOHN, seventh EARL, 1646?-1701.]

CASSIVELLAUNUS (Æ. 54 B.C.), in Welsh, CASWAL-LAWN, British prince; chief of the Catuvelauni (Hertford, Buckingham, and Berk shires); opposed Julius Cæsar in his second campaign in Britain; defeated at a ford over the Thames; his store-town shown to Cæsar by revolted subject tribes; submitted to Cæsar, and gave hostages. [ix. 270]

CASTELS, PETER (1684-1749), painter and engraver of still-life; born at Antwerp; came to England, 1708; designer of calico patterns at Tooting, 1736, and Richmond. [ix. 271]

CASTELL, EDMUND (1606-1685), Semitic scholar; entered Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1621; M.A., 1628; B.D., 1635; began his 'Lexicon Heptaglotton', 1651 (published 1669); helped Brian Walton in the 'Biblia Polyglotta' (published 1657); published verses congratulating Charles II on the Restoration, 1660; D.D., 1661; chaplain to Charles II, 1666; prebendary of Canterbury, 1667; professor of Arabic at Cambridge; successively incumbent of Hatfield Peverel and Woodham Walter, Essex, and Higham-Gobion, Bedfordshire; bequeathed oriental manuscripts to Cambridge University. [ix. 271]

CASTELL, WILLIAM (d. 1645), author of two pamphlets on America, 1641-4; rector of Courteenhall, Northamptonshire, 1627. [ix. 272]

CASTELLO, ADRIAN DE (1460?-1521?). [See ADRIAN DE CASTELLO.]

CASTILLO, JOHN (1792-1845), or CASTELLO, author of poems in the Cleveland dialect; born of Roman catholic parents near Dublin; brought up near Whithy, Yorkshire; stonemason in Cleveland; joined the Wesleyans, 1818; a local preacher. [ix. 273]

CASTINE, THOMAS (d. 1793?), soldier; a Maximian; serjeant in the 4th foot; deserted; served in the French forces in America; said to have been colonel of foot in France, c. 1789; wrongly identified with General Adam Philip de Custine (guillotined 1793). [ix. 273]

CASTLE, EDMUND (1698-1750), ecclesiastic; educated at Canterbury; scholar of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1716; B.A., 1719; fellow, 1722; public orator at Cambridge, 1726-9; vicar of Elm and Emmeth, Isle of Ely, 1729; rector of Barley, Hertfordshire; head-master of St. Paul's School, 1744; master of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1744; vice-chancellor of Cambridge University, 1746; prebendary of Lincoln, 1747; dean of Hereford, 1748. [ix. 274]

CASTLE, GEORGE (1635?-1673), physician; educated at Thame school; B.A. Balliol College, Oxford, 1654; fellow of All Souls', 1655; M.D., 1665; practised in Westminster; physician to the Charterhouse; published a medical tract. [ix. 274]

CASTLE, CASSEL, or CASSELS, RICHARD (d. 1751), architect; born in Germany of German parents; went to Ireland before 1720; designed many buildings in Dublin and the provinces; published one pamphlet, 1736. [ix. 274]

CASTLE, THOMAS (1804?-1840?), physician; apprenticed to a surgeon at Hythe; studied at Guy's Hospital, 1826; resident in Brighton; styled himself M.D. in 1838; published medical and botanical text-books, 1826-1837. [ix. 275]

CASTLEHAVEN, third EARL OF (1617?-1684). [See TOUCHET, JAMES.]

CASTLEMAINE, COUNTESS OF (1641-1709). [See VILLIERS, BARBARA, DUCHESS OF CLEVELAND.]

CASTLEMAINE, EARL OF (d. 1705). [See PALMER, ROGER.]

CASTLEREAGH, VISCOUNT (1769-1822). [See STEWART, ROBERT.]

CASTRO, ALFONSO Y (1495-1558), theologian; a Spaniard; Franciscan friar; chaplain to the Spanish merchants at Bruges, 1532; published his famous 'Ad-versus Hæreses', 1534; preacher at Salamanca; chaplain to Charles V.; published sermons, 1537-40, 'De justa hæreticorum punitione', 1547, and 'De potestate legis poenalis', 1550; sent with Philip of Spain to England as his adviser, 1554; declared the burnings of English heretics to be carried out too hastily, February 1555; had a discussion in prison with John Bradford (1510?-1555) [q. v.]; at Antwerp, 1556; named archbishop of Compostella, 1567; died at Brussels. [ix. 276]

CASWALL, EDWARD (1814-1878), hymn-writer; M.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1838; incumbent of Stratford-sub-Castle, Wiltshire; embraced Roman catholicism, 1847; a father of the Birmingham Oratory, 1860; published Oxford jeux d'esprit, 1836-7, sermons, 1846, hymns and verses, 1849-65. [ix. 276]

CAT, CHRISTOPHER (Æ. 1703-1733), keeper of the 'Cat and Fiddle' in London and afterwards of the 'Fountain' tavern, in which the Kit-Cat Club met, 1703-30. [ix. 277]

CATCHER or BURTON, EDWARD (1584?-1624?), Jesuit; of Oriel College, Oxford, 1597; B.A. Balliol College, 1605; embraced Roman Catholicism at Rome, 1606; joined the Jesuits at Louvain, c. 1609; procurator of the Jesuits at Liège, 1621-3; sent on the English mission; translated theological tracts. [ix. 278]

CATCHPOLE, MARGARET (1773-1841), adventuress; daughter of a Suffolk labourer; domestic servant in Ipswich; stole her master's horse to join a seaman in London, 1797; escaped from Ipswich gaol, 1800; transported to Australia, 1801; married a settler; resided in Sydney, 1828-41. [ix. 278]

CATCOTT, ALEXANDER (1725-1779), divine; eldest son of Alexander Stopford Catcott [q.v.]; entered Winchester School, 1739; B.A. Wadham College, Oxford, 1748; curate in Bristol; vicar of Temple Church, Bristol; wrote in defence of the traditional interpretation of the Mosaic deluge, 1756-68. [ix. 278]

CATCOTT, ALEXANDER STOPFORD (1692-1749), divine and poet; entered Merchant Taylors' School, 1699; scholar of St. John's College, Oxford, 1709; fellow, 1712-1722; B.O.L., 1718; head-master of Bristol grammar school, 1722-44; preacher in Bristol; rector of St. Stephen's, Bristol, 1744; published poems, 1716-17, expostitions of the views of John Hutchinson [q.v.], 1738, and sermons. [ix. 279]

CATES, WILLIAM LEIST READWIN (1821-1896), compiler; passed in law at London University; articulated as solicitor at Thatcham, 1844; engaged in private tuition; assisted Bernard Bolingbroke Woodward [q.v.] in 'Encyclopædia of Chronology,' 1860-72; edited 'Dictionary of General Biography,' 1867, and published other compilations. [Suppl. i. 396]

CATESBY, SIR JOHN (d. 1486), judge; of Whiston, Northamptonshire; of the Inner Temple, 1458; serjeant-at-law, 1463; justice of common pleas, 1481; knighted, 1482. [ix. 280]

CATESBY, MARK (1679?-1749), naturalist; studied natural science in London; collected plants in North America, 1710-19, and again, 1722-6; resided in London; published a 'Natural History of Carolina,' 1731-43, and descriptions of some American fauna and flora. [ix. 281]

CATESBY, ROBERT (1573-1605), conspirator; son and heir of Sir William Catesby of Lapworth, Warwickshire, a rich Roman Catholic squire, often harassed for recusancy; possibly educated at Douay; of Gloucester Hall, Oxford, 1586; inherited Chastleton, Oxfordshire, 1593; took a leading part in the Earl of Essex's rising, 1601; heavily fined; sold Chastleton and retired to his mother's house at Ashby St. Legers, Northamptonshire; imprisoned as a malcontent, 1603; released; joined Thomas Winter and Guy Fawkes in the Gunpowder plot, summer of 1604; fled from Westminster to Ashby St. Legers on Guy Fawkes's arrest, 5 Nov. 1605; killed at Holbeach, Staffordshire, 8 Nov., resisting arrest. [ix. 281]

CATESBY, WILLIAM (d. 1485), squire of the body to Richard III, named in the popular satire ('The cat, the rat, and Lovel,' &c.); a lawyer; favourite of Richard, while Duke of Gloucester; contrived the fall of his patron, William, Lord Hastings, 1483; chancellor of the exchequer, 1483; knight of the shire for Northamptonshire and speaker of the House of Commons, 1484; taken prisoner at Bosworth; beheaded. [ix. 284]

CATHERINE. [See CATHERINE.]

CATHCART, CHARLES, ninth BARON CATHCART (1721-1776), soldier; entered the army when very young; succeeded to barony, 1740; lieutenant-colonel, 1742; protégé of the Duke of Cumberland, under whom he served in Flanders, Scotland, and Holland; wounded at Fontenoy, 1745; hostage in Paris, 1748; lieutenant-general, 1760; envoy to Russia, 1768-71; commander of the forces in Scotland. [ix. 285]

CATHCART, CHARLES MURRAY, second EARL CATHCART (1783-1859), general; son of William Schaw Cathcart, first earl [q.v.]; cornet, 1800; served in Italy and Sicily, 1805-6; major, 1807; styled Lord Greenock, from November 1807; served at Walcheren, 1809; lieutenant-colonel, 1810; served in the Peninsula, 1810-12; quartermaster-general, 1814-28; served at Waterloo; took an interest in geology; governor of Edinburgh Castle,

1837-42; discovered the mineral 'Greenockite,' 1841; succeeded to earldom, 1843; commander-in-chief in British North America, 1846-9; general, 1854. [ix. 285]

CATHCART, DAVID, LORD ALLOWAY (d. 1829), Scottish judge; advocate, 1785; lord of session, styled Lord Alloway, 1813 till death. [ix. 286]

CATHCART, SIR GEORGE (1794-1854), general; younger son of William Schaw Cathcart, first earl Cathcart [q.v.]; cornet, 1810; lieutenant, 1811; aide-de-camp to his father with the Russian army, 1813-14; aide-de-camp to Wellington at Waterloo and in France, 1815-18; lieutenant-colonel, 1826; deputy-lieutenant of the Tower, 1846-51; published a book on the 1812-13 campaign, 1815; major-general, 1851; commander-in-chief in South Africa, 1852-4; crushed the Kaffirs and Basutos; K.C.B., 1853; commanded the fourth division in the Crimea; vainly urged an immediate attack on Sebastopol, September 1854; killed at Inkermann, 5 Nov. [ix. 286]

CATHCART, SIR WILLIAM SCHAW, tenth BARON CATHCART in the Scottish peerage, and first VISCOUNT and EARL CATHCART (1755-1843), general; eldest son of Charles Cathcart, ninth baron [q.v.]; at Eton, 1766-71; at St. Petersburg, with his father, 1771; studied law at Dresden and Glasgow; advocate, 1776; succeeded to barony, 1776; captain of dragoons, 1777; served in America, 1777-80, commanding the 'British legion' of colonials, 1778-80, and the 38th foot, 1780; returned to England, 1780; lieutenant-colonel, 1781; representative peer of Scotland, 1788; brigadier-general in the Quiberon expedition, 1793; major-general, 1794; served in Hanover, 1794-5; lieutenant-general, 1801; commander-in-chief in Ireland, 1803-5; served ingloriously in Hanover, 1805; bombarded Copenhagen, 1807; created Viscount Cathcart, 1807; commander-in-chief in Scotland; general, 1812; ambassador and military commissioner with the Russian army, 1813-14; created Earl Cathcart, 1814; ambassador at St. Petersburg, 1814-21; retired from politics, 1831. [ix. 287]

CATHERINE OF VALEIS (1401-1437), queen of Henry V; youngest daughter of Charles VI, the insane king of France; born at Paris; neglected by her mother, Isabel of Bavaria; brought up at a convent at Poissy; asked in marriage for Henry, prince of Wales, 1413; demanded in marriage by Henry, now Henry V, who also asked an immense dowry in money and territory, 1414, war with France ensuing on the rejection of his terms; met Henry V, 1419; married him at Troyes, 2 June 1420; came to England, February 1421; crowned at Westminster, 1421; made a progress in the north; birth of her son (Henry VI), 2 Dec. 1421; accompanied Henry V to France, May 1422; returned with his corpse to England, October 1422; granted Baynard's Castle, Surrey, for a residence, 1424; reported to be intriguing with, or secretly married to Owen Tudor, c. 1425; marriage with her forbidden by parliament except with consent of the privy council, 1428; by Owen Tudor had Edmund (created, 1452, Earl of Richmond, father of Henry VII), and other issue; withdrew to Bermondsey Abbey, 1436; buried in Westminster Abbey, with inscription by Henry VI describing her as widow of Henry V; new inscription afterwards put there by Henry VII, acknowledging her marriage to Tudor. [ix. 289]

CATHERINE OF ARRAGON (1485-1536), first queen of Henry VIII; youngest child of Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain; sought in marriage when two years old by Henry VII for Arthur, prince of Wales (he being one year old), 1487; became an excellent Latin scholar; treaty of marriage concluded, 1500; sailed from Coruña, 1501; reached Plymouth 2 Oct. 1501; married to Prince Arthur at St. Paul's, London, 14 Nov., she being almost sixteen, he just fifteen years of age; deprived of Prince Arthur by death, 1502; proposal made for her marriage with Prince Henry; suggestion made for her marriage with Henry VII (a widower, February 1503); treaty of marriage to Prince Henry signed, 23 June 1503; papal dispensation and brief of Pope Julius II for the marriage granted, 1504; left in poverty and distress through the heartless intrigues of Henry VII, who desired a better match for the prince, 1505-8; married to the prince, now Henry VIII, 11 June 1509 (she well over 23, he just 16); crowned, 24 June; gave birth to and lost four children, 1510-14; regent during Henry VIII's French campaign,

1513; birth of Princess Mary, 1516; Henry VIII vexed by her father's duplicity, she vexed by Henry's infidelities (Henry Fitzroy, bastard by Elizabeth Blount, widow of Sir Gilbert Talboys, born 1519, created Duke of Richmond, 1526, died 1536), 1518; visited by her nephew Charles V., May 1520; accompanied Henry VIII to France, 1520; second visit of Charles V., 1522; harassed by intrigues of King Henry to annul his marriage, 1526; informed by him that cohabitation must cease till the validity of their marriage be determined, 22 June 1526; legate powers to try the cause given to Cardinal Lorenzo Campeggio [q. v.], who arrived in October 1528; persecuted with the intention of making her retire to a nunnery; appeared before the legate court, 1529; appeared in open court to Henry VIII's justice, and to the pope, 1529; her case revoked to Rome; attended the king's progress to Woodstock as queen, September 1529; left at Richmond while the king and Anne Boleyn were in London, February 1530; English and foreign universities consulted by Henry VIII for warrant to dissolve his marriage; ill with fever, 1530; urged by the peers to allow her case to be tried by English judges, May and October 1531; finally abandoned by Henry VIII (who took Anne Boleyn with him), July 1531; separated from her daughter, Princess Mary; removed to Moor, Hertfordshire, 1531, and to Bishop's Hatfield, 1532; much sympathy felt for her by the people, Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn being secretly married, 25 Jan., and the marriage acknowledged, 13 April 1533; ordered to be styled 'the princess dowager'; her marriage declared null by Archbishop Crommer, 1533; removed to Buckden, Huntingdonshire, 1533; forcibly resisted an attempt to remove her to Somersham, Isle of Ely, 1533; in fear of poison, 1534; her marriage pronounced valid by the pope, 28 March 1534; her jointure transferred by parliament to Anne Boleyn; steadily refused to accept the Act of Succession, 1534; many of her supporters executed, 1535; serious illness, December 1535; died possibly of cancer of the heart, 7 Jan. 1536; buried in Peterborough Abbey. [ix. 290]

CATHERINE HOWARD (d. 1542), fifth queen of Henry VIII; daughter, by his first wife, of Lord Edmund Howard, a younger son of Thomas, second duke of Norfolk; her education neglected through her father's poverty; on her father's second marriage became a dependant in her grandmother's (Agnes, dowager duchess of Norfolk's) house at Horsham, Norfolk, and afterwards at Lambeth; improperly familiar with Henry Mannock (or Manox), her musico-master; passed privately as wife of Francis Dereham, a retainer of the duchess; during Dereham's absence in Ireland, was thought likely to marry her cousin, Thomas Culpepper of Kent; met Henry VIII at Bishop Stephen Gardiner's palace; claims for promotion pressed on her by her old associates, on the report that Henry would divorce Anne of Cleves and marry her; married secretly to King Henry, July, and acknowledged, August 1540; accompanied Henry on his midland progress, September-October 1540, and again, to Yorkshire, July-October 1541; clandestinely met Culpepper at Lincoln and Pontefract, 1541, by help of her cousin Jane, viscountess Rochford, and 27 Aug., made Dereham her secretary; a statement of her former intimacy with Mannock and Dereham, supplied by maid-servants, given to Henry VIII, 2 Nov.; driven to confess pre-nuptial unchastity with Dereham and familiarities with Mannock, a strict inquiry having been held; given by the king a promise to spare her life and sent to Ston House, November 1541; evidence of adultery vainly sought; all persons supposed privy to her misconduct imprisoned, Culpepper and Dereham being sentenced to death, and several of her relatives and servants to imprisonment and forfeiture, 1541; a bill attainting her and Lady Rochford (now insane) brought in, 21 Jan., and passed 7 Feb. 1542; a new confession, but only of pre-nuptial unchastity, wrung from her; taken to the Tower, 10 Feb., and, with Lady Rochford, beheaded 13 Feb. 1542. [ix. 308]

CATHERINE PARR (1512-1546), sixth queen of Henry VIII; daughter of Sir Thomas Parr (d. 1517) of Kendal; well educated; married to Edward Borough (possibly Edward, the insane Baron Borough of Gainsborough, d. 1539); third wife of John Neville, baron Latimer (d. 1542); ready to marry Sir Thomas Seymour, brother of Jane, the late queen; forced to marry Henry VIII, 13 July 1543; showed great kindness to Prince

Edward and the Princesses Elizabeth and Mary; tried to diminish religious persecution; regent during Henry VIII's French expedition, 1544; her life endangered by her protestant leanings; secretly married, c. April, Sir Thomas Seymour, now Baron Seymour of Sudeley, Henry VIII having died in January 1547; obtained Edward VI's consent to the match; disgusted by her husband's brutalities to Princess Elizabeth; gave birth to a daughter at Sudeley Castle, 30 Aug. 1548. [ix. 308]

CATHERINE OF BRAGANZA (1638-1705), queen of Charles II; born at Villa Vicosia; her father king of Portugal in 1640; her education utterly neglected; marriage with Charles, prince of Wales, proposed for her by her father, 1645; renewed proposals made by the Portuguese for her marriage with Charles II, May 1660; proposals opposed by the Spanish party, on the ground of her probable barrenness; the match determined upon by Charles II, acting under French influence, November 1660-March 1661; formal intimation of the match well received in England and enthusiastically in Portugal; marriage treaty signed, 23 June 1661; Catherine sailing for England, 23 April 1662, and reaching Portsmouth, 13 May; privately married, 21 May; arrived at Hampton Court, 29 May; compelled by Charles to receive at court his mistress, Lady Castlemaine, July; arrived at Whitehall, 23 Aug.; submissively accepted Charles II's infidelities; showed kindness to his illegitimate children, and lived mostly at Somerset House, and not at court, being often in great poverty through non-payment of her allowances; tried to obtain from the pope recognition of Portuguese independence, 1662; seriously ill, October 1663; kept court in Oxford during the plague of London, 1665-6; proposals rumoured for dissolution of her marriage on account of her childlessness, 1667-70; complaints made of the concourse of English people to her chapel services, 1667; went a progress in the eastern counties, 1671; assailed by the whigs as privy to the 'popish plot', 1678-1680, but protected by Charles; attended the Oxford parliament, 1681; again abandoned by Charles for the Duchess of Portsmouth; instrumental in securing Charles II's deathbed profession of Romanism, February 1685; afterwards lived in retirement at Somerset House and Hammersmith; vainly begged James II to spare Monmouth; present at the birth of the Prince of Wales, 10 June 1688; gave evidence as to his legitimacy before the council; tried to recover damages from Henry, earl of Clarendon, her late chamberlain, for negligence in money matters; visited by William of Orange, but soon quarrelled with both William and Mary; travelled through France and Spain, reaching Lisbon, January 1693; resided near Lisbon; regent for her brother Pedro, 1704-5; favoured Italian music; unpopular in consequence of her ignorance of affairs, her haughtiness to her household, and her parsimony. [ix. 312]

CATHROE or KADROE, SAINT (d. 976?). [See CADROE.]

CATLEY, ANN (1745-1789), vocalist; sang at Vauxhall, 1762; legal proceedings undertaken by her father to regain custody of her, 1763; pupil of Charles Macklin; an extremely popular performer at Dublin, 1763-70, and in London, 1770-84; married Major-general Francis Lascelles. [ix. 319]

CATLIN, SIR ROBERT (d. 1574), judge; reader of the Middle Temple, 1547; obtained the manor of Beby, Leicestershire, 1553; serjeant-at-law, 1555; justice of common pleas, 1558; chief-justice of the queen's bench, 1559-74; knighted, 1559. [ix. 320]

CATNACH, JAMES (of the Seven Dials) (1752-1841), publisher; son of John Catnach; printer in Newcastle-on-Tyne; came to London, 1813; issued penny and farthing chap-books, ballads, and broadsides; retired, 1838. [ix. 321]

CATON, WILLIAM (1636-1686), quaker; met George Fox at Swarthmore, Ulverston, Lancashire, 1662, and embraced quakerism; travelled as a quaker preacher, 1664; imprisoned at Maidstone; roughly handled by English residents in Holland, 1665; preached in Scotland; settled in Amsterdam, 1666; frequently visited England; married a Dutch woman, 1662; imprisoned at Yarmouth; published many pamphlets in English, Dutch, and German; his autobiography printed, 1689. [ix. 321]

CATRIK, JOHN (d. 1419). [See KETTERICH.]

CATTERMOLE, GEORGE (1800-1868), painter; son of a Norfolk squire; employed as draughtsman by John Britton [q. v.]; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1819-27, and historical and other pictures at the Water Colour Society, 1822-50; a prolific book-illustrator, 1830-48; painted in oils, chiefly biblical subjects, from 1860.

[ix. 322]

CATTERMOLE, RICHARD (1795?-1858), miscellaneous writer; educated at Christ's College, Cambridge; B.D., 1831; curate at Brixton, Surrey, 1825-31; secretary of the Royal Society of Literature, 1833-52; vicar of Little Marlow, Buckinghamshire; published verses, sermons, and elegant extracts, 1825-46.

[ix. 324]

CATTI, TWM SHON (1630-1620?). [See JONES, THOMAS.]

CATTON, CHARLES, the elder (1728-1798), painter; successful coach-painter in London; exhibited from 1760, chiefly landscapes.

[ix. 325]

CATTON, CHARLES, the younger (1756-1819), painter; son of Charles Catton the elder [q. v.]; studied art in London; went on sketching tours in England and Scotland; exhibited, 1775-1800; emigrated to the United States, 1804.

[ix. 326]

CATTON, THOMAS (1760-1838), astronomer; of St. John's College, Cambridge; B.A., 1781; fellow and tutor; B.D., 1791; curator of the college observatory, 1791-1832; his observations published, 1853.

[ix. 325]

CATTON or CHATTODUNUS, WALTER (d. 1343), Franciscan friar of Norwich; died at Avignon. None of his works are extant.

[ix. 326]

CATTWG, DDOETH (d. 870?). [See CADOC.]

CAULFEILD, JAMES, fourth VISCOUNT and first EARL OF CHARLEMONT (1728-1799), Irish statesman; born in Dublin; succeeded to the viscounty, 1734; travelled in Italy and the Levant, 1746-54; served against the French at Carrickfergus, 1760; created Earl of Charlemont, 1763; resided in London, frequenting literary coteries, 1764-73; removed to Dublin, 1773; associate of Henry Grattan and Henry Flood; intrigued for Irish independence, 1780-2; opposed catholic emancipation and the union; wrote verses.

[ix. 326]

CAULFEILD, SIR TOBY or TOBIAS, first BARON CHARLEMONT (1668-1827), of an Oxfordshire family; served under Martin Fisher, and (1696) at Cadiz; commanded troop of horse at Newry, 1698; served at Kinsale, 1601; officer at Fort Charlemont on the Blackwater; knighted, c. 1604; receiver of Tyrone's rents, 1607-10; received grants of forfeited lands; M.P., Armagh, 1618; master of ordnance, 1616; created Baron Charlemont, 1620.

[ix. 328]

CAULFEILD, TOBY or TOBIAS, third BARON CHARLEMONT (d. 1642), M.P., Tyrone, 1639; governor of Fort Charlemont, 1641; surprised by Sir Phelim O'Neill [q. v.]; murdered.

[ix. 328]

CAULFEILD, WILLIAM, fifth BARON and first VISCOUNT CHARLEMONT (d. 1871), succeeded to barony and estates, 1842; secured the execution of Sir Phelim O'Neill [q. v.]; created viscount, 1868.

[ix. 328]

CAULFEILD, WILLIAM, second VISCOUNT CHARLEMONT (d. 1736), son of William Caulfeild, first viscount [q. v.]; attained by James II; restored by William III; served in West Indies, 1702, and under Peterborough in Spain, 1708; major-general, 1708.

[ix. 328]

CAULFIELD, JAMES (1764-1826), publisher; son of a London music-engraver; printer and compiler of book-catalogues; published numerous biographies, with engraved portraits of historical personages and criminals, 1790-1824; prevented by Edmund Malone from issuing a volume of extracts from John Aubrey's manuscripts, 1797.

[ix. 329]

CAULFIELD, RICHARD (1823-1887), Irish antiquary; B.A. Trinity College, Dublin, 1846; LL.B., 1864; LL.D., 1866; F.S.A., 1862; librarian of Royal Cork Institution, 1864, and to Queen's College, Cork, 1876; published council books of corporation of Cork, 1876, Youghal, 1878, and Kinsale, 1878, with other works.

[Suppl. I. 397]

CAUNT, BENJAMIN (1816-1861), pugilist; son of a servant of Lord Byron at Newstead; fought with William Thompson ('Bendigo'), 1836, and was beaten; beat Bendigo, 1838, and was styled 'champion'; beat John Leechman ('Brassey'), 1840, and was styled 'champion of England'; visited the United States, 1841-2; subsequently publican in London.

[ix. 331]

CAUTER, JOHN HOBART (1794-1861), miscellaneous writer; cadet in India, 1809; B.D. Cambridge, 1828; clergyman in London, Sussex, and Essex; published 'Romance of History' (India), 1836, verses, sermons, and novels.

[ix. 332]

CAUS, SALOMON DE (1576-1630). [See DE CAUS.]

CAUSTON, MICHAEL DE (d. 1396). [See CAWSTON.]

CAUSTON, THOMAS (d. 1569), composer; gentleman of the Chapel Royal; contributed church music to John Day's issues.

[ix. 332]

CAUTLEY, SIR PROBY THOMAS (1802-1871), colonel; joined Bengal artillery, 1819; served at Bhurtpore, 1825; assisted in reconstructing Doab canal, 1824-7-30; in charge of it, 1831-43; planned Ganges canal (his plans being censured by Sir Arthur Cotton [q. v.]); superintended its construction, 1843-5 and 1848-54; visited England, 1846-8; K.O.B., 1854; member of council of India, 1858-68; presented Indian fossils to the British Museum; wrote on canals and on fossils.

[ix. 333]

CAUX, JOHN DE (d. 1263). [See CALETO, JOHN DE.]

CAVAGNARI, SIR PIERRE LOUIS NAPOLEON (1841-1879), diplomatist; son of Adolphe Cavnagari, one of Napoleon's officers, by his Irish wife; born in France; entered Christ's Hospital, London, 1851; naturalised, 1857; cadet in the East India Company's service, 1858; lieutenant, 1860; political officer, 1861; employed on Afghan frontier, 1868-78; K.O.B., 1879; appointed British resident in Cabul, 1879; murdered by mutinous Afghans.

[ix. 335]

CAVALIER or CAVALIER, JEAN (1681-1740), major-general; son of a Languedoc peasant; baker at Geneva; a leader of the protestant insurgents in the Cevennes, 1702; defeated and obliged to surrender, 1704; taken before Louis XIV at Versailles; escaped into Switzerland; served under the Duke of Savoy; raised regiment in Holland for English service in Spain, 1706; severely wounded at Almanza, 1707; paid addresses to Mademoiselle Dunoyer at the Hague, 1708; pensioned by the British government; resided at Portarlington, Ireland; published his 'Memoirs,' 1726; lieutenant-governor of Jersey, 1738; major-general, 1739.

[ix. 335]

CAVALLO, TIBERIUS (1749-1809), natural philosopher; born in Naples; settled in England, before 1775; F.R.S., 1779; investigated electrical and chemical phenomena; invented electrical instruments; wrote on electricity and magnetism.

[ix. 337]

CAVAN, EARLS OF. [See LAMBART, CHARLES, first EARL, 1600-1660; LAMBART, RICHARD FORD WILLIAM, seventh EARL, 1763-1836.]

CAVE, ALFRED (1847-1900), congregational divine; studied at New College, London; B.A. London, 1870; minister at Berkhamsted, 1872, and Watford, 1876-80; professor of Hebrew and church history, Hackney College, 1880; principal and professor of theology, 1882-1900; honorary D.D. St. Andrews, 1889; published theological works.

[Suppl. I. 397]

CAVE, SIR AMBROSE (d. 1568), of Northamptonshire; knight hospitaller of St. John of Jerusalem; visited Rhodes, 1525; pensioned at the suppression of the Knights' Hospital at Shingay, Cambridgeshire, 1540; sheriff of Warwickshire and Leicestershire, 1548; M.P. for Warwickshire, 1557; chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, 1558; frequently employed on government commissions, 1568-64.

[ix. 338]

CAVE, EDWARD (1691-1764), printer; son of a Rugby cobbler; apprenticed to a London printer; printer and journalist at Norwich; married and settled in London; for a short time clerk in the post office; furnished London news to country papers, and country news to a London paper, 1725; conducted the 'Gentleman's Magazine,' 1751-54; denounced in parliament for publishing George II's answer to an address before it had even been reported from the chair, 1758; invented a spinning-machine, 1740; published many journals and books.

[ix. 338]

CAVE, JOHN (d. 1657), divine; M.A. Lincoln College, Oxford, 1619; rector of Pickwell, Leicestershire, 1629-42; persecuted by the puritans. [ix. 340]

CAVE, SIR LEWIS WILLIAM (1832-1897), judge; educated at Rugby and Lincoln College, Oxford; B.A., 1856; M.A., 1877; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1859; bencher, 1877; revising barrister, 1886; recorder of Lincoln, 1873; Q.C., 1875; justice of high court, queen's bench division, 1881; knighted, 1881; bankruptcy judge, 1883-91; edited legal works. [Suppl. i. 398]

CAVE, SIR STEPHEN (1820-1880), politician; educated at Harrow and Balliol College, Oxford; M.A., 1846; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1848; M.P., Shoreham, 1859-80; paymaster-general, 1866-8, 1874-80; published pamphlets. [ix. 341]

CAVE, WILLIAM (1637-1713), ecclesiastical historian; son of John Cave [q. v.]; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1660; D.D., 1672; vicar of Islington, 1662-89; vicar of Allhallows the Great, London, 1679-89; canon of Windsor, 1684, and vicar of Isleworth, Middlesex, 1690 till death; published 'Primitive Christianity,' 1672, and other important works on early ecclesiastical history. [ix. 341]

CAVELLUS, HUGO (1571-1626). [See MACCAGHWELL, HUGH.]

CAVENDISH (1830-1899) (pseudonym). [See JONES, HENRY.]

CAVENDISH, ADA (1839-1896), actress; first appeared at New Royalty, 1863, and subsequently played at many London theatres and in America; her parts include Juliet, Beatrice, Rosalind, and Lady Teazle. [Suppl. i. 398]

CAVENDISH, CHARLES (1620-1643), royalist general; second son of William Cavendish, second earl of Devonshire [q. v.]; travelled in the East, 1638-40; served under the Prince of Orange, 1641; volunteer in the guards; given troop after Edgehill; raised regiment of horse; stationed at Newark; given command in Nottinghamshire and Lincoln; victorious at Grantham, March 1643, Ancaster, April, and Burton-on-Trent, July 1643; defeated and slain at Gainsborough. [ix. 343]

CAVENDISH, SIR CHARLES (1591-1654), mathematician; brother of William Cavendish, first duke of Newcastle [q. v.]; accompanied Sir Henry Wotton [q. v.] to France, 1612; knighted, 1619; M.P. for Nottingham, 1624, 1628, and 1640; served for king under his brother as lieutenant-general of horse, 1642; travelled on continent, 1644-51; suffered sequestration of estates, but made submission and was admitted to compound. He was noted for his mathematical knowledge, and was acquainted with many eminent mathematicians of his day. [Suppl. i. 399]

CAVENDISH, CHRISTIANA, COUNTESS OF DEVONSHIRE (d. 1676), daughter of Edward Bruce, baron Kinloss [q. v.]; wife of William Cavendish, second earl of Devonshire [q. v.], who died 1628; zealous supporter of the royalist cause. [ix. 343]

CAVENDISH, ELIZABETH, DUCHESS OF DEVONSHIRE (1758-1824), daughter of the fourth Earl of Bristol; married John Thomas Foster; refused offer of marriage from Edmund Gibson, 1787; married the fifth Duke of Devonshire, 1809; lived latterly at Rome; subsidised editions of Horace and Virgil, 1816-19. [ix. 344]

CAVENDISH, LORD FREDERICK (1729-1803), field-marshal; third son of the third Duke of Devonshire; ensign, 1750; colonel, 1768; M.P. for Derbyshire, 1761, and for Derby, 1764-80; served in Germany, 1767; prisoner in France, 1768-80; commanded brigade in Hanover, 1760-3; major-general, 1761; field-marshal, 1796. [ix. 344]

CAVENDISH, LORD FREDERICK CHARLES (1834-1892), chief secretary for Ireland; second son of William Cavendish, seventh Duke of Devonshire [q. v.]; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1858; M.P., Yorkshire West Riding, 1866-82; chief secretary for Ireland, 1882; murdered by members of a secret political society in Phoenix Park, Dublin, 6 May. [ix. 345]

CAVENDISH, GEORGE (1600-1661?), biographer of Wolsey; in constant attendance on Wolsey, as his usher, from 1536; retired to Glemsford, Suffolk, 1530; zealous

Roman catholic; wrote Life of Wolsey, c. 1557 (published 1816). [ix. 346]

CAVENDISH, GEORGIANA, DUCHESS OF DEVONSHIRE (1767-1806), eldest daughter of the first Earl Spencer; married, 1774, the fifth Duke of Devonshire; canvassed for Fox in the Westminster election, 1784. [ix. 347]

CAVENDISH, HENRY (d. 1616), soldier and politician, eldest son of Sir William Cavendish (1505?-1567) [q. v.]; M.P. for Derbyshire, 1572; fought in the Low Countries, 1578; travelled in the East; custodian of Mary Queen of Scots. [ix. 363]

CAVENDISH, SIR HENRY (1732-1804), parliamentary reporter; M.P. for Lostwithiel, 1768-1774; took shorthand notes of the debates (now in the British Museum; partly printed, 1839-43); succeeded to baronetcy, 1776; official in Ireland, 1779. [ix. 348]

CAVENDISH, HENRY (1731-1810), natural philosopher; grandson of the second Duke of Devonshire; born at Nice; educated at Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1749-1753; a millionaire; studied mathematics; experimented in physics and chemistry, 1764; began to communicate papers to the Royal Society, 1766; discovered the constitution of water and atmospheric air before 1783; experimented on electricity, 1772 and 1776, and on the density of the earth, 1798. [ix. 348]

CAVENDISH, SIR JOHN (d. 1381), judge; pleader in 1348; serjeant-at-law, 1366; justice of common pleas, 1371; chief-justice of king's bench, 1372-81; murdered in Jack Straw's rising. [ix. 363]

CAVENDISH, LORD JOHN (1732-1796), politician; fourth son of the third Duke of Devonshire; M.A. Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1753; M.P., Weymouth, 1753; M.P., Knaresborough, 1761; M.P., York, 1768-90; chancellor of the exchequer, March to July 1782, and April to December, 1783; M.P., Derbyshire, 1794-6; friend of Edmund Burke. [ix. 353]

CAVENDISH, MARGARET, DUCHESS OF NEWCASTLE (1624?-1674), writer; youngest child of Sir Thomas Lucas, of St. John's, Colchester; maid of honour to Queen Henrietta Maria, 1643; accompanied her to Paris, 1645; married (second wife) William Cavendish, marquis (afterwards duke) of Newcastle, April 1645; lived at Paris, Rotterdam, and Antwerp in pecuniary distress; came to London, to solicit an allowance out of her husband's confiscated estates; derided by Charles II's court after the Restoration; lived in retirement; buried in Westminster Abbey; wrote and published a multitude of verses, essays, and plays, 1653-68, together with an autobiographical sketch in 'Nature's Pictures,' 1656, and a life of her husband, 1667. [ix. 355]

CAVENDISH, RICHARD (d. 1601?), politician; educated at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; employed by the Duke of Norfolk to carry letters to Mary Queen of Scots, 1568-9; witness against the duke, 1572; M.P. for Denbigh, 1572 and 1585; M.A. Cambridge, 1573; appointed by Elizabeth to a law office, but excluded by the judges, 1587; translated Euclid into English, and published a theological tract. [ix. 367]

CAVENDISH, THOMAS (1560-1592), circumnavigator; supplied and commanded a ship in Sir Richard Greenville's Virginia voyage, 9 April-18 Sept. 1586; fitted out three ships in imitation of Sir Francis Drake's 1577-9 voyage, 1586; sailed from Plymouth, 21 July 1586; touched at Sierra Leone, 21 Aug.; at Cape Frio, Brazil, 31 Oct.; discovered Port Desire, Patagonia, 17 Dec.; entered Magellan Straits, 6 Jan. 1587; reached the Pacific, 24 Feb.; captured the great treasure-ship off Cape St. Lucas, California, 14 Nov.; reached the Ladrões, 3 Jan. 1588; threaded the Eastern archipelago; sighted Cape of Good Hope, 19 March; touched at St. Helena, 8 June; reached Plymouth, 10 Sept.; planned another voyage, in conjunction with Captain John Davis [q. v.], 1591; sailed from Plymouth, 26 Aug. 1591; reached Brazil, 29 Nov.; at Port Desire, 18 March 1592; got only half-way through Magellan Straits, 21 April; started to return, 15 May; parted from Davis in the night off Port Desire, 20 May 1592; sailed eastwards towards St. Helena, and died at sea, June 1592; search for him undertaken by Davis along the Patagonian coast. His ship in the voyage of 1586 was the Desire; in the voyage of 1591 he commanded the Leicester, Davis sailing in the Desire. [ix. 358]

CAVENDISH, SIR WILLIAM (1605?-1657), statesman; agent for Henry VIII in securing the property of the monasteries at the dissolution, 1530-41; received grants of church lands from Henry VIII and Edward VI; knighted, 1546; returned to Roman catholicism under Queen Mary; treasurer of the royal chamber to Henry VIII, 1546, and to Mary, 1553; began to build Chatsworth, 1553. [ix. 363]

CAVENDISH, WILLIAM, first EARL OF DEVONSHIRE (d. 1626), second son of Sir William Cavendish (1605?-1657) [q. v.]; M.P., Newport, 1588; courtier of James I; created Baron Cavendish of Hardwicke, 1605; created Earl of Devonshire, 1618. [ix. 364]

CAVENDISH, WILLIAM, second EARL OF DEVONSHIRE (1591?-1628), second son of William Cavendish, first earl [q. v.]; pupil of Thomas Hobbes; travelled; knighted, 1609; courtier of James I; M.P. for Derby, 1621-6; succeeded to earldom, 1626; in debt, 1628. [ix. 364]

CAVENDISH, WILLIAM, DUKE OF NEWCASTLE (1592-1676), son of Sir Charles Cavendish of Welbeck, Nottinghamshire, and the heiress of the barony of Ogle, Northumberland; educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; K.B., 1610; travelled; entertained James I at Welbeck, 1619; created Viscount Mansfield, November 1620; created Earl of Newcastle, March 1625; succeeded to the Ogle estates, 1629; spent 20,000*l.* in entertaining Charles I at Welbeck, 1633, Ben Jonson writing the masques; governor of Charles, prince of Wales, 1638-41; lent Charles I 10,000*l.* and raised a troop at his own cost against the Scots, 1639; withdrew from court, 1641, to avoid prosecution for parliament for again raising troops for the king; named governor of Hull by Charles I, January 1642, but not accepted by the garrison; joined Charles I at York; sent to secure Newcastle-on-Tyne, June, and to command in the north; raised troops at his own charges; invaded Yorkshire, November 1642; raised the siege of York, and advanced southwards; forced to fall back on York, January 1643; advanced into the West Riding, but was forced back; detached troops to escort the queen to Oxford; secured all Yorkshire by the victory of Adwalton Moor, 1643; advanced as far as Lincoln; recalled to besiege Hull; raised the siege, 11 Oct. 1643; created Marquis of Newcastle, 27 Oct. 1643; sent to oppose the Scots, 1644; forced to fall back on York; fought as volunteer at Marston Moor, having vainly urged Prince Rupert to wait for reinforcements, 1644; at Hamburg, July 1644 to February 1645; in Paris, April 1645-8; married [see CAVENDISH, MARGARET, DUCHESS OF NEWCASTLE]; at Rotterdam, 1648, and Antwerp, 1648-60; for some time lived in great pecuniary difficulties, pawned his wife's jewels, and incurred heavy loans; obtained an allowance out of his confiscated estates; accompanied Charles II to London, 1660; had only part of his lands restored, having spent nearly 1,000,000*l.* in the royal service; created Duke of Newcastle, March 1665; withdrew to Welbeck; patron of Ben Jonson and Dryden. His works include plays, 1649-77, poems, and 'Methode et Invention . . . de dresser les Chevaux,' Antwerp, 1657, and 'New Method . . . to Dress Horses,' 1667. [ix. 364]

CAVENDISH, WILLIAM, third EARL OF DEVONSHIRE (1617-1684), eldest son of William Cavendish, second earl [q. v.]; pupil of Thomas Hobbes K.B., 1625; succeeded to the earldom, 1628; travelled, 1634-7; lord-lieutenant of Derbyshire, 1638-43; belonged to the court party; joined Charles I at York, 1642; attainted by parliament, 1642, and his estates sequestrated; went abroad; returned, 1645; fined by parliament, 1646; lived at his mother's house, Latimers, Buckinghamshire; lord-lieutenant of Derbyshire, 1660. [ix. 369]

CAVENDISH, WILLIAM, first DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE (1840-1707), eldest son of William Cavendish, third earl [q. v.]; styled Lord Cavendish (of Hardwicke) till 1684; educated abroad; M.P. for Derby, 1661; in Ireland, 1662; hon. M.A. Oxford, 1663; served in the fleet, 1665; envoy to France, 1669; provoked a fracas at the opera in Paris; imprisoned in the Tower for instigating a duel, 1675; a leader of the anti-court and anti-Romanist party in the Commons, 1666-78; active in the 'popish plot' proceedings, 1678-9; advocated exclusion of the Duke of York from the succession, 1680-1; made his peace with Charles II, October, 1681; succeeded to earldom, 1684; fined 30,000*l.* for brawling at court, 1685; built Chatsworth,

1687-1706; joined in inviting William of Orange to England, 1687 and 1688; arranged with the Earl of Danby to raise the north in favour of William of Orange; seized Derby and Nottingham, 1688; raised regiment of horse; escorted Princess Anne to Oxford; moved an address of welcome to the Prince of Orange, December, 1688; argued for James II's deposition, 1689; lord-lieutenant of Derbyshire, 1689; lord high steward at coronation, 1689; with William III in Flanders, 1690-2; created Duke of Devonshire, 1694; lord high steward at Anne's coronation, 1702; advocated toleration of nonconformists and the union with Scotland; of profligate private life; a patron of horse-racing. [ix. 370]

CAVENDISH, WILLIAM, fourth DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE (1720-1764), styled Marquis of Hartington till 1755; M.P. for Derbyshire, 1741-61; married, 1748, the heiress of the Cork and Burlington estates in Ireland; called to the peers as Baron Cavendish, 1761; succeeded to the dukedom, 1755; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1755-6; prime minister, 1766-7; lord chamberlain, 1757-62. [ix. 375]

CAVENDISH, SIR WILLIAM, seventh DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE (1808-1891), great grandson of William Cavendish, fourth duke [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge; M.A., 1829; honorary LL.D., 1835; M.P. for Cambridge University, 1829-31, Maltot, Yorkshire, 1831 Derbyshire, 1831, North Derbyshire, 1832-1834; succeeded his grandfather as second Earl of Burlington, 1834, and his cousin William George Spencer Cavendish, sixth duke of Devonshire [q. v.], 1858; chancellor of London University, 1836-56, of Cambridge University, 1861-91, and of Victoria University, 1880; K.G., 1858; privy councillor, 1876; liberal benefactor of scientific and industrial enterprises. [Suppl. I. 400]

CAVENDISH, WILLIAM GEORGE SPENGLER, sixth DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE (1790-1858), B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1811; succeeded to the dukedom, July, 1811; British envoy at the coronation of Nicholas, czar of Russia, 1825; lord chamberlain, 1827-8, and 1830-4; bibliophile and collector of coins. [ix. 376]

CAVENDISH-BENTINCK. [See BENTINCK.]

CAVERHILL, JOHN (d. 1781), physician; licentiate of the London College of Physicians, 1767; wrote on medical topics. [ix. 376]

CAW, JOHN YOUNG (1810?-1858), banker; educated at St. Andrews and Cambridge; banker in Manchester, c. 1828-58; published pamphlets. [ix. 376]

CAWDELL, JAMES (d. 1800), comedian in the north of England; retired, 1798; published poems and plays, 1778-98. [ix. 377]

CAWDRY, DANIEL (1588-1664), presbyterian; educated at Peterhouse, Cambridge; rector of Great Billing, Northamptonshire, 1625; member of the Westminster Assembly, 1643; ejected from his living for nonconformity, 1662; wrote against churchmen and Independents, 1645-61. [ix. 377]

CAWDRY, ZACHARY (1616-1684), divine; entered St. John's College, Cambridge, 1633; M.A., 1642; rector of Barthomley, Cheshire, 1649-84; published 'A Discourse on Patronage,' 1675. [ix. 377]

CAWLEY, WILLIAM (1602-1667), regicide; son of a rich brewer of Chichester; founded St. Bartholomew's Hospital, Chichester, 1626; M.P. Chichester, 1627; fined for refusing knighthood, 1629; M.P. Midhurst, 1640; an active member of the Long parliament; one of the king's judges; member of the council of state, 1651; M.P., 1659; excepted from pardon, 1660; withdrew to Belgium and Switzerland; his estates bestowed by crown on the Duke of York. [ix. 378]

CAWOOD, JOHN (1514-1572), printer; apprenticed in London; printed in his own name, 1549-72; appointed queen's printer to Mary, 1553, and joint queen's printer to Elizabeth, 1560; active member of the Stationers' Company. [ix. 379]

CAWSTON or CAUSTON, MICHAEL DE (d. 1395), master of Michelhouse, Cambridge; fellow of Peterhouse, Cambridge; D.D.; master of Michaelhouse after 1359; chancellor of Cambridge, 1361; benefactor of the university; dean of Chichester at some date between 1383 and 1400. [ix. 380]

CAWTHORN, JAMES (1719-1761), poet; son of a Sheffield upholsterer; usher in several country schools; of Clare Hall, Cambridge; usher in London; head-master of Tonbridge school, c. 1749; styled M.A., 1748; published 'Abelard and Heloise' in 'Poetical Calendar', 1746; his collected poems published, 1771. [ix. 380]

CAWTON, THOMAS, the elder (1605-1659), divine; educated at Queens' College, Cambridge; puritan; vicar of Wivenhoe, Essex, 1637-44; minister of St. Bartholomew's, London, 1644; opposed the execution of Charles I; imprisoned, February to August, 1649, for praying for 'King Charles II'; involved in the projected rising of 1651; fled to Holland; minister of an English congregation at Rotterdam. [ix. 381]

CAWTON, THOMAS, the younger (1636?-1677), orientalist; studied at Rotterdam and Utrecht; B.A. Merton College, Oxford, 1660; left Oxford in consequence of his nonconformity, 1662; independent minister at Westminster; published a life of his father, Thomas Cawton the elder [q. v.], 1662, also philological and theological tracts. [ix. 381]

CAXTON, WILLIAM (1422?-1491), the first English printer; born in Kent; apprenticed, 1438, to a London mercer; went, after his master's death, to Bruges, 1441; was at Bruges, in business for himself, 1446-70, visiting London, 1453, and Utrecht, 1464; at Bruges, acted as governor of the English merchants in the Low Countries, 1465-9, and was employed in negotiating commercial treaties with the Dukes of Burgundy, 1464 and 1468; began translating the French romance 'Le Recueil des Histoires de Troye', March 1469, at Bruges, and finished it, 1471, at Cologne; in the household of Margaret (sister of Edward IV), duchess of Burgundy, 1471-8; learned printing after 1471 and before 1474, perhaps at Cologne and in company of Colard Mansion; printed his 'Recuyell of the Histories of Troy', folio, probably in 1474, and 'The Game and Playe of the Chesse', another translation from French, probably in 1475, both perhaps at a press set up in 1473 by Colard Mansion at Bruges and belonging to Caxton; came to England, 1476, and continued in favour with Edward IV, Richard III, and Henry VII; established press at Westminster, from which he issued, 1477-91, nearly eighty separate books, many of them translations by himself from French romances (the first of them was the Earl of Rivers's translation of 'The Dictes and Sayings of the Philosophers', 1477). Six distinct founts of type were used by Caxton. [ix. 381]

CAY, HENRY BOULT (d. 1796), legal writer; B.A. Clare College, Cambridge, 1752; fellow, 1752-70; barrister of the Middle Temple; published supplements to the 'Abridgment' of his father, John Cay [q. v.] [ix. 390]

CAY, JOHN (1700-1757), editor of the 'Statutes'; born in Northumberland; barrister of Gray's Inn, 1724; a judge of the Marshalsea, 1750; published an 'Abridgment of the Publick Statutes' (1215-1737), 1739; and 'The Statutes at Large' (1215-1756), issued 1758. [ix. 389]

CAYLEY, ARTHUR (d. 1848), author of trite lives of Sir Walter Raleigh, 1806, and of Sir Thomas More, 1808; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1796; rector of Normanby, Yorkshire, 1814. [ix. 390]

CAYLEY, ARTHUR (1821-1895), mathematician; senior wrangler and Smith's prizeman, Trinity College, Cambridge, 1842; fellow, 1842-52, and 1876-96, and honorary fellow, 1872; called to the bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1849; practised as conveyancer; Sedlerian professor of pure mathematics, Cambridge, 1863-95; president of British Association, 1883; F.R.S., 1852; Copley medalist, 1882; member of the leading British and foreign scientific societies; contributed many valuable papers to mathematical journals. [Suppl. i. 401]

CAYLEY, CHARLES BAGOT (1823-1883), translator; son of a Russian merchant; born near St. Petersburg; educated at King's College, London, and Cambridge (B.A., 1845). His verse translations include Dante, 1851, Æschylus, 1867, Homer, 1877, and Petrararch, 1879. [ix. 390]

CAYLEY, CORNELIUS (1729-1780?), religious writer; for some years clerk in the treasury of the Prince of Wales; methodist preacher; travelled in Holland and France, 1773; published an autobiography, 1768, travels, 1777, and verses and devotional tracts. [ix. 391]

CEADDA, SAINT (d. 672), better known as CHAD; an Angle of Northumbria; disciple of St. Aidan at Lindisfarne; trained in Rathmelsige monastery, co. Louth, Ireland; called to succeed his brother Cedd [q. v.] as abbot of Lastingham, North Yorkshire, 664; consecrated at Winchester as bishop of Lindisfarne or York (in place of Wilfrith, elected but absent in Gaul), c. 665; acted as bishop, c. 666-9 (Wilfrith not claiming the see); resigned, at the instance of Archbishop Theodore, and retired to Lastingham; sent to be bishop of the Mercians, c. 670; fixed the see at Lichfield, where he built a church and cell; probably built a cell at Barrow, Lincolnshire; died of pestilence; revered as an English saint; commemorated on 2 March. [ix. 391]

CEADWALLA. [See CÆDWALLA.]

CEALLACHAN (d. 954), king of Cashel, 935-54; ravaged the neighbouring districts, 935-9; prisoner in Donegal, 941; victorious at Maghduin, 942; ancestor of the O'Callaghans. [ix. 393]

CEARBHALL (d. 888), lord of Ossory; ravaged the neighbouring districts, sometimes in alliance with the Danes, sometimes with the Irish, 845-872; chosen king of Dublin by the Danes, 876; defeated the Munstermen at Clonmel, 876. [ix. 393]

CEAWLIN (d. 593), king of the West-Saxons; fought at Beranbyrig, near Marlborough, 556; succeeded his father, Cynric, 560; took Silchester; defeated the Jutes of Kent at Wimbledon, 568; by a victory at 'Deorham', 577, conquered Gloucestershire; ravaged the upper Severn valley, 683; repulsed by the Welsh at Vale Royal, Cheshire; deprived of conquests by his nephew, Ceolric, who headed a revolt, 591; defeat at Wanborough, Wiltshire, 592; fell in battle. [ix. 394]

CECIL, ARTHUR, whose real name was ARTHUR CECIL BLUNT (1843-1896), actor; appeared with the German Reeds in 'No Cards' and 'Box and Cox', 1869, and subsequently played at many London theatres; was with John Clayton [q. v.], joint-manager of the Court Theatre. His parts include Touchstone, Sir Peter Teazle, and Tony Lumpkin. [Suppl. i. 402]

CECIL, SIR EDWARD, VISCOUNT WIMBLEDON (1572-1638), third son of Thomas Cecil, first earl of Exeter [q. v.]; served in the Low Countries, 1596-1610; captain of foot, 1599; in command of the English contingent, 1610; knighted, 1601; a favourite of the Duke of Buckingham; given, by Buckingham, command of the Spanish expedition, 1625; miserably mismanaged the operations at Cadiz, 20-29 Oct., and missed the treasure-ships; created Baron Cecil of Putney, 1626; created Viscount Wimbledon, 1626; lord-lieutenant of Surrey, 1626; held command in Holland, 1627-9; governor of Portsmouth, 1630-8. [ix. 395]

CECIL, JAMES, third EARL OF SALISBURY (d. 1693), educated at St. John's College, Cambridge; succeeded to earldom, 1669; advocated exclusion of James, duke of York, from the succession; prisoner in the Tower, 1677; made his peace with Charles II, 1679. [ix. 397]

CECIL, JAMES, fourth EARL OF SALISBURY (d. 1693), eldest son of James Cecil, third earl [q. v.]; imprisoned as a Roman catholic, 1689; imprisoned as a Jacobite, 1692. [ix. 397]

CECIL, alias SNOWDEN, JOHN (1558-1626), priest and political adventurer; educated at Trinity College, Oxford; joined Roman catholic seminary at Rheims, 1583; studied at English college, Rome, and took holy orders; at Valladolid with Father Parsons, who (1591) sent him to England; captured, subsequently becoming spy in service of Burghley and Sir Robert Cecil; acted for ten years as political agent of Scottish catholic earls in rebellion against their king; subsequently (1601) joined John Mush [q. v.], Anthony Champney [q. v.], and other priests who laid before the pope grievances against Blackwell and the Jesuits; in 1606 with Champney presented to the pope petition of English priests for episcopal government; chaplain and almoner to Margaret of Valois; died at Paris. [Suppl. i. 403]

CECIL, RICHARD (1748-1810), evangelical divine; youngest child of a wealthy London dyer; a dilettante; ordained priest, 1777; B.A. Queen's College, Oxford, 1777; curate in Lincolnshire and Leicestershire; rector of All Saints', 1777-98, and St. Thomas, Lewes, 1777-97; a popular preacher in and near London, 1780-1808; vicar of Obbham, Surrey, 1800; wrote devotional and biographical tracts, published posthumously. [ix. 398]

CECIL, ROBERT, first EARL OF SALISBURY and first VISCOUNT ORANBORNE (1663?-1812), statesman; son of William Cecil, baron Burghley [q. v.]; educated privately, being of weak health; resident in France, c. 1684-7; attached to the Earl of Derby's mission to the Spanish Netherlands, 1688; M.P. for Hertfordshire, 1689 and 1691; acted as secretary of state; knighted, 1691; secretary of state, 1696-1698; envoy to France, 1698; commissioner to try the Earl of Essex for leaving Ireland, 1690; accused by Essex of doubting Elizabeth's title, 1691; made overtures to James VI of Scotland; secured the accession of James VI to the English throne, 1693; created Baron Cecil, 1693, Viscount Oranborne, 1694, and Earl of Salisbury, 1695; forced by James I to exchange Theobalds for Hatfield, 1697; built Hatfield House; known as the 'crook-backed' earl; died deeply in debt. [ix. 400]

CECIL, THOMAS, first EARL OF EXETER and second BARON BURGHLEY (1542-1623), eldest son of William Cecil, baron Burghley [q. v.]; educated privately; lived dissolutely at Paris and in Germany, 1561-3; M.P., Stamford, 1563; served against the northern rebels, 1569; served in Scotland, 1573; knighted, 1575; served in the Low Countries, 1586, and against the Armada, 1588; succeeded to barony, 1598; president of the council of the north, 1599; helped to crush the Earl of Essex's rising, 1601; created Earl of Exeter, 1606; founded a hospital at Liddington, Rutlandshire; benefactor of Clare College, Cambridge. [ix. 404]

CECIL, THOMAS (fl. 1630), one of the few English engravers of the early seventeenth century; engraved, chiefly portraits, in London, 1627-35. [ix. 405]

CECIL, WILLIAM, BARON BURGHLEY (1520-1598), statesman; only son of a wealthy Northamptonshire squire (d. 1552), in the service of Henry VIII; educated at Grantham school; at St. John's College, Cambridge, 1535-41; studied Greek; entered Gray's Inn, 1541; allied by marriage with Sir John Cheke, of Cambridge, the Greek scholar; held the lucrative office of custos brevium in the court of common pleas, 1547-61; M.P., Stamford, 1547; secretary to Lord Protector Somerset; imprisoned in the Tower on Somerset's fall, 1549; secretary of state, 1550-3; recorder of Boston, 1551; knighted, 1551; began building Barlegh House and Wimbledon House, 1553; employed by Queen Mary to recall Cardinal Pole, 1554, and (unsuccessfully) to mediate between the French king and emperor, 1555; M.P., Lincolnshire, 1555; secretary of state, 1558-72; chancellor of Cambridge University, 1559; envoy to Scotland, 1560; his influence threatened by Elizabeth's partiality to Lord Robert Dudley (earl of Leicester in 1564); master of the court of wards, 1561; attended Queen Elizabeth on her state visits to Cambridge, 1564, and to Oxford, 1566; organised secret police to detect plots against Elizabeth, 1570; created Baron of Burghley, February 1571; lord high treasurer, 1572-98, and chief minister of Queen Elizabeth; responsible for execution of Mary Queen of Scots, 1587; founded a hospital at Stamford Baron; his correspondence preserved at Hatfield. [ix. 406]

CECILIA or CECILY (1469-1507), third daughter of Edward IV; betrothed to James, eldest son of James III of Scotland, 1474; betrothed to Alexander, duke of Albany, 1489; took sanctuary at Westminster from Richard III, 1483; surrendered to Richard VII, 1484; taken into favour by Henry VII, 1486; married John, Viscount Wells (d. 1498), c. 1487; married Thomas Kyme or Kyme, of the Isle of Wight, c. 1504. [ix. 412]

CEDD or CEDDA, SAINT (d. 664), brother of Ceadda [q. v.], with whom he is sometimes confused; an Angle of Northumbria; pupil of St. Aidan at Lindisfarne; sent to Christianise the Middle Angles, 653; sent to Essex to Christianise the East Saxons, 653; consecrated bishop of the East-Saxons, 654; founded a monastery near Maldon, and another at West Tilbury, Essex; founded and ruled the monastery at Lastingham, Yorkshire; attended the council at Whitby, 664; accepted the Roman computation of Easter; died of plague; revered as an English saint; commemorated on 7 Jan. [ix. 418]

CEDMON, SAINT (fl. 670). [See CEDMON.]

CELECELEBOH, SAINT (d. 697). [See CELIAN.]

CELESIA, DOROTHEA (1738-1790), authoress of 'Almida,' a tragedy, 1771, and 'Indolence,' a poem, 1779; daughter of David Mallet [q. v.]; married Pietro Paolo Celsia, Genoese ambassador (1756-9); resided at Genoa, 1759-90. [ix. 414]

CELESTE, MADAME, properly CELESTE-ELLIOTT (1814?-1882), actress; trained in Paris; visited America, 1827; married a Mr. Elliott there; appeared in Liverpool, 1830, London, 1831 and 1833, America, 1834-7, London, 1837-41, Liverpool, 1843, and London, 1844-74; withdrew to Paris. [ix. 415]

CELLACH, SAINT (6th cent.), bishop of Killala; otherwise CELIAN; commemorated on 1 May; eldest son of a king in Mayo; monk at Clonmacnois; cursed by St. Claran for leaving the monastery to become king; returned to monkish life; chosen bishop in Mayo with his see at Killala (Cell Alaidh); murdered by order of Guaire, king in Galway. [ix. 415]

CELLACH, SAINT (1079-1129). [See CELSUS.]

CELLIER, ALFRED (1844-1891), composer and contributor; one of children of Chapel Royal, 1855; held successively several appointments as organist; first musical director at Court Theatre, 1871; director of orchestra at Opera Comique, Manchester, 1871-5, and Opera Comique, London, 1877-9; joint-conductor with Sir Arthur Sullivan [q. v.] at Covent Garden, 1878-9; composed many comic operas, including 'Dorothy,' 1886, and 'Mountebanks' (produced posthumously, 1892); his opera 'Pandora' produced in Boston, U.S.A., 1881. [Suppl. i. 405]

CELLIER, ELIZABETH (fl. 1680), nde Dormer; married Peter Cellier, a Frenchman; embraced Romanism; midwife in London; agent for distributing alms to the 'popish plot' prisoners, 1679; acquitted, 1680, on a charge of plotting the king's murder ('the meal-tub plot'); fined and pilloried for libel in her pamphlet about her trial ('Malice defeated'); published two pamphlets on the training of midwives, 1687-8. [ix. 417]

CELLING, WILLIAM, perhaps more properly WILLIAM TILLY or SKILLING (d. 1494), born in Kent; monk at Christ Church, Canterbury; B.D. Oxford, 1458; possibly fellow of All Souls' College; prior of Christ Church, Canterbury, 1472-94; collected Latin and Greek manuscripts on the continent, c. 1473; improved the buildings of his convent; taught Thomas Linacre; envoy to Rome, 1486; commissioner in negotiations between England, France, and Brittany, 1490-1. [ix. 417]

CELSUS or CELLACH, SAINT (1079-1129), archbishop of Armagh; son of Edh, of a family which held the see hereditarily; succeeded as archbishop, September 1105; created suffragan bishops; visited in his province, collecting dues, 1106-20; mediator between Irish princes, 1107-28; presided at a synod to establish rules of conduct, 1111; attended a council to fix the boundaries of Irish dioceses, 1117; chosen bishop of Dublin, 1121, but perhaps never made good his title against his rival Gregory; taught St. Malachy, whom he recommended for his successor; robbed by the O'Ruarcas and O'Brians, 1128; commemorated on 6 April. [ix. 418]

CENNICK, JOHN (1718-1755), divine; joined methodists under Wesley, 1739; made tour among Moravian brethren in Germany, 1745; ordained deacon in Moravian church, London, 1749; published sermons and hymns. [Suppl. i. 406]

CENTLIVRE, SUSANNAH (1667?-1723), actress and dramatist; acted in the provinces, often in her own comedies; called herself S. Carroll; married, at Windsor, 1706, Joseph Centlivre, cook to Queen Anne; lived with her husband in St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, London, 1712-1723; wrote eighteen plays, chiefly comedies, 1700-22. [ix. 420]

CENTWINE or KENTEN (d. 685), king of the West-Saxons; came to the throne, 678; took the Quantock hills from the Welsh; sheltered Wilfrith for a time; benefactor of Glastonbury Abbey. [ix. 422]

CENWALH, KENWALH, or COINWALOH (d. 679), king of the West-Saxons; succeeded his father Cynegils [q. v.], 643; a pagan; put away his Mercian wife; driven from his kingdom by Penda of Mercia,

c. 645; sought asylum in East Anglia; converted to Christianity; regained his kingdom, 648; built St. Peter's, Winchester; made Agilbert bishop of Winchester, 850; defeated the Welsh at Bradford-on-Avon, 652, and annexed North Wiltshire; defeated the Welsh, 658, and annexed country from the Axe to the Parret; made Wini bishop of Winchester, 660; defeated by Wulfhere of Mercia, 661; accepted Hlothhere (Leutherius) as bishop of Winchester, 670. [ix. 423]

CENWULF or KENULF (d. 1006), abbot of Peterborough, 992; bishop of Winchester, 1005. [ix. 424]

CEOLFRIÐ or CEOLFRITH, SAINT (642-716), abbot of Wearmouth; monk at Gilling, Yorkshire, and at Ripon; priest, 669; visited Kent and Lincolnshire; prior, under Benedict Biscop [q. v.], at Wearmouth, 674; visited Rome, 678, and c. 684; abbot of Jarrow, 682; abbot of Wearmouth and Jarrow combined, 688-716; encouraged transcription of manuscripts; induced the northern Irish, 704, and the Picts, 710, to observe the Roman Easter; set out for Rome; died at Langres; commemorated on 26 Sept. [ix. 424]

CEOLNOTH (d. 870), archbishop of Canterbury, c. 833; made an alliance between Ecgbert and Æthelwulf, kings of the West-Saxons, 838; plundered by the Danes, 851; bought off the Danes, 864. [ix. 426]

CEOLRED (d. 716), king of the Mercians, 709; invaded Wessex, 715; repulsed at Wanborough, Wiltshire; oppressed the church; died insane. [ix. 426]

CEOLRIC or CEOL (d. 597), king of the West-Saxons, 592, after defeating Ceawlin [q. v.] [ix. 427]

CEOLWULF, SAINT (d. 764), king of Northumbria, 729; to him Beda dedicated his 'Historia Ecclesiastica'; dethroned and restored, 731; made Ecgbert bishop of York, 734; resigned, 737, and became a monk at Lindisfarne; his body translated from Lindisfarne to Norham; commemorated on 15 Jan. [ix. 427]

CERDIC (d. 534), king of the West-Saxons; a Saxon ealdorman; landed near Southampton, and fought against the Britons, 495; defeated the Britons, 508, and acquired South Hampshire up to the Avon; reinforced, 514; defeated the Britons at Charford, Hampshire, 519; took the title of king; defeated by the Britons at Badbury, Dorset, 520; conquered the Isle of Wight, 530. [ix. 427]

CERNACH, SAINT (fl. 450). [See CARANTACUS.]

CERVETTO, GIACOBBE (1682? - 1783), violoncellist; really named BASEVI; an Italian Jew; resided in London, 1739-83; played in the orchestra at Drury Lane. [ix. 428]

CERVETTO, JAMES (1749?-1837), violoncellist; taught by his father, Giacobbe Cervetto [q. v.]; first performed, 1780; travelled on the continent, 1764; performed in London, 1766-83; retired on his father's fortune. [ix. 429]

CESTRETON, ADAM DE (d. 1269), judge; chaplain to Henry III; master of the London domus conversorum, 1265; justice itinerant in 1268. [ix. 429]

CHABHAM or CHOBHAM, THOMAS DE (fl. 1230), theologian; sub-dean of Salisbury, 1214; author of 'Summa de Penitentia'; other works lost; confused with Bishop Thomas de Cobham [q. v.] [ix. 429]

CHABOT, CHARLES (1815-1889), expert in handwriting; born in Battersea; originally a lithographer; examined professionally the letters of Junius, identifying the handwriting with that of Sir Philip Francis, 1871. [ix. 429]

CHACEFORD or CHACEPORT, PETER (d. 1264), favourite of Henry III; a Poitevin; royal clerk, 1243; keeper of the wardrobe, 1245; rector of Ivinghoe, Buckinghamshire; archdeacon of Wells, 1250; treasurer, 1253; treasurer of Lincoln Cathedral, 1264; accompanied Henry III to France; died at Boulogne. [ix. 430]

CHAD, SAINT (d. 672). [See CRADDA.]

CHADERTON, LAURENCE (1536?-1640), theologian; son of a wealthy Roman catholic gentleman in Lancashire; disowned on becoming a protestant at Cambridge, c. 1606; entered Christ's College, Cambridge, 1606; B.A., 1607; fellow, 1608?-1676; preacher for fifty years at St. Clement's, Cambridge; B.D., 1578; chosen by Sir Walter Mildmay, the founder, to be master of Emmanuel College, 1584; a member of the Hampton Court conference, 1604; one of the translators of the authorised version, 1607-11; D.D., 1613; resigned mastership, 1622. [ix. 430]

CHADERTON, CHADDERTON, or CHATTERTON, WILLIAM (1540?-1608), bishop of Chester and of Lincoln; born in Manchester; B.A. Pembroke College, Cambridge, 1558; fellow of Christ's College, 1558; B.D., 1566; D.D., 1568; a disputant at Elizabeth's visit; agent in Cambridge for Sir William Cecil and Leicester; Lady Margaret professor of divinity, 1567-9; president of Queens' College (by court pressure), 1568-79; regius professor of divinity, 1569-80; opposed the Cambridge puritans; prebendary of York, 1574, and of Westminster, 1576; warden of Manchester College, 1580; rector of Bangor; bishop of Chester, 1579-95, carrying out court orders to suppress popery and puritanism; translated to Lincoln, 1595, where he repressed popish recusancy. [ix. 432]

CHADS, SIR HENRY DUOIE (1788?-1868), admiral; served in the Mediterranean, 1803-6; lieutenant, 1806; took part in operations leading to the capture of Mauritius, 1810; taken prisoner by the American frigate Constitution, 1812; released, 1813; served in West Indies, 1813-15; served in Burmah, 1823-7; commanded ship in East Indies, 1834-45; head of the naval gunnery school at Portsmouth, 1845-53; rear-admiral in the Baltic, 1864-5; K.C.B., 1865; admiral, 1863. [ix. 434]

CHADWICK, SIR EDWIN (1800-1890), sanitary reformer; called to bar at Inner Temple, 1830; published, 1829, article on 'Preventive Police' in 'London Review', which gained him the admiration and friendship of Jeremy Bentham; assistant commissioner for poor-law, 1832; chief commissioner, 1833; on royal commission to investigate condition of factory children, 1833; secretary to new poor-law commissioners, 1834-46; member of sanitary commission, 1839 and 1844; C.B., 1849; member of board of health, 1848-54; presented 'separate system', which was adopted for drainage of Cawnpore, 1871; knighted, 1889; published numerous pamphlets, reports, and papers. [Suppl. i. 406]

CHADWICK, JAMES (1813-1882), Roman catholic prelate; born at Drogheda; educated at Ushaw; missionary priest in the north of England; professor at Ushaw; bishop of Hexham, 1866; published devotional tracts. [ix. 435]

CHAFFERS, RICHARD (1731-1762), set up pottery fabric for blue and white earthenware at Liverpool, 1752, and became rival of Wedgwood. [Suppl. i. 409]

CHAFFERS, WILLIAM (1811-1892), authority on old plate and pottery; educated at Merchant Taylors' School; F.S.A., 1843; published 'Hall Marks on Gold and Silver Plate', 1863, and 'Marks and Monograms on Pottery and Porcelain', 1863. [Suppl. i. 409]

CHAFY, WILLIAM (1779-1843), benefactor of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge; entered King's School, Canterbury, 1788; B.A. Sidney Sussex College, 1800; fellow, 1801; B.D., 1810; master of Sidney Sussex College, 1813-1843; D.D., 1813; king's chaplain. [ix. 436]

CHAIGNEAU, WILLIAM (1709-1781), author of 'Jack Connor', an Irish novel, 1752, and of a farce; served in Flanders; army agent in Dublin. [ix. 436]

CHALK, SIR JAMES JELL (1803-1878), secretary to the ecclesiastical commission; entered the ecclesiastical commission office, 1836; secretary, 1849-71; barrister of the Middle Temple, 1839; knighted, 1871. [ix. 436]

CHALKHILL, JOHN (fl. 1600), poet; author of a pastoral, 'Thealma and Clearchus', published, 1603, by Isaac Walton, who knew him in youth. [ix. 437]

CHALKLEY, THOMAS (1675-1741), quaker; son of a Southwark tradesman; preached in the south of England, in Scotland, 1697, and in Virginia, 1698; emigrated to Philadelphia, 1700; visited Barbados, 1701; visited Great Britain, Holland, and Germany, 1707-10; travelled in America as a preacher, 1719-18; visited Barbados, 1735; died at the Virgin islands; published pamphlets, and an autobiography. [ix. 437]

CHALLICE, ANNIE EMMA (1821-1875), author of tales and historical sketches, 1847-73; née Armstrong; married John Challice [q. v.] [ix. 438]

CHALLICE, JOHN (1816-1863), physician; M.D. Edinburgh; medical officer of health at Battersea; published tracts on sanitary questions, 1848-50. [ix. 438]

CHALLINOR, Mrs. HANNAH (fl. 1870). [See WOOLLEY.]

CHALLIS, JAMES (1803-1882), astronomer; entered Trinity College, Cambridge, 1821; senior wrangler, 1825; fellow, 1826-31; rector of Papworth Everard, Cambridgeshire, 1830-52; Plumian professor of astronomy, 1836-82; director of Cambridge observatory, 1836-81; observed Neptune, without knowing it, 4 Aug. 1846; published 'Astronomical Observations made at . . . Cambridge', 1832-64; published his theory of physical forces, 1869; published his astronomical lectures, 1879; wrote on scriptural and educational topics. [ix. 438]

CHALLONER, RICHARD (1691-1781), Roman catholic prelate: son of a Sussex dissenter; befriended by Roman catholic squires; studied at Douay, 1704; priest, 1716; B.D. 1719; D.D. 1727; professor of philosophy, 1713-20; vice-president and professor of divinity, 1720-1730; missionary in London, 1730; entered into controversy with Bishop Conyers Middleton, 1737; titular bishop of Debra and coadjutor in London, 1741; bishop in charge of the London district, 1758-81; published 'Memoirs of . . . Priests . . . that have suffered Death in England, 1577-1684', 1741-2, 'Britannia Sancta; Lives of . . . Saints', 1746, the bible in English for Roman catholics, 1749-60, and numerous devotional and controversial tracts, 1708-67. [ix. 440]

CHALLMERS, ALEXANDER (1759-1834), miscellaneous writer; son of a printer; educated at Aberdeen; M.A.; journalist in London, 1777-1834; F.S.A., 1805; a voluminous editor of English prose-writers and poets; author of biographies; published 'History of the Colleges of Oxford', 1810, and 'The General Biographical Dictionary', 1812-17. [ix. 443]

CHALMERS or CHAMBERS, DAVID (1530?-1592). [See CHAMBERS.]

CHALMERS, Sir GEORGE (d. 1791), portrait-painter; born in Edinburgh of a family which had lost estates by forfeiture; travelled; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1775-90. [ix. 445]

CHALMERS, GEORGE (1742-1825), Scottish antiquary; educated at Aberdeen and Edinburgh; emigrated; lawyer at Baltimore; settled in London, 1775; published pamphlets on the American colonies, 1777-82; government clerk, 1786; published biographies of De Foe and Tom Paine; edited Scottish poets and wrote numerous Scottish biographies; his chief work, 'Caledonia: an account of . . . North Britain', 1807-24. [ix. 445]

CHALMERS, GEORGE PAUL (1836-1878), painter; a shopman; studied art at Edinburgh; exhibited in London, 1863-76; murdered by thieves in Edinburgh. [ix. 446]

CHALMERS, JAMES (1782-1853), post-office reformer; bookseller and newspaper publisher in Dundee; advocated accelerated mail service, 1825; suggested an adhesive stamp, 1834; promulgated this plan, 1837. [ix. 447]

CHALMERS, Sir JOHN (1756-1818), major-general; ensign in Madras, 1775; lieutenant, 1780; defended Coimbatore, June-November 1791; captain, 1792; major-general, 1812; K.O.B., 1814; held command in India, 1803-18; died at sea. [ix. 447]

CHALMERS, PATRICK (1802-1854), Scottish antiquary; of Queen's College, Oxford, 1818; captain of dragoons; retired to Auldar, 1826; M.P. for Montrose burghs, 1835-42; published antiquarian papers; author of 'Ancient Sculptured Monuments . . . of Angus', 1848; died at Rome. [ix. 448]

CHALMERS, THOMAS (1780-1847), theologian; educated at St. Andrews; minister of Kilmeny, Fife, 1803-15; lectured on chemistry at St. Andrews; minister of Tron parish, Glasgow, 1815-30, and of St. John's, Glasgow, 1820-3; D.D. Glasgow, 1816; visited London, 1817; professor of moral philosophy, St. Andrews, 1823-8; professor of divinity, Edinburgh, 1828-43; lectured in London,

1838; an active pioneer of the movement which led to the disruption of the Scottish Established church and to the formation of the Free church, 1843; devised the sustentation fund of the newly founded Free church; principal and divinity professor of the Free Church College, Edinburgh, 1843-7; advocated home missions; author of theological, philosophical, expository, and devotional treatises, from 1813. [ix. 449]

CHALMERS, W. A. (fl. 1798), water-colour painter; exhibited at the Royal Academy, 1790-8. [ix. 454]

CHALMERS, Sir WILLIAM (1787-1860), lieutenant-general; lieutenant, 1803; served in Sicily, 1806-7; captain, 1807; served in Portugal, 1808, at Walcheren, 1809, in the Peninsula, 1810-13, in Belgium, 1815, at Waterloo, 1815, and in France, 1815-17; major-general, 1846; knighted, 1848; lieutenant-general, 1854. [ix. 454]

CHALON, ALFRED EDWARD (1780-1860), portrait and subject painter; born in Geneva; studied art in London, 1797; exhibited, 1810-57. [ix. 455]

CHALON, JOHN JAMES (1778-1854), landscape and genre painter; born in Geneva; studied art in London, 1796; exhibited, 1806-44. [ix. 456]

CHALONER, JAMES (1603-1660), regicide; fourth son of Sir Thomas Chaloner the younger [q. v.]; of Brasenose College, Oxford, 1617; of the Middle Temple, 1619; M.P., Aldborough, Yorkshire, 1645-53; parliamentary commissioner in the Isle of Man, 1652; governor of Man, 1658; imprisoned by the army in Peel Castle, 1659. [ix. 456]

CHALONER, RICHARD (d. 1643), linen-draper, of London; hanged for share in Edmund Waller's royalist plot, 1643. [ix. 456]

CHALONER, Sir THOMAS, the elder (1521-1565), diplomatist; son of a London mercer; attached to the embassy to Spain, 1540-1; clerk to the privy council; served in Scotland and was knighted, 1547; granted Guisborough priory lands, Yorkshire, 1550, Steeple Claydon, Buckinghamshire, 1557, and other lands, 1553-61; envoy to Scotland, 1561-2, to France, 1563, to Scotland, 1566, to the emperor, 1569, the Spanish Netherlands, 1569-60, and Spain, 1561-4; wrote Latin verses (published, 1579); published translations from the Latin. [ix. 457]

CHALONER, Sir THOMAS, the younger (1561-1615), naturalist; only son of Sir Thomas Chaloner the elder [q. v.]; entered Magdalen College, Oxford, 1579; B.A. Magdalen Hall, 1582; travelled, 1580; served in France and was knighted, 1591; in Italy, 1596-7; opened alum mines on his Yorkshire estate, 1600; envoy to Scotland; accompanied James VI of Scotland to England; governor of Prince Henry, 1603, and his chamberlain, 1610; benefactor of St. Bee's School. [ix. 458]

CHALONER, THOMAS (1595-1661), regicide; third son of Sir Thomas Chaloner the younger [q. v.]; of Exeter College, Oxford, 1611; travelled; incensed with Charles I for confiscating his Yorkshire alum mines; M.P. for Richmond, Yorkshire, 1645-53; commissioner in Munster, 1647; one of Charles I's judges; councillor of state, 1651; M.P., Scarborough, 1659; excluded from pardon, 1660; died in Holland. [ix. 460]

CHAMBER or CHAMBERLAYNE, JOHN A. (d. 1489), rebel; knight of influence in the north of England; hanged at York for spreading agitation in the north against payment of a subsidy to Henry VII. [x. 1]

CHAMBER, JOHN (1470-1549). [See CHAMBERRE.]

CHAMBER, JOHN (1546-1604), astronomer; B.A. Merton College, Oxford, 1568; fellow, 1569; M.A., 1573; studied medicine; fellow of Eton, 1582; canon of Windsor, 1601; wrote against astrology, 1601. [x. 1]

CHAMBERLAIN. [See also CHAMBERLAINE, CHAMBERLAINE, CHAMBERLAYNE, CHAMBERLEN, and CHAMBERLIN.]

CHAMBERLAIN or CHAMBERLAYNE, GEORGE (1576-1634), bishop of Ypres; of the Shirburn family; born at Ghent; educated at Rome; dean of St. Bavon, Ghent; bishop of Ypres, 1626-34. [x. 1]

CHAMBERLAIN, JOHN (1553-1697), letter-writer; born in London; entered Trinity College, Cambridge, 1570; resided in or near London. His letters date from 1598 to 1626. [x. 2]

CHAMBERLAIN, JOHN HENRY (1831-1888), architect; studied architecture in offices in Leicester and London; visited Italy; much employed in Birmingham and district from 1856; patron of the Birmingham school of art and other educational institutions. [x. 2]

CHAMBERLAIN or CHAMBERLAYNE, SIR LEONARD (d. 1561), governor of Guernsey; son of Sir Edward Chamberlayne (1484?-1543?) [q. v.]; keeper of Woodstock Park, 1543; obtained grants of church-lands, 1543; sheriff of Oxfordshire and Berkshire, 1547 and 1552; knighted, 1553; an officer of the Tower, 1549-53; M.P. for Scarborough, 1558, and for Oxfordshire, 1554; governor of Guernsey, 1553-61. [x. 3]

CHAMBERLAIN, ROBERT (fl. 1640-1680), poet; a barrister's clerk; entered Exeter College, Oxford, 1637; published apophthegms and verses, 1638, a comedy entitled 'The Swaggering Damsell' and jests, 1640. [x. 4]

CHAMBERLAIN, ROBERT (fl. 1678), arithmetician; accountant of London; published 'The Accomptant's Guide,' and 'A Plaine ... Explanation of ... Arithmetick,' 1679. [x. 5]

CHAMBERLAIN, ROBERT (d. 1798?), ceramist; employed at the Worcester porcelain works, 1751-83; started business as Chamberlain & Son, Worcester, 1786. [x. 5]

CHAMBERLAIN or CHAMBERLAYNE, THOMAS (d. 1625), judge; barrister of Gray's Inn, 1585; serjeant-at-law, 1614; knighted; a judge in North Wales, 1615; chief-justice of Chester, 1616-20; justice of the king's bench, 1620-4; temporary justice of the common pleas, 1625; chief-justice of Chester, 1624-5. [x. 6]

CHAMBERLAIN, WILLIAM (d. 1807), portrait and animal painter; a Londoner; pupil of John Opie; exhibited, 1794-1802. [x. 6]

CHAMBERLAINE, JOHN (1745-1812), antiquary; keeper of the king's drawings, 1791; edited reproductions of drawings in the royal collection, 1792-1812. [x. 7]

CHAMBERLANE, ROBERT (d. 1638), theologian; an Irishman; educated at Salamanca; Franciscan lecturer at Louvain; wrote theological tracts. [x. 7]

CHAMBERLAYNE, SIR EDWARD (1470-1541), of Gedding, Suffolk; succeeded to his maternal estates, 1522. [x. 7]

CHAMBERLAYNE, SIR EDWARD (1484?-1543?), of Shirburn Castle, Oxfordshire; succeeded to his estates, 1497; keeper of Woodstock Park, 1508; served against France, 1512-14 and 1522; sheriff of Oxfordshire and Berkshire, 1518; accompanied Henry VIII to France, 1520; M.P., Wallingford, 1529; attendant on Catherine of Aragon at Kimbolton, 1533-6. [x. 7]

CHAMBERLAYNE, EDWARD (1616-1703), author; of Odington, Gloucestershire; M.A. St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, 1641; travelled, 1642-60; LL.D. Cambridge, 1671; D.C.L. Oxford, 1672; tutor to the Duke of Grafton, 1679, and to Prince George of Denmark; published 'Anglie Notitie, or the Present State of England,' 1669 (20th edition, 1702); published other pamphlets and translations. [x. 8]

CHAMBERLAYNE, SIR JAMES (d. 1699), third baronet, of Wickham, Oxfordshire; published sacred poems, 1680-1. [x. 9]

CHAMBERLAYNE, JOHN (1666-1723), miscellaneous writer; younger son of Edward Chamberlayne (1616-1703) [q. v.]; educated at Oxford, 1685, and Leyden, 1688; usher to Queen Anne and George I.; F.R.S., 1702; published a tract on 'Coffee, Tea, and Chocolate,' 1685; translated from French, Italian, and Dutch; continued his father's 'Present State of England'; published 'Oratio Dominica,' the Lord's prayer in various languages, 1716. [x. 9]

CHAMBERLAYNE, WILLIAM (1619-1689), poet; physician at Shaftesbury, Dorset; published a play, entitled 'Love's Victory,' 1658, an epic poem entitled 'Pharonnida,' 1659, and congratulatory verses to Charles II, 1660. [x. 10]

CHAMBERLEN, HUGH (fl. 1720), man-midwife and projector; eldest son of Peter Chamberlen (1601-1685) [q. v.]; accoucheur in London; translated François Mauriceau's text-book of midwifery, 1679; court physician, 1673; F.R.S., 1681; published 'Manuale

Medicum,' 1685; prosecuted for practising medicine without qualification, 1688; too late to witness the birth of the Prince of Wales, 1688; published bank scheme, 1690, and plan for paying doctors out of the taxes, 1694; withdrew to Scotland, 1699; renewed his bank scheme there, 1700; published in favour of the union, 1702; withdrew to Amsterdam; communicated the use of the midwifery forceps to Heudrick van Roonhuisen. [x. 10]

CHAMBERLEN, HUGH, the younger (1664-1728), physician; eldest son of Hugh Chamberlen the elder [q. v.]; educated at Cambridge and Leyden; M.D. Cambridge, 1689; a fashionable London physician and accoucheur. [x. 12]

CHAMBERLEN, PAUL (1635-1717), empiric; second son of Peter Chamberlen (1601-1683) [q. v.]; accoucheur in London; invented 'Anodyne Necklace,' an amulet for children teething and women in labour, recommending it in pamphlets. [x. 12]

CHAMBERLEN, PETER, the younger (1572-1626), surgeon; younger brother of Peter Chamberlen the elder [q. v.]; born at Southampton; surgeon and accoucheur in London, 1600; prosecuted for practising medicine without qualification; advocated incorporation of London midwives, 1616. [x. 14]

CHAMBERLEN, PETER, the elder (d. 1631), surgeon; son of a Paris surgeon and protestant refugee; accoucheur at Southampton; learnt the use of the forceps in midwifery and made it a family secret; came to London, 1596; court accoucheur; prosecuted for practising medicine without qualification, 1612. [x. 13]

CHAMBERLEN, PETER (1601-1683), physician and projector; son of Peter Chamberlen the younger [q. v.]; educated at Merchant Taylors' School and Cambridge; M.D. Padua, 1619; used the midwifery forceps, the family secret; F.R.C.P., 1628-49; advocated incorporation of London midwives, 1634; advocated public baths, 1648; for some time an anabaptist; physician to Charles II, 1660; published theological and other pamphlets. [x. 14]

CHAMBERLIN, MASON (d. 1787), portrait painter; originally a merchant's clerk; exhibited in London, 1760-1787. [x. 15]

CHAMBERS, DAVID, LORD ORMOND (1530?-1592), Scottish judge; educated at Aberdeen; studied theology and law in France and Italy; parson of Suddy; chancellor of Ross; lord of session, with style of Lord Ormond, 1565; partisan of Mary Queen of Scots; privy to Darnley's murder, 1567; attended Mary Queen of Scots at Langside, 1568; attainted, 1568; withdrew to Spain and France; published, 1579, 'Abbrégé des Histoires ...' a chronological summary of European history, with an appendix on Scotland; returned to Scotland, c. 1582; his attainder reversed, 1584; lord of session, 1586-92. [x. 16]

CHAMBERS, EPHRAIM (d. 1740), encyclopaedist; apprenticed to a London map-maker; published his 'Cyclopædia, or ... Dictionary of Arts and Sciences,' 1728 (two volumes folio); visited France; translated French scientific treatises. [x. 16]

CHAMBERS, GEORGE (1803-1840), marine painter, went to sea, 1813; visited the Baltic and Mediterranean; house-painter at Whithy; scene-painter in London; exhibited pictures of naval battles. [x. 17]

CHAMBERS, JOHN (d. 1566), first bishop of Peterborough; Benedictine monk at Peterborough; studied at Oxford and Cambridge; M.A. Cambridge, 1505; abbot of Peterborough, 1528; entertained Wolsey, 1530; surrendered Peterborough Abbey to the king, 1539; B.D. Cambridge, 1539; king's chaplain; bishop of Peterborough, 1541-56. [x. 18]

CHAMBERS, JOHN (1780-1839), topographer; trained as an architect; of ample private means; resided at Worcester, afterwards at Norwich; published histories of Worcestershire, 1819-20, and Norfolk, 1829. [x. 19]

CHAMBERS, JOHN CHARLES (1817-1874), warden of the 'House of Charity'; eldest son of John Chambers (1780-1839) [q. v.]; educated at Norwich school and Emmanuel College, Cambridge; M.A., 1843; curate of Sedburgh, Yorkshire, 1842; Anglican clergyman at Perth, 1846-55; vicar of St. Mary's, Soho, and warden of the 'House of Charity,' Soho, 1856-74; published sermons. [x. 18]

CHAMBERS, JOHN GRAHAM (1843-1883), athlete and journalist; at Eton, 1866; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1866; a university athlete and oarsman; patron of athletics; contributor to the 'Standard'; editor of 'Land and Water,' 1871-83. [x. 20]

CHAMBERS, RICHARD (1588?-1658), London merchant; opposed levy of tonnage and poundage without sanction of parliament, 1628; illegally imprisoned by the king, 1629-36; again imprisoned for resisting ship-money, 1636; voted compensation by parliament, but was never paid; alderman of London, 1642-9; surveyor of customs, London, 1648-9; imprisoned for refusing to recognise the Commonwealth, 1649-51; died poor. [x. 21]

CHAMBERS, ROBERT (1671-1624?), Roman catholic priest; born in Yorkshire; at Rheims, 1582; at Rome, 1593; confessor at Brussels, 1599-1623; died in England; published devotional tracts. [x. 21]

CHAMBERS, SIR ROBERT (1737-1803), Indian judge; exhibitor of Lincoln College, 1764, and fellow of University College, Oxford, 1761; B.O.L., 1768; Vinerian professor of law, 1762-77; friend of Dr. Samuel Johnson, 1768; principal of New Inn Hall, Oxford, 1766-1803; a judge of the supreme court of Bengal, 1774; showed great weakness in the trial of Nuncomar, 1776; knighted, 1778; chief-justice in Bengal, 1789-99; died in Paris. His collection of Sanskrit MSS. is now at Berlin. [x. 22]

CHAMBERS, ROBERT (1802-1871), publisher and author; educated at Peebles and in Edinburgh till 1816; clerk; opened bookstall, c. 1818; founded with his brother the publishing firm of W. & R. Chambers, Edinburgh; attracted notice by his 'Traditions of Edinburgh,' 1823; wrote and issued a multitude of books on Scottish history, biography, and literature, 1824-67; established 'Chambers's Journal,' 1832; wrote and published, anonymously, 'Vestiges of Creation,' 1844; hon. LL.D. St. Andrews, 1861; compiled 'Book of Days,' an antiquarian miscellany, 1862-4. [x. 23]

CHAMBERS, ROBERT (1832-1888), publisher; son of Robert Chambers (1802-1871) [q. v.]; editor of 'Chambers's Journal,' 1874; took active part in production of 'Chambers's Encyclopedia,' 1859-68. [Suppl. 1. 409]

CHAMBERS, SABINE (1560?-1633), jesuit; born in Leicestershire; M.A. Broadgates Hall, Oxford, 1583; joined jesuits at Paris, 1587; theological lecturer at Dôle; missionary in London, 1609-33; published devotional tracts. [x. 25]

CHAMBERS, SIR THOMAS (1814-1891), recorder of London; LL.B. Clare Hall, Cambridge, 1846; called to bar at Middle Temple, 1840; bench, 1861; treasurer, 1872; Q.C., 1861; common serjeant, 1867; recorder of city of London, 1878; knighted, 1872; liberal M.P. for Hertford, 1852-7, and for Marylebone, 1868-85; published legal writings. [Suppl. 1. 410]

CHAMBERS, SIR WILLIAM (1736-1796), architect; son of a Scottish merchant at Stockholm; supercargo on a Swedish ship sailing to China, 1742-4; studied architecture in Italy and Paris; settled as architect in London, 1755; employed at Kew Gardens, 1757-62; published 'Treatise of Civil Architecture,' 1759; a Swedish knight, 1771; satirised for his ideas on Chinese gardening, 1772; designed Somerset House, 1778. [x. 26]

CHAMBERS, WILLIAM (1800-1883), publisher and author; apprenticed to an Edinburgh bookseller, 1814; opened bookstall, 1819; joined with his brother Robert Chambers (1802-1871) [q. v.] in founding the publishing house of W. & R. Chambers, Edinburgh; issued a multitude of cheap educational works; issued 'Chambers's Encyclopedia,' 1859; published notes of travel, tales, &c.; lord provost of Edinburgh, 1868-9; hon. LL.D. Edinburgh, 1872; presented a public library to Peebles; restored St. Giles's, Edinburgh. [x. 27]

CHAMBERS, WILLIAM FREDERICK (1786-1855), physician; born in India; came to England, 1793; educated at Westminster School; M.A. Cambridge, 1811; M.D. Cambridge, 1818; studied medicine in London and Edinburgh; physician to St. George's Hospital, London, 1816-39; an eminent consulting physician; retired, 1848. [x. 29]

CHAMBRÉ, SIR ALAN (1739-1823), judge; barrister, of Gray's Inn, 1767; recorder of Lancaster, 1796; serjeant-at-law, 1799; baron of the exchequer, 1799; justice of the common pleas, 1800-15. [x. 80]

CHAMBRÉ, JOHN (1470-1549), physician; fellow of Merton College, Oxford, 1492; M.D. Padua, 1506; physician to Henry VII and Henry VIII; an original member of the College of Physicians, 1518; rector of Titchmarsh, Northamptonshire, 1490, of Great Bowden, Leicestershire, 1508, and of Aller, Somerset, 1522-49; prebendary of Lincoln, 1494-1549; warden of Merton College, 1525-44; dean of St. Stephen's, Westminster; M.D. Oxford, 1531. [x. 30]

CHAMBRÉ, WILLIAM DE (fl. 1365?), probable author of a Latin biography of Bishop Richard de Bury. [x. 81]

CHAMIER, ANTHONY (1725-1780), friend of Dr. Samuel Johnson; born in London; of French extraction; government official; deputy secretary at war, 1772; under-secretary of state, 1775; M.P., Tamworth, 1778. [x. 32]

CHAMIER, FREDERICK (1796-1870), novelist; entered navy, 1809; lieutenant, 1815; served, chiefly in Mediterranean, 1810-27; captain, 1856; published nautical novels, 1832-41, a continuation of James's 'Naval History,' 1837, and notes of travel, 1849-55. [x. 32]

CHAMPAIN, SIR JOHN UNDERWOOD BATEMAN (1835-1887). [See BATEMAN-CHAMPAIN.]

CHAMPION, ANTHONY (1725-1801), poet; educated at Eton, 1739, and Oxford, 1743; barrister of the Middle Temple; M.P. for St. Germans, 1764, and for Liskeard, 1761-8; wrote verses. [x. 33]

CHAMPION, JOHN GEORGE (1815?-1854), botanist; ensign, 1831; served in the Ionian islands, Ceylon, and (1847-50) Hongkong; brought plants to England, 1850, and gave them to Kew herbarium; wounded at Inkermann, 1854; lieutenant-colonel; died at Scutari. [x. 33]

CHAMPION, JOSEPH (fl. 1762), calligrapher; pupil of Charles Snell, penman; schoolmaster in London; published text-books of arithmetic and penmanship, 1733-62. [x. 33]

CHAMPION, RICHARD (1743-1791), ceramist; merchant's clerk in Bristol, 1762; commenced making china, 1768; manager of William Cookworthy's Bristol china works, 1770; carried on the works in his own name, 1773-81; a friend of Edmund Burke; government official, 1782-4; emigrated to Carolina. [x. 34]

CHAMPION, THOMAS (d. 1619). [See OAMPION.]

CHAMPNEY, ANTHONY (1569?-1643?), controversialist; born in Yorkshire; studied at Rheims, 1590, and Rome, 1593; D.D. and fellow of the Sorbonne, Paris; vice-president and divinity lecturer at Douay, 1619-26; confessor at Brussels, 1626; returned to Douay, 1628; missionary in England; published controversial tracts, 1601-23; wrote against the validity of Anglican orders, 1616. [x. 35]

CHAMPNEYS, JOHN (fl. 1548), a London layman; prosecuted by Archbishop Ormer for Calvinistic opinions expressed in his published works. [x. 36]

CHAMPNEYS, JOHN (d. 1556), lord mayor of London; skinner, of London; lord mayor, 1534; knighted; became blind. [x. 36]

CHAMPNEYS, WILLIAM WELDON (1807-1875), dean of Lichfield; entered Brasenose College, Oxford, 1824; M.A. and fellow, 1831; curate of St. Ebbe's, Oxford, 1831; rector of St. Mary's, Whitechapel, London, 1837-60; canon of St. Paul's, 1861; rector of St. Pancras, London, 1860; dean of Lichfield, 1868-75; published sermons and religious biographies. [x. 36]

CHANOELLOR, RICHARD (d. 1556), navigator; sailed to the Levant, 1550; given command of a ship in Sir Hugh Willoughby's [q. v.] expedition to discover a north-east passage to India, 1553; reached Archangel; visited the Russian court at Moscow; sailed back from Archangel, 1554; revisited Archangel and Moscow, 1555; wrecked on the Aberdeenshire coast on his return. [x. 37]

CHANCY or CHAWNEY, MAURICE (d. 1581). [See CHAUNCY.]

CHANDLER, ANNE (1740-1814). [See Candler.]

CHANDLER, BENJAMIN (1737-1786), surgeon; practised medicine at Canterbury; wrote on 'Inoculation,' 1767, and 'Apoplexies,' 1785. [x. 38]

CHANDLER, EDWARD (1668?-1750), bishop of Durham; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1693; D.D., 1701; prebendary of Lichfield, 1697, Salisbury, 1703, and Worcester, 1706; bishop of Lichfield, 1717; bishop of Durham, 1730-50; published sermons and controversial treatises. [x. 38]

CHANDLER, HENRY WILLIAM (1828-1889), scholar; B.A. Pembroke College, Oxford, 1852; fellow, 1853; M.A., 1855; Waynflete professor of moral and metaphysical philosophy, 1867-89; curator of Bodleian Library, 1884. His works include 'Practical Introduction to Greek Accentuation,' 1864, and catalogue of (1868) and chronological index to (1878) editions of Aristotle's 'Nicomachean Ethics.' [Suppl. i. 410]

CHANDLER, JOHANNA (1823-1875), philanthropist; sold work and collected subscriptions, 1856-9, to found a hospital for paralytics in London. [x. 38]

CHANDLER, JOHN (1700-1780), apothecary; published medical tracts, 1729-61. [x. 39]

CHANDLER, J. W. (d. 1805?), portrait painter; exhibited in London, 1787-91; removed to Aberdeenshire, 1800, and Edinburgh; died insane, c. 1805. [x. 39]

CHANDLER, MARY (1687-1745), writer of a metrical 'Description o' Bath' (sixth edition, 1744); shopkeeper in Bath, 1706-44. [x. 39]

CHANDLER, RICHARD (d. 1744), printer and bookseller; in partnership with Caesar Ward in London, York, and Scarborough; published 'The History . . . of the House of Commons . . . to 1743 (fourteen volumes), 1742-4; failed; committed suicide. [x. 39]

CHANDLER, RICHARD (1738-1810), classical antiquary and traveller; educated at Winchester; demy of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1757, and fellow, 1770; M.A., 1761; D.D., 1773; published fragments of the Greek lyricists, 1759, and 'Marmora Oxoniensia,' 1763; travelled, for the Dilettanti Society in Asia Minor and Greece, 1764-6; published his results in 'Ionian Antiquities,' 1769, 'Inscriptions Antiquae,' 1774, and 'Travels,' 1775-6; vicar of East Worthingham, Hampshire, 1779, and of Tilehurst, Berkshire, 1800-10; travelled in Switzerland and Italy, 1765-7; published 'History of Ilium,' 1802; wrote 'The Life of (bishop) Waynflete' (published 1811). [x. 40]

CHANDLER, SAMUEL (1698-1766), theologian; educated at Gloucester and Leyden; minister of a presbyterian congregation at Peckham, 1716; bookseller; non-conformist minister at the Old Jewry, 1726-66; hon. D.D. Edinburgh; published pamphlets against deism, 1725-62, and against Roman catholicism, 1732-45, as well as other controversial tracts and sermons. [x. 42]

CHANDLER or CHAUNDLER, THOMAS (1418?-1490). [See CHAUNDLER.]

CHANDOS, DUKE OF (1673-1744). [See BRYDGES, JAMES.]

CHANDOS, BARONS. [See BRYDGES, SIR JOHN, first BARON, 1490?-1556; BRYDGES, GREY, fifth BARON, 1579?-1621; BRYDGES, GEORGE, sixth BARON, d. 1655.]

CHANDOS, SIR JOHN (d. 1370), soldier; present at the siege of Cambrai, 1357, and the battle of Ocrey, 1346; K.C., c. 1349; saved the Black Prince's life at Poitiers, 1356; granted lands in Lincolnshire and the Countain; Edward III's lieutenant in France, 1380; constable of Guienne, 1362; won the battle of Auray, Brittany, 1364; fought at Navarrete, Spain, 1367; withdrew from Guienne, 1368; recalled, 1368; seneschal of Poitiers, 1369; died of his wounds at Mortemer. [x. 43]

CHANDOS, SIR JOHN (d. 1428), of Herefordshire. [x. 44]

CHANNELL, SIR WILLIAM FRY (1804-1873), judge; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1827; serjeant-at-law, 1840; baron of the exchequer, 1857; knighted, June 1867. [x. 44]

CHANTRY, SIR FRANCIS LEGATT (1781-1841), sculptor; son of a carpenter; grocer's boy in Sheffield; apprentice to a Sheffield wood-carver, 1797-1802; learned drawing, stone-carving, and painting in oil; portrait painter in Sheffield, 1802, and continued his visits there till 1808; resided chiefly in London from 1802, studying art, painting portraits, and practising wood-carving; exhibited pictures at the Royal Academy, 1804-7; worked chiefly at statuary from 1804; exhibited statues, 1809; paid by George IV three hundred guineas for his bust, 1822; knighted, 1835; bequeathed his property to the Royal Academy. [x. 44]

CHAPLEAU, SIR JOSEPH ADOLPHE (1840-1898), Canadian statesman; born at Sainte Thérèse de Blainville, in province of Quebec; called to bar of Lower Canada, 1861; Q.C., 1873; conservative member for county of Terrebonne in provincial parliament, 1867-82, and in Canadian House of Commons, 1882-92; solicitor-general, 1873-4; premier and minister of agriculture and public works, 1879; secretary of state for Canada, registrar-general and privy councillor, 1882; lieutenant-governor of Quebec, 1892; K.C.M.G., 1896. [Suppl. i. 411]

CHAPMAN, EDMUND (A. 1733), surgeon; a country accoucheur, 1708; practitioner in London, 1733; published a treatise on midwifery. [x. 47]

CHAPMAN, FREDERIC (1823-1895), publisher; entered, 1834, house of Chapman & Hall; partner, 1847, and head of firm, 1864; purchased (1870) copyright of Dickens's works, many of which the firm had published; projected and published 'Fortnightly Review,' 1865; published works for the Brownings, Lord Lytton, Trollope, and Mr. George Meredith. [Suppl. i. 412]

CHAPMAN, SIR FREDERICK EDWARD (1815-1893), general; educated at Royal Military Academy, Woolwich; second lieutenant, royal engineers, 1835; lieutenant-colonel, 1859; lieutenant-general and colonel-commandant, 1872; general, 1877; made survey for defences of Dardanelles, 1854; directed operations during latter part of siege of Sebastopol; O.B., 1855; K.O.B., 1867; governor and commander-in-chief of Bermuda, 1867-70; inspector-general of fortifications and director of works at war office, 1870-5; G.C.B., 1877. [Suppl. i. 413]

CHAPMAN, GEORGE (1559?-1634), poet; nothing known of his education; published 'The Shadow of Night' (hymns), 1594, and 'Ouid's Banquet of Sense' and other poems, 1595; completed Marlowe's 'Hero and Leander,' 1598; said to have been imprisoned for satirising James I's Scottish followers, 1605; mentioned by the poet John Davies of Hereford as having lived in his later days in straitened circumstances; contributed to plays by Ben Jonson and Shirley. Chapman's first known play, 'The Blind Beggar of Alexandria,' appeared 1596, and was printed in 1598; the comedies 'All Fools' (printed 1608) and 'An Humorous dayes Myrth' belong to 1599, as also other plays now lost. The bulk of his dramas appeared between 1606 and 1612. Chapman published a specimen of his rhyming fourteen-syllable version of the 'Iliad' in 1598, and the whole 'Iliad' in 1611, adding the 'Odyssey' (rhyming ten-syllable) in 1614, and the hymns &c. in 1624. Translations by him from Petrarch appeared in 1612, from Musæus in 1616, Hesiod's 'Georgicks' in 1618, and a satire of Juvenal in 1629. He wrote also copies of verses for his friends' books, court poems, and a masque (1614). His collected works appeared in 1873-5. [x. 47]

CHAPMAN, GEORGE (1728-1806), author of tracts on education; M.A. Aberdeen, 1741, and LL.D.; taught school in Dalkeith, 1747, Dumfries, 1751-74, and Banff; was afterwards a printer in Edinburgh. [x. 53]

CHAPMAN, HENRY SAMUEL (1803-1881), colonial judge; emigrated to Canada, 1823; newspaper editor in Montreal, 1833-4; barrister of the Middle Temple, 1840; judge in New Zealand, 1842-53; barrister and member of the legislature at Melbourne, 1844-65; judge in New Zealand, 1865-77; died at Dunedin; wrote on legal and economical topics. [x. 54]

CHAPMAN, JOHN (1704-1784), divine; educated at Eton; fellow of King's College, Cambridge; M.A., 1731; D.D. Oxford, 1741, rector of Smeeth, Kent, 1738, and of Saltwood, 1739-41, and of Mersham, 1744; archdeacon of Sudbury; presented himself to the precentorship of Lincoln, but was ejected, 1760; wrote on classical antiquities and controversial divinity. [x. 54]

CHAPMAN, JOHN (1801-1854), political writer; bred as a clockmaker at Loughborough, Leicestershire; joined baptists, 1822; opened factory for spinning machinery, 1822; failed in business, 1834; withdrew to London; edited the 'Mechanic's Magazine'; patented improvements on the hansom cab, 1836; wrote much for the newspapers; projected railway and irrigation schemes in India; published several treatises on Indian finance and administration. [x. 56]

CHAPMAN, JOHN (1822-1894), physician, author and publisher; apprenticed as watchmaker at Workop, and was in business in Adelaide; studied medicine in Paris and at St. George's Hospital, London; publisher and bookseller in London; editor and proprietor of 'Westminster Review,' 1851; graduated in medicine at St. Andrews, 1857, and practised as physician; wrote medical and other works. [Suppl. i. 414]

CHAPMAN, MARY FRANCIS (1838-1884), novelist; published 'Marry Bertrand,' 1856, and other novels, under the pseudonym J. O. Ayrtton. Her last novel, 'The Gift of the Gods' (1879), appeared under her own name. [x. 56]

CHAPMAN, SIR STEPHEN REMNANT (1776-1851), military engineer; educated at Woolwich; entered royal engineers, 1793; captain, 1805; served in Holland, 1799, Denmark, 1807, and Portugal, 1809; secretary to the master-general of the ordnance, 1810-25; lieutenant-colonel, 1812; secretary at Gibraltar, 1828-31; knighted, 1831; governor of the Bermudas, 1831-9; lieutenant-general, 1846. [x. 57]

CHAPMAN, THOMAS (1717-1780), ecclesiastic; fellow of Christ's College, Cambridge; master of Magdalene College, Cambridge, 1746; D.D., 1749; rector of Kirby-over-Blow, Yorkshire, 1749; prebendary of Durham, 1760; published a classical tract. [x. 57]

CHAPMAN, WALTER (1473?-1538?). [See CHEPMAN.]

CHAPMAN, WILLIAM (1749-1832), engineer; constructed canals in Ireland, and docks in England and Scotland; wrote on canal navigation and the corn laws. [x. 57]

CHAPONE, HESTER (1727-1801), essayist; née Mulso; married (1760) one Chapone (d. 1761), an attorney; friend of Samuel Richardson; published verses and tales, 1760-3, and essays, 1773-7. Her 'Works' and 'Posthumous Works' appeared in 1807. [x. 58]

CHAPPEL, WILLIAM (1682-1649), bishop of Cork; of Christ's College, Cambridge, 1699; fellow, 1607; for some time college tutor of John Milton; patronised by William Laud; dean of Cashel, 1633; provost of Trinity College, Dublin, 1637-40; treasurer of St. Patrick's, Dublin, 1636-8; bishop of Cork and Ross, 1638; imprisoned at Dublin, 1641, and at Tenby, Pembrokeshire, 1642; withdrew to Nottinghamshire. [x. 59]

CHAPPEL, WILLIAM (1809-1888), musical antiquary; managed, 1834-43, music publishing business, of which his father, Samuel Chappell (d. 1834), had become sole partner, 1828; published 'Collection of National English Airs,' 1838; F.S.A., 1840; one of founders of Percy Society and Musical Antiquarian Society; joined publishing business of Cramer & Co., 1846; retired, 1861; vice-president of Musical Association, 1874. His works include the first volume of a 'History of Music,' 1874. [Suppl. i. 415]

CHAPPELOW, LEONARD (1683-1768), orientalist; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1716; fellow, 1717-31; rector of Horemead, Hertfordshire; professor of Arabic, 1720; published an Arabic grammar, 1730, translations, and 'Commentary on the Book of Job,' 1762. [x. 61]

CHAPPINGTON or CHAPINGTON, JOHN (d. 1606), organ-builder; built an organ for St. Margaret's, Westminster, 1596, and for Magdalen College, Oxford, 1597. [x. 61]

CHAPPLE, SAMUEL (1775-1833), organist; lost his sight before 1785; learned music at Exeter; organist of Ashbury Church, 1796-1833; published music. [x. 61]

CHAPPLE, SIR WILLIAM (1677-1745), judge; M.P., Dorchester, 1722-37; serjeant-at-law, 1724; judge in North Wales, 1728; knighted, 1729; justice of the king's bench, 1737-45. [x. 62]

CHAPPLE, WILLIAM (1718-1781), topographer; self-taught; surveyor's clerk in Exeter, 1738; land-steward to the Courtenay family; compiled vocabulary of Exmoor dialect, 1746; projected recension of Riddon's 'Survey of Devon' (partly printed, 1785). [x. 62]

CHARD, GEORGE WILLIAM (1765?-1849), organist; chorister of St. Paul's, London; lay-clerk of Winchester Cathedral, 1787; organist of Winchester Cathedral, 1802-49, and of Winchester College, 1832-49; Mus. Doc. Cambridge, 1812. [x. 63]

CHARD, JOHN ROUSE MERRIOTT (1847-1897), hero of Rorke's Drift; educated at Royal Military Academy, Woolwich; lieutenant, royal engineers, 1868; lieutenant-colonel, 1893; colonel, 1897; served in Zulu war, 1878; attached to Brigadier-general Glyn's column; defended Rorke's Drift, 22-23 Jan. 1879, with a force numbering 139, against about 3,000 Zulus; received Victoria cross; commanding royal engineers at Singapore, 1892-6. [Suppl. i. 416]

CHARDIN, SIR JOHN (1643-1713), traveller; born in Paris; a wealthy jeweller; travelled as a jewel merchant through Turkey to Persia and India, 1664-70 and 1671-7; published notes of his travels, 1671, 1686, and 1711; protestant refugee, 1681; jeweller to the English court; knighted, 1681; F.R.S., 1682; envoy to Holland, 1684; his biblical illustrations incorporated in Thomas Harmer's 'Observations on . . . Scripture,' 1776. [x. 63]

CHARDON, CHARLTON, or CHARLTON, JOHN (d. 1601), bishop of Down and Connor; fellow of Exeter College, Oxford, 1565-8; M.A., 1572; schoolmaster at Workop, Nottinghamshire, 1571; vicar of Heavitree, Exeter, 1571; D.D., 1586; bishop of Down and Connor, 1596; warden of Youghal College, 1598; published sermons and translations. [x. 64]

CHARITE, WILLIAM (1422-1502?), prior of St. Mary's Abbey, Leicester; compiled rent-roll and cartulary of the abbey. [x. 65]

CHARKE, CHARLOTTE (d. 1760?), actress and writer; youngest daughter of Colley Cibber [q. v.]; amused herself with masculine pursuits; married Richard Charke, a theatrical musician, c. 1729; separated from him, c. 1730; first appeared on the stage, 1730; performed in various London companies, chiefly in male parts, till 1737; afterwards employed at puppet-shows and low theatres; attempted management of Haymarket Theatre, 1745; published an autobiography, 1755; wrote plays and novels. [x. 65]

CHARKE, WILLIAM (fl. 1580), puritan; fellow of Peterhouse, Cambridge; expelled for nonconformity, 1572; wrote against Edmund Campion [q. v.], 1580; held disputation with Campion in the Tower; preacher to Lincoln's Inn, 1581-93. [x. 67]

CHARLEMONT, first EARL OF (1728-1799). [See CAULFEILD, JAMES.]

CHARLEMONT, VISCOUNTS OF. [See CAULFEILD, WILLIAM, first VISCOUNT, d. 1671; CAULFEILD, WILLIAM, second VISCOUNT, d. 1726; CAULFEILD, JAMES, fourth VISCOUNT, 1728-1799.]

CHARLEMONT, BARONS. [See CAULFEILD, SIR TOBY, first BARON, 1565-1627; CAULFEILD, TOBY, third BARON, d. 1642; CAULFEILD, WILLIAM, fifth BARON, d. 1671.]

CHARLES I (1600-1649), king of Great Britain and Ireland; second son of James VI of Scotland and Anne of Denmark; born at Dunfermline; created Duke of Albany, December 1600; brought to England, 1604; created Duke of York, 1605; a sickly child; became heir-apparent, 1612; created Prince of Wales, November 1616; negotiation for his marriage with Princess Christina of France broken off, 1616; match between him and Princess Maria of Spain formally proposed, 1617, dropped, 1618; went to Madrid to urge his suit, February, 1623, but returned, October, finding the religious difficulty insurmountable; betrothed to Princess Henrietta Maria of France, December 1624, he and his father pledging themselves to toleration for all English catholics; succeeded to the throne, 27 March 1625; married by proxy, May; received his bride at Canterbury, June 1625; refused by his first parliament, who distrusted the Duke of Buckingham, supplies equal to the undertakings into which he and the favourite rashly plunged; to help the Elector Palatine, equipped by his personal credit an English force to be placed in command of the German adventurer, Ernst von Mansfeld, 1625; promised a subsidy to Christian IV of Denmark to make war on the German catholic states, but was unable to pay, Christian being subsequently routed (August 1626); enabled by the help of loans and pawning the crown jewels to fit out an expedition against Cadiz, which miserably failed, October 1626; lost in a storm a second fleet, obtained by levying ships from the coast-counties; sent an expedition to relieve the protestants of Rochelle, which (1627) failed shamefully, peace being concluded with France, 1629, and with Spain, 1630; out of touch with English sentiment, which as reflected in the houses of parliament was in respect of doctrine overwhelmingly Calvinistic, and in respect of policy anti-Romanist; repudiated the pro-Romanist clauses of his marriage treaty, 1626, but was reasonably suspected of favouring catholics; promoted Arminian clergy, and prevented parliament from prosecuting them, 1625; forbade preaching in favour of Calvinist dogmas, 1629; had recourse to extraordinary expedients for obtaining supplies, exacting forced loans, and removing the judges who dissented from his measures; involved by his foreign, domestic, and ecclesiastical policy in quarrels with his parliaments; his first parliament, which met, June 1625, dissolved in August, in consequence of its attacks on Buckingham and the king's Roman catholic leanings; dissolved in June 1626, after a four months' session, his second parliament, which, in spite of the devices of making the king's chief opponents sheriffs and imprisoning others, pressed charges against Buckingham; signed the statement of grievances which his third parliament, led by Sir Thomas Wentworth, submitted (the 'petition of right'), June 1628; opposed by Commons for his levy of taxes without parliamentary grant, and his ecclesiastical policy; dissolved parliament, 10 March 1629; governed without parliament for eleven years; levied tonnage and poundage, 1629; exacted fines for not taking up knighthood, 1630, and for encroaching on forest lands; raised money by granting monopolies, and by demanding ship-money from the seaports, 1634, and from the inland counties, 1635; showed marked favour to the papal envoys at the queen's court, 1634-7; supported Laud in his severe measures to enforce Arminian doctrine and church ceremonies on the puritan party in the church, 1633-7; obtained verdict in the ship-money case against John Hampden, 1638; was crowned in Scotland, 18 June 1633, giving offence by the episcopal ceremonial he required; caused great irritation by a fruitless order to Scottish ministers to use the surplice; riots in Edinburgh caused by his attempt (1637) to enforce the use of a liturgy, drawn up under Laud's influence; affronted by the signing of the 'national covenant', 1638, and the abolition of episcopacy by the general assembly at Glasgow, November 1638; collected troops, and invaded Scotland, May 1639; compelled by want of funds to sign the treaty of Berwick, 1639; summoned parliament (April 1640), hoping to obtain supplies for renewing war with Scotland; dissolved it, 5 May 1640, on its demanding, under leadership of John Pym, redress of grievances; elated by Strafford's success in raising an army in Ireland; lost Newcastle and Durham, which were occupied by the Scots, who on the invitation of parliament had crossed the Tweed, 1640; advised, by a council of peers convoked at York, to negotiate with the Scots and summon parliament, 24 Sept. 1640; defied by the Long parliament which met, 3 Nov. 1640, and at once attacked Strafford and Laud; plotted to save Strafford, but finally assented to his execution, May 1641, and pledged himself not to dissolve this parliament except by its own vote; indirectly caused the formation of two parties in the Commons, a party in favour of moderate episcopacy, and an extreme party which desired to abolish bishops and the prayer-book; went to Scotland, seeking support against the extremists, August 1641; discredited by a plot formed among his courtiers to murder the Scottish leaders ('the Incident'); appealed for help to the Irish catholic peers, and was in consequence generally supposed privy to the Ulster massacres, October 1641; well received by London on his return, November 1641; resolved to resist the parliament's demands for a reasonable ministry and church reform; tried to seize 'the five members' in the House of Commons, 4 Jan. 1642; left Whitehall to collect troops in the north, 10 Jan. 1642; defeated war at Nottingham, 22 Aug. 1642; pushed aside the parliamentary army at Edgehill, 28 Oct., advanced as far as Brentford, November, but withdrew to winter in Oxford; formed plan, 1643, for Hopton to advance on London from the west, Newcastle through the eastern counties, and Charles himself from Reading; balked; carried on fruitless negotiations during the winter; entertained design, 1644, of operating from Oxford and attacking the parliamentary army in detail, a design which came to nothing through Rupert's defeat at Marston Moor (2 July); conducted fruitless negotiations at Uxbridge, January-February, 1645; vainly tried to obtain large forces from Ireland and from Lorraine; cheered by Montrose's success in the highlands, September 1644-February 1645; his main army crushed at Naseby, 14 June 1645; again sought help from Ireland and France; left Oxford; surrendered to the Scots at Newark, 5 May 1646, and was conducted to Newcastle, 13 May; tried to negotiate separately with the Scots and with parliament, parliament meanwhile coming to terms with the Scots; taken by parliamentary commissioners to Holmby House, January 1647; tried to get terms from parliament, unfavourable to the army; taken in charge by Joyce's troopers, 4 June, and conducted to Hampton Court, 24 Aug., while the army occupied London; escaped to the Isle of Wight, 16 Nov. 1647, having offended parliament by dallying with the army proposals, but was there kept in custody by Colonel Hammond; refused his assent to fresh proposals of parliament, December 1647; made a secret treaty with the Scots by which he accepted presbyterianism and obtained promise of a Scots army; cavalier risings in his favour crushed before September 1648; negotiated with parliamentary commissioners at Newport, September-October 1648; his death demanded by the army in November; taken to Hurst Castle, 1 Dec., to Windsor, 23 Dec. 1648, and to St. James's, London, 19 Jan. 1649, all who favoured him in parliament having been excluded by the army leaders ('Fride's purge'), 6 Dec. 1648; refused to plead before the court which the Commons constituted for his trial, 20 Jan.; condemned, 27 Jan., and executed, 30 Jan. 1649. [x. 67]

CHARLES II (1630-1685), king of Great Britain and Ireland; second son of Charles I and Henrietta Maria; born at St. James's, London; given an establishment as Prince of Wales, 1638; took his seat in the House of Lords, 1640; joined Charles I at York, March 1642; present at Edgehill; resided in Oxford, October 1642 to March 1645, and at Bristol, March to April 1645; at Barnstaple, June; withdrew to Cornwall, July; tried to hold Devon and Cornwall against Fairfax; at Falmouth, February 1646; withdrew to Solihull, March, and to Jersey, April; at Paris, July 1646; went to Helvoetsluys, July 1648; made a descent on the shipping at Thames mouth; tried to avert Charles I's execution, January 1649; proclaimed king in Edinburgh, 5 Feb., and in Ireland; returned to Paris; went to Jersey, 1649; withdrew to Breia, 1650; accepted the covenant and the terms of the Scottish commissioners, March; reached Cromarty Frith, and took up his residence at Falkland Palace, Fife, June 1650; practically a prisoner in the hands of Argyll and the presbyterian party; secretly negotiated with the English catholics; defeated at Dunbar, 3 Sept. 1650; tried to escape from Argyll to join Huntly ('The Start'); crowned at Scone, 1 Jan. 1651, accepting the covenant; at Stirling, April; marched southwards, 1651; routed at Worcester, 3 Sept. 1651; dismissed all his followers, except Wilmot; reached Fécamp, Normandy, 1651; resided in poverty at Paris, October 1651-June 1654; withdrew to Cologne; went to Middelburg, March 1655, to wait the issue of a cavalier rising; removed his court to Bruges, 1656; dissoluteness of his court much spoken of; formally excluded from the succession by act of parliament, November 1658; offered to raise English troops for the Spanish service in Flanders; removed his court to Brussels, February 1658; withdrew to Breia, August; returned to Brussels, September 1658; went to Brittany, to wait the issue of a cavalier rising, August 1659; followed Mazarin to Spain to ask French and Spanish help; returned to Brussels, December 1659; negotiated with the English presbyterians and with Monck; went to Breia, and issued his declaration there, 4 April 1660; proclaimed king in London; landed at Dover, 26 May; entered London, 29 May; urged the House of Lords to pass Act of Indemnity; issued a declaration for the settlement of Ireland, 30 Nov. 1660; dissolved the Convention parliament, 29 Dec. 1660, which had settled on him 1,200,000*l.* a year; accepted by the Scottish parliament, 1661; threatened by Venner's plot; formally crowned, 23 April 1661; married, 30 May 1662, Catherine of Braganza [q. v.], and so became pledged to support Portugal against Spain; coldly supported the administration of Clarendon, 1660-7; aimed at securing toleration for English catholics, but thereby only excited the jealousy of parliament and the severities of the Act of Uniformity, May 1662; was thus forced to violate his promises to the presbyterian party made in his solemn declarations, April and October 1660; the severe Conventicle Act, 1664, and the Five-mile Act, 1665, brought on by his Declaration of Indulgence, 1662; neglected to take efficient measures to recover estates forfeited during the Commonwealth, thereby bringing great odium on Clarendon; secretly allied himself with Louis XIV, receiving a large subsidy to attack Spain, 1661, selling Dunkirk and Mardyke to France, December 1662, and declaring war on the Dutch, February 1665; created a bastard son, James, Duke of Monmouth, 1663; withdrew to Salisbury, to avoid the plague, July 1665, and to Oxford, September, returning to London, January 1666; showed unwonted energy on occasion of the fire in London, September 1666; hoped by means of the Dutch war to obtain the stadtholdership for his nephew, William of Orange, but the Dutch fleet destroyed the shipping in the Medway (June 1667), and Charles was forced to conclude peace, July 1667; the king protected himself by ordering Clarendon to leave England, November 1667; himself conducted secretly the most important negotiations, though the period (1667-74) is nominally that of the ascendancy of Buckingham, Arlington, and Lauderdale; received large subsidies from Louis XIV, promising in return to favour French designs on the Netherlands and to reduce England to Romanism; assented to the triple alliance with Sweden and Holland, January 1668, in order to force Louis's hand; concluded with Louis the shameful secret treaty of Dover, May 1670; his Declaration of Indulgence in favour of English catholics, March 1671, cancelled, owing to parliamentary agitation, March 1673, and followed by the Test Act; forced by popular discontent to close the Dutch war (began March 1672), February 1674; stopped payments by the exchequer, January 1672, and abandoned himself with his court to excess; directed foreign policy, though Danby was nominally at the head of affairs, 1674-8; entered into a secret treaty not to oppose Louis XIV, 1678; forced by popular feeling against France to assent to the marriage of Princess Mary with William of Orange, November 1677, but renewed his secret treaty with Louis, 1678; gave way to the persecution engendered by the pretended 'popish plot', August 1678, contenting himself with protecting the queen; dissolved parliament, January 1679, to shield Danby; repeatedly declared the Duke of Monmouth illegitimate, in order to foil the anti-court party, led by Shaftesbury, which now set itself to secure the exclusion of James, duke of York, from the succession; ordered the Duke of York to withdraw from England, and offered to accept a protestant regency; dissolved parliament, July 1679 and January 1681, and the Oxford parliament, March 1681, which violently opposed his efforts; warmly received in London, October 1681; laid the foundation-stone of Chelsea Hospital, February 1682; the whigs in Scotland grievously persecuted by his brother, the Duke of York; rigorously enforced penal laws against English nonconformists; his opponents discredited by the discovery of the Rye House plot, June 1683; Charles resolved to govern without a parliament, in compliance with the wishes of Louis XIV; popularly reported as being about to declare himself a Roman catholic, 1684, the Duke of York, in defiance of the Test Act, being reappointed acting lord high admiral, May 1684; had an apoplectic stroke, 2 Feb. 1685, and died 6 Feb., acknowledging himself a Roman catholic; buried at Westminster, 17 Feb. Thirteen of his mistresses are known by name, the chief being the Duchesses of Cleveland, Portsmouth, and Mazarin, and Nell Gwynn. Of his numerous illegitimate children six were created dukes. He was fond of conversation, coarse wit, walking and hunting, patronised the stage, and was interested in chemistry and naval architecture. [x. 84]

CHARLES EDWARD LOUIS PHILIP CASIMIR (1790-1798), the YOUNG PRETENDER; eldest son of the titular James III; born and bred at Rome; served at Gaeta, 1784; sent from Rome to head a French invasion of England, 1748; foiled by the English fleet at Dunkirk, 1744; sailed from Belleisle, 1745; reached the Hebrides,

August 1745; unfurled his standard at Glenfinnan, entered Edinburgh, and defeated Cope at Prestonpans, 1745; reached Carlisle and Derby; retreated, 6 Dec. 1745; defeated Hawley at Falkirk, 1746; crushed by Cumberland at Culloden, 1746; fugitive in the highlands; escaped to France, 1746; expelled from France, 1748; alienated the Jacobites by drunkenness and by refusing to separate from his mistress, Clementina Walkenshaw [q. v.], a reputed spy; said to have visited London, 1760, 1769, 1764; resided at Basle, 1758; titular king, 1766; resided in Rome; pensioned by France; married Louisa von Stolberg, 1772; separated from her, 1780; removed to Florence; died at Rome. [x. 108]

CHARLES, DAVID (1762-1834), author of sermons; a well-to-do Carmarthen tradesman; lay-preacher, 1808; Calvinistic Methodist minister in South Wales, 1811; paralysed, 1828. [x. 111]

CHARLES, DAVID (d. 1878), Methodist; co-founder of Bala College, 1837; principal of Trevecca College, 1842-62. [x. 114]

CHARLES, Mrs. ELIZABETH (1828-1896), author; née Rundle; began early to write, and attracted attention of James Anthony Froude and Tennyson; married, 1851, Andrew Paton Charles, with whom she made several journeys in the East. Her works include 'Tales and Sketches of Christian Life in different Lands and Ages', 1860, and 'Chronicles of the Schönberg-Cotta Family', 1862. [Suppl. i. 417]

CHARLES, JOSEPH (1716-1786), author of 'The Dispersion of the Men of Babel', a tract on Genesis, 1755; vicar of Wighton, Norfolk, 1740-86. [x. 111]

CHARLES or CHARLES, NICHOLAS (d. 1613), herald; Blanch-Lion pursuivant; Lancaster herald, 1609; visited Derbyshire, 1611, and Huntingdonshire, 1613; his manuscript collections are in the British Museum. [x. 111]

CHARLES, THOMAS (1756-1814), of Bala; Welsh preacher; son of a Carmarthenshire farmer; brought up a Methodist; studied at Jesus College, Oxford, 1775-8; curate of Queen's Camel, Somerset, 1778; B.A., 1779; married a wealthy tradeswoman, and settled at Bala, 1783; took occasional clerical duty; Calvinistic Methodist minister at Bala, 1784; went on preaching tours through North Wales; established Methodist schools, 1785, and Sunday schools, 1789; published Welsh theological tracts and magazines, 1789-1813; set up a press at Bala, 1803; visited London yearly from 1793; visited Ireland, 1807; organised the Welsh Calvinistic Methodists, 1810-11. [x. 112]

CHARLESWORTH, EDWARD PARKER (1783-1853), physician; apprenticed to a Horncastle physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1807; practised at Lincoln; visiting physician to the asylum, 1820; advocated humane treatment of the insane. [x. 114]

CHARLESWORTH, JOHN (1782-1864), divine; B.D. Queens' College, Cambridge, 1826; rector of Flowton, Suffolk, 1814-44; rector of St. Mildred's, London, 1844-62. [x. 115]

CHARLESWORTH, MARIA LOUISA (1819-1880), author; daughter of John Charlesworth [q. v.]; visitor in her father's parishes; retired to Nutfield, Surrey, 1864; published religious tales and devotional tracts, 1846-80. [x. 116]

CHARLETON. [See also CHARLTON.]

CHARLETON, RICE (1710-1789), physician; entered Queen's College, Oxford, 1740; M.A., 1747; M.D. 1767; practised medicine at Bath; physician to Bath General Hospital, 1767-81; published tracts on the Bath waters, 1760-74. [x. 116]

CHARLETON, ROBERT (1809-1872), Quaker; pin manufacturer at Bristol, 1833-62; became a Quaker; advocated total abstinence; one of the peace deputation to the Omar Nicholas, 1854; a Quaker preacher in England and Ireland, 1860-72; published theological tracts. [x. 116]

CHARLETON, WALTER (1819-1907), physician; entered Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1835; M.D. by king's mandate, 1843; nominally physician to Charles I and Charles II; practised physic in London, 1650-82; withdrew to Nantwich; returned to London before 1699; published medical, philosophical, and antiquarian tracts, 1680-1706, including 'Chorea Gigantum' (1683), to prove that Stonehenge was made by the Danes. [x. 116]

CHARLETT, ARTHUR (1655-1722), master of University College, Oxford; entered Trinity College, Oxford, 1669; M.A., 1676; fellow, 1680; travelled in Scotland, 1683; B.D., 1684; published a theological tract, 1686; tutor to Lord Guilford, 1688; master of University College and D.D., 1692; rector of Hambleton, Buckinghamshire, 1707-22; king's chaplain, 1697-1717; his large correspondence is preserved in the Bodleian. [x. 119]

CHARLEWOOD, CHARLWOOD, or CHERLWOD, JOHN (d. 1692), London printer; printed before 1559; issued ballads, tracts, and popular pieces, 1682-92; held the monopoly of printing playbills, 1687-92; often fined for literary piracy. [x. 120]

CHARLOTTE AUGUSTA, PRINCESS (1796-1817), only child of George, prince of Wales (afterwards George IV), and Caroline of Brunswick; brought up by Lady Elgin at Carlton House till 1804; at Lower Lodge, Windsor, 1805-1814; ignored by her father; engaged to William, prince of Orange, 1813; angered her father by breaking off her engagement, 1814; in seclusion at Oranbourn Lodge, Windsor, 1814-16; married Prince Leopold of Saxe-Coburg, May 1816; died in childbirth, 19 Nov. 1817. [x. 120]

CHARLOTTE AUGUSTA MATILDA, PRINCESS ROYAL, afterwards QUEEN OF WÜRTTEMBERG (1766-1828), eldest daughter of George III; betrothed, 1796; married (second wife) Frederick William Charles, prince of Württemberg, May 1797; Duchess of Württemberg, December 1797; queen of Württemberg, 1806; queen-dowager, 1816. [x. 122]

CHARLOTTE SOPHIA (1744-1818), queen of George III; of Mecklenburg-Strelitz; married in London, 8 Sept. 1761; crowned, 22 Sept.; managed the royal household during the king's insanity, 1788 and 1810-18. [x. 123]

CHARLTON. [See also CHARLETON.]

CHARLTON or CHERLETON, EDWARD, fifth and last BARON CHARLTON OF POWYS (1370-1421), married, 1398, the widowed Countess of March, thus obtaining Usk and Caerleon; took Henry IV's side, 1399; succeeded to the barony, October 1401; attacked by Owen of Glyndwr, 1402; allowed to make a private truce with the Welsh, 1404; again attacked by Owen, 1409; captured Sir John Oldcastle in Powys, 1417. [x. 123]

CHARLTON, SIR JOB (1614-1697), judge; son of a London goldsmith; B.A. Oxford, 1632; barrister of Lincoln's Inn; M.P., Ludlow, 1659-78; serjeant-at-law, 1680; chief-justice of Chester, 1682-80 and October 1686-1689; speaker of the House of Commons, 4-18 Feb. 1673; justice of common pleas, 1680; removed, April 1686, for opposing James II's dispensing power; created baronet, 1686. [x. 124]

CHARLTON or CHERLETON, JOHN DE, first BARON CHARLTON OF POWYS (d. 1353), succeeded to estates at Charlton and Pontesbury, Shropshire, c. 1300; chamberlain to Edward II, 1307; knighted before 1308; obtained by marriage Powys Castle and its domains, 1309; raised Welsh troops for the king's service from 1310; at feud with his Welsh neighbours, 1311-15 and 1315-80; summoned to the peers, 1313-46; joined Lancaster's revolt, 1321; pardoned, 1322; joined Mortimer's rebellion, 1326; viceroy of Ireland, 1337; recalled, 1338; latterly interested himself in religion. [x. 126]

CHARLTON, JOHN (fl. 1571). [See CHARDON, JOHN.]

CHARLTON or CHERLETON, LEWIS (d. 1369), bishop of Hereford; an Oxford graduate in law and theology; resided in Oxford; prebendary of Hereford (1334) and Pontesbury; recognised as a benefactor of Oxford University, 1366; bishop of Hereford, 1361. [x. 127]

CHARLTON, LIONEL (1720-1788), author of 'The History of Whitby,' 1779; schoolmaster at Whitby. [x. 128]

CHARLTON or CHERLETON, THOMAS (d. 1344), bishop of Hereford; younger brother of John Charlton, first baron Charlton [q. v.]; doctor of civil law; privy seal to Edward II; prebendary of St. Paul's, of St. Mary's, Stafford, and (1316) of Pontesbury; failed to obtain the see of Durham, 1316, and of Hereford, 1317; bishop of Hereford, 1327; lord-treasurer, 1328-30; chancellor of Ireland, 1337, and viceroy, 1338; returned to England, 1340. [x. 128]

CHARNOCK, JOB (d. 1693), founder of Calcutta; went to India, 1655; entered the East India Company's service; stationed at Kasimbazar, 1658-64, at Patna, 1664, at Kasimbazar, and at Hugli, April 1686; withdrew, in face of native hostility, to the island Hijili, at the mouth of the Ganges, December 1686; superseded and sent to Madras, 1688; re-appointed to the Bengal agency; obtained from Arangzib a grant of land at Sutanati (now Calcutta), 1690. [x. 129]

CHARNOCK, JOHN (1766-1807), author; educated at Winchester and Trinity College, Oxford; journalist; naval volunteer; published 'Biographia Navalis,' 1794-8, 'History of Marine Architecture,' 1801-2, 'Life of Nelson,' 1806, and some political tracts. [x. 132]

CHARNOCK or CHERNOCK, ROBERT (1663 ?-1696), Jacobite conspirator; deny of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1680; M.A., 1686; fellow, by mandate from James II, 1686; embraced Roman catholicism; James II's agent in his oppression of the college, 1687; vice-president, January 1688; expelled, October 1688; styled 'captain'; in London, planning the assassination of William III, 1692-6; arrested February 1696; executed, 1696. [x. 132]

CHARNOCK, STEPHEN (1628-1680), puritan; son of a London solicitor; M.A. Emmanuel College, Cambridge; puritan preacher in Southwark; intruded into a fellowship at New College, Oxford, 1650; proctor, 1654; chaplain to Henry Cromwell in Ireland, 1657; withdrew to London, 1658; co-pastor of the Bishopsgate Street presbyterian church, 1675; his theological works published posthumously. [x. 134]

CHARNOCK, THOMAS (1526-1581), alchemist; learned alchemy from a Salisbury clergyman; served at Calais, 1567; lived in retirement in Somerset. [x. 136]

CHARPENTIERE. [See CARPENTIERE and CARPENTIERES.]

CHARRETTE, ANNA MARIA (1819-1875), miniature and oil painter; née Kenwell; married, 1841, John Charrette (d. 1868); exhibited, 1843-75. [x. 135]

CHARTERIS, FRANCIS (1675-1732), styled 'colonel'; of a Dumfriesshire family; dismissed the army for cheating; dismissed the Dutch service for theft; captain in the 1st foot guards; censured for fraud, 1711; accumulated a fortune by gambling and usury; the typical profligate of Arbuthnot, Pope, and Hogarth; landowner in Haddington and Midlothian; convicted of rape, but pardoned, 1730. [x. 135]

CHARTERIS, HENRY, the elder (d. 1599), bookseller and printer, of Edinburgh; brought out a black-letter edition of Sir David Lyndsay's works, 1569; printed from 1581 theological tracts, bibles, and religious publications. [x. 136]

CHARTERIS, HENRY, the younger (1565-1628), Scottish divine; eldest son of Henry Charteris the elder [q. v.]; M.A. Edinburgh, 1587; a regent of Edinburgh University, 1589; principal and professor of divinity, 1599-1620; minister of North Leith, 1620; professor of divinity, 1627-8. [x. 137]

CHARTERIS, LAWRENCE (1625-1700), Scottish divine; younger son of Henry Charteris the younger [q. v.]; M.A. Edinburgh, 1646; minister of Bathans (or Yeaster), Haddingtonshire, 1654-75; professor of divinity in Edinburgh, 1675-81; minister of Dirleton, Haddingtonshire, 1688-97; published theological tracts. [x. 137]

CHARY, CHINTAMANNY RAGOONATHA (d. 1880), astronomer; assistant at Madras observatory; a good observer; wrote on astronomical topics. [x. 139]

CHASE, JOHN (1810-1879), water-colour painter; exhibited, chiefly architectural views, 1826-78. [x. 139]

CHASTILLON or CASTILLON, HENRY DE (fl. 1195), archdeacon of Canterbury; a justiciary, 1195; agent in negotiations between Archbishop Hubert and monastery of Christ Church, Canterbury, 1199-9; supported King John against St. Augustine's, Canterbury, 1202. [x. 139]

CHATELAIN, CLARA DE (1807-1876), composer and author; of French extraction; née de Pontigny; born in London; resided in France, 1826; returned to London, 1837; married J. B. P. E. de Chatelain [q. v.], 1843; wrote many tales for magazines, under various pseudonyms; composed ballads and songs; died insane. [x. 140]

CHATELAIN, JEAN-BAPTISTE FRANÇOIS ERNEST DE (1801-1881), journalist; born and educated in Paris; French journalist in London, 1828; visited Rome, 1837; journalist in Bordeaux, 1830, and Paris, 1833-8; returned to England, 1842; naturalised, 1848; published literary and political papers. [x. 140]

CHATELAIN, JOHN BAPTIST OLAUDE (1710-1771), draughtsman and engraver; real name, PHILIPPE; of French extraction; resided at Ohelsea; of improvident habits; engraved chiefly landscapes. [x. 141]

CHÂTELHERAULT, DUKE OF (d. 1575). [See HAMILTON, JAMES.]

CHATHFIELD, EDWARD (1800-1839), painter; son of a Croydon distiller; pupil of R. M. Haydon; painted portraits and historical scenes, 1821-38; wrote in the magazines under pseudonym of 'Echion'. [x. 141]

CHATHAM, EARLS OF. [See PITT, WILLIAM, first EARL, 1708-1778; PITT, JOHN, second EARL, 1756-1835.]

CHATTERLEY, WILLIAM SIMMONDS (1787-1822), actor; member of the Drury Lane company, 1789-1804; acted also at Birmingham, Cheltenham, 1804, and Bath, 1810; returned to London, 1816. [x. 142]

CHATTERTON, HENRIETTA GREGORIANA MAHOIA LASCELLES, LADY (1806-1876), miscellaneous writer; née Iremonger; married, 1824, Sir William Abraham Chatterton (d. 1855), of co. Cork; retired to England, 1862; married, 1869, Edward Heneage Dering; embraced Romanism, 1875; published numerous tales, notes of travel, and poems, 1837-76. [x. 143]

CHATTERTON, JOHN BALSIR (1802?-1871), harpist; son of a Portsmouth music-master; harpist in London, 1824-71; composed music for the harp. [x. 143]

CHATTERTON, THOMAS (1752-1770), poet; posthumous child of a poor Bristol schoolmaster; began to show signs of interest in reading, 1759; obtained access to the charters of St. Mary Redcliffe Church, Bristol; wrote his first verses, 1762; published verses in 'Felix Farley's Bristol Journal', 1763; began to represent his 'antique' verses as genuine old pieces, 1764; began to fabricate 'Thomas Rowley's' verses, 1765; invented a pedigree for a Bristol pewterer, 1767; apprenticed to a Bristol attorney, 1767-70; published in the 'Bristol Journal' a piece dated 1248, 1768; encouraged in his fabrications by the credulity of George Catcott of Bristol, 1768; wrote to James Dodsley, offering old plays, December 1768-February 1769; wrote to Horace Walpole, forwarding ancient histories of painting in England, 1769; neglected by Walpole, who omitted to return his pieces, 1769; satirised leading people in Bristol, 1769; meditated suicide, 1770; came to London, 1770; lodged in Shoreditch, and subsequently in Brooke Street, Holborn; wrote for the journals; poisoned himself with arsenic in desperation at his poverty, 1770; editions of 'Thomas Rowley,' as genuine fifteenth-century poems, published 1777 and 1782. His collected works appeared in 1803. [x. 143]

CHATTO, WILLIAM ANDREW (1799-1864), miscellaneous writer; born at Newcastle-on-Tyne; tea-dealer in London, 1830-4; published, under the pseudonym of 'Stephen Oliver,' notes of rambles in the northern counties, 1834-5; wrote also on wood-engraving, 1839-48; edited 'New Sporting Magazine,' 1839-41, and 'Puck,' a comic paper, 1844. [x. 184]

CHATTODUNUS, WALTER (d. 1343). [See CATTON.]

CHAUCEER, GEOFFREY (1340?-1400), poet; son of John Chauceer (d. 1366), vintner, of London; page to Elizabeth de Burgh, wife of Lionel, duke of Clarence, third son of Edward III, 1357; accompanied the expedition to France, 1359; taken prisoner in Brittany; ransomed by Edward III, 1360; married Philippa (? Roet, d. 1387?), a servant of the Duchess of Lancaster (wife of John of Gaunt), probably in 1366, certainly before 1374; received from Edward III pension of 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, in 1367, being then yeoman of the chamber; in service in France, 1369; abroad, on the king's service, 1370; styled 'esquire' (armiger), from 1372; on a mission to Genoa and Florence, 1372-3, when he met Boccaccio and perhaps Petrarch; received additional pension of 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* from Edward III, 1374; appointed comptroller of the customs and subsidy of wools, &c., London, June 1374; received pension of 10*l.* from John of Gaunt, June 1374; resided over Aldgate, London, 1374-86, except when abroad on the king's service; sent on secret service to Flanders, 1376 and 1377; attached to embassies to France and Lombardy, 1378; a party to the abduction of Cecilia Champaigne, 1380; appointed comptroller of petty customs, London, and allowed to have a deputy, 1382; allowed to have a deputy in his comptrollership of the customs, 1385; knight of the shire for Kent, 1386; removed from both comptrollerships, 1386; went the Canterbury pilgrimages, April 1388; to raise money for his immediate needs, sold his two pensions from the king, 1388; clerk of the king's works at various places, acting by deputy, July 1389-September 1391; robbed by highwaymen, 9 Sept. 1390; joint forster of North Petherton Park, Somerset, 1391; sole forester, 1397; received pension of 20*l.* from Richard II, 1394; received additional pension of 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* from Henry IV, 1399; leased a house at Westminster, 1399; buried in Westminster Abbey; a monument erected to him, 1555.

Chaucer's writings fall into three periods: (1) The period of French influence (1359-72), in which he uses the octosyllabic couplet. To this period belong 'The Boke of the Duchesse,' 1369, and a lost translation of the 'Roman de la Rose,' (2) The period of Italian influence, especially of Dante and Boccaccio, 1372-86, in which he leaves off the octosyllabic couplet, uses mainly the 'heroic' stanza of seven lines, and begins to use the heroic couplet. To this period belong 'The House of Fame'; 'The Assembly of Foules'; 'Troilus and Criseyde'; 'The Legend of Good Women'; and the first drafts of some of his tales. (3) The period of his maturity, 1386-1400, in which he uses the heroic couplet. To this period belong the 'Canterbury Tales,' designed about 1387. The 'Canterbury Tales' were first printed by Caxton in 1475; the collected works were first issued by W. Thynne in 1532. [x. 154]

CHAUCEER, THOMAS (1367?-1434), speaker of the House of Commons; supposed to be son of Geoffrey Chaucer [q. v.] and Philippa Roet; obtained Ewelme, Oxfordshire, by marriage; received two annuities of 10*l.* from John of Gaunt; chief butler to Richard II, Henry IV, Henry V, and Henry VI; received from Richard II a pension of 13*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, March 1399; constable of Wallingford Castle; granted Woodstock Manor, 1411; M.P. for Oxfordshire in most parliaments, 1400-31; speaker of the House of Commons, 1407, 1410, 1411, 1414; fought at Agincourt, 1416; envoy to France, 1417; member of the council, 1424; an executor of the Duchess of York's will, 1431; reputed to be of great wealth. [x. 187]

CHAUCOMBE, HUGH DE (fl. 1200), justiciar; of Chalcombe, Northamptonshire, 1168; sheriff of Staffordshire, Warwickshire, and Leicestershire, 1196-8; accompanied King John to Normandy, 1199; in attendance on John, 1203-4, in England; justiciar, 1204; sheriff of Warwickshire and Leicestershire, and keeper of Kenilworth Castle, 1204-7; a monk at Chalcombe Priory, 1209. [x. 168]

CHAUNCEY, CHARLES (1706-1777), physician; M.D. Cambridge, 1739; collected pictures, coins, and books. [x. 168]

CHAUNCEY, IOHABOD (d. 1691), physician; army chaplain at Dunkirk before 1660; benefited in Bristol; ejected for nonconformity, 1662; practised medicine at Bristol, 1662-84; banished for nonconformity, 1684; returned to Bristol, 1686. [x. 169]

CHAUNCEY, CHARLES (1592-1672), puritan; educated at Westminster; entered Trinity College, Cambridge, 1609; fellow; M.A., 1617; B.D., 1624; vicar of Ware, Hertfordshire, 1627-33; vicar of Marston St. Lawrence, Northamptonshire, 1633-7; prosecuted for neglect of church ceremonies, 1630 and 1634; submitted to Laud, 1636; assistant minister at Plymouth, New England, 1637; minister at Scituate, 1641; invited back to England, 1654; president of Harvard College, 1654-72; published sermons, theological tracts, and Latin verses and speeches. [x. 169]

CHAUNCY, SIR HENRY (1632-1719), topographer; entered Caius College, Cambridge, 1647; barrister of the Middle Temple, 1656; recorder of Hertford, 1680; knighted, 1681; succeeded to the family estates, 1681; serjeant-at-law, 1688; justice in South Wales, 1688; published 'The Historical Antiquities of Hertfordshire,' 1700; caused a 'witch' to be arrested in Hertfordshire, 1712. [x. 170]

CHAUNCY, ISAAC (1632-1712), congregationalist; eldest son of Charles Chauncy [q.v.]; taken to New England, 1637; at Harvard College, 1651; studied also at Oxford; intruded rector of Woodborough, Wiltshire; ejected, 1662; congregationalist minister at Andover, Hampshire; L.C.P. London, 1669; practised medicine in London, 1689 till death; was also a congregationalist minister in St. Mary Axe, 1687-1701, and divinity tutor of the London Dissenting Academy; published controversial treatises, 1681-1700. [x. 171]

CHAUNCY, MAURICE (d. 1681), Carthusian monk; studied at Oxford and Gray's Inn, London; entered the Charterhouse; took the oath to Henry VIII, 1535; joined in the surrender of the Charterhouse, 1537; withdrew to Bruges; returned to England, June 1556; prior of the Carthusians at Shene, 1556; withdrew to Bruges, 1559, and to Louvain, 1578; died at Bruges; published 'Historia aliquot nostri sæculi Martyrum,' 1560. [x. 172]

CHAUNDLER or CHANDLER, THOMAS (1418?-1490), dean of Hereford; educated at Winchester and New College, Oxford; fellow, 1437; M.A.; proctor, 1444; B.D., 1450; warden of Winchester College, 1460, and of New College, 1451; B.Can.L., 1451; chancellor of Wells Cathedral, 1452; D.D. and warden of New College, 1455-75; chancellor of Oxford University, 1457-61 and 1472-9, and vice-chancellor, 1463-7, prebendary of York, St. Paul's, Southwell, and Hereford; dean of Hereford, 1482; left a sacred drama and other writings in manuscripts which he illustrated with tinted drawings. [Suppl. i. 419]

CHAVASSE, WILLIAM (1786-1814), of the East India Company's service; died near Bagdad on a journey to explore Xenophon's route in the Retreat of the Ten Thousand. [x. 173]

CHADSEY, WILLIAM (1510?-1574?). [See CHEDNEY.]

CHEAPE, DOUGLAS (1797-1861), Scottish advocate; professor of civil law, Edinburgh, 1827-42; author of legal squibs. [x. 173]

CHEAPE, SIR JOHN (1792-1875), general; second lieutenant, Bengal engineers, 1809; captain, 1821; colonel, 1844; brigadier-general, 1852; K.C.B., 1849; on active service in India, 1809-23; in the first Burmese war, 1824-6; in the Sikh war, 1848-50; conquered Pegu, 1853; returned to England, 1855; promoted general, 1866. [x. 173]

CHEBHAM, THOMAS DE (f. 1230). [See CHABHAM.]

CHEDSEY or CHADSEY, WILLIAM (1510?-1574?), divine; born in Somerset; scholar of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1528; fellow, 1531; M.A., 1534; D.D., 1546; chaplain to Bishop Bonner; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1548; disputed against the reformed doctrines, 1549; imprisoned for preaching against the reformed doctrines, 1551; canon of Windsor, with other promotion, 1564; archdeacon of Middlesex, 1566; canon of Christ Church, Oxford, 1567; president of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1568-9; deprived of his benefices and imprisoned in the Fleet as a recusant, 1609; published theological tracts. [x. 174]

CHEDWORTH, fourth BARON (1754-1804). [See HOWE, JOHN.]

CHEDWORTH, JOHN (d. 1471), bishop of Lincoln; of Merton College, Oxford; fellow of King's College, Cambridge, and provost, 1446; prebendary of Salisbury, 1440; prebendary of Lincoln; bishop of Lincoln, 1452; very active against the lollards in his diocese. [x. 175]

CHEEKE, WILLIAM (f. 1613), author of 'Anagrammata et Chron-Anagrammata'; B.A. Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1596. [x. 176]

CHEERE, SIR HENRY (1703-1781), statuary; pupil of Peter Scheemakers; worked in marble, bronze, and lead; carved statues for gardens and funeral monuments; knighted, 1760; created baronet, 1766; patron of Louis François Roubilliac. [x. 176]

CHEESMAN, THOMAS (1760-1835?), engraver and draughtsman; pupil of Francesco Bartolozzi; resided in London. [x. 177]

CHEFER or CHEFFER, RICHARD (f. 1400?), theological writer; probably an Augustinian friar of Norwich. [x. 177]

CHEKE, HENRY (1548?-1586?), translator; eldest son of Sir John Cheke [q.v.]; M.A. King's College, Cambridge, 1568; M.P. for Bedford, 1572-83; travelled in Italy, 1575-6; secretary to the council of the north at York, 1581 till death; M.P., Boroughbridge, Yorkshire, 1584; translated an Italian morality play by Francesco Negri de Bassano. [x. 178]

CHEKE, SIR JOHN (1514-1567), Greek scholar; born in Cambridge; son of an esquire-bedel; fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1529; M.A., 1533; embraced protestantism; an efficient college tutor; professor of Greek, Cambridge, 1540-51; introduced a new pronunciation of Greek; public orator, Cambridge, 1544; tutor to Edward, prince of Wales, 1544; canon of King Henry VIII's College, Oxford; pensioned by Henry VIII, 1545; granted church lands by Edward VI, 1547; M.P. for Bletchingley, 1547 and 1553; provost of King's College, Cambridge, 1548, by king's mandate; took orders before 1549; knighted, 1552; granted additional lands by Edward VI; clerk of the council; secretary of state, 1553; supported Lady Jane Grey; imprisoned in the Tower by Queen Mary, July 1553-September 1554; withdrew to Basle; travelled in Italy; taught Greek at Strasburg; treacherously invited to Brussels, 1556, by Lord Paget and Sir John Mason, and sent prisoner to England, 1556; imprisoned in the Tower; compelled to abjure protestantism, 1556; published Greek texts, translations into Latin, and theological treatises. [x. 178]

CHELLE or CHELL, WILLIAM (f. 1550), musician; Mus. Bac. Oxford, 1524; prebendary of Hereford, 1532-59, and precentor, 1554-9; perhaps taught music in London. [x. 183]

CHELMESTON or CHELVESTON, JOHN (f. 1297), theological writer; a Carmelite friar; taught at Oxford, Bruges, and Brussels. [x. 183]

CHELMSFORD, first BARON (1794-1878). [See THESIGER, FREDERICK.]

CHELSUM, JAMES (1740?-1801), opponent of Gibbon; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; B.A., 1759; D.D., 1773; rector of Droxford, Hampshire, with other preferment; died insane; published sermons, a history of mezzotint engraving, 1786, and two pamphlets on Gibbon's treatment of Christianity, 1776 and 1786. [x. 183]

CHENERY, THOMAS (1826-1884), editor of 'The Times'; born at Barbados; educated at Eton and Cambridge; M.A., 1858; barrister; 'Times' correspondent at Constantinople, 1854-6; leader writer to 'The Times'; editor, 1877-84; a great linguist; professor of Arabic, Oxford, 1868-77; one of the Old Testament revisers; wrote on Arabic and Hebrew. [x. 184]

CHENEVIX, RICHARD (1698-1779), bishop of Waterford and Lismore; of Huguenot extraction; B.A. Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1716; chaplain to the Earl of Scarborough, 171 and to the Earl of Chesterfield, 1728; D.D., 1744; chaplain to Chesterfield when lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1745; bishop of Killaloe, 1745; translated to Waterford, 1746. [x. 184]

CHENEVIX, RICHARD (1774-1830), chemist and mineralogist; born in Ireland; of Huguenot extraction; began to contribute to French chemical journals, 1798, and to English journals, 1800; F.R.S., 1801; resided in Paris, 1808; published also dramas and poems. [x. 186]

CHEPMAN, WALTER (1473?-1538?), printer, of Edinburgh; clerk in the king's secretary's office, 1494, and was still in the king's service in 1528; general merchant; bought lands in and near Edinburgh, 1505-9; supplied capital to Andrew Myllar, who had learned printing at Rouen, to set up a press in Edinburgh, the first in Scotland; obtained by patent the right to exclude books printed abroad, 1507; issued some poetical pieces, 1508, and the Aberdeen breviary, 1509-10; perhaps abandoned printing, 1510; dean of guild, 1515; founded chantry in St. Giles's, Edinburgh. [x. 188]

CHERBURY or CHIRBURY, DAVID (A. 1430), bishop of Dromore, 1427-30; afterwards suffragan to the bishop of St. David's; a Carmelite friar. [x. 188]

CHERMESIDE, SIR ROBERT ALEXANDER (1787-1860), physician; army surgeon in the Peninsula and at Waterloo; M.D. Edinburgh, 1817; settled as practitioner in Paris, 1821. [x. 188]

CHÉRON, LOUIS (1655-1725), painter and engraver; born in Paris; travelled in Italy; settled as a painter in Paris before 1687; Huguenot refugee in London, 1695; his reputation mainly based on his book illustrations. [x. 188]

CHERRY, ANDREW (1762-1812), actor and dramatist; bookseller's apprentice in Dublin; joined an Irish strolling company, 1779; attached to the Dublin theatre, 1787; acted in Yorkshire, 1792; returned to Dublin, 1794; acted at Manchester, and (1798) at Bath; at Drury Lane, London, 1802-7; brought out some ten dramatic pieces, 1793-1807, the most successful being 'The Soldier's Daughter,' a comedy, 1801. [x. 189]

CHERRY, FRANCIS (1665?-1713), nonjuror; of Mottesbrooke, Berkshire; entered St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, 1682; collected books and coins; benefactor of Thomas Hearne; friend of Bishop Ken and other non-jurors. [x. 190]

CHERRY, THOMAS (1683-1706), friend of Thomas Hearne; of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, 1700; M.A., 1706; curate of Witney, Oxfordshire. [x. 191]

CHERTSEY, ANDREW (A. 1508-1532), translator into English of French devotional books for Wynkyn de Worde's press. [x. 191]

CHESELDEN, WILLIAM (1688-1752), surgeon and anatomist; studied surgery in London; pupil of William Cowper the anatomist, 1703; lectured on anatomy in London, 1711; F.R.S., 1712; surgeon of St. Thomas's Hospital, 1719-38, of St. George's Hospital, 1734-7, and of Chelsea Hospital, 1737-52; invented the lateral operation for the stone, 1727; published works, including 'The Anatomy of the Human Body,' 1713, and 'Osteographia,' 1733. [x. 192]

CHESHAM, FRANCIS (1749-1806), engraver; first exhibited, 1777. [x. 194]

CHESHIRE, JOHN (1695-1762), physician; entered Balliol College, Oxford, 1713; medical practitioner at Leicester; published trite treatises on rheumatism, 1723, and gout, 1747. [x. 194]

CHESNY, CHARLES CORNWALLIS (1826-1876), military critic; entered Woolwich, 1843; sub-lieutenant, royal engineers, 1845; stationed in Ireland and the colonies, 1845-56; captain, 1854; professor of military history at Sandhurst; lieutenant-colonel, 1868. His principal works are: 'Campaigns in Virginia and Maryland,' 1863, 'Waterloo Lectures,' 1868, and 'Essays in Military Biography,' 1874. [x. 195]

CHESNY, FRANCIS RAWDON (1789-1872), general; served as volunteer against the Irish rebels, 1798; received commission in the royal artillery, 1805; fruitlessly petitioned to be sent on active service; visited Turkey, 1829; surveyed the isthmus of Suez, 1830, and showed that a canal was practicable; explored valley of the Euphrates, 1831, with a view to a trade-route from the Syrian coast to Kurrachee; navigated the lower Euphrates and explored the Tigris, 1835-7; stationed at Hongkong, 1843-7; major-general, 1855; surveyed course of projected railway from Antioch to the Euphrates, 1856; general, 1868; published narratives of his surveys. [x. 195]

CHESNY, SIR GEORGE TOMKYN (1830-1895), general; brother of Colonel Charles Cornwallis Chesney [q. v.]; studied at East India Company's College, Addiscombe; second lieutenant, Bengal engineers, 1848; captain, 1858; lieutenant-colonel, 1874; colonel, 1884; colonel-commandant, royal engineers, 1890; general, 1892; served in Indian mutiny; president of engineering college, Calcutta; head of department of accounts, 1860; prepared scheme for Royal Indian Civil Engineering College, Cooper's Hill, 1868; first president, 1871-80;

secretary to military department of Indian government, 1880-6; member of governor's council, 1886-91; K.C.B., 1890; M.P. for Oxford, 1892; published novels and political writings. [Suppl. i. 420]

CHESENEY, ROBERT DE (d. 1168), or DE QUERRETO, bishop of Lincoln; archdeacon of Leicester; of a mild disposition; bishop of Lincoln, 1148; injured the see by alienating its estates, pledging the cathedral jewels to Aaron the Jew, and (1163) allowing St. Albans Abbey exemption from episcopal control; commenced building the bishop's palace at Lincoln, 1165, and bought a London house for the see, 1162; urged Archbishop Becket to submit to the king, 1164. [x. 198]

CHESSAR, JANE AGNES (1835-1880), teacher; educated in Edinburgh; teacher in a London seminary, 1852-66; member of the London School Board, 1873-6; died at Brussels. [x. 200]

CHESSHER, ROBERT (1750-1831), surgeon; studied surgery in London, 1768; practised at Hinckley. [x. 200]

CHESSHIRE, SIR JOHN (1662-1738), lawyer; of Halwood, Cheshire; entered the Inner Temple, 1696; serjeant-at-law, 1705; endowed a church and library at Halton, Cheshire; knighted before 1733. [x. 200]

CHESTER, EARLS OF. [See HUGH, d. 1101; RANDULF, d. 1129?; RANDULF, d. 1153; HUGH, d. 1181; BLUNDVILL, RANDULF DE, d. 1232; EDMUND, 1245-1296; MONTFORT, SIMON OF, 1208?-1265; EDWARD III, 1312-1377; EDWARD, PRINCE OF WALES, 1330-1376.]

CHESTER, JOSEPH LEMUEL (1821-1882), genealogist; born in Connecticut; went to New York, 1838; merchant's clerk; published verses under the pseudonym of 'Julian Cramer,' 1843; removed to Philadelphia, 1845; journalist, and newspaper editor; aide-de-camp to the governor of Philadelphia and titular colonel, 1865; settled in London, 1858-82; collected materials for the history of American families from the wills in Doctors' Commons, parish registers, the registers of Oxford University and the see of London; chief publications: 'John Rogers, the compiler of the first Authorised English Bible,' 1861, and 'Registers of the Abbey of St. Peter, Westminster,' 1876. [x. 201]

CHESTER, ROBERT (A. 1182), author of astronomical tracts preserved in manuscript in the Bodleian; his Latin version of an Arabic treatise on alchemy, printed, 1564. [x. 203]

CHESTER, ROBERT (1566?-1640?), poet; published 'Love's Martyr,' 1601, republished, 1611, under the title, 'The Annals of Great Brittain,' an appendix to the poem containing Shakespeare's 'Phoenix and Turtle.' [x. 203]

CHESTER, ROGER OF (A. 1339), writer of 'Polycratia Temporum'; probably a misdescription of Ranulf Higden [q. v.], monk of St. Werburgh's, Chester, and an alternative title of Higden's 'Polychronicon' or 'Polycraticon.' [x. 203]

CHESTER, WILLIAM OF (A. 1109). [See WILLIAM.]

CHESTER, SIR WILLIAM (1509?-1595?), lord mayor of London; son of a London draper; educated at Peterhouse, Cambridge; draper in London before 1532; partner in the first sugar refinery in England, 1544; alderman of London, 1563-72; showed kindness to the Protestant martyrs when sheriff, 1554; knighted, 1567; lord mayor, 1560; M.P., London, 1563; honorary M.A. Cambridge, 1567; traded with Russia, the Levant, and the African coast; lived in retirement at Cambridge, 1572 till death; benefactor of Christ's Hospital and of St. Bartholomew's Hospital. [x. 204]

CHESTERFIELD, EARLS OF. [See STANHOPE, PHILIP, first EARL, 1584-1656; STANHOPE, PHILIP, second EARL, 1633-1713; STANHOPE, PHILIP DORMER, fourth EARL, 1694-1773; STANHOPE, PHILIP, fifth EARL, 1756-1815.]

CHESTERFIELD, COUNTSSES OF (d. 1667). [See KIRKHOVEN, CATHERINE.]

CHESTERFIELD or WORSHEP, THOMAS (d. 1451?), canon of Lichfield; prebendary of Lichfield, 1425, and of Hereford, 1450; archdeacon of Salop, 1428-30; wrote a chronicle of the bishops of Lichfield down to 1547 (printed 1691). [x. 205]

CHESTERS, LORD (d. 1638). [See HENRYSON, SIR THOMAS.]

CHESTRE, THOMAS (fl. 1430), author of an Arthurian romance in English, 'The Noble Knight Syr Launfal' (printed 1802). [x. 206]

CHEATHAM, HUMPHREY (1580-1653), founder of the Chetham Hospital and Library, Manchester; son of a Manchester merchant; educated at Manchester grammar school; apprenticed to a linen-draper; merchant, woollen-cloth manufacturer, and usurer in Manchester; partner with his brother George in a London grocery business; bought land in and near Manchester, 1620-8; bequeathed 8,000*l.* for educating poor boys (Chetham Hospital, opened 1656) and founding a public library. [x. 206]

CHEATHAM, JAMES (1640-1692), writer on angling; published 'The Angler's Vade Mecum,' 1681. [x. 207]

CHEITTLE, HENRY (d. 1607?), dramatist; son of a London dyer; stationer's apprentice, 1577; partner in a printing business, 1591; edited Robert Greene's 'Groatsworth of Wit,' 1592; wrote two satirical pamphlets, 'Kind-Hart's Dreame,' 1593, and 'Pierce Plainnes' . . . Prentishipp,' 1595; reputed author of thirteen and joint author of thirty-five plays, produced 1598-1603; imprisoned for debt, 1599; published 'Englands Mourning Garment,' an elegy on Queen Elizabeth, 1603. [x. 207]

CHEITTLE, WILLIAM (fl. 1160). [See KETREL.]

CHETWOOD, KNIGHTLY (1650-1720), dean of Gloucester; educated at Eton and Cambridge; M.A., 1679; chaplain to James II; rector of Great Risington, Gloucestershire, 1686; prebendary of Wells, 1687; intended by James II for the bishopric of Bristol, 1688; chaplain to the forces in Holland, 1689-1704; D.D., 1691; rector of Little Risington, 1702; dean of Gloucester, 1707; claimant of the barony of Walhull; published translations from the classics, sermons, and verses. [x. 210]

CHETWOOD, WILLIAM RUFUS (d. 1766), dramatist; a London bookseller; published pamphlet on the stage, 1720; prompter at Drury Lane Theatre, 1722-40; imprisoned for debt, 1741; prompter at the Dublin theatre, 1742; imprisoned for debt, 1750; published four dramatic pieces, 1720-3, also a 'General History of the Stage,' 1749, 'The British Theatre: Lives of the . . . Dramatic Poets,' 1760, narratives of travels, and tales from the Spanish. [x. 211]

CHEWTYND, EDWARD (1577-1639), divine; of the Ingestre, Staffordshire, family; B.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1595; D.D., 1616; preacher at Abingdon, 1606, and Bristol, 1607; beneficed; dean of Bristol, 1617. [x. 212]

CHEWTYND or CHETWIND, JOHN (1623-1692), divine; eldest son of Edward Chetwynd [q. v.]; M.A. Exeter College, Oxford, 1648; Presbyterian minister at Wells, 1648; took Anglican orders, 1660; vicar of Temple Church, Bristol; prebendary of Bristol, 1668; published sermons. [x. 212]

CHEWTYND, WALTER (d. 1693), antiquary; of Ingestre, Staffordshire; M.P. for Stafford, 1673-85, and for Staffordshire, 1689; encouraged Robert Plot's 'Natural History of Staffordshire.' [x. 213]

CHEWTYND, WILLIAM RICHARD CHETWYND, third Viscount Chetwynd (1685?-1770), educated at Westminster and Oxford; envoy to Genoa, 1708-12; M.P. for Stafford, 1714-22, for Plymouth, 1722-7, and for Stafford, 1734 till death; master of the mint, 1744-69; succeeded to the Irish viscounty of Chetwynd, 1767. [x. 213]

CHEVALIER, JOHN (1589-1676), chronicler of Jersey; vingt-ten of St. Helier's; wrote an account of affairs in Jersey, 1640-51. [x. 214]

CHEVALIER, THOMAS (1767-1824), surgeon; son of a Huguenot refugee; B.A. Pembroke College, Cambridge, 1792; studied anatomy in London; lectured on anatomy and surgery in London; published surgical treatises, 1797-1823. [x. 214]

CHEVALIER, ANTHONY RODOLPH (1623-1679), hebraist; born in Normandy; learned Hebrew from Francis Vatablus in Paris; embraced protestantism; came to England, c. 1648; patronised by the bishops; settled at

Cambridge, 1650; withdrew to Strasburg, 1658, to Geneva, 1659, and thence to Caen; returned to London, 1668; Hebrew professor at Cambridge, 1669; prebendary of Canterbury, 1670; at Paris, August 1672; died in Guernsey; his chief writings first published in Bryan Walton's 'Polyglot Bible,' 1657. [x. 214]

CHEVALIER, JOHN (d. 1846), agriculturist; vicar of Aspall, Suffolk, 1817; kept a lunatic asylum there; introduced into practical agriculture the Chevallier barley. [x. 215]

CHEVALIER, TEMPLE (1794-1873), astronomer; entered Pembroke College, Cambridge, 1813; second wrangler, 1817; B.D. Cambridge, 1825; fellow of Pembroke and of St. Catharine's, Cambridge; vicar of Great St. Andrew's, Cambridge, 1821-4; professor at Durham, 1835-71; canon of Durham, 1865; published sermons, astronomical papers, and translations from the fathers. [x. 215]

CHEWT, ANTHONY (d. 1695?). [See CHUTE.]

CHEYNE or CHIENE, CHARLES Viscount Newhaven (1624?-1698), inherited Cogenho, Northamptonshire, 1644; purchased Chelsea estate with the dowry of his wife, Lady Jane Cheyne [q. v.], 1657; created a Scottish viscount, 1681; M.P. for Newport, Cornwall, 1695. [x. 216]

CHEYNE, GEORGE (1671-1743), physician; studied medicine at Edinburgh; published medical and mathematical tracts, 1702-3; settled in London, c. 1702; removed to Bath; advocated vegetarianism; published treatises on diet and natural theology. [x. 217]

CHEYNE or LE CHEN, HENRY (d. 1328), bishop of Aberdeen, c. 1282; submitted to Edward I, 1291; declared for Robert Bruce, 1309; said to have built Baldownie Bridge. [x. 219]

CHEYNE, JAMES (d. 1602), philosopher and mathematician; studied at Aberdeen and in France; professor at St. Barbe College, Paris, and at Douay; canon of Tournai; published, 1575-87, Latin treatises on various subjects, including astronomy, geography, and the Aristotelian philosophy. [x. 219]

CHEYNE, LADY JANE (1621-1669), elder daughter of William Cavendish, first duke of Newcastle [q. v.]; brought up at Welbeck, Nottinghamshire; married, 1654, Charles Cheyne [q. v.]; wrote verses (not published). [x. 220]

CHEYNE, JOHN (1777-1836), medical writer; educated at Edinburgh; graduated in medicine, 1796; army surgeon; stationed at Leth Fort, 1799; removed to Dublin, 1809; acquired a lucrative practice; appointed physician-general to the forces in Ireland, 1820; retired to Buckinghamshire, 1831; published medical tracts, 1802-21; wrote an autobiography. [x. 220]

CHEYNE, CHEYNEY, or CHENEY, SIR THOMAS (1485?-1558), treasurer of household, and warden of Cinque ports; knighted, c. 1511; sent on mission to Pope Leo X, 1513-14; sheriff of Kent, 1516; squire of body to Henry VIII, c. 1519; resident ambassador at French court, 1522 and 1526; served in Brittany, 1523; warden of Cinque ports, 1538; treasurer of household, 1539; K.G., 1539; Henry VIII's deputy in Paris at christening of Henry III of France, 1546; M.P. for Kent, 1542, 1544, 1547, 1558, 1564, and 1568; joined opposition to Somerset, 1549; took field against Wyatt, 1554; retained his offices under Mary and Elizabeth. [Suppl. i. 421]

CHEYNE, SIR WILLIAM (d. 1438?), judge; serjeant-at-law, 1410; justice of the king's bench, 1415; chief-justice, 1424 till death; knighted, 1426. Probably not identical with the William Cheyne who was recorder of London in 1379. [x. 222]

CHEYNE, WILLIAM, second Viscount Newhaven (1657-1738), lord-lieutenant of Buckinghamshire, 1712-1714; M.P., Buckinghamshire, under Queen Anne; sold Chelsea Manor, 1712. [x. 217]

CHEYNELL, FRANCIS (1608-1665), puritan; son of an Oxford physician; fellow of Merton College, 1629; M.A., 1633; was refused the degree of B.D. because of his Calvinist opinions; vicar of Marston St. Lawrence, Northamptonshire, 1637; plundered by the king's troops, c. 1642; chaplain in the parliamentary army; member of the Westminster Assembly, 1643; intruded rector of Petworth, Sussex, 1643-60; violent adversary of William Obillingworth [q. v.], 1643-4; one of the parliamentary visitors of Oxford University, 1647; intruded president of St. John's College, Oxford, 1648-50; Lady Margaret professor of divinity, 1648-52; D.D., 1649; retired to his estate at Preston, Sussex, c. 1660; published works of controversial divinity, 1643-7. [x. 222]

CHEYNEY, JOHN (fl. 1677), congregationalist preacher in Cheshire, 1674; published four bitter pamphlets against quakerism, 1676-7. [x. 224]

CHEYNEY, RICHARD (1513-1579), bishop of Gloucester; fellow of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge; M.A., 1532; B.D., 1540; courtier of Edward VI; benefited in Buckingham, Hereford, Gloucester, and Warwick shires; disputed against transubstantiation, 1558; canon of Gloucester, 1558, and of Westminster, 1560; bishop of Gloucester, 1562, with Bristol in commendam; of decided Lutheran opinions; strongly opposed the Thirty-nine Articles, 1563; gave great offence by preaching Lutheran doctrines, 1568; D.D. Cambridge, 1569; reluctantly signed the articles, 1571. [x. 224]

CHIBALD, JAMES (b. 1612), royalist divine; son of William Chibald [q. v.]; chorister of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1624; M.A., 1633; rector of St. Nicholas Cole Abbey, London, 1641; sequestered by parliament, 1642. [x. 226]

CHIBALD, WILLIAM (1575-1641), divine; chorister of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1588; M.A., 1599; rector of St. Nicholas Cole Abbey, London, 1604-1640-1; published sermons and devotional tracts. [x. 226]

CHICHELE or CHICHELEY, HENRY (1362?-1443), archbishop of Canterbury; son of a yeoman of Higham Ferrers, Northamptonshire; patronised by William of Wykeham; educated at Winchester, 1373, and New College, Oxford, 1387; fellow, 1389; B.C.L., 1390; benefited in Wales, 1391; D.O.L.; rector of St. Stephen's, Walbrook, 1396-7; advocate in court of arches; prebendary of Salisbury, 1397-1409; archdeacon of Dorset, 1397; canon of Abergwilly, and of Lichfield, 1400; vicar of Oldham, Hampshire, 1402; archdeacon of Salisbury, 1402-4; chancellor of Salisbury, 1404-10; rector of Melcombe, Dorset, and of Sherston, Wiltshire; envoy to Pope Innocent VII, 1405, and to Gregory XII, 1407; bishop of St. David's, 1408 (enthroned, 1411); envoy to the council of Pisa, 1409; envoy to France, 1410 and 1413; archbishop of Canterbury, 1414; assented to the French war; appointed a special thanksgiving for Agincourt, 1415; active in proceedings against lollardism, 1416-22; with Henry V in France, 1418; negotiated surrender of Rouen, 1419; provided for independence of Gallican church, 1420; infringed the independence of the primacy by recalling an indulgence at the order of Pope Martin V, 1422; undertook visitation of his province, 1423; founded college and hospital at Higham Ferrers, 1424; upheld in council the Duke of Gloucester against Bishop Beaufort, 1424-31; endeavoured, under orders from Pope Martin V, to get the anti-papal statutes repealed, 1427-8; slighted by Pope Eugenius IV, 1438-9; benefactor of Canterbury Cathedral; founded the Chichele chest in Oxford University for relief of poor students; built a house for Oisterians in Oxford; founded All Souls' College, Oxford, 1437; consecrated its chapel, 1448. [x. 226]

CHICHELEY, SIR JOHN (d. 1691), rear-admiral; captain in the navy, 1663; knighted, 1665; served in Dutch war, 1665-8, in Mediterranean, 1668-71, and in Dutch war, 1672-3; rear-admiral, 1673; commissioner of the navy, 1675-80; commissioner of the admiralty, 1681-4 and 1689-90. [x. 231]

CHICHELEY, SIR THOMAS (1618-1699), master-general of the ordnance; of Wimpey, Cambridgeshire; high sheriff, 1637; M.P. for Cambridgeshire, 1640; ejected by the roundheads, 1642; M.P. for Cambridgeshire, 1661; knighted, 1670; master-general of the ordnance, 1670-4; M.P. for Cambridge town, 1678-9, 1685, 1689; lived extravagantly, and was obliged to sell Wimpey, 1686. [x. 231]

CHICHESTER, EARLS OF. [See LEIGH, FRANCIS, first EARL, d. 1653; WROTHESLEY, THOMAS, second EARL, 1607-1677; PRLHAM, THOMAS, first EARL of the third creation, 1728-1805; PRLHAM, THOMAS, second EARL, 1758-1836; PRLHAM, HENRY THOMAS, third EARL, 1804-1886.]

CHICHESTER, ARTHUR, BARON CHICHESTER of Belfast (1563-1625), lord deputy of Ireland; entered Exeter College, Oxford, 1583; assaulted a royal purveyor, and prudently withdrew to Ireland, where he remained till pardon was granted; served against the Armada, 1588, in Drake's expedition, 1595, in Essex's Cadiz expedition, 1596, in France, 1597, and in the Low Countries; knighted, 1597; colonel of a regiment at Drogheda, 1598; governor of Carrickfergus, and active against the Irish insurgents, 1599-1603; lord-deputy, 1604-14; aimed at disarming the natives and breaking down the clan system; forced by James I into repressive measures against Roman catholics, 1606-7; advocated translation of the common prayer book into Irish, 1607-8; endeavoured to pacify Ulster, 1607-8; engaged in planting Ulster with Scottish colonists; created Baron Chichester, 1613; recalled in consequence of his reluctance to resume repression of the Roman catholics, November 1614; lord treasurer of Ireland, 1616-25; envoy to the Elector Palatine, 1622; opposed war with Spain, 1624. [x. 232]

CHICHESTER, ARTHUR, first EARL OF DONEGAL (1606-1675), captain in the Irish army, 1627; M.P., Antrim, 1639; raised troops against Irish rebels, 1641; governor of Carrickfergus, 1643-4; refused the covenant, 1644; created Earl of Donegal, 1647; one of the hostages for Ormonde, 1647; governor of Carrickfergus, 1661-75; benefactor of Trinity College, Dublin. [x. 235]

CHICHESTER, SIR CHARLES (1795-1847), lieutenant-colonel; educated at Stonyhurst; ensign of foot, 1811; lieutenant, 1812; served in Mediterranean stations, 1811-17, in India, 1817-21, and America, 1821; major, 1826; lieutenant-colonel, 1831; brigadier-general of the British legion against the Carlists, 1835-8; knighted, 1840; commanded his regiment in American stations; died at Toronto. [x. 236]

CHICHESTER, FREDERICK RICHARD, styled by courtesy EARL OF BELFAST (1827-1853), author; educated at Eton; gave lectures in Belfast, 1851; died at Naples; wrote essays and tales. [x. 236]

CHICHESTER, HENRY MANNERS (1832-1894), writer on military history; lieutenant in 85th regiment; served at Mauritius and Cape of Good Hope; assisted in compiling and editing works on military history; contributed extensively to 'Dictionary of National Biography'; assisted in preparation of 'Records and Badges of Regiments in British Army', 1895. [Suppl. i. 423]

CHICHESTER, ROBERT (d. 1155), bishop of Exeter, 1138-55; dean of Salisbury. [x. 237]

CHIFFINCH, THOMAS (1600-1666), closet-keeper to Charles II; page to Charles I, 1641; page to Charles, prince of Wales, 1645, attending him during his exile; keeper of the king's jewels, 1660; receiver-general of the revenues of the plantations, 1668. [x. 237]

CHIFFINCH, WILLIAM (1602?-1688), page to Charles II before 1666; closet-keeper after the death of his brother Thomas [q. v.]; employed in secret and confidential transactions; received Charles's French pension for him; closet-keeper to James II. [x. 238]

CHIFFNEY, SAMUEL, the elder (1753?-1807), jockey; jockey and trainer at Newmarket, 1770-1806; won the Oaks, 1782, and the Derby, 1789; suspected, along with his employer, George, prince of Wales, of dishonest riding, 1790-1; published an autobiography, 1795 and 1800; invented a bit for horses. [x. 239]

CHIFFNEY, SAMUEL, the younger (1786-1854), jockey and trainer at Newmarket, 1802-51; won the Oaks five times and the Derby twice; son of Samuel Chiffney the elder [q. v.] [x. 239]

CHIFFNEY, WILLIAM (1784-1862), trainer at Newmarket; son of Samuel Chiffney the elder [q. v.] [x. 239]

CHILCOT, THOMAS (d. 1766), organist of Bath Abbey, 1733; composed songs and concertos. [x. 240]

CHILD, SIR FRANCIS, the elder (1642-1718), banker; goldsmith's apprentice in London, 1658-64; married, 1671, Elizabeth Wheeler, heiress of the wealthy goldsmiths of that name; in partnership with Robert Blanchard (d. 1681), his wife's stepfather, 1677, at the 'Marrygold'; in partnership as Francis Child and John Rogers, 1681; gave up goldsmith's and pawnbroker's business and con-

ded himself to banking, 1690; alderman of London, 1689; knighted, 1689; sheriff, 1690; lord mayor, 1698-9; M.P. for city of London, 1706 and 1708, and for Devizes, 1710; benefactor of Christ's Hospital. [x. 240]

CHILD, SIR FRANÇOIS, the younger (1684?-1740), banker; younger son of Sir Francis Child the elder [q. v.]; head of the firm of Francis Child & Co., 1721; alderman of London, 1721; sheriff, 1722; M.P. for city of London, 1722, and for Middlesex, 1737 and 1734; lord mayor, 1731-2; knighted, 1732. [x. 242]

CHILD, JOHN (1638?-1684), baptist preacher; born at Bedford; artisan and baptist preacher at Newport Pagnel; removed to London; published pamphlets arguing against dissent from the church, 1682; hanged himself; his death regarded as a 'judgment' against apostasy. [x. 242]

CHILD, SIR JOHN (d. 1690), governor of Bombay; brother of Sir Josiah Child [q. v.]; went to India as a boy; in the East India Company's service at Rajahpur; transferred to Surat, 1680; tried to suppress the Bombay mutiny, 1683; captain-general of the company's forces, 1684; created baronet, 1685; removed to Bombay, 1685; given authority over all the company's possessions, 1686; involved the company in war with Arangzib, 1689; charged with tyrannical conduct and want of faith with natives; died at Bombay. [x. 243]

CHILD, SIR JOSIAH (1630-1699), author of 'A new Discourse of Trade,' 1668 (4th edition, 1693); son of a London merchant; naval store-dealer at Portsmouth, 1655; mayor of Portsmouth; bought Wanstead Abbey, 1673; created baronet, 1678; despotic chairman of East India Company; retained power by bribing the court. [x. 244]

CHILD, WILLIAM (1606?-1697), musician; chorister at Bristol; clerk and assistant organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, 1630; Mus. Bac. Oxford, 1631; sole organist of St. George's Chapel, 1634; said to have been also organist of the Chapel Royal, Whitehall; ejected by the puritans, 1643; restored, 1660; chanter of the Chapel Royal, Whitehall; composer to the king; Mus. Doc. Oxford, 1663; published twenty anthems, 1639; much of his music still in manuscript. [x. 245]

CHILDE, ELIAS (f. 1798-1848), landscape painter. [x. 247]

CHILDE, HENRY LANGDON (1781-1874), inventor of dissolving views; perfected the magic lantern; adapted the limelight to it; gave popular lantern lectures in London and the provinces; devised double lanterns and dissolving views, 1807. [x. 247]

CHILDE, JAMES WARREN (1780-1862), miniature painter; exhibited landscapes, 1798; exhibited miniatures, 1816-53. [x. 248]

CHILDERLEY, JOHN (1565-1645), divine; entered Merchant Taylors' School, 1575; fellow of St. John's College, Oxford, 1579; D.D., 1603; beneficed in London and Essex; sequestered as a royalist, 1643. [x. 248]

CHILDERS, HUGH OULLING EARDLEY (1827-1896), statesman; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1850; inspector of schools, Melbourne, 1851, and, later, secretary to education department and emigration agent at port of Melbourne; auditor-general and member of legislative council, 1852; first vice-chancellor of Melbourne University; collector of customs and member of executive council, 1853; member for Portland in parliament of Victoria, 1856; agent-general for Victoria in London, 1857; M.P. for Pontefract, 1860-85; member of royal commission on penal servitude, 1863; financial secretary to treasury, 1865-6; appointed first lord of admiralty and privy councillor, 1868; resigned office, 1871; chancellor of duchy of Lancaster, 1872-3; secretary of state for war, 1880-2; produced successful scheme of army reform, 1881; chancellor of exchequer, 1882-5; M.P. for South Edinburgh, 1886; home secretary, 1886; supported Gladstone's home rule bill. [Suppl. i. 423]

CHILDERS, ROBERT CÆSAR (1838-1876), orientalist; civil servant in Ceylon, 1860; studied Sinhalese, Pali, and Buddhist sacred books; returned to England, 1864; sub-librarian at the India Office, 1872; professor of Pali, University College, London, 1873; edited Pali texts, 1869-74; compiled the first Pali dictionary, 1872-5; established the Aryan character of Sinhalese, 1873-5. [x. 248]

CHILDREN, GEORGE (1742-1818), electrician; B.A. Oriel College, Oxford, 1762; barrister of the Middle Temple; banker at Tunbridge; studied galvanic electricity, 1802. [x. 249]

CHILDREN, JOHN GEORGE (1777-1852), scientist; only son of George Children [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Cambridge; F.R.S., 1807; published notes on electricity, 1808-15; employed in the British Museum, 1816-40; translated chemical tracts, 1819-22; studied entomology. [x. 249]

CHILDREY, JOSHUA (1623-1670), antiquary; clerk of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1640; B.A., 1646; schoolmaster at Faversham, 1648; M.A., 1661; prebendary of Salisbury, rector of Upwey, Dorsetshire, and archdeacon of Sarum, 1664; published two astrological tracts, 1652-3, and 'Britannia Baconica,' 1660. [x. 250]

CHILDS, CHARLES (1807-1876), head of John Childs & Son, printers, Bungay, Suffolk; son of John Childs [q. v.] [x. 251]

CHILDS, JOHN, (1783-1853), printer, of Bungay, Suffolk; issued cheap editions of standard authors and annotated bibles; refused to pay church rates, 1836. [x. 251]

CHILDS, ROBERT (d. 1837), brother and partner of John Childs [q. v.] [x. 251]

CHILLENDE, EDMUND (f. 1656), author of 'Preaching without Ordination,' 1647; lieutenant, afterwards captain, in the parliamentary army. [x. 252]

CHILLESTER, JAMES (f. 1571), translator from the French of 'A most excellent Hystorie of . . . Christian Princes,' [x. 252]

CHILLINGWORTH, JOHN (f. 1360), mathematician; fellow of Merton College, Oxford; wrote on astrology and mathematics. [x. 252]

CHILLINGWORTH, JOHN (d. 1445), astronomer; fellow of Merton College, Oxford; junior proctor, 1441. [x. 252]

CHILLINGWORTH, WILLIAM (1602-1644), theologian; son of an Oxford mercer; godson of William Laud; scholar of Trinity College, Oxford, 1618; M.A., 1624; fellow, 1628; one of Laud's Oxford informers, 1628; disputed against Roman catholicism with 'John Fisher,' jesuit; embraced Romanism and went to Douay, 1630; returned to Oxford, 1631; abjured Romanism, 1634; violently attacked by Romanist writers, especially (1636) by Edward Knott; published 'The Religion of Protestants a safe Way of Salvation,' 1638; prebendary and chancellor of Salisbury, 1638; wrote against the Scots; with the king's army at Gloucester, 1643; taken prisoner at Arundel Castle, 1643; harassed by Francis Cheynell [q. v.] [x. 252]

CHILMARK or CHYLMARK, JOHN (f. 1386), schoolman; M.A. and fellow of Merton College, Oxford. [x. 257]

CHILMEAD, EDMUND (1610-1654), sometimes erroneously styled 'Edward,' miscellaneous writer; clerk of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1625-32; M.A., 1632; chaplain of Christ Church, Oxford, 1632; ejected, 1648; hack-writer in London; compiled a catalogue of Greek manuscripts in Bodleian, 1636; published translations and pamphlets, 1640-50; composed songs; his translation of Malalas was published 1691. [x. 257]

CHINNERY, GEORGE (d. 1852), portrait and landscape painter; exhibited in London, 1766; in Dublin, 1788; at Canton, 1830; visited India; published etchings of 'Oriental heads,' 1839-40; died at Macao. [x. 258]

CHIPP, EDMUND THOMAS (1823-1886), composer; eldest son of Thomas Paul Chipp [q. v.]; chorister of the Chapel Royal, Whitehall; organist of various London churches, 1843-62; professional violinist; Mus. Bac. Cambridge, 1859; Mus. Doc., 1860; organist in Belfast, 1862-6; organist of Ely Cathedral, 1866-86; published music. [x. 258]

CHIPP, THOMAS PAUL (1793-1870), musician; chorister of Westminster Abbey; harpist; drummer; member of London orchestras, 1818-70. [x. 259]

CHIPPENDALE, MARY JANE (1837?-1888), actress; née Seaman; married William Henry Chippendale [q. v.], 1866; at Lyceum and in America with (Sir) Henry Irving. [Suppl. ii. 1]

CHIPPENDALE, THOMAS (d. 1779), furniture maker, of London; published 'The Gentleman and Cabinet Maker's Director, 1762. [x. 269]

CHIPPENDALE, WILLIAM HENRY (1801-1888), actor; apprenticed as printer and auctioneer; appeared as David in 'Rivals' at Montrose, 1810; at Park Theatre, New York, 1836-53; appeared as Sir Anthony Absolute at Haymarket, 1853; and later as Malvollo, Adam, and Harcourt; at Lyceum, as Polonius, 1874. [Suppl. II. 1]

CHIRBURY, DAVID (fl. 1430). [See CHERBURY.]

CHIRK, LORD OF (1256?-1326). [See MORTIMER, ROGER.]

CHISENHALE or CHISENHALL, EDWARD (d. 1684), historian; colonel in Charles I's army; published 'Catholike History', 1668, in favour of the church of England. [x. 269]

CHISHOLM, AENEAS (1759-1818), Scottish catholic prelate; educated at Valladolid; tutor at Douay, 1786; priest in Strathglass, 1789; titular bishop of Diocæsarea, 1805; coadjutor, 1805, and vicar-apostolic, 1814, of the highland district. [x. 260]

CHISHOLM, ALEXANDER (1792?-1847), portrait and historical painter; weaver's apprentice at Peterhead; removed to Edinburgh; came to London, 1818; exhibited, 1820-47. [x. 269]

CHISHOLM, ARCHIBALD (d. 1877), officer in the East India Company's service, 1817-45; captain, 1833; major. [x. 261]

CHISHOLM, CAROLINE (1808-1877), the emigrant's friend; née Jones; married Archibald Chisholm [q. v.], 1830; opened schools for soldiers' daughters, Madras, 1832; opened home for female immigrants, Sydney, 1841; came to London, 1846; wrote on emigration, 1850; returned to Australia, 1854; returned to England, 1866; pensioned, 1867. [x. 260]

CHISHOLM, COLIN (d. 1828), medical writer; surgeon in the West Indies, 1796; practitioner in Bristol, c. 1800. [x. 261]

CHISHOLM, JOHN (1752-1814), Scottish catholic prelate; educated at Douay; titular bishop of Orléans, 1792; vicar-apostolic of highland district, 1792-1814. [x. 261]

CHISHOLM, WALTER (1856-1877), poet; a Berwickshire shepherd; wrote verses in the local papers, 1875. Poems by him appeared in 1879. [x. 261]

CHISHOLM, WILLIAM I (d. 1564), bishop of Dunblane, 1527-64; a man of infamous character; alienated the episcopal estates to his illegitimate children. [x. 262]

CHISHOLM, WILLIAM II (d. 1593), bishop of Dunblane; coadjutor to his uncle, William Chisholm I [q. v.], 1561; bishop of Dunblane, 1564; envoy for Mary Queen of Scots, 1565-7; withdrew to France before 1570; deposed, 1573; bishop of Valson, France, 1570-84; monk of the Chartreuse; prior of the Chartreuse at Lyons and Rome. [x. 262]

CHISHOLM, WILLIAM III (d. 1629), bishop of Valson, 1584, in succession to his uncle, William Chisholm II [q. v.]; intrigued in Scottish affairs, 1602, wishing to obtain the cardinalate, in the interest of the Scottish catholics; rector of the Ynaissein, 1603-29. [x. 262]

CHISHULL, EDMUND (1671-1738), antiquary; scholar of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1687; M.A., 1693; fellow, 1696; B.D., 1705; chaplain at Smyrna, 1698-1702; vicar of Walthamstow, Essex, 1708-33, with other preferment; published Latin verses, numismatical notes, notes of travel, and 'Antiquitates Asiaticæ', 1728. [x. 263]

CHISHULL, JOHN DE (d. 1280), bishop of London; rector of Isleham, Cambridgeshire, 1252, and of Upwell, Norfolk, 1256; archdeacon of London, 1262-8; clerk of Henry III; envoy to Paris, 1263; baron and chancellor of the exchequer, 1264; provost of Beverley, 1264; dean of St. Paul's, 1268; lord treasurer, 1269; bishop of London, 1274-80; his duties performed by deputies, 1280. [x. 264]

CHISWELL, RICHARD, the elder (1639-1711), publisher at the 'Rose and Crown,' Paul's Churchyard. [x. 265]

CHISWELL, RICHARD, the younger (1673-1751), traveller; son of Richard Chiswell the elder [q. v.]; a Turkey merchant; travelled in the East; M.P., Calne, 1714; bought Debden Hall, Essex, 1715. [x. 266]

CHISWELL, TRENCH, originally RICHARD MULLMAN (1735?-1797), antiquary; son of a Dutch merchant; changed his name on succeeding to the Debden Hall estate, 1772; M.P., Aldborough, Yorkshire; collected notes relating to history of Essex; committed suicide. [x. 266]

CHITTING, HENRY (d. 1638), Chester herald, 1618; visited Berkshire, Gloucestershire, and Lincolnshire. [x. 266]

CHITTY, EDWARD (1804-1863), legal reporter; third son of Joseph Chitty the elder [q. v.]; barrister, 1829; equity draughtsman; published 'Equity Index, 1831, and bankruptcy cases ('Deacon and Chitty'), 1833-1839; subsequently lived in Jamaica. [x. 266]

CHITTY, JOSEPH, the younger (d. 1838), special pleader; son of Joseph Chitty the elder [q. v.]; author of 'Chitty on Contracts', 1841, and other legal works. [x. 267]

CHITTY, JOSEPH, the elder (1776-1841), legal writer; special pleader; barrister, 1816; retired from practice, 1833; published law manuals, 1799-1837. [x. 266]

CHITTY, SIR JOSEPH WILLIAM (1828-1899), judge; son of Thomas Chitty [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford; M.A., 1855; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1856; bencher, 1875; treasurer, 1895; Q.C., 1874; M.P. for Oxford, 1880; appointed justice of high court, chancery division, and knighted, 1891; lord justice of appeal, 1897; nominated judge under the Benefices Act, 1898. [Suppl. II. 2]

CHITTY, THOMAS (1802-1878), legal writer; special pleader, 1820-77; edited standard law books, 1835-45; published 'Chitty's Forms' (of practical proceedings), 1834. [x. 267]

CHOCKE, SIR RICHARD (d. 1483?), judge; pleader by 1441; serjeant-at-law, 1453; bought Long Ashton, Somerset, 1454; justice of common pleas, 1461 till death; knighted, 1464. [x. 267]

CHOLMLEY, HUGH (1574?-1641), controversialist; schoolfellow of Bishop Joseph Hall; entered Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1589; M.A., 1596; benefited at Tiverton, 1604; canon of Exeter, 1632; published 'The State of the Now-Romane Church', 1629. [x. 268]

CHOLMLEY, SIR HUGH (1600-1657), royalist; educated at Cambridge and Gray's Inn; M.P., Scarborough, 1624-6 and 1640; refused to pay ship-money, 1639; actively opposed Strafford, 1640; raised troops in Yorkshire for parliament, 1642; fought half-heartedly for parliament in Yorkshire, 1642-3; joined the queen at York, 1643; held Yorkshire coast for Charles I.; taken prisoner, 1645; withdrew to Rouen; returned, 1649; imprisoned, 1651; wrote an autobiography, 1656 (printed, 1787). [x. 268]

CHOLMLEY, SIR ROGER (d. 1665), judge; of Lincoln's Inn; serjeant-at-law, 1631; recorder of London, 1635-46; knighted, 1637; M.P. for London, 1642; chief baron of the exchequer, 1646; commissioner to suppress the chantries, 1647; chief justice of king's bench, 1652; deprived by Queen Mary, 1653; founded Highgate grammar school, 1652. [x. 269]

CHOLMLEY, WILLIAM (d. 1554), grocer, of London; wrote, 1553, a political tract (first printed, 1853), entitled 'The Request and Suite of a True-hearted Englishman.' [x. 270]

CHOLMONDELEY, GEORGE, second EARL OF CHOLMONDELEY (d. 1738), general; brother of Hugh Cholmondeley, first earl [q. v.]; educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford; cornet of horse, 1685; in arms for Prince of Orange, 1688; cavalry officer at the Boyne, 1690, and Steinkirk, 1692; hon. D.O.L. Oxford, 1695; major-general, 1702; created Baron Newborough, 1716; succeeded as second Earl of Cholmondeley, 1724; general of horse, 1727; governor of Guernsey, 1732. [x. 271]

CHOLMONDELEY or CHOLMLEY, SIR HUGH (1613-1596), soldier; of Cholmondeley, Cheshire; knighted for service in Scotland, 1542; served against the Scots, 1557; high sheriff of Cheshire. [x. 271]

CHOLMONDELEY, HUGH, first Earl of Cholmondeley (d. 1724), succeeded as Viscount Cholmondeley of Kells, 1681; created Baron Cholmondeley, in the peerage of England, 1689, and Earl of Cholmondeley, 1706; treasurer of the household, 1708-13 and 1714-24. [x. 271]

CHOLMONDELEY, MARY, Lady (1568-1626), litigant; daughter of Charles Holford (d. 1581), of Holford, Cheshire; married, c. 1580, Sir Hugh Cholmondeley [q. v.]; litigation concerning her patrimony, begun 1581, ended, by compromise, c. 1620. [x. 272]

CHOLMONDELEY, ROBERT, Earl of Leinster (1584?-1659), eldest son of Sir Hugh Cholmondeley [q. v.]; created baronet, 1611; created Viscount Cholmondeley of Kells, 1628; raised troops in Cheshire for Charles I, 1642; created Baron Cholmondeley, in the peerage of England, 1645; created Earl of Leinster, 1646; fined by parliament. [x. 272]

CHORLEY, CHARLES (1810?-1874), journalist at Truro; printed privately translations from various languages. [x. 272]

CHORLEY, HENRY FOTHERGILL (1808-1872), critic; clerk in Liverpool; wrote for magazines, 1827; contributed musical criticisms to the 'Athenæum,' 1830-1868; resided in London, on the staff of the 'Athenæum,' 1833-66; wrote unsuccessful novels and dramas, 1835-1859, memoirs on music, 1841-62, a life of Mrs. Hemans, 1836, and an autobiography. [x. 273]

CHORLEY, JOHN RUTTER (1807?-1867), poet; clerk in Liverpool; secretary to Grand Junction railway between Liverpool and Birmingham; removed to London; contributed to the 'Athenæum,' 1846-54; published 'The Wife's Litany,' a rhyming drama, 1865; gave to the British Museum his fine collection of Spanish plays. [x. 274]

CHORLEY, JOSIAH (d. 1719?), Presbyterian minister; M.A.; Presbyterian minister at Norwich, 1691 till death; published an 'Index to the Bible,' appending 'A Poetical Meditation,' 1711. [x. 275]

CHORLEY, RICHARD (A. 1757), Presbyterian minister in Norfolk; son of Josiah Chorley [q. v.]. [x. 275]

CHORLTON, JOHN (1668-1705), Presbyterian divine; educated in Richard Frankland's [q. v.] academy, 1682; Presbyterian pastor in Manchester, 1697-1705; conducted a Presbyterian divinity college in Manchester, 1699-1705. [x. 275]

CHRISTMAS. [See CHRISTMAS.]

CHRISTIAN, EDWARD (d. 1823), lawyer; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1779; fellow, 1780-9; barrister of Gray's Inn, 1786; failed on circuit; professor of law at Cambridge, 1788; chief-justice of Isle of Ely; published legal treatises, 1790-1821. [x. 276]

CHRISTIAN, FLETCHER (A. 1789), mutineer; master's mate of the exploring ship Bounty, 1787; headed the mutiny in the Pacific, 28 April 1789, against William Bligh [q. v.], commander of the ship; sailed to Tahiti; reported to have been in England, 1809. [x. 277]

CHRISTIAN, Sir HUGH CLOBERRY (1747-1798), rear-admiral; served, chiefly in Mediterranean, 1761-71; captain, 1778; served in West Indies, 1779-82; rear-admiral, 1798; knighted, 1798; commander-in-chief in West Indies, 1796, and at the Cape, 1798. [x. 278]

CHRISTIAN, THOMAS (d. 1799), translator into Manx of part of 'Paradise Lost,' 1796; vicar of Kirk Marown, Man, 1779-99. [x. 279]

CHRISTIAN, WILLIAM (1608-1663), ILLIAM DRONE ('Brown-haired William') of Manx story; third son of one of the deemsters of Man; his family, with others, irritated by the land policy of James, seventh earl of Derby and tenth lord of Man; received from his father Ronaldsway estate, 1643; receiver-general of Man, 1648-1658; appointed commander of Manx troops, August 1651, by the Earl of Derby (beheaded 15 Oct.); headed an insurrection against the Countess of Derby; surrendered Man to the parliamentary forces, 1651; compelled the countess to surrender Rushen and Peel castles, November 1651; governor of Man, 1656; superseded and accused of peculation, 1658; escaped to England; imprisoned in London, 1660; returned to Man, confiding in the Act of Indemnity, c. 1661; arrested by Charles, eighth earl of Derby, September 1662; appealed to Charles II; found guilty of treason by the Manx authorities, under great pressure from the earl, 29 Dec. 1662; executed, 2 Jan. 1663. Charles II expressed great indignation at the proceedings, punished the deemsters and governor, and restored Ronaldsway to Christian's son. [x. 279]

CHRISTIE, ALEXANDER (1807-1860), historical painter; educated in Edinburgh; served apprenticeship to a writer to the signet; studied art in Edinburgh (1833), London, and Paris; art teacher in the Edinburgh School of Art, 1843; exhibited in Edinburgh. [x. 282]

CHRISTIE, HUGH (1710-1774), schoolmaster; M.A. Aberdeen, 1730; rector of Brechin, afterwards of Montrose, academy; published a Latin grammar and primer, 1788-60. [x. 283]

CHRISTIE, JAMES, the elder (1730-1803), auctioneer in London, 1766-1803. [x. 283]

CHRISTIE, JAMES, the younger (1773-1831), antiquary and auctioneer; eldest son of James Christie the elder [q. v.]; educated at Eton; took over his father's business, 1803; wrote on the antiquity of chess, 1801, Etruscan vases, 1806, Greek vases, 1822-5, and sculpture, 1833 (posthumously published). [x. 283]

CHRISTIE, RICHARD COPLEY (1830-1901), scholar and bibliophile; B.A. Lincoln College, Oxford, 1853; M.A. 1855; professor of ancient and modern history, 1854-66, political economy and commercial science, 1855-66, and jurisprudence and law, 1855-69, Owens College, Manchester, holding chairs in plurality; called to bar at Lincoln's Inn, 1857; governor and member of council of Owens College, Manchester, 1870; member of council and university court, Victoria University, 1880; hon. LL.D., 1895; chancellor of see of Manchester, 1872-94; became joint-legatee of Sir Joseph Whitworth [q. v.], 1887, and was subsequently a munificent benefactor of Owens College; chairman of Chetham Society, 1883-1901; bequeathed his library to Owens College; contributed to the 'Dictionary of National Biography' and 'Encyclopædia Britannica.' His publications include 'Etienne Dolet, the Martyr of the Renaissance,' 1880. [Suppl. ii. 3]

CHRISTIE, SAMUEL HUNTER (1784-1868), mathematician; son of James Christie the elder [q. v.]; entered Trinity College, Cambridge, 1800; second wrangler, 1805; mathematical teacher and professor at Woolwich Military Academy, 1806-54; F.R.S., 1826; studied magnetism, and served constantly upon the compass committee; contributed to scientific journals. [x. 284]

CHRISTIE, THOMAS (1761-1798), political writer; banker's clerk; studied science privately; studied medicine in London (1784) and Edinburgh; contributed scientific papers to the 'Gentleman's Magazine,' 1784; wrote for the 'Analytical Review'; published his 'Miscellanies,' 1789; visited Paris, 1789; wrote in defence of the French revolution 1790-1; returned to Paris, 1792; wrote, for the 'National Assembly,' an English version of the new French constitution; partner in a London carpet factory, 1792; died at Surinam. [x. 285]

CHRISTIE, THOMAS (1773-1829), physician; educated at Aberdeen; surgeon in the East India Company's service, Ceylon, 1797-1810; introduced vaccination there, 1802; M.D. Aberdeen, 1810; practitioner in Cheltenham, 1810-29; physician extraordinary to the prince regent, 1813; wrote on 'Vaccination in Ceylon,' 1811. [x. 287]

CHRISTIE, WILLIAM (1748-1823), unitarian; merchant in Montrose; opened, and became minister of, a unitarian church in Montrose, 1782, the first of the denomination in Scotland; unitarian minister in Glasgow, 1794; emigrated to America, 1795; published unitarian treatises, 1784-1811. [x. 287]

CHRISTIE, WILLIAM DOUGAL (1816-1874), diplomatist; son of an army physician; born at Bombay; B.A. Cambridge, 1838; barrister, 1840; M.P., Weymouth, 1842-7; entered the diplomatic service, 1848; envoy to Brazil, 1859-63; pensioned, 1863; edited Dryden's works, 1870; vindicated John Stuart Mill's memory against Abraham Hayward's adverse criticism; published a life of Shaftesbury, 1871. [x. 288]

CHRISTINA (A. 1086), nun of Romsey; daughter of the atheling Eadward; born in Hungary; brought to England, 1087; fled to Scotland with her brother Eadgar, 1067; submitted to William the Conqueror; obtained lands in Oxfordshire and Warwickshire; nun at Romsey, Hampshire, 1086; brought up Eadgyth (or Matilda), and opposed her marriage with Henry I, 1100. [x. 289]

CHRISTISON, SIR ROBERT (1797-1882), toxicologist; educated in Edinburgh; M.D., 1819; house physician to Edinburgh Infirmary, 1817-20; studied in London, under John Abernethy, and in Paris, under Robiquet, the chemist, and Orfila, the toxicologist; medical professor in Edinburgh, 1822-77; physician to Edinburgh Infirmary, 1827; medical adviser to the crown, 1829-66; created baronet, 1871; published 'Treatise on Poisons,' 1829, and contributed largely to medical and scientific periodicals. [x. 290]

CHRISTMAS, GERARD, or GARRETT CHRISTMAS (d. 1634), carver and statuary; carved funeral monuments; carver to the navy, 1614-34; designer of figures for several lord mayors' shows between 1619 and 1632. [x. 291]

CHRISTMAS, HENRY, afterwards NORMAN-FEARN (1811-1868), miscellaneous writer; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1840; in holy orders, 1837; librarian of Slon College, 1841-8; editor of church periodicals, 1840-1860; published verses, theological and philosophical pamphlets, and notes of travel; wrote on numismatics, 1844-64; his collection of coins sold, 1864. [x. 292]

CHRISTOPHERSON, JOHN (d. 1558), bishop of Chichester; educated at Pembroke Hall and St. John's College, Cambridge; M.A., 1543; fellow of Pembroke Hall, 1541, of St. John's College, and, 1546, of Trinity College, Cambridge; withdrew to Louvain, c. 1547; master of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1553; confessor to Queen Mary; dean of Norwich, 1554; rector of Swanton Morley, Norfolk, 1556; a visitor of Cambridge University, 1567; bishop of Chichester, 1567; persecuted protestants in his diocese; imprisoned for violent preaching, 1558; benefactor to Trinity College, Cambridge; translated into Latin the ecclesiastical historians, four books of Philo, and other Greek authors. [x. 293]

CHRISTOPHERSON, MICHAEL (fl. 1613), Roman catholic divine; educated at Douay; wrote 'A Treatise of Antichrist,' in defence of Bellarmine, 1613. [x. 295]

CHRISTY, HENRY (1810-1865), ethnologist; banker in London; travelled, for ethnological purposes, in the East, 1850, in Scandinavia, 1852-3, in North America, Cuba, and Mexico, 1856-7; explored the Vezere valley caves, 1864; died in Belgium; bequeathed his collections to the nation. [x. 295]

CHRYSTAL, THOMAS (d. 1535). [See CRYSTALL.]

CHUBB, CHARLES (d. 1845), locksmith; iron-monger in Winchester; locksmith at Portsea; founded firm of Chubb & Co., London; patented locks and safes, 1824-33. [x. 296]

CHUBB, JOHN (1816-1872), manufacturer of locks and safes; son of Charles Chubb [q. v.]. [x. 296]

CHUBB, THOMAS (1679-1747), deist; glover's apprentice at Salisbury, 1694; tallow-chandler's assistant, 1705; published 'The Supremacy of the Father asserted,' 1715; servant to Sir Joseph Jekyll; helped in a tallow-chandler's shop in Salisbury, c. 1716 till death; published Arian tracts, 1728-32, and deistical tracts, 1734-46. [x. 297]

CHUBBES or JUBBS or SHUBYS, WILLIAM (d. 1605), writer on logic; B.A. Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, 1465; fellow; D.D., 1491; first master of Jesus College, Cambridge, 1497-1505. [x. 298]

CHUDLEIGH, ELIZABETH, COUNTESS OF BRISTOL (1720-1788), calling herself DUCHESS OF KINGSTON; daughter of Colonel Thomas Chudleigh (d. 1726); beautiful, but weak-minded, and illiterate; befriended by William Pulteney, afterwards earl of Bath; maid of honour to Augusta, princess of Wales, at Leicester House, 1743; courted by James, duke of Hamilton, a minor, 1744; married, secretly, Augustus John Hervey, lieutenant in the navy, brother of the second Earl of Bristol, 1744; concealed birth and death of a son, November 1747; obtained separation from her husband; carried on flirtations with George II; privately took means to establish the fact of her marriage, 1759; appeared openly as concubine of Evelyn Pierrepont, second duke of Kingston, 1760; visited Berlin and Dresden, as 'Madame Chudleigh,' 1765; denied the marriage with Hervey, on oath, February 1768, after her husband threatened (1768) a trial for divorce; being legally declared a spinster, she married the Duke of Kingston, 8 March; left heiress of the duke's property, September 1773; went to Rome; accused of bigamy by the Duke of Kingston's nephew, 1774; quarrelled with Samuel Foote, August 1775; found guilty of bigamy by the peers, 1776; withdrew to Calais; her marriage with Hervey, who in 1775 became third Earl of Bristol (d. 1779), declared valid, 1777; visited the czarina Catherine, 1777; visited Rome and other capitals; died at Paris. [x. 298]

CHUDLEIGH, SIR GEORGE (d. 1657), parliamentary commander; M.P. for St. Michael, Cornwall, 1601, for Lostwithiel, 1614, 1621, and 1626, and for Tiverton, 1624; created baronet, 1622; parliamentary officer in Cornwall, 1643; resigned his commission, 1643, after his son James Chudleigh [q. v.] had been accused of treason; subsequently espoused the royalist cause. [x. 301]

CHUDLEIGH, JAMES (d. 1643), parliamentary major-general; third son of Sir George Chudleigh [q. v.]; captain in the parliament's army in Yorkshire, 1641; sergeant-major-general in Cornwall; victorious over the royalists, 1643; taken prisoner by the royalists, 1643; suspected of treachery in the action; accepted a colonelship in the king's army, May 1643; mortally wounded, September 1643. [x. 302]

CHUDLEIGH, MARY, LADY (1656-1710), authoress; née Lee; married Sir George Chudleigh, bart., of Ashton, Devonshire, 1685; published verses and essays, 1701-10. [x. 303]

CHUDLEIGH, THOMAS (fl. 1689), diplomatist; secretary to the embassy to Sweden, 1673, and to Nimeguen, 1677; envoy to Holland, 1678-87; converted to Roman catholicism, 1687. [x. 303]

CHURCH, FREDERICK JOHN (1854-1888), translator of Dante's 'De Monarchia,' 1878; eldest son of Richard William Church [q. v.]. [Suppl. ii. 8]

CHURCH, JOHN (1676? -1741), musician; chorister of New College, Oxford; member of the Chapel Royal, 1697; lay vicar of Westminster Abbey, c. 1700; published 'Introduction to Psalmody,' 1723. [x. 303]

CHURCH, RALPH (d. 1787), editor of Spenser's 'Faery Queen,' 1738; son of John Church [q. v.]; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1732; vicar of Pyrton and Shirburn, Oxfordshire. [x. 304]

CHURCH, SIR RICHARD (1784-1873), liberator of Greece; ensign 13th light infantry, 1800; served in Egypt, 1801; lieutenant, at Malta, 1803; captain of the Corsican rangers, 1806; distinguished himself at Capri, 1808, and in the Ionian islands, 1809; major, 1808, and colonel, 1812-15, of Greek troops in Ionian islands; British attaché with the Austrian army, 1816; Neapolitan major-general; suppressed brigandage in Apulia; defeated by the Sicilian insurgents, 1820; K.C.H., 1822; generalissimo of the Greek insurgents, 1827; defeated, through disobedience of the Greek chief Travellias, at Athens; drove the Turks out of Akarnania, 1827; protested against restoring North Greece to Turkey, 1830-2; led the Greek revolution, 1843; general in the Greek army, 1864; lived in retirement at Athens. [x. 304]

CHURCH, RICHARD WILLIAM (1815-1890), dean of St. Paul's; born at Lisbon; lived at Florence, 1818-28; B.A. Wadham College, Oxford, 1836; fellow of Oriel, 1838-1852; formed lasting friendship with Newman; ordained deacon, 1839; junior proctor, 1844; one of originators of 'Guardian,' 1845; priest, 1852; accepted living of Whitley, 1862; select preacher at Oxford, 1868, 1876-8, and 1881-2; dean of St. Paul's, 1871-90; leading member of the high church party. A contributor to the 'English Men of Letters' series, and author of a 'History of the Oxford Movement' (posthumously published, 1891). [Suppl. ii. 6]

CHURCH, THOMAS (1707-1766), controversialist; M.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1731; D.D., 1749; vicar of Battersea, 1740-56; prebendary of St. Paul's, 1744; wrote against deism and methodism. [x. 305]

CHURCHER, RICHARD (1659-1723), founder of 'Churcher's College' at Petersfield, Hampshire, for naval cadets of the East India Company; apprenticed to a London barber-surgeon, 1875-82; in the East India Company's service; settled at Petersfield. [x. 306]

CHURCHEY, WALTER (1747-1805), methodist; attorney of Brecon; corresponded with John Wesley, 1771; wrote religious verse, 1789-1804. [x. 306]

CHURCHILL, ALFRED B. (1825-1870), journalist; born at Constantinople; proprietor of the Turkish semi-official journal, the 'Jeride Hawades'; published Turkish books; visited England, 1867. [x. 308]

CHURCHILL, ARABELLA (1648-1730), mistress of James II; eldest daughter of Sir Winston Churchill [q. v.]; maid of honour to Anne, duchess of York, c. 1685; intrigued with James, from 1688, by whom she had two sons and two daughters; pensioned; married Colonel Charles Godfrey. [x. 307]

CHURCHILL, AUNSHAM (d. 1728), bookseller and publisher in partnership with his brother John at the 'Black Swan', London, from 1685; bought estates in Dorset; M.P., Dorchester, 1708-10. [x. 307]

CHURCHILL, CHARLES (1656-1714), general; younger son of Sir Winston Churchill [q. v.]; of the household of Christian V of Denmark, and of Prince George of Denmark; served in Ireland, 1690; fought at Landen, 1693, and Blenheim, 1704; major-general, 1694; lieutenant-general, 1702; M.P., Weymouth, 1701-10; governor of Guernsey, 1706-10; general, 1707. [x. 308]

CHURCHILL, CHARLES (1731-1764), satirist; son of a Westminster curate; at Westminster School, 1739-1748; curate in Somerset, 1754; curate at Rainham, Essex, 1756; curate of St. John's, Westminster, 1758-63, in succession to his father; separated from his wife, 1761; became famous by his 'Hosicid' and 'Apology', 1761; attached himself to John Wilkes; satirised authors and politicians, 1762-4; died at Boulogne; his collected works published, 1763-4. [x. 309]

CHURCHILL, FLEETWOOD (1808-1878), obstetrician; apprenticed to a Nottingham physician, 1822; studied in London, Dublin, Paris, and Edinburgh; M.D. Edinburgh, 1831; practitioner in Dublin; lectured on obstetrics, 1856-64; wrote on midwifery; a strong supporter of the episcopal church in Ireland. [x. 313]

CHURCHILL, GEORGE (1654-1710), admiral; younger son of Sir Winston Churchill [q. v.]; naval volunteer, 1668; lieutenant, 1672-4; in command of a ship, 1678-88; made haste to join the Prince of Orange; fought at Beachy Head, 1690, and Barfleur, 1692; left the service, 1693; commissioner of the admiralty, 1699-1702; rear-admiral, 1701; admiral of the blue, 1702; actual manager of naval affairs, though the naval administration was conducted in the name of Prince George of Denmark, 1702-8; rendered odious by his rapacity and incompetence; M.P. for St. Albans, 1700-8, and later for Portsmouth. [x. 313]

CHURCHILL, SIR JOHN (d. 1685), master of the rolls; barrister of Lincoln's Inn, 1647; practised in chancery; possibly M.P., 1661-79; knighted, 1670; censured by the Commons for appearing as senior counsel against a member, 1675; recorder of Bristol, 1683; master of the rolls, 1685; M.P., Bristol, 1685. [x. 314]

CHURCHILL, JOHN, first DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH (1650-1722), eldest surviving son of Sir Winston Churchill [q. v.]; educated at St. Paul's School; favourite of the Duchess of Cleveland; page to James, duke of York; and afterwards his confidential servant; ensign in the foot guards, September 1667; served at Tangiers; captain of foot, 1672; served in Flanders, 1672-7; colonel in French service, 1674; colonel of foot, February, 1678; married, 1678, Sarah Jennings [see CHURCHILL, SARAH]; envoy to the Prince of Orange and offered to serve under him, 1678; accompanied the Duke of York to Holland, 1679, and to Scotland, 1679-82, acting as agent between the duke and Charles II; created Baron Churchill of Aymouth in the Scottish peerage, 1682; colonel of the 1st dragoons, 1683; envoy to Louis XIV, 1685; created Baron Churchill of Sandridge in the English peerage, 1685; chief instrument in crushing Monmouth's rebellion, July 1685; major-general and colonel of the 3rd horse guards, 1685; lieutenant-general, 1688; entered into negotiations with the Prince of Orange, 1687, and expressed readiness to support him, August 1688; vowed fidelity to James II, November 1688; in command at Salisbury; went over to the Prince of Orange, 24 Nov. 1688; employed in quieting

the troops; openly voted for a regency, but privately induced the Princess Anne to consent that William of Orange should reign over England for life; created Earl of Marlborough, 1689; commanded the English troops in Flanders, 1689; commander-in-chief in England, 1690; captured Cork and Kinsale, 1690; accompanied William III to Flanders, 1691; opened negotiations with James II, 1691; persuaded Princess Anne to write to her father, 1691; intrigued with the army; dismissed from his offices, 1692; imprisoned in the Tower for two months, 1692; revenged himself by causing the failure of the Brest expedition, 1694; his overtures to William III rejected, 1694; voted with the extreme Tories in the Lords; voted for Sir John Fenwick's [q. v.] attainder, 1696; received back into favour, 1698; governor of the Duke of Gloucester (d. 1700), 1698; restored to his commands; continued to vote with the Tories, 1701; accompanied William III to Holland, July 1701; came into power on Anne's accession, 1702; K.G., 1702; captain-general of the forces, 1702-11; master-general of the ordnance, 1702-11; procured declaration of war with France, 1702; commander of the forces in Holland; delayed by the supineness of his allies; crossed the Meuse, July 1702; took Venloo, September, and Rillremond and Liège, October 1702; created Duke of Marlborough, December 1702; continued to vote with the Tories; lost his only son, February 1703; opened his next campaign by taking Bonn, 1703; his plans thwarted by the incompetency or treachery of the Dutch generals; took Limburg, September 1703; opposed by the extreme Tories; obtained their dismissal from office, but failed to conciliate the Whigs; persuaded the Dutch to assent to a campaign on the Moselle, 1704; transferred his army to Bavaria; joined Prince Eugene, June 1704; forced the Schellenberg, 2 July; crushed the French and Bavarians at Blenheim, 13 Aug. 1704; arranged for a campaign on the Moselle in 1705; visited Berlin; created Prince of Mindelheim by the emperor (November 1705); voted Woodstock Manor and Blenheim Palace by parliament; failed to persuade the Dutch and Germans to support his favourite plan of invading France by the Moselle, April-June, 1705; invaded Brabant, July 1705; again thwarted by the Dutch general, Slangenberg; visited Vienna, Berlin, and Hanover in order to pacify the allies; opposed at home by the extreme Tories; failed to persuade the Dutch to undertake a campaign in Italy, April 1706; crushed the French at Ramillies, May 1706; occupied Brussels, Antwerp, Ostend, and other fortresses, May-October 1706; confronted by great jealousy between the Dutch and the emperor, which was fomented by Louis XIV's overtures; weakened by the growing influence of the Whigs at home; began to lose Anne's good will; pensioned by parliament; visited the Elector of Hanover, Charles XII of Sweden, and the king of Prussia, 1707; deserted by the emperor, who sought to secure Naples by a separate treaty with France; unable to take the field effectually; became involved in the bitter party strife between the Whig and Tory leaders, and forced Anne to dismiss Harley, 1708; provided for defence against the Pretender's attempted invasion, 1708; delayed by the tardiness of the allies, May 1708; crushed the French at Oudenarde, July 1708; took Lille and Ghent, December 1708; took part in abortive peace negotiations at the Hague, May 1709, missing an opportunity of closing the war on reasonable terms; took Tournay; his attack on the French at Malplaquet delayed by the allies, and the victory dearly bought in consequence, 11 Sept. 1709; took Mons, October 1709; completely lost Anne's personal favour through his duchess's bad temper and his application to be captain-general for life; attended the peace conferences at Gertruydenberg, February 1710; perceived that the state of English politics encouraged France to continue the war; began the campaign in April; took Douay and some minor fortresses, 1710; lost favour of Queen Anne, January 1711, soon after the fall of the Whig ministry; went abroad to conduct the campaign, March 1711; out-manoeuvred Villars, August 1711; took Bouchain, 14 Sept. 1711; accused of peculation soon after peace had been concluded with France by the Tory ministry; returned to England, November; dismissed from all his offices, 31 Dec. 1711; charges against him dropped by the hostile ministry; withdrew to the continent, November 1712; lost his territory at Mindelheim, 1713; active in arranging for the Hanoverian succession, 1714; returned to England, August 1714; captain-general and master of the ordnance; had a paralytic stroke and fell into senile decay, 1716. [x. 315]

CHURCHILL, JOHN SPRIGGS MORSS (1801-1875), medical publisher; apprenticed to a London firm of medical booksellers, 1816-23; bought a business, 1832; gave up the retail trade, 1854; issued medical text-books and journals after 1837. [x. 341]

CHURCHILL, JOHN WINSTON SPENCER, sixth DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH (1822-1883), politician; educated at Eton, 1835-8, and Oxford, 1840; as Marquis of Blandford was M.P., Woodstock, 1844, 1847-57; succeeded to the dukedom, 1857; lord-steward of the household, 1866; lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1866-80. [x. 341]

CHURCHILL, RANDOLPH HENRY SPENCER, commonly known as LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL (1849-1894), statesman; third son of John Winston Spencer Churchill, sixth duke of Marlborough [q. v.]; educated at Eton and Merton College, Oxford; B.A., 1870; conservative M.P. for Woodstock, 1874 and 1880; attracted attention by attack on subordinate members of Disraeli government, 1878; became exponent of a resolute and aggressive Toryism, assisted by Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, Mr. (afterwards Sir John) Gorst, and, occasionally, Mr. Arthur Balfour; his followers received nickname of the 'Fourth Party'; supported Charles Bradlaugh [q. v.]; attacked Irish Compensation for Disturbance Bill, and while advocating the policy of conciliation in Irish affairs, strongly opposed any compromise with home rule; fostered conservatism among working classes by promoting, with Mr. Gorst's assistance, the establishment of conservative clubs, and by establishing and popularising the Primrose League; took prominent part in discussion of franchise bill, and by advocating extension of franchise to Ireland, came into antagonism with a section of his own party, but was subsequently officially accepted as one of the party leaders; visited India, 1884; secretary of state for India, 1885-6, during which period the annexation of Burma was effected; unsuccessfully opposed Bright in central division of Birmingham at election of 1885, and was returned for South Paddington; opposed home rule bill; re-elected for South Paddington, 1886; chancellor of exchequer and leader of House of Commons, 1886; resigned offices, December 1886, being unable to agree with the demands on the public purse made by the ministers for the army and navy; honorary LL.D. Cambridge, 1888; travelled for health and recreation in South Africa, 1891, and contributed series of letters to 'Daily Graphic' (published, 1892, as 'Men, Mines, and Animals in South Africa'); re-elected for South Paddington, 1892; attacked home rule bill and Mr. Asquith's Welsh church bill; died of general paralysis. [Suppl. ii. 9]

CHURCHILL, SARAH, DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH (1660-1744), née Jennings; maid of honour to Princess Anne before 1678; married John Churchill (1650-1722) [q. v.], 1678; became Lady Churchill, 1682; lady of the bedchamber to Anne, now princess of Denmark, 1683; acquired an absolute ascendancy over Anne's weak mind; helped Anne to escape to Nottingham on the news of James II's resolve to fly, 1688; induced Anne to accept William III as king, 1689; became Countess of Marlborough, 1689; helped Anne to secure a large parliamentary allowance, 1689; pensioned by Anne, 1690; persuaded Anne to open negotiations with her father, December 1691; retained by Anne in defiance of William and Mary, 1692; mistress of the robes and keeper of the privy purse on Queen Anne's accession, 1702; ranger of Windsor Park, 1702; began to lose hold on Anne by her want of tact and violence of temper; introduced, before 1707, her relative, Abigail Hill (Mrs. Masham), to the queen's service, by whom she was ousted; behaved imperiously to Queen Anne, 1707-10; sent in her accounts as keeper of the privy purse, deducting 2,000*l.* a year as her pension since 1703, 1711; went abroad, 1718; after the duke's death in 1722 plunged into family quarrels and lawsuits; at bitter feud with Sir Robert Walpole; wrote memoirs of her life, published 1742. [x. 316]

CHURCHILL, SIR WINSTON (1630?-1688), politician; educated at Oxford, 1636; impoverished by the civil war; M.P., Plymouth, 1661-8; knighted, 1663; comptroller of the board of green cloth; M.P., Lynn Regis, 1686-7; published 'Divi Britannii', 1676. [x. 342]

CHURCHYARD, THOMAS (1590?-1604), miscellaneous writer; page to Henry, earl of Surrey; lived a wandering life, partly as a soldier in Scotland, Ireland, France, and the Low Countries, partly as a hanger-on of the court and the nobility; at the siege of Leith, 1590, pensioned by Queen Elizabeth, 1592; published, before 1553, 'A myrrour for man'; between 1560 and 1603 issued a multitude of broadsheets and small volumes in verse and prose, several containing autobiographical pieces and notices of current events; sometimes wrote in the hope of getting a little money for the dedication; his best-known pieces are 'Shore's Wife', 1563, and 'The Worthiness of Wales', 1587. [x. 343]

CHURTON, EDWARD (1800-1874), theologian; second son of Ralph Churton [q. v.]; educated at Charterhouse and Christ Church, Oxford; M.A., 1824; rector of Crayke, Yorkshire, 1836, and archdeacon of Cleveland, 1846-74; published 'Notes on the Basque Churches' and 'Gongora . . . with translations' (from the Spanish), 1862; wrote poems and works on Anglican theology and church history. [x. 346]

CHURTON, RALPH (1754-1831), biographer; entered Brasenose College, Oxford, 1772; M.A. and fellow, 1778; rector of Middleton Cheney, Northamptonshire, 1792, and archdeacon of St. David's, 1805-31; published sermons and lives of the founders of Brasenose College, of Alexander Nowell, dean of St. Paul's, and others. [x. 347]

CHURTON, WILLIAM RALPH (d. 1828), author; third son of Ralph Churton [q. v.]; fellow of Oriel College, Oxford, 1824; M.A., 1825; his 'Remains' privately printed, 1830. [x. 347]

CHUTE or CHEWT, ANTHONY (d. 1595?), poet; attorney's clerk; possibly pursuer with the Portugal expedition, 1589; attached himself to Gabriel Harvey; published 'Beawtie dishonoured', written under the title of Shore's Wife, and verses against Thomas Nashe, 1593; satirised by Nashe, 1596. [x. 347]

CHUTE, CHALONER (d. 1659), speaker of the House of Commons; barrister of the Middle Temple; practised in chancery; much employed as royalist counsel, 1641; bought the Wyne, Hampshire, 1653; elected M.P. for Middlesex, 1656, but was excluded; M.P. for Middlesex, 1659; speaker, 27 Jan.-9 March 1659. [x. 348]

CIARAN, SAINT (516-549), of Clonmacnoi; commemorated on 9 Sept.; spelt also Keyran, Kieran, and Quirarus; son of an Ulster refugee; educated by St. Finnian in Meath; obtained Clonmacnois, 548, and founded the monastery there. [x. 349]

CIARAN, SAINT (A. 500-560), of Saigir, bishop of Ossory; commemorated on 5 March; born on Clear Island; a hermit in King's County; founded the monastery of Saigir or Seirkieran, near Birr. [x. 350]

CIBBER or CIBERT, CAIUS GABRIEL (1630-1700), sculptor; born in Holstein; trained at Rome; brought to England by John Stone; his works include figures for Bethlehem Hospital, 1680, and the phoenix above the south door of St. Paul's. [x. 352]

CIBBER, CHARLOTTE (d. 1760?). [See CHARKE.]

CIBBER, COLLEY (1671-1757), actor and dramatist; son of Caius Gabriel Cibber [q. v.]; educated at Grantham school, 1682-7; served in the Earl of Devonshire's levy for the Prince of Orange, 1688; joined united companies at Theatre Royal, 1690; known as 'Mr. Colley'; played minor parts, 1691; failed in tragedy, but made a good impression in comedy, 1692-4; brought out his first play, 'Love's Last Shift', 1696; recognised as the leading actor of eccentric characters, 1697-1732; brought out some thirty dramatic pieces, 1697-1748, including several smart comedies; obtained a profitable share in the management of Drury Lane, c. 1711, and held it in spite of the machinations of the Tories; brought out 'The Nonjuror', 1717, a play directed against the Jacobites; fiercely attacked by other writers on his appointment as poet laureate, December 1730; 'retired' from the stage, 1733, but re-appeared at intervals till 1746; published an autobiography entitled 'Apology for the Life of Colley Cibber, Comedian', 1740, two letters to Pope, 1742-4, a poor 'Character . . . of Cicero', 1747, and some worthless official odes; made by Pope the hero of the 'Dunciad' (1742). The title of the chap-book, 'Colley Cibber's Jests', 1761, shows his notoriety. [x. 352]

CIBBER, SUSANNAH MARIA (1714-1766), actress; née Arne; well educated; married, 1734, Theophilus Cibber [q. v.]; separated from her husband, 1758; first sang in opera at the Haymarket, 1732; first appeared in tragedy, 1736; highly esteemed as a vocalist, both in oratorio and opera; an especial favourite with Handel; failed in comedy; failed in tragedy till she shook off the old-fashioned style of declamation; acknowledged as a powerful tragedian, 1744; joined Garrick's company at Drury Lane, 1753; wrote a comedy, 'The Oracle,' 1753.

[x. 359]

OIBBER, THEOPHILUS (1703-1758), actor and playwright; son of Colley Oibber [q. v.]; educated at Winchester; first appeared on the stage, 1721; continued to act at various London theatres with success, till death; appeared at Dublin, 1743; published a life of Barton Booth, 'Dissertations on Theatrical Subjects,' 1756, a few dramatic pieces, 1730-57, and pamphlets. 'Lives of the Poets,' 1753, which has Oibber's name on the title-page, was mainly compiled by Robert Shiels [q. v.] [x. 362]

OILIAN, SAINT (d. 697), apostle of Franconia; commemorated on 8 July; spelt also Kilian, Chilianus, Oelianus, and Quilianus; born in Cavan; a bishop in Ireland; went to Franconia, c. 689; martyred at Würzburg. [x. 363]

OIMELLIAUC (d. 927), bishop of Llandaff; given estates for the church of Llandaff by Brochmael [q. v.], king of Gwent; excommunicated Brochmael; taken prisoner by the vikings, 918, but ransomed by Eadward the elder; his name spelt in modern Welsh, Cyfelliawg; supposed by some to be Saint Cyfelach. [x. 364]

OIPRIANI, GIOVANNI BATTISTA (1727-1786), historical painter and engraver; born in Florence; went to Rome, 1750; came to London, 1755; taught drawing, 1758; R.A., 1768; exhibited, 1769-83; a prolific book-illustrator. [x. 364]

OIRENESTER, RICHARD OF (d. 1401?), chronicler; monk of St. Peter's, Westminster, 1355; visited Jerusalem, 1391; returned to the abbey; compiled 'Speculum Historiale,' 1447-1086 A.D.; wrote other works now lost. Charles Bertram [q. v.] fathered on him a famous forgery, 'De situ Britannie.' [x. 365]

OLAGETT, NICHOLAS, the elder (1610?-1663), puritan; entered Merton College, Oxford, 1628; M.A. Magdalen Hall, 1634; vicar of Melbourne, Derbyshire, c. 1636; preacher at Bury St. Edmunds, 1644-62; published 'The Abuse of God's Grace,' 1659. [x. 366]

OLAGETT, NICHOLAS, the younger (1654-1727), controversialist; son of Nicholas Olagett the elder [q. v.]; educated at Norwich and Cambridge; D.D., 1704; preacher at Bury St. Edmunds, 1680-1727; rector of Thurlow Parva, Norfolk, 1683; archdeacon of Sudbury, 1693; rector of Hitcham, Suffolk, 1707; published pamphlets, 1683-1710. [x. 366]

OLAGETT, NICHOLAS (d. 1746), bishop of Exeter; son of Nicholas Olagett the younger [q. v.]; D.D. Cambridge; dean of Rochester, 1724; bishop of St. David's, 1732; translated to Exeter, 1742. [x. 366]

OLAGETT, WILLIAM (1646-1688), controversialist; eldest son of Nicholas Olagett the elder [q. v.]; entered Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1669; M.A., 1667; D.D., 1683; preacher at Bury St. Edmunds, 1672-80; preacher at Gray's Inn, 1680, and at St. Michael Bassishaw, 1686; rector of Farnham Royal, Buckinghamshire, 1683; published treatises against nonconformity and Romanism, 1680-9. His sermons appeared posthumously, 1689-1730. [x. 367]

OLAGGETT, CHARLES (1740?-1820?), musician; in the orchestra at the Dublin theatre, c. 1766; came to London, 1776; patented musical inventions, 1776 and 1788; visited by Haydn, 1792; published pamphlets. [x. 368]

OLAIRMONT, OLARA MARY JANE (1798-1879), called herself 'Clare'; daughter, by a former marriage, of Mary Jane, second wife of William Godwin; accompanied Mary Godwin, her step-sister (1814), in her elopement with Shelley; became intimate with Lord Byron, 1816; with the Shelleys, followed Byron to Switzerland; gave birth to a daughter, Allegra, at Bath, January 1817; accompanied the Shelleys to Italy, 1818; her daughter taken from her by Byron, 1818, and placed in a convent near Ravenna, 1821; governess in Russia and Italy; resided in Paris and Florence; embraced Romanism. [x. 369]

OLANBRASSIL, first BARON (1788-1870). [See JOCELYN, ROBERT.]

OLANCAERTY, fourth EARL OF (1668-1734). [See MACCARTHY, DONOGH.]

OLANCAERTY, second EARL of the second creation, and first VISCOUNT OF (1767-1837). [See TRENCH, RICHARD LE POKER.]

OLANEBOYE, first VISCOUNT (1559-1643). [See HAMILTON, JAMES.]

OLANNY, WILLIAM REID (1776-1850), inventor (1812) of a mining safety-lamp; educated in Edinburgh; M.D., 1803; practitioner at Bishopswearmouth; published medical tracts. [x. 370]

OLANRICARDE, fifth EARL OF (1604-1657). [See BURGH, ULICK DE.]

OLANWILLIAM, third EARL OF (1795-1879). [See MADE, RICHARD GEORGE FRANCIS.]

OLAPHAM, DAVID (d. 1551), translator (1542-5) of Cornelius Agrippa; LL.B. Cambridge, 1533; practised at Doctors' Commons. [x. 371]

OLAPHAM, HENOOH (fl. 1600), theological writer; pastor of an English congregation at Amsterdam, 1595-8; pastor in London, 1603; imprisoned, 1605-6; possibly vicar of Northbourne, Kent, 1607; published devotional and doctrinal treatises, 1595-7, tracts against schismatics, 1600-9, and tracts on the plague of 1603, 1603-4. [x. 371]

OLAPHAM, SAMUEL (1755-1830), divine; M.A. Cambridge, 1784; vicar of Great Ouseburn, Yorkshire, 1797; vicar of Christ Church, Hampshire, 1802; rector of Gussage St. Michael, Dorset, 1806; published sermons and miscellaneous works. [x. 372]

OLAPOLE, RICHARD (fl. 1286). [See OLAPWELL.]

OLAPPERTON, HUGH (1788-1827), African explorer; cabin-boy, 1801; pressed for the navy; midshipman; served in the East Indies, 1808-13, and in Canada, 1814-1817; placed on half-pay; travelled in Nigeria, 1822-5; commander R.N., 1825; travelled again in Nigeria, 1825-1827; died near Sokoto. Accounts of his travels were published by his companions Dixon Denham, 1826, and Richard Lander, 1830. [x. 372]

OLAPWELL or KNAPWELL, RICHARD (fl. 1286), Dominican; spelt also 'Clapole'; D.D. Oxford; wrote on scholastic theology; condemned for heresy by Franciscan primate (Peckham), 1286, and Franciscan pope (Nicholas IV), 1288; withdrew to Bologna. [x. 374]

OLARE, EARLS OF. [See OLARE, RICHARD DE, first EARL, d. 1090?; OLARE, GILBERT DE, second EARL, d. 1115?; OLARE, RICHARD DE, third EARL, d. 1136?; OLARE, ROGER DE, fifth EARL, d. 1173; OLARE, GILBERT DE, seventh EARL, d. 1230; OLARE, RICHARD DE, eighth EARL, 1222-1262; OLARE, GILBERT DE, ninth EARL, 1243-1295; OLARE, GILBERT DE, tenth EARL, 1291-1314; HOLLES, JOHN, first EARL of the second creation, 1564?-1637; HOLLES, JOHN, second EARL, 1595-1666; HOLLES, GILBERT, third EARL, 1633-1689; HOLLES, JOHN, fourth EARL, 1662-1711; PELHAM-HOLLES, THOMAS, first EARL of the third creation, 1693-1768; FITZGIBBON, JOHN, first EARL of the fourth creation, 1749-1802.]

OLARE, VISCOUNTS. [See O'BRIEN, DANIEL, first VISCOUNT, 1577?-1683; O'BRIEN, DANIEL, third VISCOUNT, d. 1690; O'BRIEN, CHARLES, fifth VISCOUNT, d. 1706; O'BRIEN, CHARLES, sixth VISCOUNT, 1699-1761.]

OLARE, DE, FAMILY OF; took its name from the manor of Olare, Suffolk; founded by Richard de Clare (d. 1090?) [q. v.], who followed the Conqueror to England, and was son of Gilbert (d. 1039), count of Eu or Brionne, and grandson of Godfrey, a bastard of Richard (d. 998) 'the Fearless,' duke of Normandy. Richard's son, Gilbert de Clare (d. 1115?), [q. v.], conquered lands in Wales. From him, by his elder son, descended the Earls of Hertford or Olare, and by his younger son the Earls of Pembroke or Strigul. The house attained its zenith in Gilbert de Clare (d. 1230) [q. v.]. The male line ended in Gilbert de Clare, tenth earl [q. v.]. The dukedom of 'Clarence' created 1362, when the tenth Earl's grand-niece married Edward III's third son Lionel [q. v.]. [x. 375]

CLARE, ELIZABETH DE (1291?-1360), third daughter of Gilbert de Clare, ninth earl (1243-1296) [q. v.]; born at Acre; married (1) John de Burgh (d. 1313), son of Richard, second earl of Ulster; (2) Theobald, baron Verdon (d. 1316); (3) Robert (or Roger), baron Damory (d. 1321); became (1314), on the death of her brother Gilbert de Clare, tenth earl [q. v.], Lady of Clare; endowed, 1336, University Hall, Cambridge (afterwards called Clare Hall or College), and gave it a body of statutes, 1359. [x. 376]

CLARE, GILBERT DE (d. 1115?), baronial leader; son of Richard de Clare (d. 1090?) [q. v.]; tried to hold Tunbridge Castle against Rufus, 1088; in attendance on Rufus, 1100, and on Henry I, 1101; conquered Cardigan, 1107 or 1111. [x. 377]

CLARE, GILBERT DE, seventh EARL OF CLARE, fifth EARL OF HERTFORD, and sixth EARL OF GLOUCESTER (d. 1230), among the twenty-five barons appointed to carry out Magna Charta, 1215; excommunicated by Innocent III, 1218; succeeded his father in the earldom of Hertford, c. 1217; inherited, through his mother, the earldom of Gloucester, 1217; fought against the Welsh, 1228; attended Henry III to Brittany, 1230. [x. 378]

CLARE, GILBERT DE, called the 'Red,' ninth EARL OF CLARE, seventh EARL OF HERTFORD, and eighth EARL OF GLOUCESTER (1243-1295), son of Richard de Clare, eighth earl [q. v.]; married Alice, niece of Henry III, 1253; succeeded to the earldoms, July 1262; refused the oath of allegiance to Prince Edward, 1263; acted with Simon de Montfort, 1263; was reconciled to Henry III, October 1263; in arms against Henry; massacred the Jews of Canterbury, 1264; commanded the centre at Lewes, 1264; quarrelled with De Montfort, November 1264; protected the banished marcher lords; fled to the Welsh marches, 1265; joined Prince Edward, and prevented De Montfort from crossing the Severn; commanded division at Evesham, August 1265; joined Prince Edward in reducing the Chûque ports, 1266; pleaded for the disinherited barons, 268; refused to attend parliament, January 1267; took London, 1267, but was reconciled to Henry III two months afterwards; took the cross, 1268; obtained the restoration of their lands to the disinherited barons, 1271; proclaimed Edward I, November 1272; divorced his first wife, 1271 (or 1285); fought against the Welsh, 1276-1283; married Joan, daughter of Edward I, 1290; took the cross, 1290; imprisoned for making private war, 1291; driven out of Wales by a native rising, 1294. [x. 378]

CLARE, GILBERT DE, tenth EARL OF CLARE, eighth EARL OF HERTFORD, and ninth EARL OF GLOUCESTER (1291-1314), son of Gilbert de Clare, ninth earl [q. v.]; ward of Ralph de Monthermer, 1296; companion of Edward I; served in Scotland, 1306; summoned to parliament, 1308; commanded the English forces in Scotland, 1309; adhered to Edward I in his dispute with Lancaster, 1310; mediated between Edward I and Lancaster, 1313; killed at Bannockburn, 1314. [x. 382]

CLARE, JOHN (1577-1628), reputed author of a Romanist tract ('The Converted Jew'), published 1630; born in Wiltshire; jesuit, 1606; tutor at Louvain and Rome; became rector of the jesuits in Wales before 1628. [x. 383]

CLARE, JOHN (1793-1864), poet; son of a Northamptonshire labourer; a herd-boy; attended night-schools; under-gardener; read Thomson's 'Seasons,' 1808; wrote songs; kept dissolute company; militiaman at Oundle, 1812; a vagrant; issued proposal to print his poems, 1817; published his first volume, 1820; visited London, 1820, 1822, 1824, 1828; failed as a farmer, 1827 and 1831; in constant poverty, although holding annuities of 45*l.* a year; became imbecile, 1837; published 'Poems . . . of Rural Life,' 1820, 'The Village Minstrel,' 1821, 'Shepherd's Calendar,' 1827, and 'The Rural Muse,' 1835. [x. 384]

CLARE, OSBERT DE (fl. 1136), hagiologist; monk of Westminster; banished from the monastery, c. 1129-1133; elected prior, 1136; sent to Rome to advocate canonisation of Edward the Confessor, 1141; again expelled from the monastery; wrote lives of Saints Radmund, Æthelberht, Eadburh, and Edward the Confessor; a volume of his letters published, 1846. [x. 386]

CLARE, PETER (1738-1786), London surgeon; published medical tracts, 1778-80. [x. 388]

CLARE, SIR RALPH (1587-1670), royalist; fought at Worcester, 1642 and 1651; impoverished by the civil war; opponent of Richard Baxter. [x. 388]

CLARE, RICHARD DE (d. 1090?), founder of the family of de Clare [q. v.]; known as Richard FitzGilbert or Richard of Tonbridge; received estates in Suffolk and Kent; chief justiciar, 1075; in attendance on William I, 1080-1. [x. 389]

CLARE, RICHARD DE (d. 1136?), son of Gilbert de Clare (d. 1115?) [q. v.]; perhaps the first to use the surname of Clare; possibly created Earl of Hertford; killed by the Welsh; founded Tonbridge Priory. [x. 389]

CLARE, RICHARD DE, or RICHARD STRONGBOW, second EARL OF PEMBROKE and STRIGUL (d. 1176), succeeded to the estates, 1148; signed the treaty of Westminster, 1153; allowed to retain the title (one of Stephen's creations); said to have lost his estates, c. 1167; escorted Princess Matilda to Germany, 1168; induced by the de-throned Dermot [see MACMURCHADA, DIARMID] to intervene in Leinster, 1168; stormed Waterford, 1170; married Eva, eldest daughter of Dermot; reached Dublin, September; invaded Meath and wintered at Waterford; tried to soothe Henry II's jealousy by offering him his Irish conquests, 1171; confronted by an Irish rising on Dermot's death, 1171; defeated Roderic O'Connor at Dublin, July 1171; put to death Murrough O'Brien; forced to surrender his castles and seaports to Henry II; kept court at Kildare, while King Henry was marching through Ireland, 1171-2; summoned to Normandy to aid King Henry, 1173; granted Wexford, Waterford, and Dublin; defeated in Munster, 1174; held hostages from all the great Irish princes, 1175; according to legend slew his son for cowardice. [x. 390]

CLARE, RICHARD DE, eighth EARL OF CLARE, sixth EARL OF HERTFORD, and seventh EARL OF GLOUCESTER (1222-1262), son of Gilbert de Clare, seventh earl [q. v.]; succeeded, while still a minor, 1230; obtained possession of his Glamorgan estates, 1240; defeated by the Welsh, 1244; went on pilgrimage, 1249; visited the pope at Lyons, 1250; refused to join Henry III's expedition to Gascony, 1253; envoy to Scotland, 1255, and to Germany, 1256; defeated by the Welsh, 1257; joined Simon de Montfort against the king, 1258; quarrelled with De Montfort, 1259; in friendly attendance on the king, 1259-61; quarrelled with Prince Edward, 1261. [x. 393]

CLARE, ROGER DE, fifth EARL OF CLARE and third EARL OF HERTFORD (d. 1173), younger son of Richard de Clare (d. 1136?) [q. v.]; succeeded his brother Gilbert in the title and estates, 1152; signed treaty of Westminster, 1153; conquered part of Cardigan, 1157; defeated by Rhys ap Gruffudd, c. 1159; in France, 1160-1; refused Archbishop Becket's claim for homage for Tonbridge Castle, 1163; again defeated by Rhys, 1163; in France, 1171. [x. 396]

CLARE, WALTER DE (d. 1138?), founder of Tintern Abbey, a monastery for Cistercians, 1131. [x. 397]

CLAREMALD (fl. 1161), secular priest; made abbot of St. Augustine's, Canterbury, by Henry II, 1161; removed by the pope, 1176; a justiciar, 1170. [x. 397]

CLARENCE, DUKES OF. [See LIONEL, 1338-1368; THOMAS, 1388?-1421; GEORGE, 1449-1478; WILLIAM IV, 1765-1837.]

CLARENCE AND AVONDALE, DUKE OF (1864-1892). [See ALBERT VICTOR.]

CLARENCE, EARLS OF. [See HYDE, EDWARD, first EARL, 1609-1674; HYDE, HENRY, second EARL, 1638-1700; VILLIERS, THOMAS, first EARL of the second creation, 1709-1786; VILLIERS, JOHN CHARLES, third EARL, 1767-1838; VILLIERS, GEORGE WILLIAM FREDERICK, fourth EARL, 1800-1870.]

CLARENDON, SIR ROGER (d. 1402), reputed bastard son of the Black Prince; hanged by Henry IV as being a possible pretender. [x. 398]

CLARGES, SIR THOMAS (d. 1695), politician; styled M.D.; brother-in-law of George Monck, 1654; sat as a Scottish member in the Commonwealth parliaments, 1656 and 1658; intermediary between Monck and the Commonwealth leaders; muster-master general, 1660; conveyed to Charles II the invitation of parliament to return, May 1660; knighted; M.P. for Westminster, 1660, for Southwark, 1666, for Christchurch, 1679-85, and for Oxford University, 1689, 1690. [x. 398]

CLARIBEL (pseudonym). [See BARNARD, CHARLOTTE ALINGTON, 1830-1869.]

CLARIDGE, RICHARD (1649-1723), quaker minister; B.A. Oxford, 1670; M.A., 1677; rector of Peopleton, Worcestershire, 1673-91; preacher in Oxford, 1692; baptist preacher and schoolmaster in London, 1692; joined the quakers, 1696; quaker minister, 1697; schoolmaster at Barking, 1702, and at Tottenham, 1707-23; published political and controversial tracts, 1689-1714; author of other works, which appeared posthumously. [x. 399]

CLARINA, BARON (1719-1804). [See MASSEY, EYRE.]

CLARIS, JOHN CHALK (1797?-1866), journalist; educated at Canterbury; edited the 'Kent Herald,' 1826-65; published poems, 1816-22, under the name ARTHUR BROOKE. [x. 400]

CLARK. [See also CLARKE, CLERK, and CLERKE.]

CLARK, SIR ANDREW (1826-1893), physician; apprenticed in Dundee; studied at Edinburgh; M.R.C.S. England, 1844; joined naval medical service, 1846; M.R.C.P. London, and M.D. Aberdeen, 1854; F.R.C.P., 1858; Croonian lecturer, 1868; Lumsian lecturer, 1886, and president, 1888 till death; physician to London Hospital, 1866-86; created baronet, 1893; F.R.S., 1885. [Suppl. i. 23]

CLARK, CHARLES (1806-1880), proprietor of the Great Tatham press; farmer at Great Tatham; printed a 'History of Great Tatham,' 1831, and many satirical broadsides; issued reprints of scarce tracts; withdrew to Heybridge, Essex, before 1859. [x. 400]

CLARK, EDWIN (1814-1894), engineer; brother of Josiah Latimer Clark [q. v.]; superintending engineer of Menai Straits bridge; engineer to Electric and International Telegraph Company, 1860; M.I.C.E., 1850; patented various electric and hydraulic appliances. [Suppl. ii. 26]

CLARK, FREDERICK SCOTSON (1840-1883), organist; organist and music master in London, 1854-1865; organist of Exeter College, Oxford, 1865; Mus. Bac., 1867; Anglican chaplain abroad; organ-master in London, 1875, 1880; composed slight pieces. [x. 400]

CLARK, GEORGE AITKEN (1823-1873), manufacturer and philanthropist; threadmaker in Paisley and America; benefactor of Glasgow University and of Paisley. [x. 401]

CLARK, GEORGE THOMAS (1809-1898), engineer and archaeologist; educated at Charterhouse; employed under Brunel on Great Western Railway; engaged on sewerage, salt, and railway works in India, 1843; on board of health; trustee of Dowdalls estate and ironworks under will of Sir Josiah John Guest [q. v.], 1852, and administrator of the Dowdalls undertakings till 1897; assisted (Sir) Henry Bessemer [q. v.] to perfect his process of steel manufacture; first president of British Iron Trade Association, 1876; sheriff of Glamorganshire, 1868; assisted in founding Archaeological Association (now Royal Archaeological Institute), 1843. His works include: 'Mediæval Military Architecture in England,' 1884; and contributions to the history of Glamorganshire. [Suppl. i. 24]

CLARK, JAMES (d. 1819), physician in Dominica; afterwards in London; published a memoir on 'Yellow Fever,' 1797; contributed to scientific journals. [x. 401]

CLARK, SIR JAMES (1788-1870), physician; M.A. Aberdeen; lawyer's clerk; naval surgeon, 1809-15; M.D. Edinburgh, 1817; practitioner in Rome, 1819-26, and in London, 1826-60; court physician; created baronet, 1837; unpopular in consequence of his connection with the case of Lady Flora Hastings [q. v.]; published medical papers, 1817-42. [x. 401]

CLARK, JEREMIAH (d. 1809), organist; chorister of Worcester Cathedral; music teacher in Birmingham, c. 1770; Mus. Bac.; organist of Worcester Cathedral, 1806; published music. [x. 402]

CLARK, JOHN (1688-1736), writing-master of London; published books on penmanship and book-keeping, 1708-32. [x. 403]

CLARK, JOHN (1744-1805), medical philanthropist; studied medicine at Edinburgh; surgeon in the East India Company's service, 1768-75; M.D. St. Andrews; practitioner at Newcastle; founded the Newcastle Dispensary; wrote on medical subjects. [x. 403]

CLARK, JOHN (d. 1807), Gaelic scholar; land agent in Wales; wrote on the Ossianic controversy, 1781; published (1778) what purported to be translations of highland poems. [x. 403]

CLARK, JOHN (d. 1879). [See CLARKE, JOHN.]

CLARK, JOSEPH (d. 1696?), posture-master, of London; nicknamed 'Proteus Clark.' [x. 403]

CLARK, JOSIAH LATIMER (1822-1898), engineer; assistant engineer of Menai Straits bridge, 1848; chief engineer, Electric and International Telegraph Company, 1860-70; M.I.C.E., 1861; in partnership with Sir Charles Tilston Bright [q. v.], 1861-8; formed, 1868, with Henry Charles Forde (1827-1897), firm of Clark, Forde & Taylor, which engaged in cable laying in various parts of the world; joined partnership with John Standfield as hydraulic and canal engineer, 1874; F.R.S., 1889; F.R.G.S.; F.R.A.S.; patented electrical and other inventions; published works relating to engineering. [Suppl. ii. 26]

CLARK, RICHARD (1739-1831), attorney, of London; alderman, 1776-98; sheriff, 1777; lord mayor, 1784; city chamberlain, 1798-1831. [x. 404]

CLARK, RICHARD (1780-1856), musician; chorister of St. George's Chapel, Windsor; chairman of St. George's and Eton College, 1802-11, of the Chapel Royal, 1820, of St. Paul's, 1827, and Westminster, 1829; wrote on musical topics. [x. 404]

CLARK, SAMUEL (1810-1875), promoter of education; son of a quaker basket-maker of Southampton; self-taught; partner in Darton & Clark's publishing firm, London, 1836-43; edited 'Peter Parley's Annuals'; M.A. Magdalen Hall, Oxford, 1846; vice-principal of Chelsea Training College, 1846-50; principal of Battersea Training College, 1851-63; vicar of Bredwardine, Herefordshire, 1863-71; rector of Eaton Bishop, 1871-5; published maps. [x. 405]

CLARK, THOMAS (d. 1792), presbyterian divine; educated at Glasgow University; licentiate of the secession church, 1748; preacher and medical practitioner in Ulster, 1749; emigrated to America, 1764; published controversial tracts, 1751-5. [x. 406]

CLARK, THOMAS (1801-1867), chemist; employed in the St. Rollox chemical works; M.D. Glasgow, 1831; professor of chemistry, Aberdeen, 1833-60; inventor of the soap-test for discovering hardness of water and of a process for softening chalk waters. [x. 407]

CLARK, THOMAS (1820-1876), Scottish landscape painter; studied art at Edinburgh; exhibited, 1840. [x. 408]

CLARK, WILLIAM (d. 1603), Roman catholic priest; educated at Douay, 1587, and Rome, 1589; sent on the English mission, 1592; imprisoned in Southwark, 1602; executed, 1603. [x. 408]

CLARK, WILLIAM (1698-1780?), physician; M.D. Leyden; practitioner in London, and, 1747-72, at Bradford, Wiltshire; wrote on midwifery. [x. 409]

CLARK, WILLIAM (1788-1869), anatomist; son of John Clark (1744-1805) [q. v.]; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1808; fellow, 1809-27; studied medicine in London; friend of Lord Byron; professor of anatomy, Cambridge, 1817-66; travelled, 1818-20; M.D., 1827; rector of Guseley, Yorkshire, 1828-59; wrote on science. [x. 409]

CLARK, WILLIAM (1821-1880), civil engineer; in partnership in London, 1851; engineer in Calcutta, 1855-1874; planned the drainage of Madras, 1874, and of several Australian towns, 1876-8. [x. 410]

CLARK, WILLIAM GEORGE (1821-1878), Shakespearean scholar; educated at Shrewsbury; fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1844, till death; public orator, 1857-70; joint-editor of the 'Cambridge Shakespeare,' 1863-6; published notes of travel, sermons and essays; endowed Clark lectureship in English literature at Trinity College, Cambridge. [x. 410]

CLARKE, WILLIAM TIERNEY (1788-1852), civil engineer; millwright at Bristol; mechanic in foundry at Coalbrookdale; engineer to the West Middlesex Waterworks; designed suspension bridges; F.R.S., 1837. [x. 411]

CLARKE-KENNEDY, JOHN (1817-1867), colonel; cornet, 1833; captain, 1841; served in China, 1842, 1847, in the Sikh war, 1848-9, and in the Crimea, 1854-5; commandant of the military train, 1862; died at Cairo. [x. 412]

CLARKE. [See also OLARK, OLERK, OLERKE.]

CLARKE, ADAM (1762?-1832), theologian; educated at Kingswood school, near Bristol; a methodist, 1778; preacher on the Wiltshire circuit, 1782; lived near London from 1806; LL.D. Aberdeen, 1808; published bibliographical works, 1803-6, and a scriptural commentary, 1810-26; began to edit Rymer's 'Fœdera,' 1818; his miscellaneous works printed, 1836. [x. 413]

CLARKE, ALURED (1696-1742), dean of Exeter; educated at St. Paul's School, 1712-19; entered Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, 1713; fellow, 1718; M.A., 1720; D.D., 1728; rector of Chilbolton, Hampshire, 1723; prebendary of Winchester, 1723, and Westminster, 1731; dean of Exeter, 1741; published sermons. [x. 414]

CLARKE, SIR ALURED (1748?-1832), field-marshal; lieutenant, 1760; served in Germany; captain, 1767; lieutenant-colonel, 1775; served in America and West Indies, 1776-94; major-general; served at the Cape, 1795; K.B., 1797; commander-in-chief in Bengal, 1797, and in India, 1798-1801; field-marshal, 1830. [x. 415]

CLARKE, CHARLES (d. 1760), judge; barrister of Lincoln's Inn, 1723; recorder of Huntingdon, 1731; M.P., Huntingdonshire, 1739; M.P., Whitchurch, 1741; baron of the exchequer, 1743. [x. 416]

CLARKE, CHARLES (d. 1767), antiquary; of Balliol College, Oxford, 1736; F.S.A., 1752. [x. 417]

CLARKE, CHARLES (d. 1840), antiquary; clerk in the ordnance office, 1783-1807; F.S.A., 1796; wrote on architectural subjects. [x. 417]

CLARKE, CHARLES COWDEN (1787-1877), author; friend of John Keats; resided at Ramsgate, 1810; publisher in London, 1820; lectured on Shakespeare and parts of European literature, 1834-56; withdrew to Nice, 1866, and to Genoa, 1861. His wife, Mrs. Mary Victoria Cowden-Clarke [q. v.], was also an author. [x. 418]

CLARKE, SIR CHARLES MANSFIELD (1782-1867), accoucheur; educated at St. Paul's School, St. George's Hospital, and the Hunterian School of Medicine; lecturer on midwifery, 1804-21; M.D. Lambeth, 1827; created baronet, 1831; published medical treatises. [x. 419]

CLARKE, OUTHBERT (A. 1777), writer on agriculture and mechanics. [x. 420]

CLARKE, EDWARD (d. 1630), diplomatist; sent by Charles I to Madrid, 1623, Germany, 1627, and Rochelle, 1628. [x. 420]

CLARKE, EDWARD (1730-1786), traveller; son of William Clarke (1696-1771) [q. v.]; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1756; rector of Peperharow, Surrey, 1758; embassy chaplain at Madrid, 1760; chaplain at Minorca, 1763-8; vicar of Willington and rector of Buxted, Sussex, 1769; published 'Letters on Spain,' 1763, and other works. [x. 420]

CLARKE, EDWARD DANIEL (1769-1822), traveller; second son of Edward Clarke (1730-1786) [q. v.]; educated at Tonbridge; entered Jesus College, Cambridge, 1786; fellow: M.A., 1794; LL.D., 1803; travelled as tutor in Great Britain, 1790, Italy, 1792, Germany, 1794, Wales, 1794, Scotland, 1797, Northern Europe, 1799, Southern Russia, 1800, and Asia Minor, Palestine, Greece, 1801; collected minerals, coins, manuscripts, and marbles; presented his Greek statues to Cambridge University, 1808; rector of Hariton, Cambridgeshire, 1806, and of Yeldham, Essex, 1809-22; sold his manuscripts to the Bodleian, 1808; professor of mineralogy, Cambridge, 1808; university librarian, 1817; 'Travels,' published 1810-23; wrote on minerals and Greek antiquities. [x. 421]

CLARKE, EDWARD GOODMAN (A. 1812), physician; army officer in West Indies; M.D. Aberdeen, 1791; army physician; wrote medical treatises. [x. 424]

CLARKE, GEORGE (1661-1736), politician and virtuosus; son of Sir William Clarke (1623?-1686) [q. v.]; B.A. Oxford, 1679; fellow of All Souls, 1680-1736; D.O.L., 1708; M.P. for Oxford University, 1685, for East Loos, 1706, and for Oxford University, 1717-36; judge-advocate-general, 1684-1706; secretary at war, 1692-1704; joint secretary to the admiralty, 1702-5; a lord of the admiralty, 1712-14; architect; benefactor of All Souls' and Worcester colleges, Oxford. [x. 424]

CLARKE, GEORGE (1796-1842), sculptor; exhibited in London, 1821-39; called 'the Birmingham Chantrey.' [x. 426]

CLARKE, HARRIET LUDLOW (d. 1866), artist; wood-engraver, 1837; artist in stained glass, 1861. [x. 426]

CLARKE, HENRY (1743-1818), mathematician; educated at Manchester grammar school; schoolmaster in Yorkshire; land surveyor in Manchester; schoolmaster in Salford, Manchester, and (1799) Bristol; LL.D. Edinburgh, 1809; professor in the military academy, 1802-17; published mathematical treatises. [x. 426]

CLARKE, HEWSON (1787-1832?), miscellaneous writer; chemist's assistant at Gateshead; wrote for the local paper; for a time at Emmanuel College, Cambridge; hack-writer in London; satirised, and was satirised by, Byron; wrote on contemporary European and English history. [x. 427]

CLARKE, JACOB AUGUSTUS LOOKHART (1817-1880), anatomist; studied medicine in London; consulting physician on nervous disorders; M.D. St. Andrews, 1869; wrote on histology and nervous diseases. [x. 428]

CLARKE, JAMES (1798-1861), antiquary; collected local antiquities; published 'The Suffolk Antiquary,' 1849. [x. 428]

CLARKE, JAMES FERNANDEZ (1812-1875), medical writer; apprenticed to a London physician; studied medicine in Dublin; wrote for the 'Lancet,' 1834-74; practitioner in London; published an autobiography, 1874. [x. 429]

CLARKE, JAMES STANIER (1765?-1834), author; eldest son of Edward Clarke (1730-1786) [q. v.]; rector of Preston, Sussex, 1790; naval chaplain, 1795-9; domestic chaplain to the Prince of Wales, 1799; LL.D. Cambridge, 1816; canon of Windsor, 1821; published sermons, naval history, and lives of Nelson and James II. [x. 429]

CLARKE, JEREMIAH (1669?-1707), composer; chorister of the Chapel Royal; organist at Winchester; vicar-choral of St. Paul's, 1699; organist at the Chapel Royal, 1704; committed suicide; composed songs, anthems, and music for the theatres. [x. 430]

CLARKE or OLERK, JOHN (1682-1658), physician; M.D. Cambridge, 1615; practised in London; revised the 'Pharmacopœia.' [x. 431]

CLARKE, JOHN (1609-1676), colonist; physician in London; one of the first settlers at Rhode Island, 1638; physician and baptist preacher there; in England as agent for the colony, 1651-63; obtained a charter for it, 1663; returned to Rhode Island, 1668; published pamphlets. [x. 432]

CLARKE, JOHN (1662-1723), jesuit; called the apostle of Belgium; born at Kilkenny; educated at St. Omer's; joined the jesuits, 1681; missionary in Belgium, 1690-1718. [x. 432]

CLARKE, JOHN (1687-1734), schoolmaster; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1710; schoolmaster at Hull (1720) and Gloucester; published Latin grammars, translations, and philosophical tracts. [x. 432]

CLARKE, JOHN (1682-1787), dean of Salisbury; M.A. Calus College, Cambridge, 1707; D.D., 1717; prebendary of Norwich; canon of Canterbury, 1721; dean of Salisbury, 1728; published translations and philosophical tracts. [x. 433]

CLARKE, JOHN (1706-1761), schoolmaster; B.A. Trinity College, Cambridge, 1726; fellow, 1729; M.A., 1730; incumbent of Nun Monkton, Yorkshire; schoolmaster at Skipton, Beverley, 1735, and Wakefield, 1761. [x. 433]

CLARKE, JOHN (1761-1815), physician; studied medicine in London; accoucheur in London; lectured on midwifery; wrote medical treatises. [x. 434]

CLARKE, JOHN (1770-1886), Mus. Doc. [See WHITFIELD.]

CLARKE, JOHN (d. 1879), comedian; a photographer; acted in the provinces; acted in London, 1862; became celebrated as a burlesque actor, 1886. [x. 434]

CLARKE, JOHN RANDALL (1828?-1863), architect; published architectural histories of Gloucester and Llanthony Abbey, as well as 'Gloucester Cathedral, New York, and other houses; managed Haymarket, 1876, and Strand, 1886. [Suppl. ii. 27]

CLARKE, JOHN SLEEPER (1833-1899), actor; born in Baltimore; educated for American law; first appeared on stage at Boston, 1861; joint lessee successively of Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia, Winter Garden Theatre, New York, and other houses; managed Haymarket, 1876, and Strand, 1886. [Suppl. ii. 27]

CLARKE, JOSEPH (d. 1749), controversialist; educated at Westminster; fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge; M.A. [x. 435]

CLARKE, JOSEPH (1768-1834), physician; educated at Glasgow University, 1775-6; and Edinburgh University, 1776-9; M.D. Edinburgh, 1779; studied midwifery in London, 1781; accoucheur in Dublin, 1781-1829; physician to the lying-in hospital, 1786; wrote medical treatises. [x. 435]

CLARKE, JOSEPH (1811?-1860), divine; M.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1841; rector of Stretford, Lancashire; published tracts. [x. 436]

CLARKE, MARCUS ANDREW HISLOP (1846-1881), author; generally called MARCUS CLARKE; emigrated to Victoria, 1863; journalist in Melbourne, 1867; wrote novels, plays, and pantomimes. [x. 436]

CLARKE, MARY ANNE (1776-1852), mistress of Frederick, duke of York; née Thompson; married Clarke, a stonemason, 1794; actress; lived extravagantly, 1803; bribed to use her influence to obtain army promotions from the Duke of York, commander-in-chief; examined by the Commons, 1809; tried for libel, 1809; imprisoned for libel, 1813; withdrew to Paris, c. 1816. [x. 436]

CLARKE, MARY VICTORIA COWDEN (1809-1898), compiler of a concordance to Shakespeare; daughter of Vincent Novello [q. v.]; married Charles Cowden-Clarke [q. v.], 1828; produced, 1829-41, 'Complete Concordance to Shakespeare,' published in monthly parts, 1844-5; she resided in Italy from 1856. Her works include 'The Shakespeare Key,' 1879, and 'Recollections of Writers,' 1878, written in collaboration with her husband. [Suppl. ii. 28]

CLARKE, MATTHEW, the elder (1680?-1708?), congregational minister; son of a Shropshire parson; educated at Westminster School; fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1683; army chaplain in Scotland; intruded rector of Narborough, Leicestershire, 1687-62; nonconformist preacher in Leicestershire; congregational minister at Market Harborough, 1672. [x. 437]

CLARKE, MATTHEW, the younger (1684-1726), congregational minister; son of Matthew Clarke the elder [q. v.]; assistant minister at Market Harborough, 1684; minister at Sandwich, 1687; pastor of the congregational church, Miles Lane, London, 1689; preacher at Finner's Hall, 1697; published sermons. [x. 438]

CLARKE, MATTHEW (1701-1778), physician; studied medicine at Leyden, 1721; M.D. Cambridge, 1728; physician to Guy's Hospital, 1732-54. [x. 439]

CLARKE, SIR ROBERT (d. 1607), judge; barrister of Lincoln's Inn, 1568; baron of the exchequer, 1587; knighted, 1603. [x. 439]

CLARKE, ROBERT (d. 1675), Latin poet; real name GRAINE; educated at Douay; professor of poetry at Douay; sent on the English mission, 1629; Carthusian at Newport, 1632-75; wrote, in Latin, plays and a religious epic. [x. 440]

CLARKE, SAMUEL (1625-1669), orientalist; educated at Merton College, Oxford, 1640-4; M.A., 1648; schoolmaster at Islington; contributed to Walton's 'Biblia Polyglotta'; esquire bedell of law and 'architypographus,' Oxford, 1658-69; studied Hebrew, Arabic, Persian, and Turkish. [x. 440]

CLARKE, SAMUEL (1699-1833), divine; entered Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1816; curate in Cheshire;

puritan preacher at Warwick; rector of Alcester, Warwickshire, 1833-45; curate of St. Bennet Fink, London, 1642-62; member of the Savoy conference, 1661; withdrew to Isleworth; published poems, devotional tracts, and numerous biographies. [x. 441]

CLARKE or CLARK, SAMUEL (1626-1701), annotator of the bible; eldest son of Samuel Clarke (1699-1683) [q. v.]; of Pembroke College, Cambridge; intruded fellow, 1644-51; intruded rector of Grendon Underwood, Buckinghamshire; ejected, 1662; congregational minister at High Wycombe; published an annotated bible, 1690; a concordance, 1696, and other bib. cal. works. [x. 442]

CLARKE, SAMUEL (1678-1799), metaphysician; B.A. Caius College, Cambridge, 1696; D.D.; disciple of Isaac Newton; published Latin translation of the Cartesian Jacques Rohault's 'Physics,' with Newtonian notes, 1697; chaplain to Moore, bishop of Norwich, 1698; delivered Boyle lectures, 'On the Being and Attributes of God,' 1704-6; rector of Drayton, near Norwich; rector of St. Benet's, Paul's Wharf, London, 1706, and of St. James's, Westminster, 1709; wrote against Henry Dodwell, 1706; published Latin translation of Newton's 'Optics,' 1706; published 'Scripture Doctrine of the Trinity,' 1712; edited Cæsar, 1712; accused of Arianism, 1714; held a philosophical correspondence with Leibnitz, 1715-16; master of Wigston's Hospital, Leicester, 1718; declined the mastership of the mint, 1727; edited Homer's 'Iliad,' 1729; founder of the 'intellectual' school, which deduced the moral law from a logical necessity; his collected works published, 1738. [x. 443]

CLARKE, SAMUEL (1684-1750), theological writer; congregational minister at St. Albans; published 'The Saints' Inheritance,' being a Collection of the Promises of Scripture. [x. 446]

CLARKE, THEOPHILUS (1776?-1831?), painter; pupil of John Opie; exhibited in London, 1798-1810. [x. 447]

CLARKE, SIR THOMAS (1703-1764), judge; educated at Westminster, 1717-21; M.A., Trinity College, Cambridge, 1728; fellow, 1727; barrister of Gray's Inn, 1729; M.P. for St. Michael's, Cornwall, 1747, and for Lostwithiel, 1754-61; master of the rolls, 1754; knighted, 1754. [x. 447]

CLARKE, THOMAS (J. 1768-1775), painter; trained in Dublin; came to London, 1768; exhibited, 1769-75. [x. 448]

CLARKE, TIMOTHY (d. 1672), physician; of Balliol College, Oxford; M.D., 1652; F.R.C.P., 1664; physician to Charles II; F.R.S.; friend of Samuel Pepys. [x. 448]

CLARKE, SIR WILLIAM (1623?-1666), secretary at war; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1653; secretary to Monck; secretary at war, 1661; knighted; mortally wounded in the action off Harwich. [x. 448]

CLARKE, WILLIAM (1640?-1684), physician; B.A. Merton College, Oxford, 1661; fellow, 1663-6; practitioner at Bath, and afterwards at Stepney; wrote on 'Nitres,' 1670. [x. 449]

CLARKE, WILLIAM (1686-1771), antiquary; fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1717; M.A., 1719; rector of Buxted, Sussex, 1724-68; canon of Chichester, 1738, and chancellor, 1770; wrote on miscellaneous subjects, including the relation between Roman, Saxon, and English coins. [x. 449]

CLARKE, WILLIAM (1800-1838), writer of juvenile literature. [x. 450]

CLARKE, WILLIAM BRANWHITE (1798-1878), geologist; M.A. Cambridge, 1824; curate of Ramsholt, Suffolk; made fifteen geological excursions to the continent; published poems, 1822, and scientific papers, 1833-1838; Anglican clergyman in New South Wales, 1840-70; discovered gold there in 1841, tin in 1849, and diamonds in 1859; studied the Australian coal-measures; visited Tasmania, 1866 and 1860; F.R.S. London, 1876; published numerous scientific papers. [x. 450]

CLARKE, WILLIAM FAIRLIE (1833-1894), medical writer; born in Calcutta; educated at Rugby, Oxford, and Edinburgh; studied medicine in London; M.B. Oxford, 1862; surgeon in London; M.D. Oxford, 1876; published a 'Manual of . . . Surgery,' 1866, and a monograph on 'Diseases of the Tongue,' 1873. [x. 452]

CLARKSON, DAVID (1622-1686), controversialist; B.A. Clare Hall, Cambridge; intruded fellow, 1646-51; intruded incumbent of Mortlake, Surrey, 1651-62; congregational minister in London, 1682; published sermons and treatises against episcopacy and Romanism. [x. 452]

CLARKSON, JOHN (1697-1768), Dominican friar, 1716; missionary in Leicestershire, 1733-46; confessor in Brussels, 1747; prior of Bornham, 1753; died at Brussels; published devotional and philosophical tracts. [x. 463]

CLARKSON, LAURENCE (1615-1667). [See CLAXTON.]

CLARKSON, NATHANIEL (1724-1795), painter; coach-painter, of Islington; exhibited portraits, 1762-7; tried historical painting. [x. 463]

CLARKSON, THOMAS (1760-1846), philanthropist; son of the schoolmaster of Wisbeach; educated at St. Paul's School, 1775-80; B.A. St. John's College, Cambridge, 1788; in deacon's orders; published a prize essay against slavery, 1786; agitated for the abolition of slavery, 1787-94, and 1806-33; urged it on the French government, 1789-90, and on the czar, 1818; granted the freedom of London, 1839. His works include pamphlets on slavery, theological tracts, and a memoir of William Penn. [x. 464]

CLATER, FRANCIS (1756-1823), author of 'Every Man his own Farrier,' 1783, and 'His own Cattle Doctor,' 1810; farrier and subsequently druggist. [xi. 1]

CLATER, THOMAS (1789-1867), painter; third son of Francis Clater [q. v.]; exhibited, chiefly genre works, in London, 1819-63. [xi. 1]

CLAUDET, ANTOINE FRANÇOIS JEAN (1797-1867), photographer; born at Lyons; director of glass-works at Choisy-le-Roi; glass warehouseman in London, 1829; invented a glass-cutting machine, 1833; set up as daguerreotype photographer, 1840; soon adopted the collodion process; introduced improvements in photography; wrote on photographic subjects; F.R.S., 1853. [xi. 2]

CLAUGHTON, PIERS CALVERLEY (1814-1884), bishop of Colombo; B.A. Brasenose College, Oxford, 1835; fellow and tutor of University College, Oxford, 1837-42; bishop of St. Helena, 1859-62; bishop of Colombo, 1862-70; archdeacon of London, 1870; chaplain-general of the forces, 1875; published sermons and theological tracts. [xi. 2]

CLAUGHTON, THOMAS LEGH (1808-1892), bishop of St. Albans; brother of Piers Calverley Claughton [q. v.]; educated at Rugby and Trinity College, Oxford; B.A., 1831; fellow, 1832-42; M.A., 1833; public examiner, 1835; select preacher, 1841, 1850, 1860, and 1868; professor of poetry, 1852-7; ordained, 1834; vicar of Kidderminster, 1841-67; bishop of Rochester, 1867-77; first bishop of new diocese of St. Albans, 1877-90; published sermons and religious writings. [Suppl. ii. 20]

CLAVEL, JOHN (1603-1642), highwayman; sentenced to death, but pardoned, 1627; published metrical autobiography, 1628. [xi. 3]

CLAVELL, ROBERT (d. 1711), bookseller, of London; published pamphlet against the Dutch, 1665; issued catalogues of current literature, 1668-1700. [xi. 3]

CLAUVERHOUSE, JOHN GRAHAM (of 1649?-1689). [See GRAHAM, JOHN, VISCOUNT DUNDEE.]

CLAVERING, SIR JOHN (1722-1777), opponent of Warren Hastings; entered the Coldstream guards; brigadier-general in attack on Guadaloupe, 1759; titular colonel, 1759; military attaché in Hesse-Cassel, 1760-3; lieutenant-general, 1770; given command of the Bengal army, 1774; opposed Warren Hastings in the council of Bengal; K.B., 1776; tried to hold Hastings to his resignation, 1777. [xi. 4]

CLAVERING, ROBERT (1671-1747), bishop of Peterborough; educated at Edinburgh, and Lincoln College, Oxford; M.A., 1696; fellow and tutor of University College, Oxford, 1701; dean and rector of Boxford, Essex, 1714-19; D.D., canon of Christ Church, and professor of Hebrew, Oxford, 1718; bishop of Llandaff, 1728; translated to Peterborough, 1739; published translations from the Hebrew, sermons, and charges. [xi. 5]

CLAXTON or CLARKSON, LAURENCE (1615-1667), sectary; presbyterian, subsequently an antinomian; intruded rector of Pulham, Norfolk; joined baptists, 1644; imprisoned at Bury St. Edmunds, 1645; joined the 'seekers'; intruded vicar of Sandridge, Hertfordshire, c. 1646, and of a Lincolnshire church, 1647; his 'Single Eye all Light' burnt, by order of the Commons, 1650; intruded incumbent of churches in Norfolk, c. 1658; joined the Muggletonians, 1658; prisoner for debt, 1666; published sectarian tracts, 1646-60. [xi. 5]

CLAXTON, MARSHALL (1813-1881), historical painter; art student in London, 1831; exhibited, 1832; visited Rome, 1837; returned to England before 1843; exhibited pictures in Australia, 1850, and India; visited Egypt; returned to London, 1858. [xi. 7]

CLAY, ALFRED BORRON (1831-1868), historical painter; second son of John Clay [q. v.]; art student in London, 1852; exhibited, 1854-68. [xi. 7]

CLAY, CHARLES (1801-1893), ovariotomist; apprenticed as surgeon in Manchester; studied at Edinburgh University; L.R.C.S. Edinburgh, 1823; extra-L.R.C.P. London, 1842; practised in Manchester, where he was at one time senior medical officer and lecturer on midwifery at St. Mary's Hospital; placed the operation of ovariotomy on a sure foundation; published 'Complete Handbook of Obstetric Surgery,' 1856, and other surgical works, besides treatises relating to geology and numismatics. [Suppl. ii. 30]

CLAY, FREDERICK (1839-1889), musician; born in Paris; son of James Clay [q. v.]; private secretary to Henry Bouverie William Brand (afterwards Viscount Hampden) [q. v.]; produced two operettas which met with success; collaborated with Tom Taylor in 'Court and Cottage,' 1862; formed friendship with Sir Arthur Seymour Sullivan [q. v.]; subsequently produced, with Mr. W. S. Gilbert, Mr. G. R. Sims, and other librettists, several operettas; set, 1877, libretto constructed by W. G. Wills, from 'Lalla Rookh,' which contains his most successful piece, 'I'll sing thee songs of Araby,' and the quartette, 'Morn' wanes, we must away.' [Suppl. ii. 32]

CLAY, JAMES (1805-1873), author of 'A Treatise on . . . Whist,' 1864; son of a London merchant; educated at Winchester; travelled in the East, 1830; M.P. for Hull, 1847-73. [xi. 8]

CLAY, JOHN (1796-1858), chaplain of Preston gaol (1823-58); merchant's clerk in Liverpool; ordained, 1821; B.D. Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1835; published reports on prison management, sermons, and other works. [xi. 8]

CLAY, JOHN GRANBY (1766-1846), general; ensign, 1782; lieutenant, 1788; served in the West Indies, 1786-1794; major, 1795; at home stations, 1795-1800; in the Egyptian campaign, 1801; lieutenant-colonel, 1804; stationed at Manchester, where he suppressed the riots of 1808 and 1812; major-general, 1813; general, 1841. [xi. 9]

CLAY, SIR WILLIAM (1791-1869), politician; merchant in London; M.P. for Tower Hamlets, 1832-57; created baronet, 1841; published political pamphlets, 1834-56. [xi. 10]

CLAY, WILLIAM KEATINGE (1797-1867), antiquary; ordained, 1823; B.D. Cambridge, 1835; minor canon of Ely, 1837; vicar of Waterbeach, Cambridgeshire, 1864-67; wrote on the prayer book; edited liturgical works; published histories of four Cambridgeshire parishes. [xi. 10]

CLAYMOND, JOHN (1457?-1537), divine; demy of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1483; fellow, 1488; president, 1504-17; D.D., 1510; vicar of Norton, Durham, 1498-1518, with much other preferment; master of St. Cross, Winchester, 1508-24; president of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 1517-37; wrote notes on classical authors; benefactor of Brasenose, Magdalen, and Corpus Christi colleges. [xi. 11]

CLAYPOOLE or CLAYPOLE, ELIZABETH (1639-1668), second daughter of Oliver Cromwell; married, 1646, John Claypoole [q. v.]; said to have interceded for royalist prisoners; buried in Westminster Abbey. [xi. 11]

CLAYPOOLE or CLAYPOLE, JOHN (d. 1688), parliamentarian; in arms for the parliament, 1646; married, 1646, Cromwell's second daughter [see CLAYPOOLE, ELIZABETH]; raised a troop of horse, 1651; master of the horse to the Protector; M.P., 1654, 1656; one of Cromwell's peers, 1657; imprisoned as a suspect, 1678.

[xi. 12]

CLAYTON, CHARLOTTE, LADY SUNDON (d. 1742), woman of the bedchamber to Queen Caroline; daughter of John Dyve; married William Clayton, afterwards Baron Sundon in the Irish peerage; became bedchamber woman to Queen Caroline when Princess of Wales in 1714; obtained great influence over her, and controlled court patronage.

[lv. 170]

CLAYTON, JOHN (1693-1773), botanist; went to Virginia, 1705; secretary of Gloucester County, Virginia; sent scientific papers to the Royal Society, 1739; collected American plants for European botanists.

[xi. 13]

CLAYTON, JOHN (1709-1773), divine; educated at Manchester school and Brasenose College, Oxford; M.A., 1732; joined 'the Oxford Methodists,' c. 1738; curate at Salford, 1733; taught school there; one of the chaplains of Manchester Collegiate Church, 1740, and fellow, 1760; publicly acknowledged the Young Pretender, 1745; published tract on poor relief, and sermons; edited 'Anacreontica,' 1754.

[xi. 13]

CLAYTON, JOHN (1728-1800), painter of still-life; surgeon's apprentice; exhibited, 1761-78; his studio accidentally burnt, 1769.

[xi. 14]

CLAYTON, JOHN (1754-1843), congregationalist; apothecary's apprentice in Manchester; educated at Trevecca College; preacher in the Countess of Huntingdon's chapel, Tunbridge Wells; failed to obtain ordination, 1777; presbyterian minister at West Looe, Cornwall; pastor of Weighhouse Chapel, London, 1778-1826; published devotional treatises.

[xi. 14]

CLAYTON, JOHN (d. 1861), architect; much employed at Hereford; settled in London, 1839; exhibited architectural drawings, 1839-56; published works on architecture, 1846-56.

[xi. 15]

CLAYTON, JOHN (1780-1865), congregationalist; son of John Clayton (1754-1843) [q. v.]; pastor of the Poultry Chapel, London; published sermons.

[xi. 15]

CLAYTON, JOHN (1843-1888), actor; real name JOHN ALFRED CALTHROP; educated at Merchant Taylors' School; joined Miss Herbert's company at St. James's, 1866, playing Hastings in 'She stoops to Conquer'; subsequently appeared at many London theatres; joint-manager of Court Theatre, 1881-7, during which period he appeared in comic plays by Mr. Pinero and other writers.

[Suppl. ii. 32]

CLAYTON, NICHOLAS (1733?-1797), presbyterian divine; educated at Glasgow; pastor at Boston, Lincolnshire, 1759-63, and in Liverpool, 1763-81; divinity tutor at Warrington academy, 1781-3; D.D. Edinburgh, 1782; pastor in Nottingham, 1785-98.

[xi. 16]

CLAYTON, RICHARD (d. 1612), dean of Peterborough; entered St. John's College, Cambridge, 1572; B.A. Oxford, 1576; fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1577; M.A., 1579; D.D., 1592; master of Magdalene College, Cambridge, 1593; archdeacon of Lincoln, 1595; master of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1595; built the second court there; canon, 1596, and dean, 1607, of Peterborough.

[xi. 16]

CLAYTON, SIR RICHARD (d. 1828), translator; inherited Adlington, Lancashire, 1770; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1771; created baronet, 1774; recorder of Wigan, 1815; consul at Nantes; published essays and translations, 1790-1817.

[xi. 17]

CLAYTON or CLETON, SIR ROBERT (1629-1707), politician; a London scrivener; bought Bletchingley, Surrey, 1677; alderman of London, 1670-88; sheriff and knighted, 1671; lord mayor, 1679-80; M.P., London, 1679-1681; advocated the Exclusion Bill; one of the committee to defend the city charter, 1682; M.P., 1689-1707; benefactor of St. Thomas's Hospital and Christ's Hospital.

[xi. 17]

CLAYTON, ROBERT (1695-1758), Irish bishop; born in Dublin; educated at Westminster School; B.A. and fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, 1714; L.L.D., 1722; D.D., 1730; travelled; inherited estates in Lancashire, 1728; bishop of Killala and Achonry, 1730; bishop of Cork and Ross, 1755; bishop of Clogher, 1745; denied the archbishopric of Tuam, being accused of Arianism, 1752; threatened with prosecution for heresy, 1757; published sermons and theological works, 1738-57.

[xi. 19]

CLAYTON, THOMAS (A. 1706), composer; a member of William III's band, 1692-1702; travelled in Italy, 1702-4; introduced Italian opera at Drury Lane, 1705-11, succeeding with 'Arsinoe,' 1705, but failing with 'Rosamond,' 1707.

[xi. 20]

CLEASBY, SIR ANTHONY (1804-1879), judge; at Eton, 1820-3; fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1828; M.A., 1830; barrister of the Inner Temple, 1831; gained lucrative commercial practice; unsuccessful as candidate for parliament, 1852-67; baron of the exchequer, 1868-78; knighted, 1868; unsuccessful on the bench.

[xi. 21]

CLEASBY, RICHARD (1797-1847), philologist; broker's clerk in London; studied in Italy and Germany from 1824, becoming a master of German dialects; visited Denmark and Sweden, 1834 and 1839-40; began an 'Icelandic-English Dictionary' (published by Gudbrand Vigfusson, 1873).

[xi. 21]

CLEAVER, EUSEBY (1746-1819), archbishop of Dublin; educated at Westminster; M.A. Christ Church, Oxford, 1770; D.D., 1783; rector of Spofforth, Yorkshire, 1774-83; rector of Tillington and Petworth, Sussex, 1783; prebendary of Chichester, 1787; chaplain to the lord-lieutenant of Ireland, 1787; bishop of Cork, 1789, and of Ferns, 1789; archbishop of Dublin, 1809; became imbecile.

[xi. 22]

CLEAVER, WILLIAM (1742-1815), bishop of St. Asaph; B.A. Magdalen College, Oxford, 1761; fellow of Brasenose College; M.A., 1764; principal of Brasenose, 1785-1809; prebendary of Westminster, 1784; bishop of Chester, 1787, of Bangor, 1800, and of St. Asaph, 1806; mostly non-resident; published some classical texts; chiefly remembered by De Quincey's encomiums.

[xi. 23]

CLEEVE, BOURCHIER (1716-1760), writer on finance; a London pewterer; bought Foots Cray Place, Kent, c. 1755; published scheme for reducing the national debt, 1756.

[xi. 23]

CLEGG, JAMES (1679-1755), presbyterian minister; M.D.; minister and physician at Malcalf, 1702, and, 1711-55, at Chinley; published sermons, 1721-36.

[xi. 24]

CLEGG, JOHN (1714?-1746?), violinist; born in Ireland; trained in Italy; a professional of repute in London, 1723-44; confined in Bedlam, 1744-6.

[xi. 24]

CLEGG, SAMUEL, the younger (1814-1856), engineer; son of Samuel Clegg (1781-1861) [q. v.]; surveyor in Portugal, 1836; railway engineer; professor of engineering at Putney, and at Chatham, 1849-56; published treatise on coal-gas, 1850.

[xi. 25]

CLEGG, SAMUEL, the elder (1781-1861), gas engineer; educated in Manchester; apprentice to Boulton & Watt, engineers, Soho; a pioneer of gas-lighting in Yorkshire, and (1813) London; invented the water gas-meter; gas engineer at Lisbon.

[xi. 24]

CLEGHORN, GEORGE (1716-1789), physician; educated at Edinburgh; army surgeon at Minorca, 1758-49; M.D.; published observations on diseases epidemic in Minorca, 1751; lecturer and professor of anatomy in Dublin, 1781-89.

[xi. 25]

CLEGHORN, JAMES (1778-1838), actuary; farmer, and, in 1811, journalist in Edinburgh; became an accountant of repute.

[xi. 26]

CLEIN or CLEYN, FRANCIS (1590?-1658), draughtsman; born at Rostock, Germany; patronised by Christian IV of Denmark; studied in Italy; engaged by James I as designer for the Mortlake tapestry works, 1623; pensioned by Charles I, 1625; book-illustrator, 1637-50.

[xi. 26]

CLELAND, JAMES (1770-1840), statistician; a Glasgow cabinet-maker; superintendent of public works, London, 1814; took the census of Glasgow, 1819, 1821, 1831; published histories of Glasgow, 1816-36.

[xi. 27]

CLELAND, JOHN (1709-1789), novelist; entered Westminster School, 1722; consul at Smyrna; East India

Company's servant at Bombay, 1736; wandered over Europe; published his first novel, 'Fanny Hill,' 1780; pensioned; journalist in London, 1757; published novels and dramatic pieces. [xl. 28]

OLELAND, WILLIAM (1661?-1689), covenanter; educated at St. Andrews, 1676; fought at Drumlogie and Bothwell Bridge, 1679; took part in Argyll's invasion, 1685; escaped to Holland; returned to Scotland to agitate for the Prince of Orange, 1688; killed in action at Dunkeld; his poems posthumously published, 1697. [xl. 28]

OLELAND, WILLIAM (1674?-1741), friend of Pope; student at Utrecht; served in Spain, 1705; commissioner of customs in Scotland; commissioner of taxes in England, 1728. [xl. 30]

OLEMENT SCOTUS I (A. 745), bishop among the Franks; probably a native of Ireland; resisted the Romanising policy of Archbishop Boniface of Mentz; deposed and imprisoned by Boniface as married and a heretic, 744; sentence confirmed, 745. [xl. 30]

OLEMENT SCOTUS II (A. 830), grammarian; left Ireland for France, c. 772; taught at Charles the Great's court; died probably at Würzburg; reputed author of two Latin grammatical tracts; often confused with Clemens Scotus I, and with Claudius (d. 839?), wrongly called Clemens Claudius, bishop of Turin, a Spaniard. [xl. 31]

OLEMENT OF LLANTHONY (d. 1190?), known also as OLEMENT of GLOUCESTER, theological writer; canon, sub-prior, and prior of Llanthony, where he was educated. His works include 'Concordia Quatuor Evangelistarum,' extant in several manuscripts, and other commentaries. [Suppl. ii. 33]

OLEMENT, OESAR (d. 1626), Roman catholic divine; educated at Douay, Rheims, and Rome; priest, 1685; D.D.; dean of St. Gudule's, Brussels. [xl. 32]

OLEMENT, GREGORY (d. 1660), regicide; Spanish merchant in London; M.P., Camelford, 1647-52; sat in the high court of justice and signed Charles I's death-warrant; executed. [xl. 32]

OLEMENT or OLEMENTS, JOHN (d. 1572), physician; educated at St. Paul's School; tutor in Sir Thomas More's family; M.D.; Cardinal Wolsey's lecturer in rhetoric, Oxford, c. 1519; subsequently reader in Greek; president of the College of Physicians, London, 1544; a strong Romanist; withdrew to Louvain, 1547; practised medicine in Essex, 1554-9; withdrew to Mechlin, 1559. [xl. 33]

OLEMENT or OLEMENTS, MARGARET (1508-1570), née Giggis; kinswoman of Sir Thomas More; married John Olement [q. v.], c. 1530; died at Mechlin. [xl. 33]

OLEMENT, WILLIAM INNELL (d. 1852), part proprietor of the 'Observer,' c. 1814; proprietor of the 'Morning Chronicle,' 1821-34, and of 'Bell's Life.' [xl. 33]

OLEMENTS, MICHAEL (d. 1796?), naval officer; as lieutenant, distinguished himself in action, 1757; commanded frigate, 1757; took part in capture of Thurot's squadron at Belfast, 1760; served in the Mediterranean, 1760-3 and 1770; defended Admiral Keppel, 1778, and was shamefully neglected by the admiralty in consequence; retired, 1787; titular rear-admiral. [xl. 34]

OLENCH, ANDREW (d. 1692), physician; M.D. Cambridge, 1671; fellow of the College of Physicians, London, 1680; murdered, 1692. [xl. 34]

OLENCH, JOHN (d. 1607), judge; barrister of Lincoln's Inn, 1568; baron of the exchequer, 1581; justice of the queen's bench, 1584-1603. [xl. 35]

OLENNELL, LUKE (1781-1840), wood engraver and painter; trained by Thomas Bewick [q. v.], 1797-1804; wood engraver in London, 1804-10; exhibited water-colour paintings, 1812-18; was insane from 1817 till death. [xl. 35]

OLENOOKE or OLYNOG, MAURICE (d. 1680?), divine; a Welshman; B.C.L. Oxford, 1648; chaplain to Cardinal Pole; a pluralist; nominated by Queen Mary to the see of Bangor, 1558; withdrew to Rome, 1660; officer of the hospital for English pilgrims, 1567; rector of the English college, 1578-9; drowned at sea. [xl. 37]

OLEPHRENS, JOHN (d. 1758), physician; M.D. St. Andrews, 1739; army physician; physician to St. George's Hospital, London, 1751. [xl. 37]

OLÉRISSÉAU, CHARLES LOUIS (1791-1820), architectural draughtsman; born in Paris; long resident in Rome, sketching ancient buildings; exhibited in London, 1772-90, and in Paris, 1773-1808; invited to St. Petersburg, 1783; died near Paris. [xl. 38]

OLERK. [See also CLARK, CLARKE, and OLERKE.]

OLERK, SIR GEORGE (1787-1887), statesman; of Penicuik; succeeded as sixth baronet, 1798; educated at Edinburgh and 1806, Trinity College, Oxford; advocate at Scottish bar, 1809; D.O.L. Oxford, 1810; M.P., 1811-52; lord of the admiralty, 1819-27; under-secretary for home affairs, 1830; master of the mint, 1845-6. [xl. 38]

OLERK, SIR GEORGE RUSSELL (1800-1889), Indian civilian; educated at Halesbury College; writer in East India Company's service, 1817, and subsequently held successively several subordinate positions; political agent at Ambala, 1831; British envoy at Lahore; governor of Bombay, 1846-8 and 1860-2; K.C.B., 1848; permanent under-secretary to India board, 1856, and secretary, 1857; permanent under-secretary of state for India, 1858; member of Indian council, 1863; G.C.S.I., 1866. [Suppl. ii. 34]

OLERK, JOHN (d. 1541), bishop of Bath and Wells; M.A. Cambridge, 1502; LL.D. Bologna; rector of Hothfield, Kent, 1508, with other benefices; dean of Windsor, 1519; chaplain and agent of Wolsey; envoy to Rome, 1521; master of the rolls, 1522-3; bishop of Bath and Wells, 1523; tried to obtain the papacy for Wolsey, 1523; envoy to France, 1526, and to Rome, 1527; assented to Henry VIII's divorce, 1529; envoy to Cleves, 1540. [xl. 39]

OLERK, JOHN (d. 1552), Roman catholic writer; educated at Oxford; visited France and Italy; secretary to Thomas, duke of Norfolk; committed suicide in the Tower; published translations and theological pieces. [xl. 40]

OLERK, SIR JOHN (1684-1755), of Penicuik; anti-quary; advocate; M.P. in Scottish parliament, 1702-7; a commissioner for the union, 1707; judge of the exchequer court in Scotland, 1708-55; succeeded as second baronet, 1722; patron of Allan Ramsay; collected antiquities; wrote antiquarian tracts. [xl. 40]

OLERK, JOHN (1728-1812), naval writer; of Eldin; younger son of Sir John Clerk [q. v.]; successful merchant in Edinburgh; practised drawing and etching, 1770; bought Eldin, near Edinburgh, c. 1773; wrote an 'Essay on Naval Tactics,' privately printed, 1782, published, 1790, and enlarged, 1797. [xl. 41]

OLERK, JOHN, LORD ELDIN (1757-1832), Scottish judge; eldest son of John Clerk (1728-1812) [q. v.]; apprentice to a writer to the signet; accountant; advocate, 1786; lord of session, 1825-8; failed as a judge. [xl. 42]

OLERK, JOSIAH (1639-1714), physician; entered Peterhouse, Cambridge, 1656; M.D., 1666; fellow of the London College of Physicians, 1675; president, 1708. [xl. 43]

OLERK, MATTHEW (1659-1735), Irish presbyterian; served in siege of Derry, 1689; minister of Kilree, co. Derry, 1697-1729; wrote against non-subscription to the Westminster Confession, 1721; minister and school-master at Londonderry, New Hampshire, 1729. [xl. 43]

OLERK, WILLIAM (d. 1655), civilian; LL.D. Cambridge, 1629; practised at Doctors' Commons, 1639; a judge of the admiralty, 1651; published a law pamphlet, 1631. [xl. 44]

OLERK-MAXWELL, SIR GEORGE (1718-1784), of Penicuik; second son of Sir John Clerk [q. v.]; educated at Edinburgh and Leyden; assumed the name Clerk-Maxwell on marrying the heiress of Middlebie, Dumfriesshire; succeeded to baronetcy and Penicuik estate, 1753; wrote on farming. [xl. 44]

OLERK-MAXWELL, JAMES (1831-1879), first professor of experimental physics at Cambridge; contributed papers to the Royal Society of Edinburgh, on curves, 1846 and 1849, and on the equilibrium of elastic solids, 1850; left Edinburgh for Cambridge; fellow of Trinity College, 1855; professor of natural philosophy at Aberdeen, 1856-60, and at King's College, London, 1860-5; elected without opposition to the new chair of experimental physics at Cambridge, 1871; his essay on

'Saturn's Rings' gained the Adams prize, 1857; and his studies on the kinetic theory of gases are described in many papers, but his theories are not altogether accepted now; investigated the theory of colours in relation to colour-blindness, on which he read a paper before the Royal Society, 1880, and gained the Rumford medal. His best-known researches, dealing with electricity and magnetism, commenced 1856; and the theories he formulated in his treatise, 1873, daily gain more and more acceptance; foremost physicists are engaged in developing his ideas; he also turned his attention to electrical measurements and the velocity of propagation of electro-magnetic waves. He founded a scholarship in experimental physics at Cambridge. [xxxvii. 118]

CLERKE. [See also CLARK, CLARKE, and CLERK.]

CLERKE, BARTHOLOMEW (1537?-1590), civilian; educated at Eton; fellow of King's College, Cambridge, 1567; M.A., 1562; studied at Paris; proctor at Cambridge, 1564 and 1569; LL.D.; M.P. for Bramber, 1571; secretary to Thomas Sackville, lord Buckhurst, 1571; dean of arches, 1573; archdeacon of Wells, 1582; employed in the Low Countries, 1586-7; published a reply to Nicholas Sanders, 1573, and other works. [xl. 45]

CLERKE, CHARLES (1741-1779), circumnavigator; entered the navy, c. 1755; sailed round the world with John Byron [q. v.], 1764-5; alleged that the Patagonians were eight feet high; master's mate in James Cook's [q. v.] voyage, 1768-71; lieutenant in Cook's second voyage, 1772-5; commanded ship in Cook's third voyage, 1776. [xi. 46]

CLERKE or CLARKE, FRANCIS (fl. 1594), civilian; practised at Doctors' Commons, 1599; B.O.L. Oxford, 1594; wrote Latin manuals of the admiralty and ecclesiastical courts. [xl. 46]

CLERKE, GILBERT (1626-1697?), mathematician; entered Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, 1641; fellow, 1648-55; presbyterian minister, 1651; lived in retirement; published Latin mathematical and theological treatises, 1660-95. [xi. 47]

CLERKE, HENRY (d. 1687), physician; demy of Magdalen College, Oxford; fellow, 1642-67; M.A., 1644; M.D., 1652; president, 1672-87. [xl. 47]

CLERKE, RICHARD (d. 1634), divine; D.D. Christ's College, Cambridge; vicar of Minster, Thanet, 1597; one of the six preachers at Canterbury, 1602; one of the translators of the Old Testament; his sermons published, 1637. [xi. 48]

CLERKE, THOMAS HENRY SHADWELL (1792-1849), military journalist; ensign, 1808; disabled by wounds for field service, 1811; major, 1830; editor of 'Coulburn's United Service Magazine', 1829-42. [xi. 48]

CLERKE, WILLIAM (fl. 1595), reputed author of 'The Trial of Bastardie', 1594, and 'Polimanteia', 1595; entered Trinity College, Cambridge, 1575; fellow, 1579; M.A., 1582. [xi. 48]

CLERKE, SIR WILLIAM HENRY (1751-1818), baronet; of Christ Church, Oxford, 1769; B.O.L. All Souls' College, 1778; succeeded as eighth baronet, 1778; rector of Bury, Lancashire, 1778; imprisoned for debt; published sermons and pamphlets. [xi. 49]

CLERY, MICHAEL (1675-1643). [See O'LEARY.]

CLEVELAND, first DUKE OF, second creation. [See VANE, WILLIAM HARRY, 1766-1842.]

CLEVELAND, DUCHESS OF (1641-1709). [See VILHERS, BARBARA.]

CLEVELAND, EARL OF (1591-1667). [See WENTWORTH, SIR THOMAS.]

CLEVELAND, AUGUSTUS (1755-1784), magistrate of Boglipoor, Bengal. [xi. 49]

CLEVELAND, JOHN (1613-1658), cavalier poet; entered Christ's College, Cambridge, 1627; fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, 1634-45; M.A., 1635; tutor; opposed Cromwell's election as M.P. for Cambridge borough, 1640; ejected as a royalist, 1645; his verses famous in royalist circles; judge-advocate at Newark,

1645-6; imprisoned at Yarmouth, 1655; released by Cromwell; published 'Poems', 1656; his works re-edited, 1677, as 'Cleveland's Vindictia.' [xi. 50]

CLEVELEY, JOHN (1747-1788), marine painter in oil and water-colours; twin-brother of Robert Cleveley [q. v.]; exhibited as John Cleveley, junior, chiefly views on the Thames, 1767-82; draughtsman in Sir Joseph Banks's voyage to the Hebrides, 1772, and Captain Phipps's to the north seas, 1774. [xi. 53]

CLEVELEY, ROBERT (1747-1809), marine painter in oil and water-colours; twin-brother of John Cleveley [q. v.]; exhibited, 1780-95. [xi. 53]

CLEVERLEY, SAMUEL (d. 1824), physician; M.D. Edinburgh, 1797; went to study on the continent; prisoner in France, 1803-14; practitioner in London, 1815-24. [xi. 54]

CLEVES, ANNE OF (1515-1557). [See ANNE.]

CLEYN, FRANCIS (1590?-1658). [See CLEIN.]

CLEYPOLE. [See CLAYPOOLE or OLATPOLE.]

CLIDERHOU, ROBERT DE (d. 1339?), justiciar; of Bayley, near Clitheroe, Lancashire; a clerk of chancery under Edward I and Edward II; justice itinerant for Kent, Surrey, and Sussex, 1311; king's escheator, north of Trent, 1316?-18; parson of Wigan from before 1321 till death; fined for supporting Lancaster, 1323; built chapel at Bayley, 1331. [xi. 54]

CLIFF, HENRY DE (d. 1334), judge; a master in chancery before 1317; auditor of petitions, 1320; canon of York, 1324; master of the rolls, 1325-34. [xi. 55]

CLIFFORD, ANNE, COUNTESS OF DORSET, PEMBROKE, and MONTGOMERY (1590-1676), heiress of George Clifford, third earl of Cumberland [q. v.]; involved in lawsuits over the estates; educated by Samuel Daniel [q. v.], the poet; married, firstly, February 1609, Richard Sackville, lord Buckhurst (earl of Dorset, 1609); claimed the barony of Clifford, 1628; married, secondly, 1630, Philip Herbert, earl of Pembroke and Montgomery (d. 1650); lived unhappily with both husbands; inherited the Clifford estates, 1643; passionately fond of building; wrote an autobiography. [xi. 56]

CLIFFORD, ARTHUR (1778-1830), antiquary; at Stonyhurst College, 1795; published letters of Sir Ralph Sadler [q. v.], 1809, 'Tixall Poetry', 1813, and 'Tixall Letters', 1815; published also a history of the Cliffords, a history of Tixall parish, and educational pamphlets. [xi. 57]

CLIFFORD, SIR AUGUSTUS WILLIAM JAMES (1768-1877), usher of the black rod (1832-77); educated at Harrow; entered the navy, 1800; served in West Indies, 1803, and Mediterranean, 1807-12; captain, 1812; rear-admiral, 1848; admiral of the red, 1864; M.P. for Irish constituencies, 1818-32; knighted, 1830; created baronet, 1838. [vi. 58]

CLIFFORD, SIR OONYERS (d. 1599), military commander; of Bobbing Court, Kent; knighted, 1591; M.P. for Pembroke, 1593; hon. M.A. Cambridge, 1596; sergeant-major in the Cadiz expedition, 1596; president of Connaught, 1597; killed in battle with the Irish. [xi. 59]

CLIFFORD, GEORGE, third EARL OF CUMBERLAND (1558-1605), naval commander; eldest son of Henry de Clifford, second earl of Cumberland [q. v.]; succeeded as third earl, 1570; ward of Francis Russell, second earl of Bedford; at Trinity College, Cambridge, 1571-4; M.A., 1576; a gambler; wasted his estates; commanded a queen's ship against the Armada, 1588; a favourite at Elizabeth's court; fitted out ten privateering expeditions, mostly failures, against Spain and Spanish America, 1586-98, sailing personally with those of 1589, 1591, 1593, and 1598. [xi. 59]

CLIFFORD, HENRY DE, fourteenth BARON CLIFFORD, tenth BARON OF WESTMORELAND, first BARON VESCI (1455?-1533), celebrated in Wordsworth's 'Brougham Castle' and 'White Doe of Rylstone'; eldest son of John de Clifford, thirteenth baron [q. v.], who was attainted and his estates forfeited, 1461; brought up as a shepherd; restored to titles and estates, 1465; summoned to parliament, 1468-97; received the submission of the Yorkshire rebels, 1468; fought at Flodden, 1513; studied astrology. [xi. 61]

CLIFFORD, HENRY DE, first EARL OF CUMBERLAND, fifteenth BARON CLIFFORD, eleventh BARON OF WESTMORELAND, and second BARON VESCI (1498-1542), eldest son of Henry de Clifford, fourteenth baron [q. v.]; page to Henry VIII.; styled Sir Harry Clifford; sheriff of Yorkshire, 1522; led his father's forces against the Scots, 1522; succeeded to the barony, 1523; in constant service against the Scots and often warden of the marches, 1533-34; created Earl of Cumberland, 1525; accepted Henry VIII's divorce, 1529; besieged in Skipton Castle by the northern insurgents, 1536; rewarded with church lands. [xi. 62]

CLIFFORD, HENRY DE, second EARL OF CUMBERLAND, sixteenth BARON CLIFFORD, twelfth BARON OF WESTMORELAND, and third BARON VESCI (d. 1570), eldest son of Henry de Clifford, first earl [q. v.]; styled Lord Clifford; succeeded to title and estates, 1542; withdrew from court, 1547; favoured Mary Queen of Scots, 1569; alchemist. [xi. 63]

CLIFFORD, HENRY, fifth EARL OF CUMBERLAND (1591-1643), entered Christ Church, Oxford, 1607; B.A., 1609; K.B., 1610; summoned to the peers as Baron Clifford, 1628-9; lord lieutenant of Northumberland, Cumberland, and Westmoreland, 1636-9; raised troops for Charles I's Scottish wars, 1639-40; succeeded to earldom, 1641; commanded royalist forces in Yorkshire, 1642; besieged in York, 1642; wrote verses. [xi. 64]

CLIFFORD, HENRY (1768-1813), legal writer; of a Roman catholic family of Tixall, Staffordshire; educated at Liège; barrister of Lincoln's Inn, 1792; published pamphlets, 1790-1810. [xi. 65]

CLIFFORD, SIR HENRY HUGH (1826-1883), major-general; third son of Hugh Charles Clifford, seventh baron Clifford [q. v.]; entered the army, 1846; served in South Africa, 1847 and 1852-3; served in the Crimea, 1854-6; V.C.; brevet major; served in China, 1857-8; brevet colonel; staff officer at home stations, 1860-75; major-general, 1869; controlled lines of communication in Zulu war, 1879; K.O.M.G., 1879. [xi. 66]

CLIFFORD, HUGH CHARLES, seventh BARON CLIFFORD OF CHUDLEIGH (1790-1858), educated at Stonyhurst; served in the Peninsula; succeeded to barony, 1831; lived chiefly in Italy; died at Rome; published political pamphlets. [xi. 66]

CLIFFORD, JAMES (1622-1698), musician; son of an Oxford cook; chorister of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1632-42; minor canon of St. Paul's, London, 1661; sacrist, 1682; published 'Divine Services and Anthems,' 1663, and sermons. [xi. 66]

CLIFFORD, JOHN DE, thirteenth BARON CLIFFORD, ninth BARON OF WESTMORELAND (1435?-1461), son of Thomas de Clifford, twelfth baron [q. v.]; led troops to London to demand compensation for his father's death, 1458; reconciled to the Yorkist lords and attainted with them, 1459; summoned to parliament, 1460; fought against Yorkists at Wakefield, 1460; nicknamed 'the Butcher,' for his cruelty; fell at Ferrybridge; attainted by the Yorkists, 1461. [xi. 67]

CLIFFORD, MARGARET, COUNTESS OF CUMBERLAND (1607?-1616), youngest daughter of Francis Russell, earl of Bedford; married, 1577, George Clifford, third earl of Cumberland [q. v.]; separated from her husband; engaged in lawsuits to secure her daughter's estates, 1605 [see CLIFFORD, ANNE, COUNTESS OF DORSET]. [xi. 68]

CLIFFORD, MARTIN (d. 1677), author of 'A Treatise of Humane Reason,' 1674; educated at Westminster; B.A. Cambridge, 1643; buffoon about court, 1660; wrote anonymously against Dryden; master of the Charter-house, 1671. [xi. 68]

CLIFFORD, RICHARD (d. 1421), bishop of London; canon of St. Stephen's, Westminster, 1385; imprisoned as a favourite of Richard II, 1388; guardian of the privy seal, 1388-1400; pluralist; dean of York, 1398; nominated by the pope to the see of Bath and Wells, 1401; bishop of Worcester, August, 1401; translated to London, 1407; presided at the trials for heresy of Sir John Oldcastle, 1413, and of John Clayton, 1415; attended the council of Constance, 1416-17; obtained the papacy for Martin V, 1417. [xi. 69]

CLIFFORD, ROBERT DE, fifth BARON CLIFFORD, first BARON OF WESTMORELAND (1273-1314), succeeded to the Clifford estates, 1285, and to Brougham Castle and half the Vipont estates in Westmoreland, c. 1291?; justice of forests north of Trent, 1297-1305; warden of the marches and governor of Carlisle, 1297; constantly fighting against the Scots from 1297; summoned to parliament, 1299-1313; took Caerlaverock Castle, 1300; granted part of Robert Bruce's English estates, 1306; granted Skipton Castle, 1310; a favourite of Edward II; joined baronial party, 1311; made his peace with Edward II, 1313; failed to relieve Stirling Castle, 23 June 1314; slain next day at Bannockburn. [xi. 70]

CLIFFORD, ROGER DE (d. 1285?), soldier and judge; succeeded to his patrimony, as a minor, c. 1231; attended Henry III to France, 1269; sided with De Montfort, 1262-4; aided Henry III at the siege of Nottingham, 1264; justice of the forests south of Trent; fought for Henry III at Lewes and in the Welsh marches, 1264, and at Evesham, 1265; granted estates in Warwickshire and Leicestershire; attended Prince Edward on the crusade, 1270-4; commissioner in Wales, 1274; envoy to France, 1275; justice in Wales, 1279; taken prisoner by the Welsh insurgents, 1282. [xi. 72]

CLIFFORD, ROGER DE, ninth BARON CLIFFORD, fifth BARON OF WESTMORELAND (1333-1369), served in Flanders, 1345, and against the Spanish fleet, 1350; succeeded his brother in the estates, c. 1352; summoned to parliament, 1356-88; served in Gascony, 1355, 1359-60, in Ireland, 1361, 1368, in France, 1373, and in Brittany, 1388; frequently warden of the west marches, fighting against Scots, 1370-88; governor of Carlisle, 1377. [xi. 74]

CLIFFORD, ROSAMOND (FAIR ROSAMOND) (d. 1176?), daughter of Walter de Clifford [q. v.]; probably acknowledged as mistress of Henry II, 1174; buried in the choir of Godstow Abbey; her remains removed to the chapter-house, c. 1191; her story already famous, 1274. [xi. 75]

CLIFFORD, THOMAS DE, tenth BARON CLIFFORD, sixth BARON OF WESTMORELAND (d. 1391?), eldest son of Roger de Clifford, ninth baron [q. v.]; in attendance on Richard II, 1385; governor of Carlisle and warden of the marches, 1386; banished from court by the baronial party, 1388; succeeded to barony, 1390; summoned to parliament, 1390-1; slain in Germany. [xi. 77]

CLIFFORD, THOMAS DE, twelfth BARON CLIFFORD, eighth BARON OF WESTMORELAND (1414-1456), succeeded to barony, 1422; attended Bedford in France, 1436; raised troops against the Scots, 1435; summoned to parliament, 1436; called on for aid in the relief of Calais, 1452 and 1464; slain at St. Albans. [xi. 77]

CLIFFORD, THOMAS, first BARON CLIFFORD OF CHUDLEIGH (1630-1673), of Ughbrooke, Devonshire; a concealed Romanist entered Exeter College, Oxford, 1647, and the Middle Temple, 1648; travelled; M.P., Totnes, 1660-72; joined court party, 1663; a commissioner for the care of the sick and wounded, 1664; a trustee for the Duke of Monmouth, 1665; knighted; a confidant of Arlington; envoy to Denmark, 1666; served at sea, 1666-6; comptroller (1666), and treasurer (1668) of the household; cognisant of Charles II's wishes to establish Roman catholicism in England, 1669; intrigued in France against the triple alliance, 1669; privy to secret clauses of treaty of Dover, December 1670; granted estates by Charles II, 1671; acting secretary of state, 1672; advised the suspension of exchequer payments, and the Declaration of Indulgence, 1672; created Baron Clifford, 1672; lord high treasurer, 1672; resigned under the Test Act, 1673. [xi. 78]

CLIFFORD, WALTER DE (d. 1190?), inherited estates in Herefordshire and other counties; obtained barony of Clifford before 1188, through his mother or by marriage; owned estates in Shropshire; fought with the Welsh, 1157-64. [xi. 81]

CLIFFORD, WILLIAM (d. 1670), divine; pretender to the barony of Clifford; educated at Douay; mislabeled in England; rector of the English college, Lisbon; superior of Tournay College, Paris; published devotional tracts. [xi. 82]

CLIFFORD, WILLIAM KINGDON (1846-1879), mathematician and metaphysician; educated at King's College, London, and Trinity College, Cambridge; second wrangler; fellow, 1868; professor of applied mathematics, University College, London, 1871; wrote philosophical treatises, conceiving of consciousness as being built up out of simple elements of 'mind-stuff'; F.R.S., 1874; attacked by consumption, 1876; died at Madeira; his mathematical works published, 1879-86. [xi. 82]

CLIFT, WILLIAM (1778-1849), naturalist; early showed talent for drawing; secretary to John Hunter the physician [q. v.], 1792-3; caretaker of Hunter's collections, 1793-1844; F.R.S., 1823; osteologist and medical draughtsman; contributed to scientific journals. [xi. 85]

CLIFTON, FRANÇOIS (d. 1736), physician; M.D. Leyden, 1724; practitioner in London; withdrew to Jamaica, 1734; published medical tracts, 1724-34. [xi. 86]

CLIFTON, JOHN C. (1781-1841), composer of songs and glees; clerk in the stationery office; professional musician at Bath, and, 1802, at Dublin; music master in London, 1818; died insane. [xi. 87]

